

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

OCTOBER 13, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 36

INSIDE

ENGINEERING FORUM

■ Dean of engineering meets with students to answer questions about where their money is going in the College of Engineering.

PAGE 3

TUESDAY

Egypt shaken by quake

More than 300 people killed

■ The earthquake was centered only a few miles from the pyramids and the Sphinx, but the monuments were not damaged.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAIRO, Egypt — One of the strongest earthquakes to hit Egypt in modern times toppled buildings Monday and caused stampedes of panicked residents.

The government said 370 people were killed, and more than 3,300 injured.

The quake was centered about 20 miles southwest of Cairo, a few miles from the pyramids and the Sphinx on the Giza Plateau. But Information Minister Safwat el-Sherif said major monuments survived intact from the 20-second temblor.

Rescuers struggled into the night to dig survivors from debris as authorities declared a state of emergency in this city of 14 million people.

Many victims were trampled to death, including more than 100 schoolchildren in the Cairo area, said Maj. Gen. Rida Abdel-Aziz, an assistant interior minister. They were killed as they rushed from swaying schools.

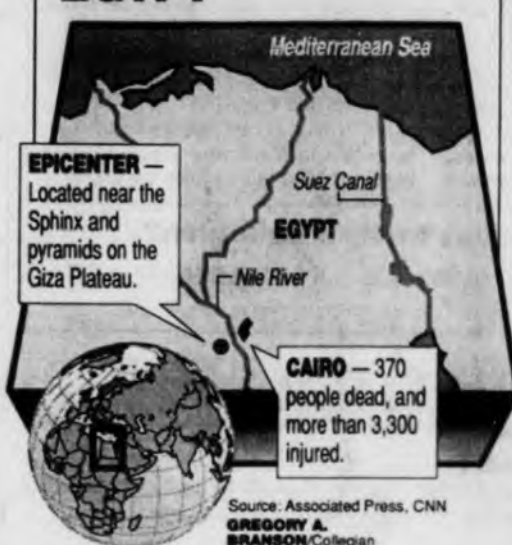

The quake was preceded by a roar. "At first I thought it was a bomb in the bank," said Samy Mohammed Ali, a lawyer. "Then I saw people running, and I realized it was an earthquake."

People thronged Cairo's streets after the quake. Many seemed dazed. One woman stood on a sidewalk screaming. A knot of people sat in a downtown square, tears streaking down their cheeks.

A mother, holding her dead son and shouting for help, was pulled from the rubble of a building more than seven hours after the mid-afternoon earthquake that registered 5.9 on the Richter scale.

Thousands crowded around the ruins of a 14-story apartment building in the northern suburb of Heliopolis late Monday while four bulldozers cleared debris under floodlights. Associated Press reporter Nejla Sammakia said 75 apartments collapsed into a heap of crushed concrete and twisted steel.

QUAKE RAVAGES EGYPT

The security force's operations room in Cairo reported Monday night 116 buildings were destroyed or badly damaged throughout Egypt.

Eight hours after the 3:10 p.m. (9:10 a.m. EDT) jolt, the Interior Ministry said the quake killed 370 and injured 3,369 in nine of Egypt's 26 provinces.

HISPANIC AWARENESS MONTH

Panel: Columbus no hero

Multicultural group discusses explorer's legacy on holiday

COLLEGIAN STAFF

A panel discussion on "The Legacy of Christopher Columbus" was the first event of Hispanic Awareness Month, which began Monday.

The panel, moderated by Harald Prins, assistant professor of anthropology and social work, included representatives of the Black Student Union, Hispanic American Leadership Organization, Multicultural Student Council and Latin American Student Organization.

Prins said the forum was not a discussion of Columbus himself but his legacy. He said the Western Hemisphere is inhabited by a diverse group because of people like Columbus.

"The way I studied Christopher Columbus was very formal," said Maribel Landau, senior in economics and LASO member. "I was not challenged to contradict the books."

Thurman Williams, sophomore in industrial engineering and Multicultural Student Council president, said what Europeans took from the Indians lengthened their own lives, but shortened the lives of the Native Americans.

About 90 percent of the Native American population in the United States was killed by famine, disease and European settlers, Prins said.

"Christopher Columbus was the first Captain Kirk," Williams said. "Go where no white man has gone before."

Shirlyn Henry Brown, non-degree graduate student in speech and BSU member, said when she was in grade school, more emphasis was put on black heroes than Columbus.

"I went to a segregated elementary school, and I don't remember when I studied him," Brown said. "When my daughter studies him, he's put on a pedestal."

Brelinda Hill, senior in business management and BSU member, said reform starts with the school system and rewriting history books.

Don Hedrick, professor of English, said he has studied Columbus and has given presentations about him around the state.

"People are eager to learn and find out what happened," Hedrick said. "By celebrating, it has allowed people to educate themselves."

■ See FORUM Page 10

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Reader on the roof

Stacey Clark, senior in journalism and mass communications, reads on the roof of her house on Laramie Street Monday afternoon. She said it was too cold inside to read.

COLLEGE ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN

Department head resigns

ROY GRABER
Collegian

Dennis Law announced he will resign from his duties as the head of the Department of Landscape Architecture.

Law's resignation will be effective July 21, 1993.

He has been a faculty member within the College of Architecture and Design for 19 years — the past five years as department head.

Law said he decided to step down from the administrative position in order to spend more time teaching landscape architecture.

"When I took over in administration, I stepped aside from a lot of teaching," Law said. "I've had one class per semester. I'm stepping down to go into teaching."

He said his resignation should not have been a surprise to department members.

"I had already made up my mind that I would quit after five years," Law said. "I have a philosophy that most department heads function best between years two and five."

"I don't want to be like an athlete who embarrasses himself when he gets older. You

■ See LAW Page 8

"I don't want to be like an athlete who embarrasses himself when he gets older. You should quit while you're still good."

DENNIS LAW

WORLD

China eyes capitalist-style reforms

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEIJING — The world's last big Communist Party bet its future Monday on capitalist-style economic reforms, while showing little interest in erasing corruption and power abuses that triggered past unrest.

The Chinese Communist Party opened its 14th congress with a report vowing to continue the mix of economic liberalism and tight political control followed since Deng Xiaoping became paramount leader in 1978.

Deng, 88, holds no formal post but exercises power through his seniority and personal connections, especially among army officers.

He did not attend the opening ceremony in the Great Hall of the People, but the party report bore the stamp of his ideas and made frequent references to him.

Deng is expected to take part in later congress activities.

The weeklong congress is seen as Deng's last chance to ensure that his policies survive him by appointing younger, reform-minded officials into top posts. He is

CHINA REFORMS

■ Stock markets opened in 1990, marking the first sales to foreigners since the 1949 Communist revolution.

■ Long-term land rentals for shopping malls and office centers.

■ Selling public housing and apartments, and offering home loans.

Source: Associated Press

unlikely to survive until the next congress five years from now.

However, the main function of congresses is to present a unified vision of the future that the party's 51 million members and the nation's 1.1 billion citizens can rally around.

The vision contained in the 57-page report that took General Secretary Jiang Zemin two hours to read aloud sounded more capitalist

■ See CHINA Page 10

NEWS DIGEST

► 2 AMERICANS WIN NOBEL PRIZE

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Nobel Assembly announced Monday that two Americans will share the Nobel Prize in medicine.

They discovered a basic process in human cells that is linked to cancer and rejection of transplanted organs.

Dr. Edwin Krebs, 74, and Edmond Fischer, 72, who has dual Swiss-American nationality, were awarded the $1.2-million prize for their research on "reversible protein phosphorylation."

Fischer and Krebs, who are senior researchers at the University of Washington, began working together in the 1950s.

The prizes will be awarded Dec. 10 in Oslo, Norway.

► STATE FUNDS HOMELESS PROJECTS

TOPEKA (AP) — Pilot projects to help homeless families find at least temporary shelter are being started in Hutchinson, Salina and Lawrence, the Department of Commerce and Housing announced Monday.

The projects are being financed with $100,000 in leftover federal Community Services

Block Grant program money. The state would have lost it if it hadn't quickly developed the homeless housing project, said Dennis Shockley, director of the department's housing division.

The three projects are the joint effort of the state Board of Education, the K-State community service program and the state.

FYI

Student teacher placement difficult

"Manhattan gets so many requests, there are not enough positions."

MICHAEL PERL

KRISTI STEPHENSON
Collegian

Placing about 130 elementary education majors in student teaching positions is a difficult task.

Michael Perl, associate professor and coordinator of laboratory experience in the College of Education, said he must place students in a local school district every semester.

"Manhattan gets so many requests, there are not enough positions," Perl said.

He said only about one half are placed in Manhattan schools.

Cindy Carpenter, senior in elementary education, will student teach in the spring.

"I definitely want to stay in Manhattan if possible," Carpenter said. "I wouldn't care if it were Junction City or driving distance. I just don't want to make living arrangements for one semester."

Perl said he contacts school district supervisors and finds out how many student teachers are needed, if any.

He said the student teachers must be approved by the principal, the district and Perl himself.

The student teachers are clustered together to make supervising easier, he said.

Perl said student teachers must meet all the minimum requirements before he begins placing them.

Requirements include having turned in all the appropriate forms and having a minimum 2.5 grade point average.

"The students almost always get the school district they want," Perl said.

Perl said the Kansas City and Wichita school districts have the most positions available.

"There is more availability outside Manhattan," he said.

Because of the high numbers wanting to student teach in Manhattan, students are matched with schools randomly, Perl said.

He said the system is successful, although people do get upset with their placement occasionally. Hallie Walker, senior in elementary education, said she wants to stay in Manhattan.

"I could live at home and save money," Walker said.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13

At 10:55 a.m., a silver Buick Skylark, license No. BIE 925, was wheellocked in Lot A-29.

At 11:40 a.m., Susan Watt, 1106 W. Fifth St., Wamego, reported a faculty/staff permit stolen from her vehicle in Lot A-27.

At 1:27 p.m., Todd Maguire, 907 Vattier St., No. 3, reported tapes stolen from Thompson 207. Loss was $18.

At 1:27 p.m., Carolyn Perry, 1115 N. 12th St., No. 3, reported an AM/FM/cassette portable radio stolen from Thompson 207. Loss was $20.

At 1:27 p.m., the Geology Honor Society reported some coins were stolen from Thompson 207. Loss was $40.

At 1:27 p.m., Erica Anderson, 1000 Garden Way, No. B, reported a Sony Sports Walkman was stolen from Thompson 207. Loss was $70.

At 3:08 p.m., a yellow Geo Storm was wheellocked in Lot A-29 for excessive violations.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13

At 8:04 a.m., an employee of Eastside Market reported a burglary had been attempted during the night.

At 8:22 a.m., Dick Edwards Ford-Mercury-Lincoln filed a report of criminal damage to property that occurred overnight. Four tires and rims were taken from a vehicle, and three windows were damaged. Loss was $1,625.

At 9:54 a.m., John Pounds, 207 N. 14th St., No. 5, filed a burglary report on a men's black leather wallet that contained miscellaneous credit cards, blank personal checks, a Kansas driver's license and $120. Loss was $180.

At 10:40 a.m., Troy Williams, 500 Sunset Ave., and Sandra S. Robinson, 6901 Chinkapin Circle, had a major damage, minor-injury accident at Marlatt and College avenues. Williams sustained lacerations to the face but refused treatment.

At 11:50 a.m., Russ Carver, 826 Vattier St., reported a stolen 12-speed bicycle. Loss was $250.

At 1:30 p.m., an employee of Butterfield's in Manhattan Town Center reported $649 stolen from the store.

Have a question about today's Collegian?

Give us a call, and we'll try to help you out. 532-6556

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly sunny and much warmer. High 80 to 85. Southwest wind 15 to 25 mph. Tonight, increasing cloudiness. Low in the mid-40s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy and much cooler. High in the mid-60s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Thursday, dry, lows in the mid-50s. Highs in the 70s. Friday, turning colder. A chance for showers and thunderstorms. Lows in the mid-50s. Highs near 70. Saturday, a chance for showers in the morning otherwise dry and cold. Lows in the lower 40s. Highs in the mid-50s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

University Activities Board organization registration renewal forms are due Wednesday.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13

Hispanic Awareness Leadership Organization will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Multicultural Student Center. Topic will be Hispanic Awareness Month events.

Young Democrats will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 207.

Pi Sigma Epsilon, in lieu of a meeting, will travel to Topeka for an SME dinner.

Department of Geology will sponsor a seminar by David Loope at 4 p.m. in Thompson 213. Topic will be "Dune-Dammed Lakes in the Nebraska Sand Hills."

Human Ecology Association will have its first meeting at 5:30 p.m. in Hoffman Lounge in Justin.

Society for the Advancement of Management will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Big 8 Room. Pictures will follow. Dress professionally.

Gay, lesbian and bisexual support groups will meet from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Lafene. Women in Lafene 236. Men in Lafene 238.

Hospitality Management Society will meet at 8 p.m. in Justin lobby for yearbook pictures. Professional dress required. Meeting following.

International Club will meet for elections at 4:30 p.m. in the International Student Center.

Circle K International will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 204. Pictures will follow.

Sigma Delta Pi will meet at 4 p.m. in Eisenhower 016 for free Spanish tutoring and at 7 p.m. in the Multicultural Student Center for a free movie.

Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.

Alpha Chi Sigma will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Willard 115. Pictures will follow.

Career Planning and Placement will sponsor a workshop on winning interviews from 7 to 8 p.m. in Union 212.

Dairy Science Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Call 140.

Society for Creative Anachronism will meet at 7 p.m. in Ahearn Field House.

Math Club will meet at 5:30 p.m. in Cardwell 120.

K-Staters for Kids Voting Kansas will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 212.

Wheat State Agronomy Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 313.

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect, so help us out. If you find an inaccuracy in the paper, give us a call or drop by the office so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY	Nairobi	81/50	cloudy
Bermuda	82/75	cloudy	Rome	79/68	cloudy
Helsinki	39/27	rain	Stockholm	32/21	rain
London	57/50	cloudy	Vancouver	61/52	cloudy

CLAFLIN Books & Copies

So many books...
so little time!

Kansas Sunflower literary T-Shirts

Open every day
Full Service Copy
Center

1814 Claflin
(corner Denison & Claflin)
776-3771

KSU Department of Music
presents

FACULTY FOLLIES

A Salute to P.D.Q. Bach
(1807-1742)?

All Faiths
Chapel

Tuesday,
October 13, 1992

8:00 p.m.

Sponsored by Pi Kappa Lambda national music honorary.
A scholarship benefit concert.

Students:
$2 in advance,
$3 at the door.

General Admission:
$3 in advance,
$4 at the door.

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

HUNAN Chinese
Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-in Coupon
10% Off

When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

YOU ASKED FOR IT!!

NOW IT'S HERE! NOW IT'S HERE! NOW IT'S HERE!

Based on a survey conducted last year, our campus and city community responded with a 95% YES vote to make available for purchase a Seasonal Basketball Parking Pass. We have recognized the need for such a pass for a long time. We believe that such a pass would allow it's user to avoid the long lines and use the "PASS GATES" (1 and 5) (Gate #1 located on College Ave. or Gate #5 on Kimball), for easier entry to the parking lot. This pass will allow parking in General parking areas only. You may purchase your parking pass at the Parking Services Office (located at 128 Burt Hall) or at the Information Booth (located next to the K-State Union on 17th Street). Passes will be on sale beginning Oct. 20, 1992 at a cost of $40.00 (over a 10% discount)!!!!

Reach active voters. Advertise in the Kansas State Collegian.

More than 94 percent of the Kansas State University population reads the Kansas State Collegian. People who read newspapers are most likely to vote and are most active and concerned about their communities and the quality of life.

Among advertising media,
newspapers rank first in credibility.

Newspapers reach voters, particularly those all-important ticket-splitters.

Most believable media
Newspapers	48%
Television	19%
Direct Mail	12%
Magazines	12%
Radio	4%
About Equal/No Opinion	5%

(Source: Home Testing Institute)

In fact, people look forward to reading advertising in newspapers more than in any other medium.

Newspapers reach the most politically active citizens.

% who look forward
Newspapers	44%
Magazines	29%
Television	9%
Radio	0%

(Source: Response Analysis Corporation)

Read a newspaper on the average weekday
Voted in an election	70%
Wrote to an elected official	73%
Visited an elected official	74%
Worked for a candidate	71%

(Source: Simmons Market Research Bureau, 1989)

Newspaper advertising offers you believability, reader involvement, the ability to set the record straight, graphic impact and the ability to address serious issues you and the voters care about. Remember to include Kansas State Collegian advertising in your campaign budget.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6560

The Delta Chi Fraternity is proud to present the Founding Fathers of the Kansas State Colony

Mark Page	Derick Jenkins	Chris Donaldson	Jason Winfield
Klee Young	Brian Foxworthy	Aaron Elevier	Bill Shipley
Derek Kreifels	Todd Galliard	Brandon Clark	Shane Isaacson
Seth Eckelman	Pat Tittsworth	Paul Reigelberger	Jake McCanless
Jered Bailey	John Battle	Brook Beyer	Brian Bourgeois
Adrian Bustamante	James Carmody	Clay Carney	Donald Cooley
Jeremy Cowell	Robert Cox	Tony Crichton	Matt Danders
Jim Demaree	Mike Dichiser	Steve DiSanto	Thadd Dudrey
Mike Elledge	Bob Fleener	Brad Funk	Ken Hacker
Dann Hammons	Trevor Harbert	Jeff Harlow	Charles Harriman
James Hilliard	Erik Jarkins	Brent Jones	Tim Kalling
Brad Koehn	Paul Konrad	Alex Mamaril	Fred Martinson
Craig McKenna	Bill McNally	Jason Meacham	Casey Mein
Brent Miller	John Moreland	Stephen Osborn	Mike Ott
Dennis Ova	Craig Perry	James Renfroe	Mike Rice
Cameron Ruttman	Kendall Schaaf	Kurt Schultz	Jeff Schutzler
Chris Seib	Steve Semerau	Scott Smith	Daniel Smith
Jeff Smith	Jeff Tamasi	Kyle Tammen	Scott Thomas
Shad Thompson	Robert Tisdal	Todd Tobis	Greg Van den Bergie
Greg Vossenkemper	Jeff Wagner	Dan Warren	Jay Yang
	Hugh Zey	Jonathon Zwetzig

Colony Address:
The Delta Chi Fraternity
Kansas State University
c/o Greek Affairs
203 Holton Hall
Manhattan, KS 66506

"Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice!"
—Brother William Jennings Bryan

"Character and ideals are catching. When you associate with men who aspire to the highest and best, you expose yourself to the qualities that make men great!"
—Anonymous

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Monical emphasized the

Washburn officials said the school caters to the non-traditional students, who are older than students at other schools and frequently hold full-time jobs.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I hadn't campaigned for it," he said. "I was rather surprised when the governor called me."

A black and white photograph of a classroom. A teacher stands on the right, facing a class of students seated at long wooden desks. The students are arranged in rows, and the teacher is positioned at the front of the room, looking towards the students.

CARY CONOVER/Collegiate

KARREY BRITT
Collegian

Rathbone said the computer science program will be transferred from the College of Arts

He said the engineering technology program will be moved to

"Last year, about five students graduated with a chemistry degree, so we are talking about a small number of students."

Andrea Schmidt, senior in mechanical engineering, moved to ■ See DEAN Page 7

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

OPINION

OCTOBER 13, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Bringing back chop bad move

THE ISSUE

The Kansas City Chiefs have decided to fully support the use of the tomahawk chop at their home games.

WE SUGGEST

This is a major blunder for the organization, putting money over the pride of a people. Get rid of the chop.

To chop, or not to chop.

Two months after they said they would no longer encourage the cheer, the Kansas City Chiefs announced in a full-page Kansas City Star ad Saturday that the tomahawk chop and the war chant song are back.

Not only does the team's management condone the chop, but it has come out in absolute support of it.

Those who protest the chop — and not all are Native Americans — have said they are offended and explained why.

The Chiefs and their fans can no longer plead ignorance with a clear conscience.

The team's management argues, "Truth be told, no one meant any disrespect when doing the Chop. And, if no offense is intended, why then must offense be taken?"

Therein lies the problem with the reasoning of the Chiefs management and the fans who support the chop.

If they understood how the people who are offended by the chop and war chant feel, one would think they never would have done them in the first place.

It doesn't matter if offense is meant. The effect is still the same: People are offended.

Discouraging fans from doing the cheer isn't advocating political correctness. Nor is it infringing on anyone's right to free speech.

It's a step by the team to show its fans that its actions hurt a lot of people.

The Chiefs management says the chop is just a "fun way to support our team."

The Chiefs should have stuck to their original decision not to support the tomahawk chop and war chant song.

The cheer is offensive whether it was "meant" to be or not. And the pride and dignity of a people is more important than the "fun" of their fans.

Drug war making mockery of system

One thing is for certain. Americans can look forward to at least four more years of laughable Drug War propaganda, bigotry and general disregard for substantial chunks of the Bill of Rights.

When the three presidential candidates were asked whether it was time to consider the possibility of drug legalization — like some liberal and more astute conservative thinkers have suggested — Bush, Perot and Clinton reacted predictably.

They said, "No way." Bush seemed to favor the notion of more military involvement in the situation. After all, it worked in Iraq.

Perot hinted at some dark, sure-fire solution he would only reveal once in office. And an ever-sensitive Clinton painted a tragic portrait of the wayward brother who did inhale. The moral of Clinton's tale: 100,000 more people with badges can keep the rest of you from the same fate.

Republicans tend to suggest the answer to social problems is not throwing huge sums of taxpayer money at them. Yet, since the conception of the Drug War, Republicans and Democrats alike are caught up in the idea that, to stop this social ill, all we need to do is hire more cops and build more prisons.

Whether it is working depends on your definition of "working."

You probably think the Drug War is going just fine — if you don't mind law enforcement agencies flipping off the Fourth and Fifth Amendments. Or if the idea of a taxpayer-supported prison population of 1.2 million and counting doesn't bother you. Or if you don't believe the Drug War causes serious racial division.

Remember Rodney King? The officers involved claimed they thought he was on drugs, suggesting that justified their actions.

Of course, the candidates might disagree with you, because they're again talking about escalating the war.

Regardless of the promises and threats politicians use to get elected, the truth of the matter is simply this: Short of ominously relaxing constitutional safeguards designed to protect the individual, illegal substance use will never be eliminated.

Even relaxing the Bill of Rights will not completely stop it. Simple economic truths dictate that while drugs remain illegal, there will always be a lucrative underground drug trade. And the more risk involved for dealers, the more lucrative and violent their trade will become.

What is more, as the risk of detection by law enforcement increases, the renegade ultra-capitalists will do the obvious — they will make their wares less detectable. This is achieved by either enhancing the quality of the particular drug so that less goes farther, or by distributing more compact, more potent, and oftentimes more dangerous, drugs altogether.

By forcing dealers to move in this direction, law enforcement is actually exacerbating the problem. For example, if a drug dealer finds marijuana too risky to move because of its bulk, rather than give up those nice profits, he or she may invest in LSD, which is more compact and potent — not to mention increasingly popular on American campuses.

The view that the Drug War is a losing cause is not one that can be separated along left- and right-wing dividing lines.

Conservative icon William F. Buckley Jr., who a debate moderator mentioned by name when inquiring about the candidates' views on the issue, has correctly suggested that the extreme targeting of marijuana by law enforcement directly led to the inner-city popularization of crack.

The reason? Because the line from marijuana to crack is a line of increased potency and decreased shipping bulk. That translates into increased concealability — and, ultimately, increased marketability.

It would take a special kind of "crusader" to suggest the inner-city evolution from marijuana to cocaine to crack is somehow a victory for the Drug War and American society as a whole.

What the United States is left with today, especially in its cities, is a sort of domestic Vietnam.

And as the candidates showed Sunday evening, the country is in so deep that to even consider pulling out now wouldn't be honorable, or, because of intolerance and hysteria, allowable.

MARK ENGLER

Christian life rises above critics

As of late, I have become the target of senseless and erroneous accusations concerning what I believe and what I have been writing about.

Because of this, I would like to make a few clarifications for my critics and fans alike.

First order of business is headlines.

Up until now, I have not been involved in picking the titles, for that chore has been left up to my editor and his sincere discretion. He has informed me, however, that I have the privilege of formulating the headlines for my column. I may take him up on it.

Next, I respect the fact that, for the most part, my critics respect my right to "religious" belief. Although, for me, being a Christian is a way of life that extends far beyond any pitiful description the word "religion" entails.

To know Christ is to know a person. Hence, I have a personal relationship with him. The interpersonal nature of my relationship with God runs deeper in meaning than any mystical or ceremonious practice of "religion."

My choice to be a Christian is not influenced by how I vote during an election year, or by how I feel about the environment. Rather, my relationship with Christ influences how I vote and feel about the environment — and anything else for that matter.

Contrary to current censure, I do not condemn nor hate anyone disagreeing with me on any subject. I am not a narrow-minded "holy roller." I don't even own a pair of skates.

I have never told anyone, "Your political ideas are stupid, therefore you are stupid, therefore you should shut up!"

Somehow, my critics have improperly coupled their insecure political ideologies and personal philosophies to my statements of personal faith.

According to a recent letter, I should be able to explain why it is acceptable to kill and starve thousands of Iraqi people.

Allow me to rebut with a question of my own. What is the connection between what I have been writing and the mistreatment of Iraqi citizens? I have never written about war, famine or foreign policy.

I cannot explain why such a practice is acceptable. I didn't know such a practice was acceptable.

Maybe next time, you should throw in why it is acceptable for babies to be born as crack addicts, or for a dozen public servants to beat a single man to a bloody pulp, and then for thousands of American citizens to turn around and loot and pillage one of their own cities?

What about the spread of sexually transmitted diseases from one person to another? Is that acceptable? What about pornography, abuse and rape? Are any of these things acceptable?

How do you, my critics, answer these moral dilemmas? With great, agonizing deliberation, I'm sure.

As for the ozone, I take that seriously. I'm not the best environmentalist, but I do recycle newsprint, glass, tin cans, aluminum and plastic containers. What do you do?

You see, I'm not in favor of cash profits over life, whether that life is the life of the Earth, people of a distant land, my fellow country people or unborn children.

As far as me telling other people what I think, feel or believe, I'm well within my rights. Hence, the idea of an "Opinion Page" column.

At the request of one of my critics, in the future, I will attempt to lay out the reasoning behind my beliefs. That way, those naysayers will have yet another means by which to attack me. Such is the risk of being in print.

C'est la vie!

SCOTT SPRADLIN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief	Erin Perry Amy Cox Shawn Bruce Frank Kleemann Brian Anderson	Richard Andrade Jodell Lamer David Mayes Derek Thomas Heather Anderson	John Hart Tom Lister Mark Engler Lajean Rau Julie Long
-------------------------------------	--	--	--

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

READERS WRITE

► CAMPAIGNS

Special interests the real enemy of U.S.

Editor,

As the political season draws near its crescendo, both campaigns are predictably awash in a sea of blame for the nation's problems. President Bush blames the Democratically controlled Congress and anything else his aides can dream up. Gov. Clinton and the Congress blame the president, and the politically non-political Ross Perot blames the whole bunch.

Who is really to blame for the country's woes? Why, the special interests, of course — those Gucci-wearing lawyers and high-powered lobbyists packing every hallway and corridor inside the Washington beltway. Or, at least, that's what every politician would have us believe.

In fact, nearly every American belongs to one kind of interest group or another. When politicians say they are fighting "special interests," what they are actually saying is, "Trust me to fight for your special interests."

Unfortunately, during the past 12 years, we, as a nation, have become accustomed to getting more government than we are willing to pay for. The Reagan tax cuts and massive military expenditures got the ball rolling, and we haven't looked back since.

We've all become a little spoiled by politicians who pander to us incessantly. We like to blame other people — the welfare mother, the defense contractor, or the check-bouncing Congress — for the problem.

Who is to blame for this era of special-interest politics? Who needs to stand up and take responsibility? In part, at least, it must be the American public.

Douglas Nickel
Graduate student/Political science

► ELECTION

Many reasons exist for Bush to remain

Editor,

I was dismayed by David Filippi's Oct. 9 column, "Bush should call it quits right now." I'm afraid that Filippi's short-sighted editorial fails to grasp the complexities of this election in a couple of areas.

First, the election is far from over. Many voters are still undecided, and others have chosen to give Ross Perot a second glance.

The on-going candidate debates, which began Sunday night, may prove pivotal in determining the outcome. A New York Times/CBS News poll reported that two-thirds of the American people planned to watch Sunday's debate, and 54 percent expect the debates to potentially influence their vote. I am disappointed that you, David, of all people, would overlook the influence the debates might have.

Also, I think the debate highlighted how deceptive Clinton has been during his campaign. Clinton denied the fact that he is a "tax and spend" liberal, masking the harsh reality that his proposals will be paid for with massive increases in taxes that will have repercussions on all Americans.

Clinton also refuses to come clean on a number of issues. He has not been up front and candid about avoiding the draft or about his anti-war activities. And he has hedged on issues ranging from the NAFTA treaty to congressional term limits to the use of force to free Kuwait.

During this election, Clinton has done more waffling than the International House of Pancakes. To simply concede the election to him now would be dangerously premature.

I would encourage those that even passionately disagree with me to tune into the remaining debates. Look beyond the facade of ambiguously articulated "change" to see for what the candidates really stand. As the democratic process continues and millions of undecided voters get their first unfiltered glimpses of Bush, Clinton and Perot, it will become apparent that this election is far from over.

Patrick Robben
Sophomore/Political science

► RACISM/SEXISM

Battle against racism, sexism one in same

Editor,

Please do not take offense, Bernard Franklin, but your use of "man" and "mankind" instead of "human" and "humankind" in the Oct. 12 Collegian was offensive. Remember, one cannot battle racism without also battling sexism. I submit this not as an attack from the "other side," but as a friend.

Vickie Choitz
Junior/Political science and women's studies

► DEBATES

Rating team biased in choice of winner

Editor,

This is in response to the "K-State Rates the Debate" article in the Oct. 12 Collegian. I found the rating of the debate totally outrageous.

For one, all the members of the so-called "rating team" were biased to Gov. Clinton. All I really had to do was glance at the line that said they were all supporters of Bill Clinton to find out what their opinion was.

Second, anyone who watched the debate Sunday night could easily see that Ross Perot ate both President Bush and Clinton for lunch.

Neither Clinton nor Bush could come up with concise or intelligent answers. It seemed like they were there more to fight one another than to answer the American people's questions. But I guess the American people shouldn't really care, because they are used to the frivolous mudslinging.

As for Perot, I think I can honestly say that he won the debate hands-down. His answers made good, honest sense. He didn't fill us up with what we wanted to hear, but with the cold hard facts. He won't win the election this way, but it sure is good to hear the truth for once.

It seems that all the American people are interested in is a quick fix, and if this is what you want, vote Bill Clinton. But there is no quick fix, and our problems can only be solved through time and a good business mind.

If you are willing to see an end to this and willing to follow a well-structured plan, vote Perot. But whatever you vote, don't just vote for yourself. Vote for the good of the people, because this country isn't made up of just yourself, but Americans.

Brian Patterson
Sophomore/Secondary education and history

CITY

Local zoo adapts to weather changes

Some animals enjoy, others escape winter's chill

KIM MCINTY
Collegian

The animals and facilities at Sunset Zoo are preparing for another Kansas winter.

"Despite what many think, we are open in the winter," Sunset Zoo director Donald Wixom said. "We have to be here to take care of the animals anyway, so we might as well be open to the public."

"We have made a real effort in recent years to acquire animals that are winter-hardy," Wixom said. "We used to have animals that had to be taken indoors, and that left a lot of empty exhibits."

The zoo has acquired snow leopards, Andean condors and red pandas. These are originally from the Himalayan and Andes mountain ranges, so they are well-suited to harsh weather.

Winter zoo visitors still should be able to see standard favorites, though.

"Even those animals that we don't think of as winter animals get along very well," Wixom said.

He said tigers are a good example.

"They have access to go outside and do so almost every day," he said. "I think the tigers are really more active in the cooler weather than in hot, humid weather."

Bears don't hibernate in captivity, Wixom said. The only North American bear at Sunset Zoo is a 37-year-old grizzly. In the wild, grizzlies that live 20 to 25 years are considered old.

"Because of his age, he's not real active anyway," Wixom said. "Even in the wild, though, bears periodically come out of the sleep state."

Most of the animals will be taken in during particularly harsh weather and put back out when it improves, Wixom said. If the weather is bad, he said, there probably will be few zoo visitors anyway.

Some animals have to be taken inside for the entire season.

Parrots and other tropical species are kept in an off-exhibit holding building during the winter. Signs reporting they'll be back next spring are placed on their cages, but the cold weather isn't the only reason for the private building.

"Winter is also the breeding season for many species such as parrots," Wixom said.

Breeding nests are set up within the holding building, and the animals are left undisturbed in hopes that they will breed.

General preparations at Sunset Zoo include a variety of things — such as ordering extra hay, increasing the animals' diets, checking heaters and heat lamps, and insulating windows.

These chores start in September while the weather is still warm.

Wixom said because last winter was mild, attendance was good. There were 1,411 visitors in January, and there were only 854 during December 1991.

REGION

Get ready: Almanac calls for cold winter

Newly planted crops at risk when temperatures fall

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

"Snow and rain (freezin'), it's sneezin' season. So cold it makes your eyeballs squeak, rainy and bleak."

This is the weather forecast for the first 17 days of December, according to "The 1992 Old Farmer's Almanac" by Robert Thomas.

Jack Smalley, chief meteorologist for KSNT-TV in Topeka, said he agrees with the almanac's prediction for cooler and wetter conditions during the next 90 days.

An especially harsh winter is not projected, Smalley said, but it could still happen.

"I don't think there's really any way we can predict what this winter holds in store for us," he said.

Kansas wheat farmers are looking forward to a productive year, according to agronomy specialists, no matter which prediction is believed.

Extension agronomist Jim Shroyer said the cooler, wetter conditions projected are ideal for wheat that has been planted already.

Shroyer said he estimates farmers have 70-80 percent of their winter wheat in the ground now.

Planting is a crucial time in the process of growing wheat, he said, because it is critical for the plants to establish themselves.

The hearty wheat varieties grown in Kansas survive cold temperatures well, Shroyer said.

Winter kill will come when temperatures dip below 20 degrees, he said.

"As long as there is moisture, the wheat will grow. The winter kill happens when temperatures drop, and there is no snow cover or ground moisture," Shroyer said.

Andy Weingarten, weekday meteorologist at WIBW-TV in Topeka, said he predicts a harsh winter that could contribute to that winter kill.

This year's cooler summer was due to the jet stream being further south, Weingarten said. These cooler temperatures should continue through the winter months, he said.

WORLD

Venezuelan leader avoids danger

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CARACAS, Venezuela — A truck raced at high speed toward a ceremony attended by President Carlos Andres Perez in a western town Monday.

Perez's bodyguards opened fire, killing the two people inside, the government said, adding that Perez was unhurt and had returned to Caracas.

Information Minister Angel Zambrano said the truck driver and passenger, described as intoxicated, were fatally shot, and some children were injured. He said he knew nothing as to a motive.

A TV station broadcast film after Monday's incident of security forces attending to three people lying on the ground, apparently injured.

Zambrano's statement said the truck incident occurred at the end of a hospital dedication ceremony in Paraguaripo, about 50 miles north of Maracaibo. The oil-producing center lies 400 miles west of the capital.

Radio Rumbos earlier quoted Gov. Oswaldo Alvarez Paz of Zulia state as saying attackers fired shots from a truck after the ceremony. It described the men in the truck as Guajira Indians.

Before the dedication, Perez attended Columbus Day ceremonies in the remote eastern Venezuelan fishing village of Macuro.

In February, Perez survived an attempted coup in which military plotters planned to assassinate him. Dozens died in the botched coup.

Get away

School and work driving you crazy? Check the Collegian classifieds to find out where you can go to get away from it all. Only $5 for up to 20 words. You can get away quicker than you think.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

The Hair Experts Design Team 8th Annual CUT-A-THON

Food! Door Prizes! Drinks!

Friday, Oct. 16
9 a.m.-9 p.m.
1323 Anderson

Cuts $12 (reg. $25)

All Proceeds Go To Big Lakes Developmental Center

Volunteer Help Provided By:

KΔ, ΠΒΦ, ΧΟ, ΣΦΕ, ΣΣΣ and Δ

Aggieville • 776-4455

UPC FILMS

All Films $1.75 with I.D.

ETIENNE CHATILIEZ
Tatie Danielle
You haven't met her yet, but she hates you already.

NEVER CRY WOLF
PG
Universal and Pandemonium® Present a Pandemonium® Production
The Motion Picture® Released by Warner Home Video Inc. in the

Housesitter
PG
K-State Union
UPC Feature Films

Wednesday & Thursday 7 pm and 9:30 pm
Friday 7 pm
Little Theatre

K-State Union
UPC Kaleidoscope

Saturday and Sunday 2 pm
Forum Hall

Friday and Saturday 7 and 9:30 pm
Sunday 7 pm
Forum Hall

K-State Union
UPC Feature Films

For more information, call the UPC Entertainment Line at 532-6570

Trying to reach the college student?

Try advertising here.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising
532-6560

Great Memories Start Here...

Royal Purple

Portraits taken for...

Haymaker Oct. 13

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8a.m. - noon and 1p.m. - 5p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

For life's emergencies great and small.

We've seen emergencies of every shape and size in people of every shape and size. But we've rarely seen anyone whose emergency, big or small, couldn't be aided by our quick and capable emergency room staff. And we've never seen anyone whose fear, anxiety, or plain old wounded pride couldn't be eased by a kind and compassionate word.

Superior care and genuine caring. To us, that's the great and the small of emergency services.

Physician on duty 24 hours a day

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

1105 Sunset P.O. Box 1208 • Manhattan, KS 66502 • 913-776-3300

SOUTH PADRE

THE NUMBER-1 FUN BEACH PACKAGE INCLUDES 8 DAYS/7 NIGHTS HOTEL ON THE BEACH ON SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, TX AND COMPLIMENTARY WELCOME AND FAREWELL PARTIES AND MORE

ONLY $22 PER DAY

3 EASY PAYMENTS OF $50 BOOK TODAY. SPACE IS LIMITED. Payment Plan Only Available On Early Bookings.

After October 19-Additional $25 Surcharge
After November 1-Additional $50 Surcharge
After November 16-Additional $75 Surcharge

VISA USA TOURS

THE SPRING BREAK CONNECTION
(800)959-9091

BOOK DIRECTLY OR THROUGH YOUR TRAVEL AGENT.

FIRST 100 BOOKINGS RECEIVE FREE SPRING BREAK PARTY GEAR PACKAGE

*All pricing based on four per room. Tax, inc. deposits not incl. Allow 2 weeks del. of confirmed tickets. 7 day refund.

SPORTS

OCTOBER 13, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Rugby squad loses to KU

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

K-State's Jeff Smith fights his way through a tackle by KU's Eric Saathoff during the second of two games Saturday at the L.P. Washburn Recreation Area.

FRANK KLEEMANN
Collegian

"We just wanted to beat them, but we didn't play together as a team."

GREGG ROBKE

The K-State men's rugby team finished its preparation for next week's Heart of America Tournament in Kansas City with a tough loss.

The K-State A team lost to the rugby team of Kansas 24-13 Saturday at L.P. Washburn Recreation Area, but it was the right game at the right time.

"It was definitely a great preparation for the tourney next weekend," K-State's Gregg Robke said. "We just wanted to beat them, but we didn't play together as a team. If we would have played as one team, things would have turned out differently."

K-State started the game successfully by taking the lead 20 minutes into the game. Kicker Ty Gray's drop-kick attempt from about 20 yards was good, and K-State had a 3-0 lead.

The game turned around when KU started to run the ball well against K-State, Robke said. This brought the Cats' attention more to the middle of the field, and KU threw the ball to the wings to score.

"They did a great job in sacking our backs-in," he said. "Once they did that, they had good opportunities to score. That's the only way they beat us."

Robke said K-State possessed the ball for more than half of the 80 minutes, but they just couldn't convert that advantage into points.

"We pushed them all the field long," he said. "We just didn't capitalize on our opportunities. Many times we had the chance to score but didn't. I don't know what the cause was."

One factor in the defeat might have been the lack of experience, Robke said. While K-State plays with a lot of collegiate players on its club team, KU's team consists of just a few college players.

"They have a lot of experience," said four-year team member Robke. "I think we haven't beaten them for seven or eight years. Since I've been here, we never have beaten them."

"It's a totally different game playing without college players."

K-State, which is now 4-3, will go to the weekend tournament with an A team and a B team. K-State is one of several schools that is bringing more than one team to the tournament, in which about a dozen teams will play.

COLUMN

Smargiasso suffered in Lawrence

When Jason Smargiasso finally stopped running, and all the Jayhawks chasing him finally went home, he still had a crowd of people in his face.

This time, the people sought explanations instead of sacks.

Just outside the K-State locker room, 25 members of the media hovered around Smargiasso.

The Big Game had been a Big Disappointment for the Wildcats. Smargiasso had spent most of the day on his back. The 6-2, 220-pound junior was 10-of-13 passing for only 68 yards and two interceptions.

He was also sacked nine times and was sentenced to negative 77 yards rushing on 14 carries.

"They took us pretty much out of everything," Smargiasso said. "We tried some different things, but their front seven just came out and played a hell of a game."

Smargiasso's 14 carries was a statistician's way of describing that, in addition to the nine sacks, he was tackled in the backfield for a loss on four of his other five carries.

"We thought that maybe they had the snap count," Smargiasso said.

"We changed it throughout the game, all the time. It didn't matter what we did."

"They shot right in there when the ball was snapped and came like crazy."

Smargiasso wasn't the only Wildcat who suffered from too many Jayhawks in the backfield.

The three K-State running backs who saw action in the game carried the ball 12 times for a collective 16 rushing yards.

And when Smargiasso looked to run the option, the results were the same.

"They really took us out of our option game," Smargiasso said. "We thought with the guys coming as hard as they do, let them come, and it will be me and the end one-on-one."

"Every time I turned around, there was someone there."

Indeed, it seemed that a play did not go by without a committee of Jayhawk linemen escorting Smargiasso to the turf.

When he was able to throw the ball, Smargiasso connected on all but three of his 13 attempts. The problem, however, was that the average completion, which more times than not was a screen pass, went for less than 7 yards.

"You're thinking the only thing you could think — how in the world can I get the ball out of here? If all you get is one second, then that is what you have to go with. You can't be in a fairy land. You have to figure out a way to get a snap and get it out there."

Through three quarters, the Wildcat offense had just two first downs (the Cats' first first down came at the 10:41 mark of the third quarter) and a total offensive output of negative 8 yards — its longest play from scrimmage being 11 yards.

All of that made for a pretty long afternoon for the New Wilmington, Pa., native.

"It was definitely frustrating out there. KU is a heck of a football team. We watched them on film, and we thought we could do a lot more things against them."

"Pretty much whatever we threw at them, they took us out of it."

The Jayhawks never gave Smargiasso a chance to get in his game. In fact, Kansas never gave the Wildcats an opportunity to get in the game.

For the 11th straight time in Lawrence — game, set and match Jayhawks.

MIKE MAY

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Cats beat KU 2nd time in year

3-2 victory saved with dominating K-State offense in 1st half of game

TONDO WALDRON
Collegian

The K-State women's soccer team defeated the Kansas Jayhawks 3-2 in a home match Sunday at Frank Anneberg Park.

K-State got the ball rolling early and scored with a goal from halfback Lyndsay Hafermehl.

The scoring continued with a goal from co-captain and center forward Leslie Foreman to finish the half with a 2-0 lead.

"We communicated well on the field, and our passing was really good," Foreman said.

The Wildcats continued its strong offensive drive in the second half. Halfback Amy Massaglia booted a goal to give K-State a 3-0 lead.

"KU got pretty down on themselves, and it seemed to show on the field," Massaglia said. "They had some pretty tough players that weren't afraid to rough it up."

KU's efforts ended most times in the Cats' defensive line. The Hawks' first goal came with nine minutes left in the game as a result of a penalty kick.

"Our defense played well, despite the penalty kick that could have been avoided," Foreman said.

The final goal for KU came with two minutes left, but that was as close as the score would get.

One of the reasons KU didn't play at the level K-State expected them to was that the Hawks only brought 10 players. K-State co-captain Lori Smith said her team agreed to play them 10 on 10.

"KU didn't have their best players with them, or I'm sure they would have been a much tougher team," Foreman said. "Our team played well together, and the score should have been 6-0."

But Foreman said the team believed it would have an assured victory and got kind of lazy.

K-State and KU were well matched, Foreman said, although K-State has a lot of young players this season.

"K-State has dominated in the past years, but we are basically freshmen and first-year sophomores with a lot of potential to do well," Hafermehl said. "We played them earlier this year, and they seemed a lot tougher the first time. They had a lot of girls this time who I didn't recognize."

Massaglia said, "This is the second time we beat KU this season. I guess this means we are a better team than KU."

In the future, Massaglia said, any well-organized team will be a big challenge for the team.

The Wildcats return to the practice field today in preparation for two tournament road trips in the upcoming weekends.

"I know what to expect this weekend at Missouri. If they are anything like the teams we have played before, we should do well," Massaglia said.

"We are showing a lot of consistency in our level of play. We beat KU twice."

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

Henderson leads A's to win

ASSOCIATED PRESS

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Toronto Blue Jays tried to catch Rickey Henderson.

They tried to get him at first base and threw the ball into right field. They tried to get him at third base and threw it into left.

No, the Blue Jays never quite caught Henderson Monday, nor did they catch up with Dave Stewart or the Oakland A's either.

Instead, the Athletics bounced back from a devastating defeat a day earlier and beat Toronto 6-2, closing their deficit in the AL playoffs to 3-2.

"I think now the catcher is more afraid of me getting on base than the pitcher," Henderson said.

Ruben Sierra hit a two-run homer in the first inning that began David Cone's demise and chased him in the fifth.

Henderson, Browne and Sierra — the top three hitters in the lineup — had all eight of Oakland's hits and combined to score five runs and drive in five.

Henderson scored twice, and both scores were examples of what the Athletics affectionately call "a Rickey run" — the kind he creates by himself.

Added up, it gave the A's a 6-1 lead after six innings. That was exactly the score by which they led Game 4 before Toronto stunned Dennis Eckersley and shocked Oakland for a 7-6 victory in 11 innings.

This time, the A's did not let it get away, as Stewart improved to 6-0 lifetime in the playoffs. After getting a no-decision in Game 1, Oakland's big-game ace came back and allowed seven hits.

Dave Winfield's second homer of the series accounted for Toronto's first run, and Devon White also singled home a run.

In the fifth, after a two-base error by third baseman Kelly Gruber, Henderson laid down a rare bunt and beat it out for a single.

Henderson bunted for a hit only once this season and does not like to do it.

Early in his career, he fouled a couple of bunts off his face and has been reluctant to try it ever since.

SPORTS DIGEST

► SOCCER TEAM BLANKS EMPORIA

Craig Dorroh, Brian Heathcoat and Andre Jaquet all scored goals in the K-State men's soccer team's 3-0 win over Emporia State University.

Sunday's shutout evened the Cats' record at 2-2.

Goalkeepers Jim Dailey and Darin Neufeld combined to keep Emporia State from scoring.

Emporia State will have a chance for redemption. The two teams meet again at 11 a.m. Sunday in Manhattan.

► SEATTLE DEVASTATES DENVER, 34-3

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins returned to Super Bowl form Monday night, routing Denver, 34-3.

The Redskins gave a final bonus to Art Monk, who broke the NFL career receiving record when he caught three straight passes in the final quarter to give him 820 catches in his career.

Mark Rypien was 16 of 26 for 245 yards and one TD, and he sneaked in from 1 yard out twice for touchdowns.

► MEN'S EIGHT FINISHES 1ST AT KU

K-State's novice crews gave some of their competitors a lesson in Rowing 101 Sunday.

Rowing 101 is an annual two-mile race for novice crews. Boats from Oklahoma State, Wichita State, KU, Washington and Creighton participated in the regatta on the Kansas River outside of Lawrence.

K-State's novice men's eight boats finished in first and second place, with times of 11:11 and 11:19. K-State's novice women's eight boats finished second, fifth and eighth in their races with times of 12:26, 13:04 and 13:28.

"This is a major test for our novices, and they met it," crew publicist Stacey Nodoff said.

K-State coach Troy Kolb said this was the best performance by K-State at Rowing 101 in recent years.

"I thought they stepped right up and held their own with the other rowers," he said.

Kolb said the novice teams improved with the coaches' help.

"We've had two novice coaches working with them, and they've done well getting them in shape and getting them to work together," Kolb said.

NATION

AIDS activists form human chain in D.C.

White House protesters point finger of shame

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — AIDS activists carrying simulated American flags with skulls and crossbones in place of stars ringed the White House Monday to protest what they charge is President Bush's weak response to the fatal disease.

The thousands of demonstrators, who formed a human chain with the aid of 6,000 feet of red ribbon, chanted, "Three more weeks, Bush will go."

But some questioned whether his Democratic challenger, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, would do any better in fighting AIDS.

Ed Des Rosier of Nashua, N.H., said he did not watch Sunday night's debate in which Bush, Clinton and independent candidate Ross Perot traded views on the AIDS epidemic.

"It's of no concern to me. They all lie," Des Rosier said. He said he was in the demonstration because he had friends who died of AIDS.

"I have to let the president know we are not happy," he said.

Would Clinton be an improvement? "Yes. At least he's listening," Des Rosier said.

Roger Warnix of Los Angeles was asked if he shared the skepticism that some AIDS activists voiced about Clinton.

He said, "I have a few skepticisms, but I think he is the better of the evils."

Bush was campaigning in Pennsylvania, and uniformed Secret Service officers stood guard impassively on the grounds as the demonstrators pointed their fingers at the White House and shouted, "Shame."

Park Police Sgt. Patrick Gavin said an estimated 5,000 people took part in the demonstration.

In the debate, Bush defended his administration's response to the AIDS problem and said people should change their behavior to help prevent the spread of the disease.

Clinton said the government needed to put one person in charge of the response to AIDS and said he thought Bush's response to the AIDS question was the longest and best statement he's made about it in public.

Perot said he would stress efforts to bring new AIDS drugs to the market.

Frederick Dyke, founder of the People With AIDS Theater Company in San Francisco, said he was diagnosed with AIDS six months ago. He called Bush's remarks "totally political" but said, "I don't trust any politician. Actions speak louder than words."

"I will vote for Clinton and give him his chance," Dyke said.

Dean addresses changes

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

have Durland room accessibility for athletes be cut back or eliminated. The motion was seconded and passed unanimously.

"Durland has limited space, and we feel the priorities should go to us," Schmidt said. "We have about 40 people trying to study in the graphic room upstairs now, and this is not right. We have paid an extra $100 for the use of the facilities we have."

When Rathbone was asked how he was going to spend the engineering equipment fee, he said the main goal was to provide a quality engineering lab. He said this will be the next step after completing a new computer room.

Engineering Council President Jill Dirksen, junior in architectural engineering, said Rathbone answered the wide variety of questions well.

"He was here to inform the students," she said. "I feel a lot of good questions were raised, and he provided good answers."

Magic's attendance better than secretaries'

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Earvin "Magic" Johnson attended only two meetings of the National Commission on AIDS.

That's one more than all three members of the president's Cabinet who have seats on the commission.

"We've been very disappointed," Carlton Lee, chief liaison officer of the commission, said of the Cabinet secretaries' attendance records.

Lee said Monday the biggest disappointment was Dr. Louis Sullivan, secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, who attended only one of the commission's two dozen meetings since it was formed in 1989.

It became an issue during the first presidential debate Sunday night, when President Bush criticized Johnson's decision to resign from the commission and his poor attendance at meetings.

The Lakers basketball star — who announced a year ago that he had tested positive for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS — resigned from the commission last month. He said the administration was not taking the group's work seriously enough.

"I was a little disappointed in Magic, because he came to me and I said, 'Now, if you see something we're not doing, get a hold of me. Call me, let me know,'" Bush said Sunday. "He went to one meeting, and then we heard that he was stepping down."

Bush was wrong. "He says I only went to one meeting," Johnson said in an interview with KNBC-TV in Los Angeles. "He lied; I went to two meetings. I couldn't make the other ones because of scheduling problems. Of course, they only had a couple more after that."

Lee confirmed Johnson's attendance at two of the six meetings the commission had while Johnson was on the panel.

In addition to Sullivan, two other members of the president's Cabinet, the secretaries of defense and veterans affairs, are ex-officio members of the AIDS commission.

Don't tell this guy you aren't placing a Halloween personal.

Come to Kedzie 103 and place your ad by Oct. 28.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

ACADEMICS

Studying abroad encourages growth

"Sometimes Americans don't feel the need to be curious about other cultures."

AGNES FESTRE

Exchange program open to all; benefits reach beyond school

LIANA RIESINGER

Collegian

K-State students are learning more than what is taught in a classroom.

Through overseas exchanges, they are experiencing other people's cultures firsthand.

Since the beginning of the International Student Exchange Program in 1986, nearly 200 K-State students have studied abroad.

"More students are studying abroad now, more than ever before," said

Walter Kolonosky, associate professor of modern languages and director of K-State study abroad programs.

Kolonosky advises students about where and how to study abroad.

HOW TO GET THERE: Among various overseas study options, Kolonosky said, scholarship exchanges are undoubtedly the best, because everything is paid for. Three universities in Germany and one in Czechoslovakia have scholarship programs.

Another option is the ISEP, in which a student pays home university fees to study at an international school.

"We use the ISEP program, because financially, it works well, serves everybody in all disciplines, and the costs are right," Kolonosky said.

"Other programs are nearly twice as much."

THE REQUIREMENTS: If accepted, K-State students pay K-State tuition and room and board and choose from 138 colleges and universities in 52 different countries.

ISEP is a competitive program in which students list several choices of where they would like to study.

Kolonosky said to be competitive, a student should be a junior with at least a 3.0 grade point average. These are not restrictions, he said, but they could give

■ See EXCHANGE Page 10

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Display Advertising
532-6560

WE TAKE TIPS!

532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

RETAIL FLORICULTURE CLUB features:
Guest Designer
Mr. GIB CUNNINGHAM
Door prizes will be given away!!
Tuesday, Oct. 13
at 8 p.m. in 244 Waters Hall
Everyone welcome!!

ATTENTION ALL EDUCATION MAJORS

Mock Interview Day

Nov. 2 9-4 p.m.

Sign-up in Holtz Hall

Starts today through

Friday, Oct. 23

at 5 p.m.

Develop resumé data sheet during sign-up.

Great Memories Start Here...
Royal Purple

Portraits taken for...

Marlatt Oct. 13

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8a.m. - noon and 1p.m. - 5p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

THE BEST LITTLE WHOREHOUSE IN TEXAS

Book By:
Larry L. King
and
Peter Masterson

Music & Lyrics by:
Carol Hall

Sponsored by:
Manhattan Town Center

OCTOBER 15, 16, 17 8 PM

McCAIN AUDITORIUM

TICKETS: McCAIN BOX OFFICE 532-6428

October Special

LOWELL DAVIS

Collectibles
20 % off

Lowell Davis: nationally acclaimed rural life artist

"Cock Of The Walk"

Give a gift that's as American as apple pie

Campbell's Downtown

776-9067

5th & Poyntz

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.50

Everyday Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Toppings
2 - Cokes
$8.50

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

MOVIES

'Hero' is a classy, classic romp

Flick chock full of comedy with a beautiful storyline

LISA EDMUNDS

Collegian

Every once in a while, a film comes along that just blows you away.

It offers everything in one tight package and leaves you stunned, but it leaves you satisfied when the final credits roll.

"Hero" is such a film.

REVIEW

"Hero" offers two full hours of laughs, for sure, but it also digs beneath the surface in a beautifully crafted story with pathos and dark humor that make the laughs all the more intense.

Finally, Hollywood has produced an American comedy that doesn't insult your intelligence and bring life down to the lowest common denominator.

Film buffs will immediately recognize a certain Frank Capra ("It's a Wonderful Life") quality to the film, where life is often dark and complicated, and there are few truly happy endings.

In real life, as well as in "Hero," it is not easy to tell the good guys from the bad guys.

Mostly, we fall between the two extremes and are left to make our peace with the battle between good and bad, as do the characters in the film.

In "Hero," we are left to dig out the good and heroic in two very unlikely suspects, Bernie LaPlant (Dustin Hoffman) and John Bubber (Andy Garcia).

LaPlant is a classic loser, a less than heroic guy beaten down by modern life and its disappointments. He is a master con man and professional cynic who stays only two steps ahead of the law.

When a plane falls from the sky, nearly crashing on his head, he defies every instinct that tells him not to get involved, not to stick his neck out and actually finds the motivation to save the crash victims from a fiery death.

LaPlant is so unheroic, he steals Geena Davis' purse as he saves her, then tries to sell her credit cards on the black market.

In a wonderfully wicked twist of fate, John offers the shoeless and careless Bernie a ride, and Bernie tells him his incredible story.

When Bernie winds up in jail, it is John who steps forward as the hero, turning into a bearded Cinderella who literally goes from being homeless to a bona-fide hero overnight.

But the story is more complex than a simple case of mistaken identity, as the hero knows he is a fake, and the fake knows he is a hero of sorts, and Davis' character — a TV reporter with more than a few doubts about the moral standards of her profession — is left to sort out "the truth."

Artfully crafted, filled with great performances in even the smallest roles, "Hero" is a real winner.

It makes you laugh; it makes you cry; it makes you think — all at the same time.

Law resigns from post

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

should quit while you're still good," he said.

Law said he plans to continue with teaching at K-State, but if approved, he will take up to a year sabbatical for research on a Costa Rican rain forest project.

Lane Marshall, dean of the College of Architecture and Design, said Law's resignation was the third administrative resignation within the college this year.

Bill Miller resigned as head of the Department of Architecture last semester, and Paul Windley resigned from the associate dean position two weeks ago.

"This was really not a surprise," he said. "In Bill Miller's and Paul Windley's cases, they left to take higher positions elsewhere. Dennis had talked to me some time ago and requested a sabbatical. So it was just a matter of getting the letter and making it official."

Marshall said Law's resignation may cause some future complications because of a potential merger between the landscape architecture and the regional and community planning departments. Both are within the College of Architecture and Design.

He said he anticipates the merger to take place in either January or February. An interim department head would probably be hired, Marshall said. Al Keithley is currently head of the regional and community planning department.

Law said he dismissed any suspicions that he stepped down because of dangers in the potential merger. He said the merger could be helpful to the programs.

"The potential merger is not a negative but a positive," Law said. "I don't perceive any threat in what we're doing. I do see some tremendous opportunities. We have very different talents that are complementary."

Law is known as a leader who kept in touch with students and informed others of the department's triumphs, said Lee Feaster, junior in landscape architecture.

"He has done a lot for the program," Feaster said. "He's probably the biggest publicity person in the landscape architecture community. In that capacity, I hope to get someone half as good."

WE TAKE TIPS! 532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

ESSENTIALS

Not all J.H.'s are rude, but J.H.'s behavior had a 'premise'

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

DEAR CASSANDRA,

First and foremost, I want to apologize for the crude behavior exhibited by J.H. (Sept. 28). Not all of the J.H.'s on campus are so rude.

However, I agree with the basic premise of his/her statement. I think you are one of the most sexist individuals I have ever encountered. You consistently malign men and praise women who have been involved in similar situations.

In your reply to G.S.A. (Sept. 30), you said, "About all you can do now is pass out the cigars, 'Dad.'"

This seems to imply that although he was forced into a sexual encounter that he did not desire, he should just live with it and try to be more careful next time.

Your previous advice indicates that had this letter been written by a woman, your response would have been much different. You tell women that, "no" means "no," but this man was told that his "no" means "maybe," or even "yes!"

What a double standard.

J.H., K-State junior

DEAR J.H.,

I will accept your apology on behalf of J.H. (and the assumption you are not the original J.H.), but to suggest that such a crude remark has a "premise," as you put it, is begging for a straitjacket. Crude suggestions have no premise other than, maybe, ignorance.

I agree "no" should mean "no," regardless of gender and should be respected equally by all. Yet, I think it is obvious that "no" coming from a woman does not receive as much respect as "no" coming from a man in our male-dominated society.

As to my "yes/maybe" comment, there is nothing wrong with a man or woman deciding to change his or her mind, whether it involves the decision to have sex or any other issue. And "maybe" means just that — the possibility that a different answer may be given at some future point. It applies to men, as well as to women.

I believe it is better to live with the temporary burden of being labeled indecisive, rather than having to live with the permanent burden of, for instance, a pregnancy that one does not desire and cannot change.

Finally, according to G.S.A., he did say "no," and it should have been respected. However, I will not buy into the claim that he was "forced" into the sexual encounter as you would want me to believe.

What are you saying — that he was tied to the bed and given some kind of drug to maintain an erection? You see, G.S.A. failed to do the one thing that would have convinced me he did not want to have sex with his date — he did not leave.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

After reading your column for the past few weeks, I have two more questions to ask.

Do college students consider sex the most important thing in socializing with the opposite sex?

And, is this generation abandoning self-control in favor of letting the emotions and hormones run free without concern for the consequences?

For me, I enjoy the company of the date and don't worry about how to get her into bed. This has given me a great number of close friends over the years whom I truly care about.

One last thing I need to say. I am not a cowboy! I do not hold this conclusion against you, since we have never met in person.

Most people misjudge me due to first impressions and not trying to find out who I am.

I thank you for your reply to my last letter. Take care, Cassandra, and enjoy life.

Liconus, K-State senior

DEAR LICONUS,

Obviously, I have no control over the mail I receive.

The frequency of sex as a topic in this column reflects, I believe, the general insecurity young people have with this particular aspect of the so-called "mating ritual."

It is only natural.

You are correct in pointing out one advantage of using self-control, as well as suggesting there are other equally important issues to address concerning men and women.

Apparently, and admirably, you have discovered some of them.

Yet, I think allowing people to express their concerns about sex (and other topics) in the anonymous format used by this column serves a useful purpose.

It stimulates discussion and provides answers, so that their concerns might be resolved. It allows them to move on to more important aspects of the male/female relationship.

Thank you for your comments.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

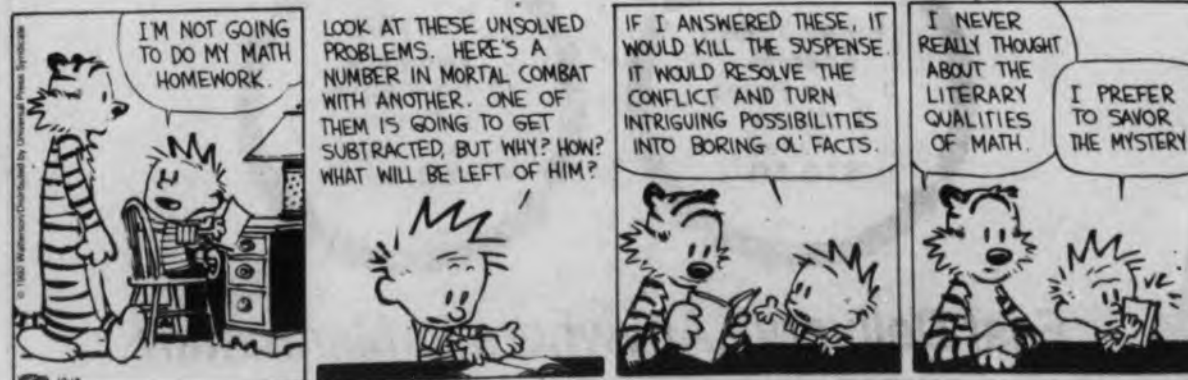

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

- ACROSS
- 1 Essence
 - 5 Alt.
 - 8 Pop
 - 12 Bart's sister
 - 13 All the solvers
 - 14 Cupid's a/k/a
 - 15 Tournament type
 - 16 Make the most of
 - 18 A Round Table knight
 - 20 Trombonists' accessories
 - 21 AMA members
 - 22 Mimic
 - 23 Get into forensics
 - 26 Throw off the trail
 - 30 Tarzan Jr.
 - 31 Sling ingredient?
 - 32 26 Down, to Henri
 - 33 Drum-set features
 - 36 Young pigeon
 - 38 Vacationing
 - 39 Mandible
 - 40 Like the "a" in "ago"
 - 43 Purplish red
 - 47 "The Color of Money" setting
 - 49 Origin
 - 50 Church area
 - 51 "— been had"
 - 52 Decorate
 - 53 Crystal-gazer
 - 54 Band-leader Brown
 - 55 Bush's alma mater
- DOWN
- 1 Plumbing problem
 - 2 Ready for the picking
 - 3 Computer operator
 - 4 "Kubla Khan" setting
 - 5 Choir's repertoire
 - 6 Capricorn
 - 7 Penguin costume, for short?
 - 8 First name of 4 Down poet
 - 9 Drop
 - 10 Catch some Z's
 - 11 Mars' counterpart
 - 17 Mischief makers
 - 19 Dander
 - 22 Prepare to fire
 - 23 Rudiments
 - 24 Actor Scheider
 - 25 Place to pump up
 - 26 How to address some women
 - 27 Flightless avian
 - 28 "— Camera"
 - 29 Society newcomer
 - 31 TV alien
 - 34 Derby
 - 35 Out there somewhere
 - 36 Succumb to gravity
 - 37 Type-writer sequence
 - 39 "Home, —"
 - 40 Watering holes
 - 41 Manage somehow
 - 42 Gardener's need
 - 43 Relocate
 - 44 Asta's mistress
 - 45 Hard labor
 - 46 Where not to throw bouquets
 - 48 Ewing wares
- Solution time: 28 mins.

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873 ($9.95 per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

T E F S H H F F Z B H V

A F W Z B H B W A B , D F V E

H B Z H B V C D B W E V T H B

F W E C B C F S V B

Yesterday's Cryptquip: WHAT TIME OF YEAR IS BEST FOR TRIMMING ROSEBUSHES WAS A THORNY ISSUE.

Today's Cryptquip clue: H equals R

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word

2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word

3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word

4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word

5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications.

Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

BULLETIN BOARD*010

Announcements

FREE CAMPUS TRIAL PAK

K-STATE UNION BOOKSTORE
LOWER LEVEL ENTRANCE
OCTOBER 13-15

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981, You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each. Faculty/Staff: $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

MEN SEXUALLY Abused As Boys: A series of four presentations sponsored by University Counseling Services. The series will examine the physical and emotional impact of sexual abuse on men, and identify factors involved in adult recovery. Open to men and women. Meets Tues. evenings, 6:30-7:30p.m. beginning Oct. 20, Lafene 231.

STAINED GLASS Crafters- Scrap and extra sheets of stained glass at Wholesale Prices thru Oct. 15. Weekdays 4-6, Saturday 12-4 or appointment. Glass Impressions 329 Poyntz 539-4610. Tell your friends! VISA, MC.

WE SENT a reminder card what more can we do? Did you forget? Pick up your 1992 Royal Purple Portrait today in Kedzie 103. Also, the 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment.

020

Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

A BLACK colored umbrella with a brown handle found in Dickens 122 after Stat 510 class. Contact K-State Union lost and found counter.

FOUND IN Northview area around Oct. 10, woman's 26-inch racing ten-speed. Call 539-3272 claim.

FOUND KEYS, south of Jardine Apartments. Four keys total, one is to dorm room type door. 532-5798.

FOUND JACKET in Denison Hall 113A on Oct. 2, 1992. Call 532-3533 to identify.

LOST: GOLD ring with Amethyst and Aquamarine stones possibly in Denison Oct. 8. Sentimental value. Reward. 537-1138.

030

Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU or driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

DAN- THE Jersey shore has never been better. Thank You.

050

Parties-n-More

Warm It Up! Turn up the heat at your next party with Wet'n Wild Hot Tubs.

*FREE Delivery
*FREE Set Up
*CALL TODAY!
537-1821

Wet'n Wild

MOBILE HOT TUBS

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

CLEAN, SINGLE bedroom basement, close to campus, utilities paid. $250, no contract, need one reliable, considerate, tamed person immediately. 539-1160.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX available, partially furnished. Mont Blue apartment, one block from campus. 539-4447.

110 For Rent- Unfurnished

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

LARGE BEDROOM in a three-bedroom apartment complex. For a serious male student phone 537-7087, $185.

NICE STUDIO apartment, 1019 Houston. Near City Park. Utilities paid, except water. $295, 1-800-593-0519. Open this Saturday.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 1960 Hunting #16. Available immediately. Close to campus. Central air/heat and coin operated laundry facilities. $395, includes water, trash and pest control. Call for appointment 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, central air and heat, laundry facilities. $340. No Pets. 776-3804. Available Oct. 1.

SPACIOUS ONE- two-bedroom. Beautiful hard wood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1. $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan.-Aug. 539-2019.

115

Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available in town home for now or next semester. Very nice. Call 539-6684.

120

For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities, lease plus deposit 539-3672.

130

For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

145

Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in nice tri-level two-bedroom apartment. $180 and one-fourth bills. Fun roommates! Available Jan. 1 539-9450.

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in two-bedroom apartment. $180 deposit and rent. All bills and cable included. Great roommates! Available Nov. 1. 537-2334.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Large house, own bedroom, washer/dryer, all utilities paid. $212.50/month. Must like dogs. 776-1861, Carol.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share four-bedroom house two and one-half blocks from campus. $125 plus utilities 776-3815.

ONE OR two male roommate(s) three blocks from campus, trash/water paid, garage available, laundry facilities, reasonable. 315 Denison 776-2100

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

150

Sublease

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM duplex $260/month. Sublease Nov.-Dec. with option for one year lease beginning Jan. Water and trash paid. 539-3238.

WANTED FEMALE to sublease one bedroom of a two-bedroom apartment. $195 a month rent plus half utilities and deposit. Available December 1. For information call 776-5608.

155

Stable/Pasture

HORSE BOARDING, nice stalls with lot. Close to town. Call Gene 587-0222.

SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

The Tutoring Center is accepting applications for tutors for the current semester in the subjects of PHYS., CHEM., MATH, and engineering courses. Tutors are especially needed in Physics 214, 213, 115 and below. Qualified applicants must have a 3.0 GPA, be enrolled in six or more credit hours, and have superior communication skills. Apply in person at Leisure Hall 201, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday.

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

210

Resume/Typing

$1.25/DOUBLE, $10/ resume. Laser printer. Also specializing in tables, equations, and overheads. Professional results guaranteed. Please call Sandy 539-3229.

ABC typing service. You do the studying, let me do the typing. Reports, charts, graphs, resumes and more. Overnight results when necessary. Go ahead, give me a call. 537-9480 after 5p.m. ask for Jackie.

A FIVE minute walk from Aggieville. Resumes, letters; papers typed as low as $1.25 double spaced. Please call Melia 776-1534.

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English! Speech for papers/editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

Don't forget to place your Halloween personal before the spooks get you!
Deadline is Oct. 28.

225

Pregnancy Testing Center

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m.-5 p.m.

235

Child Care

MOTHER'S HELPER- reliable female college student will help out by babysitting, cooking, cleaning, errand running... Please call 776-3421.

250

Automotive Repair

NISSAN-DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.-5p.m. Monday through Friday.

300

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

$200-$500 weekly. Assemble products at home. Easy! No selling. You're paid direct. Fully guaranteed. Free information—24 hour hotline. 801-379-2900. Copyright ©KS13KDH

$252.50 Sell 50 funny college T-shirts and make $252.50. No financial obligation. A risk-free program. Average sales time equals 4-6 hours. Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

40 PEOPLE to lose weight and make money. 100 percent money back guarantee. 539-1252.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

INTERNATIONAL EMPLOYMENT- Make money teaching English abroad. Japan and Taiwan. Make $2,000-$4,000+ per month. Many provide room and board plus other benefits! Financially

APPLICATIONS ARE being accepted for Assistant Coordinator of FONE Crisis Center. Duties include recruitment, training and scheduling of volunteers and assisting in the overall operations of FONE. Applications are available in the SGS office and are due at 5p.m. Monday, October 19.

COMBINE OPERATORS and truck drivers for corn harvest. Wamego, KS 456-9805.

HOUSE REMODELING, student help needed. Work involves cleaning, removing wallpaper, painting, carpentry, plumbing and electrical repair. Work begins in Nov. Send resume, work experience and class schedule to Box 3 Collegian.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

PART-TIME EVENING line cook at Harry's Up-town. Experience preferred. Apply at 418 Poyntz, Wareham Hotel.

WEEKEND, PART-TIME help for grain, livestock farm. Experience necessary. Call before 8a.m. or after 7p.m. (913)456-7215.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

and culturally rewarding! For international Employment program and application, call the International Employment Group: (206) 632-1146 extension J5768.

MAKE $1000 stuffing envelopes. Send self addressed stamped envelope to J.C. Inc., P.O. Box 864, Manhattan, KS 66502-0008.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-800-874-7697.

OVERSEAS JOBS. $900-2000 month Summer, year round. All Countries. All fields. Free information. Write IJC, PO Box 52-KS02 Corona Del Mar, CA 92625.

IBM PC/ AT 286-12 MHz, mouse, joystick, VGA monitor, two-MB RAM, 24 pin dot matrix printer, 42 MB hard drive, one, five and one-fourth and three and one-half drive, high density, sound card, tons of software! Must sell! $1000. 776-8162. Ask for Russ.

PANASONIC LASER Printer KX-P4110, 5PPM parallel interface 512KB expandable memory, 14 resident fonts. Four-months old, extra toner cartridge $450. 539-1590.

TRS-80, DUAL disk drives, printer, modem phone, tape backup. Call Kevin at 537-4090, or leave message.

NEED CASH? Sell your denim! We're always buying Levi 501 jeans, Levi jackets, mens overalls. 776-7472.

405 Wanted to Buy

NEED CASH? Sell your denim! We're always buying Levi 501 jeans, Levi jackets, mens overalls. 776-7472.

410 Items for Sale

FALL FASHIONS Have you checked out the beautiful fall fashions at the Fashion Shop? Clip this ad and receive 25% off storewide. Sale merchandise excluded. Exp. 10-17-92.

THE FASHION SHOP AND BEAUTY SALON
539-2921
1129 WESTLOOP

10- GALLON aquarium with all accessories and fish. $50. Queen size mattress, $40 or best offer; student desk, $20. 776-1861.

14K GOLD wedding bands. Size seven woman's, size nine and one-half man's. Never used. Will separate. Make offer. 539-3082.

COMPACT DISCS $7 and under. Call Kevin at 776-1651.

COMPUTER PAPER: one cent per sheet. Ten percent ribbon discount. Panasonic KXP; Brother AX. Hull Business Supplies, 715 N. 12, Aggieville. 539-1413.

LEATHER: JACKETS, portfolios, fanny packs, carry-ons, purses, skirts and dresses. Limited quantities. Clearance prices. Call 776-0477.

MICROWAVE 0.5 cubic, turntable, 600 watts, never used. $90. Singer Juice Giant used once $30. Call Nassir 539-1590.

T-SHIRTS -SWEATSHIRTS. First Quality—Advertising specialties—Party favors, first quality—low price to your specifications. 539-6655.

WEDDING DRESS. Size 7-8. Paid $750 asking $450. Or best

Forum participant urges a look at history

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Panel members agreed that the purpose of the forum was not to bash Columbus, but to make the truth known. They also agreed that Columbus Day should be changed or no longer be celebrated.

"Call it commemoration of the encounter of two cultures," said Ian Bautista, senior in modern languages and HALO member. "The best way to be a changing agent is to vote."

"I don't think Columbus was a hero," Bautista said. "He said he was out for money, for fame and for power."

"We should look back at the past Native American civilizations and learn from them to save our own environment."

Exchange programs give students opportunities

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

a student a better chance of placement.

"Junior year is the best time, because students will have a track record behind them," he said. "It's easier to make an investment in a student who has been around awhile."

There are English-speaking universities abroad, Kolonosky said, but more than 50 percent of ISEP placements require the student to know a foreign language.

Numerous international programs are available to K-State students with varying lengths.

Bradley Shaw, head of the Department of Modern Languages, and Ted Cable, associate professor of horticulture, forestry and recreation resources, are organizing a winter intercession in the Yucatan Peninsula for January 1993.

The trip includes visits to a U.N. preserve rainforest and to the Mayan pyramids, and sitting in on talks about the Free Trade Agreement, environmental issues and current economic situations of Mexico.

THE BENEFITS: "Study abroad programs are vital to individuals and to K-State," Shaw said. "It gives great training for skill development."

Shaw said study abroad programs are promoted because it is important to get beyond the borders.

"Nothing angers me more than the 'America is No. 1' attitude. We have this need to be No. 1. And it's too bad, because it alienates others," Shaw said.

COMING TO AMERICA: Agnes Festre, non-degree undergraduate student in business administration from Chateanneus de Grasse, France, said the university life varies drastically from French to American universities.

"In America, there are a lot of opportunities for sports and other activities, therefore students are always together," Festre said.

"In France, many universities are downtown in the heart of the city, so it's difficult to meet people."

Festre said it is important to travel, because one becomes more open-minded and learns an appreciation for his own country.

"Most haven't traveled, and I think they need to travel," Festre said.

"Sometimes, Americans don't feel the need to be curious about other countries and cultures."

"People avoid others because they're different from themselves. It's traditionally like this," Festre said.

Sergey Kotov, graduate student in computer science from Novosibirsk, Russia, said he came to study in America because of the economic situation in Russia.

"I think it's very interesting and instructive to learn about science in America," Kotov said.

"But I've also come here because I don't think people in Russia can find good jobs."

Other student exchange programs include Agricultural Study-Travel Tours, European History Study Abroad, Japanese Summer Program and Central Europe Summer Program.

LEARNING OVERSEAS:

Through the ISEP program, Jana Leep, graduate student in English, studied in France last year.

Leep said she developed an empathetic level for foreigners when they try to explain and communicate their thoughts.

She said she was in a situation where she could never use her native language, and it was hard communicating at first.

"Trying to learn a language is so difficult," Leep said.

"I think if Americans tried to learn other languages, they would be much more empathetic and patient with foreigners."

"It use to be that Americans who studied a foreign language did it as a luxury," Shaw said.

"But now, it's becoming more of a necessity for people wanting to succeed in business and other areas."

Knowing another language and experiencing a foreign culture firsthand can make a person more marketable, Kolonosky said.

"There is a double dimension to people who know more than one language," Kolonosky said.

"If a student studies abroad, then they have something special about themselves. This student stands out from all others."

China reforming economic system than communist. It dropped past efforts to cloak the economic reforms in Marxist jargon and called for a market economy with a vastly reduced role for the government.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"It is no minor patching-up of the economic structure, but a fundamental restructuring of the economy," Jiang said, his voice cracking occasionally from strain as he spoke almost at a shout to about 2,000 delegates in the vast, banner-draped hall.

"Reform is a revolution, a revolution whose goal is to liberate the productive forces. It is the only way to modernize China," he said. "If we cling to outmoded ideas, we shall accomplish nothing."

We've got your numbers!

Friends	Ads	Faculty
Advisers	GTA's	Offices
Clubs	Tutors	Coupons
*	Housing	#

Campus Telephone Books are available in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

$2 Students, limit 2
Identification required
$3.25 Faculty/Staff
$4 All others

Michelle Smith,
K.S.U. student & candidate for State Senate will speak on Student Voting, sponsored by Women in Communications, Inc.
Forum Hall
7:30 p.m. - Oct. 13

GREAT MEMORIES
START
HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS:

Get your group signed up for a Departmental photograph. Portraits will be taken through Oct. 29.

Call 532-6557 to schedule a time.

The Muslim Community Association

THE BASICS OF ISLAM:

Presented by Hisham Hidmi
President of MCA

Tuesday, Oct. 13, 7:30-8:30 p.m.
Kansas State Union, Room 205

(Refreshments will be served)

For More Information Please Call: 537-1791

GREAT
MEMORIES
START HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION
ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

The Loft

PRESENTS

Corbin Ltd.

Suits for the Contemporary Career Women

— Quality That Endures —
Introductory Offer
20% Discount During October

1207 Mon Aggieville 539-1319

Great
Memories
Start
Here...

Royal
Purple

Portraits taken for...

Goodnow Oct. 13

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8a.m. - noon and 1p.m. - 5p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

SEXUAL MEN'S & HEALTH

Young men are at highest risk for TESTICULAR CANCER!

Just as women do a breast self exam, men should do monthly testicular self exams to detect testicular cancer early.

Learn how at
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
532-6544
FOR APPOINTMENT

Royal
Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106
to schedule an appointment
for yearbook pictures.

Next in line...

Individual appointments can be made for any of the indicated times.

Goodnow Hall — Oct. 13
Haymaker Hall — Oct. 13
Marlatt Hall — Oct. 13
Moore Hall — Oct. 14
8 a.m. - 1 p.m.
Putnam Hall — Oct. 14
1:15 - 4:45 p.m.
Smith Scholarship House — Oct. 15
Smurthwaite House — Oct. 15
Van Zile Hall — Oct. 15
West Hall — Oct. 15

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE

STUDENT CANDIDATE

K-State sophomore Michelle Smith, who is challenging incumbent Lana O'Leen in the state Senate race, presents her positions and ideas in a forum at the K-State Union.

PAGE 5

WEDNESDAY

HIGH 67 LOW 55

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 14, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 37

Decision '92: 3 weeks away

► Bill Clinton's wife rallies Democratic supporters on the KU campus.

► The running mates clash in the fourth-ever vice presidential debate Tuesday night.

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

Hillary Clinton addresses about 4,500 people Tuesday afternoon on Campanile Hill at the University of Kansas. She said younger voters need to voice their choice in the November elections.

J. MATTHEW RHEA/Collegian

Supporters rush Hillary Clinton to shake her hand. She took time to visit with those who came to hear her speak in Lawrence.

Hillary Clinton urges voting

"There are people in countries all over the world who literally lose their lives fighting for their right to vote."

HILLARY CLINTON

DEBORAH WHITSON

Collegian

People on Campanile Hill at the University of Kansas Tuesday afternoon saw the second victory there in less than a week.

But this one was not the Hawks over the Cats. It was Hillary Clinton winning over the crowd as she urged them to get out and vote.

It was not a tough room for the Democratic presidential nominee's wife to play. Supporters with Clinton/Gore signs dominated the crowd, and others shouted, "Four more weeks," referring to the amount of time left for Bush in office.

The crowd was estimated at 4,500-5,000 by Ralph Oliver, assistant director of campus police.

"I've had the privilege to speak at so many campuses across the country,"

Clinton said. "The enthusiasm has been very exciting."

She reminded the crowd that there is still time to register to vote.

"There are people in countries all over the world who literally lose their lives fighting for their right to vote," she said, "and here in America it is taken so much for granted that we can't even get up off the couch and get registered."

Voter registration in Kansas closes Oct. 19.

Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., introduced Gov. Joan Finney before Clinton spoke. He said only 20 percent of people ages 18-24 register to vote.

He said if all the people in that age group would vote, it would have a huge effect.

Clinton said this year more than ever,

■ See HILLARY Page 10

Vice president hopefuls go at it

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — With pointing fingers and insistent interruptions, Al Gore and Dan Quayle clashed over leadership, abortion and the economy Tuesday night in a vice presidential debate.

"I feel like an observer at a Ping-Pong game," said Ross Perot's running mate, James Stockdale, after listening to perhaps the 10th or 20th time Gore and Quayle had interrupted one another.

It was a messy affair that ended on a sharp, negative note, with Quayle looking into the prime-time camera and referring darkly to the Democratic front-runner.

"The American people should demand that

■ See DEBATERS Page 10

Republic denies arms sale to Iran

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The U.S. government said Tuesday it had no reason to believe the former Soviet republic of Kazakhstan has sold nuclear warheads to Iran.

In addition, the Kazakhstan president's spokesman denied there was any such deal.

Iran's leading opposition group, the People Mujahadeen, said Monday that Iran made a deal to buy four nuclear warheads from Kazakhstan, but they had not yet been delivered.

Mujahadeen international affairs chief Mohammed Mohaddesin said the deal was finalized during a visit to Kazakhstan in July by Iran's defense minister, and the information came from Mujahadeen agents inside Iran.

Washington Post columnists Roland Evans and Robert Novak wrote that U.S. intelligence agencies received matching information.

Both the State Department and the Pentagon said Tuesday that they have no proof of such a deal.

Also, a spokesman for Kazakhstan President Nursultan Nazarbayev denied that a deal existed.

"We are sick and tired of such reports," press secretary Seitkazy Matayev said. "The president pays no attention to such reports."

He said Kazakhstan has signed the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, and, "We are obliged not to sell warheads or technology in accordance with this treaty."

U.S. State Department spokesman Joseph Snyder said, "We have no evidence or any other reason to believe that Kazakhstan has either sold or delivered any nuclear weapons to Iran."

NEWS DIGEST

► BRAZILIAN POLITICIAN DIES IN COPTER CRASH

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Ulysses Guimarães, a leading foe of Brazil's military dictatorship and one of the country's most respected politicians, was killed in a helicopter crash off a coastal resort, officials said Tuesday.

Guimarães, 76, was a leader of the successful campaign to impeach President Fernando Collor de Mello, who was ousted by congress late last month on charges of corruption.

► POLICE INVESTIGATED DAHMER IMPROPERLY

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two policemen fired for returning a Laotian boy to serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer admitted Tuesday they failed to investigate properly.

Joseph P. Gabrish, 29, and John A. Balcerzak, 35, pleaded guilty to the charge of failing to conduct a proper investigation.

The boy was one of 17 people Dahmer admitted killing.

THE PRICE OF EDUCATION

Students contend with the increasing cost of college

Act creates revised Stafford loan

"This new loan will qualify more students."

LARRY MOEDER

KARREY BRITT

Collegian

A reauthorization of the Higher Education Act, which contains the provisions of the federal student assistance programs, was passed into law in July.

This has created a loan called the unsubsidized federal Stafford loan, said Larry Moeder, director of student financial assistance.

"This new loan will qualify more students," Moeder said. "It is an ideal loan, as it includes the same maximum amount of dollars and interest rates as the subsidized Stafford loan."

The unsubsidized federal Stafford loan is like the regular Stafford loan, except payment of the interest is not subsidized by the government, he said. Instead, it must be paid annually by the students.

This means the borrower is responsible for the interest accrued while he or she is in school.

This interest is capped at 9 percent and set at 6.94 percent

■ See STAFFORDS Page 7

STAFFORD LOAN CHANGES

Maximum amount of loan for group.

1991 Stafford Loan		Max. loan
Year
1 and 2		$2,625
3 and 4		4,000
Graduate		7,500

1992 Stafford Loan		Max. loan
Year
1		$2,625
2		3,500
3 and 4		5,500
Graduate		8,500

Tuition rising more than aid

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON — The cost of attending public colleges and universities has increased at a double-digit rate for the second straight year, the College Board reported Tuesday.

That's far ahead of state and federal financial aid.

The cost of higher education ranges from $321 a year at the public, two-year College of the Mainland in Texas City, Texas, to $24,380 at private Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y.

■ See TUITIONS Page 7

K-STATE TUITION COMPARES FAVORABLY

► A study of tuitions at public and private colleges and universities showed a marked difference between the different types of higher education.

Source: Associated Press GREGORY A. BRANSON/Collegian

ON THE AGENDA

Civil War battle to be re-enacted

Oklahoma town turns back the clock to September 1864

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BIG CABIN, Okla. — When the Civil War spread itself westward in the last century, white men and black men and Indian men fought among themselves in Oklahoma.

This is the site of the most important of those battles, and suddenly, someone has remembered.

The Second Battle of Cabin Creek will be re-enacted Friday through Sunday. Some 500 experienced re-enactors will depict the federal troops of the 6th and 14th Kansas Cavalry, and the Indian Brigades of the Confederate Army, under the leadership of Brig. Gen. Stand Watie of the Cherokee Nation.

Once again, the South will win. And a coalition of towns in northeastern Oklahoma will launch a tourist tradition to enhance the local economy and pride.

For three days, the area will turn back to September 1864.

Watie intercepted a huge wagon train coming along the military road from Fort Scott, with supplies for Union soldiers at Fort Gibson. The train, accompanied by soldiers of the Kansas Cavalry and escorted by Indian troops of the Union Army, was valued at $1.5 million.

Near a town called Cabin Creek, the Confederates attacked during the night. Some 2,000 Confederates outnumbered the Northern troops almost 3-to-1. Fatalities were suffered on both sides, though Northern losses were greater.

The Confederacy, at least, considered it the most significant battle fought in Indian Territory.

In the 1950s, the Vinita Chapter of United Daughters of Confederacy, many of them descended from those warriors of the Five Civilized Tribes, located about 12 acres of the battle site, purchased it and placed markers in memory of the men who won and lost.

The chapter eventually disbanded, and the property was turned over to the Oklahoma Historical Society.

Interest in the battle and the re-enactment gathered because an Oklahoma City insurance executive, Jim Barnett, retired to Grand Lake near Pensacola.

Researching local history, Barnett "discovered" the battle and began to push for a commemoration that would bring business to the area. As a volunteer, he has spent two years raising funds, finding supporters and helping organize the event.

Some reserved seating is planned; others must bring lawn chairs and blankets. Parking will be in nearby mown pastures. Tickets are $2.50 and $5.

The original battle ran across three miles from midnight to 9 a.m. This one will begin at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, last 1 1/2 hours and be fought again Sunday.

Travelers may exit the Will Rogers Turnpike and find signs in Adair, Vinita or Afton. Directions may also be obtained in Pensacola, Langley or Big Cabin.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 12

At 4:26 p.m., Edward Brown reported the theft of a chrome gas cap in Lot A-10. Loss was $10.

At 5:22 p.m., an accident occurred in Lot A-14 and Claflin Road between a 1990 Ford Probe driven by John H.

Park and a 1990 Honda driven by Mary Larson.

At 8:05 p.m., the Ford Hall desk receptionist reported a skunk at the front steps. The officer chased the skunk away.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13

At 6:09 a.m., a custodial employee found a damaged vending machine in Fairchild Hall. Candy was still in the machine. The window of the machine was broken. Damage was $60. Loss was $5.

At 9:59 a.m., John Dollar reported a broken window on the third floor of Durland Hall. Loss was $500.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13

At 1:38 a.m., an employee at Mini Mart, 1102 Laramie St., reported the theft of a videotape, "Lonesome Dove." Loss was $15.

At 4:28 a.m., a custodian at Riley County Middle School reported criminal damage to property. A window was broken out of a door on the south side of the school as well as a window in the rear of the building. Loss was $450.

At 8:30 a.m., Neil Lee, 209 N. Delaware Ave., reported a stolen teakwood Corvette steering wheel and a removable hardtop. Loss was $2,150.

At 11:49 a.m., Subway reported the theft of a cashbox and cash. Loss was $388.

At 3:50 p.m., Food-4-Less, 222 N. Sixth St., reported a juvenile shoplifter. Taken were four packs of Bubble Yum bubble gum. The juvenile was released to the parent. Loss was $1.

Have a question about today's Collegian?

Give us a call, and we'll try to help you out. 532-6556

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Partly cloudy. Cooler. High in the mid-60s. Wednesday night, mostly cloudy. A 20-percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. Low 45 to 50.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy. A 40-percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. High 70 to 75.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Friday, colder. Widely scattered rain and snow northwest, and scattered showers elsewhere. Lows in the 20s northwest to around 70 southeast. Highs in the upper 30s northwest to 70s southeast. Saturday, dry. Highs in the 50s. Sunday, moderating temperatures. Lows in the 30s. Highs in the 40s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Classified Senate would like to thank The Division of Facilities for providing the following recycling drop-off sites for old phone books: Ackert, Anderson, Bluemont, Seaton, Cardwell, Nichols, Umberger and Willard halls.

University Activities Board organization registration renewal forms are due today.

Applications for cancer research awards from the Center for Basic Cancer Research are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.

K-State student ambassador applications are available at the KSU Alumni Association office, fourth floor. They are due Oct. 23.

Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani, 532-6448.

Applications for Community Service Program international summer teams are available in Eisenhower 014A. Spanish required.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14

University Activities Board will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 204.

Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.

The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Johnnie Thompson for 1:30 p.m. in Bluemont 257. Topic will be "The Impact of Schools of Choice Upon Elementary African American Students."

University Counseling Services will sponsor an informal discussion on "Steroid Use: Muscles or Madness" at noon in Union 205. Bring a lunch.

Intramural managers meeting will be at 4 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

International Club will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union 204. Topic will be Columbian life and culture.

Students for the Right to Life will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 207.

Board of Student Publications will meet at 5 p.m. in Kedzie library.

Society of Automotive Engineering will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Durland 166.

Manhattan Sognahm Tae Kwon Do Club will meet from 4:45 to 6:15 p.m. in Nichols 007.

Minority Assembly of Students in Health will meet at 7 p.m. in a Union room to be announced.

CORRECTION

A sports digest headline in Tuesday's Collegian incorrectly stated, "Seattle devastated Denver." It should have said, "Washington devastated Denver." The Collegian regrets the error.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Nairobi	81/57	cloudy
Bermuda	80/71	cloudy
Helsinki	34/28	cloudy
London	55/43	clear
Rome	86/68	cloudy
Stockholm	37/23	cloudy
Vancouver	57/50	rain

Need a number?

Friends	Ads	Faculty
Advisers	GTA's	Offices
Clubs	Tutors	Coupons
*	Housing	#

Campus Telephone Books are on sale from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

$2 Students, limit 2
Identification required
$3.25 Faculty/Staff
$4 All others

Model photography

Christy Mischler, junior in interior architecture, snaps a frame of her model for her architecture design studio class Monday near Seaton Hall. Mischler borrowed her brother's camera for the project.

DARREN WHITLEY/Collegian

CAMPUS

Validine increases residence-hall safety

"It's not totally a security system when misused. It will work if residents don't let others abuse the system. People must take responsibility."

TODD RASMUSSEN

System provides monitors more protection

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

Nighttime receptionists in the dorms can safely monitor residents coming and going without having to leave their desks.

K-State's Validine system has been in place for two years and has been rated an improvement by its users.

"It's safer," said Jennifer Jordan, senior in elementary education and Ford Hall staff member. "Only the IDs accessed to the box can come in."

"The receptionists watch to make sure that everyone who comes in has used their ID to enter," she said. "People get upset when they can't show their driver's license to enter, but if they can take their license to the bars, then they can take their ID to get back in the dorm."

Validine, an electronic door-access system, requires students to run their student ID card through the system located outside to unlock the door to enter. Visitors may call using the telephone provided at the main building entrances.

"It's not totally a security system when misused," West Hall director Todd Rasmussen said. "It will work if residents don't let others abuse the system. People must take responsibility."

A series of magnetic switches attached to exterior doors provide additional security by allowing receptionists to monitor whether a door is open or properly closed.

Before the Validine system was installed in 1990, the receptionists had to go to the door to get the ID and check it against the hall roster before they could allow the resident to enter.

"Receptionists aren't as distracted now by consistently having to get up to open the door," Jordan said.

University of Kansas's dorm security system is similar to what K-State used to do.

"All the doors are locked at night, and only the main door is used," said Fred

■ See VALIDINE Page 9

POLITICS

Baker's oil interests questioned

Chief of staff may have lobbied for spill liability

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — White House Chief of Staff James Baker, who has large oil investments, played a role in the administration's effort to lobby Congress on oil spill liability in 1990, documents show.

The Project on Government

Oversight, a liberal research group, said Tuesday the documents raise ethical questions about actions by Baker, who was secretary of state in 1990.

Janet Mullins, a former State Department official and current assistant to Bush for political affairs, dismissed the group's statements as "totally bogus."

"Baker had absolutely nothing to do with this issue," said Mullins, who worked on the oil spill liability issue. She co-authored a memo on the subject to Lawrence Eagleburger, the acting secretary of state who was then Baker's deputy.

A memo from then-Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner to Baker indicated the two discussed preparing a joint letter urging Congress to approve international accords limiting oil companies' liability for spills.

The letter to Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell was signed by Skinner and Eagleburger, but not by Baker.

Death toll rises after Egyptian earthquake

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAIRO, Egypt — Egypt's earthquake death toll climbed past 400 Tuesday, and officials broadcast appeals for calm among Egyptians terrified of another tremor.

Authorities blamed the high death toll partly on panic stampedes but mainly on the many weak, old or poorly constructed buildings in the Cairo area.

A security official told Cairo Television the search for survivors at almost all the scores of collapsed buildings was called off Tuesday. The only place still being searched is a 14-story apartment complex in the affluent suburb Heliopolis.

Dozens of people were believed to be buried in the rubble, and relief workers were using their bare hands to sift through dust and stones and drills to cut through steel construction rods. Many workers said they had little hope of finding anyone alive.

Police Maj. Gen. Nadir Noman, director of civil defense, said 11 bodies were pulled from the debris by early afternoon. As many as 15 people were found alive in the debris shortly after the quake.

Witnesses reported two people died Tuesday as three quake-weakened structures collapsed in the poor Sayeda Zeinab neighborhood.

Life was generally back to normal elsewhere, except for the rumors that another big one would strike the city of 14 million.

Hundreds of aftershocks didn't help. Almost all were too feeble to be felt but not to be imagined.

"Now I know what hell is like," said Nadia Ezzeddin, a housewife in Cairo's residential Zamalek Island.

NOTICE

BULLETIN FOR BICYCLISTS

Complaints have been received concerning bicycles on pedestrian walkways and sidewalks. Also, many bicycles have been attached or locked to railings on or adjacent to ramps designed for physically limited individuals. Bicyclists should be aware of several rules, laws, and regulations that prohibit such activities.

OPERATIONS

Kansas Vehicle Law Book (KSA 8-1587 to 8-1592) and KSA 74-3209 to 74-3216 require that bicycles be operated as if they were motor vehicles. Bicyclists are required to yield the right of way to pedestrians in marked crosswalks, obey all traffic control signs and devices, and keep as far to the right on the roadway as possible. Bicyclists must ride on roadways, bike paths, or bike lanes.

PARKING

Unattended bicycles must be placed in bicycle racks. When racks are full the bicycle must be parked in the immediate vicinity or racks. Under no circumstances shall bicycles be parked in shrubbery, in buildings, on sidewalks, near building exits or entrances (blocking exits or entrances), in motor vehicle stalls, or attached to railings attached to physically limited access routes.

IMPOUNDING

Bicycles not properly parked will be impounded and may be reclaimed at the Department of Public Safety (University Police) upon demonstration of ownership and payment of established fees.

ENFORCEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

The Department of Public Safety is responsible for the enforcement and administration of the Parking and Traffic Regulations, the Kansas Motor Vehicle Code, and the bicycle control provisions thereof.

Paid For By Parking Services, KSU Council on Parking, & Traffic and Police Operations

OPINION

OCTOBER 14, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief
Jared Savage Opinion Page Editor
Erin Perry Amy Cox Shawn Bruce Frank Kleemann Brian Anderson
Richard Andrade Jodell Lamer David Mayes Derek Thoman Heather Anderson
John Hart Tom Lister Mark Engler Lajean Rau Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Bush's record deserves a look

THE ISSUE

The positive points of each presidential candidate will be looked at today through Friday.

WE SUGGEST

Read each one to make an informed voting decision on Nov. 3.

President Bush, despite sharp attacks from the left, does have positive points deserving of attention.

Economically, Bush negotiated a free trade agreement with Mexico and Canada that created 1.8 million jobs. He kept inflation low, cut interest rates and vetoed the Democrat's $100 billion tax increase earlier this year.

Bush has also proposed a progressive education plan called "America 2000." Part of the comprehensive plan includes giving parents, not government, educational choices for their children. He has requested more than $2 billion federal dollars to be spent on math and science education. This will provide America's children with the skills they'll need to compete in a global economy.

In 1990, Bush signed the Americans with Disabilities Act that opened new doors for 43 million Americans with physical impairments. His agenda strengthens America by empowering individuals, not a bureaucratic government.

In foreign policy, the Bush administration helped expedite the fall of communism in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. As part of the START treaty, Bush negotiated the elimination of all land-based, multiple-warhead missiles by 2003, effectively ending the nuclear nightmare.

It is here that his strong foreign policy stands on its own. In conjunction with his work to protect small business by keeping them safe from socialized health care, Bush is deserving of serious attention for his accomplishments.

Come November, be informed. Know the candidates and where they stand.

Look for Clinton's positive points in tomorrow's Collegian. Friday will feature Ross Perot.

EDITORIAL CARTOONS

Government has failed us all

Our government is not receptive to the needs of the governed.

The time is here to demand an overall change in leadership

While watching the presidential debate Sunday, it seemed apparent that none of the candidates were truly capable of changing this country.

They all talked about economic plans, demilitarization and a slight hint of social reform. In the end, though, the hearts and minds of the American people will remain the same.

None of the candidates are truly willing, or capable, of demanding a n d promoting the changes this country so desperately needs. We don't need a reform. We need a revolution.

I don't believe in our government, either in form or content. We live under a system based on competition and division, when what we really need is system of cooperation and understanding.

Our government is not receptive to the needs of the governed. Times change, societies change, and yes, so too should governments. Thomas Jefferson recognized the need for a living constitution. A constitution that would adapt to a society as it changed. What we have is a virtually impenetrable system of bureaucracy and money-driven special interest.

Is it capitalism when the wealthiest 1 percent of Americans are worth more than the bottom 90 percent? How can it be democracy if accessibility to vote is still difficult?

In the classroom, we are taught the principles of democracy as we are told to sit down and shut up. While outside the classroom, we live under the dictates of a republic. The disparity between theory and practice have eliminated the voices of ethnic and sexual minorities and the poor, to name but a few.

Arguments are made that if enough people vote, changes can be made. In theory, representatives can always be voted out of office if they are not representing their constituents. In reality, incumbents are re-elected more than 90 percent of the time.

Representatives aren't even held accountable to the laws that they are supposed to uphold (savings and loan scandal, Iran-Contra affair), yet reputations remain relatively unblemished.

During this political season, there has been an unprecedented catering to younger voters in an attempt to get more to register and vote.

This movement is just another attempt to stabilize a system of government that institutionally oppresses and fails to represent a large proportion of people.

For years, politicians haven't heard our voices and have ignored our pleas. Now, as the world collapses in front of our eyes, they want us to be involved. Maybe if the youth or disgruntled are persuaded into the system, they will no longer be as dangerous a threat to change it.

The problem is that the system is in and of itself inherently corrupt. By dropping out of the system, we are no longer sending the message that we accept the actions of representatives. The only change of any value is to abolish it completely and start over.

Voting is but one method of political action; it is not, however, the only way of affecting a change. I choose not to vote because my vote only validates a system of government which I don't believe in.

Some people say, "If you don't like it, get the hell out." Others say, "How can you complain about the government if you don't vote?"

First of all, the United States is only one country in a world of chaos. We live in a global village. No longer are we isolated by geographic and ideological boundaries. Not a single utopia exists on the face of the Earth. We need change for all people, in all places, and here is as good a place as any to start.

Our country allows individuals to speak out against the government. The problem is that the government is not capable or willing to listen to the voices of the oppressed and discouraged.

We can't teach a government to listen if they don't possess the faculties to hear. We can and must develop a new method of communication with which voices of all people can not only be heard, but listened to.

KELLY KLAWONN

READERS WRITE

RACIAL/ETHNIC WEEK

Paper does good job reporting on events

Editor,

I'd like to commend the Collegian for its consistent and thorough coverage of this year's Racial/Ethnic Harmony Week.

Many of the week's events were heavily attended. Most were found to be stimulating and provocative, and all contributed to our general knowledge of trying to understand and appreciate one another.

I would further urge those who received them to continue wearing the Rainbow Ribbons as a way of acknowledging your philosophical agreement to the purpose of the week. They are also useful in helping to ward off instances of bigotry and of firming our resolve to confront bigotry in our lives.

For those frustrated in your attempt to procure a Racial/Ethnic Harmony Week T-shirt, I have a few more left for $10 each. Please find me in Nichols 137 or at 532-6875.

And finally, I would call attention to the rest of October being Hispanic Awareness Month and note the exciting calendar of events planned for K-State.

Phil Anderson
Racial/Ethnic Harmony
Week co-chairman

CULTURES

White males sorry about discrimination

Editor,

As repentant white male members of the evil Western culture that has almost slaughtered the Native American culture, we must applaud the Collegian for attempting to soothe over this tense situation by condemning the Chiefs for supporting the "tomahawk chop."

We are sure we can all sleep better at night knowing we have ended such a heinous act of discrimination.

Andrew Tomb IV
Junior/Elementary education
Jason Runyan
Freshman/Computer engineering

BOB DOLE

Senator's courage reflected in service

Editor,

A man's character shows in the way he behaves when life is at its worst. Bob Dole was a patient of mine years ago with war injuries so severe that he could have been devastated.

His determination to get better, with hard work to regain his strength, made it a pleasure to work with him as a physical therapist at Percy Jones General Hospital in Battle Creek, Michigan.

He not only worked hard on his own problems, but he also was concerned about the other patients and helped them whenever he could. If I commented that "Lt. X" was not getting enough exercise, I could expect to see Bob Dole walking him around the area later.

He stayed alert and informed, sharing local and world events with us all. If he didn't know an answer to a question today, he would have it tomorrow, making intelligent use of his time during his three years of recovery.

Although he would never regain the total use of his right arm, he was uncomplaining and learned to compensate.

His thoughtfulness of others has shown in a lifetime of service to the needy and disabled. Years of hard work in the U.S. Senate have given them practical help and encouragement.

And he still asks about the nurses and therapists who cared for him. He has never forgotten those who were there for him long ago.

My husband and I are proud to have been supporters of Bob Dole during his Senate career and will continue to do so. If there were more like him in Washington, there would be no talk of term limitations. Bob Dole's excellence has benefited Kansas and the nation.

Alberta Seavey Anthony
Manhattan resident

REORGANIZATION

University would do well to keep program

Editor,

It would certainly benefit society greatly if Dean Peter Nicholls, President Jon Wefald and K-State would put the emphasis on saving the speech pathology program at K-State rather than simply phasing it out. I've always felt K-State was a high-quality institution; now I'm having my doubts.

Since there's been a nationwide shortage of speech pathologists for a number of years, many students have finally decided to make that a career. After completing a master's program, those students will be able to greatly benefit society by providing a much-needed service to many people.

All of these students will be able to find jobs — not true for many students majoring in other areas. Since K-State is making the decision to allow the students to finish only the B.A. degree, it will be very hard to finish training to become a speech pathologist. Without a master's degree, the degree issued by K-State is worthless.

There are three other places in Kansas to obtain a master's degree. But those schools are packed and don't have room for their own undergraduate students. So where would they put 90 students from K-State who need to enter graduate programs?

Many students, accident and stroke victims, etc., are not and will not be helped because of lack of speech pathologists.

Many people in the Manhattan area have benefited from the K-State Speech Clinic for many years. It's a shame this service will no longer be available to a community that's always been so supportive of K-State.

I've spoken to other faculty members, and it seems that the majority of the staff wants to save the speech pathology program. It's too bad that there aren't more people like Ann Smit who care about people and saving a very valuable program.

Maybe this program should be moved to Special Education. Maybe something could be worked out with larger hospitals to become affiliated with their speech facilities. There must be a better solution than merely eliminating the program.

I would hope that K-State alumni could continue to be proud of K-State and regard it as a high-standard institution that solves problems and doesn't just drop them. Hopefully, we can continue to be proud to be associated with K-State — not become disappointed and confused.

Nancy Oliver
Atchison resident

Student runs for Senate

MICHELLE SMITH

MEGAN MULLIKIN
Collegian

"I've tried to get into classes when they were closed, and I've seen the consequence of substandard equipment

After working on another campaign

Michelle Smith

"A lot is happening that we have a lot of old ideas about. I can add new ideas," she said.

Professor talks about Nebraska sand hills

JANET SATTERLEE
Collegeian

Loope said the dunes are well-

■ See GEOLOGIST Page 9

419 Poyntz Ave.
Downtown, Manhattan

DUMPE QUAYL	JUST SAY NOE	"A MIND IS A TERRIBLE THING WASTE." —UNITED NEGRO COLLEGE FUND "WHAT A WASTE IS TO LOSE ONE MIND."
------------------------	-----------------------------	--

DAYS INN

Manhattan
1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
(913) 539-5391

STUDENT SPECIAL
Peace & quiet to study or just get away
Mon. - Thurs. only $20 for a single or double

On Space Availability • Student ID Required

GREAT MEMORIES
START
HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION
ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS:

Get your group signed up for a Departmental photograph. Portraits will be taken through Oct. 29.

Call 532-6557 to schedule a time.

K aw
R iver
M acintosh
U sers
G roup

October Meeting

FILE TRANSLATION

Presentation by Chuck Tanehill

Saturday, Oct. 17th
Bluemont 016 10:00am

BOWL BOUND CATS DREAM PACKAGE

Coca-Cola Bowl
Tokyo, Japan, Dec. 3-8
Game Dec. 6, 1:00 pm
$1,695. double occupancy

Package Includes...

-
- * RT Airfare from KCI to Tokyo
 - * Personal Travel Escort from KCI
 - * Transfers to and from Airport to Hotel
 - * Lodging at the Hotel Imperial in Tokyo
 - * Transfers to and from Hotel to Game
 - * Gold Seat Game Ticket (VIP) to see K-State vs. Nebraska
 - * Lunch At Game
 - * American Breakfast each morning in Tokyo
 - * Certified Souvenir from Coca-Cola Bowl
 - * All Hotel & Airfare taxes
 - * Free Passport Photos
 - * Optional Sight Seeing Tours available

Hurry Make Reservations Now!

957 Seth Child • Village Plaza Shopping Center
539-0531
or 1-800-748-7820

Classic
Travel & Tours

1212 Moro • Aggieville
537-7546
or 1-800-842-1570

ROYAL PURPLE 1993

Sigma Sigma Sigma-Oct. 7-8
Tau Kappa Epsilon-Oct. 8
Theta Xi-Oct. 8
Triangle-Oct. 9
Zeta Phi Beta-Oct. 9
Boyd-Oct. 9
Clovia-Oct. 12
Edwards-Oct. 12
Ford-Oct. 12
Goodnow-Oct. 13

Haymaker-Oct. 13
 Marlatt-Oct. 13
 Moore-Oct. 14
 Putnam-Oct. 14
 Smith-Oct. 15
 Smurthwaite-Oct. 15
 Van Zile-Oct. 15
 West-Oct. 15
 Off Campus-Oct. 16-30

PICTURE YOURSELF IN THE 1993
ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK.

Photos will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. in the K-State Union Room 209.
Call 532-6106 for an appointment.

If you are a greek member, but live in a residence hall or off campus, please have your photo taken with your fraternity or sorority.

SPORTS

OCTOBER 14, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

FOOTBALL

Offensive line needs answers

STEVE ROCK
Collegian

Even though the Wildcat offensive line was dominated in Saturday's 31-7 loss to the Jayhawks, Coach Bill Snyder said he thinks the line has gotten over the letdown in Lawrence.

K-State gave up nine sacks and had just 69 total yards.

"It was very obvious that we were not effective on the line of scrimmage," Snyder said. "KU played a more physical ball game. They played much more aggressively."

"But I think it's over now," he said.

"On that given day, it was a physical mismatch. They got off the ball well against us, and we did not get off the ball well against them. Our execution was poor."

"We certainly got banged up pretty good," he said.

Indeed, 20 of K-State's 54 offensive plays went for negative yardage. The Wildcats lost yards on each of their first seven plays.

The Wildcats finished with just eight first downs, none in the first half. The running game was stuffed for minus 56 total yards.

So what happened?
The Cats certainly can't blame inexperience.

K-State's offensive line lost just three players from last year's team, a squad that boosted the Cats to a school-record 4,231 yards of total offense. Twelve of the 15 players from last year's three-deep chart returned for the 1992 season.

The line is anchored by center Quentin Neujahr, a second-team all-Big Eight selection a year ago. He has started all 26 games since his freshman season.

Senior offensive tackle Mike Orr has been at least a part-time starter since his freshman year, as has senior guard Toby Lawrence.

Another junior guard, Eric Wolford, is a two-year starter, and sophomore tackle Barrett Brooks emerged as a starter toward the end of last year's Big Eight season.

Thus, the question remains.

"For whatever reason, it just wasn't their day," Snyder said. "We played against a football team that played far better than we did on that given day."

Jason Smargiasso, who took some punishment from KU's dominance at the line in the form of nine sacks and minus 77 yards rushing, said he is not concerned with the play of the Wildcat linemen.

"I'm not worried at all," he said. "Our line did real well the first three games."

"I think they got a taste of what it's going to be like from here on out, and I think they'll definitely be ready for it."

And if for no other reason, Snyder said the line will turn it up to get over Saturday's loss.

"Their pride is hurt," he said. "They're embarrassed. They're angry. And I think they'll respond very well."

"All of our kids will bounce back."

Golfers swing to 4th

Hahn finishes 7th at WSU

KRISTEEN YOUNG
Collegian

The women's golf team finished fourth at the Shocker Fall Classic Monday and Tuesday in Wichita in its final fall season tournament.

The fall season has been a building block for the team, and the players continued that building at their final tournament of the season.

Assistant coach Len Johnsen traveled to Wichita and said the competition was another step towards preparing for spring competition.

"Some of the girls are learning to play the game better," he said.

"They are beginning to understand how to think their way through rounds, and it's a good building block for the spring."

Texas Tech won the 10-team tournament at 40 strokes better than second-place Kansas. The Wildcats trailed the Hawks in this tournament with 13 strokes, but they move to the spring season with the experience of beating the Kansas team previously.

The Wildcats also placed below the Shockers, whom they hadn't competed against before the tournament.

In the individual placings, the highest for K-State was senior Valerie Hahn in seventh place.

"I feel like I did pretty well, considering the fact that I don't like this course," Hahn said. "I think I could have won this tournament if I would have had my putting down."

Others placing for the Wildcats were Jacque Wright, returning to the clubhouse in the 15th position, Denise Pottle in 20th, Dallas Cox in 23rd and Debbie Chrystal in 35th.

Despite coming in 20th, Pottle said she finished the tournament with a lesson.

"Even though my scores didn't show an improvement today, I know I learned something that I can definitely use in my game," Pottle said.

"The game is so much easier when you have a specific plan, and I need to get to where it's just a reflex instead of forcing myself to think about the game."

Johnsen and Coach Mark Elliott said their plan was to get the team experience throughout the fall to prepare them for the spring season.

"They are getting lots better with each tournament. It just takes time, and they will be geared up in the spring. The fall is a learning experience," Elliott said.

"I think I could have won this tournament if I would have had my putting down."

VALERIE HAHN

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

ABOVE: Senior Valerie Hahn lines up a putt during Monday's round of the Shocker Fall Classic in Wichita. Hahn was K-State's best finisher in the tournament, ending up in seventh place.

LEFT: Jacque Wright hangs her head after seeing her lie on the 18th green at the end of Monday's competition.

SPORTS DIGEST

►SPIKERS TAKE ON IOWA STATE

The slumping K-State volleyball team will try to break a five-game losing skid tonight at 7:30 against Iowa State in Ahearn Field House.

The Wildcats are now 0-4 in the Big Eight, and a non-conference loss to Northeast Illinois Sunday dropped K-State to 5-11 on the season.

The Cyclones come to Manhattan with a 1-2 record in the Big Eight, 11-4 overall. Iowa State lost a close five-set match to Colorado last Friday.

The Cats played Iowa State in Ames Oct. 3, losing 17-15, 15-7 and 15-11.

►COACHES CLINIC THIS WEEKEND

Students who would like to coach basketball are encouraged to enroll in the K-State Coaches Clinic, which will be Saturday and Sunday at Bramlage Coliseum.

Former K-State coach Jack Hartman, University of Alabama at Birmingham coach Gene Bartow, Les Robinson of North Carolina State, Seth Greenburg of Long Beach State and K-State coach Dana Altman will speak.

Students who would like to attend the clinic need to register at the basketball office, Ahearn 101, or call the office at 532-6531.

For more information, call K-State assistant coach Pete Herrman at 532-6531 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. today, Thursday or Friday.

The fee is $10. L.A. Gear will give everyone who attends a T-shirt and a clipboard. Pizza will be provided for Saturday's dinner, and breakfast will be provided Sunday.

COLUMN

Of hunting dogs and moose turds

"The railroader chews 30 times and struggles to swallow. 'Why — that's Moose Turd Pie!'"

A tip for bird shooters: milo fields. Various bird counts have noted heavy losses in upland game birds this summer. There seem to be fewer losses where quail had access to the high-in-energy milo.

The energy count in marihuana is low, so this ancient standby may not present the bird shooter with the opportunities of past years.

On the question of why we hunt with dogs, I have this to say.

Every little while you hear people talking about a man nobody seems to have much use for on account of him not paying his debts or cheating at cards. Everybody gives him a bum rap until finally one of the party speaks up and says there must be some good in him because he likes dogs.

This is what causes men of low character to stop and pat, or try to pat, a dog on the head or give it a scratch behind its ears.

And men of even lower character own dogs. And below that, to breed, raise, and hunt with dogs.

I do not know what men of good breeding do. Whistle operas to their parakeets, perhaps, or else cavort with snails.

There's a joke that may or may not pertain to hunting, fishing and gathering.

A boy joins the railroad crew. At dinner, he declares, "This is the worst food I ever ate!"

Well, the cook shouts with glee. The boy is elected replacement cook in addition to his duty of carrying anvils from place to place.

He hates cooking and vows every morning to make each meal more horrible than the last, until some sad sack can't bear it one meal longer and complains.

A daily menu may read like this. "Breakfast: scrambled eggshell, lemon wedge. Lunch: ham and bug sandwich, condensed milk. Dinner: roast songbird, fingernail clippings, rainwater gathered in ashtrays."

It doesn't work. The cook goes bald, nearly blind, as the railroaders eat steadily, hunched over their plates like bison. "Where did you get these delicious dung beetles?"

ED SKOOG

One night, in the Yukon moonshadow of the work train, the cook is wondering how to make someone complain. Then he spies a moose turd the approximate size and shape of a piepan, steaming in the fresh snow.

No rocket scientists need apply to gussy what the cook does.

At dessert the next night, the biggest and meanest railroader sinks his spoon into some pie. The cook watches with mounting joy as the railroader's face turns a solid green.

The railroader chews 30 times and struggles to swallow. "Why — that's Moose Turd Pie!"

The cook's heart fills with joy. Then the railroader says, "But it's good!"

Other news: The Kansas Department of Wildlife and Parks is involved in a thorough investigation of game breeders' records to protect the state's native wildlife from tuberculosis, brucellosis and meningeal worms.

Meningeal worms are particularly nasty. They affect the brains of taule deer, white-tailed deer and elk.

Aren't you glad to read about meningeal worms in print? Thank my computer for breaking down while I was writing something more amusing.

But still, watch out for those meningeal worms.

BASEBALL

Pirates force 7th with 13-4 victory

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — Tim Wakefield and the Pittsburgh Pirates didn't knuckle under to the Atlanta Braves and the win-or-go home pressure.

The rookie baffled the Braves again with his dipping, dancing knuckleball Tuesday night in a 13-4 victory that forced another seventh game in the National League playoffs.

The Pirates tied the record for most runs in a playoff game. Barry Bonds homered to start the second inning, and by the time the Pirates stopped eight runs later, the series was tied at three games apiece.

Pittsburgh, which seemed destined for a third straight playoff failure, will try for another record in Game 7, the first NL team to rally from a 3-1 deficit and win the playoffs.

They'll also try to do what the Braves did to them last year, rallying from 3-2 down by winning the final two games on the road.

"We were in an oxygen tent for a couple of days," manager Jim Leyland said. "We HAD to win that game."

Tonight, John Smoltz, who's already beaten Pittsburgh twice, will oppose Doug Drabek, who's lost his last three starts but hasn't had a four-game losing streak since 1989.

"Maybe we need a Baptist preacher to come in and redeem us," Braves manager Bobby Cox said. "Most people expected it to go seven games; I just wish it was over by now."

Only one team in major-league playoff history has rallied from a 3-1 deficit by winning the final two games on the road — Kansas City in 1985 against Toronto.

"Two of the best pitchers in baseball will decide it now, but I'd have rather lost this way than lose 2-1 on a bloop hit in the 10th," Cox said.

Tuitions keep going up

The increase in the cost of private institutions has been slowing, partly in response to competition for a dwindling number of traditional-age students.

"Congress increased the income level to include more eligibility among Pell grant applicants," Moeder said. "However, they failed to accommodate these applicant levels by not appropriating enough

1129 Westloop

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

ALL THE PLEASURE.
NONE OF THE GUILT.
"TCBY"
The Country's Best Yogurt.

OPEN
SUNDAY
11:00 A.M.-5:00 P.M.
WEEKDAYS
8:00 A.M.-8:00 P.M.

10% OFF
any tires in stock

Coupon good through 10-31-92

3¢ self-serve 8.5X11's from 12AM to 2AM
Sun.—Thurs.
while school is in.

MANHATTAN

Senior citizens to hear plays read

TONYA FOSTER
Collegian

The Manhattan Civic Theatre, in conjunction with Manhattan Parks and Recreation, is sponsoring a class in play reading for senior citizens.

The class will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. every Monday for the next four weeks at Meadowlark Hills Retirement Community, said Linda Uthoff, theater coordinator for the Manhattan Parks and Recreation.

Uthoff, who is in charge of acquiring the plays, said these classes are for the benefit of those who participate and attend, and they don't provide college credit.

"We will meet every Monday for the next month and may continue if there's enough interest,"

Uthoff said.

Beverly Faw and Dwight Nesmith, both longtime members and participants of the Manhattan Civic Theatre, coordinate the class. Faw, Nesmith and others read plays aloud for their listeners' enjoyment.

"We try to strike a balance between the readings and those who like to listen," Faw said.

She said 15 people attended the first meeting and that she hopes there will be more in the future.

"The class was advertised as 60-plus, but everyone's welcome," Faw said.

"We hope that more people will attend outside the housing complex."

Nesmith said, "It is wide open

■ See THEATRE Page 9

KALEIDOSCOPE FILM

Film shuns myth of older people

'Tatie Danielle' takes humorous look at false image

ANDY WOODWARD
Collegian

"You may not have met her yet, but she hates you already."

So say the promotions for the French film "Tatie Danielle," starring Tsila Chelton and Eric Pat.

This film does much to dispel any kind or gentle stereotypes of the elderly. Lead character Madame Danielle Billard is one of the meanest, nastiest, stingiest 82-year-olds you ever could encounter.

Madame Billard tramples rose gardens, sicks her Labrador on defenseless spaniels and assigns her elderly housekeeper to perform impossible household chores.

French humor, in the same vein as the British, moves in a different gear than does American humor. But the adjustment doesn't take long to accomplish in this film.

The humor is often derisive and abusive, as the old crone spits her venom on family, friends and strangers alike. There is no one exempt from her deceptiveness and cruelty.

REVIEW

■ "Tatie Danielle" shows at 7 and 9 tonight and Thursday in K-State Union Forum Hall, and at 7 p.m. Friday in the Union Little Theatre. Admission is $1.75.

The Billard family takes a vacation to Greece for three weeks, and they leave their crabby aunt at home with a hired nanny.

As it turns out, Sandrine, the nanny, is the only person in the entire film able to stand up to Tatie Danielle.

The film becomes extremely interesting when these two match tempers and wits.

"Tatie Danielle" is a well-written look at the condescending treatment of the elderly, as well as their still-sharp, cunning minds.

Watching this film is almost enough to make one forget that the French still idolize Jerry Lewis.

2-4-1 DRINKS
TONIGHT and every Wednesday.
18 to enter; 21 to drink
619 North 12th Street; Aggieville, 537-2100

Tacos 3 for $1.25 reg. 55¢
Chili Burrito $1.88 reg. $2.55
Expires 10-17-92
TACO HUT
Where good friends get together
2809 Clafflin 539-2091

Great Memories Start Here...
Royal Purple
Portraits taken for...
Putnam Oct. 14
Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8a.m. - noon and 1p.m. - 5p.m.
1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

The Interview Suit: Dressing to Express Yourself.
Would you go to a department store for guidance on how to dress for success? Probably not. You'd want real insight on how to make a good First Impression.
At Borck Brothers our sales personnel are trained in the art of fashion. They can help you buy a suit that lets you look good, without making you look like every other job applicant.
Suits are priced from $265. Alterations and advice are free.
*Free tie with suit purchase at reg. price ($30 value)
BORCK Brothers
Fine Menswear
1100 Westloop Place (913) 537-8636
Westloop Shopping Center
9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Sat.; til 8:30 p.m. Thurs.

MONEY DOESN'T GROW ON TREES YOU KNOW!
BUT YOU CAN MAKE EXTRA MONEY BY DONATING!
This coupon is worth $15 for new donors on your first or second donation within six days or if you have not returned within two months. Present this coupon and earn extra cash. For more information call the friendliest staff in town at 776-9177!
MANHATTAN DONOR CENTER
1130 Gardenway • Mon.-Thurs. 9-6, Fri. 9-4:30, Sat. 9-1

Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie
1224 Moro Mon.-Thurs. 10-7, Fri. & Sat. 10-5 Aggieville

HEALTH EDUCATION & PROMOTION LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
• A resource center for written health materials
• A resource center for audio-visual health materials
• Provides presentations to groups on a variety of health topics
• Provides one-on-one evaluation and referral information
FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 532-6595

Dixie Cadillacs
Las Vegas Lounge Show
Featured in KC Star
October 16 & 17
Live Popular Country Bands from four-state region every weekend
Alibi Country Club
1322 Grant Ave.
Junction City
Laser Karaoke All Night Wednesday

Something To Believe In... United Way of Riley County
What is United Way? United Way is people. Everyone is touched by United Way. There are givers of money and time. There are people who serve and are served. There are others whose quality of life is better because of it all. When you give money to United Way, you make it possible for 14 agencies right here in our community to provide essential health and human service programs. When you give time, you help to make those programs work. You help achieve our mission, which is the same for each of the 2,100 United Ways across the country "to increase the organized capacity of people to care for one another".
Local Agency Fact File:
Retired Senior Volunteer Program (R.S.V.P.)
412 Leavenworth St., Manhattan
Phone: 776-7787
Contact Person: Lori Bishop
Provides a variety of meaningful opportunities for persons of 60 years or older to participate more fully in the community through volunteer service.
Local Agency Fact File:
Homecare, Inc.
323 Poyntz, Manhattan
Phone: 537-0688
Contact Person: Mitzi Richards
Homecare provides care in the home, for primarily older adults, including health, support and volunteer services and a hospice program, for our local Riley County area.
"It Works"
United Way of Riley County
Here are facts on just a couple of local agencies supported by your United Way of Riley County...
Sponsored by Circle K. Please make your pledge today. Ask your employer for a pledge card or call the United Way office at 776-3779.

NATION

Navy to open hotline for harassment claims

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Navy said Tuesday it will open a toll-free advice and counseling hotline for alleged victims of sexual harassment.

Acting Navy Secretary Sean O'Keefe also directed that a system be set up to track complaints to "provide a comprehensive, accurate yardstick to gauge the effectiveness of the department's program to eliminate sexual harassment."

The Navy, struggling to recover from the Tailhook sex-abuse scandal, last month relieved several admirals of their duties after the Pentagon's inspector general said they had failed to aggressively investigate the 1991 incident. In that incident, dozens of women complained they had been attacked and fondled by Navy and Marine Corps officers at a Las Vegas aviators convention.

While some commands in the Navy have compiled such information, data has never been kept in a central location or compiled in a standard way, officials said.

The new system will be in place by December, the Navy said, including a hotline to provide "advice and counseling to any member who might be involved in an incident of sexual harassment regarding their rights and responsibilities and options to resolve the situation."

The service also intends, O'Keefe said, to implement 80 recommendations designed to enhance professional opportunities for women in the Navy and the Marine Corps and to deal with the culture, environment and attitudes that contribute to sexual harassment and gender bias.

CHANGING THE NAVY ATTITUDE

These are major recommendations made by the Navy. They are designed to enhance opportunities for women in the Navy and Marine Corps, and to deal with the culture, environment and gender bias.

- ▶ Review the sale of sexually explicit publications in Navy exchanges.
- ▶ Assess whether cutbacks in the Navy and Marine Corps will disproportionately affect women's careers, and develop a plan to ensure they are not so affected.
- ▶ Develop recruiting strategies to attract women into non-traditional careers in the Navy.
- ▶ Review policies affecting pregnancies and single-parent families and modify them if need be, to ensure they are compatible with service needs.
- ▶ Provide information about how alcohol can be a contributing factor in promoting inappropriate behavior.
- ▶ Acting Navy Secretary Sean O'Keefe directed Adm. Frank Kelso, chief of naval operations, and Gen. Carl Mundy, commandant of the Marine Corps, to review the Navy's definition of combat and make recommendations for change as necessary.
- ▶ O'Keefe also ordered a re-evaluation of the career options available to women and a determination of additional roles or assignments possible.

Source: Associated Press

Geologist discusses sand dunes

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

Details about how the dune-dammed lakes formed are unknown, Loope said, but there is evidence lakes were formed after heavy rainfalls returned and filled the desiccated area.

The sand hill situation makes it hard to believe Nebraska was ever that dry, he said.

"We do need to get out of this situation we're in now with all this moist air coming to us during the spring and summer," he said.

Loope said the moist air shifts eastward and is drawn in over the north and west areas, and precipitation comes from the Gulf of Mexico.

Large amounts of precipitation formed excessive amounts of surface water in the past, and the dunes became active.

There was evidence of bison in the area during the formation of the sand hills, and they may have braved the worst climate available, Loope said.

Loope said he believes the sand hills may have been a lush area compared to outside areas, and the sand hills may have been a refuge for the bison.

Food For Your Brain. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Great Memories Start Here... Royal Purple

Portraits taken for...

Moore Oct. 14

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8 a.m. - noon and 1 p.m. - 5 p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

Validine system praised

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

McElhenie, KU associate director of student housing. "Students must show their KU ID at an interruption table at the main door, where it is checked against a log."

McElhenie said guests must leave their picture ID at the table, and the resident must also leave his or her ID so it is known whom the guest is visiting.

"Each dormitory also has two security monitors who patrol hallways, lounges and the front lobby," McElhenie said. "They have two-way radios with immediate access to the police and the front desk."

"We are currently using Validine for dining and plan to install it in the dorms in a couple of years," he said.

Vandalism to the boxes and the occasional ID that won't work are the only problems with K-State's Validine system that have occurred.

Wednesday Night SHAKER BEERS

99¢

Old Milwaukee Coors, Miller Lite Bud on Draft

Be Winkie's K State's Best

776-1022
3043 Anderson

Free Delivery (Min. Order $9)

CHINESE Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888

Dining-in Coupon
10% Off

When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

Theatre members coordinate class

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8

for anyone who enjoys theater."

Next week, Faw and guest readers Pat Weisenburger and Paul Brown will be present Peter Shaffer's "Lettice and Lovage."

The plays that are presented range from previously staged classics, such as Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie," to old radio scripts, such as Marx Brothers material.

"We'll do at least one radio play," Nesmith said. "This is for their enjoyment."

There is a $10 enrollment fee.

Pregnant? Need help?
For confidential help call

Birthright

Free pregnancy test
537-9180
523 S. 17th St.
1-800-848-LOVE (5683)

Grain Science Club

Flour Sales
Every Wednesday

Noon-4 p.m.
Shellenberger 220

We will be selling
(while supplies last).

GREAT MEMORIES START HERE

1993 ROYAL PURPLE

ATTENTION ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

MASH

Minority Assembly of Students In Health

Upcoming Events:

Wednesday, October 14: Guest speaker Dr. Shadrach Smith Professor, KU Medical Center
Union 203, 7 p.m.

Wednesday, October 28: Guest speaker Elias Tolentino Rehabilitation: Memorial Hospital
Union 203, 7 p.m.

Wednesday, November 11: Guest speaker Jeff Meyer Exercise Science
Union 203, 7 p.m.

Wednesday, December 2: MASH BASH Final semester meeting Munchies will be provided
ECM Building, 7 p.m.

ALL HEALTH RELATED MAJORS ARE WELCOME!

THE Palace Cards & Gifts

Don't miss a Date!

50% OFF

ALL SCHOOL YEAR CALENDARS while supplies last

704 N. MANHATTAN • IN AGGIEVILLE • 539-7654
MON.-FRI. 8:30-5:30 • SAT. 8:30-5:30 • SUN. 12:00-5:00

THE BEST LITTLE WHOREHOUSE IN TEXAS

FOR A GREAT TIME CALL 532-6428

Book By: Larry L. King and Peter Masterson

Music & Lyrics by: Carol Hall

Sponsored by: Manhattan Town Center

OCTOBER 15, 16, 17 8 PM

McCAIN AUDITORIUM
TICKETS: McCAIN BOX OFFICE 532-6428

When it just can't get any worse AND YOU THINK NO ONE CARES

Experience the Incredible Receive the Baptism of the Holy Ghost

When Jesus Christ is born in your heart and life, it is an amazing, wonderful, glorious, dynamic experience. It will be your moment of ULTIMATE DELIVERANCE... Experience HIM today! WE CARE

USA and Puerto Rico call toll free 1-800-535-6011

Sponsored by: United Presbyterian Church 780 Vetter (913) 776-8717 And Apostolic Campus Ministries

FOR YOUR GOOD HEALTH

REGULAR CLINIC HOURS

Mon. - Fri.
8 - 11:30 a.m.
1 - 4:30 p.m.

AFTER HOURS SERVICE

Mon. - Fri.
4:30 p.m. - Midnight
Sat. - Sun. & Holidays
8 a.m. - Midnight

FOR APPOINTMENT CALL
532-6544

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"We care about your health"

Hillary Clinton visits KU campus

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

a lot is at stake in the election. She said the change that needs to take place in this country will be brought about if her husband is elected, because he represents relief from "12 years of trickle-down economics."

The big issue in the election, the economy, was raised in reference to Kansas jobs.

"Right now, there are more tax breaks given to businessmen who move their businesses to other countries than to those who stay in Kansas," she said. "They pay for employees to be trained in other countries but won't pay for them to be trained in this state."

Clinton won a roar of approval from the crowd when she mentioned her husband's plans for education. She said the country needs a president who recognizes the need for education to be a priority in the United States again.

She cited some of the main points from Gov. Clinton's education platform, including his plan to fully finance Head Start, the national program for kindergarten- and nursery school-age children.

"We need to take the national education bills off the shelf and start implementing them,"

Hillary Clinton said. "If we say we want this country's children to be No. 1 in science and mathematics by the year 2000, we need to commit to helping them be No. 1."

She said she wants a president who challenges all American children to learn, and that she and Gov. Clinton never could figure out just what President Bush wanted their daughter to learn.

Clinton then reminded the crowd, mostly students, that they are among the lucky. She said many high-school graduates will never get the chance to attend a four-year college.

"Bill Clinton wants to give every high-school graduate the opportunity for two years of additional education," she said. "Whether it's vocational, or through an internship program, let's make it financially feasible to attend a great institution like this one."

She said the government needs to scrap the current student loan program and begin the National Service Trust Fund. This program would allow students who borrow money to pay it back based on a percentage of what they earn after college, or to work two years in their hometowns in a paying civic job.

Clinton said the latter would help strengthen and update rural communities.

She touched on Gov. Clinton's plans for health care, and then she said she wouldn't talk much longer about the issues.

"You don't have to read my husband's lips to understand his position," she said. "Just read his book."

He and running mate Sen. Al Gore have written a book detailing their platform and some of the legislation they are pushing.

Hillary reiterated her husband's position on unifying the country.

"It's time we were brought together to deal with these problems," she said. "We need hope, and as Bill quoted that wonderful verse from the Bible, 'Where there is no hope, the people perish.'"

She concluded her speech with a prediction. "In the three weeks left, we will see the politics of desperation," Clinton said. "As we say in Arkansas, that old dog won't hunt again — it's been hunting so long, it's lost its way."

A small contingent of Bush/Quayle supporters and several anti-homosexual demonstrators attended. They carried signs saying "Hillary loves fags," "Fag U" and "God Hates Fags."

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Debaters turn focus to the top candidates their president tell the truth. Do you really believe Bill Clinton will tell the truth, and do you trust Bill Clinton to be your president?"

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

The lines were drawn from the outset on the main issue of the campaign.

President Bush and Quayle were like deer caught in the headlights when the recession struck, Gore charged.

He said they were blinded to the suffering and pain of bankruptcies and people who are unemployed. He pledged that he and Democratic candidate Clinton stand for change.

Quayle retorted that Clinton and Gore will make matters much much worse.

"He will raise your taxes, he will increase spending, he will make government bigger. Jobs will be lost," Quayle said.

The 90-minute debate also touched on environmental, defense and trade policies.

The political imperative was clear for each of the three running mates. It was to boost the fortunes of the man at the top of the ticket in a race that has exactly three weeks left to run and show Clinton with a double-digit lead in the polls.

Quayle attacked the Gore vigorously, persistently. He accused Gore several times of "pulling another Clinton," which he quickly defined as saying one thing in one place and another thing someplace else.

Several times he said, "Bill Clinton has trouble telling the truth," referring to the Vietnam draft controversy and policy positions on school choice and the North American Free Trade Agreement.

At one point, Gore responded with a litany of Bush flip flops, starting with "Read my lips, no new taxes."

Stockdale erupted at one point after Quayle and Gore argued, saying, "I think America is seeing right now the reason this nation is in gridlock," adding that Perot was the man to fix the system.

The heated debate sparked occasional applause from the audience. A few hisses were heard as well. This prompted moderator Hal Bruno of ABC News to say, "There's no call for that ... so knock that off."

WE TAKE TIPS! 532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

ESSENTIALS

Reader has his way, gets chance to voice 'all' his thoughts

DEAR READERS,

K.B.'s letter originally appeared Oct. 5 in a much abbreviated form for obvious reasons. All the letters submitted to this column have been subjected to some form of editing for misspellings, grammar, vulgar language, length, etc. Apparently, K.B. did not think he received a fair shake. He thought the intent of his letter was changed by editing, and he made a personal appearance in the Collegian newsroom to discuss this injustice with the editor.

Here is K.B.'s letter — just as he wrote it. Obviously, if you talk to the right people, you can have it your way.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

I, for one, think you are doing a superb job as an advice columnist. There's no doubt in my mind that the Collegian would have had great difficulty finding anyone more qualified than you at dispensing your style of advice about male-female relationships.

Indeed, your particular approach to unbiased journalism and intellectual balance is a trait that, hopefully, only you possess. I'm sure Gloria Steinem would be impressed.

Let's look at that nasty old "Horny and Single" controversy as a case in point. How dare he claim that he didn't lure that woman into bed with promises of marriage and unending faithfulness? Such an absurd claim, but you were able to see through the writer's actual words.

You obviously saw that rare skill which enables one to ignore what is printed in black and white and perceive just what that deceitful male actually did. Bravo!

And on the matter of the sex act being an indication of something serious, boy did you hit it right on the head! (So to speak.) This guy should have known it. How could anybody question your moral judgment in this case?

Any guy who's not already aware that engaging in sexual intercourse within hours of meeting the woman is a clear and undeniable signal that she wants to settle down with him just has not been keeping up with your column.

Wake up, guys. Cassandra is just trying to point out that when you meet a woman who wants to make love on the first date, you know you've found a woman of unquestionable loyalty who wants nothing less than a trusting, serious, lasting relationship.

Despite what you've always believed, (and I only loosely paraphrase, Ms. Duveaux) only males have hormones.

And, of course, I greatly admired your justified comment that if Horny and Single wanted sex with no strings attached, he should cuddle up with an inflatable doll. How appropriate!

He can state his lustful intentions beforehand, and she still won't say "no." You may not be there yet, but I can see that you're rapidly approaching the level of integrity maintained by greats like Ann Landers.

Now, while many may not see the relevance of your comment that women have always taken responsibility for their sexual activity "long before men knew how to rub two sticks together (and it was probably a woman who showed them how to do that)," I can understand your motive. You were just trying to show your unbiasedness.

Anyone can see that you're one of those special people who treats everyone the same and would NEVER make inflammatory statements. And then when you added that "only 'real' men need worry about a kick to the groin" (as Horny and Single should expect), only a fool could fail to see that you meant this in a loving, tender, non-sexist way.

You are to be commended for your insight into what men worry about, as well as for your personal revelation on the criteria by which you judge men as "real."

Perhaps the only instance where I might question your well-known fairness and impartiality is in your reply to L.F. (Sept. 23).

This L.F. is a female junior who, like Horny and Single, was not interested in a serious relationship after a spontaneous, yet enjoyable, mating.

I was surprised at your response to her — compared to your remarks to Horny and Single.

I don't mean to criticize, but I think that, on a relative basis, you were much too harsh on the woman.

I'm afraid some may think you hateful and repressive when you lash out at her by saying that she was "not being completely honest with your feelings toward this person right from the beginning." Come on, Cassandra, lighten up!

But seriously, except for your persistent bias against women, your advice couldn't be more balanced or helpful. You're doing a great job. I just don't understand how your qualifications as an advice columnist ever became an issue.

K.B., K-State graduate student

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

- ACROSS
- Crone
 - Height of fashion?
 - D.C. scandal suffix
 - Partook at the casino
 - Apportion
 - Hand-some youth
 - 1992 movie sequel
 - Mag. staffers
 - Deteriorating
 - Corrode
 - Tramp's love
 - Gross
 - Toes the line
 - Hit, old-style
 - One of the Barry-mores
 - Shaw's "Saint"
 - Lawyers' org.
- DOWN
- Berry or Woolly
 - Concorde, e.g.
 - Star of 13
 - Convertible top?
 - Pulled a Van Winkle
 - Can't forgo
 - Mormon home
 - Grads-to-be: abbr.
 - Lapdog, for short
 - Solution time: 20 mins.
 - Puts an end to
 - Once-indivisible bit
 - Lam
 - A hell of a place
 - Chew the scenery
 - Diner's card
 - Overjoyed
 - Moore or Shandling
 - Not evasive head?
 - Copper head?
 - Plumber's tool
 - Drops off
 - 15 Pigs' digs
 - "Ben-Hur" author
 - Wallace
 - "And — the opposite shore..."
 - Go around the world?
 - The guiding light
 - Punch
 - Ends the feud
 - Block
 - Feiffer or Verne
 - Stickup
 - Pays attention
 - Watt's power
 - Erstwhile frosh
 - Stick with a kick
 - Palette selections
 - Choir member

Yesterday's answer 10-14

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

W Z I Y U Z N R V J S T R T J E I N
Y R J N O Z G O T N R A I A E K
G S I Y E I O O A K U Z N O Z E V.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: AT OUR ROOFERS' CONFERENCE, MOST REFRESHMENTS ARE ON THE HOUSE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: J equals U

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word

2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word

3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word

4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word

5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

BULLETIN BOARD*010

Announcements

The Tutoring Center is accepting applications for tutors for the current semester in the subjects of PHYSICS, CHEM, MATH, and engineering courses. Tutors are especially needed in Physics 214, 213, 115 and below. Qualified applicants must have a 3.0 GPA, be enrolled in six or more credit hours, and have superior communication skills. Apply in person at Leisure Hall 201, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday.

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices, call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30 p.m.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

STAINED GLASS Crafts and extra sheets of stained glass at Wholesale Prices thru Oct. 15. Weekdays 4-6 Saturday 12-4 or appointment. Glass Impressions 329 Poyntz 539-4610. Tell your friends! VISA, MC.

020

Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

$100 REWARD. He's still missing. Lost, white cat. Last seen 9/27 Candlewood Drive and Kimble Avenue. 537-0537 days; 539-3644 evenings.

FOUND BOOKS in faculty/McCain parking lot on the curb Fri. Oct. 9. Call to identify 776-5491.

FOUND in Northwest area around Oct. 10, women's 26-inch racing tire speed. Call 539-3272 to claim.

FOUND: JACKET in Denison Hall 113A on Oct. 2, 1992. Call 532-3533 to identify.

LOST: GOLD bracelet on campus Oct. 12, 1992 possibly Willard 114 or Ackert 120. Reward $50. Contact 587-0895.

LOST: GOLD ring with Amethyst and Aquamarine stones possibly in Denison Oct. 6. Sentimental value. Reward. 537-1138.

030

Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

MARK AND BILL. Thank you for your heroic efforts this weekend. We owe you our freedom even though you left us stranded for several hours. J.J. and Paula.

050

Parties-n-More

LONGHORNS$1 LONGNECKS*Ladies Night*100

HOUSING/REAL ESTATE

105

For Rent-Apts. Furnished

CLEAN, SINGLE bedroom basement, close to campus, utilities paid. $250, no contract, need one reliable, considerate, tamed person immediately. 539-1160.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX available, partially furnished. Mont Blue apartment, one block from campus. 539-4447.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH living room and dining room, available immediately, located at 412 N 11th St. Apt. 5, $350, most utilities paid. 539-4374 or 587-0756.

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 1960 Hunting #16. Available immediately. Close to campus. Central air/heat and coin operated laundry facilities. $395, includes water, trash and pest control. Call for appointment 776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM, CLOSE to campus, central air and heat, laundry facilities. $340. No Pets. 776-3804. Available Oct. 1.

SPACIOUS ONE- two-bedroom. Beautiful hardwood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1. $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan.-Aug. 539-2019.

115

Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available in town home for now or next semester. Very nice. Call 539-6684.

120

For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities, lease plus deposit 539-3672.

130

For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6 p.m.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in nice tri-level two-bedroom apartment. $180 and one-fourth bills. Fun roommates! Available Jan. 1 539-9450.

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in two-bedroom apartment. $180 deposit and rent. All bills and cable included. Great roommates! Available Nov. 1, 537-2334.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Large house, own bedroom, washer/dryer, all utilities paid. $212.50/month. Must like dogs. 776-1861, Carol.

LARGE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Holds two girls. $125/month. Low utilities, cable already hooked up. Interested? 587-0422, Lisa.

ONE OR TWO male roommate(s) three blocks from campus, trash/water paid, garage available, laundry facilities, reasonable. 315 Denison 776-2100

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

155

Stable/Pasture

HORSE BOARDING, nice stalls with lot. Close to town. Call Gene 587-0222.

200

SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

210

Resume/Typing

$1.25/DOUBLE, $10/ resume. Laser printer. Also specializing in tables, equations, and overheads. Professional results guaranteed. Please call Sandy 539-3229.

AB C typing service. You do the studying, let me do the typing. Reports, charts, graphs, resumes and more. Overnight results when necessary. Go ahead, give me a call. 537-9480 after 5 p.m. ask for Jackie.

A FIVE minute walk from Aggieville. Resumes, letters, papers typed as low as $1.25 double spaced. Please call Melia 776-1534.

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade. 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English! Speech for papers/editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing Centers

Pregnancy Testing Center 539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

RILEY COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

2030 Tecumseh

776-4779

FREE PREGNANCY TESTSFREE COUNSELING*ALL OPTIONS DISCUSSED

Early Detection is Important

CONFIDENTIAL

(Ad by Friends of Women)

235

Child Care

MOTHER'S HELPER- reliable female college student will help out by babysitting, cooking, cleaning, errand running... Please call 776-3421.

250

Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

250 Automotive Repair

KSU LIBRARIES is seeking a student who is interested installing micro-computer software, setting up new micro-computer hardware, trouble shooting and maintaining that hardware. Must be able to work an average of 20 hours a week year round. Apply at Farrell Library Administrative Office 109A. Deadline for applications, Oct. 30.

NOW HIRING: Delivery drivers, earn $5-7 per hour. Apply at Domino's, 517 N. 12th.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

VISTA DRIVE-IN is now taking applications for full and part-time help. Apply in person at 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

WEEKEND PART-TIME help for grain, livestock farm. Experience necessary. Call before 8 a.m. or after 7 p.m. (913)456-7215.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

$200-$500 weekly. Assemble products at home. Easy! No selling. You're paid direct. Fully guaranteed. Free information—24 hour hotline. 801-379-2900. Copyright ©KS13KDH

$252.50 Sell 50 funny college T-shirts and make $252.50. No financial obligation. A risk-free program. Average sales time equals 4-6 hours. Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

40 PEOPLE to lose weight and make money. 100 percent money back guarantee. 539-1252.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

INTERNATIONAL EMPLOYMENT- Make money teaching English abroad. Japan and Taiwan. Make $2,000-$4,000+ per month. Many provide room and board plus other benefits! Financially and culturally rewarding! For International Employment program and application, call the International Employment Group: (206) 632-1146 extension 5768.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-800-874-7697.

OVERSEAS JOBS. $900-2000 month Summer, year round. All Countries, All fields. Free information. Write JJC, PO Box 52-K

TRUCKLOAD SALE

GOING ON NOW!

New Crop! Florida Red

Grapefruit

4.97
for

We don't advertise every week, but the specials are always here! Just pick-up our in-store flyer when you shop, it's loaded with our volume buys.

Boneless Charcoal or Patio Steaks

Family Pack

1.88

Whole Beef Brisket
In Bag, 7 to 9 lb. Avg.

1.18 lb.

Country Style Pork Ribs
Family Pack

1.58 lb.

Flavor Pak King Size Drum-Sticks

Sold in 5-lb. Bags

.48 lb.

Whiting Fillets

1.79 lb.

Potato Salad Reg. or Mustard
12-oz. Pkg. .98

Our volume buying enables us to pass tremendous savings like this on to you! And you'll always find aisle after aisle of everyday low prices...plus over 600 Green Tag Specials every time you shop!

Biscuit, Pancake or Cornbread Mixes
6-oz. Pkg.

Heinz Keg O' Ketchup
32-oz. Jug

4 for only $1.00

.99

100-Count Box Lipton Tea Bags

Duncan Hines Cake Mixes 18.25 oz.

.69

Long or Thin Spaghetti
24-oz. Pkg.

.88 1.71

Del Monte Vegetables
Cut Green Beans, Peas, Cream Style or Whole Kernel Corn
16 to 17-oz. Cans

3 for .89

Pepsi Products
24-Pack/12-oz. Cans

4.89

IronKids

Bread
24-Ounce Loaf

.69

401 E. Poyntz 222 N. 6th 3011 Anderson in Manhattan

Prices good thru Oct. 20, 1992. Limit Rights Reserved.

OPEN 24 HOURS-everyday!

Fresh Daily Bakery

FOOD 4 LESS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE
WORLD SERIES
MATCHUP
Atlanta and Toronto take top honors in playoffs.
PAGE 6

THURSDAY
HIGH 58 LOW 30
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 15, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 38

HISPANIC AWARENESS MONTH

Culture is focus of dancers

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

Folkloric dances and colorful displays of Hispanic and Latin American culture were featured Wednesday afternoon in the Union Courtyard.

A group of six dancers performed Puerto Rican dances — such as the plena, danza, salsa and merengue — as part of Hispanic Awareness Month.

"Plena originated from the city of Ponce in Puerto Rico," said Arleen Baiges, public relations coordinator for Hispanic American Leadership Organization. "It's like a country dance, and it is performed to songs about everyday life."

"A solemn dance, danza, is more sophisticated," she said. "It was mainly done by the upper class."

The costumes used for danza are fancy, consisting of lots of lace and ribbons, Baiges said.

Two popular dances are the salsa and merengue, she said. Both are fast dances involving lots of body movements.

"These are more contemporary dances," said Elsa Diaz, senior in industrial engineering and HALO president.

See DANCERS Page 12

J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian

Touch-up work

Lane Thomas, owner of Thomas Sign Advertising, Manhattan, finishes up the "N" on his sign Wednesday on Fort Riley Boulevard. Thomas said he was repainting the sign while the weather was still favorable. Thomas has been working with signs in Manhattan for more than 50 years.

Countries aid Egypt's victims

European Community, Arab nations pledge more than $110 million

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAIRO, Egypt — The capital rippled with aftershocks Wednesday, and President Hosni Mubarak was back from a shortened China trip to deal with the damage wrought by a deadly earthquake and provide for its victims.

Countries immediately pledged more than $110 million in aid.

More than 400 people were killed and 10 times that number injured in Monday's quake, which was reported to have destroyed or damaged 536 buildings.

A security official told Cairo Television rescue workers stopped searching for survivors Tuesday everywhere but at a 14-story apartment building in the affluent suburb of Heliopolis. Dozens of people were believed to be buried under rubble there.

The search resumed today just after a dawn aftershock. Ezzeddin M. Ibrahim, a government earthquake expert, said seismographs south of Cairo registered the aftershock at 3.7 on the Richter scale. Ibrahim said another one, shortly before noon, measured 3.6.

"Aftershocks can go on for up to four weeks, gradually decreasing in intensity," he said.

On Tuesday, Mubarak told reporters the cost of repairs could run higher than $121 million and initial compensation payments for victims or families $3 million.

Arab and other countries pledged more than $110 million in aid — $50 million from Saudi Arabia, $40 million from the United Arab Emirates, $20 million from Kuwait and $195,000 from the European Community.

In Washington, the U.S. State Department said the ambassador to Cairo, Robert Pelletreau, offered humanitarian help and was awaiting Egypt's request.

Mubarak, who was forced to cut short an important state visit to China, convened a Cabinet meeting to discuss the disaster. Government officials said 409 bodies have been found and 3,369 people were injured in the quake.

Dr. Mamdouh Gabr of the Egyptian Red Crescent said his agency, the Islamic equivalent of the Red Cross, believes 1,000 people are dead, missing or homeless because of the quake.

'30 DAYS OF THANKSGIVING' FOOD DRIVE

Rallying for a cause

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

Representatives of the K-State football team and Coach Bill Snyder will donate the first can of food to kick off the "30 Days of Thanksgiving" food drive today.

The drive will begin with a pep rally from noon to 1 p.m. today in the free-speech zone on the north side of the K-State Union.

A student group calling itself "Cats for Cans" is sponsoring the drive. The goal is to collect several thousand cans between today and Nov. 15.

The non-perishable items collected will be distributed by the Flint Hills Breadbasket in holiday food baskets.

"We always see an increase in the numbers of people needing food around the holidays," said Shirley Bramhall, executive director of the Breadbasket. "This will really give us an edge."

Mitch Holthus, the "Voice of the Wildcats," will lead the rally, which will also be a send off for the football team. The football team will play Utah State University Saturday in Utah.

Several promotional events have been scheduled to help collect canned food items.

The main event is a food collection at the Nov. 5 football game against Iowa State. The game will be televised on ESPN. Student leaders will collect items at stadium gates starting at 5:30 p.m.

"Because this is our first year, we've hesitated to set a goal of gathering a certain quantity of food," said Jill Dirksen, junior in architectural engineering and co-chair of the Cats for Cans Committee.

A large replica of Anderson Hall composed entirely of canned goods will be built by architectural engineering and construction science students. It will be on display Nov. 11-13 in

See FOOD DRIVE Page 12

Student Senate supports drive

AMY WRIGHT
Collegian

A public service announcement for the "30 Days of Thanksgiving" food drive will be filmed during the open period of tonight's Student Senate meeting.

Student Body President Jackie McClaskey said the focus of the commercial is to promote the Nov. 5 food drive at the K-State football game nationally televised on ESPN. Senate members will be collecting non-perishable food items at all gates leading into the stadium, McClaskey said.

Jill Dirksen, chairwoman of the food drive's planning committee, and DeLoss Jahnke, Senate communications chairman, will be the spokespersons.

See SENATE Page 12

CAMPAIGN '92

Brett for president — again?

Kansas Citians put out the bucks for revived idea

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — An adman unimpressed by the prospect of Ross Perot, Bill Clinton or George Bush as the next president has revived an old idea.

He's come up with a candidate who could steal votes in the Midwest — George Brett.

Bumper stickers — urging "Brett for President," last seen in the summer of 1980 when the Kansas City Royals star flirted with hitting .400, are flourishing again in the wake of Brett's 3,000th career hit.

"The day Perot said he would be a candidate for the second time, I said, 'We've got three candidates. Let's just make it four,'" said Ron Mears, who also masterminded the Brett campaign in 1980.

Kansas Citians snapped up more than $21,000 worth of those stickers, with the money going toward a scholarship and baseball field in Brett's name at Kansas City, Kan., Community College.

Mears, who runs his own advertising agency, printed 10,000 of the stickers, which are being distributed by local businesses.

"We've got three candidates. Let's just make it four."

RON MEARS

AFTER THE QUAKE

Four days after an earthquake struck Egypt, the world is getting a better picture of the damage done.

SIZE OF QUAKE
(Richter scale)

Egypt 5.9
California (Oct. 1989)
(10 times worse) 6.9

CAIRO

More than 400 bodies have been found. More are believed dead and at least 4,000 people were injured.

SAQQARA

Several stones fell from the stepped pyramid. A hole opened near the pyramid that may lead to an undiscovered tomb.

GIZA

First reports said no damage, but at a large stone from one of the Great Pyramids was dislodged. More damage is feared in the weeks to come.

PROMISING RELIEF AID

JAPAN	CHINA	UNITED STATES	SAUDI ARABIA	EUROPEAN COMMUNITY	KUWAIT

▶ Sending search-and-rescue equipment.	▶ Has pledged humanitarian aid and is awaiting Egypt's request.	▶ Has pledged humanitarian aid and is awaiting Egypt's request.	▶ $50 million	▶ $195,000 and French medical team.	▶ $20 million and plane loads of medicines and other supplies.

Source: Associated Press, CNN

GREGORY A. BRANSON/Collegian

NEWS DIGEST

NAVY ENDS COLD WAR WORK

WASHINGTON (AP) — In another response to the end of the Cold War, the Navy on Wednesday ordered work to cease on a $1.5-billion computer program to help hunt Soviet submarines.

The service told Boeing Defense and Space

Group of Seattle, Wash., to halt development on the P-3C Update IV system.

It was a computer hardware and software program that was to be used aboard the P-3C "Orion," the Navy's land-based anti-submarine warfare aircraft.

JAPAN'S KINGPIN RESIGNS

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's most powerful politician, Shin Kanemaru, resigned from parliament in disgrace today after a rare outburst of public anger over his acceptance of illegal, mob-linked donations.

Kanemaru, a 78-year-old faction leader in the long-governing Liberal Democratic Party, had brokered the rise of the last four prime ministers.

He was believed to be the most prominent politician in Japan's postwar history forced to leave his Diet seat.

PEOPLE

K-State grad receives prize

Victor Eusebio awarded Conrail Corporation prize for railroad research

"I was surprised. I thought somebody was pulling my leg."

VICTOR EUSEBIO

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

A K-State graduate has received a distinguished award from the Transportation Research Forum.

Victor Eusebio, who received his doctorate in economics in 1988, received the Conrail Corporation Prize for best railroad research paper. It was titled "Rail Branch Lines at Risk: An Application of the Exponential Survival Model on Kansas Duration Data."

Eusebio is senior research analyst with the Bureau of Rail Affairs for the Kansas Department of Transportation.

John Rosacker, who co-authored a paper with Stephen Rindom and Ali Abderrezak, said Eusebio deserved the award.

"Victor works hard and works well with people," Rosacker said. "I'm satisfied with the recognition he received."

Eusebio's proposal explained why short-line rail services are important to the railroad industry.

"His proposal was very interesting. We were able to work together and come out with a pretty good product," Rosacker said.

Eusebio said winning the award took him by surprise.

"I was surprised. I thought somebody was pulling my leg," he said.

Eusebio said university professors and researchers usually win the award.

"I was the only one from a state agency this year," he said.

Orlo Sorenson, retired professor of agricultural economics, said Eusebio deserved the recognition he received.

"Victor was a very good student," Sorenson said. "He was a self-starter and does quality work."

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14

At 6:45 a.m., a resident of Jardine Terrace Apartments, Building A, reported a peeping Tom.

At 11:45 a.m., Ernest Carter, 2220 Westchester Drive, reported an assault that occurred at Anderson 021. Attack caused bodily injury and property damage.

At 11:45 a.m., Matthew Fabrizio,

Edwards 802, reported a stolen cassette player and tape from his vehicle, parked in Lot W at Edwards Hall. Additional damage was done to the window and dash. Loss was $298.

At 2:45 p.m., David Dorfmeier, 146 Bethany Drive, reported window damage to a vehicle parked in Lot D1-W. Loss was $60.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14

At 2:20 a.m., Mohammed Sabri, 2130 Westchester Drive No. 8, reported noise. Upstairs residents were playing soccer.

At 2:22 a.m., Ronald J. Lackey, 1417 Humboldt St., was issued a notice to appear referring illegal transport of an open container and illegal registration. John P. Ludwikowski, also of 1417 Humboldt St., was issued to appear for possession of an open container in public.

At 7:33 a.m., Vicki Eaton reported a bag hanging from a rope by the Highway K-18/K-177 viaduct.

At 8:08 a.m., Margaret Freshnock, 1820 Denholm Drive, reported a large opossum in her garage.

At 9:30 a.m., Charles F. Smith, 526 Bertrand St., was arrested for driving with a revoked driver's license. He was confined in lieu of $1,000.

At 10:33 a.m., John's Ice Cream & Video, 1123 Westloop, reported separate thefts of one video cassette, two video cassettes and one Sega game. Respective losses were $80, $215 and $55.

At 11:39 a.m., Robert Morias, Dreamland Motel No. 17, reported an attempted burglary at 2630 Tuttle Creek Blvd. Loss was $24 damage to a door lock.

At 12:15 p.m., Mrs. Ludlow, 2417 Purcell Mill, reported pumpkins stolen from her porch.

At 2:52 p.m., Shop Quik, 3108 Anderson Ave., reported a gasoline theft. Loss was $6.

At 3:09 p.m., Donna Moreaux, 1019 Gardenway, reported a stolen diamond tennis bracelet. Loss was $1,500.

At 3:20 p.m., Copy Co., 1227 Moro St., reported suspicious activity.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15

■ AlaNon will meet from 12:05 to 1 p.m. in Lafene 231.
■ Water Ski Team will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213. Yearbook pictures will follow.
■ ICHUS will meet at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.
■ Forestry and Park Resource Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Call 105.
■ Sigma Delta Pi will meet at 7 p.m. in Eisenhower 016. Free Spanish tutoring.
■ Table Tennis Club will meet from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. in the ECM building.

■ BSU Salt Company will meet at 7 p.m. in the campus Baptist center.
■ SAVE will meet at 7 p.m. at UFM.
■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Carol Moore at 10 a.m. in Blumont 364. Topic will be "Faculty Perceptions of Leadership and Culture in the Public Community Colleges in Kansas."

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Patricia L. McKillip at 1 p.m. in Blumont 364. Topic will be "Assessment of Women's Cardiac Risk Factors and the Relationship of Lifestyle Habits for Development of Health Promotion Education."
■ Intramural entry deadline for volleyball and individual sports will be today at 5 p.m. in the Recreational Services office in the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

■ NTSA will meet from 7 to 9:30 a.m. in Union Stateroom 3.
■ Horseman's Association will meet 5:45 p.m. in the horse unit. Call 539-9535 if you need a ride, or meet at 5:30 p.m. in Weber 146.

■ LASO will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Staterooms 1 and 2.
■ Alpha Kappa Psi will have a pledge meeting at 7 p.m. in Union 207.
■ ASIA will meet at 5:45 p.m. in McCain 324 for yearbook pictures.

■ Students Ending Hunger will meet at 1:30 p.m. in Union 204. A date for yearbook pictures will be decided.
■ Women in Communications Inc. will meet at 7 p.m. in Kedzie library. Topic will be "Culturally Diverse Media."

■ Horticulture Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Waters 244. Pictures will follow the meeting.

■ Campus Crusade for Christ will meet at 7 p.m. in Justin 109.
■ Rotaract will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 204.

■ Career Planning and Placement will conduct a resume-building workshop from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. in Union 212.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy with a 30-percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. High in the upper 50s, but turning colder in the afternoon. Tonight, a 20-percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. Cold, with a low around 30.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly sunny, but cold with a high around 50.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Saturday through Monday: Saturday, mostly clear with a high in the 50s, low 25 to 35. Sunday, mostly clear and warmer. High in the 60s, low in the 30s. Monday, a chance of showers. High in the upper 60s to lower 70s. Low in the 40s.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY	Nairobi	79/57	cloudy
Bermuda	84/75	cloudy	Rome	70/52	cloudy
Helsinki	39/28	rain	Stockholm	37/36	cloudy
London	54/43	cloudy	Vancouver	53/47	clear

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

The Macintosh Student Aid Package

Apple Macintosh PowerBook[®] 145 4/40

Apple Macintosh Classic[®] II

Apple Macintosh LC II

Apple Macintosh IIsx

Get over $400 worth of preloaded software when you buy one of the Apple[®] Macintosh[®] computers shown above at our best prices ever. And if you are interested in financing options, be sure to ask for details about the Apple Computer Loan. But hurry, because student aid like this is only available through October 15, 1992 — and only at your authorized Apple campus reseller.

K-State Union Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

MACSOURCE

A Division of The Perceptive Vision, Inc.
701 North 11th • Manhattan, KS 66502 • (913) 537-0188

Authorized Education Sales Consultant

© 1992 Apple Computer, Inc. Apple, the Apple logo, and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. Classic is a registered trademark licensed to Apple Computer, Inc. PowerBook is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. The Random House Encyclopedia is a trademark of Random House, Inc. American Heritage Electronic Dictionary, Electronic Thesaurus, and CorrectText[®] developed by Houghton Mifflin Company, publisher of The American Heritage Dictionary and Roger's II: The New Thesaurus. CorrectText underlying technology developed by Language Systems, Inc. Calendar Creator is a trademark of Power Up Software Corporation. Resumewriter is a trademark of Bookware Software Company, Inc. All product names are the trademarks of their respective holders. Offer good on the Macintosh PowerBook 145 4/40 configuration only. All qualifying computers come preloaded with software and electronic versions of instructions. Disks and printed manuals are not included in this offer.

CAMPUS

Crisis Center provides help for students

"I would never say something like, 'It'll be better tomorrow.' At that point, the person is not envisioning a tomorrow."

MELISSA DIVINE

Counseling assistance service available 24 hours

MEGAN MULLIKIN
Collegian

Depression, stress and anxiety are all emotions that can affect anyone.

Counseling services are available, on and off campus, for students who are plagued with a problem and need to talk to someone.

Students deal with a lot of crises throughout the year, said Fred Newton, director of University Counseling Services in Lafene Health Center.

The counseling center provides a place for students to discuss a full range of problems, from choosing a major to serious depression, he said.

Another service available is the Crisis Center Inc. The center mostly focuses on sexual assault and domestic violence, said Melissa Divine, military outreach liaison for the center.

The Crisis Center does deal with a variety of calls in which callers are referred to the proper sources, she said.

"If somebody calls and says they're considering suicide, that means that this person is really at the end," Divine said. "They feel the only way to reach out is over the phone."

See CENTER Page 16

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Just skidding around

Justin Collis, 7, skids to a stop on his skateboard as Jason Scott, 7, watches early Wednesday evening on Thurston Street. First and Second graders, respectively, at Bluemont Elementary, they were taking advantage of the pleasant outdoor temperatures after school.

COMMUNITY COLLEGES

Board of Education eyes districting plan

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — State Board of Education members left Topeka Wednesday to test the waters on a proposal to regionalize community colleges.

Board Chairman Timothy Emert urged board members Wednesday to talk to local officials about the proposal when they got home.

Emert said the proposal could be taken up by the board at its November meeting after members talk to community college officials and local leaders.

A task force developed a proposal to shift financial support and control of community colleges away from the counties where the colleges are located to groups of counties. The proposal would eliminate out-of-district tuition.

"The charge to me was to come

See BOARD Page 16

WE TAKE TIPS! 532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

TONIGHT U2 TICKETS

2 FREE PAIRS OF U2 TICKETS
(SECOND PAIR RIDES IN A FREE LIMO FOR TWO TO K.C.!)

Come see our famous balloon drop!

1000 prizes given out! Every balloon's a winner!

- 250 FREE T-Shirts
- 50¢ off Imports
- $2.75 Big Beers
- 25¢ Hamburgers from 5-8
- K-Rock live from 9-1

Rusty's
LAST CHANCE SALOON
776-6451

NO COVER!
NEVER HAD IT! NEVER WILL!

1213 MORO

AGGIEVILLE

OPINION

OCTOBER 15, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief
Jared Savage Opinion Page Editor
Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson
Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thoman
Heather Anderson
John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Clinton makes education work

THE ISSUE

The positive points of each presidential candidate are being looked at today and tomorrow.

WE SUGGEST

Read each one to make an informed voting decision on Nov. 3.

Gov. Bill Clinton has the potential to be a true "Education President" and is a real visionary.

He has a proven record on education and programs for underprivileged women and children.

Arkansas schools must provide instruction in basic schools, must limit classroom size and regularly test student's performance.

Parents are permitted to choose the public schools their children attend as long as a racial balance is maintained.

Teachers were given a $4,000 average salary increase in 1991, the highest percentage increase in the nation, but they must pass competency tests in order to remain employed.

Students who drop out of school for no reason have their drivers licenses revoked, and parents who allow their children to be chronically truant from school or who refuse to attend a parent teacher conference are fined.

"The Better Chance Program, which provides $15 million in the next two years for early-childhood programs for at-risk children 3-to-5 years of age, was established under Clinton's administration.

As a result of Clinton's programs, infant mortality in Arkansas has dropped 50 percent since 1978. Low-income women now have access to comprehensive maternity and health care.

In addition to what he has accomplished, Clinton proposes a National Youth Opportunity Corps, which gives dropouts a second chance by helping them develop self-discipline and skills.

He proposes a national apprenticeship program that offers training skills to non college-bound students.

He wants to establish a National Service Trust Fund, which would assure everyone a chance at a higher education. Those students who receive money from the fund pay it back through their professional salaries or through community service.

He also wants to invest in a worker re-training program that would continue education and job training for workers.

Remember these issues in three weeks. And look for Perot in tomorrow's Collegian.

READERS WRITE

BICYCLISTS

Notice discourages bike use on campus

Editor,

A big thanks for nothing to Parking Services, Council on Parking and Traffic and Police Operations for their Oct. 14 notice in the Collegian.

This notice benefits no one, not even the pedestrians, because it does not address the real issue.

Bikers are good people. They've chosen a mode of transportation that doesn't pollute the air we breathe and does not contribute to the parking problems we have on this campus. So why put out a notice that discourages the use of bicycles? This is exactly what your notice will do, since this campus does not provide safe, efficient bike paths.

It's time that these three groups get together with the Student Governing Association and draw up a plan that provides safe, practical, and clearly defined pathways for bikes, pedestrians, and wheelchairs.

Madonna Stallmann
Junior/Horticulture therapy

That we mostly have sense not to blast out on Anderson at speed, stop sign or no?

Or that if you watch the bicycle you'll observe that it's constantly adjusting its trajectory, or damn well ought to be, and really would prefer not to hit you.

Such a hassle, leaving people sprawled on the sidewalk, being cursed and chased by angry pedestrians. We see it every day, I realize, but all the official notices and junior meddlers on campus won't change it. So, maybe we should just learn to live with it.

Bob Kirk
Senior/Horticulture

MORE BICYCLES

Rules hard to obey due to campus layout

Editor,

I'm writing in response to the recent articles and notices in the Collegian, as well as the new signs on campus giving bicyclists a hard time. I'm still trying to understand this sudden line of thought that bicyclists are the enemy and need to be stopped. I understand the pedestrians' concerns about being run over as they walk to class because cyclists ride on the sidewalk. The problem is (as well as many others) that I cannot get to the buildings my classes are in without riding on the sidewalks. The bike paths are very few and far between and often filled with people walking. Where are the "No Pedestrian" signs?

Another complaint is this notice that appeared in Wednesday's Collegian. The notice states that I am only allowed to lock my bike to a designated bike rack or in the immediate vicinity. But during the day every bike rack on campus is filled. If you're not lucky enough to find a spot on them, what do you do? Go home and miss class because there aren't enough bike racks? Also, I'm not supposed to bring my bike into the buildings on campus. I'm not sure about other majors, but mine requires long nights when I cannot walk home by myself. This is the main reason I ride my bike. This is also the reason I often take it into the building with me. Until adequate lighting is put in and the police start patrolling the area, I will continue to do this. I don't feel safe going to these racks at 3 a.m. alone.

So instead of complaining about bicyclists, why doesn't the University do something to create a nicer atmosphere for both bicyclists and pedestrians? After all, bicyclists should be rewarded for the effort they are making to help our environment. Just to make a point, how about every person who rides a bike to school start driving instead. It takes less effort on your part, and besides, everyone knows this campus has plenty of parking for the 500-plus cars that would need it. And the pollution caused by that many vehicles is no big deal. So why not?

Lastly, I would like to thank SAVE for attempting to show the positive aspects of bicycling by sponsoring Ride a Bike Day. The only problem is we are no longer allowed to do that on campus. And besides, where would you lock it?

Leah Huckleby
Senior/Architecture

BICYCLES AGAIN

Pedestrian, cyclist harmony a hard find

Editor,

Bicyclists will stay off sidewalks when pedestrians quit walking on the streets.

I don't mean crossing them. I mean strolling up 17th Street, or any other, with equal disregard for bicycles and onrushing garbage trucks. Or Union Plaza — clearly bike turf, so why don't all you clotted, meandering pedestrians just scatter?

It won't happen, because most of us, including bicyclists in our secret pedestrian guise, know it's not really a problem.

That doesn't mean nothing's going to be done, just that nothing is going to change. But the resume-padders are hot on this, and there is the law ...

True, some bicyclists are threats — butt in the air and nose on the bars like two exotic insects copulating. You ain't racing over the Alps, dipshit; sit up and get a view.

And stop hogging two spots at the bike rack. Maybe the cops are ticketing the wrong people here.

Bike paths? Years ago, Manhattan and K-State blew $20,000 on those. Scattered bits remain, notably on Mid-Campus Drive leading haplessly to 17th Street and Anderson Avenue — one of the most dangerous intersections in town.

Remember that $20,000 (and the next $30K) while riding to Westloop. Repeat confidently: "The law says I am a motor vehicle. I am a motor vehicle."

"The victim is delirious doctor." Now repeat: "The law is an ass, the law ..."

Case in point: Why can't we, legally at least, ride down Mid-Campus Drive to Anderson Avenue?

Of course, people scared by Do Not Enter signs would ride on the sidewalk. But if they let us ride in the street, there'd have to be a stop sign at the wrong end.

Is it possible that we have some small interest in not blindsiding cars at the Union lot?

TOLES

JOHN
HAWKS

Candidates: having good education bad

Education is a big issue in this election year. Each candidate for national office is trying to tell us that he or she can improve the country's educational system. Many of their promises may be empty, but they feel they have to make promises nonetheless. Education, you see, is a big issue in this election year.

It's a given that receiving a good education is important to the electorate. What's surprising is the way the presidential candidates have treated the issue of education.

Of course, they all claim that education is important to them. Bush wants to institute his "G.I. Bill for Kids" and raise American children to first in the world by the year 2000. Bill Clinton has proposed even more comprehensive funding for education, and was on the committee that drafted the America 2000 plan to improve education. Even Perot concedes the importance of education — next, of course, to reducing the deficit.

More daring plans include additional funding for guaranteed student loans, apprenticeship programs, drug education, job training and Clinton's "domestic peace corps." The candidates are full of visionary ideas that, if implemented, promise to revolutionize education for all Americans. Particularly for American children.

So what are kids supposed to get from all this education when they grow up? A bigger piece of the American pie? Respect from their peers and the people in general? A leadership role in America's future?

According to the conduct so far of the presidential candidates, the answer is none of the above. Receiving a good education has made the candidates in this election targets of ridicule by their opponents.

Bill Clinton is the hapless hoplite receiving most of the blows, usually from the Bush campaign's phalanx of followers. A Rhodes scholar from Georgetown University, Clinton is criticized by the Bush brigade for being an "Oxford liberal."

As several students from K-state can tell you, being a Rhodes scholar is a significant intellectual honor for which only the best and brightest are chosen. In this election, Bush's lackeys have twisted Clinton's honor in order to distance him from the American public. Education has become something to distrust, not respect.

Bush has also been subject to the same criticism. After all, he went to Yale — not working his way through, as did Clinton at Georgetown, but using the experience to establish the extensive network of contacts that he would later find useful in a political bid for the White House.

Only Perot, who went to the U.S. Naval Academy, has been immune to the charges of having received too good an education.

It is true that Bush and Clinton in their day took advantage of opportunities not available to the average American, either because they had money, in the case of Bush, or talent as in the case of Clinton. But if they are to make their stands on education credible, they must stand behind the value of receiving a good education, and make that education a sign of respect instead of distrust.

We should hope that in the future, all Americans will have the same educational opportunities, and a good education for all children will push the entire country to success. If that hope is to become reality, the candidates will have to make their promises without crossing their fingers.

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Letters to the Editor- c/o Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

ELECTION

Out with the old and in with the new?

14 states to vote on term limits for representatives

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The dramatic shakeup in Congress this year may be only a taste of things to come, as voters in 14 states decide whether to impose term limits that would make regular turnover a matter of law.

Congress is seeing the greatest turnover since World War II. Retirees, members who quit because they were fed up, and those who failed in primary election bids bring the exit total to at least 72 House members and eight senators.

Voters in 14 states on Nov. 3 will be asked to limit how long their representatives can stay in Congress, potentially affecting the future of 178 seats. Polls and political experts predict most states will say "yes."

It's the biggest single issue on state ballots in one year since initiatives were created around the turn of a century in an effort to throw the bums out and clean up politics.

"It's the root of all of the answers," said Jim Coyne, a former Republican congressman from Pennsylvania who organized Americans to Limit Congressional Terms, one of several national groups set up in recent years. "The citizen legislature is the only hope for a real change."

Term limit advocates cheer this impulse as a revival of the kind of democracy endorsed by Aristotle and Thomas Jefferson.

Proponents charge that lawmakers who stay too long lose their innocence, turn elitist and end up caring most about feathering plush Washington nests.

Opponents warn against leaving Congress to amateurs and tipping power to the president, lobbyists and bureaucrats.

They also say term limits may violate the Constitution by letting states dictate terms for federal officeholders and creating an imbalance of power with states lacking term limits.

WORLD

Russian accused of 52 murders

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ROSTOV-ON-DON, Russia — A former teacher accused of being the world's worst serial killer was convicted Wednesday of 52 counts of murder as he protested his innocence through the bars of a courtroom cage.

Andrei Chikatilo was led in and out of the courtroom by armed police because of his outbursts during the three-hour reading of the verdict against him in this city in southern Russia.

Authorities said the 56-year-old grandfather confessed to raping, killing and cannibalizing boys, girls and young women. Psychiatrists testified that he acted out of rage over feelings of sexual inadequacy. Throughout the 12-year killing spree, Chikatilo was married, raising a family and employed as a Russian language teacher and office worker.

Wednesday he tried to retract the confessions.

"Why me," he shouted from inside the small steel cage in a corner of the courtroom, which was packed with about 200 people including victims' families and journalists.

"I demand the podium. Get me a lawyer."

The trial illustrated the defects in Russia's legal system, which long placed ideology above public safety. The murders began in 1978, during the pre-glasnost era when crime was considered a capitalist phenomenon and was seldom publicized in the former Soviet Union.

As a result, Rostov residents were not warned for more than five years that there was a serial killer among them.

Perm Specials

All Perms include Cut & Style

Gals

Quantum $28

Attractions $30

Warm and Gentle $43

Guys

$25- $30 partial or full

Kids 10 and under $28

Haircuts

Gals- $12.50

Kids 10 and under $6.50

All Haircuts include shampoo & Styling

539-TANE

"30 Days of Thanksgiving"

Thursday, Oct. 15
Noon-1 p.m.
Union Free Speech Zone

JOIN

Coach Bill Snyder, Wildcat Football team members, the Pep Band, and the Cheering Squads as they rally for "Cats for Cans"

(all food goes directly to the Flint Hills Bread Basket)

KSU GOSPEL SERVICE

featuring

SISTER ROSE WALTERS

ALL FAITHS CHAPEL

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

MANHATTAN, KS

Oct. 18, 1992 11 a.m.

SAVE 50%

ON FILM DEVELOPING WHILE YOU SHOP!

One-Hour Service • In The Mall

Each Picture Is The Best It Can Be Or We Reprint It Free...Now!

Offer applies to regular one-hour prices. No limit on number of rolls discounted with this coupon. 4x6 color prints (print length varies with film size). Offer applies to first set of prints only. C41 in lab process. Cannot be combined with other film developing offers. Coupon good through Jan. 16, 1992.

CPI photo finish
one hour photo

One Hour Services

- film developing
- enlargements
- reprints • double prints

Also Available

- wallet photos • film
- instant color
- passport photos
- video transfer
- copies from prints
- albums, frames and accessories

Manhattan Town Center
main entrance by food court

BUSINESS COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Applications can be picked up in the Dean's office through Oct 23 or in the Union on Oct. 15 at an information table.

 Appilcations due 10/26

 Elections 10/29

Great Memories Start Here...

Royal

Purple

Portraits taken for...

West Oct. 15

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8a.m. - noon and 1p.m. - 5p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

COMING EVENTS

Lend Me a Tenor
Friday, October 23, 8 p.m.*
Sneak behind the scenes of a gala opera for an evening of Marx Brothers-style shenanigans. The laughter is nonstop in this outrageous Tony Award-winning farce.
Tickets: $7-$18.

The Waverly Consort
The Year 1492: Spanish Music in the Age of Columbus
Saturday, October 31, 8 p.m.†
Ten brilliant singers and players trace the Christian, Jewish, and Muslim threads that form the fascinating fabric of Spanish culture. An illustrated pre-concert lecture at 6:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre, K-State Union, is free and open to the public.
Tickets: $7.50-$15.

Sergio and Odair Assad
Duo guitarists
Sunday, November 8, 3p.m.*
These Brazilian brothers dazzle audiences with their breathtaking virtuosity and stylistic perfection. Hear for yourself as they explore the classics and sample the wealth of South American music.
Tickets: $6-$12

Fiddler on the Roof
Sunday, November 22, 7:30 p.m.§
Songs like "If I Were a Rich Man," "Matchmaker" and "Sunrise, Sunset" makes this 1991 Tony Award-winning Best Revival Musical "one of the most glowing creations in the history of musical theatre."
(New York Times)
Tickets: $10-$25

Call 532-6428 or come to the McCain box office on the Kansas State University campus, Manhattan.

Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays; from 1 p.m. before weekend matinees; from 3 p.m. before weekend evenings. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley). Persons with disabilities call 532-6428. Transportation for Senior Citizens is available through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

* Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.
† Corporate support by Manhattan Medical Center.
‡ A Mid-America Arts Alliance program.
§ Corporate support by Kansas Farm Bureau and Affiliated Companies.
|| All performances are supported by the K-State Fine Arts Fee.

M·C·C·A·I·N

UPC

'TIL THE COWS COME HOME

"I BORN AGAIN IN AMERICA"

&

SEEDS OF CHANGE

Showing in the Union Gallery from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. these two exhibits are presented by UPC and the Art Department in recognition of Racial and Ethnic Harmony Week. Seeds of Change appears Mon. - Fri.
K-State Union
UPC Arts

CHIEFS vs. PITTSBURGH

Oct. 25
Don't miss your chance to see the Chiefs take on the Pittsburgh Steelers. Trip includes round-trip transportation and reserved tickets.
K-State Union
UPC Travel

SURVIVAL GAMES

Oct. 24
Experience for yourself the thrill of devising team strategy in an effort to capture the opposition's flag using paint pellet guns.
INFO MEETING: Oct. 8 Union Rm. 206 7 p.m.
SIGN UP BEGINS: Oct. 9
K-State Union
UPC Outdoor Recreation

AIDS Awareness Month

The month of October is AIDS Awareness Month. In recognition of this disease local and nationally recognized speakers will lecture in an effort to increase awareness about the effects of AIDS on the K-State campus and surrounding community.
K-State Union
UPC Issues & Ideas

FLINT HILLS BIKING

Oct. 10-11
Bike to Milford Lake, through historic Ft. Riley. Spend the night, and enjoy all the lake has to offer! Meals and a sag wagon to carry your gear will be provided. Sign up in the UPC office.
K-State Union
UPC Outdoor Recreation

INFORMATION and SIGN-UP available at the UPC office, 3rd floor of K-State Union or call 532-6571.

OCTOBER 15, 1992

Toronto, Atlanta going to Series

WORLD SERIES
The Series will begin at 7:29 p.m. Saturday in Atlanta.

Homeruns spark Jays

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — Candy Maldonado is the guy the Toronto Blue Jays hope can do it. Joe Carter is the guy they count on to do it.

On Wednesday, both did it in the Blue Jays' 9-2 victory in the deciding game of the American League playoffs.

Carter, the Jays' No. 3 hitter, cracked a 405-foot home run to left and Maldonado, the quietly efficient left fielder, mashed a 424-footer to center, getting Toronto off to a running start and accounting for five of their first six runs in the win against the Oakland Athletics.

Toronto won the series 4-2.

Add in a three for five performance by Roberto Alomar, the most valuable player of the series, and Juan Guzman had all the support he needed.

The fireballer from the Dominican Republic threw seven innings of five-hit ball, giving up one run and winning his second victory of the series.

Braves pull off thriller

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — The Atlanta Braves, in a wild rally that ended with a play at the plate, beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 Wednesday to reach the World Series for the second straight year.

The Pirates were three outs away from their first World Series since 1979.

Terry Pendleton started the rally with a double to right field.

David Justice hit a routine grounder that Jose Lind booted.

Sid Bream then walked.

Ron Gant made it 2-1 with a drive to left that Barry Bonds caught just in front of the wall.

Then Damon Berryhill walked and the bases were loaded again. Brian Hunter popped out, and Braves manager Bobby Cox, his bench almost exhausted, sent up Francisco Cabrera.

Cabrera lined a shot between third and shortstop to score Justice. Bream, the slowest runner on the Braves, barely beat Bonds' desperation throw to the plate that was well off-line.

Spikers lose 6th in row

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Heather Zoerner, K-State middle blocker, digs the ball in the Wildcats' only winning game against Iowa State Wednesday night. The Cyclones won the match 3-1.

Dugan ties K-State record in loss to ISU

BRIAN ANDERSON

Collegian

The K-State volleyball team lost for the sixth consecutive time Wednesday night when they were beaten by Iowa State in Ahearn Field House.

The Cyclones won 8-15, 15-9, 15-6 and 15-9.

Despite equaling last year's streak of six straight losses, Coach Patti Hagemeyer said she was pleased with the play of her team, 5-12 overall and 0-5 in the Big Eight.

"It was an excellent first game," Hagemeyer said. "There was a lot of emotion and intensity that we displayed. Good things are happening now."

One of the good things was that five of the six freshmen on the team contributed to the match.

"It was an excellent performance by the freshmen," Hagemeyer said. "They're accepting their responsibilities for the performances."

Freshman Jill Dugan's five solo blocks tied a school record for a four-game series.

"She is a real fireball," Hagemeyer said. "She will not accept losing."

Dugan leads the team in blocks with 63.

"I came out of nowhere," Dugan said. "They weren't expecting it. I focused on the player and not the ball."

Freshman Chi Dau had 37 assists for the match. Dau is sixth on the single-season charts at 737.

Amy Kleyweg, a freshman who played in four games prior to the match, helped the Cats with their comeback in the fourth game.

K-State and Iowa State struggled early in the first game. With the score tied at 8, K-State went on a 7-1 run to win the game. The Cyclones helped the Cats by causing five errors during that stretch.

"They played hard, but had too many mistakes," Hagemeyer said. "A team can't just play around when they come here. They have to play hard."

The Cats jumped to a 5-1 lead in the second game, only to have it erased.

K-State took an early lead again in the third game. The Cats went up 3-0 on one of the Cyclones' two errors in the match.

Iowa State exploded for a 15-3 run to take game three. The Cyclones had 18 kills in 28 attempts.

Iowa State continued its aggressive play in the fourth game with a 12-2 start. The Cats roared backed with 6 straight points to bring the score to 12-8.

The Cyclones shut off the Cats' offense and ended the match on a 3-1 run to give Iowa State its second win over K-State this season.

K-STATE FOOTBALL

Cat football schedule to be revamped in '93

SCOTT ABEL

Collegian

K-State's rematch with KU will have to wait an extra month next season.

In response to requests from three member schools, the Big Eight has reshuffled its conference football schedule for 1993 and 1994.

The KU-K-State game, originally scheduled for Oct. 9 next year in KSU Stadium, has been moved to Nov. 6.

The move was made at the annual Big Eight fall meetings in Kansas City.

The schedules for 1993 and 1994 originally had K-State playing Nebraska, Colorado and Oklahoma on three consecutive weekends. That was a schedule that K-State wanted to avoid, Milt Richards, K-State athletic director, said.

"It took a whole year to raise the issue, but it wasn't fair that any one team should have to play those three in a row," Richards said.

The new schedules will give the Wildcats an open weekend between the OU and Nebraska games. K-State now has three conference games before playing Colorado.

Richards said Oklahoma and Missouri also requested the Big Eight schedule be changed.

"Oklahoma was in a situation where they didn't want to play Colorado right after their game with Texas every year," he said.

"Missouri was going to have two games in a row on the road or at home, right at the end of the season. So the conference office was instructed to come up with two new schedules."

K-State is now negotiating for non-conference dates for the next two seasons. The Wildcats have room for one more game in each of the next two years, and head coach Bill Snyder said that K-State wants to keep the schedule balanced with the team's competitive level.

"We would always like to keep our strength of the schedule commensurate with where we are as a team," he said.

"I don't want to play Notre Dame until we're

FOOTBALL SCHEDULES

Here are the tentative K-State football schedules for the 1993 and 1994 seasons.

1993 Season

Sept. 4 New Mexico State
Sept. 11 OPEN
Sept. 18 at Minnesota
Sept. 25 UNLV
Oct. 2 Oklahoma
Oct. 9 OPEN
Oct. 16 at Nebraska
Oct. 23 at Oklahoma St.
Oct. 30 Missouri
Nov. 6 Kansas
Nov. 13 Colorado
Nov. 20 at Iowa St.

1994 Season

Sept. 10 OPEN
Sept. 17 Rice
Sept. 21 Minnesota
Oct. 1 at Oklahoma
Oct. 8 OPEN
Oct. 15 Nebraska
Oct. 22 Oklahoma St.
Oct. 29 at Missouri
Nov. 5 at Kansas
Nov. 12 Colorado
Nov. 19 Iowa St.
Nov. 26 at UNLV

Source: K-State Sports Information

Collegian

capable of playing with Notre Dame. By the same token, I don't want to play somebody that's a complete pushover."

The 1995 season will also bring big changes to Big Eight football scheduling. Football will follow the example of basketball by consulting the television networks before the schedules are made, so the Big Eight can increase its number of nationally televised match-ups.

"If the KU-K-State game last Saturday had been on any other weekend, it would have been on national television, but with the Penn State-Miami game, it wasn't going to happen," Richards said.

"Now we will consult the TV networks first and build the schedule after that. It's been done in the East for a lot of years, but it's new in the Midwest."

"Nowadays, you have to get television exposure."

The 'chop' should not be stopped

MATT WALTERS

"Diversity is essential." That's all the note said. A harmless old note I found in my mailbox. Yet, it meant so much.

Recently, I wrote a column about the tomahawk chop and the nicknames of sports teams. All I wanted was a response — and a response I received.

Do people really read this newspaper? The answer is yes.

First and foremost, I want to get one thing straight. We must always agree to disagree. Without that premise, our opinions are meaningless.

This is the last time I intend to write about the chop this semester, but let me warn you — my stance is firm.

Is the chop offensive? I don't think a definite answer ever will be found. My beliefs haven't wavered a bit, but I've had some time to reflect.

The Kansas City Chiefs reinstated the chop and war song prior to last Sunday's game. A charter member of the American Football Conference and National Football League, the Chiefs issued a full-page advertisement explaining their actions.

According to the local Heart of American Indian Center in Kansas City, the Chiefs "have done nothing to conflict with the National Congress of American Indians' resolution that specifically spoke of negative imagery."

Florida State University received a decree from the Seminole Indians thanking them for "upholding their name and traditions."

My deliberations have led me to believe Native Americans, those who are offended, think "Indians" is a derogatory word. If this is true, then Haskell Indian Community College in Lawrence had better change its mascot, and do it now.

Darren Geimausaddle, senior in anthropology, took one of the more extreme views of the critics. His threatening and overbearing tone amused me. He made the comparison of calling one team the Indians and another the Wetbacks, Kykes or Niggers.

In my opinion, you cannot compare the two. I consider the latter racism, but not the first. And, Darren, thanks for the new nickname — I've always wanted to be called "White Trash." You're way off the mark, but it's humorous to me.

John Hawks' editorial on Oct. 8 was off base, too. Hawks made it sound as though we all have this preconceived view of Native Americans. John, it's the minority who see American Indians as mindless warriors, stealthy and bloodthirsty.

I could go on forever. Wouldn't mind some more space as well.

Sports is a release. It's taken too seriously as it is.

This is why I ask you to consider the real issues. In the grand scheme of things, does this amount to that much?

God loves us for who we are, no matter what the color of our skin. Remember that. Although those who oppose my view don't buy this, the chop and specific team mascots aren't intended to offend.

I ask those who disagree with me to understand that others aren't out to malign or offend Native Americans. Far from it. Our society's negativity, or lack of genuine optimism, repulses me. Never forget that racism is a two-way street.

The energy expended on this issue could be much better spent. Work with each other to solve the larger problems. Then, we'll all get along much better.

RUSSIA

Data recorders returned to Korea

Yeltsin turns over material, wants investigation

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — Russian President Boris Yeltsin today gave a South Korean delegation recordings of radio conversations involving the crew of the Korean Airlines jetliner that was shot down by Soviet fighters in 1983.

The Boeing 747 was downed off Sakhalin Island, killing all 269 people aboard, after it strayed inside Soviet airspace en route from Anchorage, Alaska, to Seoul.

Yeltsin had been expected to hand over the plane's flight or data recorders, but he told the South Korean delegation that they had been disassembled and would remain in Russia.

The material turned over included all radio exchanges between the crew of flight KAL-007 and air traffic controllers and other planes, plus reports to then-Soviet leader Yuri Andropov. The South Koreans also were given the conclusions of experts from the Soviet Defense Ministry, the KGB and Aircraft Ministry and maps of the plane's itinerary.

Soviet officials initially kept silent about the disaster, then charged that the Boeing 747 had invaded Soviet airspace on a secret spy mission.

At a Kremlin ceremony, Yeltsin said that by handing over the materials Russia had demonstrated its desire for a thorough investigation of the incident.

He said he had studied the documents and found them to contain "unique information."

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

HUWAN Chinese Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-In Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

CAMPUS

Textile display more than just clothes

"Anytime you study history, you learn cultural diversity as well."

PAMELA RADCLIFFE

Students learn of other customs after researching cultures for class project

LIANA RIESINGER
Collegian

An authentic display of textiles and clothing from all around the world are on display through the end of November in Justin Hall.

Students from Historic Fabric Design class put together the displays. Various exhibits include items from China, Africa, India, Afghanistan and Pakistan. Brenda Miller, senior in interior design, said she learned more about other cultures through textiles.

"I'm more aware now that Americans aren't the only people, and there are other cultures on campus," Miller said.

Students had to research the customs and cultures of the countries from which the fabrics came.

"The students did more than mount the exhibit," said Pamela Radcliffe, assistant professor of clothing, textiles and interior design and curator of Historic Costumes and Textiles. "They did research on the culture of the country of where the textiles were from."

"We're isolated, and we don't run into people that are different," Miller said.

Miller's exhibit displays two pieces of Nigerian fabric.

"The first is a commemorative piece picturing King of Sokoto, who was assassinated," Miller said.

The other textile is an indigo-dyed wrap African women wear around their waist.

Radcliffe said the displays represent multicultural diversity.

"Anytime you study history, you learn cultural diversity as well," she said.

The items used for the exhibit are from the Costume and Textiles Collection, which consists of more than 10,000 artifacts.

The collection, built solely on donations from alumni, faculty, students and people throughout the world, includes materials from quilts to jewelry.

RUSSIA

Gorbachev must cancel Italy trip

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — The Russian government today withheld Mikhail Gorbachev's diplomatic passport, forcing the former Soviet president to cancel a trip to Italy.

The action supported an order by Russia's Constitutional Court to revoke Gorbachev's right to travel abroad until he testifies in a landmark trial on the legality of the Communist Party.

The court agreed to temporarily lift the ban for humanitarian reasons so that Gorbachev could attend Saturday's state funeral in Germany for former Chancellor Willy Brandt.

A Foreign Ministry spokeswoman, Galina Sidorova, said the suspension of the ban did not include Gorbachev's trip to Italy. She said the government released his diplomatic passport after all commercial flights had left for Italy today.

Although Gorbachev now could legally go to Italy using the passport, his office said that trip was canceled. It said Gorbachev had no comment today on whether he still planned to go to Germany.

A statement issued by the Gorbachev Fund, the research center founded by the former president, called the government's action "an arbitrary administrative decision" based on "unknown and unclear reasons." The statement said Gorbachev hoped to reschedule the trip to Italy soon.

Gorbachev was to have flown to Italy for sightseeing and meetings with Italian business people. He had planned to interrupt the trip Saturday to attend Brandt's funeral and then return to Italy.

The Constitutional Court is trying to force Gorbachev to testify in a trial on the legality of Russian President Boris Yeltsin's decree banning the Communist Party after the failed 1991 coup.

YOUR SOURCE
FOR NEWS KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Great Memories Start Here... Royal Purple

Portraits taken for...

Smurthwaite Oct. 15

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8 a.m. - noon and 1 p.m. - 5 p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

Food For Your Brain. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER CLINICS

APPOINTMENTS - If your problem does not need immediate attention, please make an appointment by calling 532-6554. Request the physician and/or time of your choice.

URGENT CARE CLINIC - If your problem cannot wait for an appointment, walk in today! Sorry, requesting a specific physician is not possible.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
532-6544

Take Care of Yourself!!

Student Travel Experts

- Student airfares.
- International student airfares.
- Railpasses issued here.
- Internat'l Identity cards.
- Worldwide adventure tours.
- Travel gear and guidebooks.
- Expert travel advice.

Council Travel

1634 Orrington Ave
Evanston, IL 60201

1-800-475-5070

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

ROYAL PURPLE

1993

Smith-Oct. 15
Smurthwaite-Oct. 15
Van Zile-Oct. 15
West-Oct. 15
Off Campus-Oct. 16-30

PICTURE YOURSELF IN THE 1993
ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK.

Photos will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. in the K-State Union Room 209.

Call 532-6106 for an appointment.

If you are a greek member, but live in a residence hall or off campus, please have your photo taken with your fraternity or sorority.

IF YOU THOUGHT COLLEGE WAS EXPENSIVE, TRY PUTTING YOURSELF THROUGH RETIREMENT.

Think about supporting yourself for twenty-five, thirty years or longer in retirement. It might be the greatest financial test you'll ever face. Fortunately, you have one valuable asset in your favor: Time.

Time to take advantage of tax-deferral. Time for your money to grow.

But starting early is key. Consider this: if you begin saving just $100 a month at age thirty, you can accumulate $192,539* by the time you reach age sixty-five. Wait ten years and you'd need to set aside $227 a month to reach the same goal.

At TIAA-CREF, we not only understand the value of starting early, we can help make it possible—with flexible retirement and tax-deferred annuity plans, a diverse portfolio of investment choices, and a record of personal service that spans 75 years.

Over a million people in education and research are already enrolled in America's largest retirement system. Find out how easy it is to join them. Call today and learn how simple it is to put yourself through retirement when you have time and TIAA-CREF on your side.

Start planning your future. Call our Enrollment Hotline 1 800 842-2888.

TIAA CREF

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.™

*Assuming an interest rate of 7.5% credited to TIAA Retirement Annuities. This rate is used solely to show the power and effect of compounding. Lower or higher rates would produce very different results. CREF certificates are distributed by TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services.

Royal Purple

In 10 years,
will you remember
the athletic victories,
all-night study sessions
and terrific friendships you
swore would last a lifetime?
The Royal Purple will.

To order your 1992-93 Royal Purple,
come to Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

Total price is $21 - which includes yearbook and sitting fee.

WORLD

Ex-hostages sue Iran for $600 million

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NORRISTOWN, Pa. — Former hostages Joseph Cicippio and David Jacobsen sued Iran for $600 million Wednesday, saying it orchestrated their abductions in an effort to recover millions of dollars frozen in the United States.

Their lawyer, James J. Oliver, said Iran was guilty of "commercial terrorism for profit," and because the money was held in the United States, Iran cannot claim sovereign immunity.

The two former hostages said no amount of money can compensate for their imprisonment. They said they would share any money gained with other former hostages and families of slain hostages.

"These people, including their families and their memories, scream for some form of justice," Jacobsen, speaking by phone from his California home, said at a news conference in Norristown, Cicippio's family's longtime hometown.

"The people who harmed them, and other evil people who are thinking of harming, have to be told that if there is not a criminal or military response, there is going to be a civil response," he said.

Cicippio said, "This is to prevent it from happening again, by hitting them in the pocket."

But another former hostage, Terry Anderson, said Wednesday he won't join Cicippio and Jacobsen in their lawsuit.

Anderson, speaking at a state university in Amherst, N.Y., said he is satisfied that the world deplors his captors' behavior. And he said that even if the lawsuit succeeds, there probably would be no way to collect the money.

Jacobsen, 61, of Huntington Beach, Calif., was director of the American University Hospital in Beirut when he was taken hostage May 28, 1985, and held for 532 days.

Cicippio, 62, was deputy comptroller of American University in Beirut when he was abducted Sept. 12, 1986, and held for 1,908 days. His wife, Elham, a Lebanese national, is also a plaintiff. They live in Princeton, N.J.

The lawsuit says Iran directed the kidnappings in Beirut so it could help negotiate the release of Jacobsen and Cicippio and gain leverage in efforts to free Iranian assets held in the United States. The assets were frozen after the U.S. embassy in Tehran was taken over in 1979 and its American staff held captive.

SCIENCE

American, Frenchman win Nobel prizes

ASSOCIATED PRESS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — A California researcher whose theoretical work spurred advances in chemistry, and a Frenchman whose invention helped explore the innermost parts of matter won Nobel Prizes Wednesday.

Canadian-born Rudolph Marcus, 69, of the California Institute of Technology, found simple mathematical expressions of how reacting molecules and their neighbors affect the energy of a molecular system, said the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences.

The academy said Marcus' theory describes and makes predictions about such phenomena as corrosion and how green plants use light energy. His theoretical work "has greatly stimulated experimental developments in chemistry," said the academy, which awarded the $1.2-million prizes.

Marcus, a naturalized U.S. citizen, was attending a scientific conference in Toronto when he got word he had won the Nobel.

"I guess I stood an inch taller," he said during a break at the convention. "It's great to win the prize, but the ultimate is to solve the problems and see your work used."

Earlier Wednesday, Georges Charpak of France won the prize in physics for an invention that led to breakthroughs in exploring the innermost parts of matter.

Nutcracker Auditions

For a holiday season you'll long remember, perform with the Tulsa Ballet Theatre! Thirty-seven children are needed to portray angels, mice, rabbits, clowns, soldiers, and bakers when TBT presents The Nutcracker in McCain Auditorium on Thursday and Friday December 3 and 4 at 7:30 p.m.

Girls 6-12 years old and boys 7-12 years old who have had at least two years of ballet or gymnastics training and who can be available for all rehearsals and performances are encouraged to apply.

Girls should wear tights, leotards, and ballet shoes—not toe shoes—to the audition. Boys should wear tee shirts with tights or shorts. Please come dressed for the audition.

All children should bring an index card with this information on it: Your name (printed), age, clothing size, leotard size, name of parent(s) or guardian(s), address, and phone number. All children should also bring a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Auditions are Saturday, October 24, in McCain: 1:30 to 3 p.m. for children ages 6-9; 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. for children ages 10-12.

For more information, call the McCain Auditorium office at 532-6425, weekdays 9:00 a.m. to noon of 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

M · C · C · A · I · N

WORLD

Serbs accused of violating U.N. ban

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Bosnian commanders accused Serb forces Wednesday of flying troops to embattled Brcko in violation of a U.N. ban. The rebels denied it and talked of moving their aircraft out of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Heavy fighting raged in northern Bosnia in Brcko and in Gradacac, 25 miles to the west, Sarajevo radio said. The government-held towns lie in the path of a Serb-held corridor connecting western Bosnia to the Serbian republic.

Officials worked to evacuate 5,000 young, elderly and ailing from the Bosnian capital of Sarajevo, besieged for months and without water and electricity as winter approaches.

Humanitarian officials warn thousands will die from hunger, cold and disease unless fighting is halted.

Cyrus Vance, U.N. envoy and co-chairman of the Yugoslav peace conference in Geneva, told the U.N. Security Council in New York Wednesday the dispatch of U.N. peacekeeping reinforcements to Bosnia was moving dangerously slow.

The Council on Sept. 15 authorized 5,300 more peacekeepers to bolster the 1,500 sent there to protect aid convoys and war refugees.

"I find these additional deployments extraordinarily slow," Vance said.

"Every effort should be made to speed them up. This could make the difference between life and death for large numbers of people," said the former U.S. secretary of state.

He also said Bosnian Croats and Bosnian Serbs indicate they are close to a truce agreement — which could isolate the Bosnian Muslims who dominate the teetering government in the former Yugoslav republic. Many Muslims fear the Croats and Serbs will carve up Bosnia between them.

"This could make the difference between life and death for large numbers of people."

CYRUS VANCE

CRIME

Boy murders woman, daughter in home

Teen snacks, watches television before killings

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BROOKLYN PARK, Minn. — A teenager broke into a home, watched television and snacked from the refrigerator before killing a woman and her daughter and stabbing her son when they returned, authorities said Wednesday.

The 16-year-old boy picked an empty house in the Minneapolis suburb, climbed through a window and spent the day napping, eating, and watching television and videos, according to court documents.

He also found a 12-gauge shotgun, sawed it off and ambushed the victims with it, Hennepin County Assistant Attorney Karel Moersfelder said.

Julie Hage, 25, had picked up her children Monday at day care and returned home from her job as a nursing supervisor at St. Mary's Home in St. Paul when she encountered the intruder.

Hage begged for her life, but the boy forced her upstairs and shot her, police said.

They said the boy told them he then noticed her 4-year-old son, Matthew, watching, and stabbed the boy, who remains in critical condition.

The teenager then went downstairs and fatally stabbed Hage's 3-year-old daughter, Nicole, as she watched television, according to court documents.

The boy told police he had been looking for liquor or money, Moersfelder said.

Hage's husband, Michael, discovered the bodies after he returned home from work, police said.

The teenager, a resident of a nearby suburb, was arrested later driving the family's car. Formal charges were pending against the boy, and prosecutors were seeking to have him tried as an adult. A hearing is set for Monday.

Give someone you know a special treat!

Deadline is Oct. 28.

Nautilus

Live Life in the Fit Lane!

1100 MORO-AGGIEVILLE • 776-1654
Student Specials: Memberships $59.95
for remainder of semester or $21 a month through May.

Help fill the Flint Hills Breadbasket

From mid-October through December 1992, for every canned good you bring to Kedzie 103, we'll give you 50 cents off a Collegian classified ad.* Student Publications Inc. will donate all items to the Flint Hills Breadbasket as part of K-State's "30 Days of Thanksgiving" food drive.

The food drive will kick off with a pep rally from noon-1 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15, in the Union free speech zone. Members of the Wildcat football team, Coach Bill Snyder, the pep band and the cheering squad will take part in the rally.

Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103 to place your classified ad. Deadline for classified ads is noon the day before publication. Last day to place classified ads this semester is Dec. 10.

(*Value of cans cannot exceed cost of ad.)

Name _____
I.D. Number _____
Address _____
Phone number _____
Message (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals) _____

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

Great Memories Start Here...

Portraits taken for...

Van Zile Oct. 15

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8a.m. - noon and 1p.m. - 5p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

ROCKY MOUNTAIN CLOTHING CO.

FIT FOR YOURSELF! 1ST QUALITY LADIES JEANS

Ladies Personal Fit Jeans

Look and feel your best in jeans made to emphasize the best of a woman's figure. Each 100% Cotton Denim jean is specially cut to fit your particular shape and size. We give you a rainbow of colors found nowhere else! Not to mention our huge size selection! When you're ready to mix the traditional with the contemporary, fit yourself into Rocky Mountain jeans! Straight leg styling. 1st Quality. Made in USA.

AVAILABLE UP TO LADIES 36" INSEAM!

$24⁸⁸

GENUINE LEATHER HANDMADE ROPERS

Mens and Ladies Ropers

Ropers are for more than just rodeo! For Western or urban, experience the handcrafted quality and fit that only genuine leather can give you. Kipskin leather foot, shaft, sole and lining. 1st Quality. Handcrafted in USA.

$89⁹⁹

LACE-R ROPERS AT $99.99

Justin

9-8 Mon-Sat 12-5 Sunday 456-9100
VANDERBILT'S
510 Lincoln - HWY 99 - Downtown Warrego

REVIEW

Amateur mistakes taint an otherwise sterling musical

ANDY WOODWARD

Collegian

■ "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" will be at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday in McCain Auditorium. Admission is $7 for students and senior citizens, and $8 for adults.

K-State's production of "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" has the potential to be a professional show.

Many facets of the production are sterling. However, the positive aspects are held in check by amateur mistakes that could be avoided.

An excellent choreography scene is tainted by the performers dropping character before they're offstage.

A powerful moment for the chorus entrance is announced by their own noise offstage. In some seats, you can even see the chorus before they come onstage.

A show-stopping performance is delivered by the lead, only to be backed up by an off-key chorus. An excellent solo plays second fiddle to the stagehands visible backstage.

The leads in the play all have well-developed characters rich with Texan charisma.

Lisa Nanni, graduate student in speech, plays Miss Mona, the proprietor of the "Chicken Ranch." She delivers a wonderful performance as the independent, business-minded Mona.

Whenever Nanni is onstage, she commands your attention. Her magnetism is especially noted in "Lil' Bitty Pissant Place," as Mona introduces two prospective recruits to the rules of the Ranch.

The staple of stories set in Texas is the good ol' boy sheriff. Paul Raehpour, senior in theater, plays Ed Earl Dodd, the cussin' sheriff of Lanville County.

He also has a powerful physical and emotional presence onstage. Some of the best and most moving moments of the show are when Raehpour and Nanni are alone onstage.

Not enough can be said for Scott McLean, senior in journalism and mass communications. McLean is cast in two supporting roles — in addition to being a core member of the men's chorus.

McLean plays both the fidgety insurance salesman C.J. Scruggs and the charismatic candy-stealing governor of Texas.

Scruggs is straight out of a David Lynch film, complete with jerky body movements and false wig on top.

Travis Cloer, junior in theater, and Donna Weaver, junior in theater, also are bright spots in the cast. Cloer plays the annoying, diminutive, small-time newshound Melvin Thorpe, who makes it his

■ See MUSICAL Page 12

DB92 has variety for lunch

J. MATTHEW RHEA/Collegian

Smooth B (Len Potillo, K-State graduate) jams on the microphone in the KSDB-FM 91.9 control room Monday in McCain. Smooth B is the disc jockey for the Jam the Box program, which features rhythm and blues and rap music during the lunch hour Monday through Friday.

Jam the Box provides rhythm and blues, rap during lunch hour on KSDB-FM 91.9

ANN DOOCY

Collegian

If you're looking for a new sound to fill your airwaves over the lunch hour, KSDB-FM 91.9 is now "Jammin' the Box."

Len Potillo, K-State graduate, is one of the two disc jockeys who is a host of the lunch-hour show.

"I started working at the station as a vacation volunteer, playing new album rock. When the opening came up for Jam the Box I took it," Potillo said.

The daily offering of rhythm and blues Monday through Thursday, and rap on Fridays, came about when the Black Student Union asked for more programming. It asked for more airtime for jazz, r&b, gospel and blues.

DB92 offers Exclusive Blues on Monday nights from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and Jazz Sunday mornings starting at 6 a.m.

Negotiations between the station and the Black Student Union resulted in the Jam the Box Lunch Hour.

According to Potillo, the show has been well accepted.

"Every day we have call-ins thanking us for the new and different programming," he said. "A lot of people appreciate the change. This new show breaks up the monotony."

■ See JAM THE BOX Page 12

"A lot of people appreciate the change. This new show breaks up the monotony."

LEN POTILLO

NOTICE

BULLETIN FOR BICYCLISTS

Complaints have been received concerning bicycles on pedestrian walkways and sidewalks. Also, many bicycles have been attached or locked to railings on or adjacent to ramps designed for physically limited individuals. Bicyclists should be aware of several rules, laws, and regulations that prohibit such activities.

OPERATIONS

Kansas Vehicle Law Book (KSA 8-1587 to 8-1592) and KSA 74-3209 to 74-3216 require that bicycles be operated as if they were motor vehicles. Bicyclists are required to yield the right of way to pedestrians in marked crosswalks, obey all traffic control signs and devices, and keep as far to the right on the roadway as possible. Bicyclists must ride on roadways, bike paths, or bike lanes.

PARKING

Unattended bicycles must be placed in bicycle racks. When racks are full the bicycle must be parked in the immediate vicinity or racks. Under no circumstances shall bicycles be parked in shrubbery, in buildings, on sidewalks, near building exits or entrances (blocking exits or entrances), in motor vehicle stalls, or attached to railings attached to physically limited access routes.

IMPOUNDING

Bicycles not properly parked will be impounded and may be reclaimed at the Department of Public Safety (University Police) upon demonstration of ownership and payment of established fees.

ENFORCEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

The Department of Public Safety is responsible for the enforcement and administration of the Parking and Traffic Regulations, the Kansas Motor Vehicle Code, and the bicycle control provisions thereof.

Paid For By Parking Services, KSU Council on Parking,
& Traffic and Police Operations

ENTERTAINMENT

LIVE MUSIC

Nic Cosmos to perform tonight

"The command for turning the lights on is Coors Light, Bud Light, or Busch"

KEVIN BERTHA

TED KADAU JR.
Collegian

Ever heard the terms Socio-pop or fifth-column folk?

Most likely you haven't, however, the five-man lineup of Nic Cosmos has, and they will be more than happy to tell you all about it when they play at K-State Union Station tonight.

"We are not a bungee rock band. We don't like to associate ourselves with that," Nick Carroll, lead singer for Nic Cosmos, said. "We see ourselves as a band that is rising out of the musical wasteland."

With songs such as "Valley of Mental Eunuchs," and "World Class

Morass," and sporting a lineup that includes a banjo, a French horn and an electric accordion, there is very little about this band that is wasted.

On the verge of independently releasing a new album titled "Leer, New York, London, Paris," described by Carroll as "very diversified," the band may just redefine the term unique.

"Our music attracts a powerful audience of natural emotion. It is, in effect, a music that is an away from movement and the cutting edge of dullness," Carroll said.

The very name of the band itself is a movement away from what most feel is the essence of rock 'n' roll.

Nic Cosmos will perform at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the K-State Union Station. Admission is $2.

"It's tough to say how we came up with the name, but in the end it seemed appropriate," Carroll said. "I would say we chose it because it is relaxing."

Doing anything but relaxing in the past two years, Nic Cosmos has performed throughout most of the Midwest, including gigs in Kansas City, St. Louis and Austin.

In the end, Nic Cosmos is a band hard to categorize. They say they have no real influences and remain very diversified.

MUSIC

Buck Owens releases new collection

Country music 'crazy fox,' of '60s influential, enduring

ASSOCIATED PRESS

It seems very important to Dwight Yoakam to make a point in his introduction to the booklet accompanying "The Buck Owens Collection (1959-1990)" that Buck is hip.

REVIEW

Who cares?

There are 20 No. 1 country hits on this set of 62 songs, full of the driving Bakersfield sound and honky-tonk laments that'll be around long after "Hee Haw" is revamped for the 21st century (with George "Goober" Lindsey still presumably hanging on).

Calling his band Buck Owens and the Buckaroos and wearing rhinestone encrusted stage suits, Buck came on like a slap-happy country boy. But he was crazy like a fox.

Owens negotiated record deals that left him owning his own material, took his own packaged show on the road, and never fell victim to the standard pitfalls of stardom.

And his music is enduring and influential. Rejecting the syrupy and anti-rock music coming out of Nashville when he started in the 1960s, Owens and partner Don Rich digested the rockabilly sounds of Memphis and British Invasion bands later on and blended it with a hard-country sensibility.

The combination yielded hit after hit, including "I've Got a Tiger by the Tail," "Crying Time," "Act Naturally," "Love's Gonna Live Here," "Together Again" and on and on and on.

The Buckaroos also scored with instrumental and novelty songs.

There's a priceless picture on page 49 of the wonderful booklet (written by Rich Kienzle) that comes with this set. It shows ol'

Buck with an ear-to-ear grin surrounded by cool rock star types John Fogerty, Neil Young, Chris Isaak, Huey Lewis and Joe Satriani. Even in company like this, Buck Owens sticks out like a sore thumb, and Dwight Yoakam or not, the word "hip" isn't likely to spring off the lips.

People smart enough not to worry about hip will buy "The Buck Owens Collection (1959-1990)" and enjoy. As they said in the movie, "Build it, and they will come."

DB92

TOP

- 1 Luna Park — Luna² (Electra)
- 2 Dirty — Sonic Youth (DGC)
- 3 Sweet Oblivion — Screaming Trees (Columbia)
- 4 In the Meantime — Helmet (Interscope)
- 5 Hey, Babe — Juliana Hatfield (Mammoth)
- 6 Mondo Bizarro — The Ramones (Radioactive)
- 7 Fog — Grey Matter (Dischord)
- 8 Copper Blue — Sugar (Rykodisc)
- 9 Stall EP — Urge Overkill (Touch and Go)
- 10 Hit to Death in the Future Head — Flaming Lips (Warner Bros.)

Collegian

NEWS YOU CAN USE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Great Memories Start Here...

Royal Purple

Portraits taken for...

Smith Oct. 15

Varden Studio Inc. is the official photographic portrait service for the 1993 Royal Purple. Members of fraternities or sororities who live in a residence hall or apartment should get their pictures taken with their fraternity or sorority. Appointments for off-campus students can be made in Union 209 or by calling 532-6106, 8a.m. - noon and 1p.m. - 5p.m.

1993 Royal Purple Yearbook

GUEST D.J.s
$1.50 Wells

Party starts at 8:30

18 to enter; 21 to drink

619 N. 12th Street; Aggieville

537-2100

Call 539-2921 & ask for Dana or Alice.

Perm Special

$5 OFF

Perm of Your Choice

Reg. Price $35 and up
Exp 10-20-92

1129 Westloop

Take a number.

Friends	Ads	Faculty
Advisers	GTA's	Offices
Clubs	Tutors	Coupons
*	Housing	#

Campus Telephone Books are available in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

$2 Students, limit 2
Identification required
$3.25 Faculty/Staff
$4 All others

Dancers to perform again

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"Puerto Rico was born dancing to the Indian arieto, and has always lived dancing," the historian Cesario Rosa-Nieves wrote 40 years ago.

Displays at the K-State Union included artwork, clothing, food and blankets from many Hispanic and Latin American countries.

"This is the fifth year we've had the awareness month," Diaz said. "But this is the first time we have had it in the fall."

Dancing will be featured at 10 p.m. Friday at Boulevards 11th Street Bar and Grill. Admission is $5 for minors and $4 for those over 21.

Senate to discuss parking appeals board

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Dirksen said the food drive will be kicked-off at a pep rally today from noon to 1 p.m. in the Union's free-speech zone.

The K-State marching band, cheerleaders, members of the football team and coaches will be present, she said.

The pep rally also is to show support for the football players before they leave for the game against Utah Saturday.

In other business, Senate will hear a resolution to approve the appointment of five additional members of the Parking Citation Appeals Board.

Senate Attorney General Michael Porter said 11 applications were submitted to fill the five positions.

Porter said interest in the board has definitely increased from last year, and attributes this to the fact the positions were created at the beginning of the school year when student involvement is on the rise.

A bill to increase the number of members on the board from seven to 11 was passed earlier this semester.

Senate will also hear debate to pass the fiscal year 1993 final allocation of the student activity fee. A special allocation to Student Government Association for a computer link and an allocation to legal services for students will also be heard.

Creations of the Night...
HEAR YE HEAR YE MAKE HASTE!
 All Hallow's Eve is Fast Approaching...
 Reserve your costumes early... Before its too late!!!
MARIE'S COSTUMES
 2011 N. Riley Blvd.
 539-5200
 Hours 10-6 Mon.-Sat.

-TONIGHT- $1.49 Fishbowl Margaritas (18 oz) & 50¢ Tacos

776-9879 • 105 N 3rd

CONSUMERS

Economy affected by Andrew

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Hurricane Andrew, already the costliest disaster in U.S. history, will make itself felt on the economy in ways other than insurance claims, analysts say.

They predicted that for the next several months, economic statistics will be skewed by Andrew's impact, although they were not looking for the hurricane to have much of a long-run effect.

Some analysts said the hurricane's effects could begin showing up today with release of government reports on retail sales and wholesale prices for September.

In advance of the two reports, analysts said retail sales may post their best showing in months, climbing by 0.5 percent, helped out in part by the sale of construction supplies to rebuild devastated South Florida communities.

However, economists were braced for both wholesale prices and retail prices, which will be released Thursday, to take bigger jumps because of the hurricane.

Donald Ratajczak, head of the forecasting unit at Georgia State University, said he looked for Andrew to be reflected in higher lumber prices, because of increased demand, and higher natural gas prices, because the hurricane disrupted production along the Gulf Coast.

For those reasons, Ratajczak said he expected the Producer Price Index, which measures inflation before it gets to the consumer, to show an increase of 0.3 percent in September, three times the tiny increases in July and August.

Michael Niemira, an economist at Mitsubishi Bank in New York, said he believed retail sales would surge by 1.4 percent in September, making it the biggest increase since January.

On both the inflation front and consumer spending, economists said they believed Andrew's impact would be short-lived. Many economists said early reports showed retail sales have slowed again following the September spurt and said the weak economy is likely to keep a lid on inflation for at least the next 12 months.

Cynthia Latta, an economist at DRI-McGraw Hill, forecasted consumer prices will rise just 3.2 percent this year and next, little changed from the 3.1-percent increase recorded in 1991.

Musical's goods outweigh bads

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 10

lifeblood to bring the whorehouse down.

Weaver plays Jewel the housekeeper. She delivers one of the musical highlights of the show with "24 Hours of Lovin'."

The entire female entourage in the whorehouse is strong. Any number involving the women's chorus is sure to be entertaining.

However, be prepared to hear the onstage piano pounding out pitches for the men's chorus all night long.

Throughout the entire show, it is easy to tell which numbers have been drilled up until now, and which numbers have fallen by the wayside.

"Texas Has a Whorehouse In It" has the potential to be a real showstopper, with just another week's worth of practice.

"The Aggie Song," celebrating the Texas A&M Aggies' victory over rival University of Texas Longhorns, is a classic example of the struggle between finding people who can perform the part and finding people who look the part.

The song itself is mediocre, but it is punctuated by a truly incredible sequence of choreography.

All in all, "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" does what it sets out to do. The musical is at ease and moves along at an easy pace. The amusing and well-performed moments outnumber the parts that make you wince and grasp the armrest.

Jam the Box a plus, manager says

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 10

Joe Montgomery, station manager, said he's heard more positive feedback than negative.

"We try to keep in good touch with our audience, and to see their reactions. We are trying to keep a strong identity and make a consistent, overall good impression," Montgomery said.

"As a freshman on this campus, it's refreshing to hear diversity on the campus radio station," said Mark Minor, freshman undecided.

"I like all kinds of music, and it's great to be able to turn on the stereo at different times and hear new sounds."

Food drive begins today

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

users of the Breadbasket and pantries were K-State students. "Pantries have doubled their numbers of people needing assistance," Bramhall said. "The interesting fact is the number of K-State families who use these pantries."

Students contributing at least one can of food will be eligible to win prizes for guessing the total number of cans used in the Anderson Hall replica.

In September, 33 percent of the users of the Breadbasket and pantries were K-State students.

"Pantries have doubled their numbers of people needing assistance," Bramhall said. "The interesting fact is the number of K-State families who use these pantries."

Students contributing at least one can of food will be eligible to win prizes for guessing the total number of cans used in the Anderson Hall replica.

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect, so help us out. If you find an inaccuracy in the paper, give us a call or drop by the office so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

GREAT
MEMORIES
START
HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS:

Get your group signed up for a Departmental photograph. Portraits will be taken through Oct. 29.

Call 532-6557 to schedule a time.

A Collegian personal can say it all!

Ghosts and goblins, witches and brooms,
Owls and pumpkins, bats and toms.
Halloween is a great time to say,
"You're my favorite person today!"

Say it with a Collegian personal in the Classifieds.

For only $5 for up to 20 words, you can get your Halloween message in the Collegian. Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103. Ads will run Oct. 30. Deadline is noon Wednesday, Oct. 28.

YOUR NAME YOUR ID NUMBER

ADDRESS PHONE NUMBER

MESSAGE (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals.)

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

Reach active voters. Advertise in the Kansas State Collegian.

More than 94 percent of the Kansas State University population reads the Kansas State Collegian. People who read newspapers are most likely to vote and are most active and concerned about their communities and the quality of life.

Among advertising media, newspapers rank first in credibility.

Most believable media
Newspapers	48%
Television	19%
Direct Mail	12%
Magazines	12%
Radio	4%
About Equal/No Opinion	5%

(Source: Home Testing Institute)

Newspapers reach voters, particularly those all-important ticket-splitters.

Read political coverage in newspapers "every or almost every day"
Ticket-splitters	64.7%
Republicans	64.1%
Democrats	55.4%

(Source: Market Opinion Research, as cited in The Ticket-Splitter by Devries and Tarrance)

In fact, people look forward to reading advertising in newspapers more than in any other medium.

% who look forward
Newspapers	44%
Magazines	29%
Television	9%
Radio	0%

(Source: Response Analysis Corporation)

Newspapers reach the most politically active citizens.

Read a newspaper on the average weekday
Voted in an election	70%
Wrote to an elected official	73%
Visited an elected official	74%
Worked for a candidate	71%

(Source: Simmons Market Research Bureau, 1989)

Newspaper advertising offers you believability, reader involvement, the ability to set the record straight, graphic impact and the ability to address serious issues you and the voters care about. Remember to include Kansas State Collegian advertising in your campaign budget.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6560

MEXICO

Authorities declare war on bandits

"There's still not a climate of total security, but it's still better than before."

ROBERTO ALVAREZ

ASSOCIATED PRESS

IXTAPA, Mexico — Authorities and residents angered by bloody highway robberies have declared war on bandits who plunder the rugged mountain roads near the Pacific resorts of Ixtapa and Acapulco.

Fearing a loss of tourist dollars, officials in Guerrero state called out the army earlier this year to help in the crackdown.

A policeman and at least one bandit were killed in shootouts. And a mob in one town lynched three suspected thieves.

Soldiers patrolled some towns in the Sierra Madre Mountains along the western half of the 300-mile route from Mexico City southwest to Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo. Police are escorting buses and have stepped up their patrols of the highways.

Most tourists fly to the resorts and are not in danger, but for those who drive and for area residents, the bandits have been more than a nuisance.

There was a high level of assaults and kidnappings before the crackdown began in April, Roberto Alvarez, a Guerrero state spokesman, said.

The attackers would use tree trunks and rocks to block the road and ambush trucks or motorists, especially at night, Alvarez said. They also posed as passengers on buses and then held up the other passengers.

On the coastal route between Acapulco and Ixtapa, attacks occurred about four times a week before the crackdown, he said. Since then, incidents have dwindled to two or three a month.

"There's still not a climate of total security, but it's still better than before," Alvarez said.

He acknowledged that some robbery victims had been killed and that some bandits died in the crackdown. But he said figures on deaths, injuries and arrests were unavailable.

Bandits ambushed and killed a police commander in the mountains near Chilapa in July, said Raul Arriaga Rodriguez, editor of the newspaper Diario de Guerrero in the state capital, Chilpancingo.

"They're not happy with the police," he said.

People are angry with the bandits, Alvarez said. In Santa Teresa in northern Guerrero, three people accused of trying to rob a Coca-Cola truck were dragged from jail and beaten to death by a mob, he said.

Two newspapers in the state — Diario de Guerrero and Diario de Zihuatanejo — confirmed a sharp drop in attacks.

Police are escorting buses and trucks, patrolling roads and searching bus passengers and their bags for weapons.

Federal police in plainclothes, placed on buses traveling between Mexico City and Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo, killed at least one bandit.

$5.59

This Friday Night
All-You-Can-Eat Shrimp & Catfish

In addition to delicious golden fried shrimp, our All-You-Can-Eat Shrimp Dinner also includes our fabulous all-you-can-eat Freshstaks® Food Bar with Soft Serve dessert. All for one low price. It's an unlimited deal we guarantee won't leave you hungry. Offer good only on Fridays from 4 p.m. til close.

BONANZA
Where The Extras Don't Cost Extra

622 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS

When it just can't get any worse
AND YOU THINK NO ONE CARES

Experience the Incredible
Receive the Baptism of the Holy Ghost

When Jesus Christ is born in your heart and life, it is an amazing, wonderful, glorious, dynamic experience. It will be your moment of ULTIMATE DELIVERANCE... Experience HIM today! WE CARE

USA and Puerto Rico
call toll free 1-800-535-6011

Sponsored by:
United Pentecostal Church
700 Vattier
(913) 776-8717
And Apostolic Campus Ministries

CHARLES
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR

Karaoke Night
75¢ Draws

Claffin & Denison (Down Under) 776-1515

HUNAM EXPRESS
1116 Moro
537-0886

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
7 days a week

This coupon good for
Mongolian Beef $3.75

Dine-in & carryout
Not valid with any other specials, coupons, or on deliveries.

FREE DELIVERY MENU
(Minimum order $9)
Expires 10/22/92

Royal Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106
to schedule an appointment
for yearbook pictures.

Next in line... Individual appointments can be made for any of the indicated times.

Smith Scholarship House — Oct. 15
Smurthwaite House — Oct. 15
Van Zile Hall — Oct. 15
West Hall — Oct. 15
Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30
Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

PUMP UP YOUR TEST SCORE

Improve test scores with Cliffs StudyWare interactive computer software. Cliffs StudyWare Test Preparation Products are designed to help you do your best on your ACT, SAT or other major standardized tests. For help on your coursework, count on Cliffs StudyWare Course Reviews for disciplines such as calculus and economics. For a strong finish, study with Cliffs StudyWare.

CLIFFS StudyWare
Varney's
BOOK STORE
IN AGGIEVILLE
"We Give You Our Best"

GREAT MEMORIES START HERE

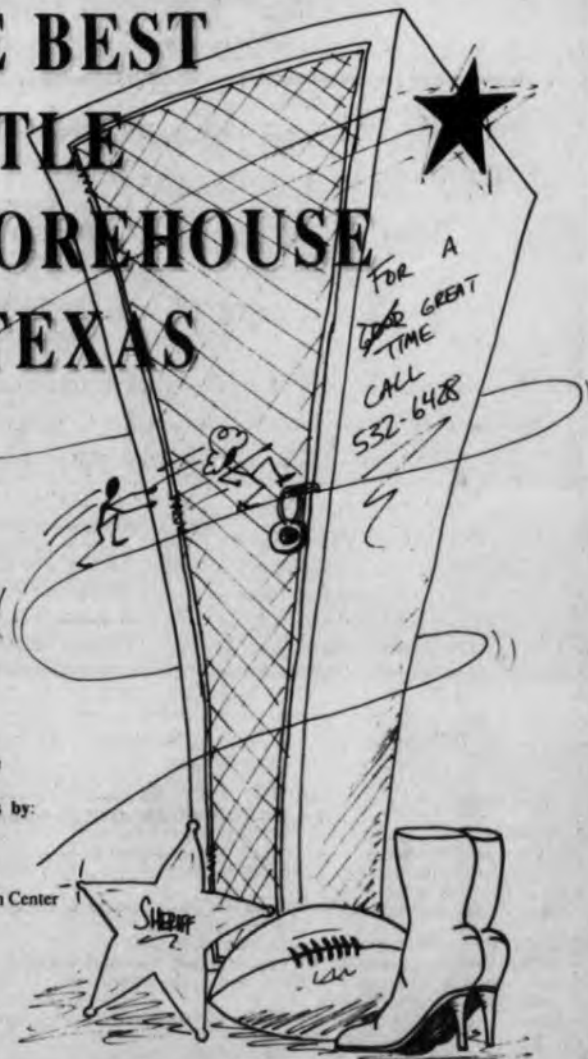

1993 ROYAL PURPLE

ATTENTION ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

THE BEST LITTLE WHOREHOUSE IN TEXAS

Book By:
Larry L. King
and
Peter Masterson

Music & Lyrics by:
Carol Hall

Sponsored by:
Manhattan Town Center

OCTOBER 15, 16, 17 8 PM
McCAIN AUDITORIUM
TICKETS: McCAIN BOX OFFICE 532-6428

UPC FILMS

All Films $1.75 with I.D.

Thursday 7 pm and 9:30 pm
Forum Hall
Friday 7 pm
Little Theatre

Tatie Danielle
You haven't met her yet, but she hates you already.

NEVER CRY WOLF

Saturday and Sunday 2 pm
Forum Hall

Housesitter

Friday and Saturday 7 and 9:30 pm
Sunday 7 pm
Forum Hall

K-State Union
UPC Kaleidoscope

K-State Union
UPC Feature Films

Fall Birdseed Special

Sale Prices in effect
Now through October 25th

FREE BIRDSEED STORAGE SERVICE
This way you can get the best price on the seed you will use until January... without the worry of how to store it! We are happy to store your seed so you can pick up the seed when you need it.

NEXT SALE IN JANUARY

BIRD SEED	10#	25#	50#
Black Sunflower	4.00	7.65	13.50
Stripe Sunflower	5.00	8.50	14.50
Sunflower Chips	9.60	24.00	41.00
Niger Thistle	15.60	39.00	66.00
Safflower	7.20	18.00	30.50
Wild Bird Mix	—	5.95	10.50
Peanut Chips	—	22.00	39.00
Peanuts in Shell	17.00	43.00	79.00

CORN ON THE COB
6 1/2 # bags
2 bags for $5.99

All Squirrel feeders 15% off

HEATH SUET CAKES
DD4 & DD13
5 for $6.00
Reg. 1.69 ea

Blooming Dale's
Garden Center
1105 Waters (Behind Ed Schram Dodge)
Manhattan, KS — 539-4751 Open Every day

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS

to the family. Love, Mom.

PI PHI Bonnie, Wahool! At last your my Dot! Don't fear, just grab a beer, because we have so many wild and crazy days ahead of us as Mom and Dot! Love, Jennifer.

PI PHI Gaylene—It may be a surprise to you, but not to me. I've thought since rush, a great mom and dot team we would be. Welcome to the family. Love, Mom.

PI PHI Hayley—Follow the string and sing YIPPEE because you see the best mom and dot is you and me! Carrie.

PI PHI Jennifer C. Welcome to the family! I'm so glad you're my dot! PI PHI Love, Julie.

PI PHI Jennifer M.—You're the best dot ever! Welcome to the family. PI PHI Love, Michelle.

PI PHI Jennifer W.—Welcome to our family tree! You follow Kristi, Alicia, and me! We're glad to have you! Love, Brenda.

PI PHI Jessica—The yarn led you all over the place, then you opened the door and saw my face. There were lots of cute gifts that you got, but the best gift of all is that you're my dot! Welcome to the family! Love, Molly B.

PI PHI Jodi D.—What a wonderful pair we'll make! I'm very excited to be you new mom! Love—Ang.

PI PHI Kathy, You're the sweetest dot a mother could find. I'm so glad you're finally "mine"! Love, Jill.

PI PHI Kristi—Labor was rough but not so bad, considering the wonderful dot I had! Sharing smiles and tears, we'll have a blast, so happy you're mine together at last!

PI PHI Lauren—You are such a little stink, but I still love you... I think Lauren, I'm so glad that you're my new dot! Love ya, Claudine.

PI PHI Lindsey, I'm so glad you're finally my dot! I know we will make the spaziest mom, dot team! PI PHI Love and Mine, Casey.

PI PHI Lisa—I'm so excited that you're my dot! We have tons of good times ahead of us! Love—Molly W.

PI PHI Marsha: The years will be grand cuz' I'm your biggest fan. And I'll never be blue cuz' I have you. Love, Mom.

PI PHI Randy—I'm glad you're my dot! WE'll have fun—Welcome to our family. PI PHI Love, Anne.

PI PHI Amy M.—You wild woman! You're all mine now! Many good times are yet to come! Love, Stacey.

PI PHI Liz F.—Hey girl-friend! I'm so excited to be your mom! We have good times ahead, welcome to the family. Love, Sara.

PI PHI Missy—I'm so glad to have you as my dot! I can't wait for the times we'll have ahead! Love, Mom.

TRISH—I'm so happy you're my wonderful dot! We're going to have lots of great times together. PI PHI love, Suzie.

nished. Mont Blue apartment, one block from campus. 539-4447.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH living room and dining room, available immediately, located at 412 N 11th St. Apt. 5. $350, most utilities paid. 539-4374 or 587-0756.

110 For Rent—Unfurnished

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

NICE STUDIO apartment, 1019 Houston. Near City Park. Utilities paid, except water. $295, 1-800-593-0519. Open this Saturday.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 1960 Hunting #16. Available immediately. Close to campus. Central air/heat and coin operated laundry facilities. $395, includes water, trash and pest control. Call for appointment 776-3804.

SPACIOUS ONE—two-bedroom. Beautiful hard wood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan.—Aug. 539-2019.

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available in town home for now or next semester. Very nice. Call 539-6684.

120 For Rent—Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities, lease plus deposit 539-3672.

130 For Rent—Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6p.m.

140 For Rent—Garage

SMALL GARAGE available now, $50 a month. 539-5136.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in nice tri-level two-bedroom apartment. $180 and one-fourth bills. Fun roommates! Available Jan. 1 539-9450.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Large house, own bedroom, washer/dryer, all utilities paid. $212.50/month. Must like dogs. 776-1861, Carol.

LARGE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Holds two girls. $125/month. Low utilities, cable already hooked up. Interested? 587-0422, Lisa.

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

150 Sublease

FEMALE NEEDED to share nice apartment two blocks from campus. $200/month, one-third utilities. Available immediately. 537-4085 or 539-8087 Tina.

155 Stable/Pasture

HORSE BOARDING, nice stalls with lot. Close to town. Call Gene 587-0222.

200 SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

The Tutoring Center is accepting applications for tutors for the current semester in the subjects of PHYS, CHEM, MATH, and engineering courses. Tutors are especially needed in Physics 214, 213, 115 and below. Qualified applicants must have a 3.0 GPA, be enrolled in six or more credit hours, and have superior communication skills. Apply in person at Leisure Hall 201, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday.

210 Resume/Typing

$1.25/DOUBLE, $10/ resume. Laser printer. Also specializing in tables, equations, and overheads. Professional results guaranteed. Please call Sandy 539-3229.

A B C typing service. You do the studying, let me do the typing. Reports, charts, graphs, resumes and more. Overnight results when necessary. Go ahead, give me a call. 537-9480 after 5p.m. ask for Jackie.

A FIVE minute walk from Aggieville. Resumes, letters, papers typed as low as $1.25 double spaced. Please call Melia 776-1534.

225 Pregnancy Testing Center

Pregnancy Testing Center 539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

235 Child Care

MOTHER'S HELPER—I'm a reliable female college student willing to help out by babysitting, cooking, cleaning, errand running... Call 776-3421.

245 Pet Services

DALMATIAN PUPPY/ Female AKC registered—supplies included. 776-5328 leave message.

SAVANNAH MONITOR low maintenance pet supplies included 776-5328 leave message.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN-DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.-5p.m. Monday through Friday.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

300 EMPLOYMENT/CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Carer classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ARE YOU willing to work hard, enjoy people, and able to work late hours. If so, this job is for you, waiter/waitress. Apply in person 1213 Moro.

COMBINE OPERATORS and truck drivers for corn harvest. Wamego, KS 456-9805.

HOUSE REMODELING, student help needed. Work involves cleaning, removing wallpaper, painting, carpentry, plumbing and electrical repair. Work begins in Nov. Send resume, work experience and class schedule to Box 3 Collegian.

NOW HIRING: Delivery drivers, earn $5-7 per hour. Apply at Domino's, 517 N. 12th.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

VISTA DRIVE-IN is now taking applications for full and part-time help. Apply in person at 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Carer classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

$200-$500 weekly. Assemble products at home. Easy! No selling. You're paid direct. Fully guaranteed. Free information—24 hour hotline. 801-379-2900. Copyright ©KS13KDH

$252.50 Sell 50 funny college T-shirts and make $252.50. No financial obligation. A risk-free program. Average sales time equals 4-6 hours. Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9843 Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

DO YOU need to LOSE WEIGHT? We've got the answer. Guaranteed results. Call Today 539-1252.

INTERNATIONAL EMPLOYMENT—Make money teaching English abroad. Japan and Taiwan. Make $2,000-$4,000+ per month. Many provide room and board plus other beneficial financial and culturally rewarding! For International Employment program and application, call the International Employment Group: (206) 632-1146 extension J5768.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-800-874-7697.

OVERSEAS JOBS. $900-2000 month Summer, year round, All Countries, All fields. Free information. Write LJC, PO Box 52-KS02 Corona Del Mar, CA 92625.

400 FOR SALE

OPEN MARKET

410 Items for Sale

FALL FASHIONS Have you checked out the beautiful fall fashions at the Fashion Shop? Clip this ad and receive 25% off storewide. Sale merchandise excluded. Exp. 10-17-92.

THE FASHION SHOP AND BEAUTY SALON

539-2921 1129 WESTLOOP

10- GALLON aquarium with all accessories and fish, $50; Queen size mattress, $40 or best offer; student desk, $20. 776-1861.

14K GOLD wedding bands. Size seven woman's, size nine and one-half man's. Never used. Will separate. Make offer. 539-3082.

COMPUTER PAPER: one cent per sheet. Ten percent ribbon discount—Panasonic KXP; Brother AX. Hull Business Supplies, 715 N. 12, Aggieville. 539-1413.

ONE PAIR Rocky Mountain jeans, size seven (tan) $35, brand new. One Sony CD player with amplifier electric cord, headphones, attachments $85 call 532-2209, Sherry.

T-SHIRTS—SWEATSHIRTS. First Quality—Advertising specialties—Party favors, first quality—low price to your specifications. 539-6655.

WEDDING DRESS. Size 7-8. Paid $750 asking $450. Or best offer. 539-3294. Leave message.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

LEAVING MANHATTAN—For sale cheap: desk, chair, lamp, etc. Good condition. Call 776-1989.

TWO CHAIRS, three lamps, treadmill set queen, etc. Cheap. 776-1687 after 5p.m.

435 Computers

TRS-80, DUAL disk drives, printer, modem phone, tape backup. Call Kevin at 537-4090, or leave message.

445 Music Instruments

LIKE NEW Oscar Schmidt OE-6 spirit electric guitar. Peavey audition 30 amp. 587-0380.

PEARL DRUM set, black, Zildian cymbals. $1800 new, will sacrifice for $800 or best offer. 587-0807.

WASHBURN CHICAGO Series Guitar with Floyd Locking Tremelol Fender Princeton Stereo Chorus Amp. Both in excellent shape! 776-7843 James

450 Pets and Supplies

ADCOM—GFA—535 Amplifier 50W/channel three year old. $250 or best offer. Call 539-8893.

FISHER HOME Stereo Speakers: Excellent condition, 15 foot woofers, $115/ piece, 539-9417 or 537-7589.

LABRADOR RETRIEVERS. Purebred, yellow and black, first shots, worms, $75. 494-2758, 537-0727.

460 Stereo Equipment

STEREO SYSTEM, Pioneer receiver and speakers 30 station preset. Sony dual cassette player autotune. Magnavox five CD player with remote. Four months old, must see $500 539-1590.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

The Audio Niche If music really matters... 539-1788 ext. 0 (your audiophile friend)

500 Bicycles

1991 FISHER AL-1 mountain bike ridden less than 50 miles $500 or best offer 537-2085 leave message.

U2 TICKETS for sale. Oct. 18 at Arrowhead. 532-5201

500 TRANSPORTATION

510 Automobiles

1970 DODGE Dart "Swinger," 318 V-8, automatic, blue, factory air, power steering, power brakes, 89,000 actual miles. $1950 or best offer. 532-3657.

1976 BUICK Regal. Looks good. Runs good. $1250, 776-7955 (leave message).

1981 BUICK Riviera, fully loaded, power sunroof, Kenwood stereo, leather interior, new engine, brakes, water pump. $1800 or best offer 537-6132 leave message.

1983 DODGE, full-size van, air condition, automatic, power steering, V8, very good condition, self converted for travel, reconvertable, $3100 539-7130, Mon.-Fri. 5p.m.-6p.m.

1984 CHEVY pick-up, runs good, no rust, power steering/brakes. Two year old tires. $2500 539-5352.

1989 HONDA Accord DX—two-door, red, very sharp, 39,000 miles, $8700. Call Joely, 776-0540 (leave message).

CHEAP! 1978 Chevrolet Impala automatic, power steering, V-8 $200, 532-3914, Marlatt Hall.

CHEAP! FBI/ U.S. seized 1989 Mercedes $200, 1986 VW $50, 1987 Mercedes $100, 1965 Mustang $50. Choose from thousands starting $25. Free information 24 hour hotline. (801) 379-2929. Copy-right number KS13KJC.

FOR SALE 1987 Dodge Charger, five-speed, AM/FM cassette, air condition, $3600, 58K 776-0774.

520 Bicycles

1991 FISHER AL-1 mountain bike ridden less than 50 miles $500 or best offer 537-2085 leave message.

TECHNIUM 440 Road Bike, 14-speed. Good for commuting and touring. Reasonable price 537-0186 after 6p.m.

600 TRAVEL/ TRIPS

610 Tour Packages

LONDON, PARIS, Rome. $1532 K.C. to K.C. Dec. 27- Jan. 5. Room for a few more. Contact Diane Doller. 532-6605 or 539-8401.

11th ANNIVERSARY

CHRISTMAS BREAK

STEAMBOAT

VALENTINE'S WEEK

BRECKENRIDGE

11th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS

CALL FOR INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS 1-800-321-5911

Cast a spell on someone special with a Halloween personal. Come to Kedzie 103. Deadline is Oct. 28.

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS 532-6556

100 HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent—Apts. Furnished

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX available, partially fur-

TNT at Bobby T's Bar & Deli Every Thursday 99¢ Margaritas, 50¢ Draws 99¢ Tacos—Candlewood Shop.Ctr.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers. Open 7 days a week Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon Candlewood Shopping Center

Make music

Want to learn to play the guitar? Check the Collegian classifieds to find someone to give you lessons. Only $5 for up to 20 words. You'll make music in no time.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

CLASSIFIED DIRECTORY

000 BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

020 Lost and Found

030 Personals

040 Meetings/Events

050 Parties-n-More

100 HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent—Apt. Furnished

110 For Rent—Apt. Unfurnished

115 Rooms Available

120 For Rent—Houses

125 For Sale—Houses

130 For Rent—Mobile Homes

135 For Sale—Mobile Homes

140 For Rent—Garage

145 Roommate Wanted

150 Sublease

155 Stable/Pasture

160 Office Space

165 Land for Sale

210 Resume/Typing

215 Desktop Publishing

220 Sewing/Alterations

225 Pregnancy Testing

230 Lawn Care

235 Child Care

240 Musicians/DJs

245 Pet Services

250 Automotive Repair

255 Other Services

300 EMPLOYMENT/CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

320 Volunteers Needed

330 Business Opportunities

400 FOR SALE

Center helps students deal with problems

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

Divine said the first question she asks people when they call the crisis hotline is if they feel safe — whether it be from an abusive spouse or from themselves.

Next, Divine said, if it is a suicide call, she asks the caller to tell her what they're feeling and what she can do to help.

"In my opinion, one of the worst things you can do for someone is to try and talk them out of it," Divine said. "Instead, you should try and find out why they've reached this point."

Divine said one of the most important things to do is to make the caller know there is someone who cares.

"I would never say something like, 'It'll be better tomorrow,'" she said. "At that point, the person is not envisioning a tomorrow."

Newton said at University Counseling Services, appointments can be set up with a counselor between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. In an emergency situation, students can call after 5 p.m. and be hooked up with an on-call counselor, Newton said.

"We deal with the most serious issues first. If there's a case that becomes urgent, then we give that case immediate attention from a counselor without an appointment," he said.

The counselors at Lafene have to deal with each case individually, because the cases vary as the individual situations vary, Newton said. An assessment is made after questions have been answered by the client.

The counselor then looks at the client's options, taking into consideration the client's resources, Newton said.

For example, he said, the seriousness of the issue, what it will take to correct the problem, and who is present to help the individual all play a part in the counselor's final assessment.

Newton said one of the best deterrents for a person who has reached the point of considering suicide is consideration of finality — that there are no other options after death. He said a person who uses suicidal gestures is someone with a serious cry for help.

Board examines districting options

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

up with a plan and we're moving ahead," said Education Commissioner Lee Droege Mueller. "Moving ahead means selling it, getting feedback."

Under the plan, each community college district would be governed by a nine-member board elected regionwide. The regional governing board would have the same powers and obligations presently given to local boards of trustees.

The proposal also would allow any area vocational and technical school to be able to request to join regional community college district in which the school is located.

The proposal divides the state into 11 districts, but Assistant Education Commissioner Dale Dennis said the map is subject to change. He said the task force that developed the proposal took into account historical and political ties between counties, as well as geographic and transportation ties.

Some of the proposed districts would have more than one community college. In those cases, the colleges would merge and would have different campuses, Dennis said.

AGGIEVILLE'S
OKTOBERFEST
Saturday, October 17 10a.m.-5p.m.

Craft & Food Fair
and International Volksmarch

■ petting zoo ■ pony rides
■ games

11-11:30 a.m. Birds of Prey Show
12-12:30 p.m. Reptile Show

LIVE MUSIC
1-3 p.m. Double Exposure
3 p.m. Streetside

Watch for the Cat Coupon Clipper
Every Monday in the COLLEGIAN

THE SWEETEST GIFT OF ALL.

Perfect for a budding friendship or a full-bloom romance.

A dozen red roses in a vase

(40 cm.)

only $25.95 with this coupon while supplies last.

Local delivery available.

Steve's Floral

Expires 12/1/92
Certain restrictions apply.

1204 Moro
Aggieville
Hrs: 10-6
776-5900

302 Poyntz
Downtown
Hrs: 8-6
539-6227

Leapin' Lizards.

Jump on a Giant® Iguana® and hit the trails. It features a full oversized Cro-Moly Frame for strength and light weight. Shimano Altus Components for smooth shifting. Durable Araya Alloy Rims. And a price tag that'll beat the competition by leaps and bounds.

GIANT.

AGGIE BIKE STATION
1217 MORO • 776-2372

Oktoberfest Specials

KSU Sewn on Sweatshirts Reg. $20.95 SALE $14.95
OUTSIDE ON THE WALK

'World Series Specials'

20% Off All Major League Baseball Jerseys and T-Shirts

30% Off Our Gore-Tex™ Suits

Selected Shoes 25% Off

Nike Air Jordan (gray), Adidas—Phantom White (H) and much more

NIKE adidas SKITIGER CONVERSE Reebok

BALLARD'S
"Your Quality—Competitive Edge"

SPORTING GOODS STORE

1218 Moro 539-2441

HAYNES

STYLE SHOP
BEAUTY SUPPLY

Oktoberfest Sale

Friday
Oct 16

AND

Saturday
Oct 17

SEBASTIAN
SHAPER PLUS
HAIRSPRAY 10 oz.

REG. $7.40 SALE 6.00

SPRITZ FORTE 10 oz.
EXTRA HOLDING FINISHING
SPRAY

REG. $7.40 SALE 6.00

*Receive a FREE 1 oz. Performance
Active Shampoo & Treatment with each Sebastian purchase.

Hours: Mon.-Fri. 8-6, Sat. 8-5

718 N. Manhattan

539-5512

Try a COOLTOPPER

It's your favorite flavor of frozen yogurt with your choice of topping blended in
and another scoop heaped on top.

COME IN SATURDAY FOR OKTOBERFEST!

FREE
Souvenir
Cup With Purchase!

1/2 OFF!

Buy One Cooltopper
and Get the Second
One for 1/2 Price!

Offer good only at the I Can't Believe
It's Yogurt store listed. Coupon not valid with any other offer. Offer expires 10/31/92.

FREE PINT!

Buy Any Quart From
Our Take-Out Freezer
and Get a Pint Free!

Offer good only at the I Can't Believe
It's Yogurt store listed. Coupon not valid with any other offer. Offer expires 10/31/92.

50¢ OFF!

Buy Any Regular or Large Cup or Cone
and Get 50¢ Off!

Offer good only at the I Can't Believe
It's Yogurt store listed. Coupon not valid
with any other offer. Offer expires 10/31/92.

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

We Put A Smile On Your Taste!

NAUTILUS TOWER
AGGIEVILLE

537-1616

©1992, I Can't Believe It's Yogurt, Ltd.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE STUDENT SENATE

Senate hears reading of a bill asking the Provost's Committee to consider alternatives before recommending arts and sciences cuts to the Kansas Board of Regents.

PAGE 3

FRIDAY

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 16, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 39

PRESIDENTIAL DEBATES

Voters ask the questions this time

ASSOCIATED PRESS

RICHMOND, Va. — President Bush, Bill Clinton and Ross Perot fielded questions from uncommitted voters Thursday night in a civilized, issue-rich debate.

It spotlighted differences over taxes and schools, health care and handguns.

Clinton said the wealthy should pay their fair share in higher taxes, but Bush opposed any tax hikes — and noted he differs from Perot on the question, too. Perot favors some tough tax increases to help bring down the deficit.

There were few surprises during the 90-minute session, no embarrassments — and little to suggest it would dramatically boost Bush in his effort to overtake Clinton by Nov. 3.

After Bush renewed his attack on Clinton's anti-war activities in the Vietnam era, the candidates were brought up short by a questioner's demand that they "focus on the issues and not the personalities and the mud."

They swiftly took his advice and proceeded to dissect their disagreements on a range of issues. Mostly they were domestic concerns, leaving Bush little opportunity to press his case for character, leadership and crisis management.

It was a presidential debate unlike any other.

■ See VOTERS Page 10

STATE UNIVERSITIES

Wichita State pulls out of ASK

Decision is experiment, student vice president says

ROY GRABER
Collegian

Wichita State University has withdrawn from the Associated Students of Kansas.

ASK, a lobbying group, serves as a liaison between the four-year colleges and universities of Kansas and the Kansas Board of Regents.

Diana Beck, Wichita State student body vice president, said leaving is an experiment.

"Some of the sentiments here at the university is that we pay so much in dues, and some of us thought that we don't get enough attention," Beck said.

"We created a new program to do individual lobbying just for Wichita State. The idea was to try it a year and then do an evaluation."

Beck said there still is a lot of support for ASK on campus, and the decision to leave came down to one person's vote.

Mary Farmer, junior in history and K-State co-chairwoman for ASK, said K-State nearly left ASK last spring for similar reasons.

"We were seriously thinking about pulling out, but we went through the policy, and they made some very drastic changes," Farmer said.

She said reasons for the speculation to leave included wanting Farrell Library expansion to be a regents' priority and the cost of ASK.

Farmer said last year 75 cents of each K-State student's fees went to ASK. Next

■ See WSU Page 11

REDEFINING K-STATE ACADEMICS

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Steffany Carrel, sophomore in journalism and mass communications, leads a march through campus Thursday to President Jon Wefald's house after a rally against proposed program cuts.

Program cuts still contested

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Barbara Rinker, graduate student in speech pathology and audiology, tries to fire up a crowd of students protesting proposed cuts in the College of Arts and Sciences Thursday in the free-speech zone.

Protesters march to Wefald house

TED KADAU JR.
Collegian

The loud roar reverberated off every building between the free-speech zone and President Jon Wefald's home:

"No cuts KSU; next time it could be you."

About 30 students and instructors gathered at 1 p.m. Thursday to protest proposed cuts in the social work, and speech pathology and audiology programs.

The Kansas Board of Regents has requested that all six state schools review their programs for emphasis and de-emphasis.

The protesters have more than one gripe over the proposed cuts.

"For one thing, there is a concern that the departments that have come up for cuts are the wrong departments," said Steffany Carrel, sophomore in journalism and mass communications and spokeswoman for the group. "Why not cut something that is strong at other schools?"

Cheryl Harper, assistant professor of social anthropology and social work, said, "Probably all majors feel that they are important, but these departments are also important. They have been very productive, and are very needed."

Carrel said more time is needed from the regents.

"The figures that have been presented to the department core groups are wrong, and everything has been so rushed," she said.

Carrel claimed the second problem is that regent Jack Sampson is retiring, and he wants to push the cuts through before he leaves.

"The proposed cuts would eliminate the speech pathology and audiology departments altogether, and eliminate two of the five faculty members in the social work department," Carrel said.

"When the department comes up for accreditation, they are required to have at least five faculty members, so they will not receive accreditation again."

Cuts aside, many said they think the regents are in the wrong.

"The Board of Regents is playing God. There is no where else to go aside from K-State with this type of quality program," Carrel said.

Carrel said the problem she sees is that the time to change minds is rapidly approaching.

The process, which began March 20 when the regents accepted the proposal for the cuts, will end Oct. 30 with an open meeting.

Carrel said she was pleased with the rally.

"Considering that we only had two days notice, I think it went very well," she said.

"There is a concern that the departments that have come up for cuts are the wrong departments."

STEFFANY CARREL

NEWS DIGEST

▶ KANSAS MILO MAY FREEZE

COLBY (AP) — An agronomist, checking milo fields this week in Kansas, said he was worried about what a freeze would do to crops in northwest Kansas.

Mark Mikesell of the Colby Experiment Station said, "From Hoxie on west, if we get a freeze this weekend, it's going to be 50 percent or a third of what it should be."

▶ 4 SHOT DEAD IN COUNTY OFFICE

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — A gunman with a history of missing child-support payments killed four workers in a county office Thursday, then killed himself, authorities said.

John T. Miller, 50, had been in the county Department of Social Services' Support Collection Unit office Wednesday, but police did not know if there had been a confrontation.

RECYCLING

Campus program active

8 drop-off points still taking aluminum, paper

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

K-State has not eliminated its recycling programs, despite a declining market for recyclable goods.

There are eight drop-off sites on campus, and the K-State Union and residence halls have their own programs.

Campus recycling centers collect aluminum cans, and computer and white bond paper.

The number of collection sites on campus was cut back from 20 sites because of budget problems in the Division of Facilities, said Jerry Lane, director of Facilities Services.

"We looked at geographic location and the most active centers when we decided which sites to keep open," Lane said.

An campuswide recycling effort began in 1988, Lane said.

There are no plans to cut it. "We put about $7,800 into it, but transportation and labor are our greatest costs," he said.

Lane said about a pickup-load of recyclable material is collected daily. He estimated 2 percent of the University's trash is recycled.

The program used to include glass, plastic and newspaper in its collection. However, the volume of glass and plastic

■ See CAMPUS Page 10

Newspapers may go to dump

KIRSTEN NELSON
Collegian

No. 1: The K-State Union will be the only place in town that recycles newspapers if Wal-Mart stops accepting them in its recycling bins.

No. 2: Newspapers will no longer be recycled in Manhattan if Wal-Mart stops subsidizing the local recycler.

Howie's Recycling takes newspapers only from the bins at Wal-Mart and the Union to ■ See COUNTY Page 10

COMMENTS

"Cairo's a time bomb."

— Saad Eddin Ibrahim, an urban planning expert, on poorly constructed buildings in the Egyptian capital where an earthquake Monday killed hundreds of people.

"Too often people are aware of the national elections, but the local elections often have more immediate impact."

— Michelle Munson, sophomore in chemical engineering, about a forum for Riley County Commission and county clerk candidates at 1 p.m. today.

"Racial/ethnic harmony should be a daily effort, and it will only continue if we realize this."

— Shirlyn Henry Brown, student activities assistant for Student Governing Association, about continuing efforts promoted during Racial/Ethnic Harmony Week.

"Columbus did not discover America. This day of celebration is glorifying a violent man who created a genocide with a very peaceful people."

— Karren Baird-Olson, instructor of sociology, anthropology and social work and a member of the American Indian Movement, on the recognition of Columbus Day.

"For too long, we've sat back and waited. It's time we steeped in and stepped up to help with health care in Kansas."

— Michelle Smith, sophomore in political science and pre-law and candidate for Kansas Senate, on the need to address the health-care problem.

"Nothing angers me more than the 'America is No. 1' attitude. We have this need to be No. 1. And it's too bad, because it alienates others."

— Bradley Shaw, head of the Department of Modern Languages, on why some students don't expand their cultural experiences. He was advocating student exchange programs.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.
POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.
News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.
Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15

At 9:30 a.m., Shane Irwin, Haymaker 606, reported the theft of a CD player, equalizer and radar detector from his vehicle, parked in Lot B-3. Loss was $615. He also reported the passenger side window was broken out. Loss was $200.

At 11:32 a.m., a Pontiac Sunbird, license No. TN XLQ 589 was wheel-locked for displaying a forged permit. At 3:15 p.m., Zhi Lu, T7 Jardine Terrace, reported $40-50 taken from Durland 326.

At 4:13 p.m., Jessica Vernon, Goodnow 344, reported possible fraud of selling magazines from an unknown company with no telephone number. Suspect was in Goodnow

Hall selling them to students.

At 4:16 p.m., Dustin Diehl, Goodnow 121, reported the theft of a cassette deck, an equalizer, two speakers and an amplifier from his vehicle, parked in Lot B-3W. Loss was $930. The dashboard was also damaged with a screwdriver.

At 5:31 p.m., Riley County ambulance responded to Ahearn Field House for an individual who was knocked unconscious while playing basketball. The subject was conscious when the ambulance arrived.

At 6:18 p.m., Casey Bernhardt, 1026 Gardenway, No. C, reported an algebra textbook stolen from Leasure 201.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15

At 8:26 a.m., Heather M. Eck, 914 Moro St., No. 1, was issued a notice to appear for battery.

At 9:35 a.m., Quik Shop, 1337 Anderson Ave., reported a male wearing a baseball cap, going into the store, drinking some juice and leaving without paying for it. He was last seen headed west on Anderson Avenue in a white Ford Bronco, license No. FDM 479. Loss was $1.

At 10:33 a.m., a hit-and-run accident was reported at 516 N. 14th St. A parked and unattended car owned by Jerry D. East, 114 W. 22nd St., Hutchinson, was struck.

At 1:41 p.m., an information report was filed on an attempted suicide.

At 1:30 p.m., Rebecca Lynn Bruce, 121 Fifth St., Ogden, was arrested for misdemeanor checks and released on $172 bond.

At 2:58 p.m., James M. Enoch, 1012 Fremont St., No. 2, reported damage to the windshield of his 1991 Infinity. Loss was $500.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

■ Sign-up for mock interviews for junior and seniors will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Holtz Hall until Oct. 23. Interviews will be Nov. 2.

■ Classified Senate would like to thank the Division of Facilities for providing the following recycling drop-off sites for old phone books: Ackert, Anderson, Bluemont, Seaton, Cardwell, Nichols, Umberger and Willard halls.

■ Applications for cancer research awards from the Center for Basic Cancer Research are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.

■ K-State student ambassador applications are available at the KSU Alumni Association office, fourth floor. They are due Oct. 23.

■ Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani, 532-6448.

■ Applications for Community Service Program international summer teams are available in Eisenhower 014A. Spanish required.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16

■ Flint Hills Folkdancers will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Douglass Center Annex, 901 Yuma St.

■ ECM will meet at 8 p.m. at 1021 Denison.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Olga Lorena Vindiola at 8:15 a.m. in Justin 247. Topic will be "Effect of Minerals and Apparent Phytase Activity in the Development of the Hard-to-Cook State of Beans."

■ Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17

■ Rainforest Coalition will have a work session at noon at the UFM building for Rainforest Awareness Week.

■ SPURS will meet at 8 a.m. at 615 Sunset Ave. Topic will be highway cleanup.

CORRECTIONS

In Wednesday's Collegian, Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, was incorrectly identified as Lana O'Leen.

Also in Wednesday's Collegian, the photo credit for the large front-page photo of Hillary Clinton should have been Shane Keyser.

The Collegian regrets the errors.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly sunny, breezy and cold. High in the upper 40s. North wind 15 to 25 mph and gusty. Friday night, partly cloudy. Very cold Friday night with a low 25 to 30.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Partly cloudy and warmer. High around 60.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Sunday through Tuesday: Sunday, mostly clear. Lows in the 30s. Highs 55 to 65. Monday, a chance for showers. Lows in the 40s. Highs 65 to 75. Tuesday, partly cloudy. Lows in the upper 30s. Highs in the 60s.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Bermuda	81/73	clear
Helsinki	37/37	rain
London	52/41	cloudy
Nairobi	79/57	cloudy
Rome	63/55	rain
Stockholm	39/37	rain
Vancouver	52/45	cloudy

We've got your numbers!

Friends	Ads	Faculty
Advisers	GTA's	Offices
Clubs	Tutors	Coupons
*	Housing	#

Campus Telephone Books are available in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

$2 Students, limit 2
Identification required
$3.25 Faculty/Staff
$4 All others

Kirk Evans, an employee of Mike's Wrecker Service, sweeps up glass after two cars collided at South 15th and Colorado streets Thursday afternoon. No one was injured in the accident, which totaled both cars.

K-State student escapes injury in car accident

TED KADAU JR.
AMY COX
Collegian

A non-injury accident between a K-State student and a Fort Riley resident occurred at 12:20 p.m. at the intersection of S. 15th and Colorado streets.

Tiffany Smith, senior in psychology and resuscitation instructor, was traveling north on S. 15th Street when her 1987 Toyota Celica GT was struck by the 1981 Pontiac Phoenix of Joe Ralph, Fort Riley.

Ralph was traveling west on Colorado Street when his car hit the passenger side, causing Smith's car to skid into a utility pole.

One resident said accidents at the intersection are a common occurrence.

"There have been fender benders here weekly and lots of real close calls. People don't look until they are in the middle of the intersection," said Matt Schindler, resident and bystander.

Smith was cited by the Riley County Police Department for failing to yield to the right at an intersection, RCPD Sgt. Bill Reece said.

KPL employees removed the utility pole, which had been split in half.

"It all happened so quick," Ralph said. "I was coming through the intersection, and by the time she saw me, it was too late. She should have yielded."

Smith said she did not see Ralph's car as she approached the intersection.

"I glanced over, but I didn't see him until he hit me. He must have been in my blind spot," Smith said. "I'm just glad I had my seat belt on. I'm a little sore."

Ralph said he had just bought his car a month ago and had a headache.

Sgt. Reece said both parties declined medical treatment at the scene.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Senate says look at alternatives to cuts

Bill would make recommendation to administration

AMY WRIGHT
Collegian

Student Senate heard the first reading of a bill Thursday night encouraging the Provost's Committee to consider alternatives before recommending program cuts to the Kansas Board of Regents.

The bill comes as a result of possible cuts to programs including social work, and speech pathology and audiology.

Senate's recommendation comes from a request by the Provost's Committee, Student Body President Jackie McClaskey said.

Arts and Sciences Sen. Steffany Carrel said, "The purpose of the bill is to send a message of concern and to support students who fear their curriculum will be cut."

Ed Skoog, also an arts and sciences senator, asked whether Senate planned to respond in the

■ See SENATE Page 11

CAMPUS

Ag College makes changes

Furbie named department head; new program created

ROY GRABER
Collegian

ROBERT FURBIE

The College of Agriculture now has a new department and a new faculty member.

A consolidation of four existing programs in the College of Agriculture created the Department of Communication, Information and Technology.

Robert Furbie has been selected as the department head, effective Oct. 1.

The four areas merged are the agricultural journalism academic program, the Agricultural Experiment Station Editor's Office, the Cooperative Extension Communications Department and the computer systems office.

Furbie had previous communications experience as a faculty member at Ohio State University since 1980. In 1986 he was selected as Ohio State's associate head of communication in the agriculture department.

He worked with a staff of about 40 members, he said, and was involved as an adviser for student organizations such as Agricultural Communicators of Tomorrow and National Agri-Marketing Association.

Walter Woods, who resigned last month as dean of agriculture and director of both the Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service, said the primary reason behind the merger was to improve the efficiency of the four programs.

"The four programs have to continually look toward improving," Woods said.

■ See PROGRAMS Page 14

Apple Macintosh PowerBook 145 4/40

Apple Macintosh Classic II

Apple Macintosh LC II

Apple Macintosh IIsx

Buy one of these.

Get all of these.

Get over $400 worth of preloaded software when you buy one of the Apple® Macintosh® computers shown above at our best prices ever. And if you are interested in financing options, be sure to ask for details about the Apple Computer Loan. But hurry, because student aid like this is only available through October 15, 1992 – and only at your authorized Apple campus reseller.

The Macintosh Student Aid Package.

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

MACSOURCE

A Division of The Perceptive Vision, Inc.
701 North 11th • Manhattan, KS 66502 • (913) 537-0188

Authorized
Education Sales Consultant

OPINION

OCTOBER 16, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson
Editor in Chief
Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson
Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thoman
Heather Anderson
John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajan Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

Perot still very much in race

By the Collegian Editorial Board

THE ISSUE

For the last three days, we have looked at the positive points of the presidential candidates.

WE SUGGEST

Be informed about the candidates, and on Nov. 3, get out and vote.

Lacking political experience and being a little unclear in his proposals, Ross Perot's candidacy for president would seem shaky at best.

Nonetheless, he's definitely made his presence known, and for the first time in many years, America has three viable candidates from which to choose.

Perot offers a number of differences not found in other candidates. Being a non-partisan candidate, he does not have to pander to special interests like Democrat Bill Clinton or President Bush.

Plus, he is his own political party, not needing a nomination to carry out his plans to run.

Perot would reinvigorate the nation by establishing a new industrial base that gives capitalism back to the American people. This would begin at the school level, where he would instigate comprehensive preschool programs and move research money into programs that already work.

He also plans to restore local autonomy in education and establish standardized testing across the grade spectrum.

As for the deficit, Perot has come across as a hardliner, and he believes Americans need to help restore the nation to zero deficit. This would mean tax increases, especially a heavy gasoline tax.

He would also cut discretionary spending, start a long-term energy policy to reduce our reliance on foreign oil, and reduce governmental staffs.

Perot also supports a national health-care system that relies on prevention more than cure. He sees drastic reductions in the military, especially removing the U.S. presence from Europe.

Nov. 3 is Election Day. Be informed about for whom you are voting. Political seasons only happen once every four years, and this one in particular offers a chance for change rarely seen.

Vote for whom you support.

Vote against the ones you dislike.

Just vote.

Of Hemingway, tequila, and finding the male epiphany

A couple of weeks ago, I was sitting around with a couple of female friends on a long Saturday afternoon. Bored and fairly lazy, we decided that what we really needed was an adventure.

Agreeing at once that we must get in touch with the long-repressed male side of our psyches, we were at a loss as to how exactly one gets in touch with her maleness. I mean, what does such a quest involve? Howling at the moon? Drinking mass quantities of beer? Scratching and farting in syncope? Watching football until our eyes cross? Venturing off into the woods to kill small animals and terrorize the population at large?

I immediately trekked upstairs to ask my neighbor, Scott, what we should do. An all-around football freak and frat alumnus, I figured he would surely have a clue.

Scott tore himself away from a college football marathon long enough to talk at length about how he had always wanted to go pheasant hunting with his dad and come home the victorious warrior, with food to put on the table.

"I just thought it would be cool to really feed my family," he said wistfully.

All those blood and guts and shooting things did not appeal to me and my companions, so we nixed that idea after a momentary fantasy about bonding in the woods together. Scott lent me a couple of books by Ernest Hemingway, hoping that it would inspire my journey into the testosterone zone, and he left to rejoin his football game.

We lay around all afternoon, reading "The Sun Also Rises" and talking about doing something. At one point, I thought about buying some beer and getting drunk enough to dredge up our male muses, but it would have taken too much energy. So we just stayed home.

It wasn't very inspired, I know. But it's not like we could just run out to the bookstore and buy an instruction manual.

I've had my ears and eyes open since then, observing guys that I know and folks in general, trying to figure out just what is this big secret guy-thing I think I've been missing out on.

I watched some guys playing pinball and drinking tequila at Last Chance Restaurant & Saloon and told them I was seeking my male muse. They tried to teach me how to belch like a trooper, but I didn't have much success. All I could manage were a few ladylike squeals.

I'm sorry to say, the testosterone epiphany I was looking for eluded me that evening.

In the midst of this, my brother called to announce that he and his wife are expecting their first child. We batted around a few name ideas, everyone filled with suggestions. I'm hoping to convince them to name the kid after the poet Hart Crane, male or female.

"No matter what," I told him, "if you have a girl, just promise me that you won't give her some lame-o, bimbo name like Lisa. I just feel like my whole life would have been different if I had been given a nice, strong, non gender-specific name at birth. 'I coulda been a contender,' I said as I did my best Marlon Brando imitation.

"Maybe if I were a Lindsey or Charlie or something, I wouldn't be on this quest to get in touch with my repressed masculine side," I explained. "I might have been taller, tougher."

"Lisa, let me just say three things," said my macho, 6'4" baby brother. "Your voice is deeper than mine. You have a better fast ball. And you can still kick my ass. Your quest is over."

It took me a couple of days before I realized that I was probably a lot more in touch with my male side than I had ever imagined.

LISA EDMUNDS

Debates have plenty to offer viewers

DAVID FILIPPI

Picking a winner in any one of the presidential debates is likely to be a difficult decision. There is no set formula, no scoring system and no one ordained with the proper authority to declare a victor.

Let's be honest. People hear what they want to hear and see what they want to see. Thus, it's no surprise that some of us perceived Perot's running mate, Admiral James Stockdale, to be a bumbling idiot in the vice-presidential debate, while other viewers saw him to be sincere and speaking from the heart.

So if it is impossible to agree upon a clear and unanimous winner, what purpose do these age-old engagements fulfill? Are the debates really worth our time?

The answer is yes, but for reasons other than just guessing who won and who lost.

First, the fact that the debates are being televised on all of the major networks during prime time means that hordes of people are being exposed to the political process. With millions of Americans sharing the same experience, the debates offer a unique opportunity for us to share a common identity.

Not that we should all endorse the debates as some holy American ritual above and beyond the range of criticism. Instead, mass exposure provides a common starting point for interaction and discussion within the populace.

For example, if the lack of women and minority participants is detrimental to our system of government, the debates should allow us to make this observation together. And after watching six white, wealthy, middle-aged men go at it, can we really be satisfied believing that they represent a majority of Americans?

Additionally, the debates contribute to the level of knowledge voters possess concerning the issues. Sure, it's often true that discussion between the candidates degenerates into poorly constructed ad hominem attacks or party-researched statistical blurbs. But for many people, the debates successfully expose issues of which they might have otherwise been unaware.

In the series of debates before us now, there have been a number of specific pieces of information that may have otherwise gone unnoticed by the general public. For example, Quayle's emphasis on choice in education, Perot's plan for a mammoth gasoline tax increase and Clinton's emphasis on troop reduction in Europe.

Now I've said it before, and I'll say it again: The election has already been won. I was lambasted for this this declaration since it came prior to the debates.

But research surrounding the past 30 years of presidential debates indicates that voters' perceptions of who won and who lost translate very little into increased or decreased candidate support.

An example of this phenomenon was the victory Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale experienced in a 1984 pre-election debate with Ronald Reagan. Just about everybody agreed that Mondale destroyed Reagan, but Mondale only picked up a couple of points in the overall polls.

The hypothesis researchers have found the most support for is as follows: Debates tend to reinforce preexisting attitudes. That's why two people who support two different candidates will see two very distinct winners.

And that's why the purpose of viewing the presidential debates should not rest solely in the spirit of deciding who wins and who loses.

Instead, the debates function by providing for an informed electorate. They give us perspective. This weekend is your last chance, so grab some popcorn and some friends and focus on learning about the issues.

READERS WRITE

BICYCLISTS

Sidewalks are the domain of walkers

Editor,

I am glad to see that K-State is finally doing something about bicyclists on the University's sidewalks. Pedestrians have had to endure this harassment for too long.

Cyclists don't realize how terrifying it is to have a two-wheeled machine stealthily creep up on you and then fly on past at a startling rate of speed. You feel victimized.

What I don't understand is this arrogant attitude that has arisen among campus cyclists during the past few years. It appears the cyclists have elevated themselves to demigods, declaring that they are saving the planet by riding bicycles. They reason since bicycles don't pollute the air like automobiles, then cyclists are protecting the environment.

True, bicycles alone do not pollute; it is the riders who cause the hazards. What good does it do to save on air pollution if you smash into another human being with your pollution-free bicycle, causing that person (and possibly yourself) injuries that could last a lifetime? The trade-off doesn't seem fair.

If cyclists had kept their speed down while riding across campus, the anti-bicycle backlash would not have been so strong. It seems every cyclist on campus believes he or she is competing in the Tour de France, trying to beat Greg Lemond.

Like it or not, the sidewalks are made for pedestrians first. Why do you think "walk" is part of the word? As for the argument that a sidewalk is the only way to get to a building, it's just not true. I can't think of a single building on campus that doesn't have a street, driveway, or parking lot nearby. The street may take slightly longer than the sidewalk, but you'll make your next class in time.

In deference to the campus cyclists, I do believe that the University needs to add more bike racks. The present racks are always full. While we're at it, how about a decent bike path on 17th Street running between Durland Hall and the Power Plant? Unless you have a mountain bike that loves rough terrain, this area is impassable for a two-wheeler without using the sidewalk.

Joyce Brite
Graduate student/Adult and continuing education

REORGANIZATION

Protesters need to swallow the truth

Editor,

As I was walking through the K-State Union today, I was handed a pamphlet for a rally against the controversial social work and speech pathology cuts.

It read: "Stand up and be heard. Before it's too late! Time is running out! Fact: If they can cut some of the best, most needed programs in the state, who knows what they'll cut next?"

I have heard much about how it is wrong to cut these programs, but I have yet to hear an argument which counters the rationale for the cuts in the first place. That is to say that there isn't enough money to go around. Something will be cut, despite what we, the students, think.

If the cuts are made to programs that are expensive and are required to have lower student-to-teacher ratios, then the student body as a whole benefits. If we cut these programs, then we will not have to worry about cutting other, less expensive programs.

In closing, I pose a question to the approximately 300 majors in these areas. Why should a student body of 15,000 listen to the needs of a group that composes less than 2 percent of the student body?

As for the cuts being based on discrimination and sexism — bull. To believe otherwise is to look for some excuse, any excuse, to justify a position. Money doesn't grow on trees, and the programs at Wichita State University offer greater field experience at the Institute of Logopedics and the various field placements available.

So you aren't the best program. Accept reality and stop blaming something other than harsh truth.

Scott Butler
Freshman/Mathematics

GOVERNMENT

It's no utopia, but nothing else is better

Editor,

After four years at K-State, I have come to appreciate the Collegian's ability to provide me with a variety of opinions on the Opinion page (as well as on the front page). A few I agree with, a few I do not.

One in particular that I take exception to is Kelly Klawonn's "Government has failed us all" column in Wednesday's Collegian. I would like to answer a few of her questions about the government from my point of view.

First, I would like to respond to her question on capitalism with a simple "yes." America is a capitalist society, and in fact, is the envy of the world in that regard. According to the dictionary, it is characterized by a "free market with open competition," where the means of production are "privately owned." The percentage of wealth has little to do with this interpretation.

To respond to her question about democracy in the United States, once again I will answer with "yes." This is a democracy. In my opinion, one reason registering is required is so a good percentage of the votes are informed votes, not people jumping on the bandwagon, which unfortunately appears to be the case in this election.

Yes, Ms. Klawonn, you are correct when you say the United States is "only one country in a world of chaos." And you are indeed on the money when you pronounce "not a single utopia exists on the face of the Earth."

But in my opinion, the good ol' USA is the closest thing to it. Want an example of why? When you leave campus today (from one of the best public colleges in the world in the best post-high school education system in the world), go back to your apartment (which you don't have to share with 12 others), look in the refrigerator (which probably has food in it) and try not to think about all of the people who die trying to get to America. Since you really do not like this situation we have here, maybe you would like to offer your position in life to a Croat right now.

He or she might "want to get the hell in."

Doug Robinson
Senior/Industrial engineering

PREPARING FOR WINTER

Cold is coming; shape up your car

Trouble can be prevented, local auto technicians say

KIRSTEN NELSON
Collegian

As winter temperatures drop, car engines will turn over slower, and eventually, some will not start at all.

To avoid missing that important test or being late to work again, local automotive technicians agree on some preventive measures to keep cars running.

Antifreeze is the first thing to check. Gregg Frakes, owner of Precision Automotive, recommends the anti-freeze protection level be set from 30 to 35 degrees below zero.

Testers can be purchased to check the levels, and car owners can add the antifreeze themselves. However, if the anti-freeze is not clean and needs to be disposed of, it's best not to do it yourself, Frakes said.

Wildcat Amoco manager Terry Wark said, "Most of the time you have to drain it before it can be refilled. So, it's best to take it to a shop."

Second, the battery and battery connections need to be in good shape, as well as the belts and hoses, Frakes said.

Weak batteries account for 95 percent of car-problem calls the K-State Police receive in the winter, Lt. Robert Mellgren said.

"We get a ton of them," Mellgren said.

"We have a jumper battery that we carry with us and take out there to help them start their car with."

Third, the oil needs to be changed.

The longer the oil has been in the car and the colder the temperature gets, the thicker the oil becomes, Wark said.

As a result, the car will not turn over as easily.

Fourth, the wiper blades and washer system should be checked, Frakes said.

Antifreeze, instead of water, should be in the washer solution to prevent the line from freezing, he said.

Another good idea is to keep the fuel tank fairly full, Frakes said.

"It's best not to let the tank get clear empty," Frakes said.

"If there's moisture in the system, it will go to the bottom of the tank and get drawn into the fuel line."

Moisture will freeze in the fuel line, he said.

The more fuel that's in the tank, the harder it is for moisture to get in, settle at the bottom and cause problems.

In extremely cold weather, a

WINTERIZING YOUR CAR

Preparing your car for the cold Kansas months can make your winter a little more enjoyable.

Source: Staff reports

fuel-line additive called Heet may be added, Frakes said.

Heet is basically alcohol, which absorbs the moisture in the fuel tank.

The moisture plus the alcohol then move through the system together, preventing any freezing.

Although it needs to be done, having cars ready and up to full potential for winter can be expensive for students, Mellgren said.

"Check out as much as you can on your own, or get someone you feel comfortable with to check it," Burnett Automotive owner Bill Burnett said.

A quick look-over can catch a lot of potential problems, Burnett said.

Candidates to debate on campus

The county commission and county clerk candidate forum will be from noon to 1 p.m. today in the K-State Union Courtyard.

LANE ALLISON
Collegian

Student Senate is sponsoring a forum for the Riley County Commission and Riley County clerk candidates today in the K-State Union Courtyard.

Michelle Munson, sophomore in chemical engineering, said the forum will be similar to a debate. The audience will be able to raise any issues they want addressed.

"We want to give students a chance to ask the candidates anything they want to know," Munson said.

"One of our main goals with this forum is to make students aware of the local elections," she said.

"Too often people are aware of the national elections, but the local elections often have more immediate impact."

Two candidates for county clerk are incumbent Ilene Colbert and former K-State student Craig Raborn.

Colbert said she has worked in the county commissioner's office for 23 years and that she has the experience needed for the position.

"I would like to say I've done a good job for the last four years, and if re-elected I will strive to serve the citizens of Riley County in the most efficient way," Colbert said.

Raborn said the issues he is concerned with are important to K-State students.

"I'm looking forward to the chance to voice my ideas about voter-registration policies," Raborn said.

"Unfortunately, my ideas won't have an effect this year, but they will have an immediate effect once I'm elected."

Candidates for the Riley County Commission will also be at the forum. Jan Garton and Jim Williams are running for the 2nd District, and Karen McCulloh and Robert Padden are running for the 3rd District.

Munson said a similar forum is scheduled for Oct. 30 featuring candidates for state offices.

CAMPUS

Seminar created for minorities

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

Minority students have the chance to meet faculty one on one and learn about issues facing students as part of a faculty mentoring program.

Multicultural Freshman Seminar, coordinated by Judith Lynch, associate director of the Academic Assistance Center, is in its first year.

The class is open only to minority students.

In the class, students are paired with a faculty mentor who can help them with problems.

The format is similar to the regular freshman seminar, Lynch said.

"The purpose of this class is primarily for the student to become acquainted with faculty," she said.

"It removes some of the mystery of the faculty. It gives the student a chance to talk to someone not associated with their academic work."

The class meets from 4:30 to 5:20 p.m. Wednesdays.

Speakers from different departments, many of whom have multicultural backgrounds, are scheduled for each class.

Elsa Diaz, student assistant at the Women's Resource Center and junior in physical science and industrial engineering, spoke to the class about acquaintance rape during the first few weeks of classes as part of the center's effort to educate freshmen.

Chester Mirador, freshman in biochemistry and student in the class, said students think the class helps acquaint them with K-State and its services.

"Meeting new people and getting to know them is very interesting," Mirador said. "It helps me to adapt to college life."

Xia Xia Sun, freshman in computer science, said she meets with her faculty mentor, Janet Benson, associate professor of anthropology and social work, once every two weeks.

During the meeting, she said, they discuss what is going on in her life and any problems or successes she is having.

"It's good to have someone to talk to," Sun said. "She can help you with your problems."

Melvin Center, professor of biology, is another mentor.

"The program certainly gives entering students a chance to relate to a faculty member and source of information, a source of support and a source of career guidance," Center said.

"It gives them someone who is simply a friend during their academic career here."

NEWS YOU CAN USE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Advertise with coupons? YOU BET!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Advertising 532-6560

AGGIEVILLE PIZZA SPECIAL! FREE DELIVERY 539-3830 1127 Moro, Aggieville

2-10" Pizzas (ONE TOPPING); 2 Cokes; Cinnamon or Bread Stix

ONLY $9.99

Offer good through October 23

valentino's We Didn't Stop With Pizza Sunday Buffet 10:30 a.m. - 9 p.m. $4.99 with coupon 3003 Anderson Village Plaza 537-4350

EXP 12/31/92

ROYAL PURPLE 1993

Smith-Oct. 15
Smurthwaite-Oct. 15
Van Zile-Oct. 15
West-Oct. 15
Off Campus-Oct. 16-30

PICTURE YOURSELF IN THE 1993 ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK.

Photos will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. in the K-State Union Room 209.
Call 532-6106 for an appointment.

If you are a greek member, but live in a residence hall or off campus, please have your photo taken with your fraternity or sorority.

STREETSIDE RECORDS®

HITS UNDER CONSTRUCTION

BLIND MELON

Blind Melon's self-titled debut release features a unique blend of folk melodies and acoustic arrangements stirred up by hard, electric riffs.

GUARANTEED HIT! IF YOU DON'T LIKE IT, WE'LL EXCHANGE IT FOR ANOTHER!

$6.99 Cassette

$11.99 CD

Sale ends 11/10/92

1231 Moro • 776-7373 Stay Streetsmart, Shop Streetside!

Looking for that special gift? Gift coins available for any occasion.

SPORTS

OCTOBER 16, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-STATE FOOTBALL

Cats take 3-1 record to Utah

"Their pride is hurt, and they are angry."

BILL SNYDER

Team hoping to bounce back from loss to KU

BRIAN ANDERSON
Collegian

Saturday's football game against the Utah State Aggies, K-State's final non-conference game of the season, will give the Wildcats a chance to regain their composure from last week's loss to KU.

A victory would give the Cats, 4-1 overall and 0-1 in the Big Eight, their first undefeated non-conference record since 1954 and the best start by a K-State team since 1969.

The game is at 1 p.m. in Logan, Utah, and just one week after the 31-7 loss at the hands of the Jayhawks.

But Coach Bill Snyder said that loss is behind them.

"It's over now," Snyder said. "We tried to identify the mistakes."

"Their pride is hurt, and they are angry," he said.

Despite Utah State's 1-4 record, Snyder said he has several concerns about the Aggie squad.

"They have had success at home," said Snyder, who has yet to win a non-conference road game as K-State coach. "They played well against good teams this year. They played extremely well against New Mexico State."

Utah State trounced New Mexico State on Sept. 26 at Logan, 48-21. K-State beat New Mexico State 19-0 Oct. 3.

Utah State has lost to Arizona, Brigham Young and Baylor.

One concern for Snyder is the playing environment. Not only are the Cats playing on a natural-grass field for the first time since 1989, they are also playing at a high elevation.

"All of the practice this week has been on a grass field," Snyder said. "But it shouldn't matter to how well we play."

As for the altitude, the oxygen level is much lower in Utah than Manhattan, and the belief is that players will tire faster than usual.

But Snyder said the team won't work out Friday, and he doesn't anticipate that being a problem.

The Aggie offense is led by quarterback Anthony Calvillo, who has passed for 911 yards. He has been intercepted once in his last 94 attempts.

He will be up against Jaime Mendez, who leads the nation in interceptions per game.

"They would rather throw the ball, but they have run the ball well," Snyder said. "This adds balance to their offense and makes the defense line up in different formations."

"They're a team that plays the whole field," linebacker Brooks Barta said. "We have to contain them and take away the big play."

Utah State's leading receiver is Toney Jenkins, who has caught 26 passes for 339 yards. As a team, Utah State averages 21 completions and 220 passing yards a game.

Abu Wilson is the leading rusher for the Aggies. Wilson didn't play in the last game against Brigham Young, but is still the second-best rusher in the Big West conference, averaging more than 78 yards per game.

The Aggie defense has effectively stopped the run this year. New Mexico State managed just 59 yards, while Utah and Brigham Young each ran for 88 yards.

"They have a gambling defense," Snyder said. "They play a similar defense like the University of Kansas. They bring in six or seven players to rush the line."

The key man in their defense is linebacker Jermaine Younger, who leads the team in tackles.

But the Aggie defense has been giving up the big play.

"We've got to be conscious of third-down situations and not give up the big play," Utah State coach Charlie Weatherbie said. "We've got to be aggressive and take the fight to them."

SPORTS DIGEST

► MCCARVER, SANDERS SQUABBLE IN ATLANTA

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS announcer Tim McCarver says the Atlanta Braves' Deion Sanders committed an act of cowardice when he dumped ice water on him.

Sanders poured the ice water on the CBS announcer Wednesday night's after Atlanta's 3-2 win against Pittsburgh.

The act was in apparent retaliation for comments McCarver made criticizing Sanders for playing in an Atlanta Falcons football game Sunday before rejoining his baseball team that night.

He said when Sanders doused him, he was so shocked he pulled a muscle.

► WORLD SERIES NEXT FOR JAYS, BRAVES

(AP) — Both the Atlanta Braves and the Toronto Blue Jays head into game one of the World Series Saturday night in Atlanta on emotional highs.

The Blue Jays are excited to finally be in the World Series and be able to bring it to Canada, while the Braves are just plain thrilled to have beaten Pittsburgh in Game 7 of the playoffs.

Toronto took care of Oakland in six games and enters the opener with its starting pitchers well-rested.

The Braves, meanwhile, ousted the Pirates in the last inning of game seven.

DARREN WHITLEY/Collegian

Balancing act

Brad Rechtferg, freshman in engineering, practices freestyle bicycling Thursday afternoon near Moore Hall. Rechtferg, who placed third in the Central States Freestyle Association's intermediate competition in May, said he's been freestyling for four years, but he's not certain when he began. "It was just something to do," he said.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Cowboys hoping to silence Chiefs

Dallas coach worried about KC's audibles

ASSOCIATED PRESS

IRVING, Texas — There's no "dogpound." Fans don't paint their faces, wear Indian feathers and throw things.

Texas Stadium is not a pit. Yet.

But Coach Jimmy Johnson and owner Jerry Jones and every other member of the Dallas Cowboys organization whose initials are or aren't "J.J." have all but gone door to door this week asking fans to disrupt the Kansas City Chiefs' audibles on Sunday.

"Kansas City is good at calling audibles and picking a team apart," Johnson said. "For us to be successful, our defense will have to have the same crowd noise we had at the Washington game to open the season."

A noisy, sellout crowd had the Redskins jumping offside, missing audibles and in a general state of offensive confusion when the Cowboys opened the season with a 23-10 victory over the defending Super Bowl champions.

Jones was also on the cheerleading bandwagon.

"We want the crowd involved," Jones said. "We would like to see them very vocal, like at the Washington game. We'd like to see more of it."

The Dallas fans were near-silent at last Sunday's 27-0 rout of the Seattle Seahawks.

"I guess that happens when you win big," Jones said. "But we really need help against Kansas City. We have seats close to the field.

"Texas Stadium was built for football. I think the enthusiasm of our fans could be a key factor in the game."

Dallas has won nine consecutive games in Texas Stadium, its best home winning streak since winning 18 in a row back in the early 1980s. The Cowboys haven't lost at home since the New York Giants beat them Sept. 29, 1991.

"Teams sometimes complain about the shadows and sunlight in Texas Stadium and the crown of the field," Jones said. "I think the big difference we are winning at home now is the talent on the field and the fans in the stands."

The Cowboys (4-1) are 4-point favorites over the Chiefs (4-2) mainly because of the home-field edge. The Kansas City game was sold out in July.

VOLLEYBALL

Spikers optimistic about road trip

SCOTT ABEL
Collegian

After four straight home games, the K-State volleyball team is packing its bags for a weekend on the road to face Big Eight opponent Colorado and Regis University.

Despite the six-game losing streak the Wildcats take along with them, Coach Patti Hagemeyer said she is excited by the team's improvement in its last game — a four-set loss to Iowa State Wednesday night.

"What was positive for us is that it didn't have to be a KU for us to get ready to play. The way the team came into the first game was the most intense, the most concentrated I've ever seen them," she said.

"There was never any doubt in their mind that they were going to win that first game, which is something we've never done. It's the first step for our team to be successful."

■ See SPIKERS Page 7

SPORTS

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Overtime drive

Bobby Homolka (right) of Sigma Phi Epsilon looks for an opening as he runs past Phi Gamma Delta's Steve LaFon during the second overtime of Fiji's 19-13 flag football win Thursday at the L.P. Washburn Recreation Area. The Fijis play Tau Kappa Epsilon in the fraternity division championship Sunday.

Spikers go to Colorado

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

The Cats have been led by some outstanding individual performances. Middle blocker Jill Dugan tied the school record for blocks against the Cyclones, and she leads the team with 63 for the season.

"I had a pretty good game Wednesday night," Dugan said. "I still want to be able to put it all together — pass well, serve well and hit well all at the same time."

Senior Kathy Saxton is averaging 5.63 kills a game, ranking her fifth in the nation.

"It's a tribute to her hard work this year," Hagemeyer said. "She has been doing everything that has been asked of her physically and wants to learn all she can before her career is over."

"The combination has made her a better and more confident player."

Colorado comes into Saturday's game in Boulder with a 13-3 record and ranked 15th in the nation. It is now 5-0 in Big Eight play and has won nine of its last 10 games.

The Buffaloes are returning five starters, including junior setter Nicole Vranesh, who led the nation in assists last year. Earlier this season, she became the seventh player in Big Eight history to record 3,000 assists in a career.

"Vranesh in particular has had a lot of success with the offense they run," Hagemeyer said. "CU is big, and they're strong, and they have a lot of confidence. But we're going to make them work for whatever it is they think they're going to get."

Regis University, a Division II school in the Colorado Athletic Conference, will play the Wildcats Sunday afternoon in Denver.

Regis' overall record is 5-10, but it is 2-0 at home.

"Regis has had a history of great volleyball and has played in their division's final four recently," Hagemeyer said.

Dugan said the Wildcats have improved immensely since the start of the season — something K-State needs to continue on the road.

"Even if we don't win another game this season, if we learn something from each game, it is going to help us next year," she said. "But I think we're going to win some more."

CROSS COUNTRY

Teams to face strong field at Cal Poly meet

FRANK KLEEMANN

Collegian

The K-State cross country teams finish off their preparation for conference and NCAA meets with one of the most competitive meets in the nation.

At the Cal Poly Invitational Saturday at San Luis Obispo, Calif., both the men and women will go up against several of the nation's top-25 schools.

In the women's 5,000-meter, the Cats have to run against the nation's No. 7 team, Brigham Young, plus No. 18 Stanford, No. 21 UC-Irvine, Division II No. 1 Cal Poly and UCLA.

"It will be a great race on the women's side," Coach John Capriotti said. "Our women have to look out, but that's what we need this time of the year. We meet some of the best teams in the country, but the training went really well."

Capriotti said the race is an optimal test to the final meets for the women's team, which just dropped out of the top 25 because K-State rested last week.

Leading the Cats is junior Paulette Staats, who is K-State's top finisher in the first two races. However, Capriotti expects to see a strong collective performance by the team.

"Paulette is going to run better," he said. "All our girls are running better. They all have a lot of improvement left, and the team wasn't really challenged yet."

"We need this competition," Capriotti said. "I like to run close together and up front."

The men's team won't have it any easier on its 8,000-meter course.

"We're trying to run well with the men, too," Capriotti said. "We are now in full strength. We have Chris Unthank for the first time this season."

"I'm anxious to see them in action."

Among the participating teams are UCLA, Stanford, Cal Poly and K-State — all schools that received votes for top-25 status.

"We're going there to win the meet, and hopefully after that meet we're ranked in the country," Capriotti said. "I expect a real strong race."

WEEKEND
CONFERENCE
PREVIEWBIG 8
CONFERENCE► KANSAS at
IOWA STATE

FAST FACTS: 1 p.m., Cyclone Stadium, Ames.
RECORDS: Kansas (4-1, 1-0) and Iowa State (2-3, 0-1).

THE LINE: Kansas by 14.

ABOUT THE JAYHAWKS: The No. 25 Jayhawks are coming off a school-record performance after holding the Wildcats to minus 56 rushing yards. KU is allowing just over 209 yards per game, good for second in the country. Meanwhile, the offense ranks third in the country, averaging 41 points per game.

A year ago, KU shut out Iowa State 41-0 in at home. ABOUT THE CYCLONES: Iowa State was idle following a 17-3 loss to Oklahoma in Norman two weeks ago. The Cyclones have a five-game conference losing streak. The Cyclones haven't won in the series since a 24-20 victory in 1989.

THE SKINNY: Kansas hasn't won at Iowa State since 1981. The Cyclones are celebrating homecoming festivities, and Iowa State has come away with a tie in each of the last two years on homecoming. There is no snow storm large enough that could extend that unbeaten streak to three.

► OKLAHOMA at
COLORADO

FAST FACTS: 6:30 p.m., Folsom Field, Boulder, Colo., live on ESPN.

RECORDS: Oklahoma (3-2, 1-0) and Colorado (5-0, 1-0).

THE LINE: Colorado by 6.

ABOUT THE SOONERS: Oklahoma lost last week 34-24 to unranked Texas. At OU, Coach Gary Gibbs has a 1-8 record against three of the bigger Sooner opponents — Texas, Colorado and Nebraska. OU is ranked first in the conference and 11th in the country in scoring defense, allowing 13 points a game.

ABOUT THE BUFFALOES: In its last game, No. 7 Colorado pulled off a close 6-0 win against Missouri. The Buffaloes now have a 22-game Big Eight unbeaten streak. Kordell Stewart, the fourth-ranked quarterback in the country in passing efficiency, is suffering from a broken left wrist and will not play.

THE SKINNY: Oklahoma fans have not been pleased with Gibbs' lack of success in big games. He needs a win here to quiet the critics and retain his credibility. But in Boulder, don't count on it.

► MISSOURI at OKLAHOMA ST.

FAST FACTS: 2 p.m., Lewis Field, Stillwater, Okla.
RECORDS: Missouri (1-4, 0-1), Oklahoma State (2-3, 0-1).

THE LINE: Missouri by 6 1/2.

ABOUT THE TIGERS: MU lost its last game 6-0 to Colorado, and it is trying to end a 6-game Big Eight losing streak. MU hasn't won at OSU since 1980.

ABOUT THE COWBOYS: Oklahoma State did not complete a pass in last week's 55-0 loss to Nebraska. OSU is 2-0 at home this season.

THE SKINNY: This is a battle between two coaches who aren't expected to return next year. OSU has won seven of the last eight meetings, but this year's tilt could go either way. Neither team will win this game — one will lose it.

—compiled by Mike May and Steve Rock

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

CHINESE
Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-In Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

COUNTRY
MUSIC NIGHT
FRIDAY
OCTOBER 16
9PM - 1AM

AFRICAN AMERICAN
MUSIC
NIGHT
SATURDAY
OCTOBER 17
9PM - 1AM
UNION STATION

Come and see our flowers in the
K-State Union
Bookstore

Roses $2⁰⁰ each
Carnations $1⁰⁰ each
Mixed Cutoffler
Bunches $3⁰⁰ and up

Kistner's Flowers and Greenhouse
Highway 177 South
776-7989 776-7044

Royal
Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106
to schedule an appointment
for yearbook pictures.

Get A Little Personal
with a
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Personal Classified

Kedzie Hall 103
8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday
ID must be shown when placing a personal.

Next in line...

Individual appointments
can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30
Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

Reach active voters. Advertise in the Kansas State Collegian.

More than 94 percent of the Kansas State University population reads the Kansas State Collegian. People who read newspapers are most likely to vote and are most active and concerned about their communities and the quality of life.

Among advertising media, newspapers rank first in credibility.		Newspapers reach voters, particularly those all-important ticket-splitters.
Most believable media		Read political coverage in newspapers "every or almost every day"
Newspapers	48%	Ticket-splitters	64.7%
Television	19%	Republicans	64.1%
Direct Mail	12%	Democrats	55.4%
Magazines	12%
Radio	4%
About Equal/No Opinion	5%
(Source: Home Testing Institute)		(Source: Market Opinion Research, as cited in The Ticket-Splitter by Devries and Tarrance)
In fact, people look forward to reading advertising in newspapers more than in any other medium.		Newspapers reach the most politically active citizens.
% who look forward		Read a newspaper on the average weekday
Newspapers	44%	Voted in an election	70%
Magazines	29%	Wrote to an elected official	73%
Television	9%	Visited an elected official	74%
Radio	0%	Worked for a candidate	71%
(Source: Response Analysis Corporation)		(Source: Simmons Market Research Bureau, 1989)

Newspaper advertising offers you believability, reader involvement, the ability to set the record straight, graphic impact and the ability to address serious issues you and the voters care about. Remember to include Kansas State Collegian advertising in your campaign budget.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6560

ENTERTAINMENT

FILM REVIEW

'Housesitter' fails to entertain, falls short of intentions

Viewer loses feeling for actors, script is neither comedic nor inspirational

ANDY WOODWARD

Collegian

"Housesitter" shows at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and at 7 p.m. Sunday in the K-State Union Forum Hall. Admission is $1.75.

"Housesitter," starring Steve Martin and Goldie Hawn, is a real surprise.

It's a surprise that Martin and Hawn decided to play the title roles in this mediocre farce.

Newton Davis, played by Martin, involuntarily becomes involved with compulsive liar Gwen Dunkel, played by Hawn.

After a one-night stand, Dunkel goes to Davis' hometown and moves into his other home. She then tells the entire town that they are married.

The two try to achieve their own ends by using the false marriage to their own purposes. They also spin an incredible web of lies in the process of deceiving the entire town.

One of the reasons the film doesn't work is because you don't feel sympathy for any of the characters. If you don't empathize with a character, it's really hard to care about the outcome.

You might feel sorry for Martin's character at first, but as he also starts perpetuating the lies, you lose any sympathy for him.

Many of the scripts Martin has chosen in the past have been either comedically inspired or introspective about middle age.

This script is neither.

"Housesitter" is not nearly as soul-searching as "Grand Canyon," nor is it nearly as funny as "Three Amigos" or "Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid."

"Housesitter" does not wax philosophic about deceitfulness in modern-day relationships, nor does it poke fun at the dating process. The problem is, this is what the movie sets out to do.

The film is directed by Frank Oz, who also directed "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels" and "Dark Crystal."

"Housesitter" is not quite worth the $1.75 admission. However, there are a couple of good scenes.

Watch for Martin's seduction scene with Becky, his childhood sweetheart, and make note of Rich Sholl, who is entertaining as Gwen's father.

REVIEW

Band likes change of location

Nic Cosmos left Lawrence, plays alternative tunes

MEGANNE MOORE

Collegian

Nic Cosmos did more than drink coffee in the K-State Union Station Thursday night.

The Lawrence band played to a sparse but enthusiastic crowd despite technical problems during the first few songs.

To describe its unique sound would do the band no justice. It doesn't seem to be specifically influenced by any particular group, which is a goal Nic Cosmos is fulfilling.

Percussionist Gordon Gilges said the band's sound is not underground, but an "above-ground type of sound."

Lead singer Nick Carroll said, "You could describe us as a socio-pop group, but we're trying to go for more of a diverse type of music."

The band began its set with

MARGARET CLARKIN/Collegian

Nick Carroll, a member of Nic Cosmos, leads the band during one of its songs Thursday night in Union Station. Nic Cosmos is based in Lawrence.

upbeat songs that enticed the sitting crowd closer to the dance floor. Although there were fewer than 50 people there, this didn't seem to bring down the band's enthusiasm about playing in a town they don't frequent.

"I think it's great that people support live music," Gilges said. "I'm just having a good time, because we get to play somewhere besides Lawrence. After a while you get tired of playing the same places, and we want to start playing in Manhattan more often."

Nic Cosmos is working on the release of its next compact disc, which will be available soon.

See GROUP Page 14

MUSIC

Marching bands to compete in festival

LISA COLE

Collegian

Ten high-school bands from across Kansas will gather Saturday to test their abilities at the sixth annual Central State Marching Festival.

The bands will perform before five judges, including K-State's assistant director of bands and the former director of bands at Wichita State University, said Ben Rohrer, K-State director of bands.

Each band's percussion, marching and maneuvering, music, color guard and overall performance will be awarded scores from a high of one to a low of five. Rohrer said the five scores will be averaged.

Rohrer said the festival, which starts at 1 p.m. at KSU Stadium, provides a chance to recruit for the K-State Marching Band.

Jim Sharp, K-State assistant director of bands, said the high-school bands will be judged in divisions 1A through 6A so that only bands of similar sizes are compared to one another.

"You're not going to judge a 1A band the same as a 6A band," Sharp said.

He said although the bands will be judged, the festival is mainly for learning, not competition. Sharp also will judge overall performance.

Rohrer said each band will be awarded a plaque for participation.

The KSU Marching Band will give a special exhibition performance to the high-school students while they wait for their scores.

Rohrer said the marching band will perform its new halftime show, including the songs "Home on the Range," "Carry on Wayward Son" and "Over the Rainbow."

Church Directory

UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST Fellowship of MANHATTAN  481 Zeandale Rd. (Hwy. 18) "An old church with a liberal and open-minded tradition." Sunday School and Regular Services at 10:45 a.m. FOR INFORMATION CALL 539-9369 or 537-9816	First Congregational Church Poyntz and Juliette 537-7006 Sunday School: 9:30 Worship: 10:45  Rev. Donald Longbottom	ST. LUKE LUTHERAN CHURCH (LCMS) Lutheran Student Fellowship (LSF) Campus Pastor, Rev. Robert Schaefer Sun. 8 and 10:45 a.m. Sat. Worship 6 p.m. Bible Class Sunday 9:30 a.m. 330 N. Sunset Ave. 539-2604
GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH Morning Worship 8:30 & 10:45 Collegiate Bible Study & International Bible Study Sun. 9:30 a.m. Sunday Evening Fellowship or Caring Cells 6 p.m. Family Night Wed. 7 p.m. Students Welcome! 2901 Dickens 776-0424	Manhattan Seventh-day Adventist Church Sabbath School 9:30 a.m. Sat. Worship Service 11 a.m. Sat. 600 Laramie (at 6th St.) 776-5533	FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH 801 Leavenworth 537-0518 Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m. Church School 9:30 a.m. •Weekday Programs for Youth •Nursery Available Pastor Rev. Warren Rutledge
Evangelical Free Church of Manhattan MCC Chapel S.W. corner 14th & Anderson Steve Ratliff, Pastor Sunday School 9:30 a.m. Worship 11 a.m. 776-2086 Nursery Provided	UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN 2800 Claflin 8:30 & 11 a.m. Worship 9:45 a.m. Sunday School 6:30 p.m. Sun. Eve. Service Handicapped Accessible 776-5440	FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH 8:45 a.m. Communion (first Sunday of the month) 9:45 a.m. Church School 8:45 & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services Omer G. Tittle, Pastor 612 Poyntz 776-882
Church of Christ Campus Ministry Bible Study 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship 10:30 a.m. Evening Service 6 p.m. 2510 Dickens Ave. 539-6581	CRESTVIEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH English Worship 10:30 a.m./6:30 p.m. Sunday School 9:15 a.m. Chinese Worship 1 p.m. 4761 Tuttle Creek Blvd. (3 miles north of Kimball Ave.) 776-3798	First Baptist Church Sunday Worship 11 a.m. Church School 9:45 a.m. 2121 Blue Hills Rd. 539-8691
WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH Welcome Back, Students Worship 10 a.m. Sunday School 9 a.m. Sunday Evening Worship 6 p.m. 1st, 3rd, & 5th Sundays CARE CELLS (Small Groups) 6 p.m. 2nd & 4th Sundays 3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173	LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY Craig Sommer, Campus Pastor 539-4451 located in the ECM building SUNDAY WORSHIP 11 a.m. Danforth Chapel (on campus behind McCain Aud.)	The Episcopal Church Welcomes You. Saint Paul's Episcopal Church and Saint Francis Episcopal Fellowship at KSU (Worldwide Anglican Communion) Sixth & Poyntz 776-9427 - Sunday Services - 8 A.M. Holy Eucharist Rite I 9:30 A.M. Christian Education Classes (for all ages) 10:30 A.M. Choral Eucharist Rite II (Nursery available at 10:30 service) - Tuesday Services - 10:00 P.M. Informal Holy Eucharist KSU Danforth Chapel - Wednesday Services - 12:15 P.M. Holy Eucharist
Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship 10th & Fremont 539-4079 Harris H. Walner, Pastor Church School 9:30 a.m. Worship 10:45 a.m.	St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center Masses: Sat. 5 p.m. Sun. 9:30, 11 a.m. & 5 p.m. Confessions: Sat. 3:30 p.m. 711 Denison 539-7490 Chaplain: Father Keith Weber	FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (for all ages) 10th & Poyntz 537-8532

WE TAKE TIPS!

532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Perm Special

$5 OFF

Perm of Your Choice

Reg. Price $35 and up
Exp 10-20-92

Call 539-2921 & ask for Dana or Alice.

1129 Westloop

Pizza Hut

DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION NEAREST YOU.

•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4334

Pneumatic Task Chair

- Fingertip pneumatic seat height control
- Pivoting seatback, dual wheel casters
- Sturdy, five-leg star base
- Grey, Burgundy, Blue, Black, or Brown

SLHN-7901 Series
List $202.00 Each

$129.00

office world

Westloop Shopping Center 776-6864

Mancinelli's Ristorante Italiano

OPEN 5-10 DAILY

All you can eat Spaghetti Dinner $3.95 with Meatballs Bread sticks Salad

This Week's Specials

★ Steak & Pasta
6oz. Sirloin Steak served with Breadsticks, Salad and your choice of pasta.
$6.95

537-8443 2304 Stagg Hill Rd.
Next to Clyde's in Manhattan

GREAT MEMORIES START HERE

1993 ROYAL PURPLE

ATTENTION ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

REVIEW

Performances warm Arctic film

Charles Martin Smith plays a scientist studying animal habitat in 'Never Cry Wolf'

TOM LISTER

Collegian

It depicts a question of survival of the fittest.

"Never Cry Wolf," starring Charles Martin Smith, is the story of a scientist who crosses the distance between himself and a species of animals set for extermination.

In the film's beginning, Smith's character is sent to an Arctic area to study the behavior of the wolf, which has been held accountable for the dwindling population of caribou in the region.

As the movie progresses, we realize Smith's grim image of the wolf was false.

Unfortunately, we also learn the wolf and native traditions surrounding it are, nonetheless, bound for extinction.

Although the film's final statement is sober, viewers should still appreciate what Smith, as the scientist, sees on his journey. Polar landscapes of all seasons are shown, as well as the animals of the region.

In addition, the movie features a soundtrack that makes the ride all the easier.

Smith gives a convincing portrayal of a scientist greatly distanced from the world he studies. His transformation at the end of the movie comes across just as real.

In the beginning, he's a determined scientist who tries doggedly to type a report in snowy winds. In the end, he's running buck-naked with a herd of caribou.

Brian Dennehy is great as the

■ "Never Cry Wolf" shows at 2 p.m.

Saturday and Sunday in the K-State Union Forum Hall. Admission is $1.75 pilot who drops Smith off in the region. He more than adequately embodies all the characteristics Smith first respects, then later hates.

The best performances of all, though, come from Zachary Littimangnag and Samson Jorah, who play a father and a son. Rather than play roles, it seems the two appear naturally.

Jorah, as son Mike, shows how the traditions of the native population are being lost with succeeding generations. Watch him smile.

"To me, the wolf means money," Mike says.

The seriousness of the film is interrupted by a few comic moments. Smith has to mark his place with territorial pissings. He also has a few rodent snacks.

Unfortunately, one depressing aspect of the film occurs before you can set foot into the theater. "Never Cry Wolf" can only be seen at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in Forum Hall at the Union.

The evening slots for this weekend were given to the mind-boggling flick "Housesitter."

LIVE MUSIC CALENDAR

►FRIDAY, OCT. 16

SUNDOWN
9:30 p.m. at Silverado Saloon

CARIBE
10 p.m. at Boulevards 11th St. Bar & Grill

►SATURDAY, OCT. 17

TOM BOY, LISA LIED, PEACE
9:30 p.m. at Charlie's Neighborhood Bar

CARIBE
10 p.m. at Boulevards 11th St. Bar & Grill

SUNDOWN
9:30 p.m. at Silverado Saloon

Food For Your Brain.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

GREAT
MEMORIES
START
HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS:

Get your group signed up for a Departmental photograph. Portraits will be taken through Oct. 29.

Call 532-6557 to schedule a time.

INDIA STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Presents

PUSHPAK - a silent comedy movie

at LITTLE THEATER

On SATURDAY, 17th October, 5:30 p.m.

Admission is Free

Cosponsored by ICC

PARTY
PRICES

Snip-n-Clip

3rd Anniversary

This Saturday

All Haircuts, All Day...

only $5

Saturday only, from 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Prizes & Refreshments
No Appointment Necessary
Located in K-mart Shopping Center
431 E. Poyntz • 776-6410

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Display Advertising
5 3 2 - 6 5 6 0

Have a date Sunday nite
but short on cash?

It's 1/2 price nite at Bobby T's Bar & Deli!
Buy one sandwich & get the other for 1/2 price from 6 to 9 p.m.

MAKE YOURSELF HEARD

at the

RILEY COUNTY CANDIDATE FORUM

Friday, October 16
12 noon - 1 pm
Union Courtyard

RILEY CO. CLERK CANDIDATES

Ilene Colbert and Craig Raborn

COUNTY COMMISSION CANDIDATES

2nd District: Jim Williams
3rd District: Robert Pudden
Jan Garton Karen McCulloh

WILL BE PRESENT TO ANSWER YOUR QUESTIONS

sponsored by KSU Student Governing Association

BOWL BOUND CATS DREAM PACKAGE

Coca-Cola Bowl
Tokyo, Japan, Dec. 3-8
Game Dec. 6, 1:00 pm

$1,695. double occupancy

Package Includes...

- * RT Airfare from KCI to Tokyo
- * Personal Travel Escort from KCI
- * Transfers to and from Airport to Hotel
- * Lodging at the Hotel Imperial in Tokyo
- * Transfers to and from Hotel to Game
- * Gold Seat Game Ticket (VIP) to see K-State vs. Nebraska
- * Lunch At Game
- * American Breakfast each morning in Tokyo
- * Certified Souvenir from Coca-Cola Bowl
- * All Hotel & Airfare taxes
- * Free Passport Photos
- * Optional Sight Seeing Tours available

Hurry Make Reservations Now!

957 Seth Child • Village Plaza Shopping Center
539-0531
or 1-800-748-7820

Classic

Travel & Tours

1212 Moro • Aggieville
537-7546
or 1-800-842-1570

Something
To Believe
In...

United Way of
Riley County

How does United Way work? United Way is a volunteer organization. Volunteers raise the money. They also make the tough decisions about where the money is needed in our community. Hundreds of volunteers begin the process by studying community needs and setting priorities. They review agency programs and budgets. They look at other sources for funds available for programs. They allocate the donated funds to meet priority needs. Finally, volunteers carefully monitor the process to assure your dollars are spent effectively.

Here are facts on just a couple of local agencies supported by your United Way of Riley County...

Local Agency Fact File:

Kaw Valley Girl Scout Council

411 poyntz, P.O. Box 704, Manhattan
Phone: 539-4812
Contact Person: Karen Walker
The Girl Scouts provide informal education to girls ages 5-17 in leadership, the arts, science and technology, intercultural understanding, health and well being, along with outdoor experiences.

Local Agency Fact File:

Coronado Council of Boy Scouts

708 Mission, Manhattan
Phone: 537-7423
Contact Person: Tony Will
Provides educational program of character building, citizenship training, personal fitness and leadership training through organized groups of youths with adult volunteers.

"It Works"

United Way
of Riley County

Sponsored by Please make your pledge today. Ask your employer for a pledge card or call the United Way office at 776-3779.

Voters question the candidates in 2nd debate

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Rather than standing behind the customary wooden podiums, Bush, Clinton and Perot sat on stools and paced in front of them. With Carole Simpson of ABC News moderating, they fielded questions from an audience of 209 voters.

Bush started more aggressively than in Sunday's debate, criticizing Clinton for waffling on issues.

Clinton replied he has been "disturbed by the tone and tenor of this campaign. I'm not interested in his character. I'm interested in changing the character of the presidency."

Bush used his closing statement to ask the voters to decide who has the perseverance, character, integrity and maturity to handle a crisis in the Oval Office.

In his closing, Perot stuck to his outsider's appeal, saying if Americans want to solve their problems, not just talk, "I'm the one person they ought to consider."

Clinton closed by speaking to the voters in the audience rather than looking into the camera.

He criticized trickle-down economics, then said: "We've got to grow the economy by putting people first."

The three men then shook hands and moved into the audience to greet their questioners.

One asked whether they would agree to not seek re-election if they could not wipe out the deficit in four years.

Clinton replied "no," explaining that eliminating the deficit would require tax increases and cuts in benefit programs so large that it could worsen the economy.

Instead, he said he would "bring it down by 50 percent and grow the economy."

Bush questioned his proposals. He said Clinton wants a $150-billion tax hike and $220 billion in more federal spending, but Clinton immediately disputed the tax figure and said TV news researchers had backed him up. He said his plan included $100 million in tax cuts and incentives.

In contrast, Bush called for a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, a line-item veto to permit him to bar individual projects, and a plan to allow taxpayers to earmark a portion of their taxes to reduce the deficit.

Perot said neither Republicans nor Democrats were willing to take blame for the nation's huge debt.

County asked to subsidize Howie's ship for recycling. It does not take newspapers from private citizens. "You can't take newspaper and operate in the black," said Joann Wilson, owner of Howie's, the only local recycler of newspapers. "You operate in the red."

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

The Union and Wal-Mart subsidize Howie's to ship the papers for recycling. If Wal-Mart discontinues the service, Howie's will have to stop taking in newspapers, Wilson said.

"It's not cost effective," she said. "We receive enough out of them to get the papers out of here."

Wal-Mart officials would not comment on whether they will stop taking newspapers. Wilson said it gives Howie's four bins a week.

A proposal was made Oct. 12 to the Board of County Commissioners to subsidize Howie's to take newspapers from the community.

County recycling coordinator Monty Wedel said, "I gave a proposal to the County Commission today. We would pay them $22.50 a ton. Howard will use the papers for an animal-bedding program and ship the rest to Wellsville," the closest processing plant.

Howie's gets about $150 per semi-load, which doesn't cover costs of rental for two trailers, mileage, truck drivers, insurance and labor, Wilson said.

Campus still recycling

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

being dropped off was so low that it was cut. Newspapers were cut because Howie's Recycling stopped collecting them, Lowe said.

Debbie Whitaker, sophomore in business administration, is responsible for recycling in Ford Hall, which collects newspapers and aluminum cans.

The Union, which has a different funding source, has its own recycling program for products used there.

"We recycle what we collect in-house," said Jack Connaughton, associate director of the Union.

The Union has to pay to get rid of some of its products, such as cardboard, grease and newspaper. It also collects aluminum cans and white, colored and computer paper.

Union Director Jack Sills said, "We pay people to pick up the cardboard, but that costs less than what we would have to pay to put it in the compactor."

Campus drop-off sites include Ackert, Anderson, Bluemont, Cardwell, Nichols, Seaton, Umberger and Willard halls.

Special EVENTS

AT MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

Anna Seaton*

Welcome & Autograph Session

Saturday, October 17

Noon - 1:30 p.m.

Picnic Place

* Bronze medalist in the 1992 Summer Olympics

in the heart of it all.

DILLARDS JCPENNEY SEARS SPECIALTY SHOPS PICNIC PLACE
MONDAY THROUGH SATURDAY 10-9, SUNDAY 12-5:30
539-9207

3RD AND POYNTZ

VIETNAMESE STUDENT ASSOC.

Present

A Way to Entice Your Taste Buds
Charbroil BBQ Pork Over Rice Noodle

For Only

$5 All You Can Eat * $3 One Trip

Sunday, Oct. 18 at 6 pm

St. Isidore's Church (Kramer Hall)

(Corner of Anderson & Denison)

Sponsor by ICC

TONIGHT

ALL YOU CAN EAT!!

Boiled Shrimp Buffet starts at 5 p.m.

$4 All you can eat with beverage purchase

18 to enter; 21 to drink

619 N. 12th Street; Aggieville

537-2100

Dixie Cadillacs

Las Vegas Lounge Show

Featured in KC Star

October 16 & 17

$1 off cover with this ad

Alibi Country Club

1322 Grant Ave.

Junction City

18 to Enter, 21 to Drink

NOTICE

BULLETIN FOR BICYCLISTS

Complaints have been received concerning bicycles on pedestrian walkways and sidewalks. Also, many bicycles have been attached or locked to railings on or adjacent to ramps designed for physically limited individuals. Bicyclists should be aware of several rules, laws, and regulations that prohibit such activities.

OPERATIONS

Kansas Vehicle Law Book (KSA 8-1587 to 8-1592) and KSA 74-3209 to 74-3216 require that bicycles be operated as if they were motor vehicles. Bicyclists are required to yield the right of way to pedestrians in marked crosswalks, obey all traffic control signs and devices, and keep as far to the right on the roadway as possible. Bicyclists must ride on roadways, bike paths, or bike lanes.

PARKING

Unattended bicycles must be placed in bicycle racks. When racks are full the bicycle must be parked in the immediate vicinity or racks. Under no circumstances shall bicycles be parked in shrubbery, in buildings, on sidewalks, near building exits or entrances (blocking exits or entrances), in motor vehicle stalls, or attached to railings attached to physically limited access routes.

IMPOUNDING

Bicycles not properly parked will be impounded and may be reclaimed at the Department of Public Safety (University Police) upon demonstration of ownership and payment of established fees.

ENFORCEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

The Department of Public Safety is responsible for the enforcement and administration of the Parking and Traffic Regulations, the Kansas Motor Vehicle Code, and the bicycle control provisions thereof.

Paid For By Parking Services, KSU Council on Parking, & Traffic and Police Operations

FORT RILEY

Apples abound at vintage fall fest

Sunday event to benefit military museums

JENNIFER BEALS
Collegian

People can step into the past Sunday during the sixth annual Fort Riley Apple Days Fall Festival.

The event, which is sponsored by the Fort Riley Historical and Archaeological Society, is a fundraiser for the maintenance of the Custer House and two of the base's museums.

It also helps children understand the lifestyles of the era, publicity chairwoman May Giulitto said.

"I think kids will really enjoy this," she said.

"It gives them an idea of what really did occur in the 1800s. It really gives them a chance to see the clothes of the period, also."

Giulitto said the event gives Fort Riley the opportunity to honor George Armstrong Custer, who resided at the base for six months before his death at Little Big Horn, Mont.

At the festival, visitors can tour the Big Red One Museum, which was created after the Persian Gulf War.

The Cavalry Museum, which features such items as authentic cavalry uniforms and weapons, will also be open to the public.

Sunday's events will include a mini-craft fair, carriage rides, cavalry troop re-enactments, an antique car show and an apple-press demonstration.

Visitors can buy whole apple pies or slices to help defray the remodeling and upkeep costs of the museums.

A TRIP TO THE PAST

■ The Fort Riley Apple Days Fall Festival will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at the Custer House. Admission is free.

Gail Lund, planning committee chairwoman, said the Custer House is one of the four remaining buildings at Fort Riley that existed in the 1800s.

Senate needs to take stand, Smith says

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

same way if cuts in other departments would be proposed if the Provost's Committee decides not to recommend the alternatives.

"We need to decide if Senate is going to take a stand as a body in support of the programs being threatened, or if we are going to support administrative decisions," Education Sen. Amy Smith said.

McClaskey addressed Senate during informal discussion about its reception of people during the open period.

Several students, who had asked for support in battling program cuts had complained of excessive talking and lack of attention, she said.

"Constituents come in and do not feel like they are being listened to," McClaskey said. "We need to respect each other and those who come into this room. We can't do our jobs if we are not listening."

In other business, Senate passed the 1993 fiscal year final allocations of the Student Activity Fee. The bill was passed after defeat of an amendment by Graduate Sen. Joel Gruenke to remove a $1,000 honorarium allocated to College Republicans.

The honorarium is being allocated to College Republicans because of increased membership and to help fund speakers.

Gruenke and executive member Elsa Diaz said they thought the money should be requested after the organization completed fund-raising efforts. Diaz said the money should be allocated after speakers have been arranged.

Finance Chairwoman Sarah Caldwell said, "I don't want Senate to get in the habit of penalizing groups who don't know exactly what is coming up."

During reports, Director of Student Safety Ed Leboeuf discussed plans to alleviate problems with overcrowded bicycle racks, bicycle safety and areas accessible to bicyclists on campus.

Leboeuf said one possibility would be to move all bicycle racks to the perimeters of campus. This, he said, would cut down on the threat of student injuries because bicyclists would no longer ride by pedestrians on sidewalks.

"The rule on the books is no bikes allowed on sidewalks," he said.

Leboeuf said this is not a pedestrian vs. bicyclist vs. driver issue. It is more a matter of finding space for additional racks, he said, and removing reasons for bicyclists to be on sidewalks.

Widening sidewalks for paths would be a good option, he said, but it is impossible now because of budget considerations.

Leboeuf said a new kind of rack that holds more bikes is being considered.

Faculty Rep. Phil Anderson said the University wants to encourage bicyclists to help the parking situation. He suggested putting racks in parking lots where the bikes could be monitored.

"We are going through all aspects of the issue, and there is still the possibility we will come to the conclusion that nothing needs to be done," Leboeuf said.

CITY

Fun walk course at Oktoberfest

Annual Volksmarch part of Aggieville's German festival

KRISTEN NELSON
Collegian

Aggieville Oktoberfest is a way to give back to the community, said Cheryl Sieben, director of the Aggieville Business Association.

"I think it provides a day of family entertainment. We attract people from the community, as well as people from out of town. It gives families something to do," Sieben said.

The festival will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

This is the 12th year for the Oktoberfest, and it will be filled with food vendors, craft booths, live entertainment, kids' entertainment and a Volksmarch, Sieben said.

This is the third year for the Volksmarch.

"What's neat is you don't know where you're going until you sign up and get the map," Sieben said. "The course is marked with flags, and they try to set it up on a route covering historical sites.

"On the map it gives an explanation of the things you're seeing, so it's sort of like an adventure," she said.

The walk starts and ends at Triangle Park, and there is no entry fee. It is sponsored by the Aggieville Business Association, Knights of Columbus Council 8488, Varney's Book Store, the Pathfinder and Olson's Shoe Service.

The Volksmarch became popular in the United States after the military became familiar with it in Germany, Sieben said. People travel all over the country to march.

Some Volksmarchers do it for credit, Sieben said. For credit, the march costs $1.50, and to receive a medal it costs $5, she said.

"It's a 6.2-mile pleasure walk, not for competition. You start at your own leisure between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.," she said. "I think it takes about two to three hours to finish, at a leisurely pace."

Oktoberfest will be in the 1100 and 1200 blocks of Moro Street. A stage will be set up across from the Aggieville Pizza Hut, where Sunset Zoo will have a birds of prey show from 11 to 11:30 a.m. and a reptile show from 12 to 12:30 p.m.

Double Exposure, a mother-daughter pop duo, will perform at 1 p.m., and Streetside, a four-man a cappella group, will perform from 3 to 4 p.m.

Sieben said craft booths will feature Victorian dolls, rabbits, windmills and many Christmas and Halloween items.

There will be a petting zoo from the Dark Mountain Farms with potbelly pigs, fainting goats, pygmy goats, miniature donkeys and sheep, llamas, hens, chicks and rabbits, Sieben said.

Also, there will be a pumpkin ring toss, face painting by Sunset Zoo, and the Whopper Hopper for kids to enjoy.

Food will be provided by local vendors such as Rusty's Last Chance Restaurant & Saloon and Kite's Bar and Grille, Sieben said. The menus range from bierocks and bratwursts to caramel-apple sundaes and deep-fried peaches.

"Last year, we estimated 6,000 to 7,000 people came throughout the course of the day. Let's just hope the weather holds up," Sieben said.

"We attract people from the community, as well as people from out of town. It gives families something to do."

CHERYL SIEBEN

Little Caesars
CHEESER! CHEESER!
IS BACK
2 MEDIUM PIZZAS
LOADED WITH EXTRA CHEESE AND UP TO 3 TOPPINGS
Plus FREE Crazy Bread
$8.98 PLUS TAX
Little Caesars Pizza! Pizza!
Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!
Offer valid for a limited time only at participating stores. No coupon necessary. Free Crazy Bread offer is a four piece order.
©1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

Westloop Center • 539-3333

VALUABLE COUPON MONDAY MADNESS 2 PEPPERONI PIZZAS $5.99 Medium Plus Tax YOUR CHOICE: • ONE OF EACH! • PANIPANI! • PIZZAPIZZA! Valid Monday only with coupon at participating Little Caesars. Extra toppings available at additional cost. *Excludes extra cheese. Expires 10/25/92 Little Caesars © 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc. VALUABLE COUPON	VALUABLE COUPON PARTY PACK! 4 large pizzas with cheese and 1 topping plus two 32 oz. soft drinks $20.98 Plus Tax YOUR CHOICE: • 4 PIZZAS • ANY COMBINATION • PAN OR ROUND! Valid only with coupon at participating Little Caesars. Extra toppings available at additional cost. *Excludes extra cheese. Expires 10/15/92 Little Caesars © 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc. VALUABLE COUPON
---	---

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Memorial Hospital's low-dose, film-screen mammography unit is designed and used exclusively for mammograms. Our service is professionally staffed by experienced radiologic technologists and it is fully accredited by the American College of Radiology.

What can you do to help protect yourself from breast cancer?

- Practice breast self-examination (BSE) monthly.
- Have a breast exam by your physician annually.
- When you reach the age of 35, ask your physician to schedule you for a baseline mammogram, and follow the American Cancer Society guidelines thereafter. Between the ages of 40 and 49, a mammogram should be done every one to two years, with a physical breast exam by your physician every year. After age 50, a mammogram and physical breast exam should be done every year.

To receive a free BSE shower card from Memorial Hospital, call the public relations department at 587-4228.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Yesterday's values. Tomorrow's technology

1105 Sunset P.O. Box 1208 • Manhattan, KS 66502 • 913-776-3300

WSU leaves lobbying organization

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

semester, the fee will be about 42 cents per student.

The lowering of fees, as well as ASK opening up to all four-year institutions in Kansas, influenced K-State's decision to stay in ASK.

Farmer said she thought Wichita State's decision could affect how K-State and other ASK members will view the organization.

"Right now, I am unsure," Farmer said. "Because Wichita State pulled out, the ASK budget decreased."

Beck said she didn't think Wichita State's decision should influence others much, because the schools have different needs.

"Who knows what will come of it?" Beck said.

"We have a non-traditional campus. It's not a feeling of hostility, just a feeling that ASK does not and cannot represent our needs."

Rep. Kent Glasscock, R-Manhattan, said the Wichita State withdrawal was a risk.

"They've got to be careful," Glasscock said. "If they see themselves as a community college, they'd be better off to try to get funding from Sedgwick County."

THE RIDE KSU STUDENT TRIPS TO ART MUSEUMS made possible through the fine arts fee

The department of art will organize a series of trips to art museums throughout the current academic year. The student fine arts fee assessed at registration will subsidize the cost of the travel. Please take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to view exciting exhibits and collections in the region. Keep an eye on the Collegian for activities associated with THE RIDE.

The first trip will be to see an outstanding exhibition of EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN MASTERPIECES FROM THE WILLIAM J. KOCH COLLECTION at the Wichita Art Museum and the TEAM SPIRIT exhibition at the Wichita Center for the Arts and the Salina Art Center. The Koch exhibit includes 120 paintings, sculptures and decorative objects from the private collection of William J. Koch and the Spring Creek Art Foundation by artists including Picasso, Monet, Remington, Cezanne, Benton, Wood and Manet. THE TEAM SPIRIT exhibits are objects made by artists working together in pairs or groups. Three major preoccupations in this exhibit are art about the environment, art about art and art about social and political issues.

The first Ride will leave the K-State Union at 8 a.m. on Saturday, October 24, 1992. Reservations are required.

Contact the Department of Art 532-6605, or stop by room 105 in the Art Building for information or to reserve your seat. Make your reservations by October 20.

The cost of the trip will be $5 for students and $15 for faculty and friends. There will be a lunch break in downtown Wichita.

ESSENTIALS

Watch for the election special, coming October 22 in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

Cassandra did not receive any letters for today. She needs your help to continue her column.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

YOUR SOURCE FOR FEATURES

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

I had a hard time getting up today.

My alarm went off at 7, but I reset it for 7:30.

At 7:30 I reset it for 8, and at 8 I reset it for 8:30.

I thought I'd feel more like getting up each time, but I never did.

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

ACROSS

- 1 Inseparable
4 Make it through
8 What an X might mean
12 Irritate
13 Jai follower
14 Garfield cohort
15 Leaves
17 Dismissed
18 "Unforgettable" singer
19 Chases after flies
20 Photo finish?
22 Gopher's goal
24 Pennsylvania city
25 A husky type?
29 Take top honors
30 Worked as a cobbler
31 Business deg.
32 Wisdom
34 Writer
35 Buddies
36 Beauty, to

Keats

- 37 Computer hookup
40 Game show host Bob
41 Karas of "Webster"
42 1990 Cher film
46 Transportation company
47 Mosque
48 Bronx attraction
49 Santa's load
50 Oswald's assassin
51 Here, appropriately

DOWN

- 1 Future aces
2 Land of Lincoln? (abbr.)
3 Severe
4 Tureen accessory
5 Hand lotion
6 Francisco or Diego
7 "the season..."
8 Acceptable
9 Light bulb?
10 Participate in a hoote-nanny

- 11 Collections
16 Staff member, musically
19 Runners in white?
20 Feline remarks
21 Solo
22 Handles
23 Follow orders
25 Earth starter
26 Vaccinate
27 Somewhat
28 Poetic Ogden
30 Con game
33 Tops
34 Vicinity
36 The Who's rock opera
37 "...the rat/ That ate the—"
38 Hodgepodge
39 Just say no
40 Snatch
42 "Bei— Bist du Schon?"
43 Aussie bird
44 Adams or Johnson
45 Turf

Solution time: 21 mins.

ELAN PIP SKIP
LINO ADO PILL
KNOT NOT ONLY
SENATE HOOK
AMPLE ELF JUG
RARE AGE TONG
AMO FLO POUTS
BALLOFFIRE
AURA DONATE
HAMS LET ARIA
ALIT FRO INNS TINY ARM LOGY

Yesterday's answer 10-16

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873 19¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

FBY XRMU ZYETXR FX
TDWYMY OBYR FBWRKT
KX OEXRK WT P
EYZPWEDPR.
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: BUY HOT DOGS ON THE STREET AND YOU'LL BE CURBING YOUR APPE-TITE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals M

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

- 1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word
- 2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word
- 3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word
- 4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word
- 5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word (consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications.

Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE 532-6555
FAX 532-7309

OR WRITE COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(except holidays)

$COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITY for non-traditional or minority undergraduates who are science or health profession majors. Pick up an application in Ackert 234. Deadline for consideration is Nov. 5, 1992.

020 Lost and Found
Found ads can be placed free for three days.
$100 REWARD—He's still missing. Lost, white cat. Last seen 9/27 Candlewood Drive and Kimble Avenue. 537-0537 days; 539-3644 evenings.

FERRET FOUND at Ninth and Moro. Call and identify. Alan 776-1332 after 5p.m.

FOUND BOOKS in faculty/ McCann parking lot on the curb Fri. Oct. 9. Call to identify 776-5491.

FOUND ONE pair of glasses in Weber 123 after the 11:05 class. Pick up in Calvin Hall 108.

FOUND: LEATHER jacket in Cardwell. Call with description, and what room you lost it in. 537-9307.

LOST: GOLD bracelet on campus Oct. 12, 1992 possibly Willard 114 or Ackert 120. Reward $50. Contact 587-0895.

030 Personals
We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.
BUD, DON'T worry about your birthday. You're not really that old! You still have three more years before the big 4-0. Love you lots! Kitten.

DELTA CHI Congratulations to Jeff H. Delta Chi Fraternity's Brother of the Week.

G-PH'S. ARE you ready for Saturday night? Put your boots on and pull your hats on 'cause Owl and Crescent Moon is coming up!! Love, Chi-O's.

GUESS WHOSE twenty-tooth birthday is today? You didn't know?? You betta aks somebody!! Happy birthday, Charal Love- Sheri, Becky, and Denise.

HEY AGP'S: Good luck at Plunge! You're awesome guys and we know you'll do great.

Love your Pi Phi Coach- es.
HEY LITTLE Sis you are here at last. This wee-

Not enough time on your hands to get everything done?
Check the Classifieds service directory.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 532-6555

kend will be a trip to the past. We'll see Bambi, Snow White, and that wolf movie too! If you are really good we'll go to the zoo.

JENNY A: Happy birthday to the best sister in the world- Bang! Only one more year for some real fun. Love, Bro.

LEE, ROD, Mike F., Mike M., Ken—We're gonna "Boot Scootin Boogie" the night away, so leave your "Achy Breaky Hearts" at home cuz we'll shed no "Tears in Our Beers." Yee-haw! Love Chi O Dates.

PI PHI Shannon B. The Journey was long, the yarn was in knots, I'm glad you kept going 'cause I've got a great dot. Love, Mom.

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS

SEE YA ACTIVE SHMUCKS. From the pledge class of AKL.

TO MY Bobby- "Love... all my life I have read of it, dreamed of it, waited for it, cried alone for it, searched for it, needed it. Now, in you, I have found it." I'm so glad we've had the opportunity to fall in love all over again. You've made me who I am. "You are my sunshine... you'll never know, dear, how much I love you." Happy Anniversary. My love always, Kristine.

036 Bosses' Day Personals

CEO- NO beefs with are Big Cheese. Bully for our boss! -SP People.

ERIC AND KATE- Happy Bosses' Day! Be carefull Love- Kirk, Stacey, Julie, Dan, Dawn, Lysa, Matt, Terry, Curtis, and Rachel.

GREEN GREGS and Sam. We like you in the news-room. We like you at the RIM. We like you at budget. We don't even mind those Virginia Slims. Happy Bosses Day, Sam I am! Love, your staffers. P.S. Eat beef!

TO MARTIN S.- To a great boss and a good one. Jazz Crambone.

TO OUR Bosses' rare and true, we are so glad we work for you. AF, JH, WH, PH, GZ.

TO OUR shepherd, Mike. Ewe are a great boss. Happy Bosses Day, from your sheepish flock in the Holton fold.

WE HAVE the best bosses on campus. Thank you Kay C., Jim R., Timothy D. The staff of Freshward Services.

WE SALUTE S.E. He's not our Savior, but he's better than the West-Hoob, Leo, Slick, Wild-crapps.

YOU GUYS are great, patient, understanding, kind. You're all top rate. Working for you we don't mind. Troy Lynn, Leslye.

050 Parties n-More

STOREBOARD
Sports Bar
$2 BIG BEERS

Jagerettes
Tonight
9-12

100
HOUSING/
REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX available, partially furnished. Mont Blue apartment, one block from campus. 539-4447.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH living room and dining room, available immediately, located at 412 N 11th St. Apt. 5, $350, most utilities paid. 539-4374 or 587-0756.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY! Sublease one-bedroom $305. Now through July 31. Campus shuttle. Pool/ hot tub. 537-3683 after 5p.m. or message.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Britnay Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/ dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

NICE STUDIO apartment, 1019 Houston. Near City Park. Utilities paid, except water. $295, 1-800-593-0519. Open this Saturday.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 1960 Hunting #16. Available immediately. Close to campus. Central air/ heat and coin operated laundry facilities. $395, includes water, trash and pest control. Call for appointment 776-3804.

SPACIOUS ONE- two-bedroom. Beautiful hard wood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan. - Aug. 539-2019.

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available in town home for now or next semester. Very nice. Call 539-6684.

120 For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/ dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities. Lease plus deposit 539-3672.

THREE-BEDROOM HOUSE unfurnished. Close to campus. 539-1975.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6p.m.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Large, two-bedroom, own room, washer/ dryer, $169 plus utilities. Available as soon as possible. Ask for Emily or Nicole 776-2048.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Large house, own bedroom, washer/ dryer, all utilities paid. $212.50/ month. Must like dogs. 776-1861, Carol.

FEMALE TO share nice farm house. Alta Vista area. Small dog okay. $275, one-half utilities. Ann 532-7256 (days) 499-5352 (nights).

FEMALE, OWN bedroom. $175 plus utilities. In Warnago. Call 456-2372 leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Holds two girls. $125/ month. Low utilities, cable already hooked up. Interested? 587-0422, Lisa.

ROOMMATES WANTED: Britnay Ridge Town-home. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

150 Sublease

FEMALE NEEDED to share nice apartment two blocks from campus. $200/ month, one-third utilities. Available immediately. 537-4085 or 539-8087 Tina.

155 Stable/ Pasture

HORSE BOARDING, nice stalls with lot. Close to town. Call Gene 587-0222.

200
SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

210 Resume/ Typing

$1.25/ DOUBLE, $10/ resume. Laser printer. Also specializing in tables, equations, and overheads. Professional results guaranteed. Please call Sandy 539-3229.

A FIVE minute walk from Aggieville. Resumes, letters, papers typed as low as $1.25 double spaced. Please call Melia 776-1534.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English! Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

235 Child Care

MOTHER'S HELPER- I'm a reliable female college student willing to help out by babysitting, cooking, cleaning, errand running... Call 776-3421.

ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT

$6.50 Hog Roast every Saturday from 6 to 9 p.m.

LIVE! Fri. & Sat. BACKROADS

539-KICK
2315 Tuttle
Creek Blvd.

240 Musicians/DJs

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

245 Pet Services

DALMATIAN PUPPY/ Female AKC registered- supplies included. 776-5328 leave message.

FEEDER RATS and mice for sale. Call 776-3349.

SAVANAH MONITOR low maintenance pet supplies included 776-5328 leave message.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

300
EMPLOYMENT/CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ARE YOU willing to work hard, enjoy people, and able to work late hours. If so, this job is for you. waiter/ waitress. Apply in person 1213 Moro.

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL Transcriptionist needed for pathology laboratory, part-time evening hours. Please send resume to P.O. Box 125, Manhattan, KS 66502.

HOUSE REMODELING, student help needed. Work involves cleaning, removing wallpaper, painting, carpentry, plumbing and electrical repair. Work begins in Nov. Send resume, work experience and class schedule to Box 3 Collegian.

When you're ready to advertise, tune in with the Classifieds.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 116 532-6556

KSU LIBRARIES is seeking a student who is interested installing micro-computer software, setting up new micro-computer hardware, trouble shooting and maintaining that hardware. Must be able to work an average of 20 hours a week year round. Apply at Farrell Library Administrative Office 109A. Deadline for applications, Oct. 30.

NOW HIRING: Delivery drivers, earn $5-7 per hour. Apply at Domino's, 517 N. 12th.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

Student Office Help- Need mature, responsible, hard working student. Requires considerable typing (inputting text); editing bulletin and newsletter entries; calling agencies/ publication sources to request materials; and creating memos to be sent to Deans, Directors, and Department Heads. Typing speed of 50 words per minute, working knowledge of WordPerfect, and computer experience essential. Good grammar and writing skills are needed. Experience with desktop publishing and newsletter production preferred. A pleasant phone manner and ability to work with the public are desired. General maintenance of library will be required and the ability to maintain operation when Information Specialist is not available. The individual hired will need to pass a typing, filing, and word processing test. Prefer work study student who can work at least 20 hours/ week and summers. Please contact Sherrill at 532-5045, Office of Research and Sponsored Programs, 2 Fairchild Hall.

VISTA DRIVE-IN is now taking applications for full and part-time help. Apply in person at 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

WANTED: NIGHT support worker to sit with disabled person two nights per week. Interested persons contact Jamie Plank at the SRS office: 776-4011 extension 676. Equal opportunity employer. Women, minorities, and handicapped.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli

Shrimp & beer $5.99
Pitcher of beer & 2 doz. shrimp less 6 or 2 wells & 1 doz. shrimp

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers.

Open 7 days a week
Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon
Candlewood Shopping Center

We Take Tips 532-6556 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Three bosses
rare and true,
we're so glad
we work for you!

66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

$200- $500 weekly. Assemble products at home. Easy! No selling. You're paid direct. Fully guaranteed. Free information- 24 hour hotline. 801-379-2900. Copyright #KS13KDH

$252.50 Sell 50 funny college T-shirts and make $252.50. No financial obligation. A risk-free program. Average sales time equals 4-6 hours. Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/ larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

CARPET CLEANING business. Excellent opportunity for college student/ house wife. All equipment/ supplies necessary. Excellent condition. $6195 negotiable. 1-494-8484 leave message.

Allow us to raise your budget. Advertise in the Classifieds. It's only $5 for 20 words!

DO YOU need to LOSE WEIGHT? We've got the answer. Guaranteed results. Call today 539-1252.

INTERNATIONAL EMPLOYMENT- Make money teaching English abroad. Japan and Taiwan. Make $2,000- $4,000+ per month. Many provide room and board plus other benefits! Financially and culturally rewarding! For International Employment program and application, call the International Employment Group: (206) 632-1146 extension 5768.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-(800)874-7697.

OVERSEAS JOBS. $900-2000 month Summer, year round. All Countries. All fields. Free information. Write U.C. PO Box 52-KS02 Corona Del Mar, CA 92625.

400
FOR SALE
OPEN MARKET

410 Items for Sale

10- GALLON aquarium with all accessories and fish, $50; Queen size mattress, $40 or best offer; student desk, $20. 776-1861.

14K GOLD wedding bands. Size seven woman's, size nine and one-half man's. Never used. Will separate. Make offer. 539-3082.

COMPUTER PAPER: one cent per sheet. Ten percent ribbon discount- Panasonic KXP; Brother AX. Hull Business Supplies, 715 N. 12. Aggieville. 539-1413.

COUCH, LOVE seat, bowling ball, bag, chandeliers, fireplace screen, GMC bumper with hitch. Women's square dance clothes. Manual portable typewriter. 537-4512.

ONE PAIR Rocky Mountain jeans, size seven (tan) $35, brand new. One Sony CD player with amplifier electric cord, headphones, attachments. $85 call 532-2209. Sherry.

PERSONALIZED CALENDARS- Make great Christmas Gifts! We use your photos. 776-0685.

T-SHIRTS- SWEATSHIRTS. First Quality- Advertising specialties -Party favors, first quality -low price to your specifications. 539-6655.

WEDDING DRESS. Size 7-8. Paid $750 asking $450. Or best offer. 539-3294. Leave message.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

LEAVING MANHATTAN- For sale cheap: desk, chair, lamp, etc. Good condition. Call 776-1889.

TWO CHAIRS, three lamps, mattress set queen, etc. Cheap. 776-1887 after 5p.m.

435 Computers

TRS-80, DUAL disk drives, printer, modem phone, tape backup. Call Kevin at 537-4090, or leave message.

445 Music Instruments

PEARL DRUM set, black, Zildjian cymbals. $1800 new, will sacrifice for $800 or best offer. 587-0807.

WASHBURN CHICAGO Series Guitar with Floyd Locking Tremolo Fender Princeton Stereo Chorus Amp. Both in excellent shape! 776-7843 James

450 Pets and Supplies

ADCOM- GFA- 535 Amplifier 50W/ channel three year old. $250 or best offer. Call 539-8893.

ADORABLE AKC DALMATIAN PUPPIES. Call 537-3974 after 6:30p.m. and weekends.

LABRADOR RETRIEVERS. Purebred, yellow and black, first shots, wormed, $75. 494-2758, 537-0727.

460 Stereo Equipment

FISHER HOME Stereo Speakers: Excellent condition, 15 inch woofers, $115/ piece, 539-9417 or 537-7589.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

U2 TICKETS for sale. Oct. 18 at Arrowhead. 532-5201

500
TRANSPORTATION

510 Automobiles

1970 DODGE Dart "Swinger," 318 V-8, automatic, blue, factory air, power steering, power brakes, 89,000 actual miles. $1950 or best offer. 532-3657.

1976 BUICK Regal. Looks good. Runs good. $1250, 776-7955 (leave message).

1981 BUICK Riviera, fully loaded, power sunroof, Kenwood stereo, leather interior, new engine, brakes, water pump. $1800 or best offer 537-6132 leave message.

1983 DODGE, full-size van, air condition, automatic, power steering, V8, very good condition, self converted for travel, reconvertable, $3100 539-7130, Mon.- Fri. 5p.m.- 6p.m.

1984 CHEVY pick-up, runs good, no rust, power steering/ brakes. Two year old tires. $2500 539-5352.

1987 MAXIMA has everything. Needs TLC. 116,000 highway miles. V-6 looks sharp! Priced to sell! $4100 serious inquiries only. 587-0561.

1989 HONDA Accord DX- two-door, red, very sharp, 39,000 miles, $8700. Call Joely, 776-0540 (leave message).

CHEAP! 1978 Chevrolet Impala automatic, power steering, V-8 $200, 532-3914, Mariatt Hall.

CHEAP! FBI/ U.S. seized 1989 Mercedes $200, 1986 VW $50, 1987 Mercedes $100, 1965 Mustang $50. Choose from thousands starting $25. Free information 24 hour hotline. (801) 279-2929. Copyright number KS13KJC.

520 Bicycles

1991 FISHER AL-1 mountain bike ridden less than 50 miles $500 or best offer 537-2085 leave message.

11th ANNIVERSARY
U2
CHRISTMAS BREAK
STEAMBOAT
DECEMBER 8-9 • 11 & 12 OCT 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-3 • 11 & 12 OCT 7 NIGHTS
FALL/BEAVER CREEK
DECEMBER 8-9 • 11 & 12 OCT 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-3 • 11 & 12 OCT 7 NIGHTS
BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-3 • 11 & 12 OCT 7 NIGHTS
11th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER REGS BREAKS
TALL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATION
1-800-321-5911

600
TRAVEL/
TRIPS

610 Tour Package

LONDON, PARIS, Rome. $1532 K.C. to K.C. Dec. 27- Jan. 5. Room for a few more. Contact Diane Dollar. 532-6605 or 539-8401.

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6556

CLASSIFIED DIRECTORY

000
BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

020 Lost and Found

030 Personals

040 Meetings/Events

050 Parties-n-More

100
HOUSING/
REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent- Apt. Furnished

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

115 Rooms Available

120 For Rent - Houses

125 For Sale - Houses

130 For Rent - Mobile Homes

135 For Sale - Mobile Homes

140 For Rent - Garage

145 Roommate Wanted

150 Sublease

155 Stable/Pasture

160 Office Space

165 Land for Sale

200
SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

210 Resume/Typing

215 Desktop Publishing

220 Sewing/Alterations

225 Pregnancy Testing

230 Lawn Care

235 Child Care

240 Musicians/DJs

245 Pet Services

Programs consolidated to improve effectiveness

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

"One of the ideas was to give us improved effectiveness in communications and technology for particularly the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Cooperative Extension Service."

"Also, the movement of the agricultural journalism program to this unit can give the students the opportunity for possibly greater internships, because they are in a closer interaction with the industry."

Larry Erpelding, associate director of agricultural resident instruction and agricultural journalism adviser, said the journalism program was not centered in one college.

Erpelding said ag journalism students took core classes in both agriculture and the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications, which is in the College of Arts and Sciences.

"I don't see any major changes in the agricultural journalism curriculum," Erpelding said.

"We have proven to have a strong program from the large number of awards that our students have won through ACT, as well as the excellent positions that our graduates have come into."

Furbie said although there are advances in the department, the major changes will be noticed sometime next year.

"It's not like I came here, and everything changed," Furbie said.

"The whole idea is efficiency and making these programs as effective as possible. We're dealing with all different elements of communications with video, satellites, telecommunication, publications and news."

Group enjoys venue change

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8

"We've got about seven songs right now, which are very different from each other. We're trying to cover all different aspects of music," Carroll said.

And they are diverse. With bongos and different acoustic sounds, Nic Cosmos has it all covered in its ability to make a needed change in the run-of-the-mill live alternative sound.

After a couple cups of coffee, the band returned for the second set with new songs such as "Valley of Mental Eunuchs" to finally grab the crowd onto the dance floor to share in the adrenalin shock.

Those who missed this show missed what is one of the most up-and-coming bands the alternative set has yet to see. A lot of people complain of no alternative/live scene in Manhattan, but if they don't get out and support it, it will forever be invisible.

First International Theatres		All Shows Daily Before 6 p.m. $3.50	Students and Military with I.D. $4.50
SETH CHILDS 6
Under Siege	R	Friday at 7 & 9:30
The Mighty Ducks	PG	Friday at 7 & 9:30
Sneakers	PG-13	Friday at 7:10 & 9:40
Mr. Baseball	PG-13	Friday at 7:20 & 9:50
Blade Runner	R	Friday at 7:20 & 9:50
Last of the Mohicans	R	Friday at 7:10 & 9:40
CAMPUS
League of Their Own	PG-13	Fri-Sun at 7 & 9:30
WESTLOOP CINEMA 6
Consenting Adults	R	Friday at 7 & 9:25
Captain Ron	PG	Friday at 7 only
Hero	PG-13	Fri-Sun 9:30 only
1482	PG-13	Friday at 6 & 9:30
School Ties	PG-13	Friday at 7:10 & 9:45
Singles	PG-13	Friday at 7:20 & 9:50
The Candyman	R	Friday at 7:10 & 9:40
VARSITY
Star 80	PG-13	Fri-Sun at 7:15 only

All Male Review
Fridays at 7:30 p.m.
This week: Men of Elite Male

US GRANT

1330 Grant Ave.
Junction City
238-7571

$1 off cover with this ad

$1 off cover with this ad

CHARLIE'S
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
Established 1983

Saturday Night

3 Bands

3 Bucks

TOM BOY

also featuring
Lisa Lide
and
The Peace
Pitchers $2.50

Claflin & Denison (Down Under) 776-1515

Oktoberfest in Aggieville

1122 MORO Snooches 776-7726

TONIGHT!!!
From Kansas City
JAGERMEISTER'S JAGERETTES
9-12 TONIGHT ONLY!

FRIDAY:
$2 BIG BEERS; 50¢ KAMIS

SATURDAY:
$1.75 CORONAS; 50¢ KAMIS

PRIVATE CLUB MEMBERSHIPS AVAILABLE

HAYNES
STYLE SHOP
BEAUTY SUPPLY

Oktoberfest Sale

Friday Oct 16 AND Saturday Oct 17

SEBASTIAN SHAPER PLUS
HAIRSPRAY 10 oz.
REG. $7.40 SALE 6.00

SPRITZ FORTE 10 oz.
EXTRA HOLDING FINISHING
SPRAY
REG. $7.40 SALE 6.00

*Receive a FREE 1 oz. Performance
Active Shampoo & Treatment with each Sebastian purchase.

Hours: Mon.-Fri. 8-6, Sat. 8-5

718 N. Manhattan 539-5512

Oktoberfest Specials

KSU Sewn on Sweatshirts SALE $14.95
OUTSIDE ON THE WALK

'World Series Specials'

20% Off All Major League Baseball Jerseys and T-Shirts

30% Off Our Gore-Tex™ Suits

Selected Shoes 25% Off
Nike Air Jordan (gray), Adidas—Phantom White (H) and much more

BALLARD'S
SPORTING GOODS STORE
1218 Moro 539-2441

These pumpkins want you
in their patch.

Come to Kedzie 103
and place a
Halloween personal
by Oct. 28.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

OKTOBER FEST

Super Savings On
All Shorts
10% off Selected Items
Good Oct. 17 only

ON THE GO
BEADS
STICKERS
POSTERS
JAVAS
LAMPS
SHIRTS
NOVELTIES
PUMPS
PUMPS

1128 MORO
AGGIEVILLE, MANHATTAN
776-BAJA

MON-FRI 11-7
SAT 11-6
SUN 12-5

THE SWEETEST GIFT OF ALL.

Perfect for a budding friendship or a full-bloom romance.

A dozen red roses in a vase

(40 cm.)

only $25.95 with this coupon while supplies last.

Local delivery available.

Steve's Floral

Expires 12/1/92
Certain restrictions apply.

1204 Moro
Aggieville
Hrs: 10-6
776-5900

302 Poyntz
Downtown
Hrs: 8-6
539-6227

the Loft
Women's Casualwear In Aggieville

OCTOBER FEST SPECIALS
Oct. 17 & 18 only
Selected Items
Knit tops (values to $70).....$10
Sweaters.....50% OFF
50% OFF
Selected Ruff Hewn, Putumayo, Sharon Young, & Bentley Arbuckle

1207 Moro 539-1319

Leapin' Lizards.

IGUANA®

Jump on a Giant® Iguana® and hit the trails. It features a full oversized Cro-Moly Frame for strength and light weight. Shimano Altus Components for smooth shifting. Durable Araya Alloy Rims. And a price tag that'll beat the competition by leaps and bounds.

GIANT.

AGGIE BIKE STATION
1217 MORO • 776-2372

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE
ROTC FIELD TRAINING EXERCISES
75 Army ROTC students leave civilian life to test their military science knowledge.
PAGE 3

MONDAY

HIGH 63 LOW 42
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 19, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 40

WORLD New China congress younger

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BEIJING — The Communist Party approved a new, slightly younger group of leaders Sunday that excluded ranking hard-liners.

The congress, holding what is likely to be its last congress under paramount leader Deng Xiaoping, closed with a resolution praising Deng.

It endorsed his policy of adopting capitalist practices to preserve Communist rule.

Red flags and a hammer and sickle decorated the Great Hall of the People, where delegates chose the 319-member Central Committee.

Then the delegates stood to hear the "Internationale," the anthem of the shrinking world communist movement.

The Central Committee ratifies important policy decisions, and party leaders hope the new one will ensure a smooth transition after the death of Deng and other revolutionaries who have dominated the party for more than a decade.

Deng, 88, did not attend the congress, but he was a dominant force. He and the other party elders scripted it beforehand, setting the tone of the speeches and choosing the candidates for the Central Committee.

The state-run Xinhua News Agency said nearly half the committee members were new, and 61 percent were under age 55.

The committee also included more military officers and quite a few members from the southeastern provinces that have led the way in developing a market economy.

Some of the new committee members are regional leaders who so far have not participated in national politics, but they have implemented Deng's reforms and seen the benefits.

Oktober-festive

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Hovering above the crowd at Aggieville's Oktoberfest, Mike Williamson, an apple grower from Lyons, stands on stilts to peddle his product.

NEWS DIGEST

►QUAKE DID DAMAGE EGYPTIAN SITES

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt's monuments suffered more damage in last week's earthquakes than first believed.

Updated figures released Sunday showed damage to more than 150 ancient monuments, including the burial site of Tutankhamun, said Ibrahim Bakr, chairman of Egypt's Antiquities Organization. Landslides from an unstable ridge lying between a valley and a queen's temple could bury the monuments, Bakr said.

►BANK FRAUD NOT BEING INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors are pursuing less than half of bank fraud cases although the FBI caseload of such investigations is increasing, said a General Accounting Office report released Sunday.

About one-third of the cases not prosecuted involve allegations of fraud of $100,000 or more at banks and savings and loan institutions.

Spirits are high, but sales are low

KARREY BRITT
Collegian

It was Oktoberfest this weekend in Aggieville.

More than 50 booths, a petting zoo, live entertainment and a Volksmarch were part of the festivities at the 12th annual festival, which was from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For the kids, a Whopper Hopper, an inflatable hamburger complete with a sesame seed bun was set up for them to jump around inside.

"I have been busy all day," said Mark Bramhall, who was helping the kids in and out of the Whopper. "The kids, who are under my nose, get to jump around inside for a minute."

As 12-year-old Cecilia Compton was waiting in line for the Whopper a second time, she said, "The horse rides, petting zoo and Burger King are my favorite."

Among the booths, Mike Williamson could be seen on his stilts, which put him 10 feet, 9 inches in the air.

Williamson and his wife, Elaine Williamson, set up a booth to sell their Kansas homegrown apples. The Williamsons have an orchard in Lyons.

"I gave away $50 to $100 in apples," he said. "I had a good time with the kids, and I was delighted by the nice people, who also seemed to be having fun. We were disappointed with the sales, though."

Other people who were selling their items agreed with Williamson.

Joann Holaday, who was selling craft bunnies at a booth, said the sales were not as good as they had been in the past.

"The economy has really had an effect on the sales. We had a lot more sales in past years," Holaday said. "A lot of people came by and picked up the items and said they really liked them, but then they would put them down and walk on."

Even though sales may not have been high, people browsed the craft booths, which featured Victorian dolls, rabbits, windmills, and many Christmas and Halloween items.

Two college women enjoyed looking at the pottery displayed at one booth.

"We are scamming the place and checking out what's going on," said Stacey Lukas, sophomore in modern languages and secondary education. "I am jealous of the kids in the Whopper, and I can't wait to go check out the fainting goat."

"The Barbershop quartet caught our ears

■ See FESTIVAL Page 10

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Jacob Girven, 3, gets a tiger painted on his face by Idia Rodriguez, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, at Oktoberfest.

CAMPAIGN '92

County candidates speak at forum

STEPHANIE FUQUA
Collegian

Ilene Colbert, Riley County Clerk, and Craig Raborn, K-State graduate, disagreed about the county clerk's job description and same-day registration at a forum Friday in the K-State Union.

Colbert and Raborn are running for the position of Riley County clerk.

Raborn said the clerk's duties are threefold — the clerk acts as a public records officer, as the fiscal officer and as the elections officer.

He said he would make changes.

"I would concentrate on public records," he said. "There are a number of opportunities to bring modern technology to computers."

"I would have a deputy clerk keep the minutes of the Riley County Commission meetings."

"As for fiscal records, I'd like to

THE CANDIDATES

◀ CRAIG RABORN

Wants a deputy clerk to take minutes at county commission meetings and a college graduate to keep the county books.

◀ ILENE COLBERT

Says the office is run well now and calls for few changes. But she would update the payroll system.

Collegian

hire a college-educated person to keep the books in the county. It's crucial to have a professional accountant in there."

Colbert said she wouldn't make many changes.

"I think I run a really good office now, and I don't think I need many changes," Colbert said. "I would update the payroll system."

"As clerk, I was elected to be secretary to the county commission. It's one of my duties. I knew it was one of

■ See CLERK Page 10

Commission hopefuls urge student action

STEPHANIE FUQUA
Collegian

Four candidates running for Riley County Commission urged students to become involved in county politics and to register to vote during the first half of a forum Friday in the K-State Union.

Karen McCulloh, assistant to the dean at Farrell Library, and Robert Pudden, a specialist in international travel for the grain science department, are running for the seat in the 2nd District.

Jan Garton, a K-State alumna, is running against Jim Williams, Manhattan resident, for the seat in the 3rd District.

"I'd like to see more students involved in county politics," McCulloh said. "I'd like to

■ See COMMISSION Page 10

WORLD

Colombia struck again

ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOGOTA, Colombia — The second severe earthquake to hit Colombia in two days rocked cities Sunday and set off an eruption at thermal baths in the northwest.

At least 10 people were killed and scores were injured, news reports said.

About 30 people were seriously injured, and many more were missing, after mud and steam blasted from thermal baths near the town of San Pedro de Uraba, 124 miles northwest of Medellin, according to Caracol radio.

In Bogota, the capital city of 6 million, people ran out of their shaking buildings into the streets.

The quake measured 7.2 on the Richter scale and struck at 10:12 a.m., according to the U.S. Geological Survey's National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo.

President Cesar Gaviria's office said the quake apparently triggered the thermal eruption, which occurred simultaneously.

FOLLOW UP

Woods getting ready to teach

ROY GRABER
Collegian

Walter Woods soon will become a familiar face in a classroom full of animal science students.

Woods, who stepped down as dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Cooperative Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Station, is now a faculty member in the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry.

Woods said although he moved into the department immediately after his Sept. 11 resignation, the process of changing responsibilities has not been an immediate one.

"I have been actively extracting myself from responsibilities of the dean's office," Woods said. "I agreed to write a paper and in addition, I took a couple of weeks vacation to be with my family and relatives."

Woods said he has been working on reports of activities he was involved in while dean and turning them in to the college.

Those activities, Woods said, include the status of the Essential Edge Campaign, commitments toward college staffing and funding commitments.

Woods earned his doctorate in animal nutrition in 1957 at Oklahoma State University. Though Woods' expertise is in nutrition, he said he is not certain what his duties will be next semester.

"Hopefully, within the next few weeks, I will see how and where I will fit in," Woods said. "Dr. (Jack) Riley agreed to talk to me again to put together plans to evaluate where I would be best needed. It's a process of filling the gaps."

Riley said Woods could be valuable to the department in a number of areas.

"He clearly has a technical expertise that would make him a valuable resource person for both the undergraduate and graduate programs," Riley said.

Woods said he thinks things were left in good condition in the dean's office, and he said he had good feelings about his tenure as dean.

"During my time of tenure, there was a significant development as far as facilities are concerned, and secondly, the extramural funding for teaching, research and Extension doubled," Woods said.

"Also, student enrollment at the undergraduate level increased, due to a teamwork effort. And some key programs strengthened — like water conservation and food safety," he said.

Woods said although his resignation may lead people to think he would be upset, he has kept a positive attitude.

"I have no bitterness," Woods said. "It is not worth the effort to be bitter in a program like this."

"All you should do is look forward to the future. I will move forward and will do those jobs."

Walter Woods

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16

At 7:50 a.m., a bicycle was found in Lot B-3E. It had been dumped after being stripped.

At 9:15 a.m., a criminal damage to property report was filed. The Vietnam Veterans Memorial was damaged.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17

At 3:51 a.m., Scott A. Strason and Phillip C. Hackett, both of Illinois, were arrested for the theft of two bicycles.

At 4:40 a.m., Michael J. Hoffman and James C. Hughes, both of Illinois, were arrested for the theft of a sign from the KSU Stadium area.

At 4:40 a.m., John T. Trisler, of Illinois, was arrested for the theft of a sign from campus.

At 12:24 p.m., Ann-Marie Allison,

Van Zile 229, reported the theft of a bicycle.

At 1:07 p.m., Jon Hilton, 2054 Tecumseh Road, reported the theft of a bicycle from the racks at Marlatt Hall.

At 1:16 p.m., Paul Hough, Goodnow 628, reported the theft of a license plate from a vehicle parked in Lot D-2.

At 4:10 p.m., Sabri Tabbaa, Marlatt 323, reported the theft of a bicycle.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17

At 12:37 a.m., Aundre R. Canty, 1625 Westwood Blvd., Junction City, was issued a notice to appear for discharging a firearm in city limits.

At 1:18 a.m., Cynthia S. Macloche, 1807 College Heights Road, and Hunter E. Hoss, 1015 Denison Ave., were arrested for DUI after a minor non-injury accident. They were released on $500 bond each.

At 3:03 a.m., Chad D. Bloom, Route 4, Clay Center, was issued a notice to appear for battery.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 18

At 8:30 a.m., Zoleatha Jones, 2437 Purcell's Mill, reported the theft of a basketball goalpost and backboard. Loss was $50.

Have a question about today's Collegian?

Give us a call, and we'll try to help you out. 532-6556

CAMPUS BULLETIN

- Sign-up for mock interviews for junior and seniors will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Holtz Hall until Oct. 23. Interviews will be Nov. 2.
- Classified Senate would like to thank the Division of Facilities for providing the following recycling drop-off sites for old phone books: Ackert, Anderson, Blumont, Seaton, Cardwell, Nichols, Umberger and Willard halls.
- Applications for cancer research awards from the Center for Basic Cancer Research are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.
- K-State student ambassador applications are available at the KSU Alumni Association office, fourth floor. They are due Oct. 23.
- Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani at 532-6448.
- Applications for Community Service Program international summer teams are available in Eisenhower 014A. Spanish required.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 19

- Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.
- Chimes will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213.
- Intramural volleyball officials' meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.
- Alpha Zeta will have a mandatory meeting about jello wrestling at 6 p.m. in Weber 146.
- ECM Star Trek Watchers will sponsor Star Trek TNG at 9 p.m. at 1021 Denison Ave.
- Phi Upsilon Omicron will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Justin 150.
- Phi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta will have a general meeting at 8:30 p.m. in Union 208.
- ASME-WOWS will meet at 7 p.m. in Durland 161.
- College Republicans will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 206 for a general meeting and at 9:20 p.m. in McCain 324 for yearbook pictures.
- Rainforest Awareness Week will sponsor the following video presentations in Union 212: "In the Ashes of the Forest" at 11:30 a.m.; "Amazonia — a Burning Question" at 3:30 p.m.; and "Can Tropical Rainforests be Saved?" at 7 p.m.
- Ad Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 207 with Christopher & Associates and for yearbook pictures.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Partly cloudy. High in the lower 60s. South wind 10 to 20 mph. Monday night, partly cloudy. Low in the mid-40s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly sunny. High in the mid-60s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Wednesday through Friday: dry and mild. Lows in the mid-30s to lower 40s. Highs in the lower 60s to lower 70s. Thursday and Friday, dry and mild. Lows in the 40s. Highs in the mid-60s and mid-70s.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Nairobi	79/48	clear
Bermuda	82/73	cloudy	Rome	66/66
Helsinki	43/42	cloudy	Stockholm	41/30
London	52/39	clear	Vancouver	55/46

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

Good for your brain

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

ROYAL PURPLE

1993

Smith-Oct. 15
Smurthwaite-Oct. 15
Van Zile-Oct. 15
West-Oct. 15
Off Campus-Oct. 16-30

PICTURE YOURSELF IN THE 1993
ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK.

Photos will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. in the K-State Union Room 209.

Call 532-6106 for an appointment.

If you are a greek member, but live in a residence hall or off campus, please have your photo taken with your fraternity or sorority.

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

EVERY

Sunday &
Monday

NFL NITE

Come Watch the Game with the US!

95¢ DRAWS

FREE Hot Dogs
in the Outback

- 10 TVs, 50" Big Screen TV
- Over 90 Import Beers
- Lunch & dinner menus served

776-6451 • 1213 MORO • AGGIEVILLE

ABOVE: An officer watches a group of helicopters come in for a landing Friday evening in the east parking lot at KSU Stadium. RIGHT: ROTC cadets bend low under the whirring blades of the transport helicopters in the parking lot. Six helicopters took members of K-State's ROTC program to a training field at Fort Riley.

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Field exercises train, challenge Army cadets

Students learn M16 rifle use, night security in camp

KRISTEEN YOUNG
Collegian

Army ROTC students left behind their civilian clothes and the luxury of sleeping on mattresses Friday as they left for a Fort Riley training field.

The 75 students spent the next 28 hours putting textbook material and military science lab knowledge to the test at their field training exercise (FTX).

"So far, we have done classroom instruction on small-unit tactics at the squad level on how to react to different types of enemy contact," said Capt. Allen West, assistant professor of military science.

"The purpose of the weekend is to put it to the test."

In uniforms, combat boots and camouflaged faces, they separated into small groups to fit into the six UH-60 Alpha helicopters, also known as Black Hawks.

"With the helicopters, we are exposing them to something they have never done and introducing them to another aspect of the Army," West said.

The Black Hawks are known for their high speed and larger capacity than other military helicopters.

They can fly up to about 180 knots and can hold 11 passengers. Other helicopters can only carry up to eight.

Helicopters are seldom used to transport cadets to their FTX, and they were excited about it.

One cadet said she entered the helicopter a little differently than many others.

"We had the choice of either loading when the blades were running or not. I chose to when they were on," said Ilsa Waterman, junior in anthropology.

"You had to duck down like you see in the show 'M.A.S.H.' and the blades were spinning right above your head. You had better not stand up straight."

David Almquist, senior in animal sciences and industry, said he had flown in helicopters before but wasn't any less excited.

"Every time you get in one and take off, it's a natural high. It is such a good rush," Almquist said. "It's something exciting that everyone can't do."

Cadets ranged from freshmen to seniors, and they were divided into platoons according to their skill level in military science classes. They were designated as MS1 (military science level one) as the least advanced, up to MS4 as the most.

MS1, MS2 and MS3 cadets were put into platoons to foster competition between the three. MS3s made up one platoon, and the other two were grouped together into two others.

They competed in a 3.1-mile road march at the end of the FTX Saturday night and in setting up the best campsite.

About 17 MS4 students were

■ See ROTC Page 10

Programs to promote responsible drinking

JODY LYNN
Collegian

Making informed decisions about drinking alcohol and consequences of irresponsible drinking will be emphasized this week during National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week.

The program is sponsored in part by K-State's Alcohol and Drug Education Service in hopes of encouraging responsible drinking.

"We don't want to jam facts down anyone's face," said Bill Arck, director of alcohol and other drug education services.

"We just want our students who choose to consume alcohol to do so responsibly. We want them to consume the right quantity in the right frequency at the right time and in the right place."

Information will be available at a table in the K-State Union today and Tuesday, and an information board will be up all week in the Union.

A number of presentations open to the public are planned for the residence halls.

Fliers will be distributed highlighting information on alcohol's effects on women.

"Tiger by the Tale," a group of five students from Fort Hays State University, will perform at 7 p.m. Thursday in Union Station.

Arck said the group's performance is energetic and meant to stimulate discussion about health issues, especially alcohol-related ones.

Thursday will also be White Faces Day. About 105 students will have their faces painted to represent the number of people killed in alcohol-related accidents last year.

"We aren't telling people not to consume alcohol," Arck said. "Most of our students are old enough to make the decision to use alcohol for themselves. We want people to have a good time but not to endanger their health or career."

■ See AWARENESS Page 9

CLAFLIN Books & Copies

Dissertation

Copying

50% Cotton Bond

8¢

No waiting

1814 Claflin 776-3771

Announces
NEWEST IMPORTS

AND MICRO-BREWERY BEERS.

ARMADILLO PECAN STREET
Kentucky, Tenn. Austin, Texas
BELHAVEN RED HORSE
Scotland, Tenn. Philippines
GAMBRINUS RUSKI
Czechoslovakia Russia
HENNINGER Germany

SPECIAL!

FREE DELIVERY

539-3830

1127 Moro, Aggieville

2-10" Pizzas; 2 Cokes; Cinnamon or Bread Stix
(ONE TOPPING)

ONLY $9.99

Offer good through October 23

ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGIATE ENTREPRENEURS

PRESENTS

RUSTY WILSON

of LAST CHANCE RESTAURANT

as our featured speaker. Social gathering and pictures to follow the meeting.

TUESDAY, OCT. 20 AT 6:00 P.M.

CALVIN HALL

ROOM 18

EYEGLASSES ARE NOT FAST FOOD

The combination of algebra, physics, and sheer talent required to fill an eyeglass prescription should be reason enough not to want your RX slamdunked in about an hour. Since 1913, Benson Optical has been the leader in quality optics in America. Our nearly 200 offices are located in such places as the Mayo Clinic, Johns Hopkins, and other prestigious medical centers across the country. Manhattan Medical Ctr. houses the only Benson Optical in the state of Kansas. Your lenses are ground by the same people that the nations leading medical professionals have trusted for years. Nothing is more precious than your pair of eyes. When it comes to quality eyewear, nobody does it better than Benson Optical.

Benson

OPTICAL

When You Depend On Your Glasses.

2439 Claflin Rd.

539-8801

Don't Forget
For Your Added Convenience
Call 532-6544 for your Next Appointment
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

— Missed appointments will be assessed a "no show" charge—

Royal Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106
to schedule an appointment
for yearbook pictures.

Next in line...

Individual appointments
can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30
Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

YOU'RE THAT VITAL COG
THAT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

RESIDENCE HALL STAFF POSITIONS ARE
AVAILABLE FOR 1993-94

APPLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE AT THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION MEETINGS

DAY	DATE	TIME	LOCATION
SUNDAY	OCTOBER 18	1:00 PM	DESBY 24
MONDAY	OCTOBER 19	8:00 PM	KRAMER HERITAGE ROOM
TUESDAY	OCTOBER 20	7:00 PM	BOYD LIVING ROOM
WEDNESDAY	OCTOBER 21	6:00 PM	UNION ST

All applications and reference forms are due to 103 Pittman by 8:00 p.m. Friday, October 23

- All candidates must attend an information meeting
- A candidate can attend any one of these meetings
- Information on the selection process for each hall will be given at all information meetings

QUALIFICATIONS INCLUDE:

- Two semesters previous K-State Residence Hall experience
- Junior standing or equivalent by next fall
- 2.25 cumulative G.P.A.
- Full time student
- Successful completion of the staff class (EDCEP 311)

For a more complete list of qualifications or other information, contact a Residence Hall Director.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND DINING SERVICES

OPINION

OCTOBER 19, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson
Editor in Chief
Jared Savage
Opinion Page Editor

Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson

Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thomas
Heather Anderson

John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

No Justice in Iraqi loan mess?

THE ISSUE

The Justice Department is suspected of assisting in giving loans to Saddam Hussein during the 1980s.

WE SUGGEST

Someone is lying in this matter, and the sooner the guilty party comes forward, the better.

It seems more like a bad imitation of a Tom Clancy novel.

In a scurry to cover a dirty trail, the Justice Department is finding every way possible to cover its instrumental hand in giving Saddam Hussein $5.5 billion in bank loans.

He used these loans to build his armed forces after the Iran-Iraq war of the 1980s, and he sent these fortified forces against U.N. troops in the Persian Gulf War a year and a half ago.

The Department's key has been to blame Christopher Drogoul, the Atlanta branch manager of Italy's Banca Nazionale del Lavoro, who supposedly engineered the loans completely on his own.

Drogoul was federally indicted, but Democrats in Congress are charging the Bush administration with botching the prosecution, mainly to protect relations with Italy.

The entire affair becomes even murkier with new accounts by the Central Intelligence Agency that Drogoul could not have acted on his own.

So we have Congress and the CIA going after the Justice Department, who claims innocence and is blaming a solitary individual for the entire fiasco.

All this because of the faulty politics in the 1980s that allowed the loans to go to Hussein in the first place.

Someone is obviously lying. And anyone who thinks one person could have funneled $5.5 billion in loans without U.S. intelligence being aware of it is living in a fantasy.

Perhaps Drogoul was involved, but he certainly wasn't working alone.

As more and more memos are unearthed in this situation, more and more heads will roll. It's just a matter of time.

In a highly charged political season, many see this as one more effort to undermine the integrity of the President Bush's administration. But all of this started years ago, and it's time to find out who was responsible.

No more cloak and dagger. The Justice Department is not playing straight, and the sooner it comes forward, the better for everyone involved.

READERS WRITE

► TOMAHAWK CHOP

Lack of sensitivity infuriates reader

Editor,

To the two ignorant white male members of a racist Western culture that has slaughtered and continues to defame Native American culture — Andrew Tomb IV and Jason Runyan — take off your white hoods.

Your sarcasm, insensitivity and prejudice inflame me. I cannot believe a junior in elementary education can be so shameless as to ridicule those who view the tomahawk chop as an instrument of discrimination.

I don't want you to teach my children or any children your bigoted ideology. I surely don't think I can sleep at night knowing that someday you will be a teacher.

How dare the two of you write such a letter immediately after Racial/Ethnic Harmony Week?

Are you truly sorry, or truly ignorant of the pain of Native Americans?

How do you think Native Americans feel when they see an Indian mascot or hundreds of people raising their hands in the tomahawk chop?

How can you condone raping another culture and using their culture as your exclusive right?

In essence, you're saying: "Shut up, Indians, and be happy we're exploiting you."

You who share these views are not true Americans. You wear on the inside the ugly mask of the racist foreigners who indulged in slavery and race extermination.

Eric Lynum
Senior/Electrical engineering

► REORGANIZATION

Cutting program lessens credibility

Editor,

I would like the opportunity to enlighten the K-State community about the social work program and social workers in general.

Did you know K-State has the best undergraduate social work program in the state of Kansas?

Did you know the social work program is slated to have its faculty reduced from five to three full-time faculty?

Did you know the social work program is up for accreditation in fall 1993? Did you know these proposed cuts could threaten its reaccreditation?

Did you also know that in order to sit for the licensing exam, which is required to teach social work in Kansas, students must have graduated from accredited programs?

Finally, did you know the current and future demands for social workers are not being met by the existing social work programs in the state?

People may be thinking social work students shouldn't be concerned about the cuts, because, after all, the program isn't going to be eliminated.

However, the integrity of the program is at stake.

If the program undergoes these cuts, it may fail to meet the criteria for accreditation in fall 1993. Although these cuts are not scheduled to take effect until fall 1994, the accrediting body will be aware of them.

People also may be thinking social workers are worthless. On the contrary, they are not the "baby snatchers" they are made out to be.

Social workers are employed by schools, prisons, businesses, nursing homes and hospitals. They work with abused children, rape victims, handicapped individuals and substance abusers.

Social workers are involved in organizations such as Big Brothers/Big Sisters. Some even do community organizing.

I hope this letter has educated someone out there. I also hope it has made you better understand the situation of the students who are protesting these cuts.

If you care, I urge you to sign the petition that is being circulated on campus or to write the administration.

Two years ago, it was the colleges of Human Ecology and Architecture and Design. Today, it's speech pathology, social work and public administration. Who will it be tomorrow?

Kathryn Linenberger
Senior/Social work, and family life and human development

► POLITICS

Letters can't change people's viewpoints

Editor,

Maybe it's just me, but frankly I'm getting tired of seeing the Opinion Page littered with political propaganda.

Now, I'm not totally ignorant to the fact that the Opinion Page is for opinions, but petty arguing over an issue as big as the presidential election seems a waste of time to me.

What do these letters accomplish? Those who have already decided on a candidate aren't going to be swayed by an annoying letter from someone who thinks, "Now that I'm in college, I feel it my duty to share my expert political analysis with the misinformed public."

As for the undecided voters, I doubt that in their quest for the mythical "best candidate," they are turning to the editorials as a mecca of information on party platforms and candidate trivia.

No, they want to read about the important issues — like "who smoked marijuana" and "which candidate's son ripped off the savings and loan."

Personally, I don't think he inhaled, and I don't care if he did, and as far as the savings and loans go ... well, kids will be kids.

Clearly, there is no perfect candidate. Each individual voter must decide what he or she finds important and what can be overlooked.

I know who I'm going to vote for, but I don't feel the need to preach it to others by writing a letter, especially this late in the campaigns.

What difference would my views make, anyway? Half of the readers (perhaps more) would think, "What an idiot!" and hold their present views as I badmouthed the candidate.

The rest of the readership would already agree with me.

Obviously, these political scoldings serve no other purpose than to maliciously belittle the opposition.

Hey, guys, lighten up. That's what politicians are for.

Justin Strelow
Freshman/Biology

TOLES

Mass media reeks of liberal bias

JOHN HART

If you've ever heard Harry Caray announce a Chicago Cubs' game, you undoubtedly noticed his bias toward his favorite team, the Cubs.

If you've ever been exposed to the mass media, you've probably noticed their bias toward their favorite idea, liberalism. And in this election year, their favorite candidate — Bill Clinton.

The two most powerful branches of the mass media, broadcast and print journalism, are biased to the left.

A survey of 104 top TV creators and executives, conducted by the Center of Media and Public Affairs, reported that 97 percent of television's elite are pro-choice, 86 percent support the right of homosexuals to teach in public schools, and 51 percent believe there is nothing wrong with adultery.

Presidential campaigns, in particular, tend to bring out the liberalism in the media.

During the New Hampshire primary, Hendrick Hertzberg of New Republic magazine reported that of the 47 reporters he talked with there, every one supported Clinton.

Dennis Lowry, from the journalism department at Liberty University in Lynchburg, Va., analyzed the types of sentences reported by the three networks in Campaign '84 stories. The study revealed the networks reported 447 negative statements about the Reagan/Bush ticket, compared to 199 negative statements about the Mondale/Ferraro ticket.

In journalism, there is no such thing as a purely objective story. It's nearly impossible to sterilize a story of personal opinion. Don't be deceived by people who say a factual story contains no opinion.

Facts and truth can be very different. A story may contain only the facts that support a particular point of view.

Newspaper editors have the power to print whatever stories they want.

Since the beginning of this past summer, I have been inundated with negative Bush coverage from the Kansas City Star. The Star has printed at least one campaign analysis story per week since June.

I have seen zero analyses favorable toward the Bush/Quayle ticket. Maybe I missed one, but that wouldn't make up for the dozens of stories I've read praising the Clinton/Gore ticket.

I also found a similar phenomenon after perusing the Aug. 1-15 issues of the New York Times. Predictably, the newsletter from the liberal mecca printed several stories chastising Bush, compared to dozens of stories worshipping Clinton, their new-found savior.

The mass media in America projects a subtle, yet intense power over the public.

Graphic media coverage of the Vietnam War undoubtedly intensified anti-war sentiment at home, which in turn, influenced governmental policy. God only knows how many votes the mass media has won for Clinton through their gloom-and-doom coverage of the economy.

The media has a knack for blowing problems out of proportion. Remember the ozone hole over New England we heard so much about? It never materialized, and neither did the 1970s reports of an approaching ice age.

I don't think everyone in the mass media is part of a subversive liberal conspiracy to get Clinton elected.

However, I'm confident that the majority of the people covering the election want Clinton to win. As Nov. 3 draws nearer, the media may compromise their objectivity even more by praising Clinton all they can for the "good of the country."

As the election nears its climax, I implore you to be a wise consumer of the mass media.

Take the news with a grain of salt, for Clinton and Gore have a persuasive cheerleader on their side.

If you want to make an informed vote, read opinion articles, because they contain both facts — and, hopefully, a rational argument. There is no pretense of objectivity in an opinion article.

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Letters to the Editor- c/o Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

CAMPUS

Grant to help vo-tech career counseling

Professor gets funds to assist high-school grads

MEE SUN LEE

A K-State professor has received a planning grant to help young people choose careers.

Ken Hoyt, distinguished professor in the College of Education, received $353,000 from the DeWitt Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund Oct. 1.

The grant will help non-college-bound youth choose 21st-century careers.

Along with Ken Hughey and Judith Hughey, assistant professors of counseling and educational psychology, Hoyt has developed a proposal to help more high-school graduates get immediate post-secondary vocational and technical training.

"This is a planning grant," Hoyt said. "We are using the money to plan how to implement the final proposal."

According to Hoyt, about 1.5 million young Americans leave secondary schools every year with few job skills, and they are not equipped to contribute to a high-skills occupational society.

These people make up 70 percent of high-school graduates, Hoyt said, and school counselors have been widely accused of not paying enough attention to them.

In a draft submitted for approval to the DeWitt Wallace-Reader's Digest Fund, Hoyt said he hoped this project would lay the groundwork for collecting data from students in vocational-technical programs.

The findings will be distributed to school counselors, so they may use them to counsel students who

See HOYT Page 10

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising
532-6560

Perm Special $5 OFF Perm of Your Choice

Reg. Price $35 and up
Exp 10-20-92

Call 539-2921 &
ask for Dana or Alice.

1129 Westloop

BUSINESS COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Applications can be picked up in the Dean's office through Oct 23.

- * Applications due 10/26
- * Elections 10/29

$15 CASH!

for first time plasma donors

- Quick, safe, easy
- Study while you donate
- Watch movies while you donate
- Donating plasma saves lives!

Manhattan Donor Center

1130 Gardenway (Across from Westloop)
Mon.-Fri. 9-6 Sat. 9-2

BRYAN TRAVEL COLLEGE
Since 1982

Your chance for an exciting career in the travel industry in just 17 weeks!

Financial Aid to
Qualified Applicants

Call for a Brochure!
1527 Fairlawn, Topeka
272-0889
1-800-255-3507

B Bryan
Travel
College
Day classes • 17 weeks
Evening classes • 30 weeks

11th ANNIVERSARY

CHRISTMAS BREAK

LAST CHANCE!

STEAMBOAT
DECEMBER 12-19 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS from $166
JANUARY 2-16 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS

VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
DECEMBER 14-21 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS from $181
JANUARY 2-14 * 5 OR 7 NIGHTS

BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-14 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS from $202

PICNICS • PARTY • LODGING • LIFTS

MORE WINTER COLLEGIATE SKI BREAK SPACE ADDED!

Whew, just when you thought you might be left out in the cold during Christmas break — Sunchase comes through again! Your response to our quality and low priced 11th Annual Collegiate Winter Ski Breaks has been overwhelming. So, we've been able to add limited additional space at each destination. But don't wait too much longer as in year's past, it's sure to be a sell out! Winter ski breaks include your choice of Fully Equipped Condominium or Hotel Lodging for 5, 6 or 7 nights; all Lift Tickets, Welcome Party, Mountain Chicken Barbecue, Ski Race, all Taxes and welcome Goodie Bag full of participating corporate sponsor product samples and area information. Ski Break by yourself, with your friends or organize a group of 19 and you'll get a FREE SKI TRIP! Steamboat, Vail/Beaver Creek or Breckenridge. The hardest part is choosing which destination to "conquer" this coming season! Ask us about discount roundtrip airfares!

11th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

Nautilus

Live Life in the Fit Lane!

1100 MORO-AGGIEVILLE • 776-1654
Student Specials: Memberships $59.95
for remainder of semester or $21 a month through May.

GREAT
MEMORIES
START
HERE

1993 ROYAL PURPLE

ATTENTION

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS:

Get your group signed up for a Departmental photograph. Portraits will be taken through Oct. 29.

Call 532-6557 to schedule a time.

INTRODUCING STREET CORNER

587-0597
Manhattan
Town Center

Street Corner News Carries
Newspapers from all over the world and specialty magazines in the areas of:

- Advertising & Marketing
- Art & Design
- Environment & Conservation
- Ethnic
- Literary
- Music
- New Age
- Photography
- Science
- Social Issues
- Foreign Language Publications

THE RIDE KSU STUDENT TRIPS TO ART MUSEUMS made possible through the fine arts fee

The department of art will organize a series of trips to art museums throughout the current academic year. The student fine arts fee assessed at registration will subsidize the cost of the travel. Please take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to view exciting exhibits and collections in the region. Keep an eye on the Collegian for activities associated with THE RIDE.

The first trip will be to see an outstanding exhibition of EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN MASTERPIECES FROM THE WILLIAM J. KOCH COLLECTION at the Wichita Art Museum and the TEAM SPIRIT exhibition at the Wichita Center for the Arts and the Salina Art Center. The Koch exhibit includes 120 paintings, sculptures and decorative objects from the private collection of William J. Koch and the Spring Creek Art Foundation by artists including Picasso, Monet, Remington, Cezanne, Benton, Wood and Manet. THE TEAM SPIRIT exhibits are objects made by artists working together in pairs or groups. Three major preoccupations in this exhibit are art about the environment, art about art and art about social and political issues.

The first Ride will leave the K-State Union at 8 a.m. on Saturday, October 24, 1992. Reservations are required.

Contact the Department of Art 532-6605, or stop by room 105 in the Art Building for information or to reserve your seat. Make your reservations by October 20.

The cost of the trip will be $5 for students and $15 for faculty and friends. There will be a lunch break in downtown Wichita.

These pumpkins want you
in their patch.

Come to Kedzie 103
and place a
Halloween personal
by Oct. 28.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

SPORTS

OCTOBER 19, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

NFL WEEK 7

Philadelphia 12	NY Giants 17	San Diego 34
Washington 16	LA Rams 38	Indianapolis 14
Green Bay 6	New Orleans 30	Houston 21
Cleveland 17	Phoenix 21	Denver 27
Atlanta 17	Tampa Bay 14	LA Raiders 19
San Francisco 56	Chicago 31	Seattle 0

Former cross country runners sweep 10K run

Smith, Treiber claim top prizes in weekend run through campus

STEVE ROCK
Collegian

Two former K-State cross country runners swept the first-place titles during this weekend's Flint Hills Fall Classic.

The 10K run was sponsored jointly by the Center for Exercise Research in the Department of Kinesiology and the Wildcat Triathlon Club.

Fifth-year senior Ron Smith, who was a member of the cross country team last year, finished the run in 32:11 to claim the overall prize.

Smith has recorded the fifth-fastest 10,000-meter time in K-State history, but he has no more eligibility on the team.

On the women's side, Janet Treiber ran the race in 37:58 to take the title. Treiber, a fifth-year senior, has used up her cross country eligibility as well.

Success is not foreign to Treiber — she captured the 10,000-meter championship at the 1991 KU Relays. It was the first time she had run the race.

But the weekend competition offered her a smaller-scale run that she said she enjoyed.

"It was a perfect race for what I wanted to do," she said. "It was nice to get out and run again."

The race attracted more than 150 runners.

"Everything worked out well," said Ed Acevedo, race director and director of the Center of Exercise Research.

Acevedo said his goal was 150, and he was pleased with the turnout — especially considering last year, when eight inches of snow put a damper on the festivities.

"This year was just wonderful," he said. "It was perfect."

MARGARET CLARKIN/Collegian

Runners fight to stay in front after leaving the starting line east of Ahearn Field House in the Flint Hills Fall Classic Saturday morning.

K-STATE FOOTBALL

Punchless Cats lose again

"I'm a grown man, and I've been whipped like a sick dog more than once."

BILL SNYDER

Offense struggles, hands Utah State 2 touchdowns

BRIAN ANDERSON
Collegian

K-State entered Saturday's game against Utah State with the third-best turnover margin in the nation.

By the end of the day in Logan, Utah, the Cats had committed five turnovers. The Aggies had just two.

That three-turnover margin helped Utah State win its first non-conference game since 1987 as it beat K-State 28-16.

A fumble and two interceptions by the Cats led to 18 Aggie points.

K-State coach Bill Snyder said he wasn't pleased with his team's performance, as the Cats failed to clinch their first undefeated non-conference record since 1954.

"We didn't play well enough to win," Snyder said.

Snyder has yet to win a non-conference road game as K-State coach.

Snyder said the loss was his worst defeat at K-State, overshadowing a 10-8 loss at the hands of Northern Iowa his first year.

But he also said he is more worried about the players' feelings than his own.

"I'm a grown man, and I've been whipped like a sick dog more than once," he said. "I'll get over it. My concern is how they will respond."

K-State could manage just one touchdown on the two Aggie turnovers — an 8-yard run by Matt Garber after Kitt Rawlings recovered a fumble in the third quarter.

"We played poor offensively, and we could have won the game," Snyder said.

The offense managed just 186 yards for the game, far from its 294-yard average.

Jason Smargiasso started the game as quarterback, but Matt Garber relieved him in the third quarter.

"Jason got a great deal of pressure, similar to the KU game," Snyder said. "Matt had a tempered defense but overthrew some receivers."

Smargiasso was three for nine, passing for 15 yards. He was replaced after one of his passes was intercepted and returned for a touchdown by Utah State's Dave Balls.

Garber completed 11 of 22

SCORE BOX

	K-State	Utah State
First downs	14	13
Rushing yards	64	85
Passing yards	122	172
Comp.-att.-int.	14-31-4	19-31-1
Return yards	55	201
Total yards	186	257
Fumbles-lost	1-1	2-1
Penalties	8-50	14-125
K-State	7	0 17 2 - 16
Utah State	10	3 15 0 - 28

INDIVIDUAL STATS

Rushing — K-State, Gallon 21-74, Smargiasso 9-14, Garber 8-4, Utah State, Wilson 30-92, Calvillo 7-10, Gordon 3-5, Beach 1-1-20.
Passing — K-State, Smargiasso 3-9-1-15, Garber 11-22-3-107, Utah State, Calvillo 19-31-1-172.
Receiving — K-State, Benton 3-30, Coleman 5-48, Gallon 3-33, Schiller 1-8, Rees 1-1, Running 2-11, Utah State, Watts 7-41, Alexander 2-47, Ray 2-34, G. Thompson 2-29, A. Thompson 2-22, Lee 2-11.
Punting — K-State, Snyder 5-257, Utah State, Beach 8-307.
Tackles — K-State, Barta 9, Masters 6, Simoneau 7, E. Griffith 7, G. Patterson 6, C. Patterson 6, Utah State, Younger 13, Brown 11, Coe 9, Smith 6, Jacobs 6.
Sacks/Yards Lost — K-State, McEntyre 1/22, Simoneau 1/8, Utah State, Coe 1/11, Jacobs 1/10, Moala 1/8, Brown 1/6, Batch 1/5, Younger 1/5.

passes for 107 yards, but he threw three interceptions. On his first drive, he led K-State to two first downs before being intercepted by Jermaine Younger, another pick that was returned for a touchdown.

Garber's other two interceptions came near the end of the game, but he did score K-State's second touchdown.

Smargiasso scored the Cats' first touchdown in the first quarter. With the Aggies ahead 7-0, the Cats marched 61 yards in seven plays to tie the game 7-7. Smargiasso scored on a 4-yard run.

Snyder, who didn't say whether or not Smargiasso is still the No. 1 quarterback, was more optimistic about the defense.

"We played well defensively," he said.

The defense gave up 257 yards and gave up, essentially, just two field goals. The sole touchdown that the Wildcat defense gave up came on the culmination of a 9-yard Aggie drive.

A blocked punt in the first quarter set up the score.

The Wildcat defense fought back, holding the Aggies to 81 yards in the second half and leading K-State to two scores.

Rawlings' fumble recovery, which resulted in a touchdown, and a safety by Thomas Randolph got K-State to within 12 points in the fourth quarter.

One high note for the Cats was the continued play of punter Sean Snyder. He averaged 51.3 yards for seven punts and now ranks second in the nation, averaging more than 47 yards a boot.

COLUMN

Bowl-game aspirations fading quickly

BRIAN ANDERSON

At the vice presidential debate last week, Ross Perot's running mate, James Stockdale, asked: "Who am I? What am I doing here?"

If Stockdale were a K-State coach or a K-State fan, he would ask, "What are we doing here?"

In other words, what are we, the Wildcats, doing at 3-2 for the season with the prospect of the rest of the season getting worse?

What are we, the Wildcats, doing talking about bowl games when we can't move the football against a 1-4 football team?

Make that 2-4.

K-State dropped its second consecutive game of the season, this time to mighty Utah State. Many students, players and alumni were hoping to be in Hawaii for Christmas to watch the Cats play in the Hula Bowl.

A lot of fans expected an 8-3 record, or at least a 7-4 record. But even a 7-4 record would put us in the same situation as last season — one Division I-A win away from eligibility to a bowl game.

Don't get me wrong; this team is not the 0-11 team of 1988. But if we don't straighten up, we'll end up with a 5-6 record, much like the 1990 team.

"What are we doing here?"

At this point on the schedule, K-State could be — probably should be — 4-1 or 5-0. The experienced offensive line wanted another 2,000-yard passer and a 1,000-yard rusher, something only one other Big Eight team has ever done.

But the offense has continued to struggle, and the root of the problems may very well be the play of that offensive line.

Before the season, the defense was expected to be one of the best units in the Big Eight, if not the country.

Eight returning starters, including Brooks Barta and a strong interior line, were to kill any run. Jaime Mendez and C.J. Masters were to provide leadership as others would get familiar with their positions.

But let's see what we have as the Cats approach the halfway point.

After five games, K-State has 1,342 yards of total offense. Last year at this point, the Cats had 1,892. Going into the Utah State game, K-State ranked 81st nationally in total offense. That ranking is sure to fall after this game.

Eric Gallon is off his 1,100-yard pace from last season. At this time in 1991, Gallon had 440 yards. In 1992, Gallon has 400.

Together, Smargiasso and Garber have thrown 801 yards midway through the season. Paul Watson had more than 900 yards by himself last year.

"What are we doing here?"

The defense is, however, doing better than last year. With the exception of the KU game, it has played well, giving up 1,583 yards in five games — 1,126 yards without the Jayhawk game.

This is better than last season's 1,746 yards.

Before the Utah State game, the defense ranked 45th in the country.

Everyone on the defensive side is performing as expected. Barta's 60 tackles lead the team, and he could join Gary Spani as the only the Cat to reach the 100-tackle mark in three consecutive seasons.

Mendez and Masters have been plucking balls out of the air to give K-State 10 interceptions in five games.

"What are we doing here?"

Colorado and Oklahoma are coming up, and the Cats are on the road for both games.

What does that mean? K-State could be 3-4 for the nationally televised game with Iowa State, a team that scored 47 points against Kansas.

The Cats go to play 1-5 Missouri, but the Tigers have faced tough competition. Oklahoma State is 3-3, and Coach Pat Jones might have a job for next year.

Finally, K-State will face nationally ranked Nebraska in Tokyo.

Suddenly, the 7-4 record of a year ago, a record that the Cats were sure to improve upon this season, is looking pretty good.

No one really knows what will happen, but the rest of the season isn't as bright as it used to be. A win in the next two weeks could keep K-State in the bowl hunt.

But the offense needs to make a 180-degree turn.

WEEKEND CONFERENCE REVIEW

► KANSAS 50 IOWA STATE 47

AMES, Iowa — The Jayhawks erased a 26-point deficit in capping the greatest comeback in KU history, eventually defeating the Cyclones 50-47 in the highest-scoring KU game ever.

The Cyclones scored 40 unanswered points in taking a 47-21 lead.

The Jayhawks gave up 516 yards of total offense to Iowa State.

The winning touchdown was scored by KU defensive lineman Larry Thiel.

Thiel recovered an ISU fumble in the fourth quarter and rumbled 37 yards untouched. The Cyclones thought the play had been whistled dead.

► OKLAHOMA ST. 28 MISSOURI 26

STILLWATER, Okla. — The Cowboys had to overcome a record-setting performance by Tiger quarterback Jeff Handy.

Handy threw more passes (73) than any quarterback in Big Eight history. He also completed more passes (43) for as many yards (480) as any quarterback in Big Eight history. It was Handy's first start as a college quarterback.

► COLORADO 24 OKLAHOMA 24

BOULDER, Colo. — Colorado quarterback Koy Detmer, in his first collegiate start, completed 33 passes for 418 yards, both Buffalo records.

But Detmer also tossed five interceptions and lost a pair of fumbles.

Before it was over, the Buffaloes needed a 53-yard field goal — by the punter, with no time left on the clock — to salvage the tie.

—compiled by Steve Rock

BIG EIGHT STANDINGS

CONFERENCE

	W	L	T	PCT.
Kansas	2	0	0	1.000
Nebraska	1	0	0	1.000
Colorado	1	0	1	.750
Oklahoma	1	0	1	.750
Oklahoma State	1	1	0	.500
K-STATE	0	1	0	.000
Iowa State	0	2	0	.000
Missouri	0	2	0	.000

OVERALL

	W	L	T	PCT.
Colorado	5	0	1	.917
Kansas	5	1	0	.833
Nebraska	4	1	0	.800
K-STATE	3	2	0	.600
Oklahoma	3	2	1	.583
Oklahoma State	3	3	0	.500
Iowa State	2	4	0	.333
Missouri	1	5	0	.167

Collegian

SPORTS

WORLD SERIES

Late homer lifts Toronto

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — Backup catcher Ed Sprague hit a two-run, pinch-hit home run off career saves leader Jeff Reardon with one out in the ninth inning Sunday night to give the Toronto Blue Jays a 5-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Baseball's first international World Series is now tied at one game apiece.

Sprague hit the first pitch from Reardon over the left field fence, following a one-out walk to pinch Derek Bell.

It was the first pinch homer by Toronto this year and the 17th in World Series history.

Duane Ward, at one time in the Atlanta organization, got the victory with a perfect inning of relief. Tom Henke pitched the ninth for the save, getting Terry Pendleton on a foul pop for the final out after plunking pinch-hitter Lonnie Smith and walking two-sport star Deion Sanders.

The victory ended a string of eight World Series victories by the home team.

David Justice and pinch-hitter Brian Hunter drove in fifth-inning runs as the Braves built a 4-2 lead. Sanders started the rally with a one-out single to right.

Sanders, a Pro Bowl cornerback for the Atlanta Falcons with 4.2 speed in the 40, stole second and reached third when catcher Pat Borders' throw bounced into center field.

After Pendleton walked, Justice singled in Sanders, sent Pendleton to third and chased Blue Jays starter David Cone, who had a 9-3 record against the Braves when he pitched for the New York Mets.

Cone, the major league strikeout leader with a career-high 261, was traded to the Blue Jays on Aug. 27. At the time he had 214 strikeouts, tops in the NL. Braves starter John Smoltz took the strikeout title on his final start of the season, finishing with 215.

Hunter greeted reliever David Wells with a sacrifice fly to right.

Smoltz, MVP of the NL playoffs after winning twice against Pittsburgh, struck out five of the first six batters and retired the first eight in order.

Smoltz, 15-12 in the regular season, lost his 2-0 lead in the fifth when the Blue Jays rallied after two outs.

Borders walked on a 3-2 pitch and Manuel Lee singled. Cone got his second single of the game, driving in Borders. Lee and Cone each advanced an extra base on a wild throw to second by first baseman Sid Bream.

Devon White then beat out an infield single to second baseman Mark Lemke, scoring Lee with the tying run.

Cone was just the third AL pitcher to get a hit in the World Series since the designated hitter was established in 1972. He is the first pitcher from that league to get two hits in a Series game since Detroit's Mickey Lolich in 1968.

The Blue Jays appeared to have a run in the fourth when Roberto Alomar walked, took second on a wild pitch and went to third on Dave Winfield's infield grounder.

Alomar, MVP in the AL playoffs after hitting .423 against Oakland, raced to the plate when a pitch rolled away from catcher Damon Berryhill.

SUMMER OLYMPICS 1992

Seaton honored for bronze medal

FRANK KLEEMANN

Collegian

Manhattan's first Olympic medalist was welcomed home Saturday by the city and the K-State Rowing Association.

Anna Seaton and her partner, Stephanie Maxwell-Pierson, won the bronze medal in the women's pair without coxswain rowing event at the Summer Olympics in Barcelona, Spain.

At Manhattan Town Center Saturday, Mayor Richard Seidler opened the presentation by saying Seaton "would be always close to our hearts."

Seaton received two oars from the rowing club and then christened a K-State boat with her name, "Anna B. Seaton."

"It's a great honor to have an Olympic medal winner's name on a boat that is rowed by K-State," club president Myron Friesen said.

Seaton said she also felt honored by the dedication.

"I feel like I had an impact on the rowing program here," Seaton said. "I never rowed for K-State, but they were supporters and fans of me from the beginning. I think K-State is more involved in my career than Harvard."

Seaton graduated from Manhattan High School and went on to attend Harvard University, which has one of the strongest rowing programs in the United States. She graduated from Harvard in 1986.

Her first international success was in 1987, when she was a member of the silver medal-winning women's eight at the world championships. A year later, Seaton qualified for the U.S. Olympic team, finishing sixth in the women's eight at Seoul, South Korea.

Winning two more silver medals in world championships in 1990 and 1991, Seaton said it's hard to say which medal in her collection means the most to her.

"At the Olympics, it's the first time I had no regrets after the race," she said. "I wouldn't have changed anything. After finishing the race, I leaned over the boat to lose my cookies, by going over the natural limit."

"Having no regrets, (winning bronze) was the greatest achievement."

After six years on the national team and two Olympic Games, Seaton said she will end her career of rowing in international races.

ELIZABETH FERGUSON/Collegian

Troy Colb, K-State crew coach, escorts Olympic bronze medalist Anna Seaton through an arch of oars into the Manhattan Town Center Saturday for a ceremony in her honor.

CROSS COUNTRY

Running squads finish strong meet

Men's team, O'Neill place 1st; women's harriers 2nd at Cal Poly race

FRANK KLEEMANN

Collegian

The K-State cross country teams, in their last preparation race for the conference and district championships Saturday, showed they are on the right track.

The men's team sent strong signs to its Big Eight competition, winning the 8,000-meter run with 36 points at the Cal Poly Invitational in San Luis Obispo, Calif.

UCLA, second with 69 points, and third-place Fresno State, 100 points, were little threat to K-State.

"The guys dominated the field of about 15 teams," Coach John Capriotti said. "They ran close together as a group and are really beginning to improve."

On top of the team's success, freshman Francis O'Neill captured first place in the individual standings with a time of 24:34.

With Ryan Clive-Smith in fifth, Yared Berhane in sixth and Mike Becker in 10th, K-State finished with four runners in the top 10.

Chris Unthank finished his first race for the Cats at 14th. Capriotti said he was pleased with Unthank's debut, which gave the team additional depth.

Senior Anthony Williams came in 21st after tiring down the last quarter-mile.

Billy Wuggazer in 23rd and Richard Mick in 26th rounded out K-State's strong team efforts. Among the beaten teams were several nationally ranked schools.

"It was a pretty solid meet."

"We ran so well, it didn't look like that," Capriotti said. "We were out there and dominated the field. It's a good sign that we are ready to run."

"We can run faster, but I think we are ready to go for the big meets."

The women's team missed the team title, finishing second, but it gave a tough run to Brigham Young, the No. 8 squad in the nation.

"I was kind of happy because we ran well," Capriotti said. "Even if we ran well, I think we could run better. I felt we could beat BYU."

Martha Pinto was the Cats' top runner, placing ninth. Jennifer Hillier and Jeanene Rugan finished 15th and 16th, respectively, in the 5,000-meter run.

Paulette Staats, 23rd; Cari Warden, 31st; and Lesley Wells, 44th, helped assure K-State second place with Cal Poly just 7 points behind in third.

"Generally, it was a good run, and I was pleased," Capriotti said. "I was really happy with the first and second place, but we definitely have to step up a notch to go in the Big Eight and District 5 meet."

GOLF

Men's team, Waldman looking for 2nd win of year

"We're expecting to do great things with this tournament. Second place is the worst we should do."

MARK ELLIOTT

KRISTEEN YOUNG

Collegian

Coming off a tournament win at Iowa State two weeks ago, the men's golf team travels to Colorado State for a two-day tourney beginning today.

Coach Mark Elliott said the two-week rest has been good for the team.

"I think it's hard to play every weekend," Elliott said. "It's nice to have some time off."

The break hasn't squelched the confidence of sophomore golfer Brett Waldman, who placed first individually at Iowa State.

"My confidence is pretty high. I expect to play well," Waldman said. "I'm not expecting to win every tournament, but I am expecting to play well."

His win at Iowa State was the first in his collegiate career, and it came as a surprise.

"I didn't think my first collegiate win would come so early in my college career," he said. "I played some last fall and every tournament this season."

Elliott said he is excited that this is a tournament the Wildcats have a chance to win.

"We're expecting to do great things with this tournament. Second place is the worst we should do," Elliott said.

The team will face seven teams in the Cable Ends/Ram Collegiate Invitational, hosted by Colorado State.

Other teams competing include Colorado, Southern Utah, Northern Colorado, Southern Colorado, Grand Canyon and Utah State.

K-State is 5-1 against the teams at today's tourney.

Previously, the Cats have met and placed above Colorado State, Southern Utah, Southern Colorado, Grand Canyon and Utah State. Their only loss was to Colorado.

It is Colorado that Elliott said will challenge K-State the most. Colorado is 18th in the national rankings and placed ahead of K-State in the Cats' first tournament this fall.

"They won the tournament, but it was our first, and we only played fair," Elliott said. "We are a better team since then."

In that tournament, the Wildcats placed seventh in the 24-team competition.

Waldman echoed his coach's expectations.

"I think we have a good chance. Colorado is there, but there isn't any reason why we shouldn't be right there with them."

K-State is enjoying its most successful season in school history.

"It's fun. We are enjoying ourselves, and it is neat that the team is so young," Waldman said.

Senior Richard Laing is the only one of K-State's five representatives with much collegiate experience.

Besides Laing and Waldman, Sean Robertson, Jason Losch and Will Siebert will play.

Robertson placed second in the last tournament, and Laing placed fourth. This will be the first tournament of the season for Siebert, a junior.

With each tournament, Elliott has rotated who will compete as K-State's fifth player. This week it is Siebert.

"Will is getting better all the time," he said. "We need a fifth player, and we need someone to step up for the position."

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Cowboys fight off Chiefs in 17-10 win

ASSOCIATED PRESS

IRVING, Texas — Safety Ray Horton was demoted, not disheartened.

It's a good thing, because his interception Sunday put the Dallas Cowboys back into the NFC East leadership.

Horton's interception with 3:27 to play helped Dallas beat back a late Kansas City threat Sunday and the Cowboys rode back to first with a 17-10 victory over the Chiefs.

Dallas (5-1), has won 10 consecutive home games.

Kansas City dropped to 4-3, with all three losses on the road.

"We were put to the test today," Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said. "We did what we had to do against a physical team."

Horton, who was replaced at starting strong safety by Thomas Everett, stepped in front of J.J. Birden to intercept Dave Krieg's pass on the Dallas 8.

His interception saved the day for a Dallas team that went into a second-half offensive gridlock. The Cowboys could manage only a 39-yard field goal.

Kansas City coach Marty Schottenheimer said the Cowboys' success on offense and defense was "disappointing."

"If we play the way we are capable of playing, we can win. I mean we can win the whole thing. We haven't done that yet."

"Every guy, starting with me, has to look at himself and find out what else can I do to be better," he said.

CHIEFS ROUNDUP

■ The Chiefs' record fell to 4-3, with all three losses coming on the road.

■ Kansas City's last-chance drive ended at the Cowboy 8-yard line when a Dave Krieg pass was intercepted by safety Ray Horton.

■ Cowboy Emmitt Smith, who rushed for 95 yards, became the youngest man to ever reach the 3,000-yard mark.

SPORTS DIGEST

▶ SPIKERS CONTINUE SLUMP, LOSE 2 MORE

The K-State volleyball team upped its losing streak to eight when the spikers fell to Colorado and Regis this weekend.

The 15-5, 15-6, 15-13 loss to Colorado, and the 15-8, 15-12, 9-15, 15-9 loss to Regis leaves the Wildcats winless in the conference and 5-14 overall.

The Cats gave away the first two games of the Colorado match with a combined offensive effort of .000 in hitting percentage.

In the third game, K-State regrouped and went ahead to a 12-6 lead. But Colorado came back with eight straight points to win the game 15-13.

Kathy Saxton led K-State in offense and defense in the Colorado match, with 13 kills and 12 digs, respectively. She also led the Cats in the Regis game with 23 kills and ten digs.

▶ CANADIAN FLAG FLOWN UPSIDE DOWN

ATLANTA (AP) — With a team from outside the United States in the World Series for the first time, baseball committed a diplomatic gaffe Sunday by flying the Canadian flag upside down prior to Game 2.

Officials quickly issued an apology "to the people of Canada and to all baseball fans for the unintentional improper display of the Canadian flag."

The Canadian colors, with a big red maple leaf on a red-and-white field, were carried onto the field along with the U.S. stars and stripes by a U.S. Army color guard from Fort McPherson, Ga.

The maple leaf was displayed with the top of the leaf pointing downward, instead of skyward.

MUSIC

Faculty to give recital at All Faiths Chapel tonight

KIM MCINTY

Collegian

Students aren't the only musicians who give recitals.

Cora Cooper, instructor of music, will perform on the violin at 8 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.

She will be joined by William Wingfield, instructor of music on piano; Sara Funkhouser, professor of music on oboe; and David Littrell, associate professor of music on cello.

The recital, part of the faculty artist series, is free and open to the public.

The program will include the U.S. premiere of "Three Pieces for Oboe, Violin, and Cello" by Hanley Jackson, professor of music.

It was first performed in August when Cooper, Funkhouser and Littrell played at the International Double Reed Society's convention in Frankfurt, Germany.

Cooper said the violin, oboe and cello is an unusual combination.

The remaining selections will be for violin and piano. They include J.S. Bach's "Sonata in G Major, BWV 1019A," "Sonata" by Claude Debussy; "Fratres," a work by the Estonian composer Arvo Part; and Beethoven's "Sonata in G Major, Op. 96."

"It's kind of an unusual selection of music," Cooper said. "When I planned the program, I tried to think how the pieces would fit together."

All music department faculty members are required to give performances through the faculty artist series.

"Performing is what most of us were primarily trained to do. When it comes right down to it, that's what being a musician is," Cooper said. "Hopefully, you become a better teacher through doing so."

VIOLIN RECITAL

The faculty recital will be at 8 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.

Pregnant? Need help?
For confidential help call

Birthright
Free pregnancy test
537-9180
523 s. 17th st.
1-800-848-LOVE (5683)

MUSIC

Orchestra to perform 1st concert

Group keeps musical tradition going for 111 years

JANET SATTERLEE

Collegian

Members of the K-State orchestra are tuning their instruments in preparation for the first concert of the season.

Conductor David Littrell said the concert will open with "Cassandra's Dance" by Hanley Jackson, followed by Jay Unger's "Ashokan Farewell."

The third concert selection is Concerto for Saxophone and Strings, Op. 109, by Alexander Glazunov. It will feature a saxophone solo by Alfred Cochran, associate professor of music.

Littrell said a guest faculty member is often asked to perform a solo in the first concert of the fall semester.

The final concert selection is Beethoven's Symphony No. 7 in A.

"It is an outstanding masterpiece loved by people for 180 years. In fact, it is 180 years old this year.

Audiences always love it," Littrell said.

He said the orchestra traveled to Beloit and Hays Sunday for its first tour before the Tuesday concert.

Littrell said the orchestra is composed of 65 students who are music and non-music majors, such as students in human ecology, architecture and engineering.

KANSAS STATE Orchestra

David Littrell, conductor

Tuesday, October 20, 1992
8:00 p.m. Free
McCain Auditorium

Jackson: Cassandra's Dance
Unger/Custer: Ashokan Farewell
Glazunov: Saxophone Concerto
Alfred Cochran, saxophonist
Beethoven: Symphony No. 7 in A

This program is made possible in part by the Fine Arts Fee.

GREAT
MEMORIES
START HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

Cat Coupon Clipper

HUNAN EXPRESS
1116 Moro
537-0886

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
7 days a week

This coupon good for
Yu Shiang Chicken $3.75

Dine-in & carryout
Not valid with any other specials,
coupons, or on deliveries.

FREE DELIVERY MENU
(Minimum order $9)
Expires 10/26/92

ONE HOUR PHOTO & PORTRAIT STUDIO

Photo Processing At Its Best

40% off
Processing

(35 mm, 110, 126, C-41)

EXPIRES Oct. 31, 1992

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Not valid with any other promotion

1134 Garden Way
Across from Westloop

C-1-6
776-9030

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

Chinese
Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-In Coupon
10% Off

When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

Advertise
with coupons?

YOU BET!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising

532-6560

Pizza
Hut

DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION
NEAREST YOU.

•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4334

$2.00 Off
Any Delivery Order

Not valid with any other special offer. 1/20 cent cash redemption value. Good only on delivery orders in Manhattan, KS ©1992 Pizza

Remnants
Remnants
Remnants
Remnants
Remnants
Remnants
Remnants
Remnants
Remnants

10% Discount
Expires Oct. 12, 1992

Nu-Design

Decorating Center
Complete Line of Decorating Products
See us for all your decorating needs

117 W. 8th St.
Junction City

1-800-377-9309

(913) 762-2634
(913) 762-6643

Wall Paper
Vertical Blinds
Ceramic Tile
Mini-Blinds
Cabinets
Drapes
Carpet
Vinyl
Paint

Little Caesars
CHEESER!
CHEESER!

IS BACK

2 MEDIUM PIZZAS
LOADED WITH EXTRA CHEESE AND UP TO 3 TOPPINGS
plus FREE Crazy Bread

$8.98
PLUS TAX

Little Caesars' Pizza! Pizza!

Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!
Offer valid for a limited time only at participating stores. No coupon necessary. Free Crazy Bread offer is a four-piece order.
©1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

Westloop Center • 539-3333

VALUABLE COUPON

MENADY
MADNESS

2 PEPPERONI PIZZAS

$5.99
Medium
Plus Tax

YOUR CHOICE:
• ONE OF EACH!
• PANINIS!
• PIZZAPIZZAS!

Valid Monday only with coupon at participating Little Caesars.
Extra toppings available at additional cost. *Excludes extra cheese.
Expires 10-25-92

Little Caesars
© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

VALUABLE COUPON

PARTY PACK!

4 large pizzas with cheese and 1 topping*
plus two 32 oz. soft drinks

$20.98
Plus Tax

YOUR CHOICE:
• 4 PIZZAS
• ANY COMBINATION
• PAN OR ROUND!

Valid only with coupon at participating Little Caesars. Extra toppings available at additional cost.
Excludes extra cheese.
Expires 10-25-92

Little Caesars
© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

Nutcracker Auditions

For a holiday season you'll long remember, perform with the Tulsa Ballet Theatre! Thirty-seven children are needed to portray angels, mice, rabbits, clowns, soldiers, and bakers when TBT presents The Nutcracker in McCain Auditorium on Thursday and Friday December 3 and 4 at 7:30 p.m.

Girls 6-12 years old and boys 7-12 years old who have had at least two years of ballet or gymnastics training and who can be available for all rehearsals and performances are encouraged to apply.

Girls should wear tights, leotards, and ballet shoes - not toe shoes - to the audition. Boys should wear tee shirts with tights or shorts. Please come dressed for the audition.

All children should bring an index card with this information on it: Your name (printed), age, clothing size, leotard size, name of parent(s) or guardian(s), address, and phone number. All children should also bring a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Auditions are Saturday, October 24, in McCain: 1:30 to 3 p.m. for children ages 6-9; 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. for children ages 10-12.

For more information, call the McCain Auditorium office at 532-6425, weekdays 9:00 a.m. to noon of 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m..

M.C.C.A.I.N

Awareness week focuses on drinking

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

Phil Perkins, senior in hotel and restaurant management and Marlatt Hall staff assistant, is helping organize programs this week.

"We are hoping that, through our programs, people can learn more about how alcohol affects them and about the liability issues involved," Perkins said.

The K-State Police Department will have a presentation on the effects of alcohol at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the second-floor lobby of Marlatt.

"We will have a resident come in who is intoxicated, and they will run the tests on them to see how they react," Perkins said.

Other programs in Marlatt Hall will focus on promoting social responsibility and liability issues.

"Our program Thursday will focus on how companies like Coors and Anheuser-Busch are promoting responsible drinking," Perkins said.

The program also will show how a party host can be held liable for underage drinking and problems that arise from it.

CONSTRUCTION

Campus facelift updates accessibility

Parking, walkways priority at K-State

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

Construction is the word. Several construction projects are underway around campus, including near Justin and King halls.

Parking fees went to work on the lot north of Justin Hall as part of a program to improve parking, said Ed Rice, assistant vice president for the Division of Facilities.

"Everything we do now includes disability access, which means we must have ramps," Rice said. "We also have a committee that discusses ways to improve access for disabled people."

The red, bumpy concrete used on ramps near the parking lot will no longer be used. Rice said it was to tell people with vision problems they are leaving a ramp and entering a street.

It will be discontinued, Rice said, because it makes it difficult for wheelchairs to navigate, and it is hard for contractors to make.

A survey required by law done this summer inventoried accessibility to all campus buildings, Rice said. He said because of the large amount of information the survey produced, they have not had time to analyze the results.

The "pizza walk" north of King Hall, installed by students in 1974, also was replaced.

The walkway was built to convince the administration to install a real sidewalk, said Bernard Franklin, assistant dean of student life, who was a K-State junior at the time and helped install the path.

"Over the years, it has deteriorated to a point that is impossible to maintain," Rice said. "It had washed out beyond repair, and it was difficult to remove snow."

Franklin said when he returned as an administrator, he was surprised to see the walk still in place.

"We thought it would push somebody to put a sidewalk there," he said. "And to think, it's taken almost 20 years."

Part of the first walk was preserved and moved to commemorate what students did, Rice said.

Give someone you know a special treat!

Come to Kedzie 103 and place a Halloween personal.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Deadline is Oct. 28.

Officials Wanted

Mandatory Volleyball Clinic
Monday, Oct. 19 at 6:30 p.m.
Forum Hall K-State Union
Starting pay $4.50/Game
(more for experienced officials)

Rec Services Office532-6890
Court Reservations532-6950
Rec Check532-6000
Outdoor Rental532-6894
Intramural Hotline532-6292

Student Travel Experts

- Student airfares.
- International student airfares.
- Railpasses issued here.
- Internat'l identity cards.
- Worldwide adventure tours.
- Travel gear and guidebooks.
- Expert travel advice.

Council Travel

1634 Orrington Ave.
Evanston, IL 60201
1-800-475-5070

COMING EVENTS

Lend Me a Tenor

Friday, October 23, 8 p.m.*
Sneak behind the scenes of a gala opera for an evening of Marx Brothers-style shenanigans. The laughter is nonstop in this outrageous Tony Award-winning farce.

Tickets: $7-$18.

The Waverly Consort

The Year 1492: Spanish Music in the Age of Columbus
Saturday, October 31, 8 p.m.†

Ten brilliant singers and players trace the Christian, Jewish, and Muslim threads that form the fascinating fabric of Spanish culture. An illustrated pre-concert lecture at 6:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre, K-State Union, is free and open to the public.

Tickets: $7.50-$15.

Sergio and Odair Assad

Duo guitarists

Sunday, November 8, 3 p.m.*

These Brazilian brothers dazzle audiences with their breathtaking virtuosity and stylistic perfection. Hear for yourself as they explore the classics and sample the wealth of South American music.

Tickets: $6-$12

Fiddler on the Roof

Sunday, November 22, 7:30 p.m.‡

Songs like "If I Were a Rich Man," "Matchmaker" and "Sunrise, Sunset" makes this 1991 Tony Award-winning Best Revival Musical "one of the most glowing creations in the history of musical theatre." (New York Times)

Tickets: $10-$25

Call 532-6428 or come to the McCain box office on the Kansas State University campus, Manhattan.

Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays; from 1 p.m. before weekend matinees; from 3 p.m. before weekend evenings. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley). Persons with disabilities call 532-6428. Transportation for Senior Citizens is available through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

* Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

† Corporate support by Manhattan Medical Center.

‡ A Mid-America Arts Alliance program.

§ Corporate support by Kansas Farm Bureau and Affiliated Companies.

All performances are supported by the K-State Fine Arts Fee.

M·C·C·A·I·N

523 S. 17th 537-1484

polkaudio CLEARANCE SALE!

The Speaker Specialist®

'92 Models at huge savings!

	Reg.	Sale
SDA 2.3	$2500 pr.	$1799 pr.
RTA 15	1400 pr.	799 pr.
RTA 11	1000 pr.	549 pr.
Monitor 10	740 pr.	449 pr.
Monitor 5	450 pr.	269 pr.
Monitor 5 jr	370 pr.	229 pr.
Monitor 5.6	300 pr.	179 pr.
Monitor 4	240 pr.	169 pr.

20 Minutes West
Through Ft. Riley

1-762-4447

630 Grant Ave.

Junction City

Mon.-Fri. 10-7, Sat. 10

Since 1979

AUDIO JUNCTION, INC.

Something To Believe In...

United Way of Riley County

Who owns United Way?

Everyone who lives or works in our area has a stake in this local United Way. Donors elect the volunteer leadership and provide the direction. Your contribution provides the means for all of us to solve community problems for ourselves and our neighbors.

Here are facts on just a couple of local agencies supported by your United Way of Riley County...

Local Agency Fact File:

Manhattan Day Care Center
Main Branch: 121 North 6th St., Manhattan
Phone: 776-5071
Douglas Center Branch: 901 Yuma St., Manhattan
Contact Person: Jolene Stubblefield
Provides full-day and limited half-day child care services primarily for children of limited income, working single-parent and special needs families.

Local Agency Fact File:

Flint Hills Breadbasket
905 Yuma St., Manhattan
Phone: 537-0730
Contact Person: Shirley Bramhall
Provides food assistance for low to moderate income families in Riley County through 47 non-profit agencies serving the needy and coordinates the community Holiday Food Baskets.

"It Works"

United Way of Riley County

Please make your pledge today. Ask your employer for a pledge card or call the United Way office at 776-3779.

Sponsored by Circle K

Reach active voters. Advertise in the Kansas State Collegian.

More than 94 percent of the Kansas State University population reads the Kansas State Collegian. People who read newspapers are most likely to vote and are most active and concerned about their communities and the quality of life.

Among advertising media, newspapers rank first in credibility.

	Most believable media
Newspapers	48%
Television	19%
Direct Mail	12%
Magazines	12%
Radio	4%
About Equal/No Opinion	5%

(Source: Home Testing Institute)

In fact, people look forward to reading advertising in newspapers more than in any other medium.

	% who look forward
Newspapers	44%
Magazines	29%
Television	9%
Radio	0%

(Source: Response Analysis Corporation)

Newspapers reach voters, particularly those all-important ticket-splitters.

	Read political coverage in newspapers "every or almost every day"
Ticket-splitters	64.7%
Republicans	64.1%
Democrats	55.4%

(Source: Market Opinion Research, as cited in The Ticket-Splitter by Devries and Tarrance)

Newspapers reach the most politically active citizens.

	Read a newspaper on the average weekday
Voted in an election	70%
Wrote to an elected official	73%
Visited an elected official	74%
Worked for a candidate	71%

(Source: Simmons Market Research Bureau, 1989)

Newspaper advertising offers you believability, reader involvement, the ability to set the record straight, graphic impact and the ability to address serious issues you and the voters care about. Remember to include Kansas State Collegian advertising in your campaign budget.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6560

ROTC students train at Fort Riley

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3 in charge. The cadre, military science professors and officers, told them what they wanted accomplished.

"As cadre, we set up how we want it, and the MS4s prepare the cadets, brief us on the activities of the cadets and execute it," West said.

Almquist said he has prepared for three years to teach at FTX.

"We don't go out there unprepared. We've been trained to teach," Almquist said.

Saturday afternoon, cadets participated in an M-16 rifle qualification course and familiarized themselves with the weapon.

They also learned night-patrol operations. As platoons, they designated people to patrol their campsites Friday night. This meant little sleep for the cadets. At most, they slept four hours.

Those on patrol maintained security and had radio shifts to keep in contact with range control at Fort Riley.

On this night, the cadets had to find out about any storm alerts. In combat, night patrols watch for the enemy in case of attack.

Waterman said she can distinctly remember last semester's FTX.

"It was so cold, pouring rain, and I had a rifle in my sleeping bag," she said. "You wake up after little sleep, pick the grass off your face, the dirt out of your eyes and put on more camouflage to start the day."

The cadets slept two to a pup tent in Friday night's 25-degree weather, and they ate meals ready to eat out of their backpacks.

"It stocks you up. Its purpose is for energy, not for taste," Waterman said. "But it doesn't taste too bad."

One thing they needed energy for was the FTX finale — the 3.1-mile competitive road march.

The three platoons marched against each other to see who finished with the fastest time. The cadets marched with their backpacks, which weigh 40 pounds.

"The main thing is to provide a challenge and some physical stress," West said. "The road march is also a mental stress, as they tell themselves they can make it to the finish line."

Festival 7,000 strong

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 as we were walking in," said Angela McDavitt, junior in art drawing. "They were really good."

Entertainment included a birds of prey show and a reptile show, sponsored by Sunset Zoo.

Double Exposure, a mother-daughter pop duo, performed after lunch, and Streetside, a four-man a cappella group, performed later.

"The entertainment was very good," said 70-year-old MaryAnn Thurlow of Wakefield. "I really liked the music. I went to relax and enjoy the festival."

Besides the action in Aggieville, the third annual Volksmarch took place in Triangle Park.

"The Volksmarch is a 6.2-mile pleasure walk, not for competition," said Cheryl Sieben, director of the Aggieville Business Association. "The people did not know where they were going until they signed up and got the map.

"The course was marked with flags, and they tried to set it up on a route covering historical sites."

The Volksmarch became popular in the United States after the military became familiar with it in Germany, she said. People travel all over the country to march, and some do it to receive credit.

"There were 198 entries," said Terry VanMeter, coordinator of the Volksmarch. "Out of those, 51 people walked for medals, and 12 people walked for credit only."

For credit, the march costs $1.50, and to receive a medal, it costs $5, Sieben said.

"We had a good turnout, but not as good as last year," he said. "We plan on doing it again next year."

More than 7,000 people attended this year's Oktoberfest.

Clerk candidates present positions

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 my duties when I was elected."

The candidates also disagreed on same-day registration for voters, which would allow voters to register on the day of the election.

"As for same-day voter registration, I'm all for it," Raborn said. "I knew people during the primary who wanted to vote, showed up to vote and couldn't, because they hadn't registered two weeks earlier."

Colbert said she had a few qualms about same-day registration.

"It's hard to determine the number of ballots to be printed," Colbert said. "There is also a chance for voter fraud."

"It's not bad in Riley County, but it is possible. All they have to do is show a driver's license to show they live there. It would be easy if someone wanted to register under 10 different names and vote."

When asked about voter registration drives, Colbert said she had done a voter registration drive on campus, had deputized students, and people could register at the Student Government Services office in the Union. She also pointed out 23 voter registration outposts throughout the county.

Raborn said he would do all he could to get students registered to vote.

"I would have voter registration drives again and again," Raborn said. "That way, the students don't have to go out of their way to register to vote."

Commission hopefuls speak on campus

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 see students used as interns."

Pudden said he was glad to see students register to vote.

"I was very happy to realize students this year have made a concerted effort and have registered," Pudden said. "People my age have made somewhat a mess, as you see things. Maybe you can make it better."

A single moderator asked questions of the candidates, and each was given a certain amount of time to respond.

All the candidates said K-State students have a role in Riley County politics.

"When you pay rent, you pay your taxes," Pudden said. "You're not going to be here for a short time. This is your home for a long time."

"I'd like to see you get interested in it and stay interested in it," Candidates said Aggieville is one reason students should get involved.

"The Aggieville law enforcement issue will be of interest to you," Garton said.

Garton and Pudden agreed that county law enforcement should be a constant presence in the Aggieville area, including foot patrol.

"It's possible to have students on the law board. I'd like to see students on all county boards," Garton said.

Williams said law board meetings are open, and students can attend them.

Hoyt receives planning grant

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5 don't plan to go to college.

"This focus will be on those youth currently enrolled or who plan to enroll in terminal vocational and technical programs," Ken Hughey said.

"We will also focus on some courses in community colleges, but only those which last one or two years and where the students have no plans as yet to continue in higher education," he said.

Ken Hughey said the project is still in the beginning stages.

Judith Hughey will meet with students in Missouri vocational and technical institutes to get their ideas on the project, he said.

"If the plan is successful, we hope to implement our findings nationwide in a five-year implementation program," Hoyt said.

The Reader's Digest Fund invests nationwide to improve elementary and secondary schools.

ESSENTIALS

Reader thinks K.B. 'out of line,' should think about things

DEAR CASSANDRA,

I guess this letter is not really intended for you, but for K.B., the guy who stated his opinion about your advice on Oct. 14.

I would just like him to think about a few things. When Horny and Single wrote Cassandra, did he not want advice on how to "get rid" of this girl?

He wanted her off his back after she gave herself to him. She sacrificed that one special gift all women have by choice (that is true). However, wasn't it quite obvious that she thought that it was something special? If she just wanted a one-night stand, why would she call and try to talk to him afterward?

It is true (as Cassandra clearly stated) that if he had stated his intentions beforehand, none of that would have happened.

Yes, I do believe (and I am not afraid to say it) that sex is a sacred act meant to be saved for two people who truly love each other. But I also would like to add that Cassandra never said women don't have hormones. Women can also get "caught up in the moment."

However, I do believe the psychological part of it is very different.

Women seem to suffer more after sex than men. If a man just wants a one-night stand (and he gets what he wants) he may just feel like a "stud" or he may feel "macho."

Women, on the other hand, may feel regret or embarrassment upon telling their friends about certain guys that they have "seen" only once.

Men also don't really seem to care at all. Once they've done it, they're done. They're finished with you, like it or not.

Pardon me, when I say "men," it only applies to people like "Horny and Single."

Women, on the other hand, after sex, may feel like they have a special bond with this person. Most women feel as if they are something special.

One time, I overheard two males talking about one of my very good friends. One of them had said how great looking she was, while the other one stared and told him, "Yeah, well, I f—ed her."

He sounded so proud of it, too! I have never heard women talk this way about the men they've been with.

I think the reason Cassandra went so easy on L.F., Sept. 23, was that this was one of the very rare occasions that it was the other way around. I also don't recall (L.F.) signing her name "Horny and Single."

As for you (K.B.), I think you're way out of line being so sarcastically rude to Cassandra. If you think you can do any better, why don't you become a columnist and give your advice to people who need it, and not to people who KNOW what they are talking about?

R.S., K-State student

DEAR R.S.,

Thank you.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

Comic strip panels with dialogue:

TODAY, WE PRESENT THE CLASSROOM CRUSADER'S HARROWING ESCAPE FROM THE CLUTCHES OF POP QUIZ.

DIE, CRUSADER!

SMASH TINKLE!

ALL BUT YOU FAILED TO RECKON MY LAY ABILITY TO TURN FOR THOSE OF YOU WHO ENJOY THIS STRIP, I WOULD LIKE TO TAKE THIS TIME TO THANK YOU SINCERELY. (YOUR CASH CONTRIBUTIONS WOULD ALSO BE APPRECIATED.) NOW BACK TO TODAY'S EPISODE...

ONCE AGAIN, GOOD TRIUMPHS OVER EVIL.

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

Comic strip panels with dialogue:

HEY PAT, YOU GONNA EAT THOSE FRIES?

CAN YOU GIVE ME A RIDE?

CAN I BORROW YOUR GIRLFRIEND?

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

Comic strip panels with dialogue:

BARK BARK BARK WOOF WOOF

OH NO, NOT AGAIN!

ONCE THIS STARTS, EVERY DOG IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD STARTS YAPING!

GET IN HERE!

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

Crossword puzzle grid and clues:

ACROSS

1 The Georgia peach

5 Slanderer's sling

8 Imperfection

12 Terrier type

14 Betty White role

15 Blonde shade

16 Maleficence

17 Beachgoer's goal

18 Severe trial

20 James Dean persona

23 Served perfectly

24 Mast

25 Misted

28 Matheson or Robbins

29 Aesopian conclusion

30 Knight

32 Lerner & Loewe classic

34 Birthday party essential

35 Green

DOWN

1 Set a maximum

2 Squeak squelcher

3 Mad-money hiding place?

4 Improved

5 "Buddenbrooks" author

6 Director Grosbard

7 Bill Clinton, for one

8 Elm Street terrorizer

9 Lyricist's topic

10 Land, lots of land

11 Jack Benny's expletive

13 Push-button predecessor

19 Verifiable

20 Q-U link

21 Grand-scale

22 Crimson Tide, for short

23 Proscenium area

25 Companionless

26 Dutch treat

27 Astin's ex

29 Simple

31 Garden

33 Botanist Gregor

34 Chocolate substitutes

36 Lorna's half-sister

37 "— but known..."

38 Roman poet

39 Frost-laden

40 Connipotions

43 Wish otherwise

44 "Unh-unh!"

45 Past

46 Siesta

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-5873 199¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

Cryptoquip puzzle and clue:

10-19

Z J V B F Z F H C Q M E A U F M E

G J C F B F K V H L A R N

W C M E W Z C A P V V U M A

F R L P P H C K V Q

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE ONLY PERSON TO SMILE WHEN THINGS GO WRONG IS A REPAIR-MAN.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals P

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

- 1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word
- 2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word
- 3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word
- 4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word
- 5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students; $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club. has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30 p.m.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITY for non-traditional or minority undergraduates who are science or health profession majors. Pick up an application in Ackert 234. Deadline for consideration is Nov. 5, 1992.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

$100 REWARD. He's still missing. Lost, white cat. Last seen 9/27 Candlewood Drive and Kimble Avenue. 537-0537 days; 539-3644 evenings.

FERRIS FOUND at Ninth and Moro. Call and identify. Alan 776-1332 after 5 p.m.

FOUND ONE pair of glasses in Weber 123 after the 11:05 class. Pick up in Calvin Hall 108.

FOUND, WHITE mountain bike between Delaware and Sunset. Call 587-0153 to ID and claim.

FOUND: LEATHER jacket in Cardwell. Call with description, and what room you lost it in. 537-9307.

LOST: BLACK Ray-Ban sunglasses in East Stadium between 9:30 and 10:30 a.m. on October 14. 539-5189.

LOST: GOLD bracelet on campus Oct. 12, 1992 possibly Willard 114 or Ackert 120. Reward $50. Contact 587-0895.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers.
Open 7 days a week
Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon
Candlewood Shopping Center

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
NFL NITE!!!
$3 pitchers & $1.25 wells
Open 7 days a week!

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

ADPI FOOTBALL Team. Thanks for a fun season. We had a great time. Looking forward to next season. Bo and Britt.

J. ONE more time and I promise I'll ask!

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX available, partially furnished. Mont Blue apartment, one block from campus. 539-4447.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY! Sublease one-bedroom $305. Now through July 31. Campus shuttle. Pool/hot tub. 537-3683 after 5 p.m. or message.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

NICE STUDIO apartment, 1019 Houston. Near City Park. Utilities paid, except water. $295. 1-800-593-0519. Open this Saturday.

SPACIOUS ONE- two-bedroom. Beautiful hardwood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan.-Aug. 539-2019.

WALK TO campus from this 1500 square foot upstairs apartment. One large and one small bedroom, living room, dining room, balcony, fireplace. All utilities paid. Available Dec. 15. Rent reduces in exchange for babysitting $425/month 1720 Humboldt. 537-0947.

120 For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities, lease plus deposit 539-3672.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6 p.m.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Large, two-bedroom, own room, washer/dryer, $169 plus utilities. Available as soon as possible. Ask for Emily or Nicole 776-2048.

FEMALE TO share nice farm house. Alta Vista area. Small dog okay. $275, one-half utilities. Ann 532-7256 (days) 499-5352 (nights).

FEMALE, OWN bedroom. $175 plus utilities. In Wamego. Call 456-2372 leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Holds two girls. $125/month. Low utilities, cable already hooked up. Interested? 587-0422, Lisa.

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

150 Sublease

AVAILABLE NOW two-bedroom house, two blocks from Aggieville and campus. Large rooms, private parking, great neighborhood. Lease runs through May. Call 537-3760.

FEMALE NEEDED to share nice apartment two blocks from campus. $200/month, one-third utilities. Available immediately. 537-4085 or 539-8087 Tina.

160 For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities, lease plus deposit 539-3672.

SERVICE DIRECTORY

210 Resume/Typing

$1.25/DOUBLE, $10/ resume. Laser printer. Also specializing in tables, equations, and overheads. Professional results guaranteed. Please call Sandy 539-3229.

A FIVE minute walk from Aggieville. Resumes, letters, papers typed as low as $1.25 double spaced. Please call Melia 776-1534.

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/Speech for papers/editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing Centers

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

235 Child Care

MOTHER'S HELPER. I'm a reliable female college student willing to help out by babysitting, cooking, cleaning, errand running... Call 776-3421.

240 Musicians/DJs

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

245 Pet Services

DALMATIAN PUPPY. Female AKC registered-supplies included. 776-5328 leave message.

FEEDER RATS and mice for sale. Call 776-3349.

SAVANAH MONITOR low maintenance pet supplies included 776-5328 leave message.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

255 Other Services

Tattoo

Fine Line Tattoo
Quality work, reasonably priced, hospital sterilization
1028 W. 6th 29th Massachusetts
Junction City Topeka
238-8238 233-8289

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

GET THE WORD OUT.
532-6555

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ARE YOU willing to work hard, enjoy people, and able to work late hours. If so, this job is for you, waiter/waitress. Apply in person 1213 Moro.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring. Earn $2000 plus/month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206)634-0468 ext. C5768.

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL Transcriptionist needed for pathology laboratory, part-time evening hours. Please send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502.

HOUSE REMODELING. student help needed. Work involves cleaning, removing wallpaper, painting, carpentry, plumbing and electrical repair. Work begins in Nov. Send resume, work experience and class schedule to Box 3 Collegian.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

Student Office Help. Need mature, responsible, hard working student. Requires considerable typing (inputting text), editing, bulleting and newsletter entries; calling agencies/publication sources to request materials; and creating memos to be sent to Deans, Directors, and Department Heads. Typing speed of 50 words per minute, working knowledge of WordPerfect, and computer experience essential. Good grammar and writing skills are needed. Experience with desktop publishing and newsletter production preferred. A pleasant phone manner and ability to work with the public are desired. General maintenance of library will be required and the ability to maintain operation when information specialist is not available. The individual hired will need to pass a typing, filing, and word processing test. Prefer work study student who can work at least 20 hours/week and summers. Please contact Sherill at 532-5045, Office of Research and Sponsored Programs, 2 Fairchild Hall.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

CARPET CLEANING business. Excellent opportunity for college student/house wife. All equipment/supplies necessary. Excellent condition. $6195 negotiable. 1-494-8484 leave message.

DO YOU need to LOSE WEIGHT? We've got the answer. Guaranteed results. Call today 539-1252.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-(800)874-7697.

VISTA DRIVE-IN is now taking applications for full and part-time help. Apply in person at 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

WANTED: NIGHT support worker to sit with disabled person two nights per week. Interested persons contact Jamie Plank at the SRS office: 776-4011 extension 676. Equal opportunity employer. Women, minorities, and handicapped.

330 Business Opportunities
The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

$252.50 Sell 50 funny college T-shirts and make $252.50. No financial obligation. A risk-free program. Average sales time equals 4-6 hours. Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

Royal Purple

In 10 years,
will you remember
the athletic victories,
all-night study sessions
and terrific friendships you
swore would last a lifetime?
*The Royal Purple will.

To order your 1992-93 Royal Purple,
come to Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).
Total price is $21 - which includes
yearbook and sitting fee.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE

POLITICAL OPINION

The Collegian presents in choice editorial columns the opinion of our staff members.

ISSUES PAGES 4 AND 5

TUESDAY

OCTOBER 20, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 41

J. MATTHEW RHEA/Collegian

Yard art

Beth McElwain, freshman in business, and Stefani Ides, senior in interior design, paint the Kappa Delta letters orange and black Sunday afternoon for Halloween.

Social work has silent vigil

DEREK THOMAN
Collegian

About 50 social work students walked out of their classes Monday morning and gathered in front of Anderson Hall to protest program cuts.

Steve Shields, senior in social work, said the point of the silent vigil was to let Provost James Coffman know social work students are not giving up.

"We're not going away," Shields said. "Our numbers are up. They're not dwindling."

The group, which calls itself Students Against Program Cuts, sat in the provost's office to get attention before going outside and lining the sidewalk in front of Anderson Hall. Outside, they stood quietly and held signs.

Shields said there will be silent vigils from noon to 1 p.m. today and Thursday, and from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, in the same place.

"Our group represents the entire program," Shields said. "Freshmen through seniors are represented here today."

Michelle Reinmiller, senior in social work, said faculty members didn't influence students to skip class for the vigil.

"The faculty haven't pushed us to do anything," Reinmiller said. "It was our choice. Students from the Introduction to Social Work, the Social Work Practice 1 and Social Work Practice 3 classes did this on their own."

Janice Denning, assistant professor of social work, said the students initiated the vigil on their own and are holding their ground through the situation. She did not attend Monday's vigil.

"The students have revived themselves," Denning said. "They have new energy and are in there for the duration."

Shields said the dean of arts and sciences' office said the social work faculty did not do enough scholarship activity.

"One of our assets is that we have two faculty who have $1.8 million in grants coming in over the next four years," Shields said. "If they don't think that's much, compare it to other colleges on a per capita basis."

He said he wondered if the grant money was the reason the social work program wasn't completely cut.

"My question is if the $1.8 million is what kept us from being eliminated," Shields said.

■ See LAST page 10

■ See STUDENTS page 10

Candidates trade final barbs

ASSOCIATED PRESS

EAST LANSING, Mich. — President Bush mounted an animated attack on Bill Clinton's integrity and economic proposals Monday night in a jousting, climactic campaign debate.

After 12 years of Republican rule, Clinton said, "We can do much better if we have the courage to change."

Bush predicted the Democrat would "sock it to the middle class" if elected. But Clinton pledged instead he was not going to raise middle-class taxes to pay for his initiatives, looking for spending cuts elsewhere, or if necessary, deferring his proposals.

Bush, running an underdog race for re-election, worked to raise doubts about Clinton on taxes, emission standards and the Vietnam draft in a final showdown with his Democratic rival and independent Ross Perot.

Perot stressed his businessman's background in pledging to wrestle government gridlock and solve economic problems.

He said he was spending $60 million of his own fortune on his bid for the White House and announced the time slots for a blitz of campaign ads to come.

The debate had its share of sharp exchanges, and at one point Bush referred to Arkansas as the "lowest of the low." That drew a quick retort from Clinton, who has served five terms as governor.

Bush played the underdog aggressor throughout the 90-minute debate, surely his best of the year. His principal theme, delivered over and over, was that on issues as diverse as free trade and the Persian Gulf War, Clinton had a pattern of "trying to have it all ways" by refusing to take a firm stand.

When the president raised the question of trust, Clinton took note of several "broken pledges" in Bush's past, including the "No new taxes" pledge Bush uttered in 1988 and broke in 1990.

It was the last in an eight-day series of debates that began with Clinton ahead in the race for the White House and ended with Bush still searching for a breakthrough. And Perot for a miracle.

There were no obvious gaffes that could doom a campaign. Neither did any of the candidates dominate in a way that would suggest an overnight turnaround in the polls.

The latest surveys showed Clinton slightly below 50 percent in a three-way race, Bush getting slightly more than a third of the vote, and Perot lagging far behind.

An ABC poll taken immediately after the debate made Clinton out to be the winner, 36 percent, to 26 percent for Perot to 21 percent for Bush. Twelve percent called it a tie, and the rest didn't know.

In their closing comments, all

Finney credited with spurring grain deal

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — Gov. Joan Finney should get the credit for the Leningrad Region's planned purchase of 17.5 million bushels of Kansas grain, the governor of that region and the man who will handle the deal said Monday.

Finney and Alexander Belyakov, governor of Leningrad, announced the grain deal at a news conference at Forbes Field before the governor escorted a Russian delegation on a tour of K-State Monday.

If Finney had not provided the initiative by heading a state trade mission to the former Soviet Union last spring, Leslie Rathbun of Topeka, president of Ecology Inc., said the deal would never have come about.

Rathbun's company will see that the grain — mostly wheat but including corn, sorghum and soybeans — is purchased in Kansas and shipped to Leningrad.

He declined to say how much was being paid for the grain or the route it will be shipped, calling those points business secrets.

Rathbun also would place no dollar value on the amount of the impending sale.

Belyakov said the grain is scheduled for delivery in 60 to 90 days. But he was tight-lipped about details of the sale, except to confirm that it relied on U.S. credits for payment.

Under the agreement, Finney and Belyakov said, the Russian region will rely on U.S. credits to

■ See FINNEY page 10

Russians visit K-State

Delegation tours grain science program, speaks to ag students

TONYA FOSTER
Collegian

Gov. Joan Finney and a delegation from Russia visited K-State Monday morning.

The delegation was made up of Gov. Alexander Belyakov of the Leningrad Region; Vyborg Mayor Nikolay Smirnov; DeMark Vybornov, director of foreign affairs, department for the Leningrad Region administration; and Valentina Yakovenko, assistant to the governor for foreign affairs.

Finney said she is negotiating arrangements for 500,000 metric tons of Kansas Russian winter wheat to be shipped to the Leningrad Region of the former Soviet Union.

Earlier in the day at a news conference, the governor announced that the region is planning to purchase 17.5 million bushels of Kansas grain.

Most of it will be wheat, but it will also include corn, sorghum and soybeans.

Finney and the group toured the American Baking Institute and K-State's Department of Grain Science.

"The group toured the milling facility and baking area," said Charles Deyoe, professor of grain science and industry.

"The governor of the Leningrad Region briefly spoke to the Concepts of Feedmilling and Design class."

Deyoe said the delegation was interested in the different grains and their quality and nutritional content.

The Russians also toured the engineering facilities with Dean of

MARGARET CLARKIN/Collegian

The Russian delegation, including Leningrad Region Gov. Alexander Belyakov (second from left), listens to interpreter Joseph Zayas (second from right) during a tour of Shellenberger Hall and the milling science program Monday morning. Gov. Joan Finney escorted the group.

Engineering Donald Rathbone.

"They came over to visit the Advanced Manual Institute," Rathbone said.

"It's a Center of Excellence funded by the Kansas Technical Enterprise Corporation."

Rathbone said the group saw robots and automated devices.

K-State President Jon Wefald joined the delegation for lunch in the K-State Union Key Room.

"The main purpose for the visit to Kansas State was to show what a land grant college was," Wefald said.

"The delegation is involved in agriculture."

After the luncheon, Finney and the delegation traveled to Sabetha to visit Wenger Industries, then to Hutchinson to tour the Kansas Cosmosphere.

Today, the delegation will make various appearances in Wichita.

The visit will end Wednesday in Topeka with a tour of the governor's office and Statehouse.

"The main purpose for the visit to Kansas State was to show what a land grant college was."

JON WEFALD

NEWS DIGEST

CHINESE LEADERS APPROVED

BEIJING (AP) — China's Communist Party sought steady economic development by approving a new top leadership Monday that is dominated by technocrats and market reformers.

Senior leader Deng Xiaoping, 88, made a rare public appearance to give his blessing to the new leaders, whom he hopes will continue his policies into the next century.

BODY MAY BE GREENS FOUNDER

BONN, Germany (AP) — Authorities on Monday night found what appeared to be the bodies of Greens party founder Petra Kelly, a leading opponent of U.S. nuclear missiles in Europe, and her partner.

The bodies were found at Kelly's home. Kelly, 44, was a founder in 1979 of the first European political party directed at disarmament and environmental issues.

FYI

October: It's time for the flu

"If your body says, 'I'm tired. I don't feel good,' listen to the signs. You need to slow down, rest, drink more fluids and get in to see a medical professional."

CINDY BURKE

ANN DOOCY

Collegian

Cold and flu season is here, and the time is now to get the influenza vaccination.

The recommended time to get the flu shot used to be in November, but the deadline is now mid- to late October, said Cindy Burke, director of health education and promotion at Lafene Health Center.

"A lot can be the cause of all the colds, flu and strep throat that are going around right now," Burke said.

"The change in weather can be a factor, but more importantly, people aren't protecting themselves when they go outside," she said.

"People are totally oblivious to the weather, and this can cause an immune system deficiency."

Midterms are coming up, Burke said, and students should look at their lifestyles.

"Students are gearing up for exams, not taking care of themselves, putting their needs last. Stress on the system makes the body an automatic target for infections," she said.

"If your body says, 'I'm tired. I don't feel good,' listen to the signs," she said.

"You need to slow down, rest, drink more fluids and get in to see a medical professional. Something may be given to ward off sickness."

It is important to stay in tune with your body, Burke said. Exercise reduces stress and helps strengthen the body in the end to fight infections.

"Take care of your body. Don't abuse it. Don't go out drinking if you have a test or paper coming up," Burke said.

"Start studying now instead of cramming the night before, this only adds more stress to your body."

Pat Schooler, staff nurse at the Lafene allergy clinic said the clinic has received many calls wondering when to come in and get the vaccination.

"We don't have the supply yet. We are waiting," Schooler said.

"We plan to let all students know as soon as the shipment arrives. We do ask that students call in for an appointment."

Although Lafene has not received its shipment of the influenza vaccination yet, it is available at the Riley County-Manhattan Health Department.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 20

At 1:30 p.m., a white Chevrolet Cavalier, license No. EOY 472, was towed from a reserved stall in Lot A-6.

At 11:26 a.m., Troy Vaille, Goodnow 522, reported the theft of a mountain bike. Loss was $130.

At 10:43 a.m., Page Twiss, 2327 Bailey Drive, reported the theft of an AM/FM Sony Walkman from Thompson 103. Loss was $40.

At 9:55 a.m., Patti Hagemeyer reported the theft of five purple jackets with KSU Volleyball printed on them and a black travel bag from the women's volleyball locker room. Loss was $305.

At 8:37 a.m., Jaymon Holz, Haymaker 742, reported the theft of a motorcycle from Haymaker Hall. Loss was $2,400.

At 4:12 p.m., Krista DeMars, 2145 Buckingham, No. 1, reported the theft of her purse from outside Bluemont 118. Loss was $125.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 20

At 8:07 a.m., the Kansas Department of Transportation, 5700 Tuttle Creek Blvd., reported the theft of miscellaneous tools and damage to several tool boxes on KDOT vehicles. Loss was undetermined.

At 10:13 a.m., Brent Peterson, 1919 Hunting Ave., reported the theft of his stereo system, including speakers and 160 compact discs, from his vehicle. Loss was $5,160.

At 10:15 a.m., Robert W. Siebert, 1919 Hunting Ave., reported $1,000 worth of damage to the convertible top of his vehicle and the theft of an

AM/FM/CD stereo and an equalizer. Loss was $850.

At 10:15 a.m., Patricia Hartwich, 13390 Onaga Road, Onaga, and Mark A. Kirkendall, 1919 Hunting Ave., reported $250 worth of damage to the driver's door window and dash of his vehicle. Taken was an AM/FM/cassette stereo and kicker box. Loss was $700.

At 1:28 p.m., three submarine sandwiches were stolen from Subs-N-Such, 211 Seth Childs Road. Loss was $20.45.

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect. If you find an inaccuracy, let us know so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly sunny. High near 70. Tonight, mostly clear. Low in the mid to upper 40s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Sunny and mild. High near 75.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Thursday through Saturday: Thursday, mostly clear and warm. High in the upper 70s to mid-80s. Low 45 to 55. Friday and Saturday, mostly clear. High in the 70s. Low in the lower 40s to lower 50s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20

- Sigma Delta Pi will meet at 4 p.m. in Eisenhower 016.
- Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.
- Gay, lesbian and bisexual support groups will meet from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Women in Lafene 236. Men in Lafene 238.
- HALO will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Multicultural Student Center.
- Rainforest Awareness Week will sponsor a presentation by Harald Prins, professor of anthropology, on "Amazonian Indian Myths & Cosmologies: Principles of a Rainforest Ecology."
- Chimes will meet at 7:30 p.m. at 2411 K Woodway Apartments.
- Association of Collegiate Entrepreneurs will meet at 6 p.m. in Calvin 018.
- Society for Creative Anachronism will meet at 7 p.m. in Ahearn Field House.
- Alpha Epsilon Delta initiated members will meet at 9 p.m. in McCain 324 for club pictures.
- KSSSLHA will meet at 7 p.m. in Cardwell 120 for a presentation by Career Services.
- The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of L. Jay A. Gray for 11 a.m. in Bluemont 339. Topic will be "Factors Associated with Family-Based Behavioral Health Services."
- Block & Bridle will have an executive meeting at 6:30 p.m. and a general meeting at 7:15 p.m. in Weber 123.
- Circle K International will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213.
- K-Staters for Clinton/Gore will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 206.
- Amnesty International will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 204.
- Amateur Radio Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.
- Young Democrats will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 207.
- The 30 Days of Thanksgiving Committee will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Bluemont 112.
- Agricultural Communicators of Tomorrow will meet at 6 p.m. Officers will meet at 5:30 p.m.
- SPURS will meet at 8 p.m. in Union 208.
- Mortar Board will meet at 6 p.m. Union 207. Wear suits for yearbook pictures.

Have a question about today's Collegian?

Give us a call, and we'll try to help you out. 532-6556

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Bermuda	82/77	cloudy	Nairobi	79/55	cloudy
Helsinki	28/25	cloudy	Rome	68/63	clear
London	52/45	cloudy	Stockholm	41/34	cloudy
			Vancouver	61/49	cloudy

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

HUNAN Chinese Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-in Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

K-State Parking Services is offering a Seasonal Basketball Parking Pass for the General areas at Bramlage Coliseum.

Passes are available at a cost of $40 (over a 10 percent discount). Purchase yours at the Parking Services Office (128 Burt Hall) or at the Information Booth (next to the K-State Union on 17th Street).

The Loft
PRESENTS
Corbin Ltd.

Suits for the Contemporary Career Women
— Quality That Endures —
Introductory Offer
20% Discount During October

1207 Morro Aggieville 539-1319

The Chance of a Lifetime

Bone Marrow Donor Registry

Saturday, Oct. 24, 1992

11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

KSU Ballroom in the K-State Union
Manhattan, Kansas

Many people have diseases which can only be cured with a bone marrow transplant from a matched donor. You can help if you are:

- Willing to give two tablespoons of blood for the initial blood test. (To be taken at the Bone Marrow Donor Registry on Oct. 24. There is no charge for making a blood donation.)
- Between the ages of 18 and 55 and in good health.
- Willing to be available as a potential donor.
- African American, Filipino, Hispanic, Native American and Asian individuals are encouraged to participate.

Please consider becoming a donor. The lives of hundreds can be saved.

Sponsored by

K-State Student Alumni Board

K-State Student Foundation

Block and Bridle

Rotaract

For questions or further information

Contact the Alumni Association at 532-6260

ROYAL PURPLE

1993

Off Campus-Oct. 16-30

PICTURE YOURSELF IN THE 1993
ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK.

Photos will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. in the K-State Union Room 209.

Call 532-6106 for an appointment.

If you are a greek member, but live in a residence hall or off campus, please have your photo taken with your fraternity or sorority.

Aaron Bingham watches his little brother, Adam, entertain himself with the tail of Sherman, a 16-month-old potbellied pig. Meanwhile their mother, Gina, moves them on to another exhibit at the Dark Mountain Farm petting zoo Saturday in Triangle Park at Aggleville's Oktoberfest.

LANA SCHRATER
Collegian

Cats and dogs are not the only pets anymore. Instead, llamas, potbellied pigs, fainting goats, miniature donkeys and emus are the pets of choice for some people.

Cherry Law, Manhattan resident, said she raises a variety of unique animals. One of her favorites is the potbellied pig.

"I think partly the reason they're my favorite is because they're something I can bring home," Law said. "And we have."

Cherry and her husband, Clair, have raised three potbelly pigs in their home along with other pets.

"They run in the house, they go outside and they come when they are called," Law said.

Potbellied pigs don't smell bad, Law said, but she bathes them every two weeks with her dogs to keep them clean.

Law said her second favorite animal is the miniature donkey.

"I don't think we have another animal on the farm that is as affectionate as they are," Law said. "We have really had a good time with them."

If miniature donkeys or potbellied pigs don't catch your fancy, there's always a llama.

"We live in the country on about 50 acres, and we were just trying to decide how we could utilize that land and put it to work," said Leisa Bailey, a Manhattan resident who raises llamas.

When Bailey and her husband, Jerry, were shopping for a farm tractor, they saw one pictured next to a llama.

"We checked into raising llamas and realized that they were profitable, and they were fun to have," she

Getting exotic over pets

Law said she and her husband got into buying unique animals about six years ago when they bought a couple of quarter horses to ride.

"Then we got fascinated with livestock and animals," Law said.

"Some people go to the Caribbean. We go to the farm."

While these animals are fun to have, they serve other purposes as well.

Potbellied pigs and miniature donkeys are often bred, and their offsprings are sold for profit. Law said some potbellied pigs are even being taught to sniff out drugs.

The llama can be used for predator control with a sheep herd, therapy with handicapped kids or as an exhibit in shows, Bailey said. They can also be bred for profit.

Bailey said the llama's wool is being used like sheep's wool and is popular in the eastern United States. Law said caring for her animals is not hard and is seldom a problem, but prospective exotic-pet owners should know what the animals need.

Food and shelter should be thought out carefully. The pigs and llamas both have unique vaccination requirements. Interested people should ask veterinarians about these as well as potential disease problems before they make a purchase.

Dave Schoneweis, veterinarian and professor of clinical sciences, said he encourages vaccinations for potbellied pigs just like any other pet.

"As far as feeding, any good, well-balanced swine feed is excellent," Schoneweis said.

Like any pet, behavior concerns are an issue. Pet potbellied pigs can be kept from being destructive, Schoneweis said.

"You ought to have the pig either spayed or castrated at six, seven or eight weeks of age," he said. "They make better pets."

Neil Anderson, veterinarian with the College of Veterinary Medicine, said llamas are clever and easy to care for. He said they do not adapt well to severe weather, but if given proper shelter, they are self-sufficient enough to figure out where to go when needed.

Where wild things are, they should stay

LANA SCHRATER
Collegian

Proper care can be a problem when it comes to exotic and wild animals that should be left in the wild or in zoos.

"When it comes to exotic animals, the majority of the problem is that people are not properly educated or instructed in how to care for the animals," said James Carpenter, veterinarian in the College of Veterinary Medicine. "They don't know how to manage them, they don't know how to feed them, they don't know how to care for them."

Carpenter said he does not recommend keeping wild animals as pets, and people should avoid many of the exotic species available as pets.

Large exotic cats are cute when they are little and furry, but grown up, they can become dangerous and revert to natural, wild instincts in captivity.

"I see some of them that are really nice, but I would never trust any of them," Carpenter said.

Sunset Zoo director Don Wixom said he gets about 200 calls a year from people wanting to donate animals such as snakes and black bears to the zoo because they can not care for them.

Right now, Sunset Zoo is full in many areas and is limited to what it can accept.

Animals who do not go to a zoo are usually put to sleep, neglected until they die, abandoned, released in the wild or given to someone else who is also uneducated about proper care, Wixom said.

When people take responsibility for a pet, Wixom said, "It's a lifetime commitment — for the life of the animal."

STATE

Dunn's fate to be decided by Finney

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — Gov. Joan Finney said Monday she will sign papers sending Lisa Dunn to Arkansas for prosecution on a capital murder charge.

Attorney General Bob Stephan must first find Arkansas' extradition papers to be in order.

Stephan should advise her on the matter by Wednesday, an aide in his office said.

Dunn, 26, was acquitted of two counts of murder Sept. 2 in Shawnee County District Court. It was her second trial because she was not allowed to use the battered woman syndrome defense at her first trial seven years ago.

She was convicted in the 1985 shooting deaths of two men in northwest Kansas, the culmination of a crime spree prosecutors have said was led by her former boyfriend, Daniel Remeta.

Arkansas, which has the death penalty, wants to try Dunn in connection with the Feb. 11, 1985, shooting death of a convenience store clerk in Van Buren.

Extradition papers arrived Friday at the Kansas governor's office.

"The warrant was sent to the attorney general," Finney said during a brief response to reporters' questions at Forbes Field, where she had a news conference to announce a grain sale to Russia.

"If he approves them, I will sign it," she added.

Mary Horsch, spokeswoman for Stephan, said the attorney general's opinion on legality of the Arkansas request should be forwarded to the governor by Wednesday, the day she requested an answer.

"We're working on it now," Horsch said.

STUDENT HEALTH

Lafene puts focus on men's issues

STD testing, treatment among services offered

ERIN BURKE
Collegian

Men and sex.

Combine them with health concerns, and you get Men's Sexual Health, which is being promoted by Lafene Health Center.

The promotion is meant to increase awareness about men's sexual well-being and some consequences of being sexually active, Lafene Chief of Staff Larry Moeller said.

There are no services for men like those available in the Women's Clinic, Moeller said, but appointments can be made to screen for sexually transmitted diseases, including AIDS.

This promotion will let men know sexual health is a personal responsibility, as well as a responsibility to the partner, he said.

"Men who are sexually active or concerned should have regular checkups every year, just like women," Moeller said.

Most men who go to Lafene to get screened have already had a sexual encounter they are worried about, Moeller said, but there are a few who go to Lafene for regular checkups.

See MEN'S Page 10

UPC 'TIL THE COWS COME HOME

SURVIVAL GAME

Saturday, Oct. 24

$12

Be a part of the ever-popular Survival Game Adventure. Experience the thrill of devising team strategy in an effort to capture the opposition's flag using paint pellet guns. Teams of 8-10 members will compete in a double elimination tournament. Cost includes gun and pellet rental, refreshments and prizes for the winning team.

SIGN UP NOW IN THE UPC OFFICE, 8AM-5PM MONDAY-FRIDAY.

K.C. CHIEFS

VS.

PITTSBURGH

Sunday, Oct. 25

$35

Don't miss this opportunity to see the Kansas City Chiefs take on the Pittsburgh Steelers. Trip leaves Manhattan at 2:30 p.m. and includes round-trip transportation and reserved tickets.

HIKE THE WICHITA MOUNTAINS

Nov. 7-8

Hike the beautiful Wichita Mountain National Park in Oklahoma. Wildlife is abundant, providing sights such as buffalo and longhorn cattle roaming wild. Meals on the trail and cooking equipment will be included in the price.

INFO MEETING: Thursday, Oct. 22, Union Rm. 206, 7 p.m.

SIGN UP BEGINS: Friday, Oct. 23 in UPC Office

K-State Union
UPC Outdoor Recreation

K-State Union
UPC Travel

K-State Union
UPC Outdoor Recreation

INFORMATION and SIGN-UP available at the UPC Office, 3rd floor of K-State Union or call 532-6571.

OPINION

OCTOBER 20, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Clinton belongs in Oval Office

THE ISSUE

Bill Clinton is the best candidate for President.

WE SUGGEST

Make a move toward change and vote for Clinton on Nov. 3.

Now the debates are over, each candidate has said his share, and the cards are on the table.

It's apparent that Bill Clinton is the only real candidate for president of the United States.

The record says it all. President Bush has failed the country, both with his inability to unify and work with Congress and to see at the level of the average American citizen.

The time is now for real change — for real action. The last four years have seen stagnation dominate economics, a slide in world respect for America, and a general collapse in the nation's trust in its elected officials. Especially in its president.

Bill Clinton will change all of that.

His economic plan is simple. It includes a 10-percent tax cut for the middle class and demands more in taxes from those making more than $200,000 per year.

This will allow the middle class to garner more disposable income, which means increased consumption and investment. That's what stimulates economic growth.

Also, he proposes an $800 tax credit per child for families. Combined with the tax cut, this could mean a family with two children will pay $1,200 less a year in taxes.

Clinton further promises increased investment in America's infrastructure, expanded home loans to increase buying, protecting small businesses by deregulating banks and lower interest rates.

Further, he will end tax deductions for those corporations that send jobs and factories overseas. He plans to cut military spending by $200 billion and reinvest the funds into the country.

And Clinton has targeted the huge Washington bureaucracy with a 3-percent budget cut.

In health care, Clinton would regulate costs by setting drug prices and providing care in rural areas and inner cities.

Bush had his chance, and he failed. It's time for the United States to move on to someone who will pull us up by our bootstraps and move forward.

Bill Clinton is our only chance to do that. On Nov. 3, Clinton will be our only chance at change, period.

Quayle's past may come back at him

Responsible voters might want to check out the Oct. 5 issue of the New Yorker before pulling any levers on Election Day.

Sunday's Kansas City Star ran a rather interesting column by Howard Fast. He fixed a spotlight on a piece that appeared in the New Yorker titled "The Prisoner and the Politician."

The author, Mark Singer, probes a potentially huge, and seemingly forgotten, issue: the possibility that Dan Quayle was an avid marijuana user in his youth. And also that the Bush administration may have gone to great, Machiavellian lengths to cover it up.

In his column, Fast suggests the mainstream American media has, for the most part, snubbed a story that could very well have huge implications for the Bush administration.

The gist of the New Yorker story is that a preppy young Quayle, while attending law school in Indiana, repeatedly did business with a young drug dealer by the name of Brett Kimberlin. Between 1971 and 1973, over about 18 months, Quayle allegedly bought small quantities of marijuana, presumably for his personal consumption.

Kimberlin, who made these allegations, is serving a prison sentence for his conviction in a series of 1978 bombings in Speedway, Ind. Although he is an admitted marijuana smuggler and dealer, he claims he did not orchestrate or participate in any aspect of the bombings.

He instead claims that his conviction and subsequent imprisonment was based on fabricated evidence and perjury on the part of prosecution witnesses.

Further, and more disturbing to the country as a whole if it's all true, is the claim that his continued imprisonment is a result of the Bush administration's attempt to keep him from coming forward with his information regarding Quayle.

The Bush/Quayle administration has, of course, denied any part in the conspiracy possibility sketched out in the New Yorker. To this day, the official line from Quayle is that he has never taken illegal drugs in his life.

Skeptics of a suggestion that the Bush administration is involved in any wrongdoing in the case will undoubtedly point to the fact that the source of all these rumors is a convicted felon — hardly more credible than the vice president of the United States of America.

And, realistically, they probably have a point. But there is a related matter the New Yorker article addresses about which Quayle and the Bush administration have been quite tight-lipped.

In 1982, Quayle was investigated for allegedly buying cocaine. The probe produced no action by the Justice Department, and discussion of the investigation has, for the most part, been dropped by the media.

But suspicion in some mainstream media circles remains that there may be portions of a Drug Enforcement Agency file on Quayle that haven't been released to the public.

Bush, Quayle, chief of staff James Baker and other top administration officials have yet to be thoroughly questioned on the matter.

Whether one believes Quayle did drugs, or that the Bush administration participated in any dark cover-up, is beside the point at this juncture — not enough information is yet available to make a judgment.

But the New Yorker, hardly a fly-by-night leftist rag, has made a noteworthy attempt at putting some of the facts of this situation together. It would seem that it is the media's responsibility to further investigate this before the election.

It would also seem to be the voters' responsibility to make themselves as aware as possible of this situation before making any decisions Nov. 3.

MARK ENGLER

Children deserve best of foundations

Our nation is flailing about in controversy, especially now that Election Day draws nigh. This campaign season, just like the others, is a tossed salad of issues.

But of all the inflammatory and ornery debates flaring up across the campaign trail, the issue of family values (thanks to Dan Quayle) has become the spearhead penetrating the conscientious core of nearly every citizen in the United States.

Or so it would seem.

In choosing to discuss the family in terms of values, one has laid hold of a virtual dynamo encroaching a danger zone of disagreeable ideology.

What is a family? What do we mean by "the family?" Should we define the family? These are but a few questions out of the many that concern the family.

Another question that comes to mind is, who's in charge of the family? What I mean to ask with this question is, on a family-to-family basis, who is in charge? Who has authority, if any? Particularly, do parents have authority over their children?

By simply introducing the question of authority in discussion about the family, no doubt the ire of many will rise. Embers are glowing, and I press my foot to this venturesome ground. Carefully I tread, so as not to offend for the sake of offending. To cast my verdict publicly, I say there is indeed a hierarchy in family relationships.

Parents, by virtue of this hierarchy, have either the privilege or the right to bring up their children with the morals, values, habits and disciplines they deem right or good. Parenthood, however, not only entails rights or privileges over children, but also a great deal of responsibility for those children.

Ideas not completely thought out have put forth the claim that parents should not "impose" upon their children's morality, values or personal philosophy.

Instead, children should be allowed to grow freely without "repressive" coercion from their parents, as the little ones discover their own brand of morality and virtue. In this case, what would be the point of having parents, other than getting food and free rent?

Another line of thought similar to the above says to parents: "Don't involve your children in complex issues until they are old enough to understand." Well, when are they old enough to understand?

Does a parent wait around until their child comes to the age of understanding to address sex, abortion and racism? What is the age of understanding — 13, 16 or 18? Age-appropriate discussions between parent and child on these topics seem to be in order.

As sure as plenty of adults do not understand love, neither do young children. This difficulty does not hinder parents from saying "I love you" to their child, nor does it stifle parents' attempts at teaching their child to love others through kindness.

Children do not immediately grasp the "why" of the wrong in stealing; they simply know it's "bad." And for a while it's enough as a foundation for life.

As a child matures, so does his or her understanding of "why this and why that." Children more firmly grasp the reasons why they shouldn't cross the street before looking both ways, why they shouldn't take candy from strangers, and why they should take out the trash.

Only at great peril do parents wait to instruct their child in morality. Why wait to teach your child, while other sources have influence over their morality and beliefs?

SCOTT SPRADLIN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.C. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief	Erin Perry Amy Cox Shawn Bruce Frank Kleemann Brian Anderson	Richard Andrade Jodelle Lamer David Mayes Derek Thomas Heather Anderson	John Hart Tom Lister Mark Engler Lajean Rau Julie Long
-------------------------------------	--	---	--

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

READERS WRITE

COMIC

"The Strip" in need of grammar editing

Editor,
Concerning David Swearingen's "The Strip" for Mon., Oct. 19:

1) Was "mouch" deliberately misspelled? The dictionary spells it as "mooch."

2) Any chance that usage could be improved? Printed: "Can you ... ?" Better: "Will you ... ?" Printed: "Can I ... ?" Better: "May I ... ?"

It's more than a comic strip. It's a product of and representative of K-State students.

Leo Schell
Professor/Education

PLAY REVIEW

Premature review cuts play credit short

Editor,
I was quite surprised to see a review of the "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" in last Thursday's Collegian, considering the musical's opening night was Thursday.

I had to assume, therefore, that Andy Woodward had reviewed a dress rehearsal, and I am quite frankly appalled at the observations that Woodward made, beginning with the headline, "Amateur mistakes taint an otherwise sterling musical."

These observations were made prematurely.

Does a wine connoisseur judge a wine before it properly ferments?

The hard work and talent that goes into a theater production is a process much like fermentation and is not ready to be judged until the process is complete.

I understand Woodward meant to say that "the good outweighs the bad," but "the bad" should be given the chance to be ironed out before practice becomes performance, and before a critic reviews and publishes.

Reviewing the play before opening night was a poor decision on the part of the Collegian editors. It was an injustice to the cast and crew, and simply unprofessional.

As a sidenote, I must say I thoroughly enjoyed Thursday night's performance. Congratulations to everyone involved in the production of "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

Donna Lehman
Senior/English

Senate.

We believe Kansas voters have allowed Sen. Bob Dole — through longevity — to become, as the Journal says, "part and parcel of what is wrong with Washington, its gridlock, its worship of the almighty dollar and its total lack of concern for the welfare of the vast American public."

We also believe that the prototype incumbent — owned by special interests and part of, in Perot's words, "a nobility immune to the will of the people" — is very distant from the vision of representation the founding fathers had for this country.

And we are particularly concerned about the overwhelming imbalance of power inherent in this race.

The Journal accurately points out that Dole's campaign is "funded by millions in PAC donations and millions more in pork from the federal treasury."

According to the Kansas Secretary of State's records, the senator received a total of $196,610 in campaign contributions between July 1 and Dec. 31, 1991.

Among the 170 contributions listed, only 10 had Kansas addresses, less than 4 percent ($9,000) of the total that actually came from Kansas.

Gloria O'Dell will not run a slick, remote-control campaign. Her grass-roots effort is funded primarily by small contributors who believe she will hear their voices — who believe she will remember who she is and why she's in Washington.

O'Dell is the only congressional candidate in this state to sign the "Lead or Leave" pledge promising not to seek re-election if the federal deficit has not been cut in half by 1996.

The Journal endorsement reminds us that we all "dream about how much better it would be if the Senate had more independent and principled members like Nancy Kassebaum."

We have a very real opportunity to convert that dream into reality. Out of hope for this once-great country's future, out of hope for our children's future, we ask you to become the voice of the people by supporting Gloria O'Dell's candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Perot Petition Committee members

STUDENT SENATE

Behavior during session reprehensible

Editor,
This letter is to address the behavior of the Student Senate concerning the speech given by two representatives of the 181 social work majors Oct. 8.

The major thrust of the message was twofold. First, the question of accountability, in which they requested that the senators investigate the lack of representation in the role and aspiration process carried out by the Arts and Sciences Core Committee.

Secondly, the presenters challenged the senators to assess the predicted impact of the proposed cuts on the integrity of the social work program, the students and the state of Kansas.

We were disappointed and angry at the manner in which

CONTINUED ON NEXT PAGE

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Letters to the Editor- c/o Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

COMMENTARY

READERS WRITE

this issue and its presenters were treated. It appeared as though many of the senators were more interested in being entertained than in addressing the concerns of their constituents — the students. Perhaps if the presenters had done a song and danced their message, Senate would have taken some measure of notice.

Why must concerned students resort to entertaining to convey their message to the senators when the entire state is currently informed and discussing this issue?

The issue of these proposed cuts and their impact on Kansas have been a topic of public discussion since September. Why is Student Senate not informed? Is it not their responsibility to have a basic understanding of the issues to adequately represent students?

This letter is not to condemn those senators who were attentive. We appreciate their hard work and dedication.

But we are disappointed in those senators who were reading, talking, leaving the room and displaying blatant disrespect during the presentation. Is this a common phenomenon when students appear before Student Senate?

We were also shocked that more time and energy (20 minutes and numerous questions) were focused on the allocation of funds for the provision of a bus to provide transportation from a bar to a sports event.

What kind of message does this convey? Perhaps the message is one of values.

Stacie Smith-Doris

Senior/Social work

Kathryn Linenberger

Senior/Family life and human development

Melinda Eubanks

Senior/Social work

► MIA/POW

Russia needs to return prisoners right now

Editor,

I have received a letter from Congresswoman Jan Meyers of the 3rd Congressional District in Kansas stating, "As you already know, during his visit to the United States earlier this year, Russian President Boris Yeltsin announced that the Soviet Union had taken American prisoners of war and missing-in-action servicemen to the Gulag," presumably in Siberia.

Those men have never been returned to the United States and continue to live the rest of their lives in Russian concentration camps.

It is a tragedy that those servicemen have been betrayed and abandoned by their government. We, as American citizens, must demand that our congressmen and senators force the president to get those men back.

We can start by telling the Soviet Union that if they do not return our military men, we will break off diplomatic relations with them.

Dr. E.A. Munyan

Overland Park resident

► SPORTS MASCOTS

Uproar over mascots should include whites

Editor,

If we are going to get in an uproar about the use of Native American images as sports mascots, then we had better extend that — in all fairness — to include all of the white mascots currently in use.

Why should it be permitted to use Rangers, Celtics, Pirates, Yankees, Patriots or Fighting Irish? Are these groups not also exploited in much the same way as Native Americans when used in such a manner?

I won't even start to elaborate on our unfairness to animals in sports, lest we wind up with sports teams with such names as "Sugar Cubes" and "Wetsprockets" (forget the toad).

John Mussman

First-year student/Veterinary medicine

► MEDIA

Liberal press hasn't stopped conservatives

Editor,

John Hart's assertion regarding the "liberal media" not only reeks of uninformed bias, it is also undermined by such bias.

He apparently doesn't understand the role of the press in a free society. The press is a check on established power and is by nature antagonistic toward any present administration. During Carter's term, the press vilified and lambasted his performance. If Clinton becomes president, the press will "turn on him" very quickly.

Hart's research is inadequate. Members of the press with obvious conservative leanings, such as Pat Buchanan and William Buckley attack and criticize Bush. In a recent issue of a Sunday New York Times Magazine, conservative William Safire effectively addressed the faults inherent in Bush's campaign and administration.

The "liberal press" does not worship Clinton, as Hart suggests. These people dogged him about his alleged affair with Gennifer Flowers, and certainly didn't ignore conservative efforts to paint Clinton as a "philandering, pot smoking draft-dodger."

That Clinton successfully endured attacks from the "liberal media," as well as conservatives, indicates his staying power. If the press is as powerful as Hart believes, then Dukakis would be the incumbent, not Bush. This exposes the worst flaw in Hart's argument.

He implies that American voters are unable to think for themselves and are easily manipulated. If that were true, how does Hart explain the presence of a Republican in the White House for the past 12 years, despite the best efforts of the "liberal media."

Brad Greenburg

Graduate student/English

David-Michael Allen

Graduate student/Theater

► INDIAN IMAGES

Use of image would insult heritage

Editor,

In response to Matt Walters' second pro-chop article, you admit that using team names like Kansas City Niggers or Atlanta White Trash is racist. Very good. That was my original intention.

As for Haskell Indian Junior College in Lawrence needing to change its mascot, Haskell's name is a reflection of it being an institution of higher learning for Native Americans.

Haskell does not employ any mascot or "yahoo" parading around in mock savagery at the sporting event. I know, because I'm a graduate of Haskell.

One of the basic premises of my people's traditional values is respect. It would be disrespectful for me to don the eagle feathers, which must be earned, and make a mockery of my people's customs and traditions.

The first step toward harmony on this planet might be to have respect for other people's customs and religions. Agreed?

Darren Geimausaddle
Senior/Anthropology

President offers 'Agenda for American Renewal'

GEORGE BUSH

Bush believes all recovery rests in revitalizing economy

As you prepare for your futures, many of you are worried about whether there will be jobs for you when you graduate — jobs in which you can apply all that you've learned, and through which you can realize the American dream.

I know the feeling. Shortly after I graduated from college, Barbara and I moved to Texas with our young family to begin a life of our own. I started a business, raised a family and eventually began my career in politics.

I want all of you to have the opportunity to graduate from college, repay your student loans, begin your careers and start families of your own.

My Agenda for American Renewal will do just that by reinvigorating America's economy and creating jobs and opportunities for all Americans while protecting our environment.

Revitalizing America's economy starts with individuals, families and communities. It requires lower taxes on individuals and businesses, enhancing competition and cutting regulation. It includes health care for all Americans, child care, job training, housing opportunities, a competitive school system based on community involvement, and choice for American families.

My agenda prepares America's youth for the 21st century by promoting national academic standards. So, schools like K-State have a strong student population from which to draw.

For you college students, my administration calls for the largest-ever one-year increase in student Pell grants, and a 50-percent increase in the amounts of individual Pell grant awards.

In addition, I want to raise the loan limit on guaranteed student loans and make the interest on student loans deductible for federal income-tax purposes.

My agenda calls for continued substantial funding for responsible environmental protection. The United States has the toughest environmental laws on earth, and it was the Bush administration that proposed and negotiated the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1990, which I signed as the most protective and market-oriented clean-air laws in the world.

My administration also established a moratorium on offshore oil and natural-gas drilling; accelerated the phase out of ozone-harming substances; added more than 1.5 million acres to America's national parks, wildlife refuges and other public lands; tripled the rates of toxic waste site cleanups since 1989; and collected more fines and penalties, and secured more prison sentences, for environmental crimes in the last three years than in the previous 20 years combined.

I call upon the youth of today to take up the entrepreneurial challenge and join me in making America the economic, export, education and environmental leader of the 21st century. Let's win the peace by looking forward, not inward.

My Agenda for American Renewal empowers all Americans to make their own choices and better their lives. No one will be left behind for want of opportunity.

Good luck to you, and may you achieve your goals in life.

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect, so help us out. If you find an inaccuracy in the paper, give us a call or drop by the office so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

BRYAN TRAVEL COLLEGE
Since 1982

Your chance for an exciting career in the travel industry in just 17 weeks!

Financial Aid to Qualified Applicants

Call for a Brochure!
1527 Fairlawn, Topeka
272-0889
1-800-255-3507

B Bryan Travel College
Day classes • 17 weeks
Evening classes • 30 weeks

Intramural Deadline

DEADLINE: Thurs. Oct. 22 at 5 p.m.

• Inner tube water polo

Enter at the Rec Services Office
532-6980

PHOTO CENTER

FREE
SECOND SET OF PRINTS
EVERY TUESDAY!

Open:
Daily 9-9
Sunday 11-6

Receive a second set of 3" prints FREE with any exposure roll of 35mm, disc, 110 or 126 color print film left for developing and printing at our everyday prices! C-41 process only. Excludes larger 4" size prints.

3007 Anderson Ave.

A Collegian personal can say it all!

Ghosts and goblins, witches and brooms,
Owls and pumpkins, bats and tombs.
Halloween is a great time to say,
"You're my favorite person today!"

Say it with a Collegian personal in the Classifieds.

For only $5 for up to 20 words, you can get your Halloween message in the Collegian. Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103. Ads will run Oct. 30. Deadline is noon Wednesday, Oct. 28.

YOUR NAME _____ YOUR ID NUMBER _____

ADDRESS _____ PHONE NUMBER _____

MESSAGE (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals.)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

Employment Opportunity
Starting at $5 per hour

ATTENTION STUDENTS FROM WICHITA AND KANSAS CITY:

Help needed to take inventory in retail stores. Basic math skills required, 10 key experience important but not necessary.

Availability on Sundays a must!

Part Time Positions

Available in
Manhattan

If interested call 776-8884
Manhattan Job Service

SPORTS

OCTOBER 20, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Bowl belongs to the NFC

Halfway into the National Football League's season, maybe it's time for the AFC to cry "uncle."

Just ship the Lombardi Trophy to whoever wins the NFC championship, and we'll think about having a real Super Bowl another year.

Fans of the Chiefs and the Broncos see their teams contending for the leading AFC honor, only eventually to see their teeth get kicked in by the NFC team in the Super Bowl.

One thing's for certain — no one in the AFC is ready for prime time, and the conference winner this year may get it by default.

The Chiefs have been trying all season to prove they're ready for the spotlight in Pasadena by doing what good teams do — beat another good team on the road.

The results haven't been so hot. First, it was an overtime loss at Houston, then a colossal choke at Denver, then a 17-10 loss to Dallas.

They're now left with a 4-3 record.

Coach Marty Schottenheimer is in love with the ground game, which is usually good. Smash-mouth ground teams have won more than their share of NFL championships.

But shut down the ground game, like the Cowboys did Sunday (91 yards rushing), and Kansas City is dead in the water. Come back on them late, like Denver did (2 touchdowns in the last two minutes) and KC won't have an answer.

Quarterback Dave Krieg has turned out to be a good acquisition for the Chiefs. At least KC doesn't have to bring its quarterback out this season in a wheelchair.

But Krieg is still no John Elway, and a "help wanted" sign for a consistent passing game still hangs at Arrowhead Stadium.

The Chiefs also count too much on their "ever-dangerous" field-goal offense. KC gets too content with Nick Lowery chip shots instead of punching in for touchdowns, and this has already cost twice.

The Broncos, on the other hand, have to be one of the worst 5-2 teams in history. They've been outscored so far this season by 30 points — a tribute to their blowout losses to Philadelphia and Washington and their razor-thin victories over the Raiders and KC.

A serious problem for Denver is that the Broncos have one of the worst offensive lines in the NFL. Denver's O-line leaks pass rushers like a cheap roof, making John Elway spend most of the time on his back from sacks rather than throwing for touchdowns.

The ground game is almost nonexistent. But as long as Elway has the two-minute drill, the Broncos will still hang around.

Miami didn't make the playoffs last year and gets to ride an easy schedule this year. The Dolphins could be 9-0 before too long and still a cream puff compared to the NFC.

Buffalo has been missing that 50-point scoring thunder. Houston still can't win outdoors. Without a team arguably better than the rest, the AFC's berth in the Super Bowl could come down to division tiebreakers and John Elway's Kansas City voodoo doll.

NFC teams like Dallas, Philadelphia and San Francisco have already shown they have what it takes to get to the Super Bowl.

With teams like the Chiefs and the Donkeys, the AFC is still waiting.

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Practice punch

Christina Wilson, freshman in human ecology and family studies, practices a seiken zuki, or front punch, during a karate club meeting Monday night.

SCOTT ABEL

Rugby teams hammering away

Women's squad places 2nd in weekend tourney

BRIAN ANDERSON
Collegian

The good news for the K-State women's rugby team is that it took second in the Heart of America Tournament in Kansas City, Mo., last weekend.

The bad news is that the Cats lost for the first time in nine games as they fell in the championship game to the University of Iowa 5-0. K-State won the tournament last year.

"We were spoiled," coach and player LaDonna Grenz said. "We came in with a false sense of confidence. We had undefeated seasons last year and had high expectations for the tournament. It was a real disappointment."

The Hawkeyes and the Cats battled to a 0-0 tie in the first half Sunday. Iowa made a try on a K-State mistake in the second half to get past K-State.

"We made a lot of mistakes," Grenz said. "Finally, they ran one on in. It was the most physical game I have ever played."

"If we had two more minutes, we would have won."

K-State shut out Northeast Missouri

State 36-0 in its first game Saturday in Kansas City's Swope Park.

The Cats followed with a 12-7 victory over the University of Arkansas. It was their second win over the Lady Razorbacks this season.

"They despise us," Grenz said. "They played physical and dirty. They cheered for Iowa to win the championship."

Dana Teagarden, who plays the eight-man position, was named the tournament's most valuable player.

"She played a great game," Grenz said. "She always tries to make things work offensively and defensively."

Ten Cats were chosen for an all-star game to be played in Little Rock, Ark. In all, 20 players from K-State, KU and Kansas City were chosen for the match.

Participants from that game will be chosen for another all-star game, a contest that will have players from eight states.

"We have at least six players that can go there," said Grenz, the only Cat to reach the second all-star game last year.

Their next game is against Kansas City on Oct. 31 at the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area.

Men lose in early round, take disappointing 7th

FRANK KLEEMANN
Collegian

A tournament record of 3-1 seldom is a disappointment, unless the one loss comes in the early rounds.

The K-State rugby A team lost its second game against Des Moines, Iowa, 17-2 during the Heart of America Tournament Saturday and Sunday at Swope Park in Kansas City, Mo.

K-State took seventh place. "Going into the tournament, we expected to be second, if not first," senior Scott Kram said.

"It's disappointing. Things just didn't go in our way."

Kram said K-State played well in the loss, but some up and down periods in its game decided the game for Des Moines.

"They weren't that much better," he said. "We played good for 55 minutes, and the other five minutes they used to score."

Des Moines went on to take second in the 16-team tournament behind Kansas City Blues A team.

The unexpected loss to Des Moines stopped the Cats' roll through the tournament.

In its opening match Saturday, K-State beat the Kansas City Blues B team 19-7. K-State came out of a 7-7 tie at halftime to dominate the Blues in the second half.

"Things started off really well — things went smooth," Kram said. "Our pack was playing really well."

In its last two games, K-State defeated the Lincoln City Club 38-0, and it won the match against Columbia by forfeit.

K-State's B team won two games in its division, with two losses on the other side, to get sixth in the tournament.

The Cats opened with a close 13-10 loss to Northeast Missouri State, but they bounced back to sweep Pittsburg State 34-0.

K-State continued its successful play to beat Fort Leavenworth 28-12. In its final game, the B team lost another close game, this time 17-14 to Central Missouri State.

"Considering that we had a lot of younger players, we did what we could," Kram said.

"We would have liked to do better, but where we ended up was OK. With a little bit luck, we could have won."

CLUB SPORTS

Lacrosse team splits games

Cats pummel KC team, lose in final minutes to KU during weekend matches in Lawrence

STEVE ROCK
Collegian

K-State lost to KU Saturday. Again.

This time, however, it was the Wildcat lacrosse team that was defeated by the intrastate rival.

K-State, now 2-3, split a pair of games, with a loss at the hands of KU but also a convincing victory against the Kansas City Lacrosse Club, during the weekend.

The Cats beat the KC team Saturday afternoon 11-5. It was the first time K-State has beaten Kansas City in more than two years.

"It was really good to beat them," Coach Curt Thurman said.

Attacker Tondo Waldron led the team with four goals, and midfielder Rob Hileman tossed in a career-high two more. Hileman's goals were back to back, the second one coming on a behind-the-back shot.

The victory was more than just a chance for the Cats to put a check in the W column, Thurman said. Because K-State was in complete command, he said, he was able to put a lot of rookies into the game.

"Any little experience that the new guys can get is great," he said.

"It was just an overall domination."

In fact, even the rookies who entered the game had little trouble staying off the Kansas City club.

One rookie chalked up the first goal of his career. Midfielder Mike McConnell took a pass from his brother, Dave McConnell, to achieve the milestone goal.

The game against KU had a different ending — K-State lost 7-6.

The Jayhawks scored a man-advantage goal, with less than two minutes to play, to seal the victory.

Thurman compared the contest to last year's basketball game between the two schools, a contest won on an off-balance shot by Jayhawk Steve Woodberry.

"They were very lucky to come away with the win," he said. "They pulled it out of their butts."

The KU game was played just 15 minutes after the Cats beat KC, something that may have been a factor in the end.

"We were a little winded," Thurman said, "but I still think we should have won."

"Their legs were a little more fresh, but that's no excuse."

In the end, Thurman said he was pleased despite the loss.

"You can't win them all."

Attacker Brandon Aslin led the team with three goals in the KU contest. Waldron added two more, and for him, the fatigue factor may have made a difference.

"Against KU, you always have a lot of adrenaline going," he said.

"But I was tired, personally. I can't speak for the others, but the first game wore me out."

For the weekend, Waldron had six goals, tops on the squad. Aslin added five more.

The lacrosse team travels to Wichita State next weekend in what could be the final game of the fall season.

SPORTS DIGEST

► MEN'S SOCCER SQUAD RUNS RECORD TO 5-2

With victories over Wichita State and Emporia State in weekend matches, the K-State men's soccer team ran its overall record to 5-2.

Backed by the performance of goaltender Jim Dailey, the Cats defeated Wichita State 3-1 Saturday afternoon.

On Sunday, K-State erupted for eight goals to defeat Emporia State 8-1. Dailey played half the game in the goalie position, helping the team win for the second time in the weekend.

For the weekend, halfback Wayne Johnson led the team with three goals. Kevin James and Andre Jacquet, also halfbacks, had two goals apiece.

► STEELERS CHILL BENGAL OFFENSE IN 20-0 ROUT

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers managed only two touchdowns against the NFL's worst-rated defense.

It hardly mattered. The Cincinnati Bengals' offense was even worse than their defense.

Dwight Stone set up the first of his two scoring catches with a 30-yard run on a reverse in the second quarter as the Steelers beat the Bengals 20-0 Monday night.

Pittsburgh (4-2) ended a two-game losing streak to gain a first-place tie with Houston in the AFC Central. The Bengals (2-4) lost their fourth in a row.

The Steelers were held without a touchdown in consecutive losses to Green Bay and Cleveland, and they managed only two against a Bengals' defense that was shredded last week for five touchdown passes by Houston's Warren Moon.

In a match up of the NFL's two youngest coaches — the Bengals' David Shula and Pittsburgh's Bill Cowher — the Steelers trotted out a typical Pittsburgh football night: cold and blustery.

The weather — temperatures dropped into the 20s by late in the game — and the icy-slick playing field apparently chilled out the Cincinnati offense.

Pittsburgh's next contest is a Sunday night, nationally televised game against the Kansas City Chiefs at Arrowhead Stadium.

Instant family gratifies parents

"A family might receive a child at a moment's notice. Families need to be non-judgmental, loving and genuine."

JOHN MORALES

Emergency foster care is quality time, life for area children

CHRISTINA CARBAJAL
Collegian

Being a foster parent is selfish. That's how Celeste McAleese, sophomore in elementary education, describes her experience as a foster parent because, she said, she receives so much satisfaction. "It's a rewarding feeling helping children to feel good about themselves," McAleese said. "Doing something for others makes me feel very good about what I do."

McAleese and her husband, Joe, are one of the 21 licensed foster families that are a part of the Kansas Children's Service League's emergency foster-care program, said Joan Morales, licensed social worker for the service league. The program is recruiting more foster families, because the Manhattan area is running low on foster homes, Morales said.

"If we had 50 foster homes at any given time, we'd have them all busy," she said. "It's growing every year."

The program, which covers 10 counties around Manhattan, is always in need, because the highly mobile student and military population cause a high turnover of possible foster families, Morales said.

Families who apply for the program include unmarried individuals, married couples, single parents and military families. McAleese is an example of a unique family qualified to take care of foster children.

Not only does McAleese have two foster children in addition to her two natural children, but she is also a full-time student at K-State.

"My schedule is good in that I'm on campus all day. Then, I can be there for the kids when they come back from school," she said.

McAleese said she wasn't a student when she and her husband began the program. Taking care of foster children encouraged her to pursue elementary education.

She said she realized how much she liked helping the kids with their homework and wanted to do more with children.

Morales said if someone expresses interest in becoming a foster parent, the person is interviewed and the home is inspected to see if it meets certain health, safety and cleanliness requirements.

The person's personality and background are also checked, including medical and police records.

"A family might receive a child at a moment's notice," Morales said. "Families need to be non-judgmental, loving and genuine," she said.

In addition, Morales said families should be flexible with the range of the children's ages, which usually is from newborns to 17-year-olds. The families must also be able to cope with children who come from abusive parents. Or the children themselves may have drug and alcohol problems.

Only if they pass all requirements will they receive a license to practice as a foster family for one year.

Within the year, the family will participate in 24 hours of training. The training includes dealing with drug, alcohol and suicide problems and eating disorders.

The service league also offers AIDS-victim training and CPR training.

"We will also ask parents at the end of each year to get ideas about what we need to cover," Morales said.

McAleese has been in the program for more than a year. She said she wants to stay a foster parent for a long time.

The burnout rate is high for foster families, McAleese said, but in the long run, the good outweighs the bad — like having to watch a child go.

"I think about having them forever in my home," she said. "When they're gone, it's almost like grieving over the death of a child."

"But, it makes you feel so good to know you helped them. I don't know what a kid's problems were before they came to us, but I want to give them the quality time and quality life, so that they can use that later on in their life when they need it."

Soil quality being studied

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

human body in that it depends on what is wrong with it before we can fix it," Thien said.

One indicator of soil health is the microbial activity and population in the soil, Rice said.

He said contaminants such as oil, wastes and garbage tend to stress the soil, but microbial diversity is a large factor in aiding the soil's return to normal.

"Good quality soil can bounce back from stress," Rice said. "The more microbial activity, the faster the breakdown of soil pollutants."

Nitrifiers, important bacteria in the soil, are one of the keys to understanding soil quality, he said.

Nitrifiers create nitrate, an important fertilizer in soil, out of organic matter, Rice said. The presence of nitrifiers is critical in maintaining soil health.

Rice said the breakdown of organic matter is an indicator of the stress and diversity of the microbes in soil.

Thien said the key to maintaining soil quality is to find what is wrong.

He said this process is just a few years down the road.

"Then we have to decide what we need to do," Thien said.

The benefits of understanding how to determine and to maintain soil quality do not apply just to farmers, Rice said.

"We can measure the effect of environmental disasters on soil quality," Rice said. "If there is no degradation after a certain practice, then we can continue using that practice."

Vacancies filled on board

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

willingness to attend meetings.

"We were looking for people who were willing to give some of their time and get involved with the board," Adams said.

David Procter, associate professor of speech, was elected to the one-year term of unclassified employee.

The classified employee elected to the two-year position was Kathryn Zarka, office assistant in educational personal programs.

Christopher Dunn, senior in geography, was elected as a two-year student member.

Fred Thibodeau, president of the KSU Alumni Association, was elected alumni member at large.

Mary Ann Scheneman, Manhattan resident, was elected member at large.

ESSENTIALS

Readers respond about pantyhose and birthday suits

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

DEAR CASSANDRA,

Last weekend I went out for the third time on a date with a young lady I met three weeks ago. I've spent more than $500 altogether, and on the last date the farthest we went was heavy kissing.

I was aroused, and I thought she was, too. She had even started to take her clothes off when she decided she didn't want to go any farther. After that, I needed to go all the way. I mean, I've spent a lot of money, and I think I deserved to get her in the sack by at least the third date. Cassandra, my question to you is, how should I deal with a woman who is such a tease?

D.W., K-State student

DEAR D.W.,

I am sorry, but I do not see anyone (male or female) as a "tease" if they decide to change their mind on important decisions (such as sex), regardless of how far down the road they may have already traveled.

As for your attitude regarding dating, I believe you got, or didn't get, actually, what you deserved. We are not talking about stocks and bonds here, buster — we are talking about people. Since you consider dating an "investment," then you must assume the "risk" that goes along with "playing the market."

You just went bust.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

First of all, let me point out the real reason for the invention of pantyhose. They were designed to remove that god-awful seam we women could never get to stay straight, and to get rid of those garters that always pinched.

As for Seriously Confused, here is another prime example of a man trying to tell a woman what is acceptable and what is not. As long as she is comfortable with "panty lines," then why in the world should it bother him?

Long underwear were meant as "underwear." However, I know of no man who wears just his long-johns without his underwear, or "briefs," on also.

We are trained at a very young age to have clean underwear on at all times. Seriously Confused is just that. You're asking that poor girl to go against everything her parents ever taught her.

Personally, those cotton-crotch pantyhose are not absorbent enough to wear without underwear. Pantyhose trap all that moisture and heat in, and in a place it is not needed in excess. A woman's body is constantly in battle to keep a delicate balance. Any time that balance is thrown off by outside influences, it can cause all kinds of infections.

I believe Seriously Confused's girlfriend needs to find a real man that's concerned with more important matters than her "panty lines."

LEOTARD

DEAR LEOTARD,

Thanks for mentioning the scam. I missed that point.

I would not be quite so hard on Seriously Confused. I did not get the impression that he was trying to control his girlfriend as much as simply making what he considered a helpful suggestion.

However, he should realize that it is not something to make a into what was apparently becoming a big issue. It could be that his girlfriend dislikes the look of "panty lines" also, but is not willing to give up the security and other advantages already mentioned, simply to satisfy something her boyfriend considers "unsightly."

Since it is her body, he should respect her choices.

If you truly love your mate, then you wouldn't mind being seen walking down main street with them wearing nothing but their "birthday suit." Just being with them is sufficient.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

DAVID SWEARINGEN

THE STRIP

BILL WATTERSON

CALVIN AND HOBBS

EUGENE SHEFFER

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Pantheon figures

5 In no time at all

9 Motorist's purchase

12 Ham's dad

13 Sheltered

14 Torched

15 Props for Penguin and Poppins

17 Oklahoma city

18 In the pre-swam mode

19 Courier's show

21 Michael of tennis

24 Eye-catching apparel

25 "Darn!"

26 Fred and Wilma's milieu

30 Stick figure?

31 Informal language

32 Last Hebrew letter

33 Moldings and such

35 The death of the party?

36 Worm, often

37 Actress Hannah

38 Composer Liszt

40 Oddball

42 Realtor's offering

43 Spirit of the time

48 Ms. MacGraw

49 Burt's

50 Profligate

51 Sleuth

52 Tackles' team-mates

53 Arizona city

DOWN

1 Wilde-beest

2 Dutch uncle

3 Small

4 Cut down to size?

5 Novice skater's woe

6 Partner in crime

7 Neptune's realm

8 First word into the mike?

9 Spartacus, for one

10 Verdi opera

11 Obedience-school lesson

16 Future falcon

20 Indivisible

21 Grub

22 Medal earner

23 Like a tumbler

24 Thelovious of jazz

26 Change place?

27 Pitch

28 Indiana city

29 First name in dare-devilry

31 Stir, in a way

34 Rather or Laurie

35 Where to pick up a tart

37 Family member, maybe

38 Musical symbol

39 Auditor's desire

40 Benevolent

41 He gave us a lift

44 A billion years

45 Debtor's letters

46 Bottom line

47 Midafternoon break

Solution time: 24 mins.

COBB MUD FLAW

AIRDALE ROSE

PLATINUM EVIL

TAN ORDEAL

REBEL ACED

SPAR SPRAYED

TIM MORAL DUB

CAMELOT CAKE

ERIN LAMED

HORNET FIE

AVOID ARIZONAN

DIME RUTABAGA

IDYL YES SHOP

Yesterday's answer 10-20

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-5873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

10-20 CRYPTOQUIP

D J H M J I V J R D ' D V Y C Z V E

I J H N E X J I M A L E J H N

D M A L Z X Z J M R L Z Z V X

D Z L C Y I Z

Yesterday's Cryptquip: THE MATADOR IN SPAIN WHO AMAZED US BY GOING TO SLEEP IS A BULL-DOZER.

Today's Cryptquip clue: I equals C

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

1 DAY	20 words or less — $5 each word over 20 — $.20 per word
2 DAYS	20 words or less — $6.25 each word over 20 — $.25 per word
3 DAYS	20 words or less — $7.25 each word over 20 — $.30 per word
4 DAYS	20 words or less — $8 each word over 20 — $.35 per word
5 DAYS	20 words or less — $8.50 each word over 20 — $.40 per word (consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

010 Announcements

$COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITY for non-traditional or minority undergraduates who are science or health profession majors. Pick up an application in Ackert 234. Deadline for consideration is Nov. 5, 1992.

020 Lost and Found
Found ads can be placed free for three days.

$100 REWARD—He's still missing. Lost, white cat. Last seen 927 Candewood Drive and Kimble Avenue. 537-0537 days; 539-3644 evenings.

FERRET FOUND at Ninth and Moro. Call and identify. Alan 776-1332 after 5p.m.

FOUND, WHITE mountain bike between Delaware and Sunset call 587-0153 to ID and claim.

FOUND: LEATHER jacket in Cardwell. Call with description, and what room you lost it in. 537-9307.

FOUND: TWO sets of keys, a watch, a pair of men's glasses. A lapel pin and "The Norton Anthology of English Literature" book found in or around Denison Hall.

Claim at Denison room 106.
LOST: GOLD bracelet on campus Oct. 12, 1992 possibly Willard 114 or Ackert 120. Reward $50. Contact 587-0895.

LOST: ORANGE long coat. It's a Ralph Lauren with car keys in the right pocket. Lost Thurs. night in Aggieville at Longhorns, Kites, Chance, or Silverados. REWARD if found. No questions asked!! Call 539-6809.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

J. ONE more time and I promise I'll ask!

THANKS—FOR returning class ring to Goodnow desk after finding in laundry room. This means much to me. Thank You.

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

110 For Rent—Apt. Unfurnished

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY! Sublease one-bedroom $305. Now through July 31. Campus shuttle. Pool/hot tub. 537-3683 after 5p.m. or message.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

NICE STUDIO apartment, 1019 Houston. Near City Park. Utilities paid, except water. $295, 1-800-593-0519. Open this Saturday.

SPACIOUS ONE—two-bedroom. Beautiful hard wood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan. - Aug. 539-2019.

WALK TO campus from this 1500 square foot upstairs apartment. One large and one small bedroom, living room, dining room, balcony, fireplace. All utilities paid. Available Dec. 15. Rent reduces in exchange for babysitting.

$425/month 1720 Humboldt. 537-0947.

120 For Rent—Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities, lease plus deposit 539-3672.

130 For Rent—Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6p.m.

140 For Rent—Garage

ONE CAR garage. Walk to class 539-1554.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coined laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Large, two-bedroom, own room, washer/dryer, $169 plus utilities. Available as soon as possible. Ask for Emily or Nicole 776-2048.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Own room/bath. Washer/dryer. Nice large house. Available Nov. 1. 537-3304.

FEMALE TO share nice farm house. Alta Vista area. Small dog okay. $275, one-half utilities. Ann 532-7256 (days) 499-5352 (nights).

FEMALE, OWN bedroom. $175 plus utilities. In Wamego. Call 456-2372 leave message.

LARGE BEDROOM in three-bedroom apartment. Holds two girls. $125/month. Low utilities, cable already hooked up. Interested? 587-0422, Lisa.

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time

signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

150 Sublease

AVAILABLE NOW two-bedroom house, two blocks from Aggieville and campus. Large rooms, private parking, great neighborhood. Lease runs through May. Call 537-3760.

FEMALE NEEDED to share nice apartment two blocks from campus. $200/month, one-third utilities. Available immediately. 537-4085 or 539-8087 Tina.

FEMALE, NON-SMOKER, to sublease apartment, own room, furnished, $185 plus one-third utilities, one block east of campus. Mario and Rebecca 776-9859.

SERVICE DIRECTORY

210 Resume/Typing

$1.25/DOUBLE, $10/ resume. Laser printer. Also specializing in tables, equations, and overheads. Professional results guaranteed. Please call Sandy 539-3229.

A FIVE minute walk from Aggieville. Resumes, letters, papers typed as low as $1.25 double spaced. Please call Melia 776-1534.

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done in-expensively and quick with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/ Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing Centers

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

• Free pregnancy testing
• Totally confidential service
• Same day results
• Call for appointment

Located across from Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m.-5 p.m.

240 Musicians/DJs

KATAHDIN SEEKS Bass Player. Influences include Zep, Sabbath, AC/DC, Metallica, etc. Call 537-3294 (leave message) or 776-7110 (ask for Rob).

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2968.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

245 Pet Services

DALMATIAN PUPPY/ Female AKC registered—supplies included. 776-5328 leave message.

FEEDER RATS and mice for sale. Call 776-3349.

SAVANAH MONITOR low maintenance pet supplies included 776-5328 leave message.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049.

8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ARE YOU willing to work hard, enjoy people, and able to work late hours. If so, this job is for you, waiter/waitress. Apply in person 1213 Moro.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring—Earn $2000 plus/month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206)634-0468 ext. C5768.

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL Transcriptionist needed for pathology laboratory, part-time evening hours. Please send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502.

Student Office Help. Need mature, responsible, hard working student. Requires considerable typing (inputting text); editing bulletin and newsletter entries; calling agencies/publication sources to request materials; and creating memos to be sent to Deans, Directors, and Department Heads. Typing speed of 50 words per minute, working knowledge of WordPerfect, and computer experience essential. Good grammar and writing skills are needed. Experience with desktop publishing and newsletter production preferred. A pleasant phone manner and ability to work with the public are desired. General maintenance of library will be required and the ability to maintain operation when information Specialist is not available. The individual hired will need to pass a typing, filing, and word processing test. Prefer work study student who can work at least 20 hours/ week and summers. Please contact Sherrill at 532-5045, Office of Research and Sponsored Programs, 2 Fairchild Hall.

VISTA DRIVE-IN is now taking applications for full and part-time help. Apply in person at 1911 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

WANTED: NIGHT support worker to sit with disabled person two nights per week. Interested persons contact Jamie Plank at the SRS office: 776-4011 extension 576. Equal opportunity employer. Women, minorities, and handicapped.

MAKE $1000'S stuffing envelopes. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to J.C. Inc., P.O. Box 864, Manhattan, KS 66502-0008.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-800/874-7697.

DO YOU need to LOSE WEIGHT? We've got the answer. Guaranteed results. Call today 539-1252.

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

CARPET CLEANING business. Excellent opportunity for college student/ house wife. All equipment/ supplies necessary. Excellent condition. $6195 negotiable. 1-494-8484 leave message.

ADORABLE AKC DALMATIAN PUPPIES. Call 537-3974 after 6:30p.m. and weekends.

LABRADOR RETRIEVERS. Purebred, yellow and black, first shots, wormed, $75. 494-2758, 537-0727.

TWO 100 watt Fisher speaker for sale. Model ST-830. $240 or best offer. Call 776-0297 evenings.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $600 or best offer. Call Murray 539-5762.

Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/ larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

CARPET CLEANING business. Excellent opportunity for college student/ house wife. All equipment/ supplies necessary. Excellent condition. $6195 negotiable. 1-494-8484 leave message.

ADORABLE AKC DALMATIAN PUPPIES. Call 537-3974 after 6:30p.m. and weekends.

LABRADOR RETRIEVERS. Purebred, yellow and black, first shots, wormed, $75. 494-2758, 537-0727.

TWO 100 watt Fisher speaker for sale. Model ST-830. $240 or best offer. Call 776-0297 evenings.

FOR SALE: Supercharged Mac 512KE, four meg RAM/80 meg HD. Standard keyboard $

Finney's role in grain deal praised

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

make the purchase, while some of the grain may come from commingled grain from several states now in storage.

Both Belyakov and Rathbun credited Finney's role in encouraging a sister-state relationship between Kansas and Leningrad for setting the stage for the grain deal.

Technically, the Russian region is buying 500 metric tons of Kansas grain, most of it wheat.

There are 36.7 bushels in a metric ton, but the number of bushels of the other three grains in a metric ton vary, state agriculture officials said.

They estimated the sale amounts to 17.5 million bushels.

Kansas farmers harvested 363.8 million bushels of wheat this year, and they are expected to harvest 238 million bushels of corn, 238.7 million bushels of grain sorghum and 57.4 million bushels of soybeans.

"My job is to get the wheat for the Russians, the kind of wheat they want, and get it delivered. It is contemplated it will be Kansas grain," Rathbun said. "I simply can't get into details."

Belyakov said Kansas was chosen by the Leningrad officials strictly because of the relationship between the region and the state.

Through an interpreter, the region's president said Russia is passing through difficult times right now, and the grain is needed to support his area's farmers.

"Of course we will pay for the grain. But we also hope to have support from your government — the credit lines," Belyakov said. "We hope to have it as humanitarian (assistance), and to support our farmers."

Students get governor's support

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Gov. Joan Finney, who visited campus Monday with a delegation from Russia, noticed the social work students standing by the K-State Union near her car.

Melinda Eubanks, senior in social work, said Finney approached the group on her own. "She said she had heard about us, and she supports us," Eubanks said. "She said she was going to speak to the Board of Regents."

One sign a member of the group was holding read "Rethink the Missions Statement." Eubanks said the group asked Finney to sign her name to it, and she did.

"We as students have had an impact," Shields said. "I think the dean's office, from my perspective, is re-evaluating it."

"I think they're looking at the interest of both parties."

Last presidential debate lively

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

three men stripped their appeals to the essentials.

Clinton praised Perot for stressing the importance of the deficit and paid tribute to Bush for his service to the nation.

"I wish him well," he said of the president, "I just believe it's time for a change."

Bush said the election comes down to who has the judgment, experience and character to serve.

Perot said he alone had created jobs and managed money, making him the one for economic recovery.

Clinton said he had no regrets about opposing the war in Vietnam, although he acknowledged he should have done better in answering campaign questions about his draft history.

Bush worked to fend off criticism of his economic stewardship. He said many Americans are better off than they were four years ago, despite the recession.

"Is the guy who is out of work better off? Of course he's not," Bush said. "But he's not going to be better off if we grow the government."

The debate at Michigan State University covered many issues:

■ A question about the banking system produced rare agreement between Clinton and Bush. Both said the system was fundamentally sound, and nothing like the S&L crisis looms, even though "problem banks" need attention.

■ Bush said he favors a proposed free-trade agreement with Mexico and Canada. Perot stressed his opposition. Clinton said he favors it with conditions.

By far, the sharpest exchanges came over the economy.

Mocking Bush's announcement that James Baker would take command of domestic policy in a second term, Clinton said in his administration, the person "responsible for economic policy will be Bill Clinton." Bush said, "That's what worries me."

Men's sexual health focus of Lafene promotion

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

Having multiple sex partners and one-night stands is considered high-risk behavior, Moeller said, and people who do so need to be tested.

Having sex with someone is like having sex with everyone that person ever slept with, he said.

"Whatever sex preference the man has, we want to screen them," Moeller said.

He said genital warts and chlamydia are two diseases that seem to be the most common, but tests for all sexually transmitted diseases are available.

"Where there's smoke, there's fire," Moeller said. "Where there's one, there could be another."

Men can have a sexually transmitted disease for a long time and not even know it, because symptoms aren't always evident, he said.

If a disease remains for a prolonged time, it can affect other parts of the genitals, causing sterility, Moeller said.

Testicular cancer is linked to sexually transmitted diseases, said Cindy Burke, director of health education at Lafene.

Burke said the instigating factor for the Men's Sexual Health promotion is the number of cases of testicular cancer among college-age men on campus.

College men don't think it can happen to them, Burke said, but it is definitely on campus.

Lafene plans to have a seminar on men's issues such as sexuality, date rape and health, Burke said.

She said it will be an open forum with a panel of health professionals.

Burke said the forum may be named For Men Only, but that does not exclude women, because they need to be aware of men's sexual issues as well.

We Take Tips 532-6556 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

GOODSON AUTO TRIM

Seat Covers
Headlining
Boat Covers
Tonneau Covers
Window Tinting
Convertible Tops
Complete Auto, Truck & Boat Upholstery
201 Sarber Lane
(between Wal-Mart and K-Mart)
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

$15 CASH!

for first time plasma donors

- Quick, safe, easy
 - Study while you donate
 - Watch movies while you donate
 - Donating plasma saves lives!
- Appointments & Walk-ins Welcome

Manhattan Donor Center

1130 Gardenway (Across from Westloop)
Mon.-Fri. 9-6:30 Sat. 9-2

Rainforest Awareness Week

"Amazonian Indian Myths and Cosmologies: Principles of a Rainforest Ecology"

Harold Prins
KSU Assistant Professor of Anthropology
7 p.m. Union 212

Sponsored by Rainforest Coalition

REMINDER! PROTECT YOURSELF

Now is the time
to get your annual
FLU SHOT.

Available at
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
Kansas State University

For Appointment
Call 532-6544

The Beat Goes On at Hansen Nutrition Center

- Natural Food Supplements
- Body Building Products
- Whole Grain Cereals
- Nutritionist on Staff
- Bio-Plasma Prints
- Natural Ice Creams
- Dietetic Supplies
- Herbs and Spices

537-4571
Mon.-Sat. 9:30-6

Locally Owned
Hansen Nutrition Center

3112 Anderson Ave.
(across from Village Plaza)

GREAT
MEMORIES
START HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

The Interview Suit: Dressing to Express Yourself.

Would you go to a department store for guidance on how to dress for success? Probably not. You'd want real insight on how to make a good First Impression.

At Borck Brothers our sales personnel are trained in the art of fashion. They can help you buy a suit that lets you look good, without making you look like every other job applicant.

*Free tie with suit purchase at
reg. price
($30 value)

Suits are priced from $265. Alterations and advice are free.

BORCK
Brothers

Fine Menswear.

"Your Tuxedo Specialist"
Sales & Rentals available.

1100 Westloop Place
Westloop Shopping Center
9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Sat.; till 8:30 p.m. Thurs.

UPC
FILMS

SEAN CONNERY LORRAINE BRACCO

Medicine Man

Friday and Saturday, 7 and 9:30 p.m.,
Sunday, 7 p.m. in Forum Hall

$1.75 with K.S.U. I.D. K-State Union
UPC Feature Films

AT PLAY IN THE FIELDS OF THE LORD

Starring Tom Berenger, John Lithgow,
Daryl Hannah and Kathy Bates
Wednesday and Thursday 7 p.m. in Forum Hall
Friday 7 p.m. in Little Theatre
FREE ADMISSION

Co-Sponsored by the Rainforest Coalition, Hispanic
Awareness Month, International Coordinating Council, KSU
Young Democrats and the Latin American Studies Program.

K-State Union
UPC Kaleidoscope

For more information, call the UPC Entertainment Line at 532-6570

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

OCTOBER 21, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 42

INSIDE

QUARTERBACK CONTROVERSY

Wildcat football coach Bill Snyder announces that the No. 1 spot for quarterback is unknown for Saturday's game against Colorado.

PAGE 6

WEDNESDAY

HIGH 76 LOW 53
WEATHER - PAGE 2

Voter rolls near record

ASSOCIATED PRESS

County election commissioners attribute the jump in Kansas voter registration to televised debates, hot issues and simpler registration systems.

Deluged by last-minute registrations, county election commissioners say record numbers of new voters may be eligible to cast ballots in upcoming elections.

Officials attribute the surge of political interest to recent televised presidential debates and to some hotly contested state and local ballot issues.

"There are several reasons, including dissatisfaction with the status quo and the economy, and the abortion issue is in there somewhere," said Marilyn Chapman, Sedgewick County election commissioner. "I'm not sure you can pin it on any one thing."

She said more than 20,000 county residents registered during the weekend before Monday's state deadline. And she predicted the total number of registered voters would exceed 200,000, the largest in county history.

Final figures won't be available for days, but a spot check of key election districts around the state shows a heavy turnout.

"We are probably going to set a statewide record for registration," said John Reinhart, spokesman for the secretary of state's office. "The biggest (reason) is a fundamental realization by people that if they want change, it begins with them at the ballot box."

Officials in Shawnee, Douglas, Johnson, Rice, Ellsworth, Haskell, Finney and Grant counties said they expected to set records for eligible voters.

"We had 201,823 as of last Saturday, with

See KANSAS Page 10

WORLD

Typhoon sweeps across Guam

Brian is 2nd storm in as many months to hit island

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AGANA, Guam — The second typhoon in less than two months swept over Guam early Wednesday, knocking out power and water on the island of 135,000 people.

The eye of Typhoon Brian was passing over the southern tip of the island, the Joint Typhoon Warning Center on Guam reported at noon Wednesday (9 p.m. CDT).

The storm had maximum sustained winds of 115 mph and gusts to 145 mph, and it was moving west-northwest at 7 mph, the center said.

Power was out in some places, and residents in the southern part also lost water, said Guam civil defense spokesman Carl Gumatiao. Schools, businesses and government offices were closed.

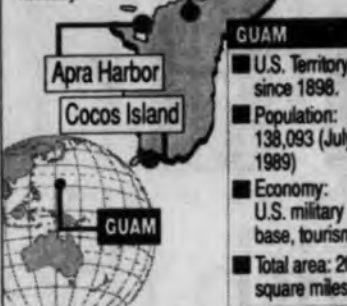

Forecasters at the warning center said the powerful winds of the eye wall were expected to bash the island for about three hours.

Before the storm hit, residents had lined up at stores to buy batteries, propane and flashlights.

Guam is west of the international date line, 3,800 miles west of Hawaii and 1,500 miles south of Japan.

GUAM TYPHOON

The eye of Typhoon Brian passed over the southern tip of Guam Tuesday.

GREGORY A. BRANSON/Collegian

Several thousand of Guam's residents live at the southern end of the island. Most live in the central and northern parts of the island. More than 3,400 people were reported in 14 shelters.

U.S. Navy ships were sent out to sea to avoid being driven aground, and military planes were stowed in hangars or flown to Japan, Singapore and Hawaii, said Lt. Cmdr. Ken Patterson of the U.S. Pacific Command in Honolulu.

Guam is still recovering from Typhoon Omar, which hit Aug. 28, causing $487 million in damage.

A storm called a typhoon west of the international date line is the same as a hurricane in the Western Hemisphere.

JUST ONE TOO MANY

Matt Sherwood could have been in jail today if he had driven last night.

Although he was not legally intoxicated, failing to pass a number of road tests to determine his ability to drive would have justified arresting Sherwood, said Trooper Maurey Rose of the Kansas Highway Patrol.

Sherwood and Rose demonstrated what happens when someone is stopped for drunken driving during a presentation Tuesday night in Marlatt Hall as part of National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week.

About 75 people attended the program. The program also featured a film that showed how a number of celebrities have overcome the negative effects of alcohol on their lives.

The film gave a number of statistics on alcoholism and drunken driving. It said one in 10 drivers on the road in the evening is impaired or legally drunk, and after 11 p.m. the percentage of drivers who are intoxicated is significantly higher.

"I would have taken him in," said Rose, a K-State graduate who has been with the highway patrol for more than 14 years.

"I feel like he failed all of the tests. A jury might look at what he did and say, 'He doesn't look too bad,' but an officer who is trained to look for these things would realize that he was impaired," Rose said.

Sherwood, who had eight beers before the demonstration, said he didn't think he did poorly on the tests. But he would have looked for a designated driver had he been at a bar.

ABOVE: Matt Sherwood, sophomore in agricultural science and industry, walks heel to toe as Highway Patrol Trooper M.J. Rose watches at a DUI arrest demonstration Tuesday night in Marlatt Hall. LEFT: Rose explains the results of a blood-alcohol content breath analyzer test to about 75 students.

PHOTOS BY CARY CONOVER

STORY BY JODY LYNN

"I probably wouldn't have driven home tonight," Sherwood said.

Rose said Sherwood appeared shaky during the tests. What convinced him that Sherwood would have been a hazard on the road was his heel to toe test, in which he did not follow directions and seemed off balance.

Drivers can practice to beat these tests, Rose said, but the horizontal gaze nystagmus test is one that can't be beaten. This is when the officer has a suspect follow a pen horizontally with his eyes.

Rose said when the pen reaches a 45-degree angle, a person's eyes will begin to twitch involuntarily if he or she has been drinking.

"When I make a stop, I see if I can smell alcohol on their breath. I watch their coordination. Maybe he did this or that getting out of the car and had a little trouble finding

See DRUNKEN Page 12

Campus parking can be perilous

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

Almost 40 lost or stolen campus parking permits have been reported this semester.

Campus Police Lt. Robert Mellgren said in a peak year, the department receives 100-125 reports. About 25 percent are recovered.

Susan Watt, instructor of foods and nutrition, made one of those reports.

"It was my fault as much as anyone's," she said. "I left my window down."

Mellgren said the problem has existed ever since a hanging permit has been used. He gave several reasons for using a hanging permit instead of a sticker.

"We decided on the hanging-type permit to give people the option of using it on more than one vehicle," Mellgren said. "These days, so many cars are plastic. So the question is, where do you put a stick-on permit that's not going to cause damage?"

"If it was a sticker, you could tell that it was stolen from a block away because it would be all crinkled up," he said.

The difficulty in tracking down a permit is one reason Parking Services will be using computerized ticket books. These will be used starting sometime next week.

He said people who steal permits usually use them,

See PERMIT Page 10

Computerized tickets go into use today

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

Don't think an envelope on your vehicle's windshield means you only got a warning.

Starting today, Parking Services will be using those envelopes for tickets. The new tickets, printed out on hand-held computers, look more like store receipts than hand-written tickets.

"It will make us a lot more efficient. There

See NEW Page 10

NEWS DIGEST

MURDERER'S EXECUTION BLOCKED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court justice Harry Blackmun blocked the execution of a convicted murderer Tuesday night.

Ricky Lee Grubbs had been scheduled to die by injection at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

He would have become the 26th person executed in the United States this year, the most in any year since 1962.

'WASTEMAKERS' SINGLED OUT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four consumer and environmental groups singled out nine lunchbox-type foods Tuesday for "Wastemaker" awards for excessive packaging.

The U.S. Public Interest Research Group, among other groups, included Kool-Aid Kool Bursts, Jell-O Gelatin Snacks and Oscar Mayer's Lunchables in its criticism.

ON THE AGENDA

UPC promotes AIDS awareness

"People get careless and don't realize the consequences of what can happen."

BRENT COVERDALE

KIRSTEN NELSON
Collegian

AIDS Awareness Week will focus on the prevention of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, as well as how to deal with contracting one.

Union Program Council Issues and Ideas Committee will sponsor the week, which runs Oct. 26-30.

"We felt it's a topic that seems to get ignored in the Midwest," committee chairman Brent Coverdale said. "We thought K-State students should be aware of the dangers out there."

"Sometimes, I think people think it can't happen to them — that it's only based in bigger cities," he said.

That is a misconception, said Cindy Burke, health education director at Lafene Health Center.

Nationally, one in every 300 college students is infected with the AIDS virus, she said.

Coverdale said he hopes AIDS Awareness Week will make students aware of the dangers they face.

"People get careless and don't realize the consequences of what can happen," Coverdale said.

Topics that will be discussed during the week include alcohol and AIDS, the effects of AIDS on campus, coping with AIDS, medical care for the HIV-positive and AIDS patient and the 1992 AIDS Quilt display.

"We're going to hit on a little of everything and try to cover as wide an area as we can," Coverdale said.

CORRECTION

In Tuesday's Collegian story on the K-State Child Development Center, it was incorrectly reported that the board filled three paid positions. None of the board positions are paid. The Collegian regrets the error.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20

At 8:58 a.m., Brian Farrell, 1423 Hillcrest Drive, reported the theft of a yellow bicycle from the Ackert Hall bike rack.

At 9:37 a.m., an employee at the Swine Teaching and Research Center reported the theft of a swine research sign and a teaching sign. Loss was $100.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 20

At 12:20 a.m., Stephen A. Williams was arrested for DUI and issued a ticket for transporting an open container of alcoholic liquor. Williams was released on $500 bond.

At 8:34 a.m., Delbert Wilts reported that the driver's side window of his vehicle was broken out. Loss was $150.

At 8:59 a.m., Ned Price, 1419 Laramie St., reported a burglary. Taken was a 32-pound roast, and the walk-in freezer's door was damaged. Loss was $100.

At 9:38 a.m., a vending machine was reported damaged at Sunset Zoo.

Loss was $300.

At 10:26 a.m., a cleaning crew at Motel 6, 510 Tuttle Creek Blvd., discovered a scale, miscellaneous drug paraphernalia and a substance police believed to be marijuana under a bed.

At 10:35 a.m., Brad Ensminger reported a motorcycle's fiberglass fender was damaged at 1700 N. Manhattan Ave. Loss was $800.

At 12:32 p.m., a major-damage, non-injury accident occurred at 2700 Anderson Ave. between vehicles driven by Mary J. Holte and Scott M. Wickstrum.

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect. If you find an inaccuracy, let us know so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly sunny and warm. High in the upper 70s. Tonight, mostly clear. Low 50 to 55.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Sunny and mild. High near 80.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Friday through Sunday: Warm and dry. Lows in the lower to mid-50s. Highs in the mid-70s to mid-80s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

ANNOUNCEMENTS

■ Applications for the Homeserve community service program are available in Eisenhower 014A.

■ Intramural individual sports brackets are posted at the Rec Complex.

■ Intramural volleyball schedules are available in the Recreational Services office in the Rec Complex.

■ Sign-up for mock interviews for juniors and seniors will be available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Friday in Holtz Hall. Interviews will be Nov. 2.

■ Student ambassador applications are due Friday at the Alumni Association office, 4th floor, 2323 Anderson Ave.

■ In conjunction with Rainforest Awareness Week, the film "At Play in the Fields of the Lord" will be shown free at 7 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21

■ University Activities Board will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 204.

■ Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.

■ Students for the Right to Life executive board will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 203. All members welcome.

■ Intramural volleyball games begin at 7 p.m. in the large gym at the Rec Complex.

■ Linguistics will meet at 7 p.m. in Bluemont 217. Alex Binkowski will speak on electronic mail.

■ National Society of Black Engineers will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 163. Topic will be end of membership drive.

■ University Counseling Services will sponsor an informal discussion on "Women's Body Image" at noon in Union 205. Bring a lunch.

■ BaGaLs will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the UFM banquet room.

■ Northern Flint Hills Audubon Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Ackert 221. Topic will be "A Native American Perspective on the Last 500 Years of our Environmental History."

■ Honors Student Organization will meet after the movie in Union 212.

■ Parachute Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1.

■ Collegiate 4-H will meet at 9 p.m. in McCain 324 for yearbook pictures. Dress up.

■ Society and Criminal Justice Club will meet at 7 p.m. in McCain 324 for yearbook pictures.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY	Nairobi	77/59	cloudy
Bermuda	82/73	clear	Rome	68/52	rain
Helsinki	41/27	rain	Stockholm	43/34	cloudy
London	52/45	rain	Vancouver	61/48	rain

You can load your shelves with these,

Apple Macintosh PowerBook® 145 4/40

Apple Macintosh Classic® II

Apple Macintosh LC II

Apple Macintosh IIsi

or buy a Macintosh that's already loaded.

Get a great value on your choice of these Apple® Macintosh® computers plus over $400 worth of preloaded software: The American Heritage Dictionary with Roget's Thesaurus, the Random House Encyclopedia, Correct Grammar, ResuméWriter and Calendar Creator.

But hurry, because student aid like this is only available through Oct. 15, 1992 — and only from your authorized Apple campus reseller.

The Macintosh Student Aid Package.

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

MACSOURCE
A Division of The Perceptive Vision, Inc.
701 North 11th • Manhattan, KS 66502 • (913) 537-0188

Authorized
Education Sales Consultant

© 1992 Apple Computer, Inc. Apple, the Apple logo, and Macintosh are registered trademarks of Apple Computer, Inc. Classic is a registered trademark licensed to Apple Computer, Inc. PowerBook is a trademark of Apple Computer, Inc. The Random House Encyclopedia is a trademark of Random House, Inc. American Heritage Electronic Dictionary, Electronic Thesaurus, and CorrectText™ developed by Houghton Mifflin Company, publisher of The American Heritage Dictionary and Roget's II. The New Thesaurus. CorrectText underlying technology developed by Language Systems, Inc. Calendar Creator is a trademark of Power Up Software Corporation. ResuméWriter is a trademark of Bocoftware Software Company, Inc. All product names are the trademark of their respective holders. Offer good on the Macintosh PowerBook 145 4/40 configuration only.

STATE

Black activists protest demotion

Gov. Finney loses ground with support group

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — About 80 black activists gathered around the Statehouse steps Tuesday to protest Gov. Joan Finney's demotion of Azzie Young as secretary of health and environment.

This could be a sign of a deepening schism between the governor and one of her stronger support groups.

Finney was out of town Tuesday, but an aide attempted to speak to the group.

Black activists from Kansas City, Kan., Wichita, Manhattan and Salina gathered during the noon hour.

The activists were carrying signs that said: "Friends Don't Treat Friends This Way" and "Gov. Finney, Constructively Explain Why Dr. Young Was Fired."

Some yelled "two more years" during the short demonstration.

Finney is up for re-election in 1994.

When Finney defeated former Gov. Mike Hayden in 1990, she had the support of the state's black community.

"Gov. Finney, we voted for you; we supported you," said the Rev. Lee May, pastor at the First African Methodist Episcopal Church in Kansas City, Kan.

"We demand to know why you fired Azzie Young."

Black leaders became angry by what they say was Finney's rude and patronizing behavior Thursday when she met with a smaller group at Cedar Crest.

About 25 black leaders went to the governor's residence to determine why Young was removed as secretary of health and environment and returned to her former position as director of Bureau of Family Health in the agency.

LECTURE

Slides show rainforest ruin

Anthropology professor stresses Amazon's exploitation, people's greed

"I have become increasingly aware that we are witnessing the demise not only of the land and its vegetation, but of a cultural area."

HARALD PRINS

DEBORAH WHITSON

Collegian

Global warming has been moved to the back burner during the political campaigns, but some students remain concerned about the issue.

The K-State Rainforest Coalition continued Rainforest Awareness Week with a slide presentation by Harald Prins, associate professor of anthropology, Tuesday night in the K-State Union.

"Amazonian Indian Myths and Cosmologies: Principles of a Rainforest Ecology" dealt with the ways natives of the Amazon rainforest area have been affected by its destruction.

Prins, who visited the area in the early 1980s, pointed out how Western culture has seeped into the northwest area of the Amazon basin. The Rio Vuapes and the surrounding area of this Amazon river tributary are home to the Tukano tribe.

"The Amazon is a very dismal area," he said. "I have become increasingly aware that we are witnessing the demise not only of the land and its vegetation, but of a cultural area."

Prins showed slides of the area he visited, illustrating the roads plowed through the vegetation and the use of Western supplies for homes.

"This symbolizes civilization cutting into the area," he said. "At first it was for rubber, but now there are many different interests involved."

Prins said the Texaco and Gulf corporations are two of the special interests that have extensively damaged the area.

He said the Tukano people have a philosophy

■ See RAINFOREST Page 12

J. MATTHEW RHEA/Collegian

Harald Prins, associate professor of anthropology, narrates a slide presentation for his lecture on rainforest ecology he delivered Tuesday night. The event was part of Rainforest Awareness Week.

CAMPUS

Students want respect for their sexuality

Gays, lesbians, bisexuals at K-State ask for end to verbal, physical harassment

LIANA RIESINGER

Collegian

Editor's note: Some of the people interviewed for this story asked their full names not be used.

Gay, lesbian and bisexual students said they think discrimination needs to stop.

Although efforts of diversity through Racial/Ethnic Harmony

Week included sexuality issues, these students said more needs to be done to develop equality.

When people think of diversity, they think of racial and ethnic, and not gay and bisexual, said Dan, a K-State student.

Gay students at K-State said they have experienced verbal and physical harassment.

Kay said she is fearful of revealing her identity because of the extent of non-acceptance at K-State.

"I think there's high negativity towards gays and bisexuals on campus," Kay said. "In the past, gay men were quoted in the paper with their names, and they received hostile phone calls, and another had a brick thrown through his window."

John, male president of Bisexual and Gay and Lesbian Society, said two of his friends were beat up in Aggieville because they looked gay.

Other hostile incidents included a BaGaLs member getting assaulted while doing chalk drawings on campus sidewalks.

"While the girl was drawing on the sidewalk in front of Bluemont, water was thrown on the chalk drawings and her, and she was spit on," John said.

The drawings were defaced with descriptive profanities, Kay said.

"What amazes me is that people actually take the time to go purchase chalk, drive all the way to campus, write stuff and waste this energy, expense and effort," Kay said. "Why do they think about it so much — why are they so concerned with it?"

John said there is some acceptance here, but overall he believes the University of Kansas has a more open atmosphere for gays than K-State.

"K-State is losing a lot of students because of this reason," John said. "The difference in

■ See GAY STUDENTS Page 10

The Loft

PRESENTS

Corbin Ltd.

Suits for the Contemporary Career Women

Quality That Endures

Introductory Offer

20% Discount During October

1207 More Aggieville 539-1319

Friday & Saturday
Oklahoma's Premier
Dance Band

"THE GOOD OL BOYS"

Monday & Tuesday

$1⁵⁰ Wells

Wednesday

50¢ Draws

4-9 p.m. 50¢ Tacos

Thursday

WELCOME K-STATE

FFA MEMBERS

$1 Bottles

COMING EVENTS

Lend Me a Tenor

Friday, October 23, 8 p.m.*†

Sneak behind the scenes of a gala opera for an evening of Marx Brothers-style shenanigans. The laughter is nonstop in this outrageous Tony Award-winning farce.

Tickets: $7-$18.

The Waverly Consort

The Year 1492: Spanish Music in the Age of Columbus

Saturday, October 31, 8 p.m.†

Ten brilliant singers and players trace the Christian, Jewish, and Muslim threads that form the fascinating fabric of Spanish culture. An illustrated pre-concert lecture at 6:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre, K-State Union, is free and open to the public.

Tickets: $7.50-$15.

Sergio and Odair Assad

Duo guitarists

Sunday, November 8, 3 p.m.*

These Brazilian brothers dazzle audiences with their breathtaking virtuosity and stylistic perfection. Hear for yourself as they explore the classics and sample the wealth of South American music.

Tickets: $6-$12

Fiddler on the Roof

Sunday, November 22, 7:30 p.m.§

Songs like "If I Were a Rich Man," "Matchmaker" and "Sunrise, Sunset" makes this 1991 Tony Award-winning Best Revival Musical "one of the most glowing creations in the history of musical theatre." (New York Times)

Tickets: $10-$25

Call 532-6428 or come to the McCain box office on the Kansas State University campus, Manhattan.

Box office hours: noon to 5 p.m. weekdays; from 1 p.m. before weekend matinees; from 3 p.m. before weekend evenings. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley). Persons with disabilities call 532-6428. Transportation for Senior Citizens is available through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays.

* Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

† Corporate support by Manhattan Medical Center.

‡ A Mid-America Arts Alliance program.

§ Corporate support by Kansas Farm Bureau and Affiliated Companies.

All performances are supported by the K-State Fine Arts Fee.

M·C·C·A·I·N

When it just can't get any worse

AND YOU THINK NO ONE CARES

Experience the Incredible
Receive the Baptism of the Holy Ghost

When Jesus Christ is born in your heart and life,
it is an amazing, wonderful, glorious,
dynamic experience.

It will be your moment of
ULTIMATE DELIVERANCE...

Experience HIM today!

WE CARE

the Spirit of Freedom Ministries

USA and Puerto Rico
call toll free
1-800-535-6011

Sponsored by:
United Pentecostal Church
700 Vail
(913) 776-8717
And Apostolic Campus Ministries

GREAT
MEMORIES
START HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

OPINION

OCTOBER 21, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief
Jared Savage Opinion Page Editor
Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson
Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thoman
Heather Anderson
John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Ratu
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Now comes the new arms race

THE ISSUE

Russia's failing economy is contributing to a new proliferation of arms across the globe.

WE SUGGEST

The U.N. must institute a more strict control of nuclear weapons to slow down the race.

The Cold War is over. And a new type of arms race has begun.

It is the race of other nations, such as Iran and China, to acquire weapons technology from the economically unstable former Soviet republics.

These weapons include combat jets, submarines, surface-to-air missiles, rocket boosters, guidance systems and nuclear-weapons science.

Now, with the recent arms sale between Moscow and Beijing, there is the threat of Beijing selling its newly acquired technology to less-developed countries.

Countries like Iran, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Taiwan.

Russia is selling arms at an accelerated rate to boost its failing economy. What was once done to make a military presence is now done strictly for economic purposes, without enough thought of future ramifications.

Instead of two superpowers who carefully controlled their nuclear weapons during the Cold War, there will now be a number of mini-powers. And they will be armed to the teeth, carrying nuclear missiles in their holsters.

They will have no fear of using them, if provoked.

The time has come for the United Nations to strictly regulate nuclear-arms sales. With Russia focusing on those nations willing to pay in cash, it's a marriage of convenience that's a clear and present danger to all.

The United Nations also needs to begin taking small, heavily armed nations seriously. The first nation that believes it belongs in the Security Council and is rejected will have little reason to follow U.N. directions.

Russia desperately needs economic assistance. Holding perhaps the world's richest reserve in natural resources, it must be helped to utilize those resources, instead of using its leftover military to feed its people.

The world can no longer turn its back on a proliferating arms race that is quickly overshadowing the Cold War. We, as a world of nations, have a responsibility to end this race before it becomes more than just a threat.

Making life work means finding the simple pleasures

Goodbye to Kent Leslie, Patricia Shippy and Chris Rank. All three of these individuals went to K-State at one time, and all three committed suicide this year.

Somewhere, somehow, we have failed these individuals. The laughter didn't outweigh the tears. The joys came less often than the pain, and the fear was heavier than the enthusiasm.

We have failed as a society when individuals would rather die than live.

My problems seem so transparent when I read of other students who take their own lives. In a world of mass overpopulation, they were left feeling all alone.

We are all in search of a Zen-like morsel of light to illuminate our passage through time. The ride is hard and, at times, a little overbearing. Too much. Not enough. Pain. Companionship.

Our goal is to find a balance on life's periodic table of elements. We pick and choose in our search for the perfect combination of elements to create a new substance, a new value, a new meaning.

We are going to make mistakes. It's inevitable. Drop the ball. Flunk the test. Disappoint. All is not lost, however. The beauty is that we can do things over, improve on our mistakes. The only constant is change, and the only guarantee in life is death.

A basic human desire is to find connections and meaning in the world — a formidable task to say the least. Ours is a world of violence, hate and fear. We are tugged by and bombarded with ideas and images, never fully knowing who to trust or what to believe in.

At one time or another, everyone has felt alone, isolated and unattached from our world. In the end, though, we are all just part of a greater whole — independent but dependent. Independent to ourselves and dependent on one another for connections and attachments.

Everyone is capable of connecting and making a difference. We search for people to anchor us, strap us in and hold our hands through the carnival of life. In our journey, we often become bogged down with the big picture, when simplicity can comfort. A good sunset. A laugh resonating through a room. The sound of ice cubes bumping against the sides of a glass. Very simple, but very pleasing.

I am by no means suggesting that the world's problems — or an individual's for that matter — can be solved by a laugh or a sunset. But we can put our feelings in perspective by finding happiness and pleasure in simplicity.

Our impact as individuals is great for some and less for others. Regardless of the magnitude, every individual who has ever lived has made a difference and connected with somebody.

Sometimes, we are too caught up in the immediacy of our own lives, our own routines, to feel the bond and to make the connection with humanity. We separate ourselves from one another by our definitions, our politics and our beliefs.

While we may not always agree with each other, we must, at the very least, recognize the value of each other as living and breathing animals.

Our desires may vary, but our needs are very much the same. To laugh and love, feel and breathe, walk and run.

Find a companion. Extend your hand and grab life for all that it is worth.

KELLY KLAWONN

TOLES

READERS WRITE

► MORAL CODE

Smiling and helping others can help you

Editor,

All my life, I have tried to live according to the moral code my mother taught me, and I feel the need to share it.

She always told me to leave whatever I touched the same way I found it, or better. The world around me, for the most part, does not live according to this motto. Maybe I'm just hypersensitive, which has been known to happen at times, or the world around me is selfish. I've been trying to give to others, contribute to society, and just all-around live up to my mother's code of honor.

But college life sometimes makes this difficult. Perhaps this is a stage that the people in our age group go through. It has seemed to me that as the years go by, the people I deal with are more and more self-involved.

But there is hope! There are things that you can do to make your own small corner of the world a much better place. Keep these few tips in mind as you do your daily "chores."

Smile at a stranger today, just to make them feel good. Thanks to those of you who practice this often — you've brought me out of a funk I couldn't get myself out of.

When someone walks by you on campus, move over to make room for them. This sounds trivial, but it sure can make someone feel worthwhile to give them a little space in this world.

Try to do one good deed for someone else each day. It doesn't have to be a huge commitment, just a small token to lift someone else up.

When you discuss/debate with someone else, be polite and listen with an open mind. This may be difficult, but this world would probably be a better place if we tried to work together instead of in opposition.

If someone needs your help, stop and help them, no matter how busy you are. You'll probably be surprised to see that you will get something out of helping others.

And even if you don't, so what? You have aided someone who needed you. That is reward in itself.

Put up with the people you can't stand. This is probably the hardest tip of them all. But to clench your teeth and put up with their bull will probably help you later in life. That person you can't stand may be your boss someday.

These few little things don't seem like much, but they can make a difference in the world around you. You do have an effect on the people you come into contact with, even if you are just walking by them on the sidewalk.

Make an effort to be compassionate human beings. K-State! Education is a lot more than what you learn from books and in lab.

Valerie Kempton
Senior/Elementary education

► COLUMBUS FORUM

Article fails to report from neutral position

Editor,

I was shocked at how the Collegian grossly distorted what happened at the open forum on the legacy of Christopher Columbus.

The headline claims that the meeting ended declaring Columbus not a hero. Yet I was there, and Dr. Prins himself had to declare that no resolution had been reached.

The Collegian did not challenge the credibility of a panel, which had no history majors but was to judge a historical figure.

The Collegian did not mention or quote any of the people who spoke in defense of Columbus' person, his accomplishments or of his legacy.

From the way the forum was conducted and the way the Collegian article was written, there were more politics than history going on there.

What good is a newspaper that doesn't print the truth, that doesn't tell what really happened?

What good is a paper that makes itself into a propaganda machine worthy of Hitler's Third Reich?

What good is the Collegian?

Pat Maguire
Junior/Education

► MASS MEDIA

Reporters should realize media bias

Editor,

Congratulations to John Hart for scoring a bullseye with the excellent article "Mass Media Reeks of Liberal Bias" in the Oct. 19 Collegian.

You were right in your evaluation of the media. Most of the articles in this presidential election written in the Collegian have been influenced by other media reports.

I hope all the Collegian reporters will read and digest this article before exposing their ignorance with a bias developed from exposure to the liberal media and passed on as "gospel truth."

Having twice been a U.S. Congressional candidate and a special assistant to the governor of Arizona, I finally learned how to read a newspaper and interpret the broadcast media. John Hart's article should be required Journalism 101, because most Americans (and reporters) don't have a clue to what the truth is when it comes to political reporting.

Dr. Ray Russell
Director, National Center for Veterinary Practice Management College of Veterinary Medicine

► LETTER CORRECTION

Collegian should learn to spell right

Editor,

I'd like to thank the editors of the Collegian for their promptness in printing the letter written by myself and Brad Greenburg.

However, I do take exception with two aspects of the format.

The tagline, "Liberal press hasn't stopped conservatives" was misleading. Nowhere in our letter did we contend that the press was liberal. Whenever such a phrase was used, it appeared in quotation marks.

The second format problem is in the Collegian's decision to change my spelling of "theatre" to "theater." I am not attaining a degree in cinema or in movie house management. I am a graduate student, a published writer, an award-winning playwright, and I spelled the word "theatre" the way it damn well should have been spelled.

David-Michael Allen
Graduate student/Theater

RAINFOREST AWARENESS WEEK

Film explores human duality

Destruction of Amazon Forest serves as background for movie

ANDY WOODWARD

Collegian

"At Play in the Fields of the Lord" is a sweeping portrait of the complex interactions of civilized humans and the "savage" interwoven with beautiful cinematography of the Amazon rain forest.

Starring Tom Berenger and John Lithgow, the film centers on missionary endeavors in the forest running awry, of military expansionism, native tribes and the destruction of the area's lush environment.

REVIEW

"At Play in the Fields of the Lord" was produced by the Saul Zaentz Company, the producer of "Amadeus."

The film was directed by Hector Babenco, who also directed "The Kiss of the Spider Woman."

The film was shot entirely on location in the Amazonia, spanning across Venezuela, Columbia and Brazil.

The scenery is breathtaking, as the camera takes you through a

2,000-foot waterfall and cliffs that drop at steep angles straight through the forest canopy. Photography director Lauro Escorel did an incredible job.

The film is a botanist's dream, as the environment is as integral to the film as the characters.

The symbiosis the indigenous people have with the land is quite fragile, demonstrated when the flu virus is introduced to the Niaruna people with devastating effects.

The film is also the sociologist's dream, as many tribes and customs of the Amazonians seem to be played out with tremendous meticulousness.

Ceremonies attempting to revive the dead, ceremonies to find the enemy of a slain tribesman (the enemy would summarily be killed), and ceremonies to initiate war on whites are all very forceful and impressive.

There are no weak links in the cast. Academy Award-winner Kathy Bates is wonderfully annoying as the wife of a first-time missionary. Her intolerance and application of white values to the Niaruna Indians are quite humorous, embarrassingly so at times.

"At Play in the Fields of the Lord" is being shown at 7 p.m. today and Thursday in K-State Union Forum Hall and at 7 p.m. Friday in the Union Little Theatre.

Tom Berenger delivers a strong performance as Lewis Moon, the pilot who jumps out of his plane to join the life of the Niaruna.

They mistake him for Kisu Mu, the thunder spirit, and they must accept him into the tribe.

John Lithgow is strong as the bull-headed southern missionary who thinks Christ must be hammered-home into the godless savages. He considers those who refuse to accept his God useless.

A scene that summarizes one theme of the film is when Martin Quarrier, played by Aidan Quinn, comes across the unmanned mission, which is now burnt out and deserted.

As he clears away the unstoppable growth from a grave, he says, "God's will be done," as he forcefully hammers the crucifix home.

CAMPUS

KSU landscape key in recruiting

Facilities works to keep grounds looking good

KIM McNITT

Collegian

Having an attractive campus can make the difference in recruiting students to K-State.

Many students choose their college on the basis of its physical appearance, Division of Facilities Director Jerry Lane said.

Lane said he and his grounds and maintenance staff work year round to see that K-State will attract those new students.

"There have been several studies done on how a student picks a university," said Mark Taussig, facilities planning associate.

"One of the top reasons was that they went and visited and saw what it looked like. Appearance is a key factor," Taussig said.

There are 35 permanent employees in facilities grounds and maintenance. Their duties include maintaining the campus grounds, excluding the residence halls. They also maintain the athletic grounds.

Lane said there are many classifications of grounds employees including gardeners, utility workers, equipment operators, mechanics and supervisors.

"The employees are a good bunch of folks. They have a big job, and they do that job well," Lane said. "They deserve the credit."

Lane and Taussig both attributed the campus appearance to the administration.

"The administration makes it a top priority," Taussig said. "They understand the importance of appearance. It takes a cost for the staff and money to buy improvements."

See LANDSCAPE Page 9

Tip top

Ross Davis, junior in secondary education, tips a flying disc thrown by Kerri Githcell, junior in chemical engineering, Tuesday afternoon in City Park. Davis and Githcell said they were killing time on one of the last nice days of the season.

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Yellow Surge FOR NEWS
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

LEND ME A TENOR

Friday, October 23, 8 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

This hilarious Tony-Award-winning farce takes you behind the scenes of a gala opera production for shenanigans in the tradition of the Marx Brothers. Take a world famous tenor who's too "ill" to perform, and a gofer who fancies himself a great, but undiscovered, singer. Add a dash of slamming doors, a soupcon of mistaken identities, a splash of secret connivings, and the result is an evening of nonstop laughter. "Outlandish, outrageous, and very funny!" (WNEW-Radio)

Public/faculty: $18-$16
Senior citizen: $16-$14
Student/child: $9-$8

Tickets now on sale at the McCain box office. Call (913) 532-6428 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA. Box office opens at 1 p.m. day of performance. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley).

Transportation available for senior citizens through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000.

Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency. Corporate support by Manhattan Medical Center.

BRYAN TRAVEL COLLEGE
Since 1982

Your chance for an exciting career in the travel industry in just 17 weeks!

Financial Aid to
Qualified Applicants

Call for a Brochure!
1527 Fairlawn, Topeka
272-0889
1-800-255-3507

Day classes • 17 weeks
Evening classes • 30 weeks

Manhattan
1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
(913) 539-5391

STUDENT SPECIAL

Peace & quiet to study or just get away
Mon. - Thurs. only $20 for a single or double

On Space Availability • Student ID Required

ARRIVING DAILY

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Yesterday's values, Tomorrow's technology

1105 Sunset/P.O. Box 1208 • Manhattan, Kansas 66502 • 913-776-3300

OCTOBER 21, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

FOOTBALL

QB controversy haunts K-State

Snyder uncertain of who will lead team after Utah State loss

STEVE ROCK

Collegian

The controversy is back. Following the 28-16 loss to the Utah State Aggies, Wildcat coach Bill Snyder has announced that, once again, K-State's No. 1 quarterback is unknown.

Junior Jason Smargiaso and senior Matt Garber will vie for the starting nod in Saturday's game against Colorado.

"I was uncertain on Sunday who would start and still have not made that determination," Snyder said. "Both of them are preparing for Colorado."

"You can't keep a secret any longer. Our offense is struggling."

Indeed, the 3-2 Cats threw for just 122 yards against the Aggies, a team that had been surrendering more than 380 yards a game through the air. K-State quarterbacks also tossed four interceptions.

The loss against Utah State, now 2-4, furthered concerns about the punchless Wildcat offense.

After the first three games, the Cats were averaging more than 360 yards of total offense per contest. In the last two games combined, however, K-State has accumulated just 255 yards.

"Some of the things that have taken place have been the direct result of mistakes made at the quarterback position," Snyder said. "But both of them are making the very best effort that they possibly can."

A year ago, the Cats ranked second in the Big Eight in passing with a 225-yard per game average. This year, K-State is averaging 160.

Against Utah State, junior Smargiaso completed three of his nine passes, good for 15 yards. He also tossed an interception and was sacked twice.

For the season, he has connected on 42 of 81 passes for 609 yards. He has thrown four touchdown passes and a pair of interceptions.

Garber, who replaced Smargiaso late in the game for the second straight week, completed 11 of 22 passes for 107 yards. He was sacked six times and threw three interceptions.

Garber has completed just 36 percent of his passes on the season. He has 194 passing yards and hasn't thrown a touchdown.

"If I don't start, it's not going to kill me," Garber said. "We just need to get some consistency and eliminate some mistakes."

The two quarterbacks went through a similar situation early in the season. Smargiaso was named the No. 1 man after his 203-yard performance against Montana in the season opener.

But the situation wasn't a bitter rivalry then, Garber said, and it isn't now, either.

In fact, the two room together on road trips.

"We talk a lot," he said. "I think we're both trying to help each other. We both understand that the offense has struggled."

"We're just trying to make each other better," Garber said.

Smargiaso was unavailable for comment.

"You can't keep a secret any longer. Our offense is struggling."

BILL SNYDER

Cats take 1st at Mizzou

DARREN WHITLEY/Collegian

Soccer team wins final in sudden death

TONYA FOSTER

Collegian

The women's soccer team won a five-team round robin tournament in sudden death this weekend.

The two-day tournament was in Columbia, Mo. K-State started out with nine players, which is two less than a full field, in the first game.

"The other teams brought armies and had at least six substitutes," fullback Lori Smith said.

K-State defeated Missouri 2-1 in the first game.

"We basically went to the tournament with a bad attitude, because we were short of players," goalie Heather Hamilton said. "The first game was a morale booster."

In the second game, competing with 11 players, the Cats defeated Kansas 2-0.

"The main thing was that we defeated KU," Hamilton said.

Two games were scheduled for the second day, but Oklahoma left after the first day because of its defeats, forward Leslie Foreman said.

In the one remaining match up, K-State lost to Nebraska 1-0.

Despite the loss to the Huskers, K-State played in the championship game Sunday afternoon — again facing Nebraska.

"The final game was a mental game, and I just think that we were up," Foreman said.

Foreman scored first for the Cats in the final game against Nebraska, but the Huskers scored back to tie the match at 1, which was the final score after regular playing time, forcing a shoot-out.

After the shoot-out, in which each team receives five penalty shots, the score was tied at two.

A sudden-death was required to decide the champion, and K-State came out victorious.

"Heather saved us in the shoot-out," Foreman said.

Smith said, "It was probably the most grueling match that I have ever been through, but it was worth it."

"We played with a lot of heart," Hamilton said.

The win boosts K-State's record to 6-2.

The next women's soccer competition will be at the Colorado State tournament in Fort Collins, Colo.

FRESHMAN

Heather Hamilton deflects a ball from the goal during women's soccer practice Tuesday evening at Memorial Stadium. K-State won a tournament last weekend at Columbia, Mo.

SPORTS DIGEST

► MEN'S GOLF TEAM PLACES 4TH

The men's golf team placed fourth in Colorado State's tournament Monday and Tuesday.

The Cats placed above the Colorado Buffaloes, ranked 18th in the nation. The Buffs got fifth.

The Wildcats finished with a score of 890, 11 strokes behind the tournament winner, Grand Canyon. Second and third went to Colorado State and Washington State.

In the individual placings, sophomore Brett Waldman placed third with 216 strokes in three rounds.

K-State coach Mark Elliott said he was impressed with Waldman's finish after a poor start in the third round.

"In the past, he would have let his poor score on the front side get to him and get away from him," Elliott said. "He's now more comfortable coming down the stretch, and he really relishes that, and he wants to be there."

Sean Robertson finished in 14th, Will Siebert in 18th, Richard Laing in 32nd and Jason Losch in 46th.

VOLLEYBALL

Spikers to face powerhouse Nebraska

TONYA FOSTER

Collegian

"(Nebraska's Stephanie) Thater is a good hitter, but we also have good hitters."

KATHY SAXTON

K-State's spikers will face Big Eight opponent Nebraska at 7:30 tonight in Ahearn Field House.

"Our goal is to focus on execution and not have Nebraska dictate how we're going to play," Coach Patti Hagemeyer said.

The Huskers are undefeated in the conference and have an 11-2 record.

"At this point in the season, our focus has been on our team," Nebraska assistant coach Brian Begor said.

"But Big Eight matches are important. We don't take any of them lightly."

Senior middle blocker Stephanie Thater, who is a two-time first-team all-American, and senior outside hitter Eileen Shannon will be powers to deal with.

"Shannon will be a strong all-American candidate. She is an all-around good player in kills, digs and attack attempts," Begor said.

"Thater draws so much attention and intimidates. She really does things at will."

Hagemeyer said Thater and Shannon provide good leadership, but she is not going to change the way her team plays.

"Thater is a good hitter, but we also have good hitters," K-State outside hitter Kathy Saxton said. "We have to play the same level of consistency. You don't try to play on the other team's level."

Saxton is ranked fourth nationally in kills with an average of 5.63 per game.

"We've played a top-20 team before. We've seen this level of play," Saxton said.

Hagemeyer said she is more concerned about her own team, particularly the freshmen.

"We've improved since preseason, and with five freshmen starters, the main thing is to feel good about what they do," Hagemeyer said. "If we can break 13 records and be this young, there are only good things to follow."

One of the promising freshmen is middle blocker Jill Dugan, who is a native of Grand Island, Neb. She tied the Big Eight record in blocks in the last game against

■ See SPIKERS Page 7

WORLD SERIES

Toronto, Maldonado beats Atlanta in final at-bat

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — Candy Maldonado and the Toronto Blue Jays turned Atlanta upside down and moved on top after three games of the first World Series played in Canada.

Maldonado singled over the drawn-in outfield with one out in the ninth inning, giving the Blue Jays a 3-2 victory Tuesday night for a 2-1 lead.

The hit came on an 0-2 pitch from Jeff Reardon, who served up pinch-hitter Ed Sprague's winning two-run homer in the ninth inning Sunday night in Atlanta.

A tight game featuring home runs by Joe Carter and Kelly Gruber, a near triple play and a rare ejection came down to the bottom of the ninth inning.

Roberto Alomar began the inning with a single off Steve Avery and stole second while reliever Mark Wohlers was pitching to Carter.

After an intentional walk to Carter and Dave Winfield's second sacrifice bunt of the season, lefty Mike Stanton was summoned to face John Olerud.

Sprague pinch-hit and was intentionally walked, and Maldonado met Reardon with a drive over Otis Nixon's head in center field.

Duane Ward pitched one inning for the victory. He relieved Juan Guzman, who allowed one earned run in eight innings. Avery was the loser.

Both teams scored in the eighth, and Toronto third baseman Gruber figured in both runs.

The game began with the public-address announcer at the SkyDome urging Canadian fans to pay respect to their southern neighbors.

Outside the ballpark, T-shirts depicting upside-down American flags were sold, but it was all good-spirited. A U.S. Marine color guard carried in the Canadian flag, and Royal Canadian Mounties presented the stars and stripes.

COLUMN

Bible offers hunting tips

Who cares about salvation and sin? All I know is that the Good Book has wise hunting advice.

There's Esau, who should have taken his brother Jacob hunting instead of leaving him at home.

In Genesis 27, Isaac, on his deathbed and blind, sends his oldest son, Esau, into the field to hunt venison so Isaac may eat savory meat and bless Esau.

Esau takes off. "Take me with you," Jacob says.

"Nah," Esau says. "You don't have a hunter safety card."

So Esau's trudging alone through some Levantine swamp with a deer rifle, swatting blackflies and waiting for a white-tail. All he can think about is the blessing he will receive later.

Time passes. He's home late. The back porch light is on, and long shadows stretch across the backyard. The only sound is Esau, panting and grunting from carrying an eight-point buck on his shoulders. He drops it in the cooler.

■ See MORAL Page 7

ED SKOOG

Moral: Use the buddy system

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

Jacob's at the kitchen table, licking a sherbet spoon, smirking. Rebekah cooks and hums.

"Mama, the deer's in the cooler," Esau says. "I failed to field dress it. Forgive me."

"What's that you're cooking, Mama? And why the prideful look, Jacob?"

Silence. Esau pours himself a mug of coffee and goes upstairs to Isaac's room.

"Dad? Dad?"

"Is this my son?"

"Yes. I have brought you venison from the field."

"Jacob?"

"No, I'm Esau — the other one."

"But you have already brought me venison not a half hour ago. Is this a trick? I have already given you my blessing."

"Father! I am Esau. Have you gone crazy?"

"Esau? O we are deceived! I thought your hands were too small, but I should have spoken up! Esau, your brother has cheated you out of your birthright and blessing."

"Don't you have a blessing left for me?"

"It is too late."

"Not one little blessing?"

Isaac dies.

Esau goes downstairs. Jacob is on his second bowl of sherbet.

"Mama!" cries Esau.

Rebekah stirs the soup. "You should have taken your brother hunting," she says.

Moral: Always use the buddy system.

And there are other hunters in the book. Genesis 10:9 says of Nimrod: "He was a mighty hunter before the Lord."

I guess one's name doesn't have much effect on one's hunting skills.

"The slothful man roasteth not that which he took in hunting. But the substance of a diligent man is precious."

This proverb, from Proverbs, pertains to coyote hunters.

There's lots of ways to hunt coyote, but none of them result in the actual eating of the carcass.

I even heard lately that one can fish for coyote.

It works like this — in the Padre Islands, fishermen wade out hip-deep and cast into the surf.

Sand dunes are right behind them on the beach. A solid back-cast will launch the bait briefly behind the dune.

One fisherman noticed a tug on his line during one of these back-casts, and then it snagged.

He climbed the dune, looked over, and saw a whining, scrawny coyote trying to break free from the fishing line. Forty-pound test.

It took a while to catch on, but soon all the fishermen of the Padre Islands were fishing for coyote, waist-deep, casting over the dunes.

Spikers hope to get 1st conference win

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6

Regis University.

Dugan said she is anxious to play the Huskers.

"I know quite a few people on that team, and I think it will be a really big challenge," she said.

"I remember when I was younger watching Nebraska play, and I was just in awe."

"Now I get to play against them, and it's like a dream of mine really coming true. I get to spike the ball at Nebraska."

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special

 3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.50
Everyday
Two-Fers

 2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Topping
2 - Cokes
$8.50

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

HUNAM Chinese Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888

Dining-in Coupon
10% Off

When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

Wednesday Night SHAKER BEERS

99¢

Old Milwaukee
Coors, Miller Lite
Bud on Draft

Be Winkie's
K-STATE

776-1022
3043 Anderson

KSU Bakery Science Club
Bake Sale
Today!

First Floor Hallway Shellenberger
3 to 5 p.m.

MARKETING CLUB

PRESENTS

NESTLE

Speaker Cory Wofford

Mon., Oct. 26 7 p.m.

Union Room 212

Sancho or Burrito $1.19 reg. $1.60 each
Taco Dinner $1.88 reg. $2.55

Expires 10-24-92

TACO HUT

Where good friends get together

2809 Claflin

539-2091

The TECHNICAL CENTER
 MANHATTAN AREA TECHNICAL CENTER

 Manhattan Area Technical Center formerly

Manhattan Area Vocational-Technical School is celebrating 25 years of service to the community.

Our new name and logo reflect an emphasis on quality and a commitment to lifelong learning.

Please call us for your career and training needs.

 3136 DICKENS AVENUE • MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66502-2499
 913-587-2800 • 1-800-352-7575 • FAX 913-587-2804

Employment Opportunity

Starting at $5 per hour

ATTENTION STUDENTS FROM WICHITA AND KANSAS CITY:

 Help needed to take inventory in retail stores. Basic math skills required, 10 key experience important but not necessary.

Availability on Sundays a must!

 Part Time Positions
Available in
Manhattan

 If interested call 776-8884
Manhattan Job Service

BUY!

50¢ OFF!
any size
"TCBY" SHIVER!

Present this coupon before ordering. One order per coupon per customer per visit. Offer good only at participating "TCBY" stores. Not good in combination with any other promotional offer. Customer must pay any sales tax due. Cash value 1/100 of a cent. Void where prohibited.

Other Expires October 31, 1992 © 1992 TCBY Systems, Inc.

722 N. Manhattan • Aggieville
537-5111

The Chance of a Lifetime

Bone Marrow Donor Registry

Saturday, Oct. 24, 1992

11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

 KSU Ballroom in the K-State Union
 Manhattan, Kansas

Many people have diseases which can only be cured with a bone marrow transplant from a matched donor. You can help if you are:

- * Willing to give two tablespoons of blood for the initial blood test. (To be taken at the Bone Marrow Donor Registry on Oct. 24. There is no charge for making a blood donation.)
- * Between the ages of 18 and 55 and in good health.
- * Willing to be available as a potential donor.
- * African American, Filipino, Hispanic, Native American and Asian individuals are encouraged to participate.

Please consider becoming a donor. The lives of hundreds can be saved.

Sponsored by

K-State Student Alumni Board

K-State Student Foundation

Block and Bridle

Rotaract

For questions or further information

Contact the Alumni Association at 532-6260

ROYAL PURPLE
1993

Off Campus-Oct. 16-30

PICTURE YOURSELF IN THE 1993 ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK.

 Photos will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. in the K-State
Union Room 209.

Call 532-6106 for an appointment.

 If you are a greek member, but live
in a residence hall or off campus,
please have your photo taken with your fraternity or sorority.

Madonna book does more than tell truth

Readers can see all of pop-culture icon

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Sex sells, but will Madonna's "Sex" sell, at $49.95 a pop?

The world finds out Wednesday, when 750,000 copies of her steamy collection of sex-fantasy photos arrive in bookstores across America.

From her early days as a dance diva in a dog collar to the recent video for "Justify My Love," Madonna's image has always relied on a healthy dose of sex appeal.

But "Sex" goes beyond the teasing, tempting Madonna. Nothing is left to the imagination in its 128 pages of Steven Meisel photographs.

There's Madonna hitchhiking nude. Madonna pumping gas topless. Madonna eating pizza naked. Madonna masturbating over a mirror.

Madonna naked and groping rappers Vanilla Ice and Big Daddy Kane. Madonna unclothed and French-kissing model Naomi Campbell, skinny-dipping with actress Isabella Rossellini.

"This book is about sex. Sex is not love. ... These are fantasies I have dreamed up. Everything you are about to see and read is a fantasy, a dream, pretend," Madonna writes in the introduction.

"Any similarity between characters and events depicted in this book and real persons and events is not only purely coincidental, it's ridiculous. Nothing in this book is true. I made it all up."

A safe-sex message is also included by Madonna, a longtime AIDS activist.

The book, with its graphic images of bondage, domination, lesbianism and menages à trois, was created under strict security. Anyone involved in production signed a contract ensuring silence, said Charles Melcher, publisher of Calloway Editions.

"We had to have armed guards at the plant to make sure copies would not disappear. The materials were under lock and key at every stage," said Melcher, whose company put "Sex" together for Warner Books.

So browsers can't peek unless they pay, the book has metal covers and comes sealed in a silver-colored plastic bag featuring Madonna's face.

Sexual harassment suit filed for 7-year-old

Mother claims her daughter was harassed on school bus

ASSOCIATED PRESS

EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn. — Day after day, 7-year-old Cheltzie Hentz complained to her mother about the teasing, foul language and lewd behavior of the boys on the school bus.

Often, she was in tears.

Her mother wrote repeatedly to the school to demand something be done.

The Eden Prairie school district in suburban Minneapolis said it responded by removing two students from the bus, changing seat assignments and having school officials talk to the children and accompany them.

But Sue Mutziger said the remedies were insufficient. In August, she filed a sexual harassment complaint with the state Human Rights Department and a similar complaint with the U.S. Education Department last month.

Her action has pushed the school district, and the behavior of young school bus riders, into the national spotlight.

It also taken its toll on Cheltzie.

"She's a sensitive little girl," her mother said. "She wants to correct the problems on the school bus, and she feels bad that it has to hurt so much."

Cheltzie may be the youngest student ever to have a federal sexual harassment complaint filed on her behalf against another student, Education Department spokesman Rodger

Murphy said.

The school district denies any wrongdoing.

"We teach kids from kindergarten on you should not be abusive in your language and sexual in your comments," Superintendent Jerry McCoy said.

Children, influenced by television and videos, are using saltier language at a younger age than a few years ago, said child psychologist Susan Erbaugh, director of psychology services at Minneapolis Children's Medical Center.

"Kids are exposed uncritically to material that has not been evaluated, that their parents know very little about," she said. "Parents sit side-by-side with their kids and don't comment on what they see."

Cheltzie, a second-grader, told of children on her bus using four-letter words and teasing other students.

Once, she said, a group of boys pointed black rubber knives at her and a group of girls. Another time, she said a boy stared at two first-grade girls and made lewd comments about their sex organs.

Cheltzie's mom wants video cameras installed in the buses and, in extreme cases, have adults on board.

The behavior of the first through fourth graders on the bus was "grossly out of control," she said. "We're not talking about just 'Kids will be kids.' This is scary."

Cheltzie has appeared with her mother on such television shows as "Good Morning America" and "Sally Jessy Raphael."

"Parents sit side-by-side with their kids and don't comment on what they see."

SUSAN ERBAUGH

WORLD

Vietnam releases photos of MIAs

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials gained access to a cache of secret information, including thousands of photographs, on a weekend trip to Vietnam.

The information could shed light on the fate of Americans missing in action in the Vietnam War, government sources said Tuesday.

"There's a good chance we'll get a lot of cases solved — dozens, hundreds maybe," one Defense Department official said, speaking, like others, only on the condition of anonymity.

One source said the photographs are all of dead servicemen.

Another official said intelligence personnel are "working night and day" to glean clues to what became of U.S. servicemen believed captured or killed.

If positive identifications are made, families of the missing men will be notified first, the officials said.

President Bush is to be briefed on the results Thursday. A public announcement will follow.

At the Pentagon, spokesman Bob Hall refused to comment on the situation except to promise that, if new information is developed, "we will talk fairly quickly with the families to alert them to the issue."

Another official said the information may be a whole new vein of evidence about those listed as prisoners of war or missing in action during that war.

It could be especially useful in pursuing the scores of so-called "discrepancy cases," in which servicemen were last seen or heard from alive, but in imminent danger of capture.

"We know it's good, but we won't know how good until we can check it against what we already know," said the official.

A Senate source said between 4,000 and 5,000 photos are in the newly uncovered archives, but many are duplicates or different shots of the same individuals. And, he said, "They all deal with dead people."

The United States had long suspected that such information, which reportedly includes more than 4,000 photos, existed in Vietnam. But the trip over the weekend to Hanoi by retired Gen. John Vessey Jr. and Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., was the first time its existence has been officially acknowledged.

Vessey is President Bush's special emissary for POW-MIA affairs, and McCain is a former Vietnam prisoner of war and a member of the Senate's Select Committee on POW-MIA Affairs.

The three-day trip was hastily arranged after the United States got word that Vietnam was prepared to cooperate in turning over material it has previously held back.

In addition to the photos, there may be other documentation that could shed light on the fate of POWs and MIAs.

Get a little personal this Halloween
with a

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Personal Classified

Kedzie Hall 103
8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

ID must be shown when placing a personal.

Introducing ... Woody's Collegiate Fashion Board

Left to right: Susan Huddleston, Sigma Sigma Sigma; Jenae Silver, Smurthwaite; Anne Downing, Sigma Kappa; Jana Wolff, Kappa Delta; Cristy Mackey, Alpha Chi Omega; Marci Verbrugge, Alpha Delta Pi; Jill Pruitt, Alpha of Clavia; Jackie Olson, Gamma Phi Beta; Jennene Shuey, Woody's Coordinator; Laura Kelly, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Kristine Reichuber, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Not pictured: Beth Levan, Chi Omega; Heidi Ricketson, Ford Hall; Melany Swedlund, Alpha Xi Delta.

Mon-Sat
9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Thurs.
10 a.m.-5 p.m.
Sun. 1-5

Woody's ladies

1225 Moro
Aggieville

1987-1992

five star

Friday, Oct. 23
Center-wide Anniversary Sale
Five $100 Shopping Spree Giveaways
Free Anniversary Cake
Free Flowers for the First 100 Ladies Entering Through the Front and Back Main Entrances
Entertainment from 7 to 8 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 24
Center-wide Anniversary Sale
Five $100 Shopping Spree Giveaways
Free Anniversary Cake
Free Flowers for the First 100 Ladies Entering Through the Front and Back Main Entrances
Face Painting
Fashion Shows at 1 and 3 p.m.
Entertainment at 11 a.m., 5 and 7 p.m.

Sunday, Oct. 25
Center-wide Anniversary Sale
Five $100 Shopping Spree Giveaways
Free Anniversary Cake
Free Flowers for the First 100 Ladies Entering Through the Front and Back Main Entrances
Face Painting
Fashion Show at 3 p.m.
Entertainment at 12 noon and 4 p.m.

ANNIVERSARY

MANHATTAN
TOWN CENTER

Dillard's JCPenney Sears Specialty Shops Picnic Place
Daily 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Sunday 12 noon-6 p.m. 539-3500
3RD AND POYNTZ

Entertainment presented by The Shire of Spinning Winds

Landscape of University affects many at K-State

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

The grounds and maintenance department has a budget of $101,950 this year. It also receives $880,000 for salaries.

"We habitually run over budget, usually because of the number of students that we employ," Lane said.

Lane said the students' wages are included in the salary budget.

"The students are very important to us. They do a lot of the handwork," Lane said.

The number of students working in grounds and maintenance varies. Lane said that during the summer, there could be 40 or more, while during the school year, there are usually 12-15. Those who work during the school year don't work as many hours as during the summer. Grounds and maintenance receives no work study.

As colder weather approaches, Lane said the employees don't lack for things to do.

"We are just getting into tree-planting season. We are planting approximately 300 trees this winter," Lane said.

Taussig said several factors are taken into consideration when planting, including climatic benefits, sound control, traffic control, safety and historic aspects.

Snow removal is a major part of the maintenance crew's winter work.

"Winter's certainly not as active, but we're definitely not in a situation where 20 employees are standing around," Lane said.

While maintaining the campus, the grounds and maintenance staff also do some renovation work. Taussig said he plans the landscaping for extensive projects.

"A nice campus is one of the things people like to see. I think that it has contributed to the overall growth of K-State," Lane said.

The plants and trees on campus today still play an important role in horticulture and landscape curriculums, Taussig said.

"We need to have a broad diversity to study plant identification," Taussig said. "The plants are an important laboratory."

LOOK FOR THE
ELECTION PREVIEW,

COMING
TOMORROW
IN THE

COLLEGIAN

GLAFLIN
Books & Copies

- Professional Resumes
- 4¢ Self Service Copies
- Full Service Copy Center
- Quality Dissertation Copying

OPEN DAILY
M-F 8-9 Sat. 9-5 Sun. 12-9
FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin
776-3771

Grain Science Club
Flour Sales
Every Wednesday
Noon-4 p.m.
Shellenberger 220
We will be selling
(while supplies last).

Pregnant? Need help?
For confidential help call

Birthright
Free pregnancy test
537-9180
523 s. 17th st.
1-800-848-LOVE (5683)

1122 MORO Snookies 776-7726

PRESENTS, TONIGHT!

The Men of K-State Calendar.

Chuck Allen	Kelly Kenter	Mike Prothe
Chad Carter	Matt Laurie	David Schneider
Chris Carter	Sean McBride	Marcus West
Blair Hanneman	Brian Plopa	Travis Williams
Makao Jamison		Troy Williams

Coors LOWMAN'S
Private Club • Memberships Available

ITI
IDELMAN
TELEMARKETING
INC.

ITI Marketing Services, Inc.
OUTBOUND SALES REPRESENTATIVES

$5.50
Per Hour
Guaranteed
Plus Bonuses &
Profit Sharing
(upon meeting schedule requirements)

EVENING/WEEKEND HOURS AVAILABLE

- Paid Training
- Paid Vacations and Holidays
- Flexible Schedules
- Free Breakfast on Weekends
- Automated Stations
- Strong Verbal & Listening Skills Required

CALL MONDAY THRU FRIDAY
12 Noon to 6:00 p.m.
776-5000

ITI
IDELMAN
TELEMARKETING
INC.

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect, so help us out. If you find an inaccuracy in the paper, give us a call or drop by the office so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

KAPPA DELTA

Celebrates 95 years of sisterhood, the diamond,
the shield and AOP.

FOUNDER'S DAY

Oct. 21, 1897

NOTICE

The Rainforest Awareness Week educational exhibit scheduled for today has been postponed due to unforeseen circumstances.

Rainforest Coalition regrets the inconvenience.

A Rainforest information table will be available in the Union First Floor Concourse from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

ALL OTHER RAINFOREST ACTIVITIES AWARENESS ACTIVITIES WILL TAKE PLACE AS SCHEDULED.

Eastside & Westside Markets
East Hwy. 24 by Super-8 or West K-18 by Holidome, Manhattan

Besides Pumpkins...
We have a great supply of
Jonathan or Golden Delicious
Apples... $1.59 "Great for Bobbing" Five lb. bag
New Crop Homegrown Ed Irvine's
Yellow Popcorn... $1.49 2 lb. bag
Ed's finest crop ever! HUGE kernels!
Fresh Unpasteurized REAL
Apple Cider... $4.99 gallon
New Mexico Valencia Satted In Shell
Peanuts... $6.99 5 lb. bag
Chocolate Dippers! Ghirardelli is here!

REMINDER! PROTECT YOURSELF

Now is the time
to get your annual
FLU SHOT.

Available at
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
Kansas State University

For Appointment
Call 532-6544

SECOND LATIN AMERICAN LECTURE SERIES

Kansas State University

October - November, 1992

Date: October 19, 1992
Speaker: Mercedes Gonzalez de la Rocha, Full-time Researcher, Center for Social Research (CIESA), Guadalajara, Mexico
Topic: Women and the Changing Labor Market in Mexico: The Impact of Economic Restructuring in Guadalajara.
Place: Little Theater, 4:30 p.m.
Date: October 20, 1992
Topic: Amazonian Indian Myths and Cosmologies: Principles of a Rainforest Ecology. (Co-Sponsored by the Rainforest Coalition)
Speaker: Harold Prinz, Assistant Professor of Anthropology, KSU, Manhattan.
Place: Union 212, 7 p.m.
Date: October 22, 1992
Topic: Indian Survival in Guatemala and the United States: 1492-1992.
Speaker: Elena Irujo (Maya Nation), International Maya League: "Maya Indians in Resistance, Exile, and the Plight for International Solidarity."
Speaker: Daniel Wildcat (Yuchi Tribe), Chair-Person Department of Natural and Social Sciences, Haskell Junior College, Lawrence, KS. "Native America: The Legacy of Cultural Destruction."
Place: Little Theater, 4:30 p.m.
Date: October 26, 1992
Speaker: Felix Masad-Pikoto, Associate Professor of History and Director of the Center for Latino Research, De Paul University, Chicago, IL.
Topic: Dual U.S. Standards for Caribbean Immigration: Open Door/Cuba vs. Interdiction/Haiti. Leisure 13, 4:45 p.m.
Date: November 3, 1992
Speaker: Russell Smith, Associate Professor of Economics, Washburn University, Topeka, KS.
Topic: Redemocratization in Brazil: The New Constitution and Labor.
Place: Union 213, 4:30 p.m.
Date: November 5, 1992
Speaker: Robert Bach, Professor of Sociology, Director of the Institute for Research on Multiculturalism and International Labor, State University of New York, (SUNY) at Bingham, N.Y.
Topic: U.S. - Mexico and the Free Trade Agreement
Place: Big Flight Room, 4:30 p.m.
Date: November 11, 1992
Speaker: Donna Luckey, Professor of Architecture and Associate Director of Latin American Studies, University of Kansas, Lawrence, KS.
Topic: Deforestation in Central America: What is the Next Step?
Place: Little Theater, 4:30 p.m.

Organized by Latin American Studies Program, Co-Sponsored by L.A.S.O., H.A.L.O., American Ethnic Studies, 18 other Academic departments and Off Campus Organizations.

Intramural Deadline

DEADLINE: Thurs. Oct. 22 at 5 p.m.

•Inner tube water polo

Enter at the Rec Services Office
532-6980

Royal
Purple

Varden Studio will visit
the K-State Salina campus
from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
on Thursday, Oct. 29.

Group organizations and faculty photos
will be taken from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Individual photos will be taken from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Make appointments in the Admission's Office or by calling (913) 826-2640.

Nutcracker Auditions

For a holiday season you'll long remember, perform with the Tulsa Ballet Theatre! Thirty-seven children are needed to portray angels, mice, rabbits, clowns, soldiers, and bakers when TBT presents The Nutcracker in McCain Auditorium on Thursday and Friday December 3 and 4 at 7:30 p.m.

Girls 6-12 years old and boys 7-12 years old who have had at least two years of ballet or gymnastics training and who can be available for all rehearsals and performances are encouraged to apply.

Girls should wear tights, leotards, and ballet shoes- not toe shoes- to the audition. Boys should wear tee shirts with tights or shorts. Please come dressed for the audition.

All children should bring an index card with this information on it: Your name (printed), age, clothing size, leotard size, name of parent(s) or guardian(s), address, and phone number. All children should also bring a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Auditions are Saturday, October 24, in McCain: 1:30 to 3 p.m. for children ages 6-9; 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. for children ages 10-12.

For more information, call the McCain Auditorium office at 532-6425, weekdays 9:00 a.m. to noon of 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

M·C·C·A·I·N

Kansas voter registration surges toward record

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

another 10,000 to go, and there are more out in the field from Monday," said Elgia Stevenson, Johnson County election commissioner. "We're a long way from having a final tally."

By comparison, the growing county registered more than 173,000 people in 1990 and more than 155,000 in 1988, she said.

In some parts of the state, it was also easier to register this year than in the past. Wyandotte County, for instance, opened about 20 new sites where people could sign up to vote.

"We had a mobile library truck, and we went to high schools, shopping centers, libraries and banks," said Liz Malloy, Wyandotte County election commissioner.

"When people have more locations near where they work or live, it makes it more convenient," she said.

Malloy predicted registration in the county would top 70,000, up a bit from 1990.

Perhaps the largest percentage increase was recorded by sparsely populated Stanton County in extreme southwestern Kansas, where voter registration rolls jumped more than 15 percent.

Marie Winger, deputy county clerk, said 154 people registered, raising the county total to 1,155.

Election officials say it's too early to determine which party or candidate might benefit from such a surge of new voters.

"It appears there is no great party shift" among registrants who choose to affiliate with a particular party, said Elizabeth Ensley, Shawnee County election commissioner.

New ticketing system more efficient won't be anymore lost tickets," said Lance Lunsway, senior in pre-law and parking control supervisor.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"People won't have the pleasure of coming in and not having to pay their tickets because we lost them," said Dave Amaro, computer programmer for Parking Services.

Lunsway said there are people whose only job is to file tickets. With the new equipment, all the filing will be done on computer and will take only minutes.

There are seven computers, which is more than enough for the four to five students who are ticketing every hour.

Weighing in at 2.6 pounds, the computers must be attached to a recharger while not in use. The 45-button computer is coded for such things as vehicle color, make and model.

Amaro said notification letters to those who get tickets will be delivered faster, and students who run up fines over $100 will be identified sooner.

"The computer can tell if a person has excessive tickets," Lunsway said. "I've seen students who have $1,200 in fines, but that won't happen anymore. Everybody should be caught before they have $100 worth of tickets."

As an added deterrent, vehicles will then be wheel-locked or towed for excessive violations.

Bob Vancleave, junior in accounting, said he learned how to use the computers on his first try.

The computers are supposed to be weather-proof, Lunsway said, which will make ticketing in the rain and snow easier.

A few conditions might cause Parking Services to occasionally revert to hand-written tickets.

One problem is that gloved hands may not be able to push the buttons well.

And if the temperature drops too much, the printer that produces the tickets may freeze up.

Permit theft can be expensive

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

which simplifies the job of finding stolen permits. The computerized ticket books will make the search even easier.

"They will print out tickets," said Lance Lunsway, parking control supervisor and senior in pre-law. "We can also enter the permit number in the machine, and it will tell us if that permit was reported as lost or stolen."

Once Parking Service employees locate the permits, a picture is taken as evidence, and the campus police are notified. The police will either wheellock or tow the vehicle, Lunsway said.

The fee for replacing a missing permit is $5. The fee for displaying a stolen permit is $50. No further action is taken against the thief unless property is damaged.

"The wheellock on the vehicle is to make sure we retrieve the stolen property," said parking fees assistant Dwain Archer.

Gay students call for acceptance; task force at work acceptance has to do with the fact that K-State is a rural university, whereas KU has many students from big cities. Therefore, they're more educated about and accepting of gays."

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

But BaGaLs adviser Kent Donovan, associate professor of history, said, "I feel many gay men and women who complain about the trials and tribulations of non-acceptance have themselves as their biggest enemy."

Donovan said he thinks harassment and non-acceptance decreases as people get older.

"There's a big emphasis among college-age people about unity and conformity which makes it difficult for gays and bisexuals, so these students face hostility, because they don't fit the mold," Donovan said.

"People become more accepting as they get older, because they mature and become sophisticated," he said.

A task force is studying concerns of gays, lesbians and bisexuals on campus.

"The task force is designed to assess the climate on campus for gay, lesbian and bisexual populations and, based on results, make recommendations to the provost," said Frank Saal, task force co-chairman and head of the Department of Psychology.

Surveys have been distributed to gays, lesbians and bisexuals on campus to survey heterosexual, homosexual and bisexual attitudes.

"I think President Wefald and Provost Coffman have been terrific on this issue through the task force and helping to bring the AIDS Quilt to campus," Donovan said.

"This says so much about the University atmosphere here. It's positive."

But others say it's not so great.

"I couldn't believe what people did to the chalk drawings on campus," Kay said.

Dan said people need to begin to recognize alternatives and become more accepting of them. He said he believes there is hope for change and that acceptance of all will improve with time.

"We want a balance of equity and harmony," Dan said. "There are people on this campus in prominent positions who will sing all the right verses to the diversity song, but who don't value diverse persons."

Gay and bisexual students want to be treated like anyone else, John said.

"We're real, live human beings. We're no different than anyone else — we go to school and work," John said.

"We're not forcing our sexuality on anyone else. We were born this way — it's not a choice."

"The only way to make people more aware and not afraid of homosexuality is by interacting with them," Kay said.

"This is the only way to make progress. Gay rights alone won't do it."

ESSENTIALS

The laundry lunatic is losing it over loose lint

DEAR CASSANDRA,

There is a dog that has taken as his home the drive leading to West Hall.

The campus police have (supposedly) tried to catch the poor pooch. This rather slim black dog has been there for at least four days now.

I just started bringing food to him/her. And at the rate the campus police are working, the dog is going to be a popsicle before he's caught.

I'm hoping this letter will encourage the campus cops to try harder.

P.S.: Leave all food by the hydrant.

C.K., K-State freshman

DEAR C.K.,

I urge you to take the initiative and call the local animal shelter (539-4513) immediately. Don't wait on the campus police to solve this problem. The shelter will send an officer to capture the animal and place it in the shelter until it is claimed by its owner.

You can show your love and concern for this animal by allowing the animal shelter to remove it from a situation where it must roam and search for food, thus increasing its chances of being hit by a car.

Please call NOW.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

HELP! Every time I do a dark wash, my clothes end up covered in lint. Any suggestions on how to get rid of this lint and keep it away?

Lint Laundry Lunatic, K-State freshman

DEAR L.L.L.,

I am sure you have on occasion watched the rubbing action induced by the back-and-forth motion of the spindle in a washing machine.

Clothes that have "nap," or a fuzzy surface, to the fabric seem to have more of a tendency to form lint balls, particularly under the conditions generated in a typical washer, because this loose material is rubbed free.

There are three things I do to prevent this: (1) wash "nappy" clothes separately and on a gentle cycle, (2) wash all dark clothes separately from white or light colored clothes, and (3) wash "nappy" clothes turned inside out.

Take a look next time at the clothes you are having trouble with, and you will notice the nap is on one side, while the other side (or inside) is without nap.

By washing "nappy" clothes inside out, you prevent the rubbing action of the washer from forming lint balls. The result — no more loose lint to drive you loony.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1 Fast-forward through the commercials

4 Charlie Brown's "nemesis"

8 Nina or Pinta

12 Bobby of hockey fame

13 EPA concern: abbr.

14 Sharp, unexpected increase

15 Society-page word

16 Bird-cage liner

18 Director Elia

20 Succor

21 Dagwood's neighbor

24 Umlaut turned 90 degrees

28 They have the Wright idea

32 Use a towel

33 Sermon subject

34 Strigine

commentary

36 Bando or Maglie

37 Tittle

39 It's often passable

41 Dentist's advice

43 Hawaiian island

44 Harper Valley org.

46 Reagan costar

50 Fill full of holes

55 Seine stuff

56 Bogosian or Stoltz

57 Pedestal occupant

58 Office-holders

59 Barber-shop call

60 Knight's Mrs.

61 Caustic solution

DOWN

1 Loser for Monty Hall

2 Geometer's find

3 Commander in chief, in slang

4 Author Grahame

5 Rocks

6 AAA job

7 "Born Free" subject

8 Apparition

9 "With it"

10 Mamie's man

11 Apiece

17 Snapshot

Solution time: 28 mins.

GODS FAST GAS
NOAH ALEE LIT
UMBRELLAS ADA
UGLY TODAY
CHANG MINI
HECK STONEAGE
ORR SLANG TAV
WOODWORK BORE
BAIT DARYL
FRANZ KOOK
LOT ZEITGEIST
LOI LONI ROUE
TEC ENDS YUMA

Yesterday's answer 10-21

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873/199¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

10-21

NW X Q F E R T F Y T D P X X J X D

N T Z Z X Q G G E J D S Z E Q

W S Z Y C Z S Q X Z Z N T Z

E Q G W X D E R P Z

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: SANTA CLAUS'S LIVELY CANDY FACTORY AND STORE FEATURE ELF SERVICE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: D equals R

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

- 1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word
- 2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word
- 3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word
- 4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word
- 5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE

532-6555

FAX

532-7309

OR WRITE

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS

K-State Collegian

Kedzie Hall 103

Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS

MONDAY-FRIDAY

8 a.m.-5 p.m.

(Except holidays)

010 Announcements

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103, Students; $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

FREE CHAKRA Meditation Workshop for balancing stress management and dealing with life's challenges. Wed., Oct. 28, 7-9p.m. For registration or information, call evenings, 537-8946 or 776-9284.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITY for non-transfer or minority undergraduates who are science or health profession majors. Pick up an application in Acker 234. Deadline for consideration is Nov. 5, 1992.

WARM UP before Manhattan High Football game. Boy Scout Troop number 79 Chili Feed, Pottery Hall, Cicco Park.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND, White mountain bike between Delaware and Sunset call 587-0153 to ID and claim.

FOUND: Two sets of keys, a watch, a pair of men's glasses. A lapel pin and "The Norton Anthology of English Literature" book found in or around Denison Hall. Claim at Denison room 106.

LOST: ORANGE long coat. It's a Ralph Lauren with car keys in the right pocket. Lost Thurs. night in Aggieville at Longhorns, Kites, Chance, or Silverados. REWARD if found. No questions asked!! Call 539-6809.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

ALPHA CHI Amy M.- Tonight is the night you and I will be united. I'm so excited I have you in my family and as my Dot! AX Love, Mom.

ALPHA CHI Dot- Regina G. Tonight is the big night when you find out who I am. I am excited that you are my dot. Let's go out and celebrate. Love Mom.

ALPHA CHI Heather B: I'm so glad we're finally going to be mom and dot. AX Love, Your Pledgemom!

ALPHA CHI Inga, The waiting is over, tonight you'll see, Mom and dot forever we will be Love, Mom.

ALPHA CHI'S Ann Michele and Stacey- We picked you from the start. We're so happy to be your mommies! Love???

ALPHA CHI'S Amy Z. and Ashley M.- YOUR mommies are so excited to welcome you to the family! AX love- Your mommies.

AMANDA S. Its been the greatest eight months and I hope there are many more. I love you always. Your GB.

AX- LAURA W. Tonight is very special. Even though we've known all along I'm happy it'll be official. AX love, Mom.

AX AMY S. - I am your mom and you are my dot. Tonight is the night we will party a lot. So you better get ready to have lots of fun, because your Alpha Chi family thinks your #1. AX Love, Mom.

AX BABY Kara- I am so excited to have you as my dot. The long awaited day is up. Love mom.

AX CAMILLE, I am so excited to get you as my dot. We will have lots of fun! Love, your Mommy.

AX CECILY, Tonight you will see who's baby you will be. You'll be the perfect dot. Your new family loves you a lot. Love Mommy.

AX ERIN a family we'll be sharin'. Get ready for a wild night 'cause we're hittin' the bars and drinkin' everything in sight. AX love mom.

AX ERIN, north, south, east, WEST. You're joining the family is the BEST. C-ya tonight - We're drinkin' everything in sight! AX Love, Grandma.

AX FREY- We're going out tonight, it will be lots of fun, because I'm your new mom and I think you're #1. AX Love, Mom.

AX GINA- I'm so happy that you are my dot. We will have so much fun. Love your mom.

AX JEN T.- The night is here to party a lot, because we are finally mom and dot. See you tonight. Love, Mommy.

AX JEN U.- Tonight's the big night. I'll try to have you home early. Love Mommy.

AX JENNIFER L.- We've waited so long tonight you'll find that I wanted you to be all mine. Love Your Mommy.

AX MARY- Soon you will find out who your mom is- we will have great friendship. Love Mom.

AX PAULETTE- Happy I am that you are my dot. Tonight we'll go out and party a lot! Love, Mom.

AX SHELLEY R.- I can't wait till you are finally a part of our family! Get ready to have some fun tonight! Love mom.

AX'S ASHLEY A. and April, We're excited that you're our dots. We promise to love you lots! AX Love Your Mommies.

AX'S CARRIE and Shelley H.- Don't worry, don't pout cause you'll soon find out. Tonight you will "C" who your pledge mom's will be. AX love, Your Mommies.

AX'S TRACY T. and Marianne- The wait is over, the time is near, your pledge moms are waiting so don't you fear. Can't wait until tonight! Love, your Mommies.

AXS LISA and Stephanie- Tonight our family's expanding by two and I want you to know Mommy loves you!

AXS STEPHANIE and Lisa- G-ma loves you, this is true, G-ma loves the both of you. AX Love- G-ma.

DELTA CHI- Congratulations to Brent J.- Delta Chi Fraternity's Brother of the Week.

HAPPY 21ST Birthday Steph. Leeroy, Brian, and roommate say let Redman take you out Thursday, the day of days, night of nights, or at least a couple of hours. A time to forget Lawrence and remember the man in Manhattan.

HEATHER AND Elizabeth at MCC- Thanks for your great friendship. You are the best! Love- Nicki.

MICHELLE C.- I think you are great and your new mom loves you very much. AX love, your mom.

PHI DELTA Theta 1213-Room 612, oh how sweet. Hot tubs, champagne, and Yucatan stand couldn't be beat. We laughed danced and had a ball. And in your eyes I did fall. Could this be fate? Some say it's true. All I know is that I had a blast thanks to you. Tri-Delt 1843.

PHI KAP Jon: Congratulations on your initiation with Price Waterhouse! I knew you could do it! I'll miss you and I love you, Heather.

RACHEL- THOUGH our singing may have been off key, I hope the message was clear: Friendship is the first step. John.

SHANE- WHAT do surprises, kisses, animals and golf have in common? Visit Lacey at one. Lots of happy.

TO MY awesome dot Melae, I am so excited to have you join my family. Tonight you will get to meet the rest of your family and you will have a blast! I am so excited for you. AX love and all mine, your mom.

050 Parties- n-More

DON'T THINK "It Could Have Been Me" at the Collegiate FFA dance at Silverado's on Oct. 22. Go, because "No One Else on Earth" will be willing to miss the dance from 9p.m.-1:30a.m. $3 single and $5 for couple.

HOT- TUB rentals for all occasions: Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/ delivery, special weekday/ multiday rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

FOUND, White mountain bike between Delaware and Sunset call 587-0153 to ID and claim.

FOUND: Two sets of keys, a watch, a pair of men's glasses. A lapel pin and "The Norton Anthology of English Literature" book found in or around Denison Hall. Claim at Denison room 106.

LOST: ORANGE long coat. It's a Ralph Lauren with car keys in the right pocket. Lost Thurs. night in Aggieville at Longhorns, Kites, Chance, or Silverados. REWARD if found. No questions asked!! Call 539-6809.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY! Sublease one-bedroom $305. Now through July 31. Campus shuttle. Pool/ hot tub. 537-3683 after 5p.m. or message.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/ dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

SPACIOUS ONE- two-bedroom. Beautiful hardwood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan.-Aug. 539-2019.

120 For Rent-Houses

AVAILABLE NOW four-bedroom. Located 1715 Poyntz. Two bath, fireplace, washer/ dryer, yard. $620 plus utilities, lease plus deposit 539-3672.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6p.m.

135 For Sale-Mobile Homes

10X65 MOBILE Home. Good condition, $3750, 456-9743.

140 For Rent-Garage

ONE CAR garage. Walk to class 539-1554.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coined laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Own room/ bath. Washer/ dryer. Nice large house. Available Nov. 1. 537-3304.

FEMALE To share nice farm house. Alta Vista area. Small dog okay. $275, one-half utilities. Ann 532-7256 (days) 499-5352 (nights).

FEMALE, OWN bedroom. $175 plus utilities. In Wamego. Call 456-2372 leave message.

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

150 Sublease

KATAHDIN SEKS Bass Player. Influences include Zep, Sabbath,

Bobby T's Bar & Deli Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers. Open 7 days a week Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon. Candlewood Shopping Center

FEMALE, NON-SMOKER, to sublease apartment, own room, furnished, $185 plus one-third utilities, one block east of campus. Marlo and Rebecca 776-3659.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease- runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville. Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

245 Pet Services

DALMATIAN PUPPY/ Female AKC registered- supplies included. 776-5328 leave message.

SAVANAH MONITOR low maintenance pet supplies included 776-5328 leave message.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

300 EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

225 Pregnancy Testing

Pregnancy Testing Center 539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

RILEY COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT 2030 Tecumseh 776-4779

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS
FREE COUNSELING
ALL OPTIONS DISCUSSED
Early Detection is Important
CONFIDENTIAL
(Ad by Friends of Women)

240 Musicians/DJs

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL Transcriptionist needed for pathology laboratory, part-time evening hours. Please send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room-Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

Student Office Help- Need mature, respon-

$2.99 8-oz. Rib Eye From 5 to 8 p.m. every Tuesday and Wednesday.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli Ladies Nite 1/2 price Foo Foes

Bobby T's Bar & Deli Ladies Nite 1/2 price Foo Foes

AC/DC, Metallica, etc. Call 537-3294 (leave message) or 776-7110 (ask for Rob).

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2968.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

245 Pet Services

DALMATIAN PUPPY/ Female AKC registered- supplies included. 776-5328 leave message.

SAVANAH MONITOR low maintenance pet supplies included 776-5328 leave message.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

300 EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

225 Pregnancy Testing

Pregnancy Testing Center 539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

RILEY COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT 2030 Tecumseh 776-4779

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS
FREE COUNSELING
ALL OPTIONS DISCUSSED
Early Detection is Important
CONFIDENTIAL
(Ad by Friends of Women)

240 Musicians/DJs

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL Transcriptionist needed for pathology laboratory, part-time evening hours. Please send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room-Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

Student Office Help- Need mature, respon-

$2.99 8-oz. Rib Eye From 5 to 8 p.m. every Tuesday and Wednesday.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli Ladies Nite 1/2 price Foo Foes

Bobby T's Bar & Deli Ladies Nite 1/2 price Foo Foes

410 Items for Sale

BASKET WEAVING supplies: reed, handles, tools, patterns. Going out of business. Nancy 537-2551.

CAMARO BURLINETTA Wheels, gold aluminum wheels with caps $300 or best offer, call Brian at 776-3656.

GMAT REVIEW Official Software 90-92 Edition (includes Official Guide book). Paid $50, asking $45. Ask for Ruth, 532-5854.

PERSONALIZED CALENDARS. Make great Christmas Gifts! We use your photos. 776-0685.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

320 Volunteers Needed

EATING DISORDERS; subjects wanted for important study on Bulimia, and therapy. 45 minute questionnaire sent to you. Confidential and anonymous. Call 776-7808.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home.

Rainforests diverse, vital

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3
that has been passed down in mythology. The myths contain vitally important information about the way nature is organized.

"The natives are still very in touch with the land and its uses," Prins said. "Unless they are taught differently, they stay that way."

He said they believe energy is cycled through the ecosystem, transferred from the earth to the people, animals and plants.

They believe any time energy is wasted by killing something that isn't used, or with any other form of waste, the people are punished by illness and misfortune.

These beliefs and practices are monitored by a shaman, who acts as an "ecological broker," Prins said. He said the shaman uses hallucinogenic drugs to go into a dream state that tells him who committed a wrong and what to do about it.

Prins said over the years, missionaries have come to the rainforests and tried to alter the beliefs of the people, which has broken down their inherent forms of environmental control.

He said in contrast to people of our culture, any trash or waste created by a person there is natural and can easily be eliminated. Some is eaten by livestock, and the rest breaks down naturally and quickly.

Prins said the Amazon rainforest is ecologically diverse. It spans

2,700,000 square miles and contains more than 50,000 plant species and several hundred animal species. Among the plant species could be a cure for cancer or AIDS, he said.

Wednesday Night
Steak Night
14 oz. Ribeye,
Potato & Vegetable
$4.89

On top of the world

Kristina Owen, junior in geography, catches up on homework Tuesday afternoon near the large letters that spell "Manhattan" on Bluemont Hill northeast of campus. Owen said she usually goes there once or twice a week, depending on the weather.

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Drunken driving tests demonstrated by trooper

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1
his driver's license," Rose said.

"It's not one thing that makes me suspect someone has been drinking. There's a whole picture that is being painted."

Bill Arck, director of alcohol and other drug education services at Lafene Health Center, said the number of alcohol-related fatalities in Kansas decreased from 228 in 1986 to 105 last year.

Arck also said 997 K-State students had been arrested for DUI and had spent about $1 million dollars in related court costs.

Removing drunken drivers from the road is one of the highway patrol's top priorities, Rose said.

"Reducing the number of drunks on the road is one of the best ways we can reduce the number of accidents and fatalities," Rose said.

Both Rose and Arck stressed Manhattan is a prime area for catching drunken drivers because of the number of bars here.

They also added that many employers look at a DUI arrest as a sign that an applicant may not be dependable or have other problems.

TRIANGLE FRATERNITY
Engineers, Architects
& Scientists

Information Table in Union
Wednesday & Thursday
539-7439

UPC
'TIL THE COWS
COME HOME

SURVIVAL GAME

Saturday, Oct. 24

$12

Be a part of the ever-popular Survival Game Adventure. Experience the thrill of devising team strategy in an effort to capture the opposition's flag using paint pellet guns. Teams of 8-10 members will compete in a double elimination tournament. Cost includes gun and pellet rental, refreshments and prizes for the winning team.

SIGN UP NOW IN THE UPC OFFICE, 8AM-5PM MONDAY-FRIDAY.

K.C. CHIEFS
vs.
PITTSBURGH

Sunday, Oct. 25 $35

Don't miss this opportunity to see the Kansas City Chiefs take on the Pittsburgh Steelers. Trip leaves Manhattan at 2:30 p.m. and includes round-trip transportation and reserved tickets.

HIKE THE WICHITA MOUNTAINS

Nov. 7-8

Hike the beautiful Wichita Mountain National Park in Oklahoma. Wildlife is abundant, providing sights such as buffalo and longhorn cattle roaming wild. Meals on the trail and cooking equipment will be included in the price.

INFO MEETING: Thursday, Oct. 22, Union Rm. 206, 7 p.m.

SIGN UP BEGINS: Friday, Oct. 23 in UPC Office

INFORMATION and SIGN-UP available at the UPC Office, 3rd floor of K-State Union or call 532-6571.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE

ELECTION PREVIEW

Find out who is running for the city, county, state, and national offices and what they propose to do when they get there.

PAGE 3B

THURSDAY

HIGH 78 LOW 61
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 22, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 43

CAMPAIGN '92

Local voter registration highest ever

Riley County now has 22,696 registered voters. About 1,000 K-State students have registered in the past week.

JENNIFER BEALS

Collegian

Voter registration is at an all-time high in Riley County and at K-State.

As of Wednesday morning, 22,696 voters were registered in Riley County.

County clerk Ilene Colbert said in the last presidential election, 21,753 registered voters cast their ballots, while in 1984, the highest percentage of voters, 83 percent, elected Ronald Reagan president.

Colbert said one reason for the surge is the popularity of independent Ross Perot and frustration with the federal government.

"I think it must be Perot," she said. "I think a lot of people are dissatisfied and want a change. But the increase is not only here, but all across the state."

She also said the increase could also be from a large number of K-State students registering.

"It would probably account for the increase," she said. "But it's awfully easy to forget the numbers from the last election. But I believe there is more this year."

However, she said Wednesday's figure did not count the number of other registrations or cancellations.

"I have one envelope with 55 cancellations," Colbert said. "But I also have a lot of registrations. I'm hoping to have at least 23,500 registered voters, if not more."

Student Body President Jackie McClaskey said

■ See LOCAL Page 6A

STUDENT SENATE

Debate to resume on resolution

Provost's group has asked for views on proposed cuts

AMY WRIGHT

Collegian

Student Senate will continue to debate a resolution to send a recommendation to the Provost's Committee about proposed cutbacks tonight.

The Provost's Committee has asked Student Government Association to make a statement expressing its views to the Kansas Board of Regents on K-State cutback recommendations.

The committee is reviewing proposed cutbacks in developing the new Role and Aspirations statement requested by the board from all six regent institutions.

"Role and Aspirations is to determine what our priorities are considering our financial situation, and not necessarily to determine what the best programs in the state are," Engineering Sen. Michelle Munson said at the Oct. 15 Senate meeting.

Student Body President Jackie McClaskey said, "Our job is to self-analyze, self-evaluate and self-prioritize. We are going from the bottom up so we can do self-evaluation ourselves, rather than someone from Topeka telling us what programs to cut."

In other business, Senate will ■ See SENATE Page 6A

J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian

A member of a group of Thai teachers and government employees takes a quick snapshot north of Farrell Library Wednesday afternoon. The group came to observe the U.S. educational system as Thailand restructures its own.

Thai educators observe U.S. system at KSU

Asian country to have larger budget for schools

ROY GRABER

Collegian

Representatives of Thailand came to K-State Wednesday to learn about educational systems in the United States.

Charles Rankin, dean of the College of Education, and Gerald Bailey, professor of educational administration, helped organize the visit.

Rankin said the visit was part of a cooperative agreement between K-State and Ramkhamhaeng University in Bangkok.

The visitors, Rankin said, were both Ramkhamhaeng faculty members and government employees.

Rankin said some of the goals of the agreement include an exchange of scholars, joint research and professional development activities.

"I, as a dean, came to Kansas a year ago to set up this collaboration," said Charin Thaneerat, dean of education at Ramkhamhaeng.

"Many are involved. The first group went through a training program in Bangkok, with KSU sending a teacher. This is the second phase, to bring them here to learn."

Rankin said, "Thailand is trying to adopt our school systems, and these people came to learn how they operate."

"This is highly a fact-finding mission. They want to see how we train teachers."

Thaneerat said governmental changes have been made in Thailand within the past year that put more emphasis on education.

"Before, most of the money went to defense," Thaneerat said. "This year, the budget for education should go up to No. 1."

Thaneerat said a recent change was in the open admissions policy.

"Before, we had what we call a traditional university," Thaneerat said. "The elite could go. People from a rich family had the chance to study at a good university."

"The poor had very few opportunities within the past year. Now we have the new open university."

Rankin said he has visited Thailand twice. Last June, he went to learn about the country's educational customs.

"One thing that is real notable is that K-State has about 21,000 students, compared to their

J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian

Stacy Shields, junior in journalism and tour guide for New Student Services, describes the K-State campus as the visitors look around.

650,000," Rankin said.

"The primary difference is motivation. In Thailand, you have to go to college if you want to succeed. Getting an education is necessary to get a job. You're destined for poverty if you don't."

Thaneerat said he is a graduate of the University of Hawaii and had previously been to the continental United States five or six times.

Thaneerat said K-State is very reputable.

"I agree that KSU is strong in agriculture. So many important people graduate from here," Thaneerat said. "Many strong people graduate in psychology and in administration of education, too."

The Thai visitors spent Tuesday in San Francisco. They will tour Manhattan High School, Manhattan Area Technical Center and Amanda Arnold Elementary School Thursday.

Friday they will visit the Kansas City area and wrap up their trip Saturday in Los Angeles.

MULTICULTURAL AFFAIRS

Native American issues addressed

European attitude worse than Columbus

JODY LYNN

Collegian

Christopher Columbus cannot be blamed for causing catastrophic changes in the lives of Native Americans, an authority on Native American history said Wednesday.

What was more likely the cause of the upheaval of native society was a lack of receptiveness toward the new cultures encountered by the Europeans, said Dan Wildcat, a Haskell Indian Junior College department head.

Wildcat is chairman of natural and social sciences at the college and a member of the Yuchi Indian tribe.

He spoke at a meeting of the Northern Flint Hills Audubon Society at Ackert Hall on how the European discovery of the Americas brought about environmental changes for its native populations.

"You just can't blame Columbus for the changes in the native societies of

MARGARET CLARKIN/Collegian

Dan Wildcat of Haskell Indian Junior College in Lawrence describes the Medicine Wheel during a speech about Columbus Wednesday night.

the Americas. It was the attitude he had when he came here. The consequences wouldn't have been any different had it been any other man," Wildcat said.

When this clash of cultures took place, the indigenous cultures had no chance to remain intact and are still fighting to survive.

"Native peoples are still struggling against political domination, economic exploitation, cultural destruction and biological devastation," he said.

■ See EUROPEAN Page 6A

Wildcat, Ixcot to speak today

JULIE WHITE

Collegian

Two speakers will lecture about the struggles of Native Americans and the Mayan Indians at 3:30 today in the Union Little Theatre.

Dan Wildcat will speak about "Native America: The Legacy of Cultural Destruction," and Elena Ixcot will lecture about "Maya Indians in Resistance, Exile and the Plight for International Solidarity."

Wildcat said he will address the continuing struggle for respect Native Americans have faced during the past 500 years.

Ixcot is a 17th-generation Mayan. She presents lectures around the nation about the struggles of the Mayan people, their religion and culture.

The lecture is part of the Second Latin American Lecture Series and Hispanic Awareness Month.

NEWS DIGEST

► EXECUTION MAKES MOST SINCE 1962

POTOSI, Mo. (AP) — A convicted murderer was put to death Wednesday night in the nation's 26th execution this year, the most since 1962.

Ricky Lee Grubbs, 33, was executed by injection several hours after the U.S. Supreme Court lifted a reprieve.

He was pronounced dead at 9:35 p.m., said John Morris, spokesman for the state attorney general's office.

► GUAM TYPHOON DAMAGE LIMITED

AGANA, Guam (AP) — Typhoon Brian roared across the central Pacific island of Guam, knocking out power and water but sparing residents the damage caused by Typhoon Omar two months ago.

Brian quickly blew over the less populated southern tip of the island Wednesday afternoon (Tuesday night CDT) with sustained winds of 90 mph and gusts of 110 mph, said the military's Joint Typhoon Warning Center.

No deaths or injuries were reported, and damage was mostly confined to power lines, Civil Defense officials said.

PEOPLE

Geography graduate student wins scholarship

Wilson 1 of 2 Buzzard award receivers in nation, 2nd in 2 years at KSU

"Even though the award doesn't carry a large monetary value, it's very prestigious, because only one is given to a graduate student."

DUANE NELLIS

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

Blake Wilson, graduate student in geography, has been awarded the 1992 Buzzard Scholarship.

The $500 scholarship is sponsored by Gamma Theta Upsilon, a geography honorary society. Two scholarships are awarded annually to one undergraduate and one graduate student who are members of the honorary.

Every Gamma Theta Upsilon chapter in the nation nominates students for the award.

This is the second year in a row a K-State student has won one of the two awards. Last year, Malcolm Ponte, graduate student in geography, won an award.

"I think it's really neat that our program has had two of the past four winners," Wilson said.

Duane Nellis, head of the Department of Geography, said K-State has received more Buzzard Scholarships than any university in the nation.

K-State has had 12 winners since 1970.

"Even though the award doesn't carry a large monetary value, it's very prestigious, because only one is given to a graduate student," Nellis said.

The scholarship is based on academics, involvement in Gamma Theta Upsilon and an application submitted by the nominee. Two professors in the geography department must also submit letters of recommendation.

Wilson is vice president of Gamma Theta Upsilon. Some of the honorary's activities include sponsoring guest speakers in geography and coordinating a spring and fall banquet.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21

At 9:25 a.m., Zhi Lu, T-7 Jardine Terrace, reported the theft of two bikes from the residence. Loss was $90.

At 9:33 a.m., the Department of Clothing, Textiles and Interior Design in Justin Hall reported the theft of a phone. Loss was $50.

At 11 a.m., a parking officer reported a vehicle parked in Lot D-2, owned by Philip Knutson, Goodnow 422, was broken into and appeared to have the stereo stolen. Loss was $2,630.

At 3:46 p.m., Stephanie Wright, Ford 702, reported the theft of four hubcaps from a vehicle parked in Lot B-3. Loss was $500.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 21

At 2:28 a.m., James W. McAfee, Route 3, Box 272, St. George, was arrested for DUI and released on $1,000 bond.

At 6:54 a.m., a major-damage, non-injury accident occurred at Winne and Kenmar drives when Jeffrey L. Lange, 1777 Cassell Road, drove into a fire hydrant owned by the city of Manhattan.

At 7:29 a.m., Darryl E. Bell, 1123 Stockell, Nashville, Tenn., was arrested at 9650 Anderson Ave. for possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell and no drug tax stamp. Bell was confined in lieu of $7,500 bail.

At 7:59 a.m., a 2-year-old and an infant were reported left unattended in a vehicle in Food-4-Less parking lot, 3011 Anderson Ave.

At 12:07 p.m., Stacy Wright, 928 Leavenworth St., No. 3, reported the theft of a 21-speed mountain bike.

Loss was $450.

At 2:50 p.m., Jeff Hadel, 907 Vattier St., No. 2, reported damage to the windshield of a 1988 Honda. Loss was $400.

At 4:04 p.m., a theft of personal checkbooks, a compact disc, a cassette tape and miscellaneous IDs belonging to Rachelle G. Tinter, HHC First ID, Fort Riley, and Karen A. Workman, 1920 Beck St., was reported at 510 Moro St. Loss was $56.

At 4:59 p.m., Timothy Bowles, 1206 Vattier St., No. 1, reported a theft of one black ink pen from a vehicle. Loss was $1.

At 5:07 p.m., the theft of a 12-volt battery belonging to Mark J. S. 214 S. Sixth St., was reported. Loss was $80.

At 5:41 p.m., Jim McAfee, Route 3, Box 272, St. George, reported damage to the fender of a 1991 Eagle Summit. Loss was $800.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy. High 75 to 80. South wind 10 to 20 mph. Tonight, mostly cloudy. Low around 60.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy. High in the mid-70s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Saturday through Monday, warm and dry. Lows in mid-40s to the mid-50s. Highs in 70s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

■ Juniors and seniors interested in applying for the Truman Scholarship awards should obtain information immediately in Eisenhower 113. The scholarship awards $30,000 to selected students from any majors who are preparing for public service careers, particularly in government.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22

■ Dennis Law, professor of landscape architecture, will speak about "Rainforests: Renewed Threats to the Remaining Remnant" at 7 p.m. in Union 212. This event is part of Rainforest Awareness Week.

■ Native American Student Body will meet at 3:30 p.m. in Union 204.

■ SAVE will meet at 7 p.m. in the UFM building.

■ BSU Salt Company will meet at 7 p.m. in the campus Baptist Center.

■ Table Tennis Club will meet from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. in the ECM building, 1021 Denison.

■ Sigma Delta Pi will meet at 7 p.m. in Eisenhower 016. Free Spanish tutoring.

■ Alpha Kappa Psi will have a pledge meeting at 6 p.m. in Union staterooms 1 and 2.

■ Intramural entry deadline for inner-tube water polo will be at 5 p.m. in the Recreational Services Office in the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

■ Christian Science Organization will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel. All are welcome.

■ Campus Crusade for Christ will meet at 7 p.m. in Justin 109.

■ Finance Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Calvin 218.

■ ASIA will meet at 6 p.m. in the ECM building. Bring hat money.

■ ROTARACT will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 204.

■ Talking Hands will meet at 8 p.m. in Union Station.

■ Pre-Vet Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Trotter 201. The topic will be project release.

■ Wildlife Society will meet at 7 p.m. in Ackert 120.

■ AlaNon will meet from 12:05 to 1 p.m. in Lafene 231.

■ Career Planning and Placement will sponsor a workshop on job-search strategies from 7 to 8 p.m. in the Union council chamber.

■ Career Planning and Placement will have an informational meeting on the Japan Exchange and Teaching program from 2 to 3 p.m. in Union 213.

■ ICHUS will meet at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

■ Rock Climbing Club will meet at 5:30 p.m. at West Stadium.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

RAINFOREST AWARENESS WEEK

"Rainforests: Renewed Threats to the Remaining Remnant"

Dennis Law
KSU Professor of Landscape Architecture

7 p.m. • Union 212

Sponsored by Rainforest Coalition

EYEGASSES ARE NOT FAST FOOD

The combination of algebra, physics, and sheer talent required to fill an eyeglass prescription should be reason enough not to want your RX slammed in about an hour. Since 1913, Benson Optical has been the leader in quality optics in America. Our nearly 200 offices are located in such places as the Mayo Clinic, Johns Hopkins, and other prestigious medical centers across the country. Manhattan Medical Ctr. houses the only Benson Optical in the state of Kansas. Your lenses are ground by the same people that the nations leading medical professionals have trusted for years. Nothing is more precious than your pair of eyes. When it comes to quality eyewear, nobody does it better than Benson Optical.

Benson
OPTICAL
When You Depend On Your Glasses.

2439 Claflin Rd.

539-8801

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special
3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.50

Everyday Two-Fers
2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Topping
2 - Cokes
$8.50

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

When it just can't get any worse

AND YOU THINK NO ONE CARES

Experience the Incredible
Receive the Baptism of the Holy Ghost

When Jesus Christ is born in your heart and life,
It is an amazing, wonderful, glorious,
dynamic experience.
It will be your moment of
ULTIMATE DELIVERANCE...
Experience HIM today!
WE CARE

USA and Puerto Rico
call toll free
1-800-835-6011

the Spirit of Thomas Merton

Sponsored by:
United Pentecostal Church
700 Vattier
(913) 776-8717

And Apostolic Campus Ministries

the DARK HORSE K-State vs. CU

Come to Boulder's
Football Party
Headquarters
10 TVs and a big screen

OPEN FRIDAY AT 11 a.m.
SATURDAY AT 10:30 a.m.
GREAT FOOD, DRINK, LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

Free Parking right behind
McDonald's

McDonald's

Baseline Rd. at the Boulder-Denver Turnpike

2922 BASELINE ROAD, BOULDER, CO 80303-442-8162

1ST QUALITY SELECTION!

Ladies Custom Fit Jeans

Roper
LADIES JEANS

Look your best and feel your best. Slip into comfortable 100% Cotton fashion jeans. Slim and flattering fit to emphasize the best of a woman's figure. Try on a pair and see what we mean. 1st Quality. Made in USA.

$29⁹⁹
Special Group
54-312-855

Large size and style selections!

PRICES REDUCED EVERYDAY!

Ladies Fashion Ropers

For western or urban. Classic styling with superior comfort and fit. Genuine leather foot with matching color shaft. Comfortable semi-round toe and low walking heel. 1st Quality. Made in USA.

$49⁹⁹

acme

Lacer Ropers - $69.99

OPEN EVENINGS AND WEEKENDS!

VANDERBILT'S
510 Lincoln - Wamego - Hwy. 99 - 456-9100

9-8
Mon-Sat
12-5
Sunday

STATE

Dunn's attorney: papers are misleading

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — The attorney for Lisa Dunn said Wednesday extradition papers seeking her return to Arkansas to stand trial for capital murder contain misleading information.

Ben Wood, who represents the former Michigan native, also accused the Kansas attorney general's office of assisting Arkansas prosecutors in their effort to try Dunn, calling it a "team effort."

"Those documents are not in order and have false information," Wood said.

He said he would file a writ of habeas corpus in Shawnee County District Court this week, seeking her release, as part of his effort to fight extradition.

Kansas Gov. Joan Finney signed the Arkansas extradition papers Wednesday after the office of Attorney General Bob Stephan said they were in order.

"The governor apparently has been given that advice by the attorney general's office, but that is bad advice," Wood said.

Dunn was acquitted by a Shawnee County District Court jury Sept. 2 after her second trial on charges that included murder and kidnapping.

Those charges stemmed from a multistate crime spree that left four people dead in northwest Kansas in February 1985.

Dunn contended during her retrial that Daniel Remeta, who was convicted of the Kansas and Arkansas slayings, forced her to accompany him on the murderous cross-country rampage.

Remeta is now on death row in Starke, Fla.

Arkansas authorities want Dunn to stand trial for the Feb. 11, 1985, slaying of convenience-store clerk Linda Marvin, 42, in Mulberry, Ark.

Dunn is being held in Shawnee County jail without bond because she is charged with a capital crime in Arkansas.

County office candidates discuss views

Raborn, Colbert
see different ways to improve registration

ROY GRABER
Collegian

Candidates for Riley County offices expressed differing views at a Wednesday night forum at Central Fire Station.

When asked how voter registration can be made more accessible to eligible voters of all ages, clerk candidate Craig Raborn, former K-State student, said he believed registration would be easier if the county clerk arranged drives, both on campus and at special events such as ball games.

Incumbent Ilene Colbert, however, said drives would not be as effective as Raborn expects.

"If anyone has been in our office the past several days, they would already know that registration is accessible," Colbert said.

Most voters, Colbert said, don't usually get actively involved with the voting process until election time is near.

County Commission candidates discussed their views concerning the consolidation of various community services.

Commission candidates are Jim Williams, Jan Garton, Robert Pudden and Karen McCulloh, all of Manhattan.

Jan Garton, Riley County Commission candidate from Manhattan, answers a question while candidates Karen McCulloh and Robert Pudden, also of Manhattan, listen during a League of Women Voters forum Wednesday evening at the Central Fire Station.

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

KSU tests to go into space

JEFF GAMBER
Collegian

"The goal is that hopefully you can pack some anti-cancer drug or DNA for gene therapy inside a capsid."

JACK DE CHING CHANG

When the Space Shuttle Columbia takes off today, it will carry four biological experiments created by K-State students.

The experiments, dealing with virus capsid assembly, skeletal tissue in space, brine shrimp development in space and proteoliposome constitution in space, are all related in that they will study the effects of microgravity on life processes.

The virus capsid assembly experiment will provide data on the effects of microgravity on the formation of Polyoma virus capsids. Virus capsids are the protein shell that normally acts as a package for the viral DNA.

Jack De Ching Chang, doctoral candidate in biology, said to prepare the experiment, he and others in Richard Consigli's lab cloned the viral gene for VPI, a major capsid protein, into E. Coli bacteria. The bacteria then produces the protein.

The protein is purified to prepare it for formation into empty virus capsids, which contain no DNA. This is necessary, Chang said, because NASA regulations require that no infectious agents be present in experiments.

Chang said their goal is to be able to use viral capsids to package drugs or DNA and deliver the treatment directly to cancerous cells.

"The goal is that hopefully, during this kind of capsid formation maybe you can pack some anti-cancer drug or DNA for gene therapy inside a capsid," Chang said.

Chang said they have had similar experiments on two previous shuttle flights, and this one will be basically the

■ See SHUTTLE Page 8A

HISPANIC AWARENESS MONTH

Espada reads original poems on Latino community

REBECCA OLIVAS
Collegian

It's all about bridging the gap. That is how Martin Espada, author and poet, described his poetry.

Espada, keynote speaker for Hispanic Awareness Month, read several pieces Wednesday in the K-State Union Little Theatre and spoke about his motivation.

"The subject I write about most is the Latino community, the working people of that community and the struggles and successes of that community," Espada said. "I write about this because it reflects my life's experiences and what I know best."

He said he wanted to introduce the audience to his world as a Puerto Rican. He did this by reading several poems from some of his books.

Espada read selections from his award-winning book of poetry.

■ See POETRY Page 8A

Purified Water

In your container
24 HR Vending Machine
Convenient Drive-up

No Lead No Nitrates
No Sodium No Chlorine

The Spring House

4th & Fort Riley Blvd.
(Ballard's Outlet parking lot)

Personal ads aren't frightful...
they're delightful!

Come to Kedzie 103 and place a Halloween personal before
it's too
LATE!

Deadline is Oct. 28

LIVE

Wednesday, Oct. 28

LEE ROY
PARNELL

Tickets:

$8 in advance
$10 at the door

S-BAR-J & Streetside
are also ticket outlets.

1115 Moro 776-8770

Donna J. Brinner
Seamstress

CREATIVE
SEWING

Wedding Gowns,
Southern Ruffle Drapes,
Formal and Casual
Dresses, Alterations

3500 Chippewa Circle
Manhattan, KS 66502
(913) 539-0925

TRIANGLE
FRATERNITY

Engineers, Architects
& Scientists

Information Table in Union

Wednesday & Thursday

539-7439

ROYAL PURPLE

1993

Off Campus-Oct. 16-30

PICTURE YOURSELF IN THE 1993
ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK.

Photos will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. in the K-State
Union Room 209.

Call 532-6106 for an appointment.

If you are a greek member, but live
in a residence hall or off campus,
please have your photo taken with your fraternity or sorority.

To YOUR GOOD Health

TIGER BY THE TALE

A Peer Theater Troupe from

FORT HAYS
STATE UNIVERSITY

will present a program designed to stimulate discussion regarding current health issues.

PLACE: K-STATE "UNION STATION"

DATE: THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1992

TIME: 7 P.M. DANCE TO FOLLOW (FREE)

Funded by City of Manhattan Special Alcohol Program Fund and K-State

OPINION

OCTOBER 22, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson
Editor in Chief
Jared Savage
Opinion Page Editor

Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson

Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thomas
Heather Anderson

John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

POW/MIA evidence welcome

THE ISSUE

The Vietnamese government has opened its archives that contain information on American POWs and MIAs.

WE SUGGEST

The evidence be used to its fullest potential to finally put this painful issue to rest.

The nightmare may finally be coming to an end.

Although the POW/MIAs of Vietnam may not be coming home, evidence of what happened to them may.

Having recently returned from Vietnam with thousands of photographs and other information, members of a fact-finding mission have what they believe is compelling evidence about the servicemen's fate.

In a surprise move, the Vietnamese government opened its archives to American officials. It had resisted doing this since the end of the war.

Many feel it's because the Vietnamese are trying to normalize relations with the United States. Others think they are being so open because they fear normalization will be much harder if Bill Clinton is elected than if President Bush gets re-elected.

Still others, including Dolores Apodaca Alfond, national chairwoman of the National Alliance of Families for the Return of American Missing Servicemen, see it as a ruse by the government to cover the fact that they badly mishandled the entire situation.

The last 20 years have been replete with false alarms concerning this issue. It's been tossed around, been argued about continuously, and turned discreet professionals into yelling hotheads.

The country is and has been ready for the truth. Our boys may all be dead, but it's time we find out for sure. No more lies, no more rumors by high officials more interested in protecting their positions than the truth.

Too much time has passed, and this issue deserves a conclusion.

The government needs to come forward immediately with what it finds, or the country simply will not stand for it anymore.

They owe it not only to the country, to the families, but to those who made the greatest sacrifice that truth and justice may be maintained.

Campus prime area for night hunting

Some nights, when I am walking alone on campus and it's very late with no one else around, I imagine I hear the echoing sound of far-off gunfire.

In my more paranoid moments, I carefully locate the nearest emergency phone and question whether I could make it there before dying of a chest wound. Usually, the answer is "no."

Other times, these hints of distant violence bring forth thoughts that are truly dark ... and an evil smile comes to my face. It is in these moments that I know someone is night-hunting on campus.

You may doubt that conclusion. I can only say that if they aren't, then they should be. The campus is, after all, public land, and it lies outside city limits. The sheer number of lights simulates daytime hunting conditions, eliminating the need for clumsy infrared goggles.

And the campus fauna are amazing. Transient cats simply don't provide enough predation to control the population.

After a few years of feasting on the carefully groomed campus plants, normally diminutive rodents can become record-breaking monsters.

What else can simulate the thrill of having a trophy skunk in the sights of your 30-06 rifle? The danger of stumbling upon a mother separated from her cubs? Only the wilds of campus can soak you so thoroughly in the smell of fear.

And to those who think that these elusive animals will never be tracked, I direct you to the gentle rabbit. These noble creatures are so tamed by constant human exposure that no stealth is required to bag them.

With a quick lunge, a skillful hunter can catch and strangle one with his bare hands. Believe me, I know. Nothing can compare to the chilling primal death scream of a mature silverback cottontail echoing off the limestone walls of Willard Hall.

My only regret is that the squirrel, that campus plague, is diurnal. I would truly love to plug one of these little suckers. Unfortunately, class-bound students would undoubtedly get between these Nazi pests and the muzzle of my 10-gauge. No, campus hunting must be done at night.

But there is more than one way to splatter a squirrel. I have a mountain bike with 2-inch treads that say "roadkill" all over them. As soon as I get some good fenders to keep the blood off, I'm going to clean those little buggers off the sidewalks.

I suppose some of you animal-lovers think I've gone too far. Well, those little nuisances are mocking you as we speak. They are in charge of the campus, and they know it. Just remember, the next time your mother is on campus, these "cute, cuddly" squirrels are looking up her dress.

Ah, open your imagination to the possibilities. Night hunting could be the true sport on campus. The atmosphere is perfect. The silent flight of owls is shadowed on the yellow walls of the buildings.

Just barely under the constant drone of the Biochemistry Building, if you listen carefully, you may hear the remote bugle of the majestic elk, who has been sighted many times among the livestock north of campus. Your quarry grazes complacently on the manicured grass. You prepare to kill or be killed.

Nothing could beat the whole experience, if only we could start. But I know that someone, somewhere, is doing it already. Campus night hunting will always exist, and I will always feel nostalgia when I hear the muffled sound of a gunshot echoing through the night.

Assuming, of course, it isn't just some car backfiring.

JOHN HAWKS

"X" deserves better than Spike Lee

TOM LISTER
GUEST COLUMNIST

There's a quote from Spike Lee in this month's issue of "Premiere" that bothers me: "Marketing is something I'm very proud of. The only artist that does it better than me is Madonna. She's the champ."

If Lee was marketing soup, this wouldn't bother me. And if he was marketing pop music like Madonna's, I wouldn't have a problem either. The problem is that Lee is marketing Malcolm X.

In addition to the shirts and hats bearing the "X" trademark, Lee has sold a new idea to today's youth: Skip school to see his upcoming flick.

Never mind that Lee could instead urge people to lobby for the book "The Autobiography of Malcolm X" to be required reading in public schools. Never mind that he could refer youths to such black authors as Richard Wright and Alex Haley, who laid the foundation for other black artists in print and film.

You see, Lee's promoting a flick, and it's his flick. In fact, he's given himself a large part in the flick as Malcolm's friend, Shorty.

Lee has made an attempt to align himself with the accomplishments of a historical figure, just as Oliver Stone gave himself a cameo as Jim Morrison's cinematography professor in "The Doors." Meanwhile, in the wake of publicity for Lee's film, the recognition of others' efforts have been left behind.

Take a look at the new paperback copies of "The Autobiography of Malcolm X." The only thing appearing larger than the portraits of Malcolm X is an endorsement from Lee saying how the book gave him courage. Lee manages to mention himself at least five times in this quote.

What Lee might not realize is that Malcolm X's message affected many, including Alex Haley, who co-authored the book and died almost silently last spring. Haley also wrote the book "Roots," which had an immeasurable effect on audiences in the 1970s and which continues today.

While a quote from Lee dominates the center of the book's cover, Haley's mention as co-author appears at the bottom.

I wonder how many of the people out there wearing the X caps, regardless of age or race, know who Haley was. I wonder how many have made the effort to read "The Autobiography of Malcolm X." How many actually know what "Detroit Red" means?

I plan on seeing the movie, but I'm worried that not many people will go beyond that.

I'm worried that hordes of white liberals will flock to theaters to purge their guilty consciences and then go home, feeling relieved and charitable after spending an entire 2 1/2 hours in the midst of black history.

I'm worried that if audiences aren't yet satisfied, they'll take in Stone's upcoming movie, "South Central."

What they might not do is take advantage of the books available to them at public libraries. Even more, they might fail to visit older individuals in the community who could give them more insight on racism than Lee ever could.

I've heard that the beginning of the movie will start with footage of the Rodney King beating. We'll see it as we saw it on television: edited for the latter half.

The helping citizen who shot that footage has sued TV stations for millions in an attempt to financially profit from it. Lee himself paid to use the footage.

But you can't put a price on the legacy of Malcolm X. You can't let the man and his message become mere vestiges of pop culture.

He deserves more than that.

READERS WRITE

► REORGANIZATION

Pathology could help someone close to you

Editor,

I was very sorry to read the letter from Scott Butler printed Friday and to learn that, despite our best efforts, some students are still woefully uninformed on the issues concerning program cuts.

The speech pathology program at K-State is nationally known. And we offer exceptional field placements in many different settings, including various hospitals, schools and the Capper Foundation in Topeka, to name a few.

In addition, Wichita State University could not possibly accept the 100-plus students K-State would be turning away without significantly increasing faculty. I don't believe they have that much money, either.

Although it makes sense to cut programs that are stronger at other schools, these programs simply are not stronger, are not available and/or full at other Kansas schools.

As for the question of why the student body should listen, there are many reasons. First, although the dean and provost have alluded to budget problems in justifying these cuts, the reality is that Roles and Aspirations recommendations represent reallocations rather than budget cuts.

Another reason is that students will someday have to deal with the results of these cuts. What happens a few years from now when your child, your spouse, or someone else close to you needs the service of a speech pathologist and can't get them because there are so few?

One in every 10 people will have a communication disability at some time, so the chances are good that it will happen to someone you know.

In addition, the vacancy rate for pathologists is presently 8 to 9 percent, and a 34-percent increase in jobs is projected by the year 2000.

Supply is not meeting demand now. Cutting the program will only increase the number of people who cannot get the help they need.

Finally, I don't believe anyone has ever said these cuts were based on discrimination and sexism. However, the criteria used for arriving at these decisions obviously had that effect. How many other programs on this campus are 98-percent female?

If anyone else out there still believes these cuts won't affect them, I only hope they will take the time to check out the facts.

Barbara Rinker
Graduate student/Speech pathology

► BICYCLE/PEDESTRIAN

Riders, walkers both need common sense

Editor,

I'd like to respond to the recent bicycle/pedestrian issue. I'd like to begin by asking: Why do most of the people think they are above the law and common sense? I'll explain.

Most pedestrians I see crossing the street assume that if they step out in front of a vehicle moving 30 mph, the vehicle will be able to stop before hitting them. I've seen this happen numerous times.

Yes, pedestrians have the right of way, but let's use common sense, too. It seems that many pedestrians either don't look before crossing, or if they do, they figure the oncoming traffic will stop for them.

Crosswalks and walk-light buttons are installed for a purpose. Use them. And remember, if a pedestrian gets hit, it's not necessarily the vehicle driver's fault.

And cyclists are no better. Most I've seen do not follow laws. They ride on the wrong side of the road, on sidewalks, don't stop at signs and lights, and definitely do not wait their turn to go at lights.

For some reason, they think since they're on a bike, they don't have to follow rules. But folks, laws are laws, and you're obligated to follow them whether you agree with them or not.

Motorists don't get a break here, either. How many times has someone sped out in front of you without looking for oncoming traffic? Or how about speedsters who whip in and out of traffic at scary speeds?

What kind of example are any of these people to young children who are taught the rules, only to see them all broken?

In closing, if everyone would respect everyone else's space as they themselves want to be respected and obey the laws whether they believe them or not, maybe nobody would have anything to complain about.

Leann Rall
Veterinary technician

► MANHOOD QUEST

Columnist again stereotypes males

Editor,

In response to Lisa Edmunds' article in the Oct. 16 Collegian titled "Of Hemingway, tequila, and finding the male epiphany," I would like to say that she, as usual, has succeeded in infuriating me with her insulting generalizations toward men.

In Edmunds' quest to somehow get in touch with her "long-repressed male side of her psyche ... by howling at the moon, drinking mass quantities of beer, scratching and farting in syncope, and terrorizing the population at large by killing small animals," she is making a gross generalization.

She needs to know that the door of sexism swings both ways, and she is the best example of a sexist I have read in a long time.

Why shouldn't we feel sad for Edmunds when all she could muster up was a ladylike squeak instead of a manly URP? Of course, her feelings of inadequacy stem from her "Lamo-bimbo" name. I mean, who can shake a stigma like that? Life can be so unfair, Lisa.

Ordinarily, I wouldn't care about people like Lisa, however, when they try to get my attention by stereotyping me and my "fellow men" the way she does, I get a little "testy," no pun intended. Her article only exemplifies how out of touch she is with herself as a female.

It's real swell for me that Edmunds can kick her brother's ass, and it's real peachy that her voice is, well, probably deeper than mine. But Edmunds is not a man. What makes men men and Edmunds female goes far beyond the realms of her absurd and insulting perception of things.

If Edmunds has a problem being female, or perhaps it's just with herself, I suggest she search for things she is able to grasp — for example, the qualities that make people well-rounded human beings — and leave my XY chromosome alone. If her breasts and ovaries are not enough for Edmunds, I suggest that she talk to a counselor at Lafene.

Michael Loupe
Senior/Pre-veterinary medicine

ENTERTAINMENT

Pilot helps complete University travel needs

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7A

The plane is usually in use seven days a week, Schu said. She flies five of those days, and three pilots are on contract to fly when she is off duty.

Schu said the plane saves a lot of hassle for the passengers. Rather than driving all day and staying overnight in a hotel, Schu can take clients round-trip in one day.

She said her responsibilities include "anything to do with the airplane." This involves flying, supervising the office, helping with billing and scheduling, keeping the plane clean, consulting with the Federal Aviation Administration, and working with the plane's maintenance crew.

And though it may not be in her job description, she said another important part of her job is public relations.

"There's a lot of PR work that goes on with this job," Schu said. "People are really interested in the plane."

Schu said the purple and white plane catches peoples' eyes, and they often stop her between flights to ask questions and look at it.

She has even given children impromptu tours of the plane on occasion — having a master's degree in education and 19 years of experience as a pilot helps.

Her interest in flying is rooted, she said, in her childhood on a farm in Washington. She spent summers driving farm equipment for her father and developed an interest in machines.

"I grew up in a very mechanical environment," Schu said.

Schu said that by having its own plane, the University can ensure the plane is well-maintained and hire its own pilot.

K-State's plane does have occasional maintenance problems. However, she said, the plane is so well-kept that it has appreciated in value since the University purchased it.

"Some of this is dictated by the FAA, but we have some (procedures) of our own that are even more conservative," Schu said. "The bottom line here is safety."

As part of this commitment to safety, she has had aviation-safety training for three to four days once a year for the last 15 years.

On at least one occasion, in February 1991, this training paid off.

Schu was flying some K-State administrators back to Manhattan from business in Colorado. At 250 knots, 19,000 feet and an outside temperature of 30 degrees below zero, one of the plane's windows blew out, she said.

Schu said the passengers stayed fairly calm, although the wind roaring through the cabin limited communication to hand signals.

After landing at a nearby Boulder, Colo., airport, Schu found she had two frostbitten fingers, but everyone was otherwise unhurt. The passengers involved in the incident now joke with her about it, calling themselves "the 19,000-foot club."

"If I hadn't had the proper training, the outcome might have been different," Schu said.

MCCAIN AUDITORIUM

An opera inside a play

Award-winning piece hysterical, professor says

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

Prepare to sit back and enjoy an American farce about the antics of an opera company and its dilemmas with a guest artist.

"Lend Me a Tenor" by Ken Ludwig is set in an opera company in 1934 Cleveland, Ohio.

The story centers around the company hiring a world-famous tenor for a one-night performance. The evening is jeopardized when the tenor passes out.

In efforts to find someone to

"LEND ME A TENOR"

■ Tickets are $18, $16 or $14 for the general public; $16, $14 or $12 for senior citizens; and $9, $8 or $7 for students and children. They can be purchased at the McCain Auditorium box office and the K-State Union Bookstore.

replace him, a comedy of errors results, including slamming doors, mistaken identities and swooning females.

"The opera company invites this guest tenor to sing, and everything goes wrong. It has all the clichéd things that go with a farce," Producer Dee Dee Sandt said.

"Lend Me a Tenor" has won two Tony Awards, four Drama Desk Awards and three Outer Critic Awards.

It has played in London's West End, Paris, on Broadway and in 15 countries.

Sandt said this production is touring the United States and Canada.

"I've read the script, and it's hysterical," said Marci Maullar, assistant professor of speech. "I'm looking forward to seeing it myself."

Wichita native Barbara Schoenhofer will play the part of Diana in the play.

She said she is excited to be back in Kansas to perform.

DB92

TOP

- 1 Sweet Oblivion — Screaming Trees (Columbia)
- 2 Luna Park — Luna² (Elektra)
- 3 Dirty — Sonic Youth (DGC)
- 4 In the Meantime — Helmet (Interscope)
- 5 Hey, Babe — Juliana Hatfield (Mammoth)
- 6 Stall EP — Urge Overkill (Touch & Go)
- 7 Angel Dust — Faith No More (Reprise)
- 8 Mondo Bizarro — Ramones (Radioactive)
- 9 Fog — Grey Matter (Dischord)
- 10 American Standard — Mary's Danish (Morgan Creek)

Collegian

SILO

THE MAGAZINE

will be making its second appearance on Oct. 29. Watch for it in the

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Karaoke Night
75c Draws

Claffin & Denison (Down Under)

776-1515

to the Puff Bowl Champions: Kappa Alpha Theta and to the 1992 Puff Queen Candidates

Tracy Gillette
Linda Gregory
Renee Gatchel
Debbie Gill
Cristen Faulkenburg
Carrie Stenzel

National League

Renee Gatchel
Greta Weichman
Kim Rogers
Leslie Barthlow
Camille Rohleder
Shanna Robin
Jenny Nilson
Tracy Gillette
Amy Brockhahn
Lynda Gregory
Roulette Pleasant
Denise Holwick
Kellie Parke
Shana Patterson
Allison Mott

Jackie Smith
Holly Lacount
Germaine Downey
Kellie Parke
Margie Meyers

American League

Carrie Stenzel
Amy Roberts
Shannon Moroco
Julia Beagley
Jenni Peter
Marla Miller
Mellisa McGraw
Jeri Smith
Julie Kershaw
Susan Weixelman
Cristen Faulkenburg
Kathy Moore
Debbie Gill
Jennifer Lilydahl
Jennifer Blackard
Sheila Sanchez
Jacque Smith
Suzanne Nikkel

Halftime Spectacular—Crowning of Miss Puff Queen
7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 22, Griffith Park

Sponsored by: Bud Light, Ballard's, Pizza Shuttle, Patricia's Undercover Lingerie, Sports Page, Last Chance, K-Rock 101.5.

Royal Purple

Varden Studio will visit the K-State Salina campus from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 29.

Group organizations and faculty photos will be taken from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Individual photos will be taken from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Make appointments in the Admission's Office or by calling (913) 826-2640.

Been There, Done That, Try This

Guatemala $225*
Auckland $498*
Madrid $379*
Buenos Aires $519*
Bangkok $475*

*Fares are each way from Kansas City based on a roundtrip purchase. Taxes not included and restrictions apply. Call for other destinations, both one way and roundtrip.

Council Travel

1634 Orrington Ave.
Evanston, IL 60201

1-800-475-5070

Something To Believe In...

United Way of Riley County

Where does the money go? Your gift to United Way stays right here in our community. Your one pledge each year combines with hundreds of others from your friends, neighbors, and co-workers to help battered women and children put their lives back together...to help families through a tough time...to help our senior citizens know they are not forgotten...and to help people who are hungry.

Here are facts on just a couple of local agencies supported by your United Way of Riley County...

Local Agency Fact File:

Crisis Center, Inc.

P.O. Box 164, Manhattan
Phone: 539-2785
Contact Person: Sandy Barnett
Provides round-the-clock services to victims of family violence and sexual assault, including crisis intervention, safe shelter, referral and assistance with other community services.

Local Agency Fact File:

Manhattan Emergency Shelter

831 Leavenworth, Manhattan
Phone: 537-3113
Contact Person: Sonya Redmon

Provides the local homeless and transients with food, shelter, clothing, life skills classes, counseling and support in a way which promotes financial and social independence.

"It Works"

United Way
of Riley County

Sponsored by Please make your pledge today. Ask your employer for a pledge card or call the United Way office at 776-3779.

Copy Co Has a New Graphic Zoomer that Makes Posters in a Snap•Aggieville

Senate to review bylaws

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A
begin to debate a bill to revise SGA bylaws on attendance policies.

The action is a result of recently failed impeachment actions against Veterinary Medicine Sen. Jerry Busselman for unexcused absences.

The bill proposes leniency for veterinary medicine and graduate school senators because of extenuating circumstances.

Reasons given include the larger caseload these students are expected to handle in proportion to undergraduates and the difficulty in attracting representation from the areas.

"Several people from the graduate schools have been elected to this body as a joke without even knowing it," Graduate Sen. Joel Gruenke said.

"We have to go hunting for unsuspecting students."

Agriculture Sen. Larry Whipple said the senators could still be brought up for impeachment at the discretion of any of the other senators.

He said the purpose of the bill is to keep impeachment proceedings from automatically being started through the Senate Operations committee after the allotted three unexcused absences have been exceeded.

European mindset hurt Native Americans

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

"People don't want to look at today's problems as a function of people unwilling or unable to obtain an understanding of people who aren't like them."

Conditions of slavery and indentured servitude placed on the first Americans, the massacre at Wounded Knee and today's racial tension can all be traced to the Europeans' close-minded views when Columbus traveled west.

"We have always been aware of the differences between us and make sure that they are noticed. We behave in ways that deny certain people of their rights."

"What this year's (quintennial) celebration is really about, is how all people can learn to live in this place together, and by this place I mean this planet. That's the challenge for us all to face," Wildcat said.

In the past, society has been quick to distinguish people by their cultural or ethnic background, and that has been the basis of stereotyping and racism.

The challenge for the future is for society to become more tolerant of other cultures, he said.

By learning to work together as a global society, Wildcat said many answers can be found.

"If things don't change soon, there's not going to be much of a future for our children or our grandchildren," he said.

The environment also suffered when Columbus arrived.

Wildcat said scientists believe nearly 90 percent of the indigenous population was wiped out by diseases the Europeans introduced.

Many varieties of native plant and animal species have been lost in the past 500 years.

When looking at survival as a community, Wildcat said society must consider the interdependence of humans with animals and plants.

Too often people look at their immediate environment and make their lives more convenient or comfortable instead of looking at the consequences those actions may have on their world, he said.

Science is now taking into account some of the knowledge of the Native Americans as it looks at environmental issues.

"We're coming to a place where in many ways, science is coming to understand many concepts and ideas that sound terribly familiar to Native Americans," Wildcat said.

GREAT
MEMORIES
START
HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION, ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS:

Get your group signed up for a Departmental photograph. Portraits will be taken through Oct. 29.

Call 532-6557 to schedule a time.

Collegiate FFA Dance

October 22, 1992

9 p.m.-1:30 a.m.

$3 Single $5 Couple

Come early and enjoy Silverado's
Southwest Restaurant

"Scoot your boots with KSU Collegiate FFA - we'll show you how to boogie."

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)

Then call us.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Display Advertising
532-6560

Local voter ranks increase

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A
this is the first time she has seen such excitement for voter registration.

"I've been involved in SGA for four years. At no point can I remember this type of enthusiasm for students registering to vote."

McClaskey said 1,100 students have registered in the past week, including 450 on Monday. She estimates more than 3,500 students registered to vote this semester.

"We answered questions all day Monday from people who couldn't come down and wanted to know where to get registered," she said.

McClaskey said she is enthusiastic about student response to voter registration.

LEND ME A TENOR

Friday, October 23, 8 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

This hilarious Tony-Award-winning farce takes you behind the scenes of a gala opera production for shenanigans in the tradition of the Marx Brothers. Take a world famous tenor who's too "ill" to perform, and a gofer who fancies himself a great, but undiscovered, singer. Add a dash of slamming doors, a soupcon of mistaken identities, a splash of secret connivings, and the result is an evening of nonstop laughter. "Outlandish, outrageous, and very funny!" (WNEW-Radio)

Public/faculty: $18-$16
Senior citizen: $16-$14
Student/child: $9-$8

Tickets now on sale at the McCain box office. Call (913) 532-6428 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA. Box office opens at 1 p.m. day of performance. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley).

Transportation available for senior citizens through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000.

Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency. Corporate support by Manhattan Medical Center.

M·C·C·A·I·N

Victim rights . . . It's time

Vote "Yes"
for Crime Victims'
Rights
Constitutional Amendment #2
on November 3!

Paid for by MADD—Riley County Chapter
P.O. Box 1631
Manhattan, KS 66502

Copy Co • 12 AM to 2 AM • Self Serve Copies Are 3¢ • Aggieville

CAMPUS

Frequent flyer provides air travel for University

"There's a lot of PR work that goes on with this job. People are really interested in the plane."

MARY SCHU

LISA COLE
Collegian

Having her head in the clouds is part of Mary Schu's job.

Schu has been flying K-State's purple and white Cessna 421 for nearly four years, ever since the University began leasing the airplane on a trial basis in 1989.

Eighteen months later, the K-State Foundation bought up the lease for the University, and Schu was hired permanently.

Schu is the head pilot at K-State and runs the aviation transportation department with the help of an office assistant.

The department provides air transportation for business purposes to all University personnel, said Charles Reagan, executive assistant to the president.

The Cooperative Extension Service and the KSU Alumni Association are the two most frequent users of the plane, Reagan said.

Schu said the Division of Biology, the Kansas Board of Regents, and the offices of administration and budget and finances are other frequent users.

Football and basketball recruits, K-State coaches, Landon lecturers and donors to the University have also been flown by Schu.

"I'm not sure there's anyone on campus who doesn't use (the plane)," Schu said.

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

Mary Schu is the head pilot for K-State and is in charge of the aviation department. Schu said she and her plane are usually up in the air every day.

See PILOT Page 5A

WORLD

Protests can't save English coal mines

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — After giving ground to angry miners who thronged the streets of London, the government narrowly defeated an opposition motion in the House of Commons Wednesday and passed a revised plan to close coal mines.

The Conservative government won a 320-307 vote after promising rebellious rank-and-file legislators it will reconsider the fate of 31 coal mines marked for closure just a week ago.

Trade Secretary Michael Heseltine, often shouting to make himself heard in a rowdy debate, said the government had an open mind about all the mines. But he suggested at least 10 mines with no prospect of profitability would close.

The government's new flexibility won over many Conservative lawmakers who had threatened to vote for a Labor motion that demanded a wide-ranging, independent review of the industry.

"I have given the clearest undertaking I can that this is a genuine review. I will listen," Heseltine said in Commons.

Though a defeat would not have brought down Prime Minister John Major's government, it would be another severe blow to an administration reeling from economic setbacks.

The government's new flexibility won over many Conservative lawmakers who had threatened to vote for a Labor motion that demanded a wide-ranging, independent review of the industry.

"I have given the clearest undertaking I can that this is a genuine review. I will listen," Heseltine said in Commons.

Though a defeat would not have brought down Prime Minister John Major's government, it would be another severe blow to an administration reeling from economic setbacks.

The government, battered by a sharp drop in the value of the pound and a steep recession, has retreated rapidly in the face of public outrage over last week's announcement that 31,000 coal miners would be laid off.

Unemployment has hit 10.1 percent in a stubborn recession that has brought tens of thousands of layoffs in British industries.

In Hyde Park, thousands of miners marched to the beat of "Colonel Bogey" and "Sons of the Brave," played by the traditional brass bands of the collieries.

NATION

Inspiration for film 'JFK' dies at 70

Former New Orleans DA Garrison believed CIA had Kennedy killed

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS — Jim Garrison, the pistol-packing prosecutor whose conspiracy theories about President Kennedy's assassination inspired the director of the movie "JFK," died Wednesday. He was 70.

Garrison, who served 12 years as New Orleans district attorney and 12 as a judge on the state's 4th Circuit Court of Appeals, never stopped believing that CIA hardliners had Kennedy killed to keep the United States in Vietnam.

The cause of death wasn't listed, but heart trouble forced Garrison to leave the appeals court Nov. 1, 1991, three weeks before his 70th birthday and mandatory retirement age.

His theories formed the basis for the widely publicized trial of businessman Clay Shaw and for three books, including "On the Trail of the Assassins," a main source for Oliver Stone's 1991 movie.

Garrison is survived by his wife, Leah Elizabeth Ziegler Garrison, a sister, five children and one grandchild.

A funeral service is scheduled for Friday.

EISENHOWER LECTURE

"The United States Navy's Role in Naval Arms Limitation Between the World Wars"

The Fifth

Dwight D. Eisenhower Lecture in War and Peace

by William R. Braisted
University of Texas, Austin
Forum Hall, K-State Union

Tuesday, October 27, 1992, 8 p.m.

Ph.D. Specials

25% OFF ALL HIGHLIGHTS

•Frost •Lacing •Tortoise Shell

PERMS

GALS

Quantum

Attractions

Warm & Gentle

$28

$30

$43

HAIRCUTS

Gals $12.50—Guys $8.50

Kids 10 and under $6.50

Joyce's Hair Tamers 539-TAME

SAVE 50%
ON FILM DEVELOPING WHILE YOU SHOP!

One-Hour Service • In The Mail

Each Picture Is The Best
It Can Be Or We.
Reprint It Free...Now!

Offer applies to regular one-hour prices. No limit on number of rolls discounted with this coupon. 4x6 color prints (print length varies with film size). Offer applies to first set of prints only. C41 in lab process. Cannot be combined with other film developing offers. Coupon good through Jan. 15, 1992.

11010203

CPI photo finish
one hour photo

One Hour Services
film developing
• enlargements
• reprints • double prints
Also Available
wallet photos • film
instant color
passport photos
video transfer
copies from prints
albums, frames
and accessories

Manhattan
Town Center
main entrance
by food court

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

HUNAN Chinese
Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-In Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

KSU HORT. CLUB PUMPKINFEST '92

Pumpkin Sales Oct. 26-27

Union Lawn and Front of Waters Hall

11-5 p.m.; unique pumpkins; butternut squash

25¢ - $5

PUMPKIN BALL

at T.W. LONGHORN'S

Oct. 23 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.

door prizes dance contest

Reach active voters. Advertise in the Kansas State Collegian.

More than 94 percent of the Kansas State University population reads the Kansas State Collegian. People who read newspapers are most likely to vote and are most active and concerned about their communities and the quality of life.

Among advertising media,
newspapers rank first in credibility.

Newspapers reach voters, particularly those all-important ticket-splitters.

Most believable media
Newspapers	48%
Television	19%
Direct Mail	12%
Magazines	12%
Radio	4%
About Equal/No Opinion	5%

(Source: Home Testing Institute)

Read political coverage in newspapers "every or almost every day"
Ticket-splitters	64.7%
Republicans	64.1%
Democrats	55.4%

(Source: Market Opinion Research, as cited in The Ticket-Splitter by Devries and Tarrance)

In fact, people look forward to reading advertising in newspapers more than in any other medium.

Newspapers reach the most politically
active citizens.

% who look forward
Newspapers	44%
Magazines	29%
Television	9%
Radio	0%

(Source: Response Analysis Corporation)

Read a newspaper on the average weekday
Voted in an election	70%
Wrote to an elected official	73%
Visited an elected official	74%
Worked for a candidate	71%

(Source: Simmons Market Research Bureau, 1989)

Newspaper advertising offers you believability, reader involvement, the ability to set the record straight, graphic impact and the ability to address serious issues you and the voters care about. Remember to include Kansas State Collegian advertising in your campaign budget.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6560

Copy Co Has Recession Buster Cards to Give You 4¢ Copies Every Day • Aggieville

Shuttle flight to carry KSU experiments

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3A

same, because they need more data before they can come to any reliable conclusions about the effects of microgravity on capsids.

He said during the last two experiments, they sent up capsids that had been formed on the ground, but they dissociated in space, reverting to the capsomere building blocks. In this experiment, they will send up both preformed capsids and capsomeres to determine if capsids can form better, or if they can form at all, in microgravity.

The skeletal tissue experiment will provide information on the effects of microgravity on bone during its formative stage.

Brenda Klement, graduate student in biology, said it is already known that adult bones lose minerals and strength in space, but there is no information yet on how space affects developing bones.

"First of all, in space, in a microgravity environment, adult bone physiology is really affected. You get a decrease in bone matrix, decrease in mineralization and so just studying the cells and interactions between cells, things that happen before actual bone is synthesized is important.

"If we understand that, then maybe that will give us a clue as to why adult bone is affected by microgravity," she said.

Klement said the experiment will use mouse embryonic tissue which would form foot bones. The cells in the experiment are in the cartilage stage, and on the ground they would continue to develop and the extracellular matrix would become calcified, creating bone.

She has been working with this type of ground experiment for three years, but this is the first time it will take place in microgravity. So, it is not yet known if, or how, the cells will develop in space.

Klement also said this experiment will add to cell development knowledge in general under microgravity conditions, an area that little is presently known about.

The brine shrimp development experiment will also help further understanding of microgravity's effects on developing tissues.

Lynette DeBell, graduate lab assistant, said brine shrimp are unique as subjects of developmental studies because they start out as eggs, but they won't develop at all until they are in the right environment, which is salt water.

This property of brine shrimp ensures that all development takes place in space, as the eggs are kept out of their salt water environment until the proper time.

This is the fourth shuttle trip for the brine shrimp experiment, and this time up, it will be the equipment that receives most of the attention, DeBell said, and this time a different culture system will be used to try to keep the shrimp alive longer.

She said in the past, they had fed the shrimp dead algae, but that created a problem.

"Normally, we feed them dead algae. This time we're going to feed them a chemical soup. It looks a little like cream of chicken — it's a little thinner than cream of chicken, but it's the same color," DeBell said.

"The problem with algae is that it excretes a kind of gelatin that eventually takes over their living space and they get caught up in it and die."

DeBell said in the past there have been significant tissue development anomalies in brine shrimp that developed in space. She said the rate of anomalies was around 5-6 percent, which is much higher than on the ground.

Poetry describes Latino community

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3A

"Rebellion is the Circle of a Lover's Hands." It won the 1989 PEN/Revson Award and the 1991 Paterson Poetry Prize.

Puerto Ricans trying to gain their independence from the United States, he said, are examples of rebellion he admires.

"I have the utmost respect for those people because without their sacrifices, we would have nothing," Espada said.

This latest book includes a translation of all the poems into Spanish.

In the book's foreword, Espada explains the reason for the translation: "We have translated this book into Spanish in an effort to communicate with the peoples of Latin America, who are the inspiration for many of these poems, as well as to bridge the gap between those Latinos, born in the U.S., who speak English as a primary language, and those more recent immigrants who speak predominantly Spanish."

Food For Your Brain. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

$5.59

This Friday Night All-You-Can-Eat Shrimp.

In addition to delicious golden fried shrimp, our All-You-Can-Eat Shrimp Dinner also includes our fabulous all-you-can-eat Freshstaks® Food Bar with Soft Serve dessert. All for one low price. It's an unlimited deal we guarantee won't leave you hungry. Offer good only on Fridays from 4 p.m. til close.

BONANZA

Where The Extras Don't Cost Extra

622 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS

SILVERADO SALOON

Friday & Saturday
Oklahoma's Premier Dance Band
"THE GOOD OL BOYS"

Monday & Tuesday
1st Wells

Wednesday
50¢ Draws
4-9 p.m. 50¢ Tacos

Thursday
WELCOME K-STATE FFA MEMBERS
$1 Bottles

Trade In Your OLD PLANT!

Offer Expires 10-31-92

and receive:

- $2 OFF the SALE PRICE any 6" tabletop plant
- or $5 OFF the SALE PRICE any 10" floor plant
- $10 OFF the SALE PRICE any 14" large specimen

Limit one trade-in allowance per plant

Eastside & Westside Market
East Hwy. 24 by Mall or W. K-18 by Holidome

LANCÔME

PARIS

HAS A GIFT FOR YOU!

"Beauty Originales," Yours With Any $17.50 Lancôme Purchase.

Make beauty news with six deluxe, purse-portables from Lancôme, Paris. All tucked inside this classic dome-shaped white-on-black vinyl cosmetic case designed in a primitive print.

Gift available while supplies last. The Lancôme collection, $9-$50. Cosmetics.

Your Gift Includes:

- Rouge Superbe Matte Lipcolour
- Keracils Mascara with Keratine
- Hydrative Continuous Hydrating Resource
- Bi-Facil Double-Action Eye Makeup Remover
- Tresor Lait Precieux Pour Le Corps Perfumed Body Lotion
- Cosmetic Travel Case

Lancôme Clinic
Monday, November 2 - Friday, November 6
Let Lancôme's professional makeup artist, Raigan Roskoby, show you the newest holiday colors for a look all your own. Call 776-4224, ext. 229 for your appointment.

Dillard's

OCTOBER 22, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

COLUMN

It's just a matter of character

New stories abound every sporting season that tug on your heartstrings — or at least they should. Every year, some team has its proverbial "back to the wall" and manages to succeed.

That's the exact position the K-State Wildcats find themselves in.

This week, Coach Bill Snyder said his players may have thought they were better than they are. Now, after crushing defeats at Kansas and Utah State, each player has come back to earth.

The offensive line has leaked like a sieve, the quarterbacks have been sporadic, and the fans are now scratching their heads.

Are we that bad? As of now, I say no. And I hope not to change my stance in a few weeks.

Gut checks typically come at the end of the season. K-State had better not wait until then. Just a word to the wise — the time is now to see what character this team has. I contend it has quite a bit — we just haven't seen it.

I was hoping it would show through in Lawrence. It didn't. Not even close.

Who figured the Cats would need character against Utah State? Not I.

How can you or I expect to see some character against Colorado? If our men in purple show little or none against the Buffs, it could be another 64-3 shellacking like two years ago. Don't look for it, though.

Where could K-State possibly locate some character? Here's a few suggestions. Take them for what they're worth.

The Denver Broncos.

God forbid I'd ever use them as an example, but if there's one team to fear inside the two-minute warning, it's John Elway and Co.

Don't tar and feather me, but look at KU. Down 26 points to Iowa State with a little over a quarter to go, and the Hawks win by three. That, my friends, took a bunch of character.

Take poor old Elk Valley High School here in Kansas. Its team has lost 68 consecutive football games and still shows up every Friday.

And finally, I ask of you, pause a moment for Remington High School in the south central Kansas. Just after its loss to Moundridge Friday night, one of its players was killed a half mile from school in an automobile accident.

His teammates, still just kids, will put on their helmets and lace up their cleats tomorrow night when they could have checked it in.

Now, that takes character.

That's where K-State comes in. It's time to strap it on and play with some pride.

It's just another game. But it could be a good foundation from which to build the remaining five games of the season.

For the fans, I suggest the same. The Cats are going through a rugged time, and your help is needed. Desperately.

Be the great fans you think you are, and show some character. It could be much worse.

MATT WALTERS

Spikers trounced by Nebraska

Volleyball team has never beaten mighty Huskers

STEVE ROCK
Collegian

The fifth-ranked Nebraska Cornhuskers continued their domination of the K-State volleyball team, beating the Cats 15-2, 15-4 and 15-5 Wednesday night at Ahearn Field House.

The Cats, now 5-15 and 0-7 in Big Eight play, have yet to win a match against the Huskers, a losing streak that covers 18 years and 47 matches.

K-State has won just 11 games during that time. The last time K-State has won a game against the Huskers was 1987.

"When you can develop a team for 15 years, you have to expect great things," Wildcat coach Patti Hagemeyer said.

The Huskers, 12-2 and 6-0, haven't lost a Big Eight match to five of the Big Eight schools, and their overall Big Eight record stands at 225-6-1.

The Cats have lost nine matches in a row.

But the loss won't hurt the confidence of the young Wildcat team, Hagemeyer said.

"The nice thing about this team is they bounce back well," she said. "They still have a bunch of competitiveness stored in them. This really doesn't hurt our confidence."

Nebraska jumped to a quick 4-0 lead in the first game before K-State scored. The Cats pulled within three, but Nebraska scored ten unanswered points.

"I think we were a little jittery in the first game," Hagemeyer said of her squad, in which five of the starters were freshmen.

"But as the match went on, they settled down," she said.

K-State jumped off to a 2-0 start in the second game. But Nebraska went on to a 12-point run, and K-State couldn't come back.

In the final game, the Huskers didn't give up a point until they held a 9-0 lead. And despite the enthusiastic four-point rally that fired up the Cats, the Huskers hung on for the win.

Senior outside hitter Kathy Saxton finished the match with 11 kills — tops on the team.

Freshman setter Chi Dau led the team with 15 assists.

"The long-term results are much more important than what we're doing today," second-year coach Hagemeyer said. "I'd sure like this team to be one of the best in the Big Eight, but I can't do it in a year and a half."

"There are excellent things yet to come."

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Chi Dau, K-State setter, and middle blocker Heather Zoerner go up for a block during K-State's Wednesday night match.

INTRAMURALS

TKEs win flag football title

TONDO WALDRON
Collegian

The intramural flag football season is over, and it ended in a way seen only when the Chiefs play John Elway and the Denver Broncos.

Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity defeated Dean's Boys in the all-University game Tuesday night at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

But it didn't happen until the last play of the game. With the score 30-26, Dean's Boys had the ball on their final drive. The quarterback threw a completion into the end zone, but the official said the receiver was out of bounds.

"On the last play, we believe he made the catch and was pushed out of bounds," said senior Todd Parker of the Dean's Boys team.

"Our season went well, and we were confident with our team's ability," TKE senior Chad Benoit said.

The Dean's Boys were the champions of the independent division.

"They are far and away the best team we have played," Parker said of the TKE squad. "And it was our team's best game of the year."

The TKE team defeated the Marlatt 5 team to advance to the final. The championship game boosted the overall team record to 8-0.

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Leon Roberts, senior, Dean's Boys quarterback, looks for a receiver down field in the all-University flag football championships Tuesday.

"Everybody did their part," TKE catch, run and throw the ball." freshman Jeff Tauscher said. "Flag football is a lot of fun, because The team doesn't plan on ending its everybody needs to know how to

See TKEs Page 8B

WORLD SERIES

Toronto takes 3-1 Series lead

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — Jimmy Key put a lock on Atlanta bats, and the Toronto Blue Jays moved within a game of bringing the first World Series title to Canada in a 2-1 win Wednesday night in Toronto.

Key, passed over in Toronto's playoff rotation, pitched as though he hadn't missed a start. He blanked the Braves until the eighth inning and led the Blue Jays to a 3-1 Series lead.

Of the 34 teams to take 3-1 leads in the World Series, 28 have gone on to win. Toronto will try to do it Thursday night when Jack Morris, the MVP of last year's World Series, starts against Atlanta's John Smoltz.

Pat Borders put Toronto ahead with a solo homer in the third inning off Tom Glavine, the winner of Game 1. Key made it stand up until relievers Duane Ward and Tom Henke closed it out for the save.

The Blue Jays' bullpen has allowed one hit in nine scoreless innings.

For the ninth time in the last 10 Series games, it was a one-run decision.

Key went 7 2/3 innings, allowing five hits and one run. He struck out six without walking a batter.

SPORTS DIGEST

► WEFALD APPOINTED TO COMMISSION

K-State President Jon Wefald has been appointed to the NCAA Presidents Commission.

Wefald, assuming his position as Big Eight representative, will replace Gene Budig of the University of Kansas, who resigned from the commission.

The commission reviews NCAA issues including funding, athletic reforms and academic standards for athletes.

"This appointment is an honor and a challenge," Wefald said. "I look forward to this challenge and the opportunity to represent the interests of the member institutions of the Big Eight."

► KU PREDICTED TO BE BASKETBALL CHAMPS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Defending champion Kansas will win the Big Eight basketball championship, and Jayhawk forward Rex Walters will be the league's player of the year, according to the preseason media poll.

Kansas received 45 first-place votes. Oklahoma was picked second.

Following the Sooners were Iowa State third, Missouri fourth, Nebraska fifth and Oklahoma State sixth.

Missouri got the other first-place vote.

The panelists predicted K-State would end up seventh and Colorado would once again finish last.

CITY

DARE answers kids' drug questions

DEBORAH WHITSON
Collegian

There are K-State students who would give a left arm or any other appendage to be back in grade school, free of pressure and worry about jobs, the opposite sex and global warming.

But if adults pay attention to some of the questions raised during a Drug Abuse Resistance Education class, children have more to worry about than who gets the best equipment at recess.

Sgt. Larry George, DARE officer for the Riley County Police Department, teaches the class to sixth-grade students in Manhattan and Ogden.

"We try to make it more of a lifestyle-education class," he said. "Kids this age are pretty open, and we end up learning about a lot more than just drug use."

George teaches the class once a week for a semester, visiting one class at a time. His schedule keeps him busy going from school to school, to parents' meetings and just being seen around town.

He said he loves it. "The kids recognize me, and it gives them a different side of police officers," he said. "The kids at Lee school nicknamed me the 'DARE Dude' when they saw me at the mall and couldn't remember my name."

The program focuses on the pressures children face from their parents, school and mostly their friends. It tells how to deal with these pressures without using drugs to either avoid those pressures or to please a friend.

"A lot of kids in this age group have tunnel vision and think only of themselves," George said. "They spend as much time with their friends as possible and get caught up with what everybody else is doing."

The program helps kids learn what their rights are as people and how to deal with peer pressure, whether friendly or forceful. It suggests ways to say no and gives exercises for stressful situations.

"There are always a ton of questions," he said. "We talked about violence and guns today, and the way the media try to influence what people do or what they buy."

George said the kids usually have intelligent questions.

"Some of them want to know why it's legal to drink alcohol and not legal to smoke marijuana," he said. "They really pick up on these things."

George uses the workbook that is used by every DARE program in the United States and in four foreign countries. The book is illustrated and has exercises to complete, word definitions and ways to help children build self-confidence.

"The theory is that the more kids are aware of, the easier it is to help them," he said. "The reason we focus on this age group is to prepare them to face different situations they will face at the high-school and middle-school level."

George said the program was started in 1983 in California, and he was trained in Topeka.

CAMPUS

Musical theater program may streamline

LISA COLE
Collegian

Theater and dance faculty are working to make the musical theater option more available to theater majors.

Last spring, faculty members began to plan curriculum changes meant to reduce the number of hours required in the musical theater option, said Lewis Shelton, director of the theater program.

Shelton said the proposed changes have been drawn up, but not yet been submitted to the curriculum committee of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Luke Kahlich, professor of dance and theater, said the number of hours has been reduced by combining courses.

"A lot of it is streamlining to get the information to the students in a more efficient way," Kahlich said.

Shelton said the original option had 74 required hours. He said when College of Arts and Sciences general requirements were added, musical theater majors had to take 128 hours, which is more hours than are required for a bachelor of arts degree.

As a result of these higher requirements, few students take the musical theater option, Shelton said. Only three people have finished the curriculum since it was first offered about six years ago.

Kahlich said many people interested in musical theater majored in theater and just took extra music classes to avoid the musical theater major.

Shelton said he hopes the new curriculum will increase interest in the major. Both he and Kahlich said the major is important as a unique feature of K-State.

Exiled leader warns Serbian crisis may spread

Kosovo has appealed to European countries and the United States for recognition, but is more interested now in ending the martial law imposed by Serbia, according to Bukoshi.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Another crisis looms in the former Yugoslavia, one that could engulf neighboring Albania and other Balkan countries, the exiled prime minister of Kosovo said Wednesday.

Bujar Bukoshi, leader of 1.9 million Kosovans, warned of a possible massacre and exodus of half the population in an expected Serbian crackdown on a land it rules as a subprovince.

Bukoshi said in a news conference he had received support from State Department officials, who promised to do their utmost to prevent conflict.

Bukoshi said he is not demanding U.S. recognition for Kosovo, whose population is about 90 percent ethnic Albanians, but wants help to avert bloodshed.

Only Albania recognizes Kosovo as an independent country.

Serbia considers Kosovo the cradle of Serbian civilization, partly because it is the site of a great Serbian defeat at the hands of the Turks in the 14th century.

"Life in Kosovo is unbearable," Bukoshi said, who has lived in exile since he was parliamentarily elected prime minister a year ago. Bukoshi, a physician, now resides in Germany. Aides say he would be jailed or killed if he returns to his homeland.

Bukoshi said repression against ethnic Albanians in Kosovo by Serbs is increasing every day.

LAFENE WOMEN'S CLINIC

WOMEN'S HEALTH CARE SERVICES

- Birth Control Information/Prescriptions
- Pregnancy Testing/Counseling/Referrals
- Routine Gynecological Exams
- Sexually Transmitted Disease Testing/Information

532-6554

Lafene Health Center
Kansas State University

K-State Parking Services is offering a Seasonal Basketball Parking Pass for the General areas at Bramlage Coliseum.

Passes are available at a cost of $40 (over a 10 percent discount). Purchase yours at the Parking Services Office (128 Burr Hall) or at the Information Booth (next to the K-State Union on 17th Street).

MARKETING CLUB

PRESENTS

NESTLE

Speaker Cory Wofford

Mon., Oct. 26 7 p.m.
Union Room 212

HUNAM
EXPRESS

1116 Moro
537-0886

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
7 days a week

This coupon good for
Beef with Black Mushroom $3.75

Dine-in & carryout
Not valid with any other specials,
coupons, or on deliveries.

FREE DELIVERY MENU
(Minimum order $9)
Expires 10/29/92

WINTER INTERSESSION

Watch

for the Course Listing
in the Monday,
October 26 Collegian

Interession is January 2-12, 1993. It offers courses in a wide variety of departments for both undergraduate and graduate credit.

Registration for Interession will be in 217 Willard Hall, December 8, and in 131 College Court, December 9 and later.

For more information call the Division of Continuing Education, 532-5566.

Kansas State University

GREAT
MEMORIES
START HERE

1993
ROYAL
PURPLE

ATTENTION, ORGANIZATIONS:

Get your group signed up and lined up for Organization photographs. Portraits will be taken in McCain Room 324 from 6:00 to 9:40 p.m. Sept. 9 through Oct. 29.

Bring $10.00 to the Student Publications, Inc. Office, Kedzie Hall 103, to schedule a sitting time from now until Oct. 29. The maximum number of persons per photograph is 30. Groups with larger amounts must get additional photos taken on the same day. The minimum number of persons per photograph is 10 unless proof of a smaller membership is shown. Schedule your groups portrait today because a limited number of times are available.

Introducing: Miller Reserve and Miller Reserve Light

The country's newest beer
100% Barley Draft

Ask for it at your local retail outlet

Copy Co is Now Open Until 2:00 AM Sunday-Thursday • Aggieville

► Kansas Senate Race

Incumbent Lana Olen faces two challengers for the 22nd District's Senate seat: Michelle Smith and Mike Weir. PAGE 4B

► Kansas House Race

The house race is another three-way race with Kent Glasscock, Sheila Hochhauser and Joe Swanson vying for the seat. PAGE 4B

► Local Headquarters

The local headquarters of the Republican and Democratic parties play a key role in both local and national elections. PAGE 5B

► Congressional Races

U.S. Senate race focuses on Dole, O'Dell

TAD MUSSELWHITE
Collegian

Various media polls in the past month have shown the U.S. Senate race to be a dual between two candidates, Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., and Democratic candidate Gloria O'Dell.

Dole, 69, surprised no one by running for his fifth term on the U.S. Senate. He has spent eight years in the House and 24 in the Senate.

His decision to run for re-election, according to Walt Riker, Dole's press secretary, was made because of he has dedicated his life public service.

"Senator Dole's record shows he has helped people in Kansas, and he wants to do more for the people," Riker said.

Riker said Dole believes the biggest issues facing the candidates for the Senate seat are jobs and the economy, health care, and cutting the Federal deficit.

In order to improve the economy and create new jobs, Dole will work to stop wasteful spending, Riker said.

"Senator Dole will stimulate the economy with investment," Riker said.

"He believes in letting free enterprise work, and keeping the government out of business," he said. "He will encourage investors to take risks. This will create jobs."

"The key is not raising taxes and not imposing mandates on small sectors," Riker said of Dole's agenda.

Dole's challenger for Senate has labeled her bid for election "Gloria vs. Goliath."

O'Dell has been politically active serving as press secretary for 2nd District Congresswoman Martha Keys and for Tom Docking's 1986 gubernatorial campaign.

She also was the general campaign manager for Sally Thompson, the underdog who won the State Treasurer's race in 1990.

Erwin Seba, press secretary for Gloria O'Dell, said, "I think Gloria entered the race because she believes senators need to be held accountable, and she recognizes that many people feel the need for change. She represents that change."

Seba said there are a number

BOB DOLE
R-Russell

GLORIA O'DELL
D-Topeka

of issues facing the Senate seat, including jobs, health care, the economy, the deficit and Dole's record.

O'Dell's platform includes plans to improve the economy and create jobs through investment and improvements in the state infrastructure.

Seba said O'Dell would provide encouragement through tax incentives to private businesses, which would also create jobs in America.

O'Dell advocates a single-payer health care system, Seba said.

This plan is similar to the Canadian system, where people pay into a health care fund through premiums in taxes. This would reduce costs and take care of health care, he said.

Dole's record is an issue in this campaign, Seba said, because Dole serves the Republican party instead of serving Kansas.

Seba said in the 1980s, there were several rewrites in tax codes, in which Dole had intervention. He supported plans which helped companies outside of Kansas benefit, while Kansans did not benefit.

2nd District is up for grabs in U.S. House

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

The race to represent the 2nd District of Kansas in Congress may remind voters of the 1984 election.

Incumbent Democrat Jim Slattery will be on the ballot with Republican Jim Van Slyke, whom Slattery defeated in the 1984 race. Both are from Topeka.

His other opponent is Libertarian Arthur Clack of Manhattan.

Slattery has held the position since 1982 and had only been challenged once.

This will be the first election along the new 2nd District lines. Based on the 1990 census, 13 counties were added to the district, while part of Douglas County and Clay County were dropped.

The district has almost doubled in size, making it difficult for Slattery and Van Slyke to campaign, they said. Clack was not available for comment.

In comparing this election to the one in 1984, Van Slyke said he was virtually unknown then and was only 26 years old.

"Slattery had only been in Congress for two years. People were willing to give him a chance to see what he could do. But he's been there for 10 years now, and that's long enough," Van Slyke said.

Slattery said Van Slyke's campaign has had problems. "A number of years ago, I think it was 1980, he tried to get access to personnel records of a professor at K-State. He held himself out as a KU student. People have not forgotten what he did," Slattery said.

Van Slyke said, "he must be getting desperate. He must feel threatened if he brought that up. I did pose as a college student to get access to information that should have been public access anyway. I'm not proud of what I did, and I've already paid the price. That happened 12 years ago. There are more recent issues to talk about in this campaign."

One problem in the Van Slyke campaign has been a lack of funds. He said that problem exists for any challenger who is not individually wealthy.

Slattery said the important issues are the economy, health care, education and lowering the

■ See CONGRESSIONAL Page 8B

PHOTO NOT AVAILABLE

ARTHUR CLACK
L-Manhattan

JIM SLATTERY
D-Topeka

JIM VAN SLYKE
R-Topeka

Election

P R E V I E W

WHO SHOULD BE OUR PRESIDENT?

BRYAN LARSON
Collegian

With the presidential debates over and the elections just days away, it is time to make a final decision on who to vote for. Three serious candidates remain in the running in what has been a far from typical presidential election.

The debates offered a look into the personalities of the candidates and their ability to defend personal attacks, but little in the way of the issues. With that in mind, here is a rundown of some of the key issues and each candidate's stand.

The economy has been at the forefront in this election.

President George Bush admits the economy is in a lull, but he contends it is only part of a cycle. He says the United States has performed well amidst a recession. Bush says only minor changes are necessary to get the nation back on track.

Specifically, Bush has proposed across-the-board tax cuts that would save the American taxpayer $293 billion in the next five years. To pay for this, he would place a cap on entitlement programs such as Medicare, food stamps and farm subsidies. Bush favors a capital gains tax cut and new tax incentives for industry.

Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton says the Bush administration has drug its feet for too long on this issue. Clinton says changes must be made in order to deal with the economy.

Clinton has come up with a plan that will, according to him, create jobs, encourage business growth and create more opportunities for Americans. The plan, "Rebuild America," covers all areas of domestic policy.

This plan is not without a price, though. The plan is estimated to cost close to $20 billion. Clinton would pay for this by increasing taxes on people making more than $200,000 a year and by cutting defense spending.

Clinton also wants to give middle-class taxpayers a choice between a modest tax cut or a higher children's tax credit.

Independent Ross Perot says the economy needs to be dealt with, but he has come up with few specifics. Perot says that in order to take care of the economy, the deficit must be taken care of first. The deficit was the main reason Perot says he entered the campaign. He blames both parties for ignoring the issue like "the crazy aunt who lives in the basement, who nobody talks about."

To solve the problem, Perot would reform the way the budget is handled. He says he would make both sides sit down and cut out unnecessary spending until there was a balanced budget.

Perot also has favors significantly increasing the gas tax and applying the money towards the deficit.

But instead of laying out most of his proposals to reduce the deficit on paper, Perot has opted to use TV infomercials to describe his plans. He says by doing this, he can go directly to the American people.

The president favors reducing the deficit by slowing the growth of Medicaid and Medicare. He would freeze all other domestic spending and would cut the military budget by 21 percent in the next five years. Bush also favors a balanced-budget amendment to the Constitution.

Clinton claims he would trim the deficit in half by making drastic spending cuts, mostly in defense. He would cut the defense budget by making reforms in procurement and the Pentagon's inventory system. Clinton would also eliminate 100,000 federal jobs by attrition.

FIXING THE DEFICIT

Here is a simplified version of each candidate's plan to fix the national deficit.

GEORGE BUSH (R-Texas)

- 1 His plan would reduce the deficit to $130 billion by 1996. Most of the outback will come from unspecified means, such as a cap on entitlement spending.
- 2 He approves of a check-off plan, permitting taxpayers to give 10 percent of their personal income tax payments to reducing the debt.

BILL CLINTON (D-Arkansas)

- 1 He plans to cut the deficit in half in four years — reducing the deficit to $141 billion in 1996. This reduction comes from his theory that the economy will perform better under his policies.
- 2 Taxes on foreign companies operating in the United States, higher taxes on higher-income families, and spending cuts would go to finance tax cuts on the middle class and spending increases in other areas.

ROSS PEROT (I-Texas)

- 1 To cut the deficit, he first plans to cut discretionary spending. He would require federal departments to cut 5 percent from unnecessary or outdated programs. And then to cut all remaining programs by another 10 percent.
- 2 Favors eliminating special favors for companies, enacting a deficit reduction law and gaining allied support to pay off the deficit.

Source: Staff and wire reports

Collegian

Clinton is opposed to a balanced-budget amendment. He claims he amendment is only for show.

President Bush says he would not drastically change the present health-care system. He claims any reforms will have to come from within the free enterprise system. He says he would, however, provide low- and moderate-income families with tax credits or deductions for buying private health insurance.

Bush vehemently opposes any national health insurance or a federal mandate requiring businesses provide insurance. He would also establish tort reforms that would put limits on malpractice suits.

Clinton says the health-care crisis is one of the biggest problems facing the nation. He would establish a National Health Care Board that would set national and state health-care budgets to limit public and private health-care costs. He would require employers to provide coverage for workers while giving tax credits to the 15 percent of businesses that don't currently provide coverage.

Perot has yet to come public with plans on health care.

► Political topics

Focus of campaigns has changed in past year

"People are scared. They're losing jobs, and trying to pay bills. It's like, 'Read my lips, George, can I get a job?'"

JOE UNEKIS

DEBORAH WHITSON
Collegian

Did Bill inhale? Did George have an affair? Should a woman have the right to an abortion no matter what? Does anyone really care?

The presidential candidates might like to think everyone cares, but the consensus of two Riley County party spokesmen and a political science professor is that the economy is diminishing every other issue in this campaign.

"The family values issue has basically been dropped," said Joe Unekis, associate professor of political science. "Polls show it is not a burning issue in this campaign. The economy overrides everything."

Unekis said the latest recession has affected more people from the young, white-collar working class than previous recessions. This group was previously "shielded" from economic problems, but like everyone in the country, there is no longer anywhere to hide.

"People are just scared," Unekis said. "They're losing jobs, and trying to pay bills. It's like, 'Read my lips, George, can I get a job?'"

Unekis said it is usually very difficult to unseat an incumbent. About two years ago, Bush was the most popular president since people began conducting presidential polls.

"People forgot the war very quickly," Unekis said. "This whole economy thing is really a big issue."

Robert Littrell, chairman of the Riley County Democratic Party, said Bush has not acknowledged until recently that the country's economy is

■ See ISSUES Page 6B

ELECTION PREVIEW

► Kansas Senate

K-State, health care drive debate

Incumbent Oleen must face not one, but two challengers for her seat

KARREY BRITT
Collegian

Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, is running for the 22nd District's Senate seat again in the November election. Her challengers are Michelle Smith, D-Manhattan, and Mike Weir, L-Ogden.

"I have heard a great deal from the constituents in this community to continue my position," Oleen said. "I have had a lot of positive feedback from the community."

Oleen said she believes there has been many positive things happen while she was in office.

"There is a better balanced taxing system in Kansas," she said. "I feel I did the best I could under tight funding for the area and K-State."

Oleen said she was still concerned, however, about faculty salaries.

She said her work as chairwoman of higher education for the state and the government organization committee and her work with KGOAL (Kansas Governmental Operations Accountability Law) has been positive.

One of her goals is to see higher education restructured.

"I see education as an investment instead of more expenditures," Oleen said.

She said wants to develop a partnership for health care and to see a recycling bill presented.

"I would like to see some kind of a recycling bill, which would provide an incentive for people to recycle in all aspects," she said. "I would also like to see a plastic coding bill represented, which failed two years ago."

Economic vitality is an important issue to the region and state, she said.

"We need to concentrate on work-force training and job recruitment, and not as much on welfare," Oleen said. "We need to broaden our base for the state."

Oleen said she supported the students freedom of speech act.

"I am glad the governor took the final step and signed it," she said.

Government needs to be accountable in its services, Oleen said. It needs to maintain accessibility for the people.

"I have two main offices located in Manhattan and Junction City at my own cost," she said. "This is to maintain an accountability to this area."

Most importantly, Oleen said she respects all the parties.

"It is really important to gain respect from both sides," she said.

Oleen, 43, has an undergraduate and master's degree from Emporia State University and has lived in Manhattan for 15 years.

If re-elected, she said she will continue a high energy level and will continue to work hard for the people.

"I will cover issues as they are brought up by researching and doing homework concerning them," Oleen said. "I want to do

LANA OLEEN
R-Manhattan

MICHELLE SMITH
D-Manhattan

MIKE WEIR
L-Ogden

the best I can for the people in the area and community."

Oleen said to be a senator in this area, it takes a mature and high profile individual who can handle a variety of issues.

"This area does not include Manhattan only," she said. "It includes issues dealing with towns such as Fort Riley, Junction City and Ogden."

Running against her will be Michelle Smith. If elected, Smith said she will guarantee that we will see a more aggressive move toward health insurance for all people and job development in this area.

Smith, K-State sophomore in political science, officially replaced her husband, Michael, who was the party's candidate in the Aug. 4 primary, on Sept. 8.

Smith was approached to run for the position first but declined because she was working on another campaign. Instead, she volunteered her husband's name.

After discussions with Michael and encouragement from family and friends, Smith told Riley County Democratic Party Chairman Robert Littrell she would run.

"I lived in Kansas all of my life and had been away for three years on an army tour in Germany. And when I came back, I saw a completely different Kansas," Smith said.

"I really wanted to be able to touch the lives of the people who lived in Kansas, and the best way for me to touch those lives was to do it through a legislative manner."

Smith said she is especially interested in touching Kansans' lives through health care programs, family planning programs and family programs with child care.

"There have been no significant changes within the Legislature on health-care issues," Smith said. "Health care has been an issue for ten years, and there has been nothing done about it in the last four years. There has to be more done than just studying the issue."

Smith says the government needs to be more open and responsive.

As an intern in the Legislature and in Jim Slatery's congressional office, she said she learned there are many issues discussed and voted on that the constituents know nothing about.

Smith is also concerned with the military cut backs at Fort Riley.

"There already has been about 1,000 jobs lost. If we cut back more, this community will suffer. Fort Riley creates a lot of jobs for this community," Smith said.

"I am constantly praying and worrying about this issue."

However, Libertarian candidate Mike Weir doesn't agree with Smith.

"I feel Fort Riley is efficient enough as it is," Weir said. "We trained a lot of troops years ago, and it was large enough then. So, why isn't it now?"

Weir said he believes the government has become too involved.

"I want to have the opportunity to change the government before it is too late," he said.

"The government should exist according to the Libertarians to protect the people from aggression and violence," he said.

"However, the government has failed to protect."

"I am pro-life, and it is the government's responsibility to protect, instead of resting it upon the individuals themselves," he said.

He said he would also like to keep the central government from becoming a dictatorship.

■ See SOUTHWEST Page 8B

► Kansas House

Workers compensation is top topic for Kansas House of Reps race

KARREY BRITT
Collegian

Workers compensation needs to be reformed say the three local candidates running for the Kansas House of Representatives

Joe Swanson, Democratic candidate, will be running against Rep. Kent Glasscock, R-Manhattan. Swanson, 25, said he is running to serve the people.

"I couldn't stand to sit and watch television anymore," Swanson said. "There are good programs being tossed out the door. My basic concern is the Kansas economy. I have grown up in Kansas and lived here my whole life. I have a big concern and interest for the state of Kansas."

Another of Swanson's main concerns is health care. He said the government needs to mandate laws giving everyone at least minimal health-care coverage.

"Ninety-five percent of the time I was in college, I didn't have any health-care coverage," Swanson said. "Many students do not go to Lafene because they cannot afford the high cost of the medical bills. I feel there really needs to be something done about this."

Swanson said jobs are suffering because health care availability.

"Employees are not able to leave their jobs for better ones, because they want to receive health care," he said. "Therefore, the employees may be tired of their old jobs, but they are not willing to move on, which will in time make them less productive in those jobs."

Swanson said he thinks people will hear more of the school finance reform bill in the Legislature. Worker's compensation also will be a big issue in the 1993-94 legislature, he said.

Voter participation is another crucial issue, Swanson said.

"I want to see the people out there voting," he said. "I feel that everyone needs to be heard."

Swanson is a 1991 K-State graduate in forestry. He grew up in Frankfort, Kan.

Glasscock is running against Swanson with higher education as his main concern.

"I feel higher education in our area and the state of Kansas is very important," Glasscock said. "K-12 school reform is a bill that should be thought out. I think we should continue progress and fulfill the demands of our schools."

Worker's compensation also needs to be reformed, Glasscock said.

"I am concerned with the strength of the Kansas economy," he said. "I feel we need to pay close attention to it. We need to encourage our state to prosper by pointing the economy's initiatives in a new direction."

Glasscock said he is running again because he has done a thorough job and would like to continue it for two more years.

"I have no specific goals," he said. "I simply want to continue to do a good job. I have a solid vision for our area and state in Legislature. I will continue to work hard with others and form policies for our area."

Glasscock, 39, is a 1976 K-State graduate in English. He has lived in the Manhattan area since he was four years old.

Rep. Sheila Hochhauser, D-Manhattan, has no opposition as she runs again to represent 66th District.

"I am running again, because I enjoy the people and the district I represent," Hochhauser said. "I have made a difference."

Health care and insurance are among her main concerns. Worker's compensation is also a concern.

"I feel we need to find a reasonable level," she said. "One in which we are not taking away the right of the people disabled to work."

"I would also like to see a reform in worker's compensation and an adequate change at the state level dealing with health insurance."

Hochhauser said welfare also needs reforming.

"Our welfare system needs some significant reforms," she said. "People go on and off of it constantly. We need to make a self-sufficient system where we have better training."

Hochhauser, 41, has a master's degree from the University of Michigan in public health and a law degree from the University of North Carolina

KENT GLASSCOCK
R-Manhattan

SHEILA HOCHHAUSER
D-Manhattan

JOE SWANSON
D-Manhattan

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

Send A Smile

BALLOON CREATIONS
Send a little fun with Balloons from The Palace!

Candy
Balloons
Containers
Stuffed Animals
Partyware
BULK PRICING

FREE DELIVERY AVAILABLE IN MANHATTAN

704 N. MANHATTAN • IN AGGIEVILLE • 499-7044
MON-FRI 8:30-6:30 • SAT 8:30-5:30 • SUN 10:00-5:00

OCTOBER SPECIAL

$10 off Perms • $8 off Colors • $5 off Haircuts with Brenda or Erika

10% off any professional products

Must present or mention this ad
Expires Oct. 24, 1992

WE USE AND RECOMMEND Matrix
ESSENTIALS

PAUL MITCHELL
SYSTEME
BIOLAGE

Erika

1125 Laramie in Aggieville, 776-9100

Brenda

ONE HOUR PHOTO & PORTRAIT STUDIO

Photo Processing At Its Best

40% off Processing

(35 mm, 110, 126, C-41)

EXPIRES Oct. 31, 1992

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-6 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Not valid with any other promotion

1134 Garden Way
Across from Westloop

C-1-6
776-9030

KEEP THE QUALITY • KEEP THE QUALITY •

THE ONLY QUALIFIED CANDIDATE

RE-ELECT ILENE COLBERT
COUNTY CLERK
•23 Years of Experience
LET'S KEEP THE COUNTRY RUNNING EFFICIENTLY

PAID FOR BY CITIZENS FOR ILENE COLBERT

ILENE COLBERT

MONEY DOESN'T GROW ON TREES YOU KNOW!

BUT YOU CAN MAKE EXTRA MONEY BY DONATING!

This coupon is worth $15 for new donors on your first or second donation within six days or if you have not returned within two months. Present this coupon and earn extra cash. For more information call the friendliest staff in town at 776-9177!

MANHATTAN DONOR CENTER

1130 Gardenway • Mon.-Thurs. 9-6, Fri. 9-4:30, Sat. 9-1

ROSE MUFFLER HOUSE

"Our Business is Exhausting"

- GLASS TINTING SERVICES AVAILABLE
- MUFFLERS-TAILPIPES
- DUAL SYSTEMS
- AUTO (AMERICAN & FOREIGN)
- RVs-LIGHT & HEAVY DUTY TRUCKS
- CUSTOM PIPE BENDING
- WINDSHIELD REPAIR SERVICE available by The Glass Mechaniks

FREE ESTIMATES

2049 Ft. Riley Blvd. 1-800-439-8956 776-8955

ELECTION PREVIEW

Local headquarters are backbone

GOP's HQ serves as a nerve center

ANDY WOODWARD
Collegian

Republican forces are rallying in and around Manhattan in anticipation of the upcoming election. The nerve center for the Republicans is the party headquarters in downtown Manhattan.

"We are giving a great deal of support to our candidates locally," said Cathy Mowry, precinct committee chairwoman. "We had a wonderful rush on campaign material for President Bush — issues, papers, T-shirts. There's been a great deal of interest in Bush/Quayle material," Mowry said.

Many of the candidates run their own campaign and simply use the headquarters as a home base, utilizing the telephone and face-to-face communication.

"We are in a downtown location, which is where not so much foot traffic comes in. We do as much business by telephone as by foot traffic," Mowry said.

"Each candidate has its own organization for information. It's a usual year for the volunteers," Mowry said. Information is being distributed individually by the respective Republican candidates.

Another function of the Republican headquarters is to organize mailings for the candidates.

"The main thing is that we've been putting together mailings," said Mark Haterfohl, Republican county chairman. "Over a period of a week, we'd put together one good size mailing," Haterfohl said.

The size and number of pieces per mailing varies from candidate to candidate.

Haterfohl said Kent Glasscock's campaign was the largest being run out of the campaign headquarters.

"Kent Glasscock is a 6,000-piece mailing," Haterfohl said.

"Many candidates run their campaigns out of this location. The candidates have their meetings down there. Some of the candidates are big enough to have enough volunteers for their own operation.

"We've also been looking for non-registered people and encouraging them to vote," Haterfohl said.

Other information at the headquarters pertains to where one may register.

■ See KSU REPUBLICANS Page 6B

Student volunteers help local office

Walking and talking are keys to candidates' success

KRISTEEN YOUNG
Collegian

In what was once a home and then a bakery, doctor's office and book shop, members of the Democratic party have set up shop.

The Riley County Democratic headquarters moved into the abandoned house on Houston Street and began work in September.

"The campaign doesn't really get going in earnest until September. If you've ever been in Manhattan in August, you know what I mean," said Robert Littrell, headquarters' chairman.

Littrell was making reference to how quiet Manhattan is when K-State's classes aren't in session. But now that the students are back, Littrell has gotten them involved in the Democratic campaigns.

As volunteers, many have helped out at headquarters, and many of them have been K-State students.

"Lots of people will come in for a while and some for even longer," Littrell said.

"There is a lot of interest, and interest is gaining as they sense Clinton may make it in Kansas. I, for one, can't wait."

Volunteers have channeled their excitement into what some of them called "monotonous, but much needed tasks."

Michelle Smith, Democratic candidate for Kansas Senate said she has received a lot of support from headquarters.

"Everyone has done a lot of things for me that I would hate to do," Smith said. "It is a lot of monotonous stuff, but they've done it with a smile and been great about it."

About 300 Clinton/Gore yard signs have been distributed throughout Riley County, and phone calls have been made to registered Democrats, urging them to get out and vote.

Sometimes, they reach independent voters when calling.

"If you reach independents, they are going to be the swing votes," Littrell said.

Part of reaching the independents has been in the door-to-door campaign.

Mary Nichols, candidate for State Board of Education, Karen McCulloh for Riley County commissioner of the 3rd District, and Jan Garton for county commissioner of the 2nd District have spent much of their free time walking and talking to voters.

"I go to every door regardless of party affiliation," McCulloh said. "When I run across people who say they aren't registered, I will try to encourage them just to vote."

McCulloh, Garton and Nichols said they walk from 5 p.m. to dark almost every evening and about 12 hours on the weekends.

Garton said that even though someone is registered one way, there is still a need to reach them.

"There are the extremists who will only vote for their party, but I've continued to talk about the issues the county needs to face regardless of whether they are Republican or Democrat," Garton said.

Nichols said that her walking has put her better in touch with the people she hopes to represent.

"I want them to know I really mean what I say and try to get the issues first hand from people by talking to them," she said.

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

Democratic candidates for county and state offices discuss strategies they are using for their campaigns during an informal meeting at Manhattan's Democratic headquarters on the 400 block of Houston Street.

A lone volunteer does some paper-work in the Republican headquarters downtown on Poyntz Avenue.

Strong Leadership

Kent delivered strong leadership with his active role in:

- Making taxes more fair through property and motor vehicle tax relief and readjustment of income and sales taxes.
- Protecting the environment through a strong solid-waste management plan.
- Repealing the outrageous legislative pension and passing tougher ethics laws.
- Getting needed money for K-State including budget increases, a long-awaited enrollment adjustment, and Farrell Library funding.
- Caring for our children with the "Healthy Kids Act" and many other children's initiatives.
- Writing a new school capital improvements plan maintaining local control as part of a new education finance plan that increased local school district funding.
- Keeping Riley and Geary counties together in the Second Congressional district.

• Key committees: Taxation, Energy and Natural Resources, and Rules and Regulations.

Shared Values

When Kent was elected to his first term in office in 1990, the message from the voters was clear: "No more politics as usual!" We needed someone who could get the job done for us in Topeka. We wanted results, and we got results!

From fairer taxes to resetting our priorities for government spending, from helping our kids have healthier lives to protecting the environment, Kent has proven to us he can get the job done. Kent has shown Topeka how to build cooperation among legislators regardless of political party. But he has also shown Topeka how to stand strong when you know you are doing what is right, no matter who opposes you.

Kent's promise was fair, thoughtful, effective government with a focus on values embodied in quality education, clean environment, fair taxation, strong families and healthy kids. Now we need to reaffirm our belief in these values by sending Kent back to Topeka. Strong leadership, shared values. It works!

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Strong Leadership
Shared Values

IT WORKS!

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative
Bill Varney, Treasurer

JIM WILLIAMS
FOR RILEY COUNTY COMMISSION
2ND DISTRICT

THE CANDIDATE WHO IS WORKING FOR YOU!

- Supports new business and new jobs in Riley County
- Supports environmentally safe solid waste disposal
- Supports rural road construction
- Supports local childrens' and social services

NO FALSE PROMISES

NO
HIDDEN
AGENDA

PAID FOR BY JIM WILLIAMS FOR RILEY COUNTY COMMISSION

ELECTION PREVIEW

Issues abundant in '92 campaign

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3B

hurting. "Bush hasn't done anything in the years he's been in office," he said. "He just recently decided there was a problem."

But Littrell said he has been through several down times in the economy, and he doesn't think any one person has all the answers, including Clinton.

Littrell said the family values issue, if it can be called an issue, is of little importance to most of the people he has talked to. He said the country is too culturally diverse to take something like that seriously.

However, Mark Hatesohl, chairman for the Riley County Republican Party, said there are a lot of people with conservative values who think it is a problem.

"Whether its drugs, gangs or violence, these types of crimes have become more common since the family unit began breaking up," Hatesohl said.

He said a lot of people believe the upsurge in crime can be traced to when the woman began leaving the home to go to work. When values deteriorated, crime increased, which he said is a concern to the whole country.

Issues in the campaign have run the gamut, from infidelity to service in the military.

"That POW thing needs to be dropped in a hurry," Hatesohl said. "It has been beaten to death, and I don't think Clinton's not going to Vietnam should be an issue either."

Hatesohl said that no one wanted to go. But he said he could see where people might think that stance is a problem.

"The thing that kept the U.S. strong through all the reorganization in Europe, and through the war, was the military," he said. "People think that if a person was reluctant to serve in the military, he might not want to use the military, and this could give other countries a weak perception of our country."

Hatesohl said that America should send out the signal, "Don't mess with us," but that we shouldn't be trigger happy, either.

Littrell said Clinton's draft record was typical of a lot of people at that time.

"I read the letter he wrote about it," he said. "I was in the same position, and I can relate to that. It wasn't such a great idea for everybody."

Unekis said infidelity is one area where Bush feels vulnerable. That is why he hasn't brought up the Gennifer Flowers issue for several months.

"Clinton's camp sent a clear message to Bush about that issue," he said. "Bush realized there was dirt to be dug up, and he has backed down."

Bush has been trying to attack Clinton's integrity and his track record as governor, Unekis said.

"Arkansas has a relatively poor economy, but there has to be a reason why he has been reelected six times," he said.

The economy has repeatedly been hammered by Clinton, and Bush has no answers, Unekis said. There is nothing the Bush campaign can do to stop the statistics, and the statistics are bad.

How about that abortion thing? Littrell said opponents of choice have a larger agenda.

"They would not only try to control reproductive habits, but would carry it over to birth control," he said.

"As ludicrous as that is in this day and age, there are people who would take it to that extreme. Does the number of men involved in this issue not surprise you?"

Hatesohl said he thinks that electing a president based on this issue is narrow-minded.

"It's a personal choice, and I don't think it should be legislated," he said. "The problem boils down to people taking consequences for their actions."

Abortion was supposed to be one of the defining issues of this campaign, Unekis said.

"But again, it is shadowed by the economy. If the race becomes close, it may be more important, but it isn't close," he said.

Unekis predicted Clinton to win the election. He said before Perot reentered the race, the question was by how much Clinton would win. Now, Perot will take some of the margin out of the victory.

"Perot isn't interested in winning. He just wants to bring the deficit issue to the surface," he said.

"Bush's people are hoping for a miracle, and that's what it would take to turn things around."

KSU Republicans volunteer services

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5B

where one may vote, the new districting of the state, and the different county and city districts.

"We usually get somewhere between 10 to 20 people down there daily," Haterfohl said.

Another hotbed for Republican activism is the K-State's College Republicans chapter. Membership in the group has tripled from this time last year.

"We've had about 150 people pay dues so far," said Neil Neaderhiser, senior in engineering technology and chairman of the College Republicans.

Neaderhiser said the purpose of the group is to inform people about the Republican Party.

"We encourage people to register. It's not something where we've been actively registering. We're more the educational aspect. We're more concerned with how people vote," Neaderhiser said.

The group also familiarizes the surrounding area with their representatives.

"We've been having speakers come in. Lana (Oleen) and Kent (Glasscock) came to speak.

Former Gov. Avery came in to give us his perspective," Neaderhiser said.

On occasion, the duties of College Republicans and the Republican Party headquarters overlap.

"A lot of the members have been volunteering to go down there and man the place. They address letters, answer the phone, answer any questions," Neaderhiser said.

Kent Epard, senior in electrical engineering, is the state vice chairman for the College Republicans.

"I know some people from the K-State and Washburn chapters went to listen to Hillary (Clinton) at KU and held up Bush signs. Also, some went to see Barbara Bush in Kansas City," Epard said.

"On election night there will be a big reception at the Ramada in Topeka. So, that will be a good time," Epard said.

Control of the individual chapters of College Republicans is decentralized, leaving each chapter to proceed as it sees fit.

"We've left it up to the local chapters to do their own thing," Epard said.

WE TAKE TIPS! 532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

ESSENTIALS

D.W. draws readers' responses for dehumanizing dating

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

DEAR CASSANDRA,

This letter is in response to D.W. in your column Oct. 20. Just who does this guy think he is?

He has exhibited a complete disregard for the woman in question as a person and reduced their relationship (if you can call it that), to the buying and selling of sex.

If that's all he wants, he can buy it up front and cheap a few miles down the road any night of the week. May I suggest he try that avenue and quit preying on women who are looking for a meaningful relationship, rather than a night in the sack.

D.W. is just the kind of guy who makes dating such a risky proposition in the 1990s. I've sat by and watched my friends fall for just this kind of guy, and I've seen the pain they leave behind when they get what they want and hit the road.

Girls, don't think you have to trade your body for a few dates. You don't owe a guy anything just because he buys you dinner or flowers, or takes you to a movie.

I know from personal experience there are guys out there who want more than sex out of a relationship. Hang in there, don't be afraid to say "no" and don't sell yourself for any price.

And to D.W., grow up and stop thinking with your johnson.

Sincerely, Not For Sale

DEAR NOT FOR SALE,

Great letter. I would only add one thing — offer to share the cost of the evening, or even take the gentleman out at "your treat."

This is not only fair, but it removes the burden upon you, and you won't "owe" him anything.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

You were a little too easy on D.W. Oct. 20.

It's a shame he can't visit the head if he doesn't get his way. The $500 figure makes sex appear as his reason for dating this young woman. If I were her, I'd make sure he had a little more respect for my person than how well I function.

His concern with how much money he's spent is the first tipoff to his desire to get a cheap lay. Wouldn't it be much cheaper to visit a red-light district?

The money bothers me, as it should the woman concerned. It makes her sound like a whore, though certainly not a cheap one.

D.W. deserved to be left buzzing, because it sounds as if three dates is a minimum criteria for Pre-Marital Sex (PMS).

I'd rather D.W. save his money and search for a woman with the personality to support more than his sexual desires. This would save the rest of us from having to console her after his sincerity is found to be only skin deep.

D.W. (not the same), K-State junior

DEAR D.W.,

You are right. I was rather easy on D.W. I could have advised him that $500 would buy quite a few "able and willing" inflatable dolls. But before I do that again, I want to purchase a few more shares of DuPont stock.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

- ACROSS 1 Pasty 4 Take five 8 Window part 12 "All Those Years" ('81 song) 13 Always 14 Jai 15 Barbarity 17 Moving vehicles 18 High note 19 Drilling chips 21 Avedon's necessity 24 Recent: prefix 25 Clerical garment 26 — sum (Chinese delicacy) 28 Country singer Charley 32 "On Your —" (musical) 34 Chihuahua, e.g. 36 Skier's hope 37 Ice mass 39 Charlotte's creation 41 Opponent 42 Tub 44 Units of length 46 Woody Allen movie of 1971 50 Paper money: abbr. 51 Yoked beasts 52 Georgia's oldest city 56 Landlord's due 57 Trolley 58 Be indebted to 59 Dates to beware of 60 Comfort 61 Mend a 62 D.C. hem DOWN 1 "How Green — My Valley" 2 — Khan 3 30-day month 4 Esteem 5 Anne Baxter role 6 Balkan 7 Use the fitting room 8 Rescuers 9 Actor Rickman 10 Performed an aria 11 Derisive sound 16 Pub order 20 D.C. bigwig 21 Lynx and cougar 22 Lotion ingredient 23 Help 27 Clip the grass 29 Raging fires 30 One of Monty Hall's three-some 31 Female sheep 33 Learned scholars 35 Precious stone 38 Half a French dance? 40 Grew 43 Sip 45 Cask 46 Soprano Lucrezia 47 Chopped 48 Hawaiian goose 49 FDR's mother 53 Anatomical vessel 54 Reverential fear 55 Cut

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873/19¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

10-22 CRYPTOQUIP CY XJ YOERICKU ZIJ DQUOPUI DOP IUXREU KACM MKOCP C'QQ TOJ ACX RP KAU MTRK. Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHEN LOCAL BARKEEPER WAS SENT TO PRISON HIS BUSINESS WAS ON THE ROCKS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: E equals V

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word

2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word

3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word

4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word

5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

000
BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

WARM UP before Manhattan High Football game. Boy Scout Troop number 79 Chili Feed, Pottorf Hall, Cico Park. Fri., 23, 5-8p.m.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

A WATCH at terminals in basement of Cardwell Hall. Identify and claim in room 23, Cardwell.

FOUND: TWO sets of keys, a watch, a pair of men's glasses. A lapel pin and "The Norton Anthology of English Literature" book found in or around Denison Hall. Claim at Denison room 106.

FOUND: WATCH and three rings. Call 539-9397 to identify.

LOST: ORANGE long coat. It's a Ralph Lauren with car keys in the right pocket. Lost Thurs. night in Aggieville at Longhorns, Kites, Chance, or Silverados. REWARD if found. No questions asked!! Call 539-6809.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

TNT at Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Every Thursday
99¢ Margaritas, 50¢ Draws
59¢ Tacos- Candlewood Shop.Ctr.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers.
Open 7 days a week
Mon-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon
Candlewood Shopping Center

BOO!
We want you!
Come to Kedzie 103 and place a Halloween personal today!
Deadline is Oct. 28.

ALPHA CHI baby Amy H—I'm so happy to have you for a dot! Mommy loves you!—Mommy Michelle

AX JULIE—Last night you found your family we'll have the most fun I guarantee. I'm really glad to have as my dot, cause you're gonna be the best tot! Lynda

BABY: HAPPY birthday. Have a good "meeting" today—a "mo-mentous" occasion. Love, your beefcake.

CASSIE, I'm sorry about the last few weeks. Give me another chance and you won't regret it. I Love You, J.

HEY BIRTHDAY Babe, I wish I could help you celebrate! Maybe next year? Hippo.

JOANNA S.—Happy B-day dot. Hope your day's great. Let's have fun tonight. J.

MICHAEL "UHL" six weeks ago. Kites. We danced, talked, whistled into a bottle. Hardees. Had fun! Kites Sat. 7 Call. SN TETSE—IT'S October 22, your 22 birthday, and it's been 2 years and 2 months. I love you twice as much! Steph.

050 Parties and More

"SCOOT YOUR boots with the Collegiate FFA. We'll show you how to Boogie". Collegiate FFA dance at Silverado's. October 22, 9p.m.—1:30a.m. $3 single/ $5 couple.

HOT—TUB rentals for all occasions; Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/delivery, special weekday/multiday rates. Wet n' Wild 537-1821.

100
HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

AVAILABLE NOW two-bedroom house, two blocks from Aggieville and campus. Large rooms, private parking, great neighborhood. Lease runs through May. Call 537-3760.

110 For Rent- Apts. Unfurnished

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and

July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY! Sublease one-bedroom $305. Now through July 31. Campus shuttle. Pool/ hot tub. 537-3683 after 5p.m. or message.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

SPACIOUS ONE—two-bedroom. Beautiful hard wood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan.—Aug. 539-2019.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6p.m.

135 For Sale-Mobile Homes

10X65 MOBILE Home. Good condition, $3750, 456-9743.

140 For Rent-Garage

ONE CAR garage. Walk to class 539-1554.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in large two-bedroom tri-level apartment. $180 plus deposit. Fun roommates! 1825 College Heights. Call 539-6539

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coined laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Own room/bath. Washer/dryer. Nice large house. Available Nov. 1. 537-3304.

FEMALE to share nice farm house. Alta Vista area. Small dog okay. $275, one-half utilities. Ann 532-7256 (days) 499-5352 (nights).

FEMALE, OWN bedroom. $175 plus utilities. In Wamego. Call 456-2372 leave message.

MALE/ FEMALE own bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $212 per month, plus one-half utilities at Park Place 587-0562.

ROOMMATES WANTED: Brittain Ridge Townhome. Completely furnished except bedrooms. Lease from time signed to Aug. 1, 1993. 776-0589.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

150 Sublease

FEMALE, NON-SMOKER, to sublease apartment, own room, furnished, $185 plus one-third utilities, one block east of campus. Mario and Rebecca 776-9659.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over 200

SERVICE DIRECTORY

210 Resume/Typing

$1.25/ DOUBLE, $10/ resume. Laser printer. Also specializing in tables, equations, and overheads. Professional results guaranteed. Please call Sandy 539-3229.

A FIVE minute walk from Aggieville. Resumes, letters, papers typed as low as $1.25 double spaced. Please call Melia 776-1534.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/ Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing Centers

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

240 Musicians/DJs

KATAHDIN SEEKS Bass Player. Influences include Zep. Sabbath, AC/DC, Metallica, etc. Call 537-3294 (leave message) or 776-7110 (ask for Rob).

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring—Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Carri-

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2968.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

When you're ready to advertise, tune in with the Classifieds.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 116 532-6556

bean, etc.) Holiday. Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206)634-0468 ext. C5768.

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL Transcriptionist needed for pathology laboratory, part-time evening hours. Please send resume to P.O. Box 128, Manhattan, KS 66502.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room-Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

Student Office Help. Need mature, responsible, hard working student. Requires considerable typing (inputting text); editing bulletin and newsletter entries; calling agencies/ publication sources to request materials; and creating memos to be sent to Deans, Directors, and Department Heads. Typing speed of 50 words per minute, working knowledge of WordPerfect, and computer experience essential. Good grammar and writing skills are needed. Experience with desktop publishing and newsletter production preferred. A pleasant phone manner and ability to work with the public are desired. General maintenance of library will be required and the ability to maintain operation when Information Specialist is not available. The individual hired will need to pass a typing, filing, and word processing test. Prefer work study student who can work at least 20 hours/ week and summers. Please contact Sherill at 532-5045, Office of Research and Sponsored Programs, 2 Fairchild Hall.

320 Volunteers Needed

EATING DISORDERS: subjects wanted for important study on Bulimia, and therapy. 45 minute questionnaire sent to you. Confidential and anonymous. Call 776-7808.

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6556

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

300

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring—Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Carri-

320 Volunteers Needed

EATING DISORDERS: subjects wanted for important study on Bulimia, and therapy. 45 minute questionnaire sent to you. Confidential and anonymous. Call 776-7808.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ATTENTION STUDENTS: Earn extra cash stuffing envelopes in your own home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801. Immediate Response.

CARPET CLEANING business. Excellent opportunity for college student/ house wife. All equipment/ supplies necessary. Excellent condition. $6195 negotiable. 1-494-8484 leave message.

MAKE $1000'S stuffing envelopes. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to J.C. Inc., P.O. Box 864, Manhattan, KS 66502-0088.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Please call after 5p.m. 776-8496.

STUDENTS OR organizations. Promote our Florida Spring Break packages. Earn money and free trips. Organize small or large groups. Call campus marketing. 1-800-423-5264

FOR SALE

400

OPEN MARKET

410 Items for Sale

CAMARO BURLINETTA Wheels, gold aluminum with caps $300 or best offer, call Brian at 776-3656.

CANNONDALE BIKE SR 400 1990 with extras $300 Uni disc, bike stand, lock, water cage (2) 58 cm frame, 776-2343

GMAT REVIEW Official Software 90-92 Edition (includes Official Guide book). Paid $60, asking

1978 MONTE Carlo, runs good, good tires, $750, 456-9743.

1979 DODGE Omni: Very dependable. Two new tires, new clutch. 121,000 miles. $550 or best offer. 539-2145.

1981 BUICK Century, red, new battery, alternator and water pump. $850, negotiable. 587-0163 (Ali) Jardine.

1981 FORD Mustang. 85,000 miles, sunroof, air condition, two-door, automatic, silver color, two owners only. Runs perfectly $1600. 776-1119.

1984 CHEVY pick-up, runs good, no rust, power steering/ brakes. Two year old tires. 539-6352.

1984 NISSAN, king cab 4x4 five-speed, Alpine system. Customized with

CLASSIFIED DIRECTORY

000
BULLETIN BOARD

100
HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

200
SERVICE DIRECTORY

300
EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

400
OPEN MARKET

500
TRANSPORTATION

600
TRAVEL/ TRIPS

TIPS FOR WRITING A CLASSIFIED AD

Always put what item or service you are advertising first. This helps potential buyers find what they are looking for. Don't use abbreviations. Many buyers are confused by abbreviations. Consider including the price. This tells buyers if they are looking at something in their price range.

CATEGORIES

To help you find what you are looking for, the classified ads have been arranged by category and sub-category. All categories are marked by one of the large images, and sub-categories are preceded by a number designation.

WE DO NOT USE PHONE NUMBERS OR LAST NAMES IN PERSONALS.

What do you do if you see a fire?
1. Call 911
2. Then call us

News Tips
532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

extras. $6500 call 537-0392.

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6556

520 Bicycles

56 CM Raleigh road bike, race ready! Comes with Avocet computer. Call Thursday, 10-22 from 5p.m.-10p.m.

FOR SALE: 1993 specialized Hardrock Sport Mountain bike. Brand new, never ridden. Great buy, must sell. $315 negotiable. Call 539-0816.

YAKIMA BIKE rack with two standard bike mounts, plus mounting kit and locks, $100 or best offer, 776-5588

600

TRAVEL/ TRIPS

610 Your Package

PADRE ISLAND—Spring Break. Five nights at Bahia Mar Resort. Transportation included. $50 deposit and $259 total. Cruises and Travel 776-2217.

11TH ANNIVERSARY
CHRISTMAS
LAST CHANCE!
STEAMBOAT
DECEMBER 19-21 11 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
JANUARY 2-4 11 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
DECEMBER 19-21 11 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
JANUARY 2-4 11 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-4 11 A.M. TO 7 P.M.
11TH ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOTAL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

1978 MONTE Carlo, runs good, good tires, $750, 456-9743.

1979 DODGE Omni: Very dependable. Two new tires, new clutch. 121,000 miles. $550 or best offer. 539-2145.

1981 BUICK Century, red, new battery, alternator and water pump. $850, negotiable. 587-0163 (Ali) Jardine.

1981 FORD Mustang. 85,000 miles, sunroof, air condition, two-door, automatic, silver color, two owners only. Runs perfectly $1600. 776-1119.

1984 CHEVY pick-up, runs good, no rust, power steering/ brakes. Two year old tires. 539-6352.

1984 NISSAN, king cab 4x4 five-speed, Alpine system. Customized with

You'll never know unless you try...advertising.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 532-6555

ELECTION PREVIEW

Out in the sun

Joe Tabbi, assistant professor of English, leads his Survey of American Literature class Wednesday near Holtz Hall. Tabbi said he decided to take his class outside because of the nice weather.

SANJEEV SHARMA/Collegian

Congressional seat hot ticket

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3B

federal deficit. Van Slyke said congressional reform is also an issue.

"People are more concerned with their economic future," Slattery said. "They're worried about their jobs. Young people are worried about finding jobs."

Slattery supports reducing the capital gains tax, keeping interest rates down and stopping the use of taxes to encourage businesses to relocate out of the country.

He also favors eliminating big-ticket items, which are expenses of more than $1 billion, like the B-2 Bomber, from the Pentagon budget. He introduced a health insurance reform package, which would require insurance agencies to provide basic insurance to everyone who applies.

Van Slyke said that Slattery's insurance plan would force an increase in rates for everyone.

Van Slyke's proposals for congressional reform would set term limits and reduce perks and privileges for members of Congress. He is in favor of a balanced-budget amendment, a presidential line item veto and a plan to eliminate new federal spending.

Slattery wrote 50 overdrawn checks from the House bank, which Van Slyke said would hurt Slattery.

Slattery said, "When I was elected, I asked about an overdraft protection plan. Most banks, if you have a long-standing relationship with them, will give you a line of credit to cover your overdraft. They told me I could draw on next month's check. All of my checks were paid and honored. The Republican special prosecutor had access to financial records and said I did nothing wrong."

Voter interest at its peak in '92

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — After all the talk about how much American voters hate politics, the surprise of this election year may be how much they care.

By several measures of voter interest, people are keeping a much closer watch on the presidential campaign than they did four years ago.

Voter registration rolls are up. The presidential debates were TV ratings winners. Millions of people are even tuning in for Ross Perot's bar-charts-and-bad-news infomercials.

"There are lots of indications of higher interest this year," said Curtis Gans, Center for the Study of the American Electorate director. "There's a lot of fear and a little anger out there."

"The 1988 campaign left Americans with ashes in their mouths over the state of their political process," wrote political reporter E.J. Dionne Jr. in his book, "Why Americans Hate Politics." "It had been a brutish, backward-looking, divisive campaign. Most of the issues Americans really cared about had gone largely undiscussed ... and the voters hated what they saw."

Voters may not be happy by what they see this year, but by most accounts the 1992 campaign has been far more issues-oriented and the electorate seems to be more engaged than in 1988.

In a CBS News poll conducted after the first presidential debate, 94 percent said they were paying at least some attention to the campaign, up from 75 percent at about the same point in 1988.

And the debates themselves were a gauge of interest. More than 90 million people tuned in to the final debate Monday night, compared with 74 million viewers for the highest-rated debate in 1988.

Southwest counties have legitimate gripe, Weir says

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4B

"It is our last chance to remain a free country," Weir said. "And this must be maintained. I would like to see the elimination of a lot of laws that exceed their function and authority."

Weir said he thinks the southwest Kansas counties have a legitimate gripe with regard to their taxes. He said he agrees something needs to be done about the secession petition of these counties.

Weir, 43, was stationed at Fort Riley in 1981 and was discharged in 1984. He is a truck driver living in Ogden.

Mortar Board National Senior Honor Society offers

2 Scholarships of $200 each

Current Juniors eligible

Applications available in SGA Office

Due date November 5

TKEs win championship

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1B

season any time soon, though. With this victory, it is qualified to go to New Orleans to compete for a chance to play at halftime of the Sugar Bowl.

"We are planning on getting a team to go to New Orleans," Roberts said. "We have 15 guys as of now."

The rules for the tournament are slightly different, Roberts said, so the TKEs will continue to practice to modify their game.

The Marlatt 5 team won the residence-hall division. In the women's bracket, Gamma Phi Beta sorority took first-place honors. The Geeks-Blade Cutters were the champions of the co-rec division.

Intramural activities continue as volleyball started Wednesday night. A total of 241 teams have signed up to play, said Steve Martini, associate director of the Rec Complex.

SECOND LATIN AMERICAN LECTURE SERIES

DATE: OCTOBER 22, 1992

Topic: Indian Survival in Guatemala and the United States: 1492-1992.

Speaker: Elena Ixcot (Maya Nation), International Maya League.

"Maya Indians in Resistance, Exile, and the Plight for International Solidarity."

Speaker: Daniel Wildcat (Yuchi Tribe), Chair-Person, Department of Natural and Social Sciences, Haskell Junior College, Lawrence, Kan.

"Native America: The Legacy of Cultural Destruction."

Place: Little Theater, Union, 3:30 p.m.

Professor makes list for checking candidates

Listen well, watch for signs of integrity, Burtis says

KARREY BRITT
Collegian

During the presidential candidates debates, many voters were watching with an especially cautious eye.

Some of them did so with the help of a list of election tips composed by John Burtis, associate professor of speech.

As Election Day approaches, and the candidates are finished with their TV debates, the tips can be used to evaluate the candidates' campaign speeches as they travel around the country.

Burtis decided to compose a list after being approached a number of times by people asking him for advice on what to look for in the debates.

Although he said he could have made the list more detailed and included more tips, he wanted to keep it simple. It was focused toward a general public who is engaged in the political process.

After composing the list, News Services sent copies of it to national radio stations, TV stations and print media, as well as to local media.

As a result, Burtis was overwhelmed with media coverage. He appeared on national talk shows and had articles printed in newspapers such as USA Today.

One tip Burtis suggested to viewers watching presidential candidates was to decide which issues are important to you and then keep track of what each one has to say about your issues during the course of the campaign.

"If the candidate doesn't talk about your issues now, what will happen after the election?" he said.

He also suggested watching for consistency of the message.

"Did the candidate say one thing in the South that wasn't mentioned in the northern states?" he said.

Burtis said it is important to listen for general policy claims that state primary plans of actions. Candidates tend to be very vague, which allows audiences to interpret things to mean what they want to hear.

Another tip is to listen to how well the candidates construct their cases. You need to ask yourself whether they give good reasons for what they propose and if they provide statistics and testimony from experts who are not affiliated with their own campaign or political party.

Burtis suggested watching out for appeals to emotion. He said candidates like to hide behind popular words and phrases such as freedom, diversity and anti-drugs.

"Don't let these emotional appeals cloud your thinking," he said. "So, that you forget to ask what they are going to do about it."

Burtis also said to watch for signs of personal integrity and charisma. You should ask yourself whether the candidate was composed when asked a difficult question.

Burtis said his tips should help voters choose the best candidate — not just the best speaker.

"We often vote for a leader's general vision," Burtis said. "Then we get upset when they do not do a good job as a manager."

For those who have already decided on a candidate, Burtis suggests listening to the candidate to see if he has changed his issue or altered his ideas.

"There are two primary candidates in the race, and they are taking their base support for granted," Burtis said.

"Now they are tending to phrase issues, which will broaden their base support to include those who are undecided as well."

Tonight, Thurs. October 22

THE RETURN OF

"No Parking"

25c DRAWS

Private Club • Memberships Available • 776-7726 • 1122 Moro

SEAN CONNERY LORRAINE BRACCO

Medicine
Man

Friday and Saturday, 7 and 9:30 p.m.,
Sunday, 7 p.m. in Forum Hall

$1.75 with K.S.U. I.D.

K-State Union
UPC Feature Films

AT PLAY IN
THE
FIELDS OF THE LORD

Starring Tom Berenger, John Lithgow,
Daryl Hannah and Kathy Bates
Thursday 7 p.m. in Forum Hall
Friday 7 p.m. in Little Theatre
FREE ADMISSION

Co-Sponsored by the Rainforest Coalition, Hispanic
Awareness Month, International Coordinating Council, KSU
Young Democrats and the Latin American Studies Program.

For more information, call the UPC Entertainment Line at 532-6570

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE

WEEKEND

Check out the Collegian's new weekly preview to features, arts and entertainment.

PAGE 9

FRIDAY

HIGH 76 LOW 44
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 23, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 44

CITY

RCPD Officer Bill Schuck and Katie Gardner, Manhattan resident, survey the wreckage of the vehicle she was riding in.

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Accident injures 2

TED KADAU JR.
Collegian

A minor-injury accident occurred Thursday at 3:40 p.m. involving a K-State student and a Manhattan High School student.

The accident occurred at the corner of Fort Riley Boulevard and the Tuttle Creek Boulevard frontage road.

Aaron Pursley, sophomore at Manhattan High School, was traveling north on Fort Riley Boulevard when his 1975 Jeep struck the Chevy Blazer driven by Deanne Dennis, sophomore in arts and sciences.

Dennis and her passenger, Katie Gardner, Manhattan resident, had pulled out of the access road directly into Pursley's path.

Pursley struck the driver's side of the 1985 Blazer S10, flipping it over.

"I was headed down Fort Riley Boulevard, and I was right on them when they pulled out. I smashed into the driver's side, and the tires caught, flipping the Blazer over," Pursley said. "I got out to see if they were all right."

Pursley sustained a cut lip and bloody nose, and Dennis sustained a knee injury and laceration to the chin.

However, she was up and walking around at the scene, Riley County Police Department officer Bill Schuck said.

Dennis was issued a citation for failure to yield the right of way after stopping at a stop sign. She and Gardner were each issued citations for failing to wear their seatbelts.

"I got out to see if they were all right."

AARON PURSLEY

CAMPAIGN '92

Investigations questioned

State Department may have checked up on Clinton's mother

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The controversy over the State Department search into Bill Clinton's files took a new twist Thursday with a report that officials also looked for records under his mother's name.

Clinton, campaigning in Seattle, cracked jokes about the reports.

After reading the account in the Washington Post, acting Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger ordered the State Department inspector general to investigate.

Eagleburger had already asked Monday for an investigation into reports that department officials may have mishandled news-media requests for files on Clinton's travel activities in the late 1960s.

The core issue is whether the State Department, which normally stays out of partisan politics, was attempting to bolster President Bush's re-election effort under the cover of dealing with media inquiries about Clinton's years as an Oxford Scholar in England.

During that time, he traveled one winter to communist capitals in Europe. The State Department has acknowledged that officials deviated from normal procedure by insisting that the requests be treated expeditiously.

The media requests, made under the Freedom of Information Act, coincided with an administration campaign to raise questions about Clinton's suitability for high office by citing his activities while studying abroad.

Clinton said in Seattle that the State Department had been not only rifling through his files but investigating his mother, a "well-known subversive."

"It would be funny if it weren't so pathetic," he said.

At another point, Clinton made light of the story, saying his mother had a

See CLINTON Page 12

Marrow drive set for Saturday

ERIN BURKE
Collegian

The Mike Meier Bone Marrow Registry will have a bone-marrow drive from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday in the K-State Union Ballroom.

The registry was organized to save lives of those stricken with leukemia.

Siegmund and Barbara Meier are sponsoring the event with the money raised to find a donor for their son, Mike, a former K-State student who died Oct. 2, said Tandy Trost, senior in community health and nutrition.

"We're really encouraging people to be very serious when they go in on Saturday," Trost said.

It is difficult to say how many people will donate, but about 600 would be good, said Brad Beets, director of Alumni and Student Alumni clubs.

Only about two tablespoons are needed from the donor in order to type the blood. After the blood is typed, it is registered in the national bone-marrow bank, Trost said, and any doctor in the world has access to the registry.

"The more people to be put in the national registry, the more lives can be saved," Trost said.

Testing for matching bone

See MARROW Page 12

NEWS DIGEST

► L.A. TEACHERS REJECT CONTRACT; STRIKE LOOMS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Teachers overwhelmingly rejected a contract proposal with a 9-percent pay cut and authorized a strike that could shut down the nation's second-largest school district, a union official said Thursday.

A preliminary count showed 89 percent of teachers voting rejected a the proposal by the Los Angeles Unified School District, said Helen Bernstein, president of the United Teachers-Los Angeles union.

She said union leaders would call a strike if and when they think it's necessary. If they do, district spokeswoman Diana Munatones said there was a plan to keep classrooms open for the district's 625,000 students.

► MORE BODIES UNEARTHED AT SECRET BURIAL SITE

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — More victims, most of them children, were unearthed Thursday from a secret burial site used after the worst massacre of El Salvador's civil war.

Dr. Jose Mateu Llor, director of El Salvador's Institute of Forensic Medicine, told a news conference 42 skulls had been found, many of them with complete skeletons.

An Associated Press photographer was told by investigators the number had risen to 58.

About 1,000 civilians are believed to have been killed in 1981 at El Mozote and other hamlets in a remote region of northeastern El Salvador. The Roman Catholic Church blames the U.S.-trained Atlacatl army battalion and says the massacre lasted four days.

HISPANIC AWARENESS MONTH

Guatemalan women pushing for change

Mayan culture suffers from inequality, Ixcot says

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

Mayan women in Guatemala are working for change in their society, Elena Ixcot said Thursday as part of the Second Latin American Lecture Series.

Ixcot is of the Mayan culture and was exiled to the United States in 1984. She is a member of the International Maya League, a group working for equal rights for Mayan women.

Speaking through a translator, Ixcot referred to times before the Spanish invaded Guatemala, when women were treated equally to men. She said there was no superiority or inferiority related to gender.

After the Spanish invasion in 1524, however, Mayan women were left out of the social system, she said. Their personalities were denied, and they suffered double or triple the amount of discrimination suffered by men.

"This is what took place yesterday, today and what will continue in the future if this stays the same," Ixcot said.

Now, Mayan women are beginning to organize a fight for freedom to benefit all Mayans. She said the fight is not against men, but against the system that is responsible for sexism and victimizing humanity.

"In spite of what we have suffered, we want to share our ideas," she said.

Ixcot said for many years, women have been seen only as objects in her culture.

As part of the International Maya League, Ixcot is working to achieve these changes.

The objectives of the league are to train Mayan women to be productive members of

See MAYAN Page 12

MARGARET CLARKIN/Collegian

Getting defensive

Fourth- and fifth-graders running through offensive plays block Brad Tajchman, junior in agribusiness, Thursday night in CiCo Park. Tajchman is one of the five K-State students coaching the Kappa Sigma little-league flag-football team. SEE STORY PAGE 12.

FALL BACK

Daylight-saving time ends at 2 a.m. Sunday. Remember to set your clocks back one hour.

On July 8, 1986, former President Ronald Reagan signed legislation moving up the start of daylight-saving time to the first Sunday in April. Daylight-saving time ends on the last Sunday of October. The Department of Transportation estimated that earlier starting dates would help prevent more than 1,500 injuries and 20 deaths.

MIKE WELCHMANS/Collegian

COMMENTS

"You wake up after little sleep, pick the grass off your face, the dirt out of your eyes and put on more camouflage to start the day."

— ROTC cadet Ilsa Waterman, junior in anthropology, describing field exercises.

"We're not going away."

— Steve Shields, senior in social work, at protest of social work program cuts.

"Some people go to the Caribbean. We go to the farm."

— Manhattan resident Cherry Law, who raises exotic pets.

"I'm a grown man, and I've been whipped like a sick dog more than once."

— Football coach Bill Snyder after the Wildcats lost to Utah State 28-16.

CORRECTIONS

In Thursday's election preview, a Page 3B graphic incorrectly stated that Sheila Hochhauser was running against Kent Glasscock and Joe Swanson for a Kansas House seat. Hochhauser is running unopposed in the 66th District. Glasscock is running against Swanson for the 62nd District seat.

In Thursday's election preview, the Kansas Senate story incorrectly stated that Michelle Smith was an intern in Jim Slattery's congressional office. Smith interned in the House last spring and for Slattery's campaign office. It was while interning in the House that Smith "learned there are many issues discussed and voted on that the constituents know nothing about," not in Slattery's office.

The Collegian regrets the errors.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22

At 7:59 a.m., a subject was found sleeping in a car south of the L building at Jardine Terrace Apartments. An officer made contact with the subject, who was a visitor and apparently did not obtain a room to sleep in.

At 8:15 a.m., James Copeland reported suspicious activity on the third floor of Willard Hall. Several rooms were unlocked by unknown subject(s) between 5 p.m. Wednesday and 7:30 a.m. Thursday.

At 8:17 a.m., Marie Kannowski,

1303 W. 15th Street, Wamego, reported the theft of a Victorian dollhouse from Willard 116. Loss was $80.

At 5:39 p.m., two subjects were arrested for attempting to lend and receive a false ID. One student wanted to report a loss of a student ID that belonged to the other subject present.

At 5:12 p.m., telephone harassment was reported at Moore Hall.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22

At 6:26 a.m., Rainbow Childcare Center, 2615 Allison Ave., reported damage to a rear window and door lock. Damage was $150.

At 8:53 a.m., Elridge Samuel, 708 Oak St., Wamego and Fern Wittwer, 2124 Green Ave., were involved in a major-damage vehicle accident at Juliette and Bluemont avenues.

At 11 a.m., Ed Burns, 618 Fremont St., reported four hubcaps stolen. Loss was $500.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

■ Sign-up for mock interviews for juniors and seniors in education is until 5 p.m. in Holtz Hall. Interviews will be Nov. 2.

■ An open University meeting will be at 3 p.m. in Union Forum Hall to discuss the Role and Aspirations report.

■ Student ambassador applications are available at the Alumni Association Office and are due today.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23

■ Provost's Role and Aspiration Committee will meet from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Waters 137.

■ "The Mambo Kings" will be shown free at 8 p.m. in the ECM building.

■ Career Planning and Placement will sponsor a resume-critique session from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Holtz 101B.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24

■ World Christian Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m. at 1644 Fairview Ave.

■ New Currents will have a music listening party at 5 p.m. in Edwards C23.

■ Sailing Club will meet at 10:30 a.m. on the Union south side to carpool to the lake.

■ German Club will meet at 2 p.m. at the Union. Topic will be Oktoberfest.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 25

■ World Christian Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m. at 1644 Fairview Ave.

■ New Currents will have a music listening party at 5 p.m. in Edwards C23.

■ Sailing Club will meet at 10:30 a.m. on the Union south side to carpool to the lake.

■ German Club will meet at 2 p.m. at the Union. Topic will be Oktoberfest.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy and not as warm. High in the lower to mid-70s. Tonight, decreasing cloudiness. Low in the upper 40s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly clear and mild. High around 70.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Sunday and Monday, warm and dry. High in the 70s. Low in the 40s. Tuesday, dry but cooler. High in the mid-60s to lower 70s. Low in the mid-30s to lower 40s.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Nairobi	77/59	clear
Berlin	45/36	cloudy
Helsinki	37/25	cloudy
London	52/43	cloudy
Rome	72/66	cloudy
Stockholm	37/36	cloudy
Vienna	61/48	rain

SILO

THE MAGAZINE

COMING

OCTOBER 29

in the

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

These pumpkins want you in their patch.

Come to Kedzie 103 and place a Halloween personal by Oct. 28.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Free Delivery (Min. Order $9)

HUNAN Chinese Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-in Coupon
10% Off

When you present coupon. Not valid with Buffet or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

Pizza Hut

DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION NEAREST YOU.

• AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
• WESTLOOP 539-7447
• 3RD & MORO 776-4334

Have you tried Friday Flowers?

776-8801

Manhattan Floral Co.

YOUR FULL SERVICE FLORIST SINCE 1922

630 Poyntz Ave., Downtown Manhattan

Help fill the Flint Hills Breadbasket

From now through December 1992, for every canned good you bring to Kedzie 103, we'll give you 50 cents off a Collegian classified ad.* Student Publications Inc. will donate all items to the Flint Hills Breadbasket as part of K-State's "30 Days of Thanksgiving" food drive.

Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103 to place your classified ad. Deadline for classified ads is noon the day before publication. The last day to place classified ads this semester is Dec. 10.

(*Value of cans cannot exceed cost of ad.)

Name _____
I.D. number _____
Address _____
Phone number _____
Message (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals) _____

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

Church Directory

UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST Fellowship of MANHATTAN

481 Zeandale Rd. (Hwy. 18)

"An old church with a liberal and open-minded tradition."

Sunday School and Regular Services at 10:45 a.m.

FOR INFORMATION CALL 539-9369 or 537-9816

ST. LUKE LUTHERAN CHURCH (LOMS)

Lutheran Student Fellowship (LSF)

Campus Pastor, Rev. Robert Schaedel

Sun. 8 and 10:45 a.m.

Sat. Worship 6 p.m.

Bible Class Sunday 9:30 a.m.

330 N. Sunset Ave. 539-2604

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

801 Leavenworth 537-0518

Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m.

Church School 9:30 a.m.

• Weekday Programs for Youth

• Nursery Available

Pastor Rev. Warren Rutledge

GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH

Morning Worship 8:30 & 10:45

Collegiate Bible Study & International Bible Study

Sun. 9:30 a.m.

Sunday Evening Fellowship or Caring Cells 6 p.m.

Family Night Wed. 7 p.m.

Students Welcome!

2901 Dickens 776-0424

Manhattan Seventh-day Adventist Church

Sabbath School 9:30 a.m. Sat.

Worship Service 11 a.m. Sat.

600 Laramie 776-5533 (at 6th St.)

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

8:45 a.m. Communion (first Sunday of the month)

9:45 a.m. Church School

8:45 & 11 a.m. Worship

Nursery provided for all services

Omer G. Tittle, Pastor

612 Poyntz 776-8821

Evangelical Free Church of Manhattan

MCC Chapel S.W. corner 14th & Anderson

Steve Ratliff, Pastor

Sunday School 9:30 a.m.

Worship 11 a.m.

776-2086

Nursery Provided

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN

2800 Claflin

8:30 & 11 a.m. Worship

9:45 a.m. Sunday School

6:30 p.m. Sun. Eve. Service

Handicapped Accessible

776-5440

First Baptist Church

Sunday Worship 11 a.m.

Church School 9:45 a.m.

2121 Blue Hills Rd. 539-8691

Church of Christ

Campus Ministry

Bible Study 9:30 a.m.

Sunday Worship 10:30 a.m.

Evening Service 6 p.m.

2510 Dickens Ave. 539-6581

CRESTVIEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH

English Worship 10:30 a.m./6:30 p.m.

Sunday School 9:15 a.m.

Chinese Worship 1 p.m.

4761 Tuttle Creek Blvd. (3 miles north of Kimball Ave.) 776-3798

The Episcopal Church Welcomes You.

Saint Paul's Episcopal Church and Saint Francis Episcopal Fellowship at KSU (Worldwide Anglican Communion)

Sixth & Poyntz 776-9427

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH

Welcome Back, Students

Worship 10 a.m.

Sunday School 9 a.m.

Sunday Evening Worship 6 p.m.

1st, 3rd, & 5th Sundays

CARE CELLS (Small Groups) 6 p.m. 2nd & 4th Sundays

3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY

Craig Sommer, Campus Pastor

539-4451

located in the ECM building

SUNDAY WORSHIP 11 a.m. Danforth Chapel (on campus behind McCain Aud.)

Sunday Services -

8 A.M. Holy Eucharist Rite I

9:30 A.M. Christian Education Classes (for all ages)

10:30 A.M. Choral Eucharist Rite II (Nursery available at 10:30 service)

Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship

10th & Fremont 539-4079

Harris H. Walther, Pastor

Church School 9:30 a.m.

Worship 10:45 a.m.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Worship 8:30 a.m. and 10:55 a.m.

Church School 9:45 a.m.

Disciples of Christ

Handicap Accessible

115 Courthouse Plaza 776-8790

- Tuesday Services -

10:00 P.M. Informal Holy Eucharist

KSU Danforth Chapel

- Wednesday Services -

12:15 P.M. Holy Eucharist

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center

Masses: Sat. 5 p.m.

Sun. 9:30, 11 a.m. & 5 p.m.

Confessions: Sat. 3:30 p.m.

711 Denison 539-7496

Chaplain: Father Knith Weber

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m.

Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (for all ages)

10th & Poyntz 537-8532

The Episcopal Church Welcomes You.

Saint Paul's Episcopal Church and Saint Francis Episcopal Fellowship at KSU (Worldwide Anglican Communion)

Sixth & Poyntz 776-9427

WORLD

Iraq signs accord with UN for relief

ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — The Baghdad government signed an agreement Thursday with the United Nations to resume a relief program for the crippled nation as it faces winter.

The $200-million accord, which provides for the United Nations to send at least 300 guards to Kurdish-controlled northern Iraq and other regions, removes an irritant in Iraq's relations with the United Nations.

Iraq's refusal to accept the agreement, which was to go into effect swiftly and last six months, was seen as a sign of its resistance to the allies' Gulf War cease-fire terms.

Iraq had resisted the presence of so many foreigners and said that if U.N. economic sanctions were lifted, Iraq itself could import the necessary food and supplies to care for its population.

But Iraqi Ambassador Nizar Hamdoun expressed satisfaction after he signed the agreement with Jan Eliasson, undersecretary-general for humanitarian affairs.

"There are needy people all over the country in different places, and this program covers a good portion of those areas that are in need," Hamdoun said.

The Iraqi envoy said the program is smaller than required, but that "it's better than doing nothing."

Hamdoun said he believed the new agreement will improve relations between Iraq and the world body "and create a better atmosphere of confidence."

Security Council President Jean-Bernard Merimee said Iraq may have dropped its objections for fear the council might impose a program against Iraq's will.

MEDICINE

Yew trees offer hope for a cancer cure

Tree containing taxol can be found throughout campus

LIANA RIESINGER

Collegian

A tree that may cure cancer is growing on the K-State campus.

Used for decorative landscaping purposes, yew trees can be found near campus buildings including Justin and Ackert halls.

The yew tree contains taxol, a drug that kills cancer cells. Taxol exists in the tree's bark, leaves and the red fleshy cup that is characteristic of the yew.

Beginning in 1987, taxol trial tests on breast-cancer patients showed 65-percent success rates.

"Taxol inhibits cell division and the replication of human tumor cells," said Jean-Pierre Perchellet, associate professor of biology.

Like many drugs, taxol has side effects.

"When taxol is injected in large dosages, which is necessary to have the compound work, you can't avoid hitting normal cells," Perchellet said.

When normal, or non-cancerous, cells are struck by taxol, they die.

"As a result, toxicity occurs. Therefore the patient experiences problems such as not feeling well, fatigue, and loss of hair," Perchellet said.

Another problem is that only a certain amount of taxol currently exists. About three trees are necessary to cure a cancer victim.

In attempts to increase the availability of taxol, scientists are trying to mass-produce the compound by chemical syntheses, he said.

But because of the compound's complex structure, this is difficult.

Charles Hedgcoth, professor of biochemistry, said synthetic taxol is just like the normal taxol found in the yew.

"The problem with the synthetic approach is that it's so complex that they can't produce it at a commercial level," Hedgcoth said.

If synthetic taxol continues to be produced at only a lab-testing level, it may not be enough.

Hedgcoth said either scientists need to discover the way to synthetically make taxol on a commercial level, or more yew trees with a high concentration of taxol must be planted.

Ray Keen, retired professor of ornamental horticulture, said there are 150 cultivars of the yew.

"They need to pick the tree with the most amount of taxol and start planting those," Keen said.

The amount of taxol in yews varies according to species, but all yews have some amount.

"The bark of the Pacific yew is what they've been using for tests, but some yews have more taxol in their leaves than this species," Keen said.

The majority of research has been done on yews in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and California.

According to the Forest Service, 30 million harvestable yew trees are left.

At the rate of three trees per patient, there is enough taxol for 10 million people.

Keen said he isn't positive about the future of taxol because of the control of the substance and the lack of initiative in scientific research.

As part of a recent agreement with the National Cancer Institute and Bristol-Myers Squibb pharmaceutical company, Bristol-Myers has exclusive access to the institute's test data results and all the bark that is harvested on federal lands.

"I am pessimistic about drug companies. They want to make everything out of petroleum. Because you can't synthesize these products (taxol) out of petroleum or coal tar, the drug companies aren't interested," Keen said.

It appears now that the rights of taxol are secure — no immediate action is being taken.

Even if initiative is taken soon, Keen questioned whether it will be done for the benefit of humanity or the profit of companies.

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

The bark of the yew tree is one of the sources of taxol, a drug that may be used to cure cancer. There are several yew trees on campus, including this one near Justin Hall.

Student Cancer Research Award to give students valuable experience

JULIE WHITE

Collegian

Students in health-related degree programs can earn $500 for doing cancer research.

Student Cancer Research Awards are available through the Center for Basic Cancer Research in the Division of Biology. All undergraduates in health-related degree programs may apply.

"This gives the student an opportunity to work with professors in an environment very different from the classroom," said Terry Johnson, professor of biology.

"It's much different from the normal classroom setting."

The program allows students to do ongoing cancer research with faculty. Before applying, students must contact a faculty member and design a program of research.

Criteria used to choose winners are based on scholastic achievement, past laboratory experience and the relevance of the proposed project to cancer research, said Pat Adams, administrative assistant in the biology division.

More than $80,000 has been awarded in the past 10 years, Johnson said. Last year, 24 awards were given. Ten years ago, only three were given.

The awards are funded entirely by private gifts to the Cancer Research Center.

Students who participated in the program have co-authored articles on the results of their research that were printed in science journals, Johnson said.

"You learn the excitement of discovery and the agony of disappointment," Johnson said.

Amy Urban, senior in biology and pre-medicine, received one of the awards last semester.

She studied the effects of ultraviolet rays on yeast cells.

"I definitely think the experience was worthwhile," Urban said.

"Any kind of research experience is good. I've been able to apply things I learned in the lab to my classes and vice versa."

"The professors really sacrifice their time so the students can learn," she said.

Applications are available at 234 Ackert Hall and due Dec. 4.

Crazy About Coupons?

Watch for the Cat Coupon Clipper every Monday in the

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

KSU HORT. CLUB PUMPKINFEST '92

Pumpkin Sales Oct. 26-27

Union Lawn and Front of Waters Hall

11-5 p.m.; unique pumpkins; butternut squash

25¢ - $5

PUMPKIN BALL

at T.W. LONGHORN'S

Oct. 23 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.

door prizes dance contest

Pneumatic Task Chair

- Finger tip pneumatic seat height control
- Pivoting seatback, dual wheel casters
- Sturdy, five-leg star base
- Grey, Burgundy, Blue, Black, or Brown

SLHN-7901 Series

List $202.00 Each

$129.00

office world

Westloop Shopping Center

776-6864

Friday & Saturday
Oklahoma's Premier
Dance Band
"THE GOOD OL BOYS"
Monday & Tuesday
1st Wells

Wednesday

50¢ Draws

4-9 p.m. 50¢ Tacos

Thursday

WELCOME K-STATE

FFA MEMBERS

$1 Bottles

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Purified Water

In your container
24 HR Vending Machine
Convenient Drive-up

No Lead No Nitrates
No Sodium No Chlorine

The Spring House

4th & Fort Riley Blvd.
(Ballard's Outlet parking lot)

MUSIC REVIEWS AND MORE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

ALL WEEKEND LONG

99¢ Slices Fridays 2-8pm

All Weekend

"BUD"

SPECIAL

50¢ DRAWS

$1.99 PITCHERS

Fri, Sat, Sun

ALL DAY

Buy one pizza, get a 2nd of equal value for:

$3 LARGE

$2 MEDIUM

$1 SMALL

Sunday

ALL YOU CAN EAT!

11am-2pm, 4pm-8pm

only

$3.95

Two Times A Day!

PYRAMID EXPRESS

539-4888

FREE & FAST DELIVERY

We Pick It Up

12TH & MORO • AGGIEVILLE

"The Best Saturday
Morning Bloodies In Town!"

-Ima Boozer

Varden Studio will visit
the K-State Salina campus
from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
on Thursday, Oct. 29.

Group organizations and faculty photos
will be taken from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Individual photos will be taken from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Make appointments in the Admission's Office or by calling (913) 826-2640.

OPINION

OCTOBER 23, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief
Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson
Richard Andrade
Jodell Lanier
David Mayes
Derek Thomas
Heather Anderson
John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajan Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Kids can be sexually harassed

THE ISSUE

With a recent lawsuit, the issue of sexual harassment now includes children.

WE SUGGEST

Parents must inform their children from an early age exactly what sexual harassment is.

Sexual harassment is no longer a subject people only talk about behind closed doors.

Since the highly publicized Clarence Thomas-Anita Hill hearings a year ago, more and more sexual harassment incidents that happen outside of the office are coming to light. They also happen at colleges, in high schools and even in elementary schools.

In August, Sue Mutziger, the mother of 7-year-old Cheltzie Hentz, filed a sexual-harassment complaint in defiance of sexist remarks made toward Cheltzie by her male classmates on the school bus.

The Thomas-Hill hearings brought a dark issue overdue for discussion to the surface. Everyone knew that it existed, but nobody wanted to talk about it.

It's important to address this issue, just as it's important to educate people of all ages about its significance.

Also, it's important to explain to children what harassment is and when it occurs.

The superintendent of the school district where the mother filed the complaint said children are taught from kindergarten not to use abusive language and sexual comments.

Unfortunately, it doesn't always work out this way.

Yes, children can adopt vulgar and abusive language watching television. But the problem must first be solved from its roots.

Parents must be the ones who explain to their children the meaning of obscene vocabulary and other abusive words.

How can parents talk about this subject with young students if they use the example of the "birds and the bees" when teaching their children about sex?

It's time to deal with it openly and frankly.

You can get away in Manhattan

A veritable plethora of places exist where a person can run away from it all

Have you just about had it with your roommate? You know, the person who you thought was your best friend from high school.

The one who hasn't washed their clothes yet this semester. Who hasn't bothered to help with the cleaning since they moved in and just discovered how to make those disgusting sounds with their armpits.

We're nearing the point in the semester when a number of students become stressed out. Tensions can build and erupt over just about anything. Sometimes our concerns are serious, sometimes not.

But whether we're stressing out about school, work, politics, being away from home, or simply how annoying our roommates truly have become, it's important that we find ways to relax — anything that might remedy the way we feel.

Many students are anxious to escape, even if it's just for a couple of hours in the afternoon on a warm autumn day.

After spending a good chunk of my life in Manhattan, I thought I might take a moment to describe a few of the getaways in and around the city. They're perfect for some peaceful relaxation or honest contemplation.

My favorite place for a quiet afternoon is Sunset Cemetery, located just north of Manhattan High School on Sunset Avenue. As odd as it may seem, this cemetery is not frightening at all. Instead, it provides a tranquil atmosphere only a few blocks from campus.

Stone benches, surrounded by the fallen leaves of aging oak and maple trees, set the perfect mood for self-reflection.

If you're not feeling up for the stroll to the cemetery and instead prefer to remain on campus, the best spot is the fountain just to the northwest of Nichols Hall. The fountain is located underneath the radio tower, but vegetation surrounding the perimeter of the tower's base has created a cozy little hollow.

In the late afternoon, after the rush to change classes has concluded, the hollow is silent, except for the hypnotic trickle of water from the fountain's spout to the pool of water below.

If you're wanting to escape campus altogether, some mode of transportation allows you to experience the viewpoint of Manhattan's overlooks. I know of several.

If you're looking for a little space to move around in, the Manhattan letters may be found by heading north on Juliette, and then turning right on Bluemont Scenic Drive. The hill provides a panoramic view of Manhattan, situated within the valley, with the Flint Hills filling in the remaining horizon.

The second overlook is located just above the "KS" letters. This hideaway does not seem as personal as the others, but provides a different perspective of the city, as this perch faces westward. It may be reached by crossing the Highway 177 Kansas River bridge, turning right on Crestline Drive for a quarter-mile, and then turning right onto an unmarked dirt road for yet another quarter-mile.

Finally, there is what is known as Top of the World. This overlook is by far the furthest away from campus, located a mile or so north on Seth Child Road, north of the Marlatt Avenue intersection.

Although vehicles may not venture as far as they once were allowed to, the openness combined with the potential for solitude makes this a superb refuge.

True, the getaways described here may not solve your problems, but they might provide some pause in what is quickly becoming a hectic semester.

If nothing else, the scenery and tranquility might just be enough to keep you from losing your mind and taking it all out on your roommate — even if he or she may be well-deserving of your wrath.

DAVID FILIPPI

Saying goodbye to the last breath of summertime

I take it all back. Forgive me for every word that I have ever muttered, cursing the lousy Midwestern weather that has left me chattering with cold and drowning in sweat — sometimes within the same day — these last three years.

I've lived in lots of places — South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Ohio, Florida. But none have prepared me for these prairie winters and cutting winds that sail through me even on the warmest day.

I don't think one day has passed when I have not whined about the weather in this frigid (to me) climate. I'm angst-ridden when I have to encumber my spirit with hats and gloves and sensible warm clothes, when all I want is to dance barefoot in the streets wearing a Grateful Dead T-shirt and my brother's old gym shorts.

But this last kiss of summer, technically called Indian Summer, makes every freezing December morning and unbearable July night seem worthwhile.

Mother Nature is the cruellest of mistresses, always full of surprises. But finally, this week she offers an apology of sorts, and it is enticing.

I dawdled around the house much longer than I should have these last few mornings. Just basking in the sunshine, lingering over a cup of coffee and a cigarette on the front stoop before I faced the real business of the day.

That is a summer habit, outside before 7 a.m. just to breathe in the quiet, warm air of morning. In the winter, locked away behind closed doors, buried under blankets and socks and bulky sweaters, I sit in the dark, brooding even before the first cup of coffee.

Always a bit of a hibernator, I become absolutely hermetic in the winter.

But Indian Summer has come and carries with it a last bit of freedom of our summer selves.

My summer this year was spent scavenging a n d scraping to make a living, riding out the last waves of a d e a d romance. And until this week, I did n o t realize just how much I missed t h e s u m m e r this year.

Except for sitting up half of the night to watch a couple of real gorgeously dangerous electrical storms, I cannot pinpoint much that is memorable about my summer that was especially fun. I worked, sitting around waiting for phone calls about work that did or did not come through. I read a lot of books. A whole lot of books.

LISA EDMUNDS

It was a solitary summer, I guess, which is okay, but sometimes private epiphanies and quiet mornings spent lost in a good book are just not enough.

Sometimes, a gal's just got to howl at the summer moon, and I can't believe I forgot how to or why for an entire season. No road trips, no Dead shows, no wild nights out with crazy folks intent on breaking the fun barrier. No highs, no lows, just a bunch of days that all seemed to run together.

Then along comes Indian Summer and a life much different to me. The books stayed, of course, and the relationship burned out. My days are a hundred times fuller, between classes and the other demands of school. But it still feels like summer, even though I carry the obligations of winter.

I know, I know, I'll be cursing the weatherman again by next week. But for now, I take it all back.

As unpredictable as Mother Nature herself, I'll pledge my warm breezes and last rays of summer sun to the gods in sacrifice, hoping it will last just one more day.

READERS WRITE

ENDORSEMENT

Picking "Wild Bill" will be big mistake

Editor,

I can't begin to tell you what a shock it was to read in Tuesday's Collegian that your editorial board endorses Bill Clinton for president.

I guess I should have foreseen this, due to how incredibly biased your opinion page has been over the election. By the way, was this a unanimous opinion, or a majority?

Now, as far as the board's opinion goes, I greatly hope that the students ignore the suggestion. In Tuesday's paper, the editorial would better serve as two-ply in the powder room.

In this editorial, it says that "It's time for the United States to move on to someone who will pull us up by our bootstraps and move forward."

It's funny that the term "bootstraps" is used, since Gov. Clinton would better be named "Wild Bill" because he straddles every issue. This is the main problem with Clinton.

I hate to think what would happen if there was a crisis in foreign affairs. What would Clinton do? I'm sure you can answer this question as well as he can. How can anyone voting for him be sure of where he stands on the issues, when "Wild Bill" himself doesn't know?

Did anyone watch the debate Monday night? Did you notice that he said he will not raise taxes on the middle class, and then in his closing statements, he said he disagreed with Ross Perot on how much to increase taxes on the middle class?

My final comment is this: Yes, President Bush has made some mistakes, but no mistakes he has made in the last four years will come close to the mistake you will make if you vote for Bill Clinton on Nov. 3.

Eric Westphal
Sophomore/Accounting

RECYCLING

Collegian should be reusing newsprint

Editor,

The short news article in the Oct. 21 Collegian concerning "Wastemaker" products brought to mind our own local "wastemaker," the Collegian itself.

Also in that issue of the paper, there was an ad insert. In fact, there were three in mine. These ads only serve to trash our campus and create more waste.

A solution to this problem is for the Collegian to recommend to its advertisers that they advertise in the paper, perhaps with a color ad to draw attention.

A second part of the solution is for the Collegian to promote recycling of newsprint. Collecting newsprint is becoming increasingly unprofitable for local groups, and the only way to persuade them to collect it is for people to show that they are interested in recycling.

I heard once of a Collegian deliverer throwing the previous day's leftover papers in the trash, rather than walking another 10 yards to a recycling bin. This has to change if we are ever to increase awareness of recycling.

The Collegian should change its advertising practices and advocate recycling, not only to preserve the beauty of our campus, but to preserve the beauty of the earth.

Cary Stevens
Sophomore/Chemical engineering and Goodnow Hall environmental chair
And five others

SPEAKERS

Generalizations hurt Mexican presentation

Editor,

Last Monday there was a conference about "Women and the Changing Labor Market in Mexico: The Impact of the Economic Restructuring in Guadalajara" in the K-State Union Little Theatre.

It was given as part of the events that are being organized for Hispanic Awareness Month.

The conference was given by Mercedes Gonzalez de la Rocha, full-time researcher from the Center for Social Research (CIESA), Guadalajara, Mexico.

First, she showed the results of her research on the women's labor force in Mexico in the last decades, which was all right. The second part of her speech was about the roles of women in the Mexican household, but unfortunately, I do not think her points were accurate.

This was because of the generalizations she made. She gave the view of an old-fashioned and uncultured Latin family, where women have almost no opinion or choice.

I think that these kinds of events should be of a higher quality. If someone is going to make a presentation at a conference, he or she has to have solid arguments behind his or her speech and has to prepare to answer the questions of the audience.

In my opinion, the idea of having these events is excellent, and we should take these opportunities to show not only the negative of our cultures, but also the positive.

Latin American cultures are rich in tradition and history, but they are also nations that are developing in almost every field.

So, I am sure we have plenty to show instead of poverty and difficulties, although we have them. I think conferences like the one on Monday should be more interesting to everyone and should give a much more accurate view of how things really are in Latin American countries.

Evelia Alvarez
Freshman/Arts and sciences

HOMOSEXUALITY

Despite Constitution, people take exception

Editor,

Given our country's constitution, the homosexuals and bisexuals, both male and female, who want respect for their sexuality have a point. They should not have to fear for the physical safety of their person and possessions.

But given that same constitution, they cannot expect everyone to respect their opinion of the nature of their homosexuality.

There are those of us who simply cannot accept the idea that homosexuality in all its forms is either morally right or a natural occurrence.

For myself, I have put my trust in the Bible. I believe homosexuality is a sinful behavior, and that Jesus died to give us the chance to have victory over sin. It is my decision, and I have the right to make it and to make my opinion known. I also have the right to both practice my religion as well as speak freely about it.

I sometimes think that homosexuals not only want a civil right to be so, but to keep others from taking exception to their behavior. I hope this is not the case.

Scott Mattson
Graduate student/History

ALCOHOL AWARENESS WEEK

Beer ads use sex to sell products

Commercials targeted at men; reality not included

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

Fast cars and fast women. TV beer commercials use a lot of them to sell their products, marketing instructor Mike Ahern said in a talk he gave Thursday night as part of Alcohol Awareness Week. About 15 students attended the talk.

"They use a lot of beautiful bodies and sexual humor," he said. "You've got to realize that if you were all at home, you'd have a remote control. Advertisers have got to keep you from hitting that button. So, they use a lot of sex to get your attention."

Targeting ads to women using male models is not as effective as using women to sell beer to men, Ahern said.

"There aren't as many beer-drinking women. It's probably a cultural difference," he said.

People in advertisements are never shown drunk or sick, he said. Nor is it likely that the actors actually drink beer.

"All those hard bodies in great shape. Let's be realistic — if you've been drinking beer for 15 years, you're going to have a substantial belly," he said.

Ahern said it is illegal for ads to show people actually drinking the beer.

"You'll see them lifting the can up and almost drinking it, but they never really do," he said.

Brian White, junior in business administration, said the purpose of the discussion was to show how ads influence consumers.

"There's the perception that if you drink alcohol, you're cool. There are ways to watch out for that kind of thing in ads," White said.

The light-beer industry would have collapsed without advertisements, Ahern said.

"People thought, 'Real men don't drink light beer.' It was called diet beer," he said. "So, the advertisers had to get big linemen slamming light beers to make it acceptable."

During the presentation, Ahern played several commercials from the "Know When to Say When" campaign.

Although companies probably do not generate many sales from ads on responsible drinking, it helps reduce government regulation, Ahern said.

White said, "We wanted to inform incoming freshmen and people who do drink, and get people to understand the importance of designated drivers."

CAMPUS

KSU offers child-care options

Several programs available; cost scales differ among individual families

MEGAN MULLIKIN
Collegian

Finding a trustworthy, respectable provider is the most important thing when looking for child day care, said Michelle Herdman, senior in accounting and management.

"It's so important that the day-care providers really care about kids," Herdman said. "Then you don't have to worry about them getting frustrated and lashing out at the kids."

K-State has several child-care centers on campus. The KSU Child Development Center, Stonehouse Child Care Center and KSU Childcare Cooperative at Jardine Terrace Apartment are mostly related to students and faculty.

One advantage many of the centers provide for students and low-income families is a sliding fee scale that directly varies with the parent's income.

Because there are many stipulations, like child's age and Social and Rehabilitation Services affiliation, the cost can differ greatly according to the individual, said Ranae Martin, assistant director of the KSU Childcare Cooperative.

Some area centers not affiliated with the University, such as Manhattan Day Care, also have sliding scales to determine payment plans, said Joylene Stubblefield, director of Manhattan Day Care.

An example of their guidelines are for an income of under $1,500, the cost is $162 per month, and for an income of $3,000 and above, the cost is $306 a month.

"We have this type of a payment plan to help people," Stubblefield said. "Manhattan Day Care is geared more for the low-income families to help them get on their feet and make a go of it."

For the students who are eligible for SRS assistance, many times the SRS office sets up a contracted payment plan with the day-care center, and then it is responsible for the costs, Stubblefield said.

At the KSU Childcare Cooperative, 200 children are enrolled. Only someone who is affiliated with the University — students, faculty and staff — can use the KSU Childcare services.

A special program was established at the KSU Childcare Cooperative to help students who are in financial need.

Parents can apply for a childship, which is like a scholarship, and the money must be applied to child care. The childship is available through a grant given by Student Governing Association.

The cost for a toddler with a childship is $270 a month. Without a childship, if the parent is not a full-time student, the cost is $386 a month.

Stubblefield said the biggest problem she sees single mothers having is finding the time to do everything. She also said it is hard for single mothers to find care for their children.

"Naturally, these women have a lower income if they are going to school, and it's hard for them to find a place," Stubblefield said. "Most are on SRS, and they have to find a place that takes SRS."

STUDENT SENATE

Senate decision delays message

AMY WRIGHT
Collegian

Student Senate delayed sending a message on proposed program cuts to the Provost's Committee Thursday night.

The statement was sent back to Senate's Academic Affairs and University Relations Committee because some Senators were unsure of what the resolution said.

Arts and Sciences Sen. Ed Skoog referred to the resolution as "incoherent."

Committee Chairwoman Heather Riley, arts and sciences senator, said the resolution would probably be presented to the Provost's Committee at today's meeting as it reads now. Riley met with the committee after the Senate meeting to discuss alternatives.

The Provost's Committee is meeting from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. today in Waters 137 to discuss recommendations from the college core groups. The meetings are open to anyone interested.

Senate is facing time constraints, because the provost's recommendation concerning proposed department cuts is scheduled to be announced Oct. 30. Senate will meet next on Oct. 29, leaving little time for its statement to be released.

Riley said she is frustrated with Senate members because she

■ See MESSAGE Page 10

CAMPUS

Debaters compete to keep No. 1 spot

LANE ALLISON
Collegian

Ranked first in the nation, the K-State debate squad will travel to Springfield, Mo., this weekend for a meet at Southwest Missouri State University.

Sue Stanfield said the squad will have nine two-person teams at this debate out of 10 teams on the squad.

"The last time we took this many to a meet, we got to the finals in the open division," she said.

Stanfield said the teams will be debating the general topic that the welfare system exacerbates the problems of the urban poor in the United States.

She said some of the specific topics for the K-State squad include fetal endangerment laws, battered women, sustainable economic growth without affecting the environment, and how welfare is traded off with the space program.

Stanfield also said the debate squad has been ranked first in the nation as of October, when the first set of rankings were published.

Friday Seafest Buffet

Bountiful Array of CRABLEGS and FRESH FISH

Buy 1 Buffet and get the 2nd for 1/2 Price!

(with coupon)

Fridays 5-9

Holiday Inn

530 Richards Dr.
539-5311

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, Horsch & Associates
Commitment to Manhattan

Our 25 years of service says we will be here when you need us. Whether it is an eye exam, contacts or frames we can help.

Most importantly we promise good values, fair prices and quality service...for you...and your family.

DRS PRICE YOUNG ODLE HORSCH
And Associates • Optometrists

3012 ANDERSON, MANHATTAN • 537-1118

1987-1992
five star

Friday, Oct. 23

Center-wide Anniversary Sale
Five $100 Shopping Spree Giveaways
Free Anniversary Cake
Free Flowers for the First 100 Ladies Entering Through the Front and Back Main Entrances
Entertainment from 7 to 8 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 24

Center-wide Anniversary Sale
Five $100 Shopping Spree Giveaways
Free Anniversary Cake
Free Flowers for the First 100 Ladies Entering Through the Front and Back Main Entrances
Face Painting
Fashion Shows at 1 and 3 p.m.
Entertainment at 11 a.m., 5 and 7 p.m.

Sunday, Oct. 25

Center-wide Anniversary Sale
Five $100 Shopping Spree Giveaways
Free Anniversary Cake
Free Flowers for the First 100 Ladies Entering Through the Front and Back Main Entrances
Face Painting
Fashion Show at 3 p.m.
Entertainment at 12 noon and 4 p.m.

ANNIVERSARY

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

Dillard's JCPenney Sears Specialty Shops Picnic Place
Daily 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Sunday 12 noon-6 p.m. 539-3500

3RD AND POYNTZ

Entertainment presented by The Shire of Spinning Winds

SPORTS

OCTOBER 23, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

WEEKEND
CONFERENCE
PREVIEW

BIG 8
CONFERENCE

► OKLAHOMA at KANSAS

FAST FACTS: 1 p.m., Memorial Stadium, Lawrence.

RECORDS: Oklahoma (3-2-1, 1-0-1) and Kansas (5-1, 2-0).

THE LINE: Oklahoma by one.

ABOUT THE SOONERS: The Sooners intercepted Colorado five times last week but couldn't put the Buffs away. The tie just reiterated the point that Oklahoma can't win a big game. This game is essential for Coach Gary Gibbs and his Sooner squad. Quarterback Cale Gundy is the 10th-ranked QB in the nation, first in the conference. The Sooner defense is giving up an average of 15 points a game, tops in the Big Eight.

ABOUT THE JAYHAWKS: Last week's 50-47 comeback victory over Iowa State proved two things. One, the Hawk defense is beatable, and two, KU truly has the mentality of a winning team. Prior to last week's contest, the Hawks had been giving up just more than 200 yards a game. The Cyclones burned them for 516 total yards, including 304 rushing. But No. 22 KU staged the greatest comeback in Jayhawk history and erased a 26-point deficit. The Hawks are the No. 1 team in the nation in scoring, averaging more than 42 points a contest.

THE SKINNY: This year, KU is the ranked team. The Hawk defense, despite the Iowa State game, is giving up just 260 yards a game. That's good for first in the conference. KU hasn't beaten Oklahoma in eight years. In a tight battle, look for that streak to be snapped.

► NEBRASKA at MISSOURI

FAST FACTS: 1 p.m., Faurot Field, Columbia, Mo.

RECORDS: Nebraska (4-1, 1-0) and Missouri (1-5, 0-2).

THE LINE: Nebraska by 24.

ABOUT THE HUSKERS: The No. 8 Huskers are averaging 350 yards a game on the ground, first in the country. Nebraska runners, lead by sophomore back Calvin Jones, are averaging nearly seven yards a rush. Jones is picking up more than 10 yards every carry. Junior Derek Brown is the No. 2 rusher in the conference, averaging 95 yards a contest — second only to Jones' 115.

ABOUT THE TIGERS: Missouri's lone win of the season was against Division I-AA Marshall. The Tigers continue to struggle defensively, as they are ranked last in the Big Eight in total defense. They are giving up more than 406 yards a game.

THE SKINNY: For the Huskers, this game is a chance to pad the stats. Nothing more, nothing less.

► IOWA STATE at OKLAHOMA STATE

FAST FACTS: 1 p.m., Lewis Field, Stillwater, Okla.

RECORDS: Iowa State (2-4, 0-2) and Oklahoma State (3-3, 1-1).

THE LINE: No line.

ABOUT THE CYCLONES: Iowa State's offense nearly doubled its season average by racking up 516 yards against the Jayhawks last week — 304 on the ground, 212 in the air. KU had been ranked second in the nation in total defense. Junior halfback James McMillion had a career-best 119 yards rushing on just 10 carries.

ABOUT THE COWBOYS: Oklahoma State threw for 275 yards in last week's 28-26 win against Missouri. But the Cowboys are still ranked 105th out of 107 teams in the nation offensively.

THE SKINNY: This is a contest between the two worst defensive teams in the Big Eight. The entertainment value of the contest should be minimal. The Cyclones will ride last week's offensive explosion and win a close game.

— compiled by Steve Rock

Up next: the No. 9 Buffaloes

ORANG HACKER/Collegian

Jason Smargiasso, K-State quarterback, finds himself in trouble behind the line during the University of Kansas game two weeks ago. With Cat quarterbacks tallying a total of 17 sacks in the last two games, Coach Bill Snyder has not announced who will start in Boulder this weekend.

Struggling Wildcats looking for improvement

FRANK KLEEMANN
Collegian

Listening to the two coaches, it seems they are in charge of the same football team.

Before the game between the Colorado Buffaloes and the K-State Wildcats Saturday at 1:10 p.m. in Boulder, both Colorado's Bill McCartney and the Cats' Bill Snyder have talked mainly about the problems of the offensive lines.

"Right now, we are concerned about the offensive line," Snyder said. "I don't know if we are playing like we can play. I think we can play better than we have been in the last two weeks."

McCartney, coming off last week's tie with Oklahoma, also sees a weakness in his offense.

"It's frustrating to continue to give up possessions and opportunities, particularly when our defense is doing so well," he said. "My personal feeling is that if we don't make improvements this week and go after K-State, they can beat us."

"Their two receivers are faster than our guys in the secondary. We have a tough duty to match up to those guys."

But the Cat offense hasn't been playing up to its capability.

"We feel that our backs are against the wall," linebacker Chris Patterson said. "We feel we have some points to prove, and we have to come out and fight. We have to go back to the basics."

"Right now, the defense needs to carry for the team for awhile until the offense comes around."

Running back Eric Gallon said the team has lost its fight.

The Cats head to Boulder as the clear underdog. "I asked myself and the team a question: 'How can we beat Colorado?'" Snyder said. "Colorado is an extremely fine football team. It's obviously very hard to play Colorado under the very best of circumstances, let alone the situation we're in right now."

"I said if you play hard, with a lot of emotion, you have a chance."

Snyder said the Cats lost some of that emotion in the last couple of games, but he has faith in the team's ability to bounce back.

"If we play well in the kicking game, if we play good defense — that's what I tell them — yes, we do have an opportunity to win," Snyder said. "It's an extremely difficult task, but that doesn't mean it's impossible."

A problem for the Cats will undoubtedly be the ability of the defense to stop the rolling Colorado offense.

Buff wide receiver Michael Westbrook has already recorded 45 receptions for 719 yards.

Freshman quarterback Koy Detmer passed for 418 yards in the 24-24 tie to the Sooners to set a school record in his first collegiate start.

But sophomore Kordell Stewart will most likely start for Colorado. He has passed for 1,077 yards on the season. Both Stewart and Detmer have tossed seven interceptions.

Between the two young quarterbacks, the Colorado passing game is ranked third in the nation, averaging 333 yards a game.

But the Cats are not that interested in what the Buffs are doing. The matter at hand is how the Cats will play.

"We really haven't played smart in the last two weeks," linebacker Brooks Barta said. "We have to play smart, and we have to execute and just play above our edge. Physically they are a tremendous football team. But it's a team sport."

"Everyone as an individual has to step up."

Of attitudes and quarterbacks

MIKE
MAY

Two things will occur for the second time this season when the Wildcats travel to Boulder.

One, the only people who will know who the starting quarterback is Saturday will be those individuals wearing K-State blazers boarding the team plane.

Two, the Wildcats won't be favored to beat ninth-ranked Colorado.

First things first. For the first time since the opening game against Montana, the starting quarterback will remain a mystery until the first offensive series.

"Right now, we are saying that the intention is to play both of our quarterbacks," Snyder said.

"We need to see what Matt (Garber) can do under some of the same circumstances that Jason (Smargiasso) has been under the last few weeks. I think the most important thing at that position is that both of them can make some improvement over what their performances have been in the past."

The Wildcat offense has been under fire the last two weeks for producing as many touchdowns as it has directly given up — two.

"Any time things go wrong, the quarterback is the first place you look offensively," Snyder said. "It's very obvious they have struggled from time to time."

After opening the season as a favorite in four of the first five games, K-State will have the tables turned.

The Wildcats are 20-point underdogs against a Colorado team that has won the last two games in Boulder by a collective total of 103 points.

"I thought we worked hard, and yet maybe there was just a little different air," Snyder said. "When this football team was always the underdog, there began a time when the sense of urgency was far greater."

"We just got to the point where maybe we expected some things to take place without really working hard enough for them to take place."

A focus of this week has been on the uncharacteristically absent all-out effort of the Wildcats.

"I've seen it take place," Snyder said. "But I haven't been able to get our youngsters to believe that if we try to do it any differently than we have done it in the past, we're going to get burned. And I think that's exactly what has taken place."

"Players just sometimes subconsciously get into those kinds of ruts." Like switching the dial from classical to rap music, losing the last two weeks has brought the message home.

"It's pretty hard when you go in to the locker room, and it's 28 to nothing at halftime. It's pretty hard to say, 'Doggone it, we aren't playing as hard as we should be.'"

"It's pretty hard to say those things and get somebody to pay attention to you. You say them, but it's easier to say, 'Hey, Coach, are you looking at the same scoreboard I am?'"

K-State players have had to deal with the change of music this week.

"I have seen more of our players practice harder to get better during the course of this week," Snyder said.

"I've seen some improvement in the ways that we have presented ourselves on the practice field this week. You don't change things collectively overnight. We still have a long ways to go in how we prepare ourselves, but I think we got a little closer this week," he said.

"I think more and more young guys have become more focused in what they do and come to the practice field with a greater sense of purpose and a greater sense of urgency."

And it is with a sense of urgency that K-State will face the music in Boulder.

SPORTS DIGEST

► CROSS COUNTRY TEAMS RANKED

K-State's cross country teams entered in the top 25 national rankings in the newest NCAA Coaches Poll of Oct. 19.

It's the first time in three years that the men's and women's teams are ranked at the same time.

The women's squad re-entered the list at No. 20 after a two-week absence. The men's team is ranked 22nd.

The Cats' rankings are based on the men's first-place finish at the Cal Poly Invitational last weekend and the women's second place, only beaten by No. 5 Brigham Young by 13 points.

► SPIKERS CONTINUE HOME STAND

The K-State volleyball team will take on Northern Iowa at 7 tonight in Ahearn Field House.

The spikers, 5-15 overall and last in the Big Eight, are mired in a nine-match losing streak. K-State hasn't won since taking three games from Drake on Sept. 30.

The two squads met last year, with Northern Iowa coming away with the win.

► SOCCER TEAM TO HOST TOURNEY

Men's college soccer teams from around the Midwest will compete in the Ed Chartrand Memorial Soccer Tournament this weekend at Frank Annaberg Park in Manhattan.

Teams from K-State, KU, Iowa State, Oklahoma State, Wichita State, Oklahoma and Nebraska will compete.

The games are named after Edward E. Chartrand, who played for the K-State team. He died in May 1979 at the age of 22.

Twelve first-round games will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday. The semifinal playoffs will be played Sunday morning, and the championship game will begin at 1:30 p.m.

SPORTS

GOLF

Waldman inherits gift for greens

Sophomore denies football career to follow in footsteps of uncle

KRISTEEN YOUNG
Collegian

Sophomore golfer Brett Waldman picked up his first set of golf clubs when he was 3 years old and has been playing ever since.

A gift from his father, who played a lot of golf, the plastic Fisher-Price clubs were used often.

Golf is a popular sport in the family. Waldman has watched his uncle, Tom Pernice, play and eventually go to the professional ranks for the past nine years.

It wasn't long before the plastic clubs were tossed aside and Waldman was using the real things.

"I played in my first tournament when I was 5 against other kids my age," Waldman said.

He placed second.

Although golf was his first love in sports, he soon became interested in many others.

Football, basketball and baseball were three other sports he played in high school, and excelled in as well.

Even when golf was out of season and Waldman kept busy with one of his other sports, he continued to improve his golf game. "During football, I didn't have much time, but I still tried to practice twice a week," he said.

But the time he spent playing football began to pay off, as he was recognized at the state and national level as a place kicker from St. Pius X High School in Kansas City, Mo.

After finishing high school as an all-America selection in football, he was recruited by universities and eventually signed a national letter of intent to play at Missouri Western.

He signed with one stipulation — that if he was offered a golf scholarship, he would take

DARREN WHITLEY/Collegian

K-State golfer Brett Waldman has placed well at his last two tournaments following a freshman year in which he didn't play much. He placed first at the Iowa State tournament.

that instead.

Waldman was recruited by K-State, among five other community colleges and universities, to play golf in June, and he went through a long process to get out of his letter of intent.

"The process took so long because the MIAA (Missouri Western's conference), the Big Eight Conference and the NCAA all had to approve it," he said.

Although he didn't see much playing time last spring, he has made himself known on the courses this fall.

In the most recent tournament on Oct. 19-20 at Colorado State, Waldman placed third. In the previous tourney on Oct. 4 at Iowa State, Waldman won his first collegiate competition.

He said he was surprised that his first collegiate win came so early.

Waldman said part of placing high has come from growing up a little.

"Last spring, my mental game wasn't like it is now.

"It's just a matter of growing up and not letting it get to you," Waldman said about keeping a cool head even when making mistakes.

K-State coach Mark Elliott said it has been Waldman's change in attitude that has led him to his recent success.

"Waldman is only a sophomore and has all the physical talent in the world.

"Once he is able to handle the pressure and his emotions on the course, he'll do great," Elliott said.

"He's got to keep plugging along, even when he has a bad hole. He has the ability, and it's OK to get mad, but you have to stay focused."

Staying focused was something Waldman worked hard on over the summer with the help of Phil Ritson, one of the top teaching professionals in golf.

Ritson works with Ian Woosnam, the No. 3-ranked golfer in the world.

Waldman met Ritson through his uncle and spent a week and a half in Orlando with him.

"Tommy set it up, and he and Phil have been the biggest reasons for my turnaround," Waldman said.

"Phil helped me with my swing, attitude, overall game and how to correct my mistakes."

WORLD SERIES

Atlanta beats Toronto 7-2, stays alive

Braves' Smith Grand Slam ruins Blue Jay's championships celebration, brings 3-2 series back to USA

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — Lonnie Smith ran around the bases just fine this time, got even with Jack Morris and gave the Atlanta Braves another chance in the World Series.

Smith's grand slam capped a five-run fifth inning that finished Morris, as the Braves beat up the Toronto Blue Jays 7-2 Thursday night to close the gap to 3-2 and send the Series back to Atlanta.

John Smoltz outpitched Morris in a rematch of last October's Game 7 starters and prevented the Blue Jays from putting up another flag at the SkyDome — the one calling them World Series champions.

Smith's slam provided some revenge, and some relief, from the burden he has carried around ever since the eighth inning of Game 7 last year.

In that one, Smith got lost when rounding the bases and did not score, and Morris and the Minnesota Twins went on to beat the Braves 1-0 in 10 innings.

That triumph earned Morris the MVP award, and saddled Smith, nicknamed "Skates" for his many mishaps on the bases and in the field, with the label of the man who lost the World Series.

Now, after beating Morris for the second time in six days, the Braves get another chance to capture what got away from them last year. Steve Avery will start Saturday night against Toronto's David Cone when the Series resumes in Atlanta.

The victory was the first blowout in a week of close games, and marked the first time in 11 Series games that a non-dome team had won indoors.

Of the previous 37 teams to have 3-1 leads in the World Series, 31 have gone on to win. The Blue Jays hoped to add another winner to that list with Morris.

But Morris was booed off the mound after Smith's fourth career slam, and he left with his head bowed. He went 21-6 during the regular season, but is a brutal 0-3 with a 7.43 ERA in four postseason starts.

Morris was tagged for nine hits and all seven runs in 4 2/3 innings. He was the first Series starter to give up seven runs since Danny Cox in 1987.

Morris struggled from the start, giving up a double to Otis Nixon on the first pitch of the game and a solo homer to David Justice in the fourth.

Morris fell behind 3-2 when Deion Sanders lined a two-out, RBI single in the fifth.

Terry Pendleton's second double of the game and an intentional walk to Justice set up Smith's opposite-field slam to right on a 1-2 pitch.

The sellout crowd became so silent as Smith rounded the bases that the Braves could be heard cheering and slapping high-fives as they spilled out of the dugout. Smith's slam was the first by a designated hitter in the World Series.

Smith connected for the 16th slam in Series history and the first since Jose Canseco's in 1988. It was only the third slam by an NL player, along with Ken Boyer in 1964 and Chuck Hiller in 1962.

The big blow made it 7-2 and gave Smoltz enough room to breathe easy.

Smoltz, again pitching on three days' rest as he had in winning the NL playoffs MVP trophy, also was not sharp. But he did keep his team in the game, pitching one batter into the seventh inning and allowing two runs on five hits.

Smoltz began the game with no record in three World Series starts despite a 1.66 ERA. He would have won Game 2 last week, but reliever Jeff Reardon gave up pinch-hitter Ed Sprague's two-run homer in the ninth.

The Braves' bullpen has struggled, but the five-run lead was enough. Mike Stanton relieved Smoltz after a leadoff walk in the seventh and quieted the Blue Jays' bats and their boosters.

The game was the first of the postseason for the Blue Jays without a home run, a record 10 games.

The Braves, meanwhile, wanted to avoid becoming the first team to lose the Series in consecutive seasons since the Dodgers in 1977-78.

The anticipation in the air before the game was whipped up by several Blue Jays on the bench holding a sign that proclaimed "Tonight Is The Night." The sight was captured by a camera and shown on the JumboTron scoreboard in center field, working the fans in a frenzy.

The Braves, however, took the crowd out of it right away.

TENNIS

Labrador, Sim to play at Riviera all-American championships

Gaining experience main goal for netters; Cats well prepared, Bietau says

FRANK KLEEMANN
Collegian

After three weeks without competition, two of K-State's netters are back on the court.

Seniors Suzanne Sim and Susana Labrador will play at the Riviera women's all-American championships in California.

Sim starts in the pre-qualification round against Julie Oshira, of Loyola Maramount University, Saturday at Santa Barbara. Labrador begins playing in the qualification round from Tuesday on at the Riviera tennis club in the Pacific Palisades.

It will be the first time to attend the tournament for each of the two Wildcats, and Coach Steve Bietau said he expects different results of the two.

"For Suzanne, the biggest reason to be there is to compete against the best players in the country," he said. "She goes out there to keep the ball in the game and fight to give other players a chance to make mistakes.

"It's a great place to extend her play, and it's a great experience."

Bietau said Sim has to play aggressively to have a chance to advance in the next rounds, something she worked on during the last couple of weeks in practice.

Labrador is going into the tournament with higher expectations from Bietau.

"Susana has a realistic chance to compete there," he said. "We're looking for an improved effort. Susana has great talent and is a great player. What we're trying to do is match up those things.

"For a player like Susana, that tournament is one of the opportunities you work for."

The Riviera hardcourt Championships is next to the NCAA championships the best quality tournament in the nation. Playing at the tournament where nearly the 200 top college players are competing, the Cats' three-week competition break has positive sides, Bietau said.

"I feel pretty good about our preparations," he said. "Susana has improved in the last practices but has yet to push her limits.

"But the motivation is there. They know that if they lose, they go home."

To give both players more playing time at the tournament, Sim and Labrador will also play in the doubles competition.

For the Barcelona, Spain, native Labrador, this will be a warm-up period before she starts singles Tuesday.

"It's a first-class event," Bietau said. "If you step into the qualification round without pre-qualification, you step right into the fire."

Chiefs up against Steelers, investigation

Schottenheimer's team to face old assistant coach

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Marty Schottenheimer had a new job in a new town and a crucial decision to make.

He had just learned the two veteran coaches he approached about becoming defensive coordinator for the Kansas City Chiefs were unavailable.

So, his attention turned to an earnest, hard-working 31-year-old named Bill Cowher, who played for him in Cleveland and then became the Browns' special teams and linebackers coach before Schottenheimer's ouster.

He was bright and willing to work. But could he be a defensive coordinator?

"Bill, are you ready to do this thing?" Schottenheimer recalled asking.

"You bet I'm ready to do this thing," Cowher replied. "I just need the opportunity."

"OK, you've got the opportunity," Schottenheimer said.

Then the Chiefs, who had won a total of eight games in 1987 and 1988, went 8-7-1 in Schottenheimer's first year in 1989, setting the stage for a team's dramatic turnaround and a young man's sudden rise to coaching prominence.

Cowher did well enough to help Kansas City become a legitimate NFL contender. And after the Pittsburgh Steelers ended the Chuck Noll era last winter, they listened closely as Schottenheimer raved about his young protégé.

"I think it's very accurate to say that I would not be a head coach today if it were not for Marty," said Cowher, who brings his first-place Steelers into Arrowhead Stadium Sunday night. "He hired me. He gave me my first opportunity."

Although separated in age by almost 14 years, the two became fast friends. This is the only week all season they have not visited at length on the phone.

"Marty entrusted me with ongoing responsibilities as I progressed through my career," Cowher said. "With each added responsibility, I was given an opportunity, and that's all you can ask for."

The Steelers (4-2) come into the game tied with Houston for the AFC Central lead. The Chiefs (4-3) have been snakebit on the road and trail Denver by one game in the AFC West.

NFL looks into Lewis' injury-reporting situation

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The NFL will investigate whether the Kansas City Chiefs improperly withheld information from the media and the Dallas Cowboys about an injury to cornerback Albert Lewis, a league spokesman said Thursday.

"We'll look into finding out the details, then take it up privately with the Chiefs," said Pete Abitante, the NFL's director of information, from league headquarters in New York.

Lewis said a decision to keep him out of Sunday's 17-10 loss to the Cowboys came just before kickoff.

NBC announcers Dick Enberg and Bob Trumpy said during the game that they were not told of Lewis' injury.

For nearly 30 years, the NFL has required injury reports twice a week, Abitante said.

NFL clubs are required to notify the league, local media and the other team if an injury occurs after the final injury list comes out on each Thursday.

"The integrity of the injury reports is something we're very concerned about," Abitante said. "Everybody out there has a right to know exactly who's going to play."

Chiefs spokesman Bob Moore told WDAF-TV on Wednesday that he thought the club did everything by the book, and that the injury was common knowledge.

Lewis said he injured his ribs against the Los Angeles Raiders three weeks ago. However, he said, the ribs were re-injured in the hours after the Oct. 15 injury list came out.

"Yes, it started in the Raiders game," Lewis said.

"The injury list couldn't have gone out Thursday, because Thursday is when I really injured it."

As to whether an injured player can be pulled immediately before game time, Abitante said, "That can be a coaching decision." But the NFL is to be told so that lineup changes can be announced to the media, he said.

"We just try to get accurate information out," he said.

RAINFOREST AWARENESS WEEK

Amazon devastation worsens

Money is reason that rainforest environments are vanishing, speaker says

DEBORAH WHITSON
Collegian

When rainforests are discussed, people tend to speak of ecological problems.

Dennis Law, professor and head of the Department of Landscape Architecture, spoke about the economic angle of the destruction of the rainforests Thursday night in the K-State Union.

The economy, rather than ecology, lies at the root of the rainforest problem, Law said.

"We put a lot of effort into addressing the symptoms, rather than the cause," he said. "If we focus on the cause, which is that people have to make a living, we can solve the problem."

Law has given several lectures about rainforests internationally this year. He said the problem is not new, but during the past year, the number of acres destroyed per minute has increased from 86 to 100.

"By the time I'm done speaking, more than 6,000 acres will be destroyed," he said. "I hope to change the perspective on why these things are occurring."

He said the importance of preserving rainforests is put in focus when people realize how many species are destroyed simply by cutting down one tree.

Law said it is difficult to embrace the future when it's being kicked in the teeth. He said universities need to spend more time teaching students the morality of what we do, too go along with the economic aspects.

He has developed a model farm for the rainforests of Costa Rica, an area he has visited and researched three times in the last four years.

Law's model includes agroforestry, which would encourage planting rapidly developing trees, and aquaculture, which is ocean farming.

The main thing that would help native people accept the change would be a permanent dwelling, something many farmers have never had.

"The indigenous people are essential to making this model work," Law said. "We can go down and set all this up, but they are the ones who have to make a living after we leave, so it better work for them."

Harvesting fish would allow the people not only to eat their catch, but also give them the opportunity to take it to market, he said.

Another way to grow crops would be with the use of hydroponics, which is plant growth without soil. Law showed examples of many different species of plants growing on the trees themselves and said his model would experiment in that field, also.

"There might be less total production with my model as opposed to a regular farm," he said. "But I'm pretty sure the cost would be much less."

Law showed slides that illustrated the beauty of untouched rainforest in contrast to the devastation of areas that have been mined or used to graze cattle.

Law concluded by saying people have depended on scientists for years to tell them how to take care of their problems.

Space shuttle takes laser satellite up

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Columbia roared safely into space with six astronauts and a laser-reflecting satellite Thursday after NASA waived a flight rule and launched the shuttle despite excessive wind gusts.

"The flagship of the fleet is back in space again," shuttle commander James Wetherbee said moments after NASA's oldest shuttle reached orbit.

High crosswinds at Kennedy Space Center's emergency landing strip delayed liftoff nearly two hours.

NASA pressed forward with the launch even though gusts exceeded the allowable limit of 17 mph by 7 mph, and Columbia soared into a clear sky at 1:09 p.m.

Shuttle deputy director Brewster Shaw said he and other mission managers decided to launch Columbia because the average speed of the wind was within limits.

Not everyone at NASA agreed — flight director Jeff Bantle at Mission Control in Houston voiced concern in the final minutes before liftoff.

"We accepted Jeff's recommendation ... and we made a management decision that went in a different direction," Shaw said. "That sometimes happens in this business."

Shaw, a former shuttle commander, said if Columbia would have had to return to Kennedy because of main engine failure, the landing would have been safe despite the wind.

The gusts occurred about every minute and lasted up to seven seconds, he said.

"When we finally decided to go, we were confident that we'd made the right decision," agreed launch director Bob Sieck.

Shaw said he doubted the flight rule would be changed. The rule has been in place since long before the 1986 Challenger disaster, which led to more stringent launch requirements.

Columbia's 10-day mission is the 51st shuttle flight for NASA and the 26th since the Challenger accident.

Once settled in orbit, the crew of five Americans and one Canadian prepared for their first task, release of the Laser Geodynamics Satellite, or Lageos.

CAREERS

Nursing profession faces problems

Armed forces determined to strengthen training, keep nurses

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

The effect of Universal Health Insurance on the nursing career was the topic of a panel discussion Thursday with a small group of students.

Recruiters from 12 nursing programs in Kansas participated in the Seventh Annual Nursing Career Day Thursday in the K-State Union.

Representatives from private schools, Kansas Board of Regents schools and the military were involved in panel discussions. They visited with pre-nursing students throughout the day.

"Something must be done to keep nurses in the hospitals," said Pamela Havice, adviser for nursing at Fort Hays State University.

"Nurses will be going to the private sector because of the higher wages. I have been in countries with universal health care, and there is a shortage of nurses in those hospitals."

Col. Sidney Krampitz, Air Force representative, said, "We must develop the best nurse administrators program possible. Administrators must make it where nurses will want to work in acute care institutions."

Lt. Cmdr. Pete Pietarila, regional manager for the Navy Recruiting Command, said the military is bringing spouses and dependents into military hospitals for health care to avoid the extra expense of private practitioners.

"The Civilian Health and Medical Program of the uniformed services has funded this, but we run out of money every year around July and must ask Congress for more financing," Pietarila said.

The panel mentioned some atypical jobs nurses have gone into after graduation, such as flight nurses, residential programs for AIDS patients and inventing new equipment such as the needleless IV.

"We have about 170 pre-nursing students," said Cathie Saal, K-State pre-nursing adviser. "This career day allows them to visit with schools and receive guidance as to what courses need to be taken before entering a certain nursing school and any requirements after graduation."

Saal said students must go through an application process.

"GPA is the heaviest weighted factor to being accepted," she said. "Required GPAs can range from 2.3 to 3.0, depending on the program."

India Students Association and SPIC-MACAY

Proudly present an evening of Indian Classical Music featuring

V.V. Ravi on the violin and Thiruvaroor Vaidyanathan on the mridangam

Date: 25th October, 1992

Time: 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Venue: Forum Hall, K-State Union

Admission is free! All are welcome! This event is sponsored by the I.C.C.

First International Theatre		All Shows Daily, Before 6 p.m. $3.50		Students and Military with I.D. $4.50
SETH CHILDS 6
Under Siege	R	Friday at 7 & 9:30
The Mighty Ducks	PG	Friday at 7 & 9:30
Sneakers	PG-13	Friday at 7:10 & 9:40
Mr. Baseball	PG-13	Friday at 7:20 & 9:50
Night and the City	R	Friday at 7:20 & 9:50
Last of the Mohicans	R	Friday at 7:10 & 9:40
WESTLOOP CINEMA 6
Consenting Adults	R	Friday at 7 & 9:25
Pure Country	PG	Friday at 7 & 9:40
Dr. Giggles	R	Fri. 7:10 & 9:25
1402	PG-13	Friday at 8 & 9:30
Singles	PG-13	Friday at 7:20 & 9:45
The Candyman	R	Friday at 7:10 & 9:40
CAMPUS
The 3 Ninjas	PG	Friday at 7 only
A Lesson of Their Own	PG-13	Tonight at 9:15 only
ALL SEATS $1.50
Varsity
Boys' & Girls	PG-13	Tonight at 7:15 only
Post-Secondary II	R	Tonight at 8 only

Picture Your Ad Here. (only bigger)

Then Call Us.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising
532-6560

A Collegian personal can say it all!

Ghosts and goblins, witches and brooms, Owls and pumpkins, bats and tombs. Halloween is a great time to say, "You're my favorite person today!"

Say it with a Collegian personal in the Classifieds.

For only $5 for up to 20 words, you can get your Halloween message in the Collegian. Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103. Ads will run Oct. 30. Deadline is noon Wednesday, Oct. 28.

YOUR NAME YOUR ID NUMBER

ADDRESS PHONE NUMBER

MESSAGE (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals.)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

Little Caesars
CHEESER! CHEESER!
IS BACK
2 MEDIUM PIZZAS
LOADED WITH EXTRA CHEESE AND UP TO 3 TOPPINGS
plus FREE Crazy Bread

$8.98
PLUS TAX

Little Caesars Pizza! Pizza!

Two great pizzas! One low price! Always! Always!
Offer valid for a limited time only at participating stores. No coupon necessary. Free Crazy Bread offer is a four piece order.
©1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

Westloop Center • 539-3333

VALUABLE COUPON
MONDAY MADNESS
2 PEPPERONI PIZZAS

$5.99
Medium Plus Tax

YOUR CHOICE:
• ONE OF EACH!
• PANININI!
• PIZZA! PIZZA!

Valid Mondays only with coupon at participating Little Caesars. Extra toppings available at additional cost. *Excludes extra cheese.
Expires 10-25-92

Little Caesars
© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

VALUABLE COUPON
PARTY PACK!
4 large pizzas with cheese and 1 topping plus two 32 oz. soft drinks

$20.98
Plus Tax

YOUR CHOICE:
• 4 PIZZAS
• ANY COMBINATION
• PAN OR ROUND!

Valid only with coupon at participating Little Caesars. Extra toppings available at additional cost. *Excludes extra cheese.
Expires 10-25-92

Little Caesars
© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

MONEY DOESN'T GROW ON TREES YOU KNOW!

BUT YOU CAN MAKE EXTRA MONEY BY DONATING!

This coupon is worth $15 for new donors on your first or second donation within six days or if you have not returned within two months. Present this coupon and earn extra cash. For more information call the friendliest staff in town at 776-9177!

MANHATTAN DONOR CENTER

1130 Gardenway • Mon.-Thurs. 9-6, Fri. 9-4:30, Sat. 9-1

Royal Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106 to schedule an appointment for yearbook pictures.

Next in line...

Individual appointments can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30
Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

Little Golden Books celebrating 50 years

October marks the 50th anniversary of those dangerously sharp-cornered tomes we call Little Golden Books. Remember that inside cover where you could fill in the "This Little Golden Book Belongs to ..." space with your illegible crayon scrawl?

When "Three Little Kittens" debuted in 1942, who knew that over 1 billion copies of the series would be sold and that such works as "Poky Little Puppy" and "Doctor Dan, the Bandage Man" would soon follow?

France prepares for two teenagers from Aurora, Ill.

Wayne's World is hitting theaters in France as we write, and it took two French comedians two weeks and 25 viewings to adapt the dubbing for the French version.

Needless to say, some of the high points suffer during the translation.

For instance, when Wayne drives alongside a limousine, leans over and says, "Pardon me, do you have any Grey Poupon?" the line comes out as, "Je vous verrais bien dans un Fiat Uno," or You'd look great in a Fiat Uno," taken from a TV commercial for the car at the low end of the Fiat line. ... I guess you had to be there.

Anyway, you decide if the French version can survive the language switch: "party on" is "megateuf," "Not!" is "Null," "babe" is "bombe," and, of course, "hurl" is "gerber." Hey, so they're no Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis.

Too late, the 'bastards' already got to her

Sinead O'Connor, who won't be playing at the Vatican anytime soon, left the stage at Madison Square Garden in tears after being booed off-stage by the audience. O'Connor was appearing on a pay-per-view Bob Dylan tribute concert.

Kris Kristofferson, who defined the 18-wheeler big-rig lifestyle with his 1970s movie classic "Convoy," offered the singer support in the quote "Don't let the bastards get you down." Very eloquent, Kris, especially coming from a Rhodes Scholar.

Beethoven, some new talent and Billy Ray are on their way

Closer to home, the Topeka Symphony kicks-off its 47th season with Beethoven's Symphony No. 6, "the Pastorale," and also Wagner's Overture to "Rienzi," among others. Call (913) 232-2032 for info.

Manhattan's Strecker Art Gallery has a current exhibition of "New Talent" including works by Linda Dunne, Patrick Duegaw, and Wayne Terhune working in ceramics, graphics, and wooden vessels, respectively.

Billy Ray Cyrus is dragging his achy, breaky vital organ on Dec. 5 into the Kansas Expo-centre in Topeka.

Edson Arantas do Nascimento turns 52. Oh, that's Pele.

The Congress of Brazil has found the secret to gaining public approval — either impeach the president or make a soccer player an official national treasure.

After a dazzlingly gifted young athlete led Brazil to its first World Cup title in 1958, the legislature, fearful that this hero would be sold out of the country, took the appropriate measure to keep him around.

It paid off. Arguably the greatest soccer player of all-time, Edson Arantas do Nascimento, a.k.a. Pele, helped publicize an already huge sport with his charisma and amazing skill.

Check out these numbers: Pele averaged 70 goals per season from 1959 to 1965, including 127 in 1959, 110 in '61, and 101 in '65. He accumulated 1,280 goals in his career.

Although opponents often resorted to triple-teaming and brutally hacking Pele, nothing stopped him from helping Brazil win three World Cups before retiring from international play in 1971.

Weekend wishes Pele a Happy 52nd Birthday.

Billboard Top 10 Albums

1. "The Chase," Garth Brooks (Liberty)
2. "Automatic For the People," R.E.M. (Wamer Bros.)
3. "Unplugged," Eric Clapton (Duck)
4. "Some Gave All," Billy Ray Cyrus (Mercury) (Platinum)
5. "Androgynous," Prince and the New Power Generation (Paisley Park)
6. "Timeless (The Classics)," Michael Bolton (Columbia)
7. "Ten," Pearl Jam (Epic) (Platinum)
8. "Us," Peter Gabriel (Geffen)
9. "What's the 411?," Mary J. Blige (Uptown) (Platinum)
10. "Dirt," Alice in Chains (Columbia)

Live Music This Week

Friday-
NO ONE- Boulevard's
GOOD OL' BOYS- Silverado

Saturday-
NO ONE- Boulevard's
GOOD OL' BOYS- Silverado

WHAT'S GOING ON

A quick look at some of the events in and around Manhattan.

MUSIC

Acoustic music from Devon Anderson plays Saturday night at Charlie's Neighborhood Bar. The music starts around 9:30 p.m.

MOVIES

Pure Country, the new feature film starring country music star George Strait opens this week at Westloop Cinema 6.

THEATER

The opera farce Lend Me a Tenor will be performed 8 p.m. Friday in McCain Auditorium. Tickets start at $8 for students.

Weekend

FROM THE COMICS TO HOLLYWOOD

THE UNCANNY X-MEN

But are things as peachy as they seem in the comic book industry?

Superman will die in November. The 17th, to be exact. He will not die because of the evil machinations of Lex Luthor. He will not be felled by Kryptonite in the hands of the nefarious Brainiac. And, no, the cause of his death is not due to that mischievous midget, Mr. Mxyptlk.

The dastardly devil dealing the death of the Man of Tomorrow is: simple economics.

Sales of the Superman comic books, all four titles, are down, and this "major event will rock the universe" and kick some interest in DC Comics, now falling third in the comic book marketplace.

Up until last year, there were two major comic book companies: DC Comics (owners and creators of Superman, as well as Batman and Robin, Wonder Woman — your basic Super Friends heroes) and Marvel Comics (owners of Spider-man, the Incredible Hulk, the Uncanny X-Men).

This past year has seen the birth of a third company, Image Comics.

Image was formed by some of the comic book world's hottest artists, who felt they didn't have the "creative control" they needed with the two bigger companies.

Image, for better or worse, has edged its way into second place in terms of sales.

The advent of Image Comics has comics reaching greater numbers of people than ever before. Last year, several titles sold more than a million copies.

Part of this had to do with Marvel and DC giving special incentives for collectors and non-collectors alike to buy multiple copies of single issues. The first issue of the new X-Men series, for instance, had five different covers. Robin II had two different covers for each of its four issues, one with a special hologram cover and one without.

The rise in comic popularity doesn't just have to do with cosmetic appearance of the comics themselves. The writers of Sandman last year won the World Fantasy Award for Best Short Story. Maus and Maus II both held spots on the New York Times bestseller list last year. And

■ See COMICS Page 12

AMAZING SPIDER-MAN

STORY BY DAVID FRESE

DESIGN BY GREGORY A. BRANSON

Fungo Mungo attempts to bring local scene 'up to par'

TONYA FOSTER
AND MATT CUNNINGHAM
Collegian

The San Francisco-Area band Fungo Mungo will be in Manhattan tonight as part of its six-state tour.

"This is the first national band we've had and the first from Island Records," said Kim Riley, owner of Charlie's Neighborhood Bar. "When it works, we're going to find some more bands."

Fungo Mungo recorded its punk/funk sound on Island, the same label as U2, and it hails from the same area as Metallica, Faith No More and Digital Underground.

Veteran producers such as Joe Blaney, who has produced material for Prince and Keith Richards, and Robert Margouleff, who is associated with Stevie Wonder and 2 Live Crew, helped the group with its first album, "Humungous."

A national act like Fungo Mungo can be a big step for Manhattan.

"We wrote about 30 bars for bands to play in Manhattan," said Andrew Holm, independent concert promoter and K-State senior in psychology. "We want to bring the Manhattan band scene up to par."

Linda Ramirez, mother of Fungo Mungo keyboardist Damon Ramirez, said the band is unusual and its music is fun and good.

"They've played to as low as six people giving them as good of a show as for 500 people," she said.

"The music is something college kids can relate to," she said. "Their songs talk about world ecology, getting people together to change things."

Ramirez said she has known some of the band members since they were in high school in the Oakland, Calif., area.

Their CD is available as far away as Canada, Japan and England.

"I received a postcard from a friend saying that they saw the band's CD in Piccadilly Circus," she said.

The group was formed over four years ago by drummer Jeff Gomes and guitarist Mike Johnson, who were high-school friends. Soon after that, Ramirez, vocalist Damion Gallegos and bass player Arion Salazar joined in.

The group's agent, Jamie Ramirez, said the group is touring Arkansas, New Mexico, Arizona, Kansas, Colorado and California.

Holm said if the band works out, the agent will send more bands to Kansas.

WORLD

Liberia torn by renewed fighting

West African peacekeeping forces defend capital, strafe rebel headquarters

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MONROVIA, Liberia — West African peacekeepers fired artillery barrages at rebels attacking Liberia's capital Thursday, and their warplanes reportedly bombed the rebels' headquarters in the interior.

The air raid on the base of rebel leader Charles Taylor could signal all-out war between the 7,000-man peacekeeping force and the rebels.

It came after a week of escalating fighting around Monrovia. The seven nations that have provided troops for the force have been rushing in reinforcements and weapons.

The fighting has driven an estimated 100,000 refugees into Monrovia. Red Cross sources said most of them found shelter with families or friends. Food does not appear an immediate problem, but water is short because Taylor's rebels cut off water to the city during the weekend.

Senegal, one of the seven countries participating in the task force, reported two of its soldiers killed. Witnesses said several civilians and peacekeepers were killed when a warplane strafed them in an apparent mistaken attempt to hit a rebel target.

The stepped-up fighting was likely to strain the alliance of West African nations that sent the intervention force into Monrovia in August 1990 to stop a bloody civil war that had degenerated into tribal violence. More than 15,000 people were killed before the force imposed a cease-fire in November 1990.

Taylor's force, which controls most of the country, and rival factions ignored agreements to disarm so elections could be held, and fighting has grown in recent weeks.

The U.S. Embassy hoped to fly out 47 non-essential diplomatic personnel Thursday. An attempt to evacuate them Tuesday was canceled after reports that shooting broke out near the airport.

Aid workers in the interior of Liberia reported by radio telephone that jets dropped bombs on Gbarnga, Taylor's base city about 90 miles northeast of Monrovia, on Thursday.

The peacekeepers blamed Taylor for starting the week-old surge in fighting. The rebels blamed the West African force.

It is difficult to estimate Taylor's strength. He is believed to have more than 10,000 fighters, but many are untrained.

Taylor's men advanced in some areas around the capital in the past week. They overran the base of a rival, Prince Johnson, shortly after Taylor announced the two had signed a pact to cooperate.

Government plans violence research

Administration denies allegations of a racist plot

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration said Thursday it plans an extensive research project to examine the causes of violence and angrily denied that it is a racist plot to link homicidal behavior genetically to minorities.

"I will not apologize for doing what I can to reduce the number of young lives that are being tragically destroyed by violence," said Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan. "And I will not give credence to those who have been leveling spurious and extremely damaging allegations."

Sullivan did not name his critics in his speech Thursday to the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry.

But in an interview later with the Associated Press, he said two of them were Dr. Peter Breggin, a suburban Maryland psychiatrist who has called the government's plans a "holocaust," and Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus and the House Committee on Government Operations.

Sullivan in his speech accused "one individual" — whom he later identified as Breggin — of making "false and inflammatory accusations against the violence-related research and activities of the National Institute of Mental Health and the Public Health Service."

"And he has accused the Public Health Service of planning a pernicious, race-based social engineering program," Sullivan said.

"I think it is dangerous to define inner-city violence ... as a public health problem because it distracts from its true causes," said Breggin, identifying the cases as racism, poverty and neglect.

The focus of Breggin's attack, though, is Dr. Frederick Goodwin, director of the National Institute of Mental Health. Goodwin was demoted from a higher-ranking job earlier this year after he compared the behavior of violent inner-city youths to that of monkeys in the jungle.

Sullivan reprimanded Goodwin at the time, and the department took pains Thursday to emphasize that Goodwin's role would be minimal and that other officials would be looking over his shoulder.

"His involvement is a very small part of it," said Dr. James Mason, head of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Message delayed on proposed program cuts received no input from members outside the committee until Thursday's meeting.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

Skoog's and Arts and Sciences Sen. David Frese's attempts to bring the resolution back from committee for debate failed.

In other business, a bill to revise attendance policy bylaws was defeated by a roll-call vote 39-17.

The process of impeachment begins when the Senate Operations Committee is notified by the Senate chairperson of a member's three unexcused absences.

The purpose of the bill was to remove the automatic clause initiating impeachment proceedings after three unexcused absences for veterinary medicine students, graduate students and the K-State-Salina representatives.

The bill was defeated after Senate passed an amendment proposed by Skoog to increase the accepted number of unexcused absences for all Senate members from three to five.

Senators in favor of the bill said it protects students from not being represented. They said having a senator who rarely attends is better than no senator at all.

Agriculture Sen. Larry Whipple, who co-authored the bill, voted against the bill after debating in its favor.

Business Sen. Grant Janke said, "If the senators are not here and don't have a proxy, then no one is being represented."

Graduate Sen. Joel Gruenke said impeachment should be based on someone not doing their job and not how many meetings they miss.

"The needs of vet-med students, graduate students and the Salina representatives are different," Gruenke said.

He said the number of absences reached is the time impeachment should be considered and not the reason.

Executive member Elsa Diaz voted against the bill, saying she had faith in Senate Operation's ability to judge when extenuating circumstances apply to excessive absences.

ESSENTIALS

West Hall homeless pooch predicament updated by readers

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

DEAR READER,

The West Hall homeless pooch predicament prompted a few letters of concern. Here are a few:

DEAR CASSANDRA,

In response to your column (Oct. 20), some friends and I took one of the two dogs to the animal shelter for a checkup. This brown female was said to have puppies and should be left on campus until the puppies are found and old enough to be adopted.

The woman at the shelter gave us food to take care of both dogs, and we plan to keep feeding them. It is very difficult for us to approach the black dog, but at least he has food. I hope this eases a few minds for other animal lovers.

Amber, K-State freshman

DEAR CASSANDRA,

Yesterday (Oct. 20), you gave advice to C.K.

about the West Hall dog. You told her to call the animal shelter. I tried that this weekend. I reported the dog to K-State Police Friday, and nothing was done.

I then reported it Saturday again. They told me that they couldn't catch the dog and nothing would be done until Monday. I then called the animal shelter and the Riley County Police. They sent a person out. I waited for them at West.

I sat there and watched while the animal control person and the K-State police officer carried on a lengthy conversation while the dog roamed around the lot. My boyfriend and I were the ones who actually tried to catch the dog with no help.

Suffice it to say, the dog took off down the street. So I had to walk back down the street to let the cops know (as if they were really worried) that the dog was now gone. What is so sad is that none of them are trying to catch the dog.

I was even told by a K-State police officer that President Wefald had complained. I come from a community college where if the President was unhappy, then EVERYONE jumped to fix the situation. It's no wonder why the police here don't get any respect. They don't help.

Hopefully, if other West residents are reading this, we can get together and as a group effort and catch the dog before it gets too cold for the dog to be roaming around.

B.M., K-State junior

DEAR AMBER AND B.M.,

It sounds as though you both have made a superb, conscientious effort to help find a more secure environment for the dog. At this point, I would try to enlist the help of the fine staff and students at the Veterinary Medical Center. They are experts at finding ways of working with uncooperative animals.

It would seem to me that the simplest solution, assuming that the dog is indeed eating the food you leave for it, would be to "spike" the food with a mild and harmless sedative, if you can find someone who is willing to keep an eye on the dog after it has eaten the drug. Good luck, and thanks to you both.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

- ACROSS
- 1 Chatter
 - 4 Youth
 - 7 Soft drinks
 - 12 Irish
 - Neptune
 - 13 "Fables in Slang" author
 - 14 Humble
 - 15 Crude metal
 - 16 Resident of La Romana
 - 18 Once more
 - 19 Road trip
 - 20 precedent
 - 22 Airport abbr.
 - 23 Speck
 - 27 Remove
 - 29 Of the nervous system
 - 31 Cake ingredient
 - 34 Hollywood sheikdom
 - 35 "Have — by the tail"
 - 37 Lingerie item
 - 38 Actor Hackman
 - 39 "Home of the Brave"
 - 41 Tennis strokes
 - 45 Extreme
 - 47 Wagon track
 - 48 Tyrannizes
 - 52 Turn to the right
 - 53 "— to Hold Your Hand"
 - 54 Spike or Stan
 - 55 Cuckoo
 - 56 Left-hand page
 - 57 Chicken king
 - 58 A Bobbsey twin
- DOWN
- 1 Rounded lumps
 - Solution time: 25 mins.
 - 2 Eagle's nest
 - 3 French seaport
 - 4 Actor Alan
 - 5 Worshipped
 - 6 Resign
 - 7 Chaplin prop
 - 8 Japanese sash
 - 9 Fond du —, Wis.
 - 10 Cool — cucumber
 - 11 Capitol VIP
 - 17 John, in Moscow
 - 21 "— to Live"
 - 23 Thomas Hart
 - Benton
 - 24 Early English money
 - 25 Actor Hunter
 - 26 English cathedral city
 - 28 Wrath
 - 30 Canal zone?
 - 31 Droop
 - 32 Shoshonean Indian
 - 33 Card game
 - 36 Govern
 - 37 Monkey container?
 - 40 Inscribed slab
 - 42 The Phantom played it — Vista
 - 43 — Vista
 - 44 Mug
 - 45 Poetic preposition
 - 46 On the ocean
 - 48 Roman
 - 504
 - 49 Be in debt
 - 50 First mo. of spring
 - 51 Elected officials

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

10-23 CRYPTOQUIP

I J K B P J D B C G B F J L F B

P J L K J E R I C G E J C

D Q R I Y J J F R I C Y B

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF MY FAVORITE DR CLEANER CAN REMOVE THIS STAIN I'LL PAY HIM ON THE SPOT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: L equals W

RECREATION

Football, friends and fun

MARGARET CLARKIN/Colegian

Julian White and JoJo Longbottom, both 10, stick close to Coach Kevin Sitts, senior in business, during a warm-up drill Thursday night.

Coaches teach more than basics; teamwork, fun more important than winning

KRISTEEN YOUNG
Collegian

Kevin Sitts saw newspaper ad asking for volunteers to coach little-league flag football.

Then Sitts, senior in business, rounded up four friends, and they joined with the Manhattan Recreation Commission to coach 12 fourth- and fifth-grade boys.

Each coach said he played different positions in football when they played in high school. Their knowledge in separate areas helps them give players the full spectrum of the game, Sitts said.

For many of the players, this is their first time playing football or any organized sport, he said.

"It's nice being able to help kids learn something they don't know a lot about," he said. "It's a challenge, because they don't know much about it at this age, and it's rewarding."

The team, Kappa Sigma, plays five teams in its age division. It's named after Kappa Sigma fraternity, which donates jerseys to the youth leagues each year.

The league also has a six-team division of fourth- and fifth-graders, and there is a separate league for sixth- and seventh-graders.

The leagues are a chance for students of different elementary schools to interact, Sitts said.

Friends 11-year-old Barret Ramey and 9-year-old Scott Coomes said they didn't know each other before they played flag football.

And 11-year-old Gabe Smutz said the best thing about the practices is being with his friends, old and new.

Once in a while, the young players compete against friends from their own schools, who are on other teams. When that happens, sometimes the stakes are high.

Coomes said, laughing, that when the Kappa Sigmas beat some of his classmates there was a little bit of taunting the next day at school.

"We dance around making fun of them and try to steal their girlfriends," Coomes said.

The Kappa Sigmas are 1-2, with at least three more games to play, but Sitts said the record is deceiving.

"From their first game, they have improved," Sitts said. "My main focus is just to work as a team. I didn't care if they won a game."

Developing teamwork skills is something Toby Foster said he hopes his son, Scott, learns.

"I hope they get out of it to work together as a team and that they learn to be not so dependent on themselves as they are on each other," Foster said.

Throughout practice, Brad Tajchman, junior in agribusiness, stressed the need to work together as one unit, not as 11 individuals.

"If one guy moves, the whole team hurts," Tajchman said, as the players lined up to begin a play.

The players aren't the only ones learning. "We've just been trying to teach the coaches," 10-year-old Adam Frost said teasingly about what they do in practice.

The Kappa Sigmas practice twice a week for an hour each, and they have a game each weekend.

Comics appeal sparks Hollywood's interest probably every one in the free world saw Batman and Batman Returns.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 9

Oct. 31, the Uncanny X-Men, a group of adolescent misunderstood mutants, will debut their own Saturday morning cartoon on the Fox Network. Of course, the Dark Knight will return to video stores this week in Batman Returns, as well as being on an ultra-smooth animated series every weekday.

Both Hollywood and New York are also abuzz with the talk that James Cameron, director of the Terminator movies, is possibly considering directing a live-action Spider Man movie.

Some industry hopefuls are saying Superman will have a new movie sometime soon, but no one can confirm in the trade papers whether it will have the same cast of Christopher Reeve, Margot Kidder and Gene Hackman.

It doesn't end there. Conan will soon have a new animated show. Wesley Snipes and John Singleton have optioned out the Black Panther, an African king-cum-super hero. Iron Man, the Fantastic Four and the She-Hulk may join their super counterparts in theaters or television. And, with the success of the first two films, it's probably a given that someday there will be a new Bat-film, possibly with the Boy Wonder at his side.

All these projects will probably turn into revenue for the comic companies. And with enough interest, perhaps Superman will be brought back to life.

Mayan women want respect

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

society, to find ways and means to recover cultural positions of the original Mayan society, and to consolidate the Mayan culture.

There are four women and three men on the board of directors of the league, Ixcot said.

Women want to share in the happiness, struggle and pain that takes place, she said.

"We want respect. We want freedom. And, we want justice," she said.

She said Guatemala does not want more economic or military aid from the United States or other countries because it only causes more suffering.

Ixcot urged the audience to write their congresspeople and ask them to discontinue aid to Guatemala.

Daniel Wildcat was also scheduled to speak with Ixcot, but he was not present.

The lecture was Thursday afternoon in the K-State Union Little Theatre.

Marrow testing free

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

marrow costs $50, but it will be free on Saturday because of the funds donated by the Meiers.

Chances are slim that someone will match up, because it has to be almost exact, Trost said.

The odds are better if the person comes from the same family or heritage. Minorities are encouraged to come, because the government pays for their testing, Trost said.

"It's an opportunity to possibly give life where you otherwise can't," Beets said.

Volunteers assisting the event will be from the KSU Alumni Board, KSU Foundation, Block & Bridle and Rotaract.

The Heart of America Bone Marrow Program from Kansas City will be taking and typing the blood.

Clinton probe questionable

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

little shrine in the corner of their home to Joseph Stalin.

Clinton's vice presidential running mate, Sen. Al Gore, quickly condemned such a search as despicable tactics.

At the State Department, spokesman Richard Boucher noted that Eagleburger had told the inspector general to undertake an expedited investigation regarding the department's handling of the Freedom of Information Act requests on Clinton.

"He has instructed the inspector general to include the issues that were raised by this morning's Washington Post article in their investigation," Boucher said.

The Post account said that, in addition to Clinton, department officials looked for material under the names Virginia Dell Blythe and Virginia Dell Clinton as well as Clinton's original name, William Jefferson Blythe.

He took his stepfather's last name in 1962.

No information was found under Clinton's mother's name, the Post quoted officials as saying.

Bush has been especially critical of Clinton for participating in anti-war demonstrations while on foreign soil.

But he has pulled back from assailing his opponent for visiting Moscow and Prague in late 1969 and early 1970 while on vacation.

We Didn't Stop With Pizza
Sunday Buffet

10:30 a.m. - 9 p.m.

EXP
12/31/92

$4.99

with coupon

3003 Anderson
Village Plaza
537-4350

christian rock nite
friday
october 23
9 p.m. - 1 a.m.

COUNTRY
MUSIC
NIGHT
SATURDAY

OCTOBER 24

9PM - 1AM

UNION STATION

Live at Clyde's

Friday & Saturday night

Oct. 30 & 31 from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

Romp & Stomp
to the sounds of Dave English &
"The English Versions"
$3 Cover, Call for reservations

537-8440

on Ft. Riley Blvd.
Across from the Holidome

Bicycling Specials for safer & more comfortable

	Reg.	Special
Cateye Halogen Light	15 ⁵⁰	11 ⁹⁹
Vista Light (rear flashing)	14 ⁹⁵	11 ⁹⁹
U-Lock - ATB	29 ⁵⁰	22 ⁹⁹
U-Lock - Std	26 ⁵⁰	19 ⁹⁹
Cycling/Running Tights	29 ⁵⁰	22 ⁹⁹
Jackets, Bellwether	$10 to $30 off
(for fall & winter riding)

Ends October 31

In Stock: Other bike lighting systems
(important with end of daylight savings),
High performance underwear, lightweight gloves, & headbands.

the
PATHFINDER
304 Poyntz
Downtown
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
Hrs: M-F 9-6
Th 9-8, Sat 9-5
539-5639

$4.99 Chicken Fried
Steak

Includes entree, potato and Freshastiks® Food Bar with Soft Serve dessert. Not valid with other offers. Good for all members in party only at participating BONANZA Family Restaurants.
Offer expires Nov. 11, 1992

Tempting Entrees.
Irresistible Prices.

For a limited time, dinner at BONANZA® is an even better bargain.

The coupon saves you money off the regular price. And the dinner includes our fabulous all-you-can-eat Freshastiks®
Food Bar with Soft Serve dessert.
Did Christmas come early this year?
Offer expires Nov. 11, 1992

BONANZA

Where The Extras Don't Cost Extra

622 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS

Ebony Theatre presents

Director: Bel DeBrow
Purple Masque Theatre
October 29 - 31, 1992
8:00pm
Tickets available at
McLannan Box Office 332-6424

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

OCTOBER 26, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 45

INSIDE

AIDS AWARENESS WEEK

See the AIDS Awareness Week calendar for a list of this week's special events.

PAGE 2

MONDAY

Sounds of India

V.V. Ravi, a violin player from India, plays part of his classical Indian music show Sunday night in the K-State Union Forum Hall. Accompanying Ravi on the tambura is Hemavathi Jayaraman, of Kansas City. Ravi is on a two-month tour of the United States.

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

CAMPUS

Sidewalk cyclists told to obey rules

"This is just another way of getting out there and saying, 'Hey, you need to abide by the rules.'"

LANCE LUNSWAY

LISA COLE

Collegian

Bicyclists on campus sidewalks Friday may have discussed Kansas Board of Regents traffic rules with a K-State parking patrol officer.

Representatives of Parking Services were patrolling sidewalks, stopping bicyclists and telling them to get off their bicycles and walk when on the sidewalks.

"It's against KSU regulations to ride bicycles on the sidewalks. We're out there warning people," said Lance Lunsway, parking control supervisor.

"This is just another way of getting out there and saying, 'Hey, you need to abide by the rules,'" he said.

Lunsway said Parking Services has also placed ads in the Collegian and posted signs on campus to get that message across.

"We're wanting to, first, educate bicycle riders about the regulations," Parking Services manager Dwain Archer said. "We're going to start with warnings."

Archer said parking patrol officers soon will begin to issue tickets to bicyclists riding on the sidewalks, but he hopes few tickets will be necessary.

See BIKE Page 8

WORLD

U.S. suspends Somali airlift

Plane shot at, but officials say situation improving

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOGADISHU, Somalia — An American plane delivering food to the central town of Baidoa was struck by a bullet Sunday.

The United States, consequently, suspended its airlift.

An American spokesman said workers did not know who had fired on the cargo plane.

Relief agencies are caring for an estimated 80,000 people in Baidoa, which is among the towns hardest hit by Somalia's famine.

However, relief officials say the situation has improved with increased deliveries of food, and the daily death toll has dropped from a high of about 350 to 70.

Drought and war have killed more than 100,000 people in Somalia this year, and another 2 million are on the verge of starvation.

Clan warfare and banditry have periodically forced the suspension of international food airlifts, underscoring the difficulties relief workers face. As much as half the nearly 200,000 tons of relief supplies delivered to Somalia this year has been looted.

See U.S. Page 8

CRIME

Reports down so far in '92

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Reported crime declined 2 percent across the nation in the first half of 1992, compared to the same period last year.

Aggravated assault and other crimes increased in some parts of Kansas, the FBI said Sunday.

Some criminal justice experts expressed surprise at the figures showing a drop in overall crime, particularly a dip in the number of murders.

By contrast, the number of reported rapes increased in the FBI survey.

Violent crime reported to law-enforcement agencies increased 3 percent compared with the same period last year, while property crime dropped 3 percent, the FBI said.

Since the volume of property crimes is far greater than the number of violent crimes, the overall crime rate was down.

About 16,000 law-enforcement agencies nationwide contribute information to the FBI crime index.

The report compared the first six months of 1992 to the first half of 1991.

Reported rapes and murders were down in each of the cities selected for details, except Wichita, where the number of murders doubled in the six-month reporting period to 18.

It is believed that less than 40 percent of major crimes are reported to police.

CRIME UP IN KANSAS

Aggravated assaults

Topeka	up 17%
Wichita	up 10%
Kansas City, Kan.	up less than 10%
Overland Park	up less than 10%

Rapes and murders

Number of murders doubled in Wichita, but the number was down throughout the rest of Kansas.

Overland Park

Number of burglaries was up 51 percent, but robberies and car theft declined.

Collegian

CAMPAIGN '92

Perot takes it on the road

Independent moves beyond realm of television

ASSOCIATED PRESS

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Ross Perot began to campaign in person Sunday and joined the debate over character for the first time.

He cast himself as more reliable than President Bush or Bill Clinton.

Emerging from the relative seclusion of TV studios where he has spent much of the last three weeks taping commercials, Perot made the first face-to-face appearance of his revived campaign before an enthusiastic crowd of tens of thousands at a stock-car track.

He also planned to speak at a rally in Pittsburgh later in the day.

The Texas billionaire, who had insisted during the presidential debates that issues were more important than personality, cast himself as more responsible than his opponents.

"If you are going into combat and you could take any of the three of us, who would you want

See PEROT Page 8

Ross Perot

NEWS DIGEST

MUSLIM ATTACK KILLS 5 ISRAELI SOLDIERS

RASHAYA, Lebanon (AP) — Muslim guerrillas bombed an Israeli military convoy Sunday, killing five soldiers and wounding at least five in the bloodiest attack against Israel in south Lebanon in two years, authorities said. The Islamic Resistance, the military wing of the pro-

Iranian Hezbollah, claimed responsibility in a statement on its radio station, Voice of Islam.

MISSING MISSOURI WOMEN REMEMBERED AT RALLY

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Friends had a rally Sunday for three women who disappeared last June. Police believe Stacy

McCall, 18, was abducted with Suzie Streeter, 19, and Streeter's mother, Sherrill Levitt, 47, the night of June 7, after the teenagers graduated from high school. The women's cars, keys, cash and purses were found in Levitt's home.

HISPANIC AWARENESS MONTH

Duo performs authentic music

Repertoire of Latin pieces spans centuries

MEE SUN LEE

The Joyas Musicales Duo presented its repertoire of Spanish, Mexican and other Latin-American music at noon Friday in the K-State

Union Courtyard.

The vocal and instrumental duo consists of vocalist Angelica Estrada Minton and classical guitarist James Lammers. They have been performing together for about a year and a half now, Lammers said.

Minton impressed the audience with her wide vocal range and sympathetic delivery of folk and classical songs spanning the 15th to 20th centuries.

"Her music was haunting and reminded me of Spain," said Joanne Lee, first-time visitor to K-State, of the songs of love and betrayal that formed a substantial part of the repertoire.

Minton, who said she had been singing since she was a teenager, attributed her love of operatic music and folk songs to her parents.

"My father was a dancer, and he founded a community theater that performed Mexican and Spanish plays in Kansas City and the Kansas City area back in the 1930s," Minton said. "And

See LATIN Page 8

FOLLOW UP

Bike theft rates higher during fall

JILL SCHRAG
Collegian

Bike theft rates are usually higher during fall. So the K-State Police Department has tried to be more aware of where bikes are parked, Lt. Robert Mellgren said.

Last weekend, the extra attention paid off.

At 4:40 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 18, two University of Illinois students were arrested near Boyd Hall for bike theft, according to a police report.

They had no proof of ownership or identification, and after being questioned they admitted to stealing the bikes.

The two men were released the same day after posting bond. Campus police Sgt. Jim Lehne said the bond for bike theft is usually $300.

Awareness of parking areas is not the only thing campus police are doing about bike theft.

■ See BIKES page 10

AIDS AWARENESS WEEK

OCT. 26-30, K-STATE UNION
► Alcohol and AIDS

University Counseling Services will provide information on alcohol and its effects on sexually transmitted diseases.

Noon Monday

► The effects of AIDS on campus

Dr. Don Seedle will discuss important topics for K-State students, such as campus policies and guidelines for dealing with AIDS.

8:30 p.m. Tuesday

► Coping with AIDS

A group panel will discuss the issues that arise after a person discovers he or she has a serious disease such as AIDS.

2:30 p.m. Wednesday

► Medical care for the HIV/AIDS patient

Dr. Donna Sweet, a Wichita doctor who treats AIDS patients, will speak about the medical aspects of caring for an individual with AIDS, as well as new medical discoveries for dealing with AIDS.

2:30 p.m. Thursday

► Quilt display '92: What are the effects?

This will feature a film about the AIDS Quilt, taken on the K-State campus, and a program led by Andy Cordero to discuss the effects that were generated by this project.

Noon Friday

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167. News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116. Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23

At 8:29 p.m., a vehicle was wheellocked, because street signs were found inside.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24

At 10:53 a.m., a telephone harassment was reported in Haymaker Hall. At 2:10 p.m., Jason Vonmoss reported the theft of an AM/FM CD player and speakers from his car in Lot B-2. Loss was $650.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 25

At 1:43 a.m., Karen Dunsford, 1420 Hillcrest Drive, reported the theft of a bicycle seat. Loss was $30. At 11:50 a.m., Alejandro Gordillo, Moore 828, reported damage to both the driver and passenger side-view mirrors of his vehicle. At 2:38 p.m., Jamie Rauh, West 116, reported criminal damage to a vehicle in Lot B-2. At 3 p.m., Jennifer Tipple, Putnam 305, reported criminal damage to a vehicle in Lot B-2. At 3 p.m., Gina Denny, Boyd 247, reported criminal damage to a vehicle in Lot B-2. At 6:15 p.m., Melanie Sumner, Ford 303, reported a vehicle had been scratched with a key, and the antenna was bent. At 6:45 p.m., Rehman Sadur, 619 Sunset Ave., reported a license plate was stolen from a car parked in Lot A-18.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24

At 11:10 p.m., Dana Robb, Ford 640, was arrested for battery and released on $300 bond. At 11:10 p.m., Chris Williams, 1010 Pottawatomie Ave., was arrested for battery. Bond was set at $300.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 25

At 1:12 a.m., Jerome L. Burnett, 1704 Fair Lane, No. 26, was arrested for aggravated battery. Bond was set at $1,000. At 1:57 a.m., James M. Enoch, 1012 Fremont St., No. 2, and Jerome J. Gilder, 1500 W. Highway 24, Wamego, were arrested for disorderly conduct. Both were released on $300 bond.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Partly cloudy and cool. High in the mid-60s. Tonight, clear. Low in the upper 30s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Sunny. High in the mid-60s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Wednesday through Friday: Wednesday, cool. High in the mid- to upper 50s. Thursday, dry but continued cool. High in the 50s. Low in the lower to mid-30s. Friday, a chance of showers. Not quite as cool. High 55 to 65. Low around 40.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

■ Juniors and seniors interested in applying for the Truman Scholarship awards should obtain information immediately in Eisenhower 113. The scholarship awards $30,000 to students in any majors who are preparing for public service careers, particularly in government.

■ Applications for the Homeserve community service program and Program International are available in Eisenhower 14A.

■ Intramural volleyball schedules are available in the Rec Services Office in the Rec Complex.

■ Applications for cancer research awards are available in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26

■ U-LearnN will have an information table from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Union.

■ An open University meeting will be at 3 p.m. in Union Forum Hall to discuss the Role and Aspirations report.

■ Student ambassador applications are available at the Alumni Association Office and are due today.

■ Sign-up for mock interviews for juniors and seniors in education is until 5 p.m. in Holtz Hall. Interviews will be Nov. 2.

■ Chimes will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

■ Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.

■ Voices for Choice will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 203.

■ Just Guys will meet at 7:05 p.m. in Holton 206. Topic will be "When Women Hurt Your Feelings, What Do You Do with Them?"

■ Student Foundation Association will meet at 9:40 p.m. in McCain 324 for a group picture.

■ Accounting Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 208 for officer elections.

■ Union Program Council will meet at noon in the Union Courtyard. Topic will be alcohol and AIDS.

■ ECM will sponsor Star Trek at 9 p.m. in the ECM building. All welcome.

■ Human Ecology Council will meet at 6 p.m. in Justin 115.

■ Business Council will meet at 4:30 p.m. in the Union Stateroom.

■ College Republicans will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

■ Engineering Student Council will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 129.

■ American Indian Science and Engineering Society will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Union 204.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY	Nairobi	79/52	cloudy
Berlin	46/39	cloudy	Rome	64/50	cloudy
Helsinki	30/30	cloudy	Stockholm	37/36	cloudy
London	55/45	rain	Vienna	50/36	cloudy

Purified Water

In your container
24 HR Vending Machine
Convenient Drive-up

No Lead No Nitrates
No Sodium No Chlorine

The Spring House

4th & Fort Riley Blvd.
(Ballard's Outlet parking lot)

GOODSON
AUTO TRIM

Seat Covers
Headlining
Boat Covers
Tonneau Covers
Window Tinting
Convertible Tops
Complete Auto, Truck
& Boat Upholstery
201 Sarber Lane
(between Wal-Mart and K-Mart)
Manhattan, Kansas 66502
Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

Live at Clyde's

Friday & Saturday night
Oct. 30 & 31 from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

Romp & Stomp
to the sounds of Dave English &
"The English Versions"
$3 Cover, Call for reservations

537-8440
on Ft. Riley Blvd.
Across from the Holidome

Phi Alpha Theta

Congratulations New Members

Diane Arthur
Gerardine Ball
Edward Brown
David Cassaw
Susan Copeland
Colton Eikenberry
Bob Fritton
Jeff Howell
Angelia Kallenbach
Aaron Lorenzen
Matthew McCoy
Molly McGaughey
Douglass McGaughey
Heather Muchow
Rob Noren
Ralph Nyberg
Merilee Owens
Sara Railsback
Jeff Rathleff
Eric Reid
Larry Rutledge
Chris Schmitz
Brenda Smith
Steven Statler
James Struber
Gordon Thornton
Diana Thibodeaux
William Van Horn
Cortney Walker
David Weatherford
Shawn Woodford
Kristine Young

BLEACHERS
SPORTS BAR • GRILL • CAFEMonday Night
Football

Buffalo vs. N.Y. Jets
BIG SCREEN
6 ft. x 8 ft.

23 oz.
BIG BEER
only $1.75
Sun., Mon., Tues.

Macho Nachos
or Hot Wings
only $3.49

Enter our
Monday Night
Football Contest!

523 S. 17th 537-1484

Trade In Your OLD PLANT!

Offer
Expires
10-31-92

and receive:

$2 OFF the
SALE PRICE
any 6" tabletop plant or $5 OFF the

SALE PRICE
any 10" floor plant

$10 OFF the
SALE PRICE
any 14" large specimen

Limit one trade-in allowance per plant
Eastside & Westside Market
East Hwy. 24 by Mall or W. K-18 by Holidome

'Lend Me a Tenor' a hilarious success

Smaller roles stand out; entire cast draws audience into play

DEBORAH WHITSON
Collegian

"Lend Me a Tenor" is a fast-paced comedy reminiscent of a Marx Brothers farce.

In two acts with brief musical interludes, the play is set in a Cleveland hotel suite in 1934. The premise concerned an opera company and its trouble with a guest performer.

REVIEW

The play was performed by 3D Productions Friday night in McCain Auditorium.

In the opening scene, the producer's daughter, Maggie, and her boyfriend, Max, eagerly await the late arrival of the great Italian tenor, Tito. Blustery Saunders, Maggie's father, enters and they discuss his imminent arrival and performance.

Tito and his jealous wife, Maria, finally arrive. She is convinced he is cheating and soon talks herself into leaving him. As Tito and Max talk in the living room, she leaves him a note, discovers a smitten Maggie in the bedroom closet and walks out.

Tito accidentally takes too much

See PLAY Page 10

J. MATTHEW RINEA/Collegian

Max restrains opera producer Blustery Saunders from killing the presumed dead Italian tenor, Tito Marelli, for allegedly committing suicide. "Lend Me a Tenor" was performed by 3D Productions Friday night in McCain Auditorium.

ORGANIZATIONS

Mortar Board chapter honored

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

K-State's Mortar Board chapter of last year has been chosen as a Chapter of Excellence.

This award is given to about 10 percent of all chapters that submit activity forms to the national headquarters, said adviser Sam Kruckenberg, director of the Animal Resource Facility.

Adviser Jan Wissman, College of Education associate dean, said chapters at UCLA, Cornell and Purdue also received awards.

Members participate in activities related to the organization's national theme. The environment was last year's theme.

Cleaning up a two-mile stretch of I-70 for Adopt-a-Highway and picking up trash at City Park were some of the group's environmental projects.

Jenny Yust, senior in secondary education, was chapter president last year. She said the award reflected the accomplishments of Mortar Board.

"It's a really good reflection on the improvements that Mortar Board has undergone in the last few years," Yust said. "I think it also speaks highly of the leadership of students."

"Mortar Board wasn't always as active on the national level as it could have been. But I think that's like any organization," she said.

While this year's theme is literacy, Yust said, Mortar Board still participates in the Adopt-a-Highway program. Wissman said the group must also focus on leadership, scholarship and service.

"During National Mortar Board week, we sponsored Sen. Nancy Kassebaum. We organized Winter Wonderland with the Union," Wissman said. "And we had a holiday musical concert with part of the admission being toys for needy children."

Only college seniors with GPAs of at least 3.3 are eligible for Mortar Board membership.

Members can only participate for one year, he said. There were 33 members last year.

Wissman said, "The recognition we get from being the Chapter of Excellence is great. I think it carries on some pride and inspiration for the next group."

HURRICANE ANDREW

Florida victims still have long struggle

"We're going to get our house back for Christmas."

7-YEAR-OLD COURTNEY RUTTER

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOMESTEAD, Fla. — The second graders at St. John's Episcopal School cheered loudly at the news the air conditioning would soon be on again.

It was another sign of progress in the battle to rebound from Hurricane Andrew.

"We're going to get our house back for Christmas," 7-year-old

Courtney Rutter said confidently.

But officials and most residents say they believe the cleanup will take much longer. Left on their own by the steady departure of relief workers, some say they have only now begun to realize what lies ahead of them.

"A lot of people have been so traumatized that they haven't really looked around till now," said Hector

Rodriguez, waiting for help at one of the area's dwindling number of Red Cross relief centers.

Dr. Alan Delameter, a University of Miami research psychologist who lost his own home to the hurricane, said, "This is the stage we're all concerned about."

"It's at this stage, when all the reinforcements leave and people are left to their own devices, that we're going to really start to see the disillusionment, the depression, the despair," Delameter said.

"I can tell you firsthand, it's a tremendous challenge just to get through the day."

The last of five tent cities housing homeless victims of the hurricane closed Friday. All but a few of the 23,000 federal troops that came to help have pulled out.

MARKETING CLUB

PRESENTS

NESTLE

Speaker Cory Wofford

Mon., Oct. 26 7 p.m.
Union Room 212

SECOND LATIN AMERICAN LECTURE SERIES

DATE: OCTOBER 26, 1992

Speaker: Felix Massud-Piloto, Associate Professor of History and Director of the Center for Latino Research, De Paul University, Chicago, IL.

Topic: Dual U.S. Standards for Caribbean Immigration: Open Door/Cuba vs. Interdiction/Haiti.

Place: Leasure 13, 4:45 p.m.

Organized by Latin American Studies Program, Co-Sponsored by L.A.S.O., H.A.L.O., American Ethnic Studies, 18 other Academic departments and Off Campus Organizations.

polkaudio CLEARANCE SALE!

The Speaker Specialist®

'92 Models at huge savings!

	Reg.	Sale
SDA 2.3	$2500 pr.	$1799 pr.
RTA 15	1400 pr.	799 pr.
RTA 11	1000 pr.	549 pr.
Monitor 10	740 pr.	449 pr.
Monitor 5	450 pr.	269 pr.
Monitor 5 jr	370 pr.	229 pr.
Monitor 5.6	300 pr.	179 pr.
Monitor 4	240 pr.	169 pr.

20 Minutes West
Through Ft. Riley

1-762-4447

630 Grant Ave.

Junction City

Mon.-Fri. 10-7, Sat. 10

Since 1979

UDIO JUNCTION, INC.

UPC

'TIL THE COWS COME HOME

UPC Children's Carnival

Thursday,
October 29

5:30 - 8:30 pm
K-State Union
Grand Ballroom

Don't forget to wear your costume!
Lots of games, prizes and refreshments!

K-State Union
UPC Special Events

AIDS Awareness Week

October 26-30 at the K-State Union

Alcohol and AIDS

Union Courtyard

Oct. 26, 12 noon

The Effect of AIDS on Campus

Union Big Eight Room

Oct. 27, 8:30 p.m.

Coping with AIDS

Union Forum Hall

Oct. 28, 2:30

Medical Care for the HIV/AIDS Patient

Union Room 207

Oct. 29, 2:30 p.m.

Quilt Display '92: What are the Effects?

Union Forum Hall

Oct. 30, 12 noon

K-State Union
UPC Issues & Ideas

PUMPKIN DECORATING CONTEST

Decorate a pumpkin

How many decorated pumpkins will be on display?

The contest will be held in the Union Forum Hall

Prizes will be given to the winners

Winners displayed

Friday, October 30, 10:00 a.m.

Prizes to awarded

COLLEGE BOWL

THE VARSITY SPORT

OF THE MIND

SIGN UP TODAY

In the UPC office

8 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Campus tournament

will be Nov. 14 - 15

K-State Union
UPC Issues & Ideas

K-State Union
UPC Arts

INFORMATION and SIGN-UP available at the UPC Office, 3rd floor of K-State Union or call 532-6571.

OPINION

OCTOBER 26, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief
Jared Savage Opinion Page Editor
Erin Perry Amy Cox Shawn Bruce Frank Kleemann Brian Anderson
Richard Andrade Jodell Lamer David Mayes Derek Thomas Heather Anderson
John Hart Tom Lister Mark Engler Lajcan Rau Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

You need to know about AIDS

THE ISSUE

This week is AIDS Awareness Week.

WE SUGGEST

There are a number of programs being presented at the K-State Union this week. Anyone wanting to learn more about AIDS should attend them. See the event calendar on Page 2.

This is AIDS Awareness Week. AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome, is a disease that breaks down the body's defense system, making it susceptible to other diseases.

The virus that causes AIDS is Human Immunodeficiency Virus, or HIV. It is present in body fluids such as blood and semen.

HIV is transmitted by the exchange of these fluids through sexual contact or sharing drug needles. It can also be transmitted through contaminated blood transfusions or through the placenta to an unborn child.

AIDS is not spread through casual contact such as kissing, sharing food, donating blood or by insect bites.

What was once an unheard-of disease has now become the plague of the 20th century.

According to the World Health Organization, almost 1.5 million people worldwide have AIDS, including 500,000 children. More than 750,000 people have already died because of the disease.

About 10 million people in the world are infected with HIV. Although they may not have the symptoms of AIDS, they are carriers of the virus that causes it.

WHO estimates that 15-20 million adults will be infected with HIV near the mid-1990s. By the year 2000, nearly 30 million adults will have contracted HIV, mostly in developing nations, such as those in sub-Saharan Africa, and South and Southeast Asia.

The Communicable Diseases Committee and the K-State Union will be presenting a number of programs to promote AIDS awareness throughout the week.

With this projected spread of AIDS, everyone needs to be aware of how it is spread and what precautions need to be taken to protect against it.

If you have any questions concerning AIDS or HIV, call the National AIDS Information Line at 1-800-342-AIDS, 24 hours a day.

The Spanish hotline is 1-800-344-SIDA. The hotline for the hearing impaired is 1-800-AIDS-TTY.

Make yourself aware. Get the facts.

READERS WRITE

SEXUALITY

Orientation only requires tolerance

Editor,

To the gays, lesbians, and bisexuals at KSU, and anyone else who doesn't feel respected. You want respect, but as I've said before, you can't legislate respect. You want people to respect your sexual orientation, but I don't have to and no one can make me. I will and do respect you the person, and if I saw someone physically assaulting anyone else for any reason, I would do all in my power to stop the assault. I would not protect you or help you because I respect your chosen lifestyle, but because God says that you are a person worthy of his love and forgiveness, no different than I. If you are assaulted, you should report it to the police.

Gene Groover
K-State Alumnus

which will be used to support Farrell Library activities.

The success of this fall's sale is a result of many contributors. Some of those are the Farmhouse Fraternity, who picked up donated books at the Dillons Westloop location and at Dutchmaid and delivered them to the library.

Helpers during the sale were Jay Bancroft, Wally Cash, Karen DeBres, Charles Deyoe, Nancy Donoghue, Alice Ham, Rolland Higarth, Tim Lindemuth, Mary Ann Littrell, David Margolies, Faith Roach, Joan and Paul Shull, Penny Sulieman, Gerald Wilde and Barbara Wilson.

Student volunteers helping during the sale were Catherine McVay, Kari Schonbolm, Jocelyn Viterna, and Phi Alpha Theta History Honorary. Karen McCulloh deserves special recognition for coordination of the total activity.

Lois Deyoe
Board of the Friends of the Libraries

FLU SHOTS

Susceptible people need immunization

Editor,

It's time for flu shots again, especially for individuals at high risk for complications of influenza such as pneumonia. Getting your flu shot now can hopefully prevent influenza when it comes to town December through March. Last year's flu shot will not protect you this year. Tell us if you are allergic to eggs. There is a $5 charge.

High-risk individuals should definitely get vaccinated. Visit our allergy/immunization clinic in Lafene Health Center if you have any of the following:

1. asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis
2. diabetes
3. chronic kidney disease
4. chronic anemia
5. long-term aspirin therapy
6. any type of heart disease
7. any known problem with your immune system due to conditions such as cancer, cancer treatment, no spleen, HIV infection, recent organ transplant.

You should also be tested if you are a roommate or spend a lot of time with a person with the above problems and if you are over 65 years old.

Supply is limited. If you are not in one of the high-risk groups but do want a vaccination, please check with us in mid-to-late November. If you are in a high-risk group, take care of yourself and see us soon.

Dr. Larry Moeller
Chief of staff/Lafene Health Center

LIBRARY THANKS

Volunteers make book sale successful

Editor,

The board of the Friends of the Libraries expresses its appreciation and thanks to the Manhattan community, to those who donated books, and to all those who helped in any way with the library book sale.

The Friends of the Libraries Book Sale Oct. 4 through Oct. 9 developed $4,130.15 in funds

PARKING TICKETS

Computers only add to student's woes

Editor,

I am sure that everyone is relieved to hear that Parking Services now has hand-held computers for writing (printing) out tickets.

In this time of budget cutting, increased tuition, reduced spending and talk of cutting out programs such as speech pathology, I feel this was a wise investment for K-State. After all, it's $15-$50 for each ticket issued.

With these new computers, more of us will be privileged enough to have a ticket waiting on our windshields after class. More tickets equals more money.

I think it's time the students of this University stood up and said enough is enough. There are more serious issues to be addressed than worrying about buying computers for issuing parking tickets.

Thomas Arthur Dunn
Freshman/Pre-med

ELECTIONS

Oleen will provide needed leadership

Editor,

Lana Oleen's role as chairwoman of the Education Planning Committee places Kansas higher education under a leader with vision and judgment.

She recognizes that education occurs not only in the classroom but also through the broad pursuits of faculty and students. Those efforts lead to a fuller comprehension of nature's successful designs or to imaginative new creations.

Universities also function as the centers for interchange and testing of advances and concepts from all corners of learning. Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, recognizes that Kansas must be a full partner in these enterprises to open young minds and open new doors. We need her leadership.

Thomas Roche
Professor, head of biochemistry department

TOLES

It's all just a character question

JOHN HART

The response of many voters concerning the character issue in the current presidential campaign has been to say, "So what? Who cares? Can we get back to the issues?"

Character is not just an issue in this campaign, it is the most important issue. That doesn't mean I believe you should base your vote on morally divisive issues like fidelity or draft-dodging. Character extends far beyond such matters.

Character consists of a person's qualities or traits. In other words, what is this person made of? When you vote for a candidate, you don't vote for a robot programmed by its advisers. You vote for a thinking and feeling person who is governed by a set of moral values. It is a president's moral character that is the pervading variable that determines his stance on all public policy issues.

It is absurd to think that character is irrelevant; nothing about a candidate could be more relevant. In the words of Rush Limbaugh, "If character doesn't matter, then why wasn't Ted Kennedy ever elected president?"

The media reports that Americans are tired of negative campaigning and whatever the media says is, of course, true. The type of campaigning I'm interested in is truth campaigning.

Sometimes the truth can be negative, but that's reality. If Bush's "attacks" on Clinton are true, which they are, then he is not guilty of negative campaigning, no matter what the media says.

Many argue that character is irrelevant because presidents with questionable character like Kennedy and Nixon were excellent leaders. I won't argue that these men were brilliant and gifted leaders. Nevertheless, the manner in which these two men lead their private lives with a White House harem and a devious re-election committee, respectively, impacted their approach to public policy.

Kennedy initiated America's involvement in Vietnam, and Nixon disrupted the nation with the Watergate fiasco. Nixon is also indirectly responsible for the election of Jimmy Carter. Both president's character flaws influenced policies that were devastating to the country.

Democrats are just as interested in character as Republicans, but many won't admit it. In the second presidential debate, Clinton said that he wasn't interested in Bush's character. Then in the same answer, he said that the public had to decide if they trusted Bush, Perot or himself. He contradicted himself by directly referring to the important character issue of trust.

When it comes to Bush, Clinton supporters suddenly decide character is an issue by accusing Bush of lying in the Iran-Contra affair. Nevertheless, the same argument applies to Bush. If that were true, this piece of truth would be germane to the election because lying is a reflection on a person's character.

Whether you like it or not, character or morality greatly influences everything a president does, from signing treaties to balancing the budget. The policies that will run this country during the next four years will not be shaped in a vacuum. In making policy, the president will draw from his experience, his wisdom, his beliefs and his character.

Character cannot be neatly removed from the role of the presidency and labeled moot. A person who is deceptive in private life will be deceptive in public life. If a man cannot keep his vows to his own wife, why should we expect him to keep his vows to the country?

Many issues are important in this election. Yet, it is a candidate's character that will determine the way they will shape all public policy.

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Letters to the Editor- c/o Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

CAMPAIGN '92

Clinton says trade deal not being delayed

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON — A newspaper reported Sunday the European Commission president had a secret understanding with Bill Clinton to delay a world trade agreement until after the presidential election.

Clinton said the report was untrue.

"No. Nothing to that," he said, campaigning in Michigan.

President Bush, campaigning in South Dakota, said if the report were true, the Clinton campaign would be interfering with an agreement that would benefit American agricultural interests.

"A sorry, pathetic thing to be doing a few days before an election," Bush said.

The Sunday Telegraph, citing unidentified senior agriculture sources in Brussels, said Clinton campaign officials contacted Jacques Delors, the European Commission president, two weeks ago when it appeared that the trade talks would be successful.

"Mr. Delors was mainly driven to scotch the deal because of the protests of French farmers," Brussels sources said. But the newspaper reported the right-wing Socialist would prefer Clinton in the White House, if only on grounds of ideology, and he was doubly happy to cooperate.

The spokesman for the EC executive commission, Nico Wegter, said Friday that the trade deal, which rests in the hands of U.S. and EC negotiators, was not dead.

CAMPUS

Performance helps enhance faculty's teaching

KIRSTEN NELSON
Collegian

K-State music faculty members get out of the classroom and into a concert tonight.

Instructors use faculty performance to introduce new music and demonstrate mastery techniques to students.

Jerry Langenkamp and Jennifer Edwards, voice instructors, will perform in a joint music recital at 8 p.m. tonight in All Faiths Chapel. The performance is free and open to the public.

They will be joined by music instructors, William Wingfield on piano, Alfred Cochran on tenor saxophone, and James Strain on percussion in a feature composition by Jeffrey Wood. Wood is part of the music faculty at Austin Peay

College.

Langenkamp will do a solo performance of "Vier Ernste Gesänge" by Johannes Brahms.

He said he enjoys not being constrained by commercial necessities of the professional world. He said he's glad he's in the academic area that allows him to do a broader range of things.

"I'm able to sing a lot of music I wouldn't normally sing. I've never done a series by Brahms before. I've always admired the songs. I just never got around to doing them," Langenkamp said.

Jennifer Edwards will be joined by her husband Robert Edwards on piano, for a solo performance of Maurice Ravel's "Sheherazade," which includes three settings of Tristan Klingsor's colorful descriptions of Asian scenes.

Edwards and Langenkamp will conclude the program with the fourth-act duet between Amneris and Radames from Giuseppe Verdi's "Aida."

"Our primary study is geared toward this. Performing enhances our teaching. It's our creative endeavor," Edwards said.

CAMPUS

DB92 employees honored

Station manager says wins will build station's reputation

JANET SATTERLEE
Collegian

DB92 was the only student radio station to win awards at a state convention Thursday.

Six employees from KSDB-FM 91.9 won the awards at the 1992 Kansas Association of Broadcasters Convention in Topeka.

Joe Montgomery, station manager, won first place in the station promotion-announcement category. He entered an announcement on Rock Olympics, a band competition sponsored by DB92.

"I had nine announcements for Rock Olympics running over a three-week period. I just picked one of those, and it won," Montgomery said.

Mike Martin, DB92 announcer, won second place in the station promotion-announcement category.

Martin's entry was a DJ recruiting spot, Montgomery said.

"For this particular announcement, we were trying to recruit DJs to fill in over the summer vacation at the station," Montgomery said.

Craig Pinkerton, DB92 sports, won first place in the sportscast category, Montgomery said.

"Craig is a good solid announcer with a lot of enthusiasm. His sportscasts tend to create a lot of excitement," Montgomery said.

This summer was the deadline for entering the fall competition, and Montgomery said he relied on tapes that station members submitted for critique or grades as entries for the contest.

"Mike's DJ announcement and Craig's sportscast were submitted without them knowing," Montgomery said.

Troy Coverdale, DB92 assistant sports director, won first place in the sports play-by-play category for his coverage of Manhattan High School games.

"Troy's been real successful at calling the games," Montgomery said.

Jennifer Walker and Kerri Ryan,

DB92 announcers, received second place in the DJ personality aircheck category.

"I liked their tapes because they've got a certain natural charisma," Montgomery said. "Listening to them is like eaves-dropping on a conversation. It's fun to listen to them."

Montgomery said an aircheck allows a DJ to record a radio show without the music. So, the talking is emphasized.

"An aircheck is used to apply for a job as a DJ, which shows an employer you know how to talk on the air as a DJ," Montgomery said.

Each winner received a plaque at the convention, Montgomery said. Judges from the New Hampshire Association of Broadcasters chose the winners.

Winning awards helps the station to build a better reputation with professional broadcasters who feel more confident about hiring K-State graduates, Montgomery said.

"It's helpful to get some recognition for the station," Montgomery said.

BRYAN TRAVEL COLLEGE
Since 1982

Your chance for an exciting career in the travel industry in just 17 weeks!

Financial Aid to Qualified Applicants

Call for a Brochure!
1527 Fairlawn, Topeka
272-0889
1-800-255-3507

Bryan Travel College

Day classes • 17 weeks
Evening classes • 30 weeks

Cat Coupon Clipper

Advertise with coupons?

YOU BET!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Advertising
532-6560

Free Delivery (Min. Order $9)
HUNAM Chinese Restaurant & Lounge
1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-in Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon.
Not valid with Buffet or any other promotion.
Open 7 days a week

Pizza Hut
DELIVERY

Makin' it great!

CALL THE LOCATION NEAREST YOU.

•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4334

$2.00 Off
Any Delivery Order

*Not valid with any other special offer. 1/20 cent cash redemption value. Good only on delivery orders in Manhattan, KS ©1992 Pizza

This coupon good for Chicken with Almonds $3.75
Dine-in & carryout
Not valid with any other specials, coupons, or on deliveries.

FREE DELIVERY MENU
(Minimum order $9)
Expires 11/2/92

HUNAM EXPRESS
1116 Moro
537-0886
11 a.m.-1 a.m.
7 days a week

10% Discount
Expires Nov. 2, 1992

Nu-Design
Decorating Center
Complete Line of Decorating Products
See us for all your decorating needs

117 W. 8th St.
Junction City
1-800-377-9309
(913) 762-2634
(913) 762-6643

Friday Seafest Buffet
Bountiful Array of CRABLEGS and FRESH FISH

Buy 1 Buffet and get the 2nd for 1/2 Price!
(with coupon)
Fridays 5-9
530 Richards Dr.
539-5311

EISENHOWER LECTURE
"The United States Navy's Role in Naval Arms Limitation Between the World Wars"

The Fifth
Dwight D. Eisenhower Lecture in War and Peace

by William R. Braisted
University of Texas, Austin
Forum Hall, K-State Union
Tuesday, October 27, 1992, 8 p.m.

LONG HORNS

LEE ROY PARNELL

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 28

$8 in advance; $10 at the door

Call 776-8770 for tickets

or check with S-BAR-J and streetside

Young Theatre presents

The First Breeze of Summer
by Leslie Lee

Director: Bel DeBruin
Purple Macaque Theatre
October 29 - 31, 1992
8:00pm
Tickets available at
McCain Box Office 532-6428

Samuel French Inc.
Copyright © 1992 by Leslie Lee

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. 776-5577
FirstBank Center

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special 3 - 10 in. Pizzas 1 - Topping 4 - Cokes $10.50	Everyday Two-Fers 2 - 10 in. Pizzas 2 - Topping 2 - Cokes $8.50
--	--

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

11th ANNIVERSARY
CHRISTMAS BREAK
LAST CHANCE!

STEAMBOAT
DECEMBER 12-19 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS from $166
JANUARY 2-16 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS

VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
DECEMBER 14-21 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS from $181
JANUARY 2-14 * 5 OR 7 NIGHTS

BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-14 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS from $202

PICNICS • PARTY • LODGING • LIFTS

MORE WINTER COLLEGIATE SKI BREAK SPACE ADDED!

Whew, just when you thought you might be left out in the cold during Christmas break — SunChase comes through again! Your response to our quality and low priced 11th Annual Collegiate Winter Ski Breaks has been overwhelming. So, we've been able to add limited additional space at each destination, but don't wait too much longer as in year's past, it's sure to be a sell out!

Winter ski breaks include your choice of Fully Equipped Condominium or Hotel Lodging for 5, 6 or 7 nights; all Lift Tickets, Welcome Party, Mountain Chicken Barbecue, Ski Race, all Taxes and welcome Goodie Bag full of participating corporate sponsor product samples and area information. You'll get a FREE SKI TRIP!

Steamboat, Vail/Beaver Creek or Breckenridge. The hardest part is choosing which destination to "conquer" this coming season!

Ask us about discount roundtrip airfares!

11th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

SPORTS

OCTOBER 26, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

WEEK 8

Chicago 30	Phoenix 3	Denver 21
Green Bay 10	Philadelphia 7	San Diego 24
Cincinnati 10	Seattle 23	Cleveland 19
Houston 26	N.Y. Giants 10	New England 17
Detroit 38	Washington 15	Dallas 28
Tampa Bay 7	Minnesota 13	L.A. Raiders 13

Wildcats get hammered in Boulder

Offense finishes with 16 total yards, breaking Big Eight record for futility

MARGO KELLER

Collegian

BOULDER, Colo. — Is it the mountain air? Memories of K-State's last game in Folsom Field were a constant reminder of the University of Colorado's prowess at home.

The Wildcats lost to the No. 9 Colorado Buffaloes 54-7 Saturday afternoon in Boulder, conjuring up memories of the Cats' 64-3 loss in Boulder on Nov. 17, 1990.

The defending Big Eight Champions seemed another mismatch for the Wildcats, now on a three-game losing streak.

The Cats established a new Big Eight record for fewest total yards in a game — 16.

"Obviously, we're not a very good football team," Coach Bill Snyder said. "It's not a whole lot different from the past, except that I really believe our kids made their best effort. Still, a lot of mistakes."

"We had some things going for us — our defense played extremely well, our kicking game was holding its own, but we can't turn over the ball and give them points on defense."

"We are in for a real hard battle," Coach Snyder said. "We've got to change the way we practice. We've got to practice harder. We're down to the bare 'nubbins.'"

One factor leading to the Cats 3-3 record was the offense typically going three plays and out. The offense mustered five consecutive plays only twice and never got the ball beyond the K-State 39-yard line.

While Colorado dominated with 30 first downs, K-State struggled to get a total of three first downs in the game.

The major attempt to turn the team around — senior Matt Garber started at the quarterback position — failed. Garber was replaced by junior Jason Smargiasso in the second quarter.

Paling in comparison to Colorado's 105 snaps and 514 total net yards, the Cats' 47 offensive plays included just seven completions in 23 attempts for the two quarterbacks combined. Each quarterback had one interception. Garber netted minus one yard while Smargiasso had just 41.

But Garber said he didn't think the Wildcats were lax in practice.

"After the Utah State game, we were starting to come around a little bit," he said. "We just made mistakes."

The Wildcats were going nowhere fast, with 10 of their 27 first-half plays going for zero yards.

Another eight plays accumulated negative yardage.

The special teams were in action as often as the offense. Sean Snyder continues to have a solid season. He entered the game ranked 2nd in the nation with a 47.3 average.

Saturday, he kicked a school-record 12 punts, including one for 64 yards, tying his longest of his career. He averaged 52.7 yards a boot.

As in the University of Kansas game, it was the defense that scored the only Wildcat touchdown.

Strong Safety C.J. Masters' 52-yard interception 3 minutes and 55 seconds into the third quarter brought Kansas State within 27 points of the Buffaloes. Masters is the only Wildcat to score a touchdown against a Big Eight opponent. Warren Claassen kicked the extra point for a 33-7 score.

Cornerback Kenny McEntyre had two more interceptions.

Snyder, not happy with the team's overall performance, did credit the defense.

"I don't know what the numbers are, but we talked about turnovers, and I don't consider that our defense gave up points when they got the ball in the short field," Snyder said. "I'm proud of our defense. Even when it got out of hand, they still made plays."

PHOTOS BY CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Andre Coleman, K-State wide receiver, gets tackled by a horde of Buffalo defenders. Coleman finished the game with two catches for 10 yards.

The Buffaloes first scoring drive was a two-yard pass to tight end Christian Fauria from sophomore starting quarterback Kordell Stewart. Kicker Mitch Berger hit the extra point. He also had two other field goals in the first quarter.

The Buffs' second-quarter touchdowns came from a two-yard run by freshman Rashaan Salaam and a nine-yard run by Stewart. Berger had five points that quarter, with two extra points and a field goal for a 30-0 halftime score.

Berger hit a 29-yard field goal almost four minutes into the third quarter before Masters' interception.

Colorado increased the spread when junior tailback James Hill scored on two-yard and 15-yard runs. Colorado's last drive ended with a 20-yard pass to a wide-open Rae Carruth in the end zone with 3:30 left in the game.

Carruth, a freshman, caught the pass from third-stringer quarterback Duke Tobin.

SCORE BOX

	K-State	Colorado
First downs	3	30
Rushing yards	24	176
Passing yards	40	338
Comp.-att.-int.	7-23-2	27-50-3
Return Yards	79	208
Total yards	16	514
Fumbles-lost	1-1	1-0
Penalties	5-56	4-33

Kansas	0	0	7	0	7
K-State	13	17	13	21	54

INDIVIDUAL STATS

Rushing — K-State, Schiller 6-24, Gallon 4-6, Smith 3-3, Edwards 2-0, Coleman 1-5, Garber 2-1, Smargiasso 6-44; Colorado, Salaam 14-75, Warren 21-47, Hill 9-31, Detmer 2-9, Phillips 2-6, Stewart 7-6.
Passing — K-State, Garber 7-27-1-1, Smargiasso 5-16-1-1; Colorado, Stewart 21-39-2-247, Detmer 5-9-1-71, Tobin 1-2-0-20.
Receiving — K-State, Schiller 2-23, Coleman 2-10, Benton 2-9, Gallon 1-2; Colorado, Johnson 8-104, Carruth 5-67, Westbrook 5-58, Fauria 4-67, Cunningham 3-30, Hill 1-9, Leomili 1-3.
Tackles — K-State, G. Patterson 16, Venables 15, Barta 14, Randolph 13, Masters 12, Mendez 10, Griffith 9, Rawlings 9.
Sacks/Yards Lost — K-State, Harbert 1-12, Masters 1-5, Randolph 1-2; Colorado, Renfro 2-17, Brown 1-13, Woodfork 1-8, G. Jones 1-6.

C.J. Masters, K-State strong safety, returns a 52-yard pass interception to give the Cats their only touchdown against Colorado.

"Obviously, we are not a very good football team."

BILL SNYDER

NEWS DIGEST

FORMER CAT SEES ACTION WITH BUCS

Former K-State defensive back Rogerick Green was activated by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers Saturday and played in the Bucs' game on Sunday.

Green, Tampa Bay's fifth-round pick this year, went on the injured reserve list after suffering a hyperextended elbow early in the season.

As a cornerback with the Wildcats, he finished the 1991 season with 31 tackles. He also had three interceptions, one broken-up pass and a blocked kick.

Green saw action in the Bucs' 38-7 loss to the Detroit Lions.

He was covering Lion receiver Herman Moore in Detroit's second possession of the game when he slipped to the ground at the Bucs' 35. Moore, after breaking a tackle, scored easily on the play.

COLUMN

In spite of it all, the defense still shines

The numbers are deceiving.

In the last three weeks, the Wildcats have lost three games by a combined score of 111-30.

In the most recent loss, Saturday's 54-7 drubbing in Boulder, Colo., a game that was ominously reminiscent of the Wildcat football teams of the late 80s, the Cats gave up 514 yards.

Looking at scores and numbers alone, it seems the Cat defense is having a dismal year.

But such isn't the case. Week after week, the Wildcat defense spends more time on the field than the grounds crew.

The fact is, the Cat defense is having a solid year.

In fact, in the last three games, that defense has outscored the offense.

With another interception returned for a touchdown against Colorado, K-State's defensive unit has scored two touchdowns in the last three weeks. Throw in a safety against Utah State, and the defense holds the 16-14 edge.

In fact, strong safety C.J. Masters is the team's leading scorer in the three Wildcat losses. He has returned two interceptions for touchdowns.

In that same stretch of three games, the entire offensive unit has scored two touchdowns as well — both against Utah State. And the second touchdown was the direct result of a fumble the defensive unit caused and returned to the eight-yard line.

"You'd rather have the offense put more points on the board than just yourself," Masters said.

But, oddly enough, the defense has done more than just score.

Entering Saturday's game, K-

State was ranked third in the Big Eight in both yards and points allowed per game — 316 and 17. Saturday's game will, unquestionably, hurt those rankings.

But that's beside the point.

Before this weekend, Colorado was averaging 445 yards a game. Sure, the Cats gave up more than Colorado's season average. But anybody who watched Saturday's game knows that the defense played hard for a long time — 40 minutes, to be exact.

Colorado, with 333 passing yards per game, was leading the Big Eight, and third in the nation, in passing offense. Against K-

STEVE ROCK

State, they managed 338. But one must realize — this came in a game in which the Cat offense had positive yardage on just 17 of its 47 plays. This came in a game in which Colorado ran 105 offensive plays, a Colorado record.

K-State's defense did all it could to keep the Wildcats in the game. Note the three interceptions and the fact that Colorado's receiving duo of Michael Westbrook and Charles Johnson, who had been averaging a total of 234 receiving yards per game, were held to 162.

Six of Colorado's scoring drives were of less than 50 yards. The average starting point for Colorado scoring drives was the K-State 46-yard line.

Against the rush, the Cats have been tough all year. Sure, they gave up 176 yards to Colorado. But the Buffs ran the ball 55 times. That's an average of just over three yards a rush.

And there's nothing wrong with that.

It's unfortunate that the success of the defense has been overshadowed all year because of the offensive woes. And it's downright disheartening knowing that, with a decent offense to go with this D, the 1992 Cats could have actually been a contender.

"We don't know what the problem is," defensive cornerback Kenny McEntyre said.

Hey, Kenny — I know what the problem is.

And you have nothing to do with it.

SPORTS

VOLLEYBALL

Spikers drop match to Northern Iowa

Loss is 10th straight defeat for struggling Wildcats

SCOTT ABEL
Collegian

After the first game in K-State's Friday night volleyball match against Northern Iowa, Panther coach Iradge Ahrahi-Fard said he had seen enough.

The Wildcats had just won the game 16-14, and Ahrahi-Fard knew what adjustment his team had to make — stop Wildcat outside hitter Kathy Saxton.

"We adjusted our entire defense after the first game to stop her," he said. "We thought that if we could shut Saxton down, our personnel could overpower K-State's."

"And that's what happened." Northern Iowa recovered in the second game and went on to defeat the Wildcats 14-16, 15-9, 15-12, 15-11 at Ahearn Field House.

The Wildcats, now 5-16 overall, have lost 10 straight matches.

K-State lost to Northern Iowa, 11-6, in three sets last season, but Saxton said that the match was over so quickly that they weren't sure what to expect this year.

"We didn't really didn't give them much of a match last year, and I felt like we didn't play them enough to really know what they were like," she said.

Powered by Saxton's six kills, K-State grabbed an 11-8 lead in the first game.

After Northern Iowa tied it up at 14-14, K-State scored the next two points and closed out the game when co-captain Stephanie Liester blocked a Panther kill attempt for the final point.

"Stephanie played well tonight. Our passing lately hasn't been stellar. I think her passing was the best it's been of late," said K-State coach Patti Hagemeyer.

After taking a 3-1 lead in the second game, K-State crumbled under an eight-point outburst by the Panthers. An ace by Liester broke K-State's scoring drought, and the Wildcats were able to pull within three at 6-9.

But Northern Iowa recovered to score six of the last nine points and close out the set 15-9. Hagemeyer said that the second-set letdown has been a pattern for the Wildcats recently.

"Usually in the first game, you try to get an idea of what the other side's going to do and make your adjustments accordingly," she said. "They made their adjustments."

Coach Ahrahi-Fard, whose Panthers are the defending Missouri Valley champions, also said that the game swung on the adjustments the teams made after the first game.

"When you put your eggs in one basket, sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't. Saxton got a lot of kills for the team, but it seems like any time she was outside on the play, K-State didn't have a solution," he said.

"Teams recognize Saxton is a great player and will try to shut her down."

Northern Iowa went ahead 10-8 in the third game and then scored four points to grab a 14-8 lead over the Cats. K-State pulled within 12-14 and fought off three set-points before falling 12-15.

In the final game, NIU broke an 8-8 tie to take a 13-8 lead, eventually winning 15-11.

"When we do have our moments of brilliance — when we rally, when we play the ball correctly, when we are in the right spot — we need to focus on how many times we can have that happen in a game," she said.

"I've seen them do it. They know they can do it. Now they need to do it."

Chi Dau, freshman setter, sets the ball in a match against Northern Iowa Friday night at Ahearn Field House. K-State lost the match in four sets.

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

NFL

19 fans hurt in Dolphins' loss to Indy

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI — Nineteen people were injured, two seriously, after fans pounding on a glass partition at Joe Robbie Stadium broke it and sent glass flying into a lower level during Sunday's Indianapolis Colts-Miami Dolphins game, authorities said.

The two serious injuries during Miami's 31-20 loss were not considered life-threatening, said Capt. Michael Rogers of Metro-Dade Fire and Rescue.

Some people were treated at the scene, while others were taken to various local hospitals after the 7:10 p.m. incident during the Colts' 31-20 victory, officials said.

Seven of the injured were taken to Golden Glades Regional Medical Center with four being treated in the emergency room for cuts and abrasions, said hospital spokesman Jorge Alvarez.

Three others were being treated for more minor injuries and were in the process of being released.

"Seven people walking in bleeding caused more commotion than it seemed," Alvarez said. "Apparently after everyone settled down, it wasn't as bad as it seemed."

Fans had been pounding on the 2-by-4-foot partition at the bottom of an upper-deck stairway when it broke, Dolphins spokesman Harvey Greene said.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Cowher power topples Chiefs

Steelers even KC's record with 27-3 win

ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — When one team plays its best game of the year, and the other plays its worst, blowouts like Pittsburgh's 27-3 rout of Kansas City Sunday night often follow.

"For the first time, all three phases stepped up," said first-year Steelers coach Bill Cowher, who spent seven seasons as assistant and protégé to Chiefs coach Marty Schottenheimer.

"We had to have a game where we put all three phases together — offense, defense and the kicking game."

Rod Woodson's 80-yard punt return in the first quarter set the tone as the Steelers (5-2) outplayed Cowher's old team in every facet and maintained their tie with Houston for first in the AFC Central.

Was this the worst game the Chiefs have played in Schottenheimer's almost five years as coach?

"Absolutely," Schottenheimer said. "We played poorly in every phase. They drilled us. They beat us in every phase."

The 24-point spread was not really indicative of the difference in the way the two teams played. The Chiefs (4-4) converted only one of 10 third downs, had the ball for almost 10 minutes less than Pittsburgh, fumbled three times, threw three interceptions and managed only 58 net passing yards.

"We really did want to win this one for Coach Cowher," said quarterback

Neil O'Donnell, who threw for 114 yards and one touchdown. "No one brought it up. No one made a big deal out of it. We knew how much it meant to him."

The Steelers, who were 8-point underdogs, took a 7-0 lead on Woodson's run back and were ahead 13-0 before the Chiefs got on the scoreboard.

Pittsburgh's Barry Foster rushed 24 times for 105 yards, keeping him ahead of Dallas' Emmitt Smith for the NFL rushing lead, and Gary Anderson kicked two field goals to move into 10th place on the NFL's all-time list with 247.

It was the fifth 100-yard game this year for Foster and pushed his season total to 747 yards.

"I'm a player on this team. I knew we had to win the game," Foster said. "I'm not thinking of personal goals. It was not about going to the coach's old stomping grounds tonight. We were conscious of that fact, but we just wanted to win."

The Chiefs' Barry Word, who came into the game as the AFC's third-leading rusher, injured a foot in the first quarter and did not return.

It was the second straight loss for the Chiefs.

"Do we really want it? I think we had better think about that," Chiefs' defensive end Neil Smith said. "I wish I could tell you what was missing."

It was the first poor game for quarterback Dave Krieg, who joined the Chiefs this year as a free agent.

He had only five completions in 18 attempts for 62 yards in the first three quarters, and he wound up nine for 27 for 82 yards. He was intercepted three times.

"They just executed and played a lot better than we did," Krieg said.

Woodson, exploiting a yearlong soft spot for Kansas City, burst through the middle almost untouched and sped 80 yards with a first-quarter punt.

Punter Bryan Barker and Lonnie Marts each got a hand on Woodson, but they were unable to halt the third punt-return touchdown of his career.

The Steelers, aided by two penalties, traveled 48 yards in 12 plays to set up Anderson's 49-yarder that made it 10-0 with 13:18 left in the half.

CHIEFS ROUNDUP

■ Rod Woodson returned a punt 80 yards for the Steelers in the first quarter, giving Pittsburgh a 7-0 lead.

■ Pittsburgh's Barry Foster rushed for 105 yards on 24 carries. Foster now has 747 yards on the season, tops in the league.

■ Chief quarterback Dave Krieg completed just nine of his 27 passes, good for 82 yards.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

Blue Jays bring Series title to Canada

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — There's a new flag flying over Canada — the World Series pennant.

The Toronto Blue Jays took baseball's championship outside the United States for the first time, beating the Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 11 innings Saturday night in Game 6.

After surviving more ninth-inning magic from the Braves, the Blue Jays won it all — and lost their loser's label forever — when Dave Winfield grounded a two-out, two-run double for his first World Series extra-base hit.

"The oldest man in the room is the guy who took longest to get a World Series championship," said the 41-year-old Winfield. "But there's not a person that's happier than me. I worked a long time, worked very hard this year. I'm playing with the best team I that ever played for in this game."

"We're just glad to escape back to Canada. It's America's game, and now it's going to Canada for awhile."

The Blue Jays won the title in their 16th year of existence. From their start as an expansion team on April 7, 1977, on a snowy day at Exhibition Stadium, they had plotted for this moment.

But, for one reason or another, it never came. Instead of reaching the World Series for the first time, they endured a series of disappointments — three playoffs losses, plus a final-week collapse in 1987 — that left them wearing a choker's collar.

This year, with a lineup that included Winfield, Jack Morris and David Cone, the Blue Jays vowed this would be their year. And it was in the end, although just like always, it wasn't easy for them to win the big game.

"When we finally got the last out, it was like, 'Is this really over?'" MVP Pat Borders said.

"It's a shame the MVP award goes to just one player," said Borders, who hit .242 in the regular season and .450 (9 for 20) in the Series. "Look at Dave Winfield. He's played all those years and now he gets his first ring."

Winfield's winner came after another great escape by the Braves. Down to their last strike of the season, just as they were against Pittsburgh in the playoffs, they rallied in the ninth to tie it.

Then in the 11th, the Braves battled back again, putting the potential tying runs in scoring position with one out. Atlanta scored once but fell one run short, just as it did last year in Game 7 of the World Series to Minnesota 1-0 in 10 innings.

It all ended in the city where it began a few days ago and sent the Blue Jays home, finally, as winners.

"It's been a long, hard battle," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said. "But I said from opening day, these guys have been focusing on this very thing."

Toronto became the 10th team to win a World Series in its first try and the first since the New York Mets in 1969.

The Braves, meanwhile, became the first team to lose consecutive World Series since the 1977-78 Los Angeles Dodgers, and for the second straight year lost despite outscoring their AL opponent. Atlanta lost 1-0 in Game 7 to Minnesota last year and lost all four games in this year by a run.

"The city has waited a long time for this. It would have been great to win it up there in front of our fans, but I'm sure we'll have fun when we go back home."

The Blue Jays had hoped to wrap it up Thursday night in Toronto — the parade route was all planned — but some 45,000 fans packed the Toronto SkyDome nonetheless, each paying $3 to watch the deciding game on the Jumbotron video board.

WEEKEND CONFERENCE REVIEW

KANSAS 27 OKLAHOMA 10

LAWRENCE — The No. 22

Jayhawks took yet another step in proving that this team is for real, beating Oklahoma for the first time since 1984.

The Hawks won the game with 299 yards rushing against a Sooner defense that had been ranked first in the Big Eight, and 13th in the country, against the run. Oklahoma had been giving up just 106 yards on the ground. KU piled up 299.

The Jayhawks' Chip Hileary, who had been averaging more than 217 passing yards per game, threw the ball just 14 times all afternoon, completing six passes for less than 100 yards.

But backed by Maurice Douglas' 115 and Monte Cozzens' 110 rushing yards, the Hawks had all the offense they needed.

KU never trailed in the ball game but didn't put it away until the fourth quarter.

Sooner quarterback Cale Gundy, Oklahoma's all-time leading passer, left the game in the third quarter when he suffered both a separated breastbone and a concussion after being hit by KU's Dana Stubblefield.

Jayhawk coach Glen Mason beat one of the Big Eight's Big Three — Colorado, Oklahoma and Nebraska — for the first time in his coaching career.

NEBRASKA 34 MISSOURI 24

COLUMBIA — The Tigers gave the No. 8 Cornhuskers a scare, racking up more passing yards than any Nebraska opponent in history, before the Huskers put Missouri away. With 10 minutes left in the game, the Huskers held just a 27-24 edge.

Missouri quarterback Jeff Handy, who set Big Eight records for passing yards, completions and attempts a week ago, threw for 424 yards Saturday, completing 29 of 44 passes.

On the flipside, Missouri gained just 22 yards on the ground. They carried the ball 22 times.

The Huskers, the nation's No. 1 rushing team, gained 335 yards on the ground. Derek Brown led the squad with 148 yards on 28 carries.

Nebraska had been giving up 114 yards per game prior to Saturday's contest.

The Tigers haven't beaten the Cornhuskers in 14 years. In their three previous contests, the Huskers won by scores of 50-7, 69-21 and 63-6.

OKLAHOMA ST. 27 IOWA STATE 21

STILLWATER, Okla. — The Cowboys used eight turnovers to defeat the Cyclones.

Thirteen of Oklahoma State's 27 points were scored off of turnovers.

And although Oklahoma State was leading 27-7 after three quarters, the game wasn't secured until Cowboy Cornell Cannon intercepted a pass at midfield with 13 seconds to play in the game.

Iowa State was held to just 288 yards of total offense. Last week, against the Jayhawks, the Cyclones racked up more than 500 total yards. Iowa State did, however, get 158 yards and score twice in the final quarter to make the game close.

The Cowboys finished with 340 yards of total offense, including 219 passing.

— compiled by Steve Rock

BIG EIGHT STANDINGS

CONFERENCE	W	L	T	PCT.
Kansas	3	0	0	1.000
Nebraska	2	0	0	1.000
Colorado	2	0	1	.667
Oklahoma State	2	1	0	.667
Oklahoma	1	1	1	.333
K-STATE	0	2	0	.000
Iowa State	0	3	0	.000
Missouri	0	3	0	.000

OVERALL	W	L	T	PCT.
Colorado	6	0	1	.857
Kansas	6	1	0	.857
Nebraska	5	1	0	.800
Oklahoma State	4	3	0	.571
K-STATE	3	3	0	.500
Oklahoma	3	3	1	.429
Iowa State	2	5	0	.400
Missouri	1	6	0	.143

Collegian

Bike riding on sidewalks combatted

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"We're hoping that we won't have to write a single ticket. Ideally, we would like a self-patrolling community where tickets won't be needed," Archer said. He suggested people explain the rules to bicyclists on the sidewalks. Lunsday said parking patrol officers will also be ticketing people for chaining bicycles to handicapped-access railings, trees and light poles, and also for taking bicycles into buildings.

He said bicycles may be impounded if a complaint is made to Parking Services. Lunsday said Parking Services has begun to crack down on bicyclists in response to recent concern over the issue. "These rules have always been there. It's something that's become a big concern, and we're trying to get control of it," he said. Archer said some people have been injured in collisions between pedestrians and bicyclists on the sidewalks.

So far, Lunsday said, response to the warnings by Parking Services has been positive. "The bicyclists have been getting off and walking, and we've had pedestrians thank us," Lunsday said. Archer said Parking Services is also working to help bicyclists with their problems. "I've been in contact with the University planning office, our campus safety group and a number of Big Eight universities to gather information on how we can implement a viable bicycle-safety program," Archer said. He said his wish list includes a good bicycle path in and around campus and more good bicycle racks. Archer said the process of improving the campus for bicyclists will be expensive, with bike racks costing about $500 each. "We realize bicycle parking is limited, but we can't just throw a rack out on the grass," Lunsday said.

Perot moves from TV to live campaign

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

on your side?" Perot asked the cheering crowd at Flemington Speedway. Perot's appeal to the character issue was a marked shift in his rhetoric during a campaign marked by questions about Clinton's marital fidelity and his avoidance of the Vietnam War draft. During the first presidential debate, Perot pointedly refused to join Bush in challenging Clinton's participation in anti-war demonstrations in London while a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford. Perot flew by private jet to the rally with his wife, Margot. Paul Kuhl, the speedway's owner, who sported a Perot button, said he put the crowd at 24,000 to 26,000, but other estimates were of about 10,000 people. He attacked what he called Republican dirty tricks by saying he dropped out of the race July 16 when he learned that GOP operatives planned to distribute a fake photograph of his daughter, Carolyn, "to smear her before the wedding." Without mentioning either Bush or Clinton by name, Perot took shots at both of his opponents. "I don't want everybody in America plucking chickens for a living," Perot said, ridiculing Clinton's efforts to expand the job base while he has been governor of Arkansas, which has become a center for chicken processing. "Everybody who knows anything about politics is urging people 'Don't throw your vote away,'" he said of appeals from both the Clinton and Bush camps telling voters that a vote for Perot would be wasted. Such an appeal is like stealing votes, Perot said. That sentiment was echoed by Kent Kreuer, 31, a sales manager from Milford, N.J., who voted for Bush four years ago. "If you don't vote for a candidate you believe in, then you are indeed throwing away your vote," Kreuer said. In recent days, Perot's standing in the polls has risen from the mid-teens to near 20 percent, contributing to a tightening of the race between Clinton and Bush as the campaign enters its final week.

Latin music 'passionate'

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

my mother also performed for the community. "Their influence was what led me to appreciate music worldwide and to study and research the beauty of Latin music in particular," she said. Luciano Maradona, senior in biochemistry, was engaged in an animated conversation in Spanish with Estrada Minton after the performance. "Latin music is about passion,"

Maradona said. "And by just changing the gender of the words, a man could sing the love ballads as well as a woman," Minton said. Lammers, the other half of the duo, said he has been playing the guitar for 15 years. He now teaches at the Musique Company, the Visitation School and with the Continuing Education Department at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

U.S. plane struck

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

It was the second time a U.S. plane was hit by gunfire since the Americans began their emergency airlift of food Aug. 21. In the last week, a German relief plane was hit by a bullet at Mogadishu's airport, and Saturday, two planes for the International Committee of the Red Cross were fired on in Kismayu in the south. Sunday, the U.S. plane was making the second of 12 flights planned for Baidoa, said army Lt.

Col. Robert Donnelly, spokesman for the American operation. Donnelly said the military C-130 Hercules was shot at as it approached Baidoa's airstrip Sunday morning. "One bullet hit the aircraft," Donnelly said. "We don't know how many shots were fired or where the bullet was fired from." No one was hurt, and the plane returned to Mombasa. The remaining 10 flights were suspended, with some diverted to Hoddur, 80 miles to the north.

ESSENTIALS

Lonely, single and on the lookout for 'nice' girls

DEAR CASSANDRA, This is in reference to a letter from Oct. 20. Give me a break, D.W. For $500, I am sure a short trip west to Junction City would give you more than your money's worth! It is obvious all you are looking for is a piece of a—. If you have to spend $500 to impress a date, you need to look within yourself and see that something is definitely wrong. To your surprise, this letter is not from a female. I am just a guy who really respects women. Cassandra, my question is, where does a nice guy look for a kind and honest woman? Are there any national college clubs devoted to either dating or single people? Why doesn't a club or organization sponsor a single's dance on campus? Thanks.

The Nice Guy

DEAR NICE GUY, I understand your frustration, but I think you overlook the obvious. In answer to your last two questions, are not the majority of college students single? So, why do you need a singles club? K-State is one great big singles club — a paradise loaded with ladies who are roughly the same age with many of the same interests. And it appears to me that quite a few single people go to Aggieville or various other places (not that this is necessarily where you should be looking) to dance, to mingle and be seen by members of the opposite sex. So, why does the University need to sponsor a single's dance? Now to answer your first question. Nice guys look for nice girls wherever nice guys like to go, doing whatever nice guys like to do. There is no particular "place" you can go, like Wal-Mart, to find "nice" girls. You can't see the forest because of the trees. "Nice" girls are all around you. Read my next letter. DEAR CASSANDRA, During my high-school years, I never had a girlfriend and very rarely went out with the same girl twice. I was considered a "nerd" and could sometimes hear my date's girlfriends ask them how they could even consider going out with me. But college seemed to change everything. My complexion cleared, and hours of intensive body building took its toll as my weight jumped from 160 to 205 pound, and it was pretty much all muscle. Now my date's friends get jealous.

Cassandra, I've been with plenty of women, and sex is no longer a god of mine. My problem now is finding a girl I want to spend my time with — sharing candlelit dinners and moonlit dances, but today's women want to date around, not settle down. Aren't there any women left out there who like to spend time with one guy they might like, instead of feeling that they need to go out and meet different guys every night? What happened to love? I Never Knew Lonely 'Till Now DEAR I NEVER KNEW LONELY, Your letter sounds similar to the Nice Guy's. Believe me, and I speak from experience, there is a certain amount of pain involved in acquiring practically everything that is worth anything. This is especially true in one's search for a lifelong companion. In an oversimplified form, it is a lot like picking apples at the supermarket. You do not take the first apple you pick. You check a number of them out first, and everybody needs to spend a little time checking out the apples. Loneliness is tough. But I have found that the more you dwell on life's difficulties, the heavier they weigh upon you. Try not to think so much upon the fact that you are single and looking. Enjoy the present and what life is offering today. Each of life's moments has its own unique qualities that will be gone tomorrow. As enjoyable as marriage is, there are certain advantages to being single that you will lose forever once you are married. So, get involved in as many activities as you find interesting. Your lady love is definitely out there, somewhere, feeling lonely, doing the same things you are and asking the same questions. One day, you will find each other and realize it was worth the wait and the pain. Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence. The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

ACROSS 1 Make margalia 4 Emulate Tom Glavin 9 Suitable 12 Rhoda's mom 13 Fred's familial partner 14 Witness 15 Adorned with gems 17 "Spring Sprung" 18 Bambi's aunt 19 Shocked 21 Red Bordeaux wine 24 Squad 25 Actor Chaney 26 Early condensation 28 Moe's brother 31 Advantage 33 "Gun-smoke" medic 35 "Zip-Doo-Dah" 36 Catcalls? 38 Galena, for one 40 Indivisible 41 Ooze 43 Handy 45 Bill of fare listing 47 Rock fan's tube selection 48 Whom Uncle Sam wants 49 Zimbabwesi of "Remington Steele" 54 Music appreciation 55 As (generally) 56 Lunch ending? 57 "Na Na" 58 Electrician, at times 59 Yorkin of TV 60 Triangular sail 61 Pindaric piece 62 — Mahal 64 Sold temporarily 65 Thought 66 Aviv lead-in 67 Spike of a sort 68 Speaks noncommittally 69 Mortified by 70 Pod 71 denizens 72 Criterion 73 16 Ending for auction or mountain 20 Joke reaction 21 Skelton's Mr. Kadiddle-hopper 22 It's all in vein 23 Bitter bark 27 Court 29 Computer options list 30 Banana eater's garbage 32 Basin accessory 34 Ball up 37 Play-ground feature 39 Williams or Rolle 42 Lab-dish eponym 44 Zsa Zsa's sis 45 Peacock-tail designs 46 Ark-itect? 50 Where to find Ger. neighbor of S.Dak. 51 Neighbor of S.Dak. 52 Chit 53 Last place Yesterday's answer 10-24

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873/199¢ per minute, touch-tone/rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC. 10-26 CRYPTOQUIP N Q S E B T J U W W T W H J S R H R B V P J R T T X W J P B H U B S X W N Q J N A U R P E S N A W P P R N V Yesterday's Cryptoquip: TO BECOME A RENOWNED COWBOY STAR YOU MUST GO ON STAGE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: T equals L

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555FAX
532-7309OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDSK-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

- 1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word
- 2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word
- 3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word
- 4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word
- 5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications.

Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

SCOLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

FREE CHAKRA Meditation Workshop for balancing stress management and dealing with life's challenges. Wed., Oct. 28, 7-9p.m. For registration or information, call evenings, 537-8946 or 776-9284.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

A WATCH at terminals in basement of Cardwell Hall. Identify and claim in room 23, Cardwell.

FOUND- KEYS at bike rack near Umberger Hall. 537-1605.

FOUND: WATCH and three rings. Call 539-9397 to identify.

LOST: ORANGE long coat. It's a Ralph Lauren with car keys in the right pocket. Lost Thurs. night in Aggieville at Longhorns, Kites, Chance, or Silverados. REWARD if found. No questions asked!! Call 539-6809.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very petite. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

CBM- HAPPY Birthday! You finally made it past your teenage years.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli

NFL NITE!!!

$3 pitchers & $1.25 wells
Open 7 days a week!

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers.

Open 7 days a week
Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon
Candlewood Shopping Center

and I remembered the day! I Love You! HBH.

CHI- O AMY M.- Your birthday is finally here! Be thankful my dear, it's only one more year until that can of cheer is legal! Happy 20th Love, big sis.

SHAWN K.- U finally made it, the big 21st. Just think, we still have half the semester left to party! Happy B-day! -Cath.

050 Parties-n-More

HOT- TUB rentals for all occasions; Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/ delivery, special weekday/ multiday rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

APARTMENT FOR Rent: two-bedroom, furnished, all utilities paid. Recently remodeled, seven blocks to campus. Quiet. No pets. $380/month. 776-0224 or 539-3680.

FURNISHED ONE-BEDROOM apartment, one block east of campus. Heat, water, trash paid. $300/month. Available Nov. 1. Call 537-4947 after 6p.m.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/ dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

SPACIOUS ONE- two-bed- room. Beautiful hard wood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APART- ment located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan. - Aug. 539-2019.

TWO-BEDROOM DOWN- stairs duplex, architects house, fireplace, central air, carpet, $550 per month, plus utilities. 537-8440.

TWO-BEDROOM UP- stairs duplex, beautiful architects house. Fireplace, central air, carpet, $550 per month, plus utilities. 537-8440.

130 For Rent- Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfur- nished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFUR- nished. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6p.m.

140 For Rent- Garage

ONE CAR garage. Walk to class 539-1554.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in large two-bed-room tri-level apartment. $180 plus deposit. Fun roommates! 1825 College Heights. Call 539-6539.

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coined laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

MALE/ FEMALE own bedroom in two-bedroom apartment, $212 per month, plus one-half utilities at Park Place 587-0562.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted. Private room, laundry, off-street parking. Available Nov. 1. 537-3679, 238-6297.

ONE FEMALE roommate needed for large two-bedroom. Located at 1825 College Heights. Close to campus, laundry facilities and central air and heat. For more information call 776-3804.

TWO MALE roommates wanted. One-half block from campus. $155/month, plus utilities. After 6p.m. 776-7794.

150 Sublease

FEMALE, NON-SMOKER, to sublease apartment, own room, furnished. $185 plus one-third utilities, one block east of campus. Mario and Rebecca 776-9859.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease- runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville, Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease- runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville, Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease- runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville, Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease- runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville, Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease- runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville, Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease- runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville, Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

130 For Rent- Mobile Homes

SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

210 Resume/ Typing

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/ Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m.-5 p.m.

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6555

240 Musicians/DJs

KATAHDIN SEEKS Bass Player. Influences include Zep, Sabbath, AC/DC, Metallica, etc. Call 537-3294 (leave message) or 776-7110 (ask for Rob).

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2868.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

255 Other Services

IT'S TIME TO TAN

HOT NEW BULBS! 10 TANS
$27.50
one coupon per customer expires 11-14-92

Southern Tropical
Sun Tan
776-8060 537-0744
519 N. 12th 1814 Claffin

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6555

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6555

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6555

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November- painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206) 634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room- Bramlage Coliseum 10a.m.-5p.m., Monday through Friday.

Play funny, pleasant diversion medication with his wine. After singing a duet with Max, whom he is trying to encourage in his singing career, Tito realizes Maria is gone, rants and threatens suicide before passing out on the bed.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

The rest of the play is a hysterical montage of mistaken identity, as Max takes Tito's place in the production of "Othello," thinking Tito is dead.

Saunders, who has invested a lot of money in this venture, has coaxed Max into masquerading as Tito, planning to announce the next day that the tenor has killed himself.

Julia, the matron of the opera company, and Diana, the lead, find their ways to the suite to fanage a meeting with Tito after the opera. Each character has a meeting with both Max and the real Tito, including two separate "close encounters" between Diana and Tito, and Max (as Tito) and Maggie.

At the end of the play, Maria returns to Tito — the real one — and they exit, leaving everyone to figure out who was whom.

The set was period-authentic and elaborately created, with a great attention to detail that gave the audience a feel for the era. Although the first scene was somewhat wooden, the cast quickly hit its stride and, for the most part, their timing was impeccable.

Saunders seemed distracted at times, and Maggie had moments of excess, but the smaller parts stood out and made up for any lapses.

The bellhop commanded attention every time he took the stage, with his quirky, physical comedy. Julia was a perfect combination of matronly and ditzzy, à la Lovey Howell from "Gilligan's Island," and Diana vamped her way through every line.

Tito lost his verve during parts of the second act, but he played the bewildered part of missing the last few hours of his day relatively well.

The cast pulled the audience into the play, at times making us want to tell them they had the wrong guy. The performance was a funny and pleasant diversion.

SILO

THE MAGAZINE

Watch for it
Thursday
in the

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Bikes stolen more in fall; police arrest 2 last weekend

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2

Campus police are working on an educational program to be presented at the K-State Union. It will include a videotape to promote locking bikes and demonstrate how to use different locks.

"We still have a hard time making people understand you have to lock the whole bike up," Mellgren said. "If you lock up the wheels and the frame, they'll take the seat. If you lock the seat and the frame, they'll take the wheel."

Mellgren said there is no foolproof way to secure a bike, because people have figured out how to break even the most effective locks.

"U-bolts have shown so far to be the most effective, but we've lost a bike or two with this lock, too," he said.

Some thieves rearrange the bike parts, scrape off the serial numbers and paint stolen bikes so they can't be identified, Mellgren said.

"Serial numbers are great, but I would recommend you engrave your driver's license number and state initials on it," he said.

Mellgren said this way, the police can quickly identify-bike owners through the Department of Motor Vehicles rather than waiting for the owner to report the theft.

Engravers are available for public use at the campus police station in East Stadium.

"We'll even help them put it on there," Mellgren said.

Since Aug. 19, 30 thefts have been reported on campus, and 10 bikes were recovered, according to police records.

"I wouldn't say there's been a great increase since last year," Mellgren said. "There's always a lot of bikes stolen during this time of year when the weather's nice."

"Bike thieves usually get caught down the line, because they start to get careless," he said.

But, he added, it is difficult to tell the difference between bike riders and bike thieves, because they both look suspicious when they are bent over a bike lock.

KSU HORT. CLUB
PUMPKINFEST '92
October 26, 27
11 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Union Lawn
Front of Waters Hall
25¢ - 55¢

Bicycling Specials

for safer & more comfortable riding

	Reg.	Special
Cateye Halogen Light	15 ⁵⁰	11 ⁹⁹
Vista Light (rear flashing)	14 ⁹⁵	11 ⁹⁹
U-Lock - ATB	29 ⁵⁰	22 ⁹⁹
U-Lock - Std	26 ⁵⁰	19 ⁹⁹
Cycling/Running Tights	29 ⁵⁰	22 ⁹⁹
Jackets, Bellwether	$10 to $30 off
(for fall & winter riding)

Ends October 31

In Stock: Other bike lighting systems (important with end of daylight savings), High performance underwear, lightweight gloves, & headbands.

304 Poyntz Downtown THE PATHFINDER Hrs: M-F 9-6 Th 9-8, Sat 9-5 539-5639
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS

THE MOST IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE 20th CENTURY.

MONDAY MANIA!

Buy one of Manhattan's Favorite Pizzas and get a second of equal value Free!

2 Pies that are fine for

8.99!

2 delicious 10" pies and 2 Pepsi's!

"We Pile It On!"

1130 Moro
In the heart of
Aggieville, USA

PYRAMID EXPRESS

539-4888

FREE & FAST DELIVERY

Buy Now Save Later

European Rail Prices Skyrocketing in 1993

Call Council Travel for the new Student Travels Magazine and current airfares.

Council Travel
1634 Orrington Ave.
Evanston, IL 60001

1-800-475-5070

MOONLIGHT MADNESS

with the

Saturday, Oct. 31, 9 p.m.
Bramlage Coliseum

Featuring:

- Larry "Bud" Melman - from Late Night With David Letterman*
- KSU Alumni vs. All Stars scrimmage
- Three point shoot out with President Jon Wefald and Athletic Director Milt Richards
- And much, much more!

ADMISSION COST $1

*Join Larry at Kite's Bar & Grill before activities

Royal
Purple

Varden Studio will visit the K-State Salina campus from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 29.

Group organizations and faculty photos will be taken from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Individual photos will be taken from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Make appointments in the Admission's Office or by calling (913) 826-2640.

SEXUAL MEN'S ^ HEALTH

If you are or have been sexually active, it is a healthy idea to get regular checks for STD (Sexually Transmitted Disease) whether you have symptoms or NOT!

CALL LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
532-6544
FOR APPOINTMENT

This Week's Specials

Taco Burgers 2 for $1.45 reg. $1.15 each
Burrito Dinner $2.77 reg. $3.70

Good through 10-31-92

TACO HUT

Sun. Thurs 11 a.m. - 10 p.m. Where good friends get together
Fri. Sat. 11 a.m. - Midnight Overlooking Westloop
2809 Claflin 539-2091

Royal
Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106 to schedule an appointment for yearbook pictures.

Next in line...

Individual appointments can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30
Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

THE WAVERLY CONSORT

The Year 1492: Spanish Music in the Age of Columbus

Saturday, October 31, 8 p.m.

McCain Auditorium

To mark the 500th anniversary of Columbus' voyage to the New World, 10 brilliant singers and players trace the Christian, Jewish, and Muslim threads that form the fascinating fabric of Spanish culture. Performing on authentic reproductions of early instruments, the Waverly has won international acclaim for the gusto of its "listener-friendly" performances.

Public/faculty: $15
Senior citizen: $13
Student/child: $7.50

Pre-concert lecture
Saturday, October 31, 6:30 p.m.
Little Theatre, K-State Union
Eugene Enrico, a musicologist and film maker who is professor of music history at the University of Oklahoma, will give a lecture illustrated with slides and taped musical examples. Dr. Enrico's lecture will explore the musical repercussions of the momentous events of 1492. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Tickets now on sale at the McCain box office. Call (913) 532-6428 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA. Box office opens at 1 p.m. day of performance. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley).

Transportation available for senior citizens through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000.

A Mid-America Arts Alliance program with the Kansas Arts Commission. The lecture sponsored in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

M · C · C · A · I · N

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE
LINGUIST'S LOVE AFFAIR
Associate professor resident expert on word origins, college slang.
PAGE 5

TUESDAY
HIGH 70 LOW 44
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 27, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 46

Non-injury accident

Michael Ayala is handcuffed by a RCPD officer after failing a breathalyzer test. A non-injury collision occurred between Ayala's car and another vehicle Monday at Tuttle Creek Boulevard and Casement Road intersection.

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Diversity course tabled

3-hour overlay rejected by college as requirement

ROY GRABER
Collegian

The course and curriculum committee for the College of Arts and Sciences turned down the proposal for a diversity overlay requirement for students in the college.

The proposed overlay consisted of a list of three-hour classes that teach facets of ethnic and gender diversity.

Proposed overlay classes are previously existing classes from the anthropology, English, history, political science, psychology, sociology departments within the College of Arts and Sciences. Classes were also taken from the education and human ecology colleges.

Marion Gray, professor of history, was a committee member in arts and sciences. He said the requirement would not have added any hours to a student's curriculum but would be taken out of the elective hours, instead.

Gray said the overlay could provide a beneficial learning experience to all students.

"We live in such a diverse society. It is just so important to get a sense with the different groups in society," he said.

Gray said not only was the overlay intended to increase student awareness about cultural diversities, but also about gender roles.

"Historically, women have been treated differently and have been taught to learn things differently," Gray said.

"Women have been taught that their goal in life is to get married, and men are taught their goal is to get a job. The overlay is one more way to help people understand how people are individuals and not groups."

Gray, who is chairman of the course and curriculum committee, said he was in favor of the diversity requirement, though the proposal was not approved.

Other committee members said they thought the overlay would not be a practical decision due to cutbacks in other departments within the college.

"I think in terms of timing, it couldn't have come at a worse time," said Larry Williams, associate professor of biology and "I think in terms of timing, it couldn't have come at a worse time. We can hardly do what we've got already."

PROFESSOR MARION GRAY

See PROPOSAL Page 8

NEWS DIGEST

GM CHAIR RESIGNS, ENDS RUMORS

DETROIT (AP) — Robert Stempel resigned under pressure as General Motors Corp. chairman Monday, ending a 2-year command that failed to stop record financial problems at the world's largest automaker.

His departure makes his tenure the shortest of any who have chaired GM, once one of the most profitable and admired American businesses.

Unidentified GM board sources said he would have been asked to resign, because he was moving too slowly in cutting costs.

GANGS OFFER TRUCE

CHICAGO (AP) — Street gang leaders met to declare a truce a unveil a plan to renovate vacant city apartments for the homeless, while city officials and police met the effort with skepticism.

BANK ROBBERS KILL 2, WOUND OTHERS

RANDALLSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Two robbers armed with automatic weapons opened fire in a bank vault Monday, killing two employees and wounding two others, authorities said.

NATION

Officials duck Congress, decline to testify about Iraq

"The national security adviser does not testify on (Capitol Hill)."

SCOWCROFT SPOKESMAN

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A week before Election Day, Bush administration officials are declining to testify before Congress on the politically charged issue of U.S. technology exports to Iraq before the Gulf War.

National security adviser Brent Scowcroft and former Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher have ignored invitations from the Senate Banking Committee to appear as witnesses at a hearing Tuesday.

Neither Scowcroft nor Mosbacher has responded to the banking committee's request, a committee aide said Monday afternoon. Although the two have not formally replied, their associates have told the committee they almost certainly will not appear, said the aide, speaking on condition of anonymity.

In a related development Monday, Attorney General William Barr named J. William Roberts, a federal prosecutor in Illinois, to head a task force helping investigate $5 billion in illegal loans to Iraq made by the Atlanta office of an Italian bank.

And in Atlanta, the Entrade trading company was fined $1 million Monday after pleading guilty to giving kickbacks to the Atlanta branch manager in return for getting business with Iraq.

See OFFICIALS Page 8

ACADEMICS

National scholars nominated

Rhodes, Marshall nominees vie for all-expenses-paid study at Oxford and abroad

ANDY WOODWARD
Collegian

The Rhodes and Marshall scholarships which have become part of the strength of K-State's academic standing, have three new candidates.

This year's K-State nominees for the Rhodes Scholarships are Jill Baisinger, senior in history and Spanish; Cynthia Riemann, senior in industrial engineering and physical science; and Jean Sonnenfield, graduate in biology and first-year student in veterinary medicine. Baisinger and Riemann were also nominated for the Marshall Scholarship.

"If I win the Marshall Scholarship, I'm thinking of Belfast University, because I'm going to do my master's on Irish women's history," Baisinger said.

The Marshall Scholarship pays for all expenses accumulated during two to three years of study in Europe. Marshall winners may choose a school within the university system in the United Kingdom.

"If I get the Marshall, I'm looking at the University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology," Riemann said. "They have a strong chemical engineering and environmental technology department. I'd be trying to get my master's in engineering."

"My big goal would be industrial-process waste minimization. I would use the industrial engineering education I received here, combined with chemical engineering and environmental engineering to attack the problem of industrial waste at the production level," Riemann said.

The Rhodes Scholarship awards the winner $40,000 to be used for two to three years of study at Oxford University in England. If Sonnenfield were to win the Rhodes Scholarship, she said her study would be within the field of veterinary medicine.

"There's a gentleman at Oxford who has been dealing with bacterial

See SCHOLARS Page 8

CAMPUS

Regent-approved graduation fee on hold

JENNIFER BEALS
Collegian

A proposal to charge a $15 graduation fee when seniors apply for a graduation request is temporarily on hold.

Although the fee was approved by the Kansas Board of Regents last spring, Bob Kruh, vice provost and commencement coordinator, said the fee will not be assessed this semester.

"Nobody's really pushing it," he said. "We'll postpone it, but it's something to be reckoned with."

One reason for the fee, Kruh said, is an increase of students and an inability for the Kansas Legislature to respond to that increase.

"The University has additional students," he said. "When we should be getting $5-6 million in appropriations from the Legislature, we're only receiving $1 million. We try to put as much money into instructional programs as possible, and that causes a deficit in commencement."

Another reason for the fee is the expense of the graduation ceremony.

These expenses include the payment of crews to set up chairs and decorations for the ceremony and also to clean up afterward, the use of buildings such as Bramlage Coliseum and McCain Auditorium and the purchase of diplomas and covers, Kruh said.

Kruh said disapproval by deans is one reason for the delay.

"The deans didn't want to take it on," Kruh said. "They didn't like it. They felt it would be a bad situation."

Peter Nicholls, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said the entire process would be

See FEE Page 8

COMMENCEMENT COSTS

Here are some of the costs the University must pay to have graduation exercises.

Facilities use	$5,500
Diploma covers	9,300
Diplomas and honor cords	5,600
Diploma mailing	7,000
Staff costs	6,200
Student wages	800
Music	2,000
Flowers and greenery	1,200
Programs	12,000
Security and parking control	1,500
TOTAL	$51,100

Collegian

FYI

Program targets new students

"In this new program we take them out, maybe for a yogurt, and try to get to know them, more on a one-on-one basis."

STACY SHIELDS

MEE SUN LEE

Collegian

K-State may find a new way to care.

The College of Arts and Sciences withdrew from K-State Cares in order to provide a new program more compatible with new students.

"With the K-State Cares program, students just said they were doing fine, because somebody they didn't know was only calling them on the phone," said Stacy Shields, junior in advertising and president of the Arts and Sciences Ambassadors. "In this new program, we take them out, maybe for a yogurt, and try to get to know them, more on a one-to-one basis."

The Peer Advising Group was set up in the spring as a result, with about 15 student ambassadors trained to communicate with two to three new students at a time in a different approach to caring for K-State students, said Bill Feyerharm, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

"We focus on freshmen undecided," Shields said. "Some people really don't like to be involved, though."

In the new program, if the ambassadors do not get a good response from the students, and the students are really opposed to the idea of a peer adviser, the students would get crossed off the calling list, Shields said.

"I think the response to the program has been excellent. Most students are really glad that someone is there to help them when they need the help," said Deanna Nichols, senior in social work and life science and head of the Peer Advising Committee.

"I think the advantage to the program is that it's a continuing program, and next spring, we plan to target a lot more students," Nichols said.

K-State Cares was designed by the dean of student life office to assist new students in their adjustment to college life.

Feyerharm said the decision to withdraw from K-State Cares was made based on students' responses to the program.

"We found the program to be not very effective," Feyerharm said. "Most students could not be reached by phone calls."

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26

At 2:47 p.m., Donald Roussier, 205 McCall Rd., found a Sanyo CD player in his pickup. Unknown person(s) put the player in his vehicle. The player had not been reported as stolen. At 5:11 p.m., a red Jeep, License Plate No. BKU445, was towed from A-28 for excessive violations.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 23

At 11:10 p.m., Jeffrey K. Levian, 2403 Galloway Drive, was arrested for driving under the influence at 10th Street and Poyntz Avenue.

At 3:52 p.m., Michael S. Christ, 1031 Bluemont Ave., No. 8, reported the theft of a wallet containing miscellaneous credit cards. Loss was $120.

At 11:42 p.m., Dusty C. LeBlanc was arrested for battery of a law officer and resisting arrest. LeBlanc was held in lieu of $500 bond.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24

At 1:00 a.m., Jeffrey J. Bust, 825 Thurston St., was arrested for battery. He was held in lieu of $500 bond.

At 1:30 a.m., Aimee L. Dinkel, Ford 803, and Natalie J. Heinhold, Ford 408, were issued citations for minor in possession.

At 1:14 a.m., Erin M. Perry, 1545 Anderson Ave., No. 16, was arrested for driving while intoxicated. Perry was confined in lieu of $500 bond.

At 1:36 a.m., Vanessa C. Whitmore, 2101 Sloan St., No. 4, was arrested for battery. Whitmore was confined in lieu of $300 bond.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26

At 5:08 a.m., Eileen Roufa, 2117 Hillview Dr., reported criminal damage to her car. It had been turned on its side in the street. Damaged was a 1981 two-door, Ford. Loss was $500.

At 7:44 a.m., Anita McAllister reported the theft of a Coast King, 26-inch women's 10-speed blue with black bicycle. Loss was $130.

At 10:28 a.m., Eric W. Hudson, 263 Redbud Estates, was arrested for battery. Hudson was confined in lieu of $300 bond.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly sunny. High around 70. Tonight, increasing cloudiness late. Low 40 to 45.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy. High 60 to 65.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Thursday through Saturday: Thursday, dry and cool. High in the low to mid-50s. Low 30 to 40. Friday and Saturday, a chance for rain in the west, partly cloudy in the east. Continued cool, with a high in the low to mid-50s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

■ The open University meeting will be at 3 p.m. Friday in Union Forum Hall to discuss the Role and Aspirations report. The Collegian incorrectly reported the event as taking place Monday.

■ United Way envelopes are due in Anderson 122.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27

■ HALO will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the ECM building.
■ Sigma Delta Pi will meet at 4 p.m. in Eisenhower 016.
■ Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.
■ Gay, lesbian and bisexual support group will meet from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Women in Lafene 236. Men in Lafene 238.

■ Hospitality Management Society will meet at 8 p.m. in Justin lobby.
■ Young Democrats will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 207 for the letter writing campaign and final plans for Election Day.

■ Golden Key National Honor Society will meet at 6:30 p.m. and will sponsor the forum, "Health Care in America: What Ails the System," at 7 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

■ Department of Psychology will sponsor "Cyril Burt's Twins Again: On Fraud and Quality Control in Science" by Franz Samelson at 3:30 p.m. in Bluemont 5102.

■ Provost's Committee on Role and Aspiration will meet at 4 p.m. in Waters 137.

■ Student Dietetics Association will meet at 8 p.m. in Justin 149 for yearbook pictures.

■ UPC Issues and Ideas Committee will meet at 8:30 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

■ National Society of Black Engineers will meet at 9:30 p.m. in Durland atrium for NSBE pictures.

■ Society of Manufacturing Engineers will meet at 7 p.m. in Durland 127.

■ Wheat State Agronomy Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 313.

■ Rock Climbing Club will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 204 for elections and group photo.

■ SPURS will meet at 5:30 p.m. at Last Chance.

■ Circle K International will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 204.

■ Society for Creative Anachronism will meet at 7 p.m. in Ahearn Field House.

■ Thirty Days of Thanksgiving will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Bluemont 112.

■ Sailing Club will meet at 6:10 p.m. in McCain 324 for yearbook pictures.

■ Phi Beta Lambda will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 204.

■ Society for the Advancement of Management will meet at 7 p.m. in Denison 113A.

■ Dairy Science Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Call 140 and at 8 p.m. in McCain for pictures.

■ NAMA will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 212.

■ International Club will meet at 4:30 in the International Student Center.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY	Nairobi	79/52	clear
Berlin	41/46	rain	Rome	68/46	clear
Helsinki	30/30	cloudy	Stockholm	41/32	cloudy
London	52/39	clear	Vienna	52/37	cloudy

HEY, K-STATE!

ARE YOU BRAVE ENOUGH TO HANDLE THE HAUNTED FOREST?

IF SO, THEN COME TO THE WOODS BEHIND B3 PARKING LOT ON OCT. 29 AND 30 BETWEEN 7:30 AND 10 p.m.

AND OCT. 31 BETWEEN 7:30 AND 11:30 p.m.

FREE ADMISSION!

FLINT HILLS BREADBASKET DONATION OPTIONAL.

SPONSORED BY KSUARH AND FT. RILEY MATES

AGES 13 AND UP, PLEASE!

EISENHOWER LECTURE

"The United States Navy's Role in Naval Arms Limitation Between the World Wars"

The Fifth

Dwight D. Eisenhower Lecture in War and Peace

by William R. Braisted
University of Texas, Austin

Forum Hall, K-State Union

Tuesday, October 27, 1992, 8 p.m.

GET THE ALCO Advantage

FREE

EVERY TUESDAY!

SECOND SET OF PRINTS

Receive a second set of 3" prints FREE with any exposure roll of 35mm, disc, 110 or 126 color print film left for developing and printing at our everyday prices! C-41 process only. Excludes larger 4" size prints, and photo galaxy.

3007 Anderson

537-2433

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. FirstBank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Royal Purple

Varden Studio will visit the K-State Salina campus from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 29.

Group organizations and faculty photos will be taken from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Individual photos will be taken from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Make appointments in the Admission's Office or by calling (913) 826-2640.

LONGHORNS

LEE ROY PARNELL

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 28

$8 in advance; $10 at the door

Call 776-8770 for tickets

or check with S-BAR-J and Streetside

FREE DANCE LESSONS TONIGHT!! 7:30-9:00

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, Horsch & Associates
Commitment to Manhattan

Our 25 years of service says we will be here when you need us. Whether it is an eye exam, contacts or frames we can help.

Most importantly we promise good values, fair prices and quality service...for you...and your family.

DRS PRICE YOUNG ODLER HORSCH
And Associates • Optometrists

3012 ANDERSON, MANHATTAN • 537-1118

AIDS AWARENESS WEEK

Substance use, sex could be deadly combination

Drinking increases chances of unplanned sex, STDs, panel says

JODY LYNN
Collegian

When substance use is combined with sex, the consequences can be deadly.

There is a direct correlation between the use of alcohol and sexually transmitted diseases including AIDS, members of University Counseling Services said Monday. They stressed the need for caution and greater awareness in sexual relationships.

They spoke in the K-State Union Courtyard during a forum sponsored by the K-State Issues and Ideas Committee and the Communicable Disease Committee as part of National AIDS Awareness Week.

"There's no question that when you drink alcohol it affects your judgment and inhibitions. People find themselves engaging in behavior they wouldn't otherwise do," said Sherry Benton, psychologist with University Counseling Services.

Bill Arck, director of alcohol and other drug education programs, said the number of reported cases of AIDS in the United States has doubled between 1981 and 1989. He said one in 100 men and one in 800 women now carry the disease.

Seventy percent of new cases of AIDS are due to heterosexual sex, Arck said. Using alcohol, even in small amounts, causes a person to do things differently and with less regard than what they would under normal circumstances, he said.

Arck said a person with a blood alcohol content level of .03 to .05 percent already has a slower reaction time and is in less control of his or her behavior.

It takes about four drinks in one hour for someone who weighs 120 pounds to reach a blood alcohol content level of .10, which is the level at which one is considered legally intoxicated in Kansas. A person's thoughts and perceptions become confused when the level is between .15 and .2, he said.

Information from a survey provided by Arck said 85 percent of women questioned were intoxicated when they had unplanned sex. Some 60 percent of women with unplanned pregnancies said they were intoxicated when they became pregnant.

Arck said in a survey of K-State students, 94 percent of respondents had consumed alcohol in the past year, and 20 percent of those had experienced negative consequences from using alcohol.

People are more likely to lie about the number of partners they have had or leave out information about their sexual history after they have been drinking, he said.

"You can't really trust people to tell you about their sexual history," Benton said. "It's difficult to talk about. It's difficult to ask questions about, and certainly a good deal of skepticism is in order."

Intravenous drug use is another way to contract the HIV virus that causes AIDS. Some 35 percent of cocaine users and 19 percent of heroin users are estimated to carry the virus, Arck said. Between 1 and 3 percent of K-State students are estimated to use these types of drugs, he said.

He said drug users are most at risk when they share needles or take part in "shooting galleries."

"There's no question that when you drink alcohol it affects your judgement and inhibitions."

SHERRY BENTON

CAMPUS

Lecture to feature author

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

The third Lou Douglas Lecture of the semester will be presented by Howard Zinn at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in McCain Auditorium.

Zinn, professor emeritus in history from Boston University, will speak on "A New Foreign Policy: Justice Without War."

His best known work is "A People's History of the United States," which presents American history through the views of the people not usually represented.

"I have a lot of respect and admiration for his writings," said Marion Gray Jr., professor of history. "He looks at history from the working class's perspective."

Cia Verschelden, assistant professor in sociology, anthropology and social work, said, "He writes of what really happened, instead of the glorified history we are so used to."

Zinn has written numerous books and articles on history, social movements and politics, and two plays.

In his most recent book, "Declarations of Independence: Cross-Examining American Ideology," Zinn explores such topics as the Vietnam War, First Amendment guarantees of privacy and free speech, societal indifference to pervasive poverty, Communism, the "national security" defense of unconstitutional government actions and the obscured issue of class in American society.

Touching up

Steve Lauberth, senior in advertising, paints over screw heads on the Alpha Tau Omega/Pi Beta Phi sign Monday at the ATO house. The sign is part of the fraternity's homecoming float.

DARREN WHITLEY/Collegian

The Beat Goes On at Hansen Nutrition Center

- Natural Food Supplements
- Body Building Products
- Whole Grain Cereals
- Nutritionist on Staff
- Bio-Plasma Prints
- Natural Ice Creams
- Dietetic Supplies
- Herbs and Spices

537-4571 Locally Owned Hansen Nutrition Center 3112 Anderson Ave. (across from Village Plaza)

Spooktacular Sale

October 27 - 30, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

K-State Union
First Floor Alcove
Across from the upper level of the Bookstore

50% OFF
of select Halloween items

$19 Sweatshirts $9 T-shirts

K-State Union Bookstore 532-6583 We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

INSTANT CASH --just add you!

$15 Cash for Your First Plasma Donation

- Quick, Safe, Easy
- Study or watch movies while you donate
- Donating Plasma Saves Lives

M-F 9am-6:30pm • Sat 9am-2pm
1130 Gardenway
(across from Westloop)

BRYAN TRAVEL COLLEGE
Since 1982

Your chance for an exciting career in the travel industry in just 17 weeks!

Financial Aid to Qualified Applicants

Call for a Brochure!
1527 Fairlawn, Topeka
272-0889
1-800-255-3507

B Bryan Travel College

Day classes • 17 weeks
Evening classes • 30 weeks

UPC FILMS

ALL FILMS $1.75 with KSU I.D. Bring a can of food and get a friend in for a $1

WHOOPI GOLDBERG
SISTER ACT

PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED FOR THE BEST COSTUMES!

THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW

K-State Union UPC Kaleidoscope and Feature Films

From the director of Dead Ringers
NAKED LUNCH
Eliminate all rational thought

Friday and Saturday 7 pm and 9:30 pm
Forum Hall
Sunday 7 pm
Forum Hall
K-State Union UPC Feature Films

Wednesday and Thursday 7 and 9:30 pm
Forum Hall
Friday 7 pm
Little Theatre
K-State Union UPC Kaleidoscope

For more information, call the UPC Entertainment Line at 532-6570

$50 MONO $50

Have you had mononucleosis within the last month? If so your plasma could make a valuable contribution to research and earn you $50 at the same time.

For additional details call Kurt Mortenson

at Manhattan Donor Center 776-9177

1130 Gardenway - across from Westloop

We Care For You...
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

"Your Medical Facility"

Royal Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106 to schedule an appointment for yearbook pictures.

Next in line...

Individual appointments can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30
Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

OPINION

OCTOBER 27, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief
Erin Perry Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce David Mayes
Jared Savage Frank Kleemann
Opinion Page Editor Brian Anderson Derek Thoman
Richard Andrade Jodelle Lamer
John Hart Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Rape case should go to trial

THE ISSUE

A man accused of rape will not go to trial because the victim made him wear a condom during the assault to protect herself from AIDS.

WE SUGGEST

The overwhelming evidence indicates an assault took place. The man should be tried for his crime.

An Austin, Tex., woman is getting punished for thinking ahead in a life-threatening situation.

Faced with a knife-wielding, strange man in her home demanding sex, the woman somehow convinced him to wear a condom.

She said she was worried he might have AIDS, and she didn't want to have to deal with contracting the deadly disease in addition to getting raped. Her story:

She came home from a party at 2:45 a.m., undressed and went to bed. Alarmed by her barking dogs, she confronted the man coming at her with a knife.

She then locked herself in the bathroom. But the man broke down the door, knocked the phone out of her hand, assaulted her with the knife and ordered her to take his pants off.

She thought he was going to kill her.

After she was sexually assaulted for more than an hour, she ran from her house naked and summoned help from a neighbor. His story:

He had been drinking and wandered into the woman's unlocked apartment by accident.

After becoming frightened by a noise upstairs, he grabbed a knife from her kitchen to defend himself and went up to the bedroom.

There was no rape to it, he said.

He held a knife to her and had sex with her, but she was the one who gave him the condoms, took off his pants and told him to put the knife down.

The grand jury gave no reason for its decision not to indict the man. One juror, however, said some jurors saw her request that he use a condom as consent.

Whether a rape occurred should be up to a jury to decide in a trial. The indictment simply means there is enough evidence to formally charge the man.

That a strange, drunken man went into the woman's house, up to her bedroom, broke down a door, held a knife to her in her own bathroom and had sex with her was not enough.

What did matter to the jurors was that she had cleverly gotten the man to put down his knife and let her put a condom on him before he had sex with her.

The case should go to trial.

AIDS only one type of sexual disease

Are you aware that the AIDS epidemic will cost New York alone more than $7 billion over the next five years? Did you know AIDS will cost national insurance companies in excess of $100 billion in life, health, and disability claims by the year 2000?

AIDS is costly in terms of economics, but it also costs our nation emotionally, politically and morally. Whether we like it or not, everyone will be forced to deal with it one way or another, at some time or another.

Did you also know that this is AIDS Awareness Week? I suppose AIDS awareness will be heightened, at least for this one week, if not forever and always.

How this will be done, I do not know. I imagine there will be lectures, seminars, lunch-time group discussions, panels, debates, and personal testimonies from infected persons.

Our nation's attention has been drawn by the immensity and lethality of the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome as it spreads throughout the lives of modern Americans. Indeed, this problem is worthy of our attention and energy, but of how much energy and attention?

After all, AIDS is not the only issue, nor is it the most important issue. Ours is a complex world faced with a myriad of issues, and AIDS is just one aspect of the intricate domain of sexually transmitted diseases.

What do you know about STDs, let alone AIDS? It's as if everyone has forgotten the "small" infections as AIDS leaps forward as the reigning terror of casual sex life.

Every day, roughly 33,000 Americans contract an STD. That comes to about 12 million annually. This is AIDS Awareness Week, but what about gonorrhea, the oldest of STDs and one of the most common?

What about syphilis?

What about chlamydial infections, which are the most common of all STDs in the United States, reaching a reported 3-4 million people annually while costing $1 billion? Not such a "small" infection after all.

There are 40 million cases of genital herpes in America, and that number is rising by half a million cases annually. There are also currently 12 million cases of genital warts in the United States, and that number is rising by 750,000 new cases a year.

Did you know that 20 years ago the number of STDs was very small, perhaps countable on one hand? That number now exceeds 50, and researchers are finding approximately three new forms of STDs every year.

The AIDS blitzkrieg shows no sign of relenting, nor does the rampage of the lesser, but all the same villainous, STDs.

Also, much like AIDS, many of the forgotten STDs are incurable. Although many STDs are only annoying, others are eventually lethal.

Did you know the number of persons suffering from AIDS is reaching into the millions? Combine that number with the number of those suffering from any of the other STDs, and the number inflicted is vast.

You cannot contract AIDS by breathing the same air as an infected person, but the practice of casual sex can expose you to the disease.

Unfortunately, condoms are not 100-percent effective against any STD. But abstinence is 100-percent effective in preventing the transmission of AIDS and STDs. Not only that, but it is much better for personal relationships and peace of mind.

Stop and think.

SCOTT SPRADLIN

President should be picked for TV wit

A vote for Perot is a vote for fun.

A similar phrase was coined in the 1960s by the radical left, with Barry Goldwater's name used in place of the energetic little Texan.

Another phrase that floated around in that time was a response to the Republican's Goldwater theme, "In your heart, you know he's right." The Democrats' answer: "In your guts, you know he's nuts."

In the wake of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, the fears of nuclear holocaust were easily played upon by the Democrats.

Today we don't have to worry about the Soviet Union. Now the candidates use the fear of economic collapse to prod Americans into voting for them.

Occasionally, Bush mentions the foreign policy thing — the idea that because he has experience he is best suited to lead the country toward the dawn of the 21st century. But, with Iran-Contra and Iraqgate, many are quick to embark on compelling arguments suggesting that Bush has little credibility in that venue.

Clinton has made a stab at hinting what his own foreign policy decisions might be like as well. This summer he suggested bombing the Serbs to stop their assault in Bosnia-Herzegovina. Since that time, the draft issue has come up with some regularity. And Clinton, probably not in the best position to cheerlead American men and women off to possible death, has softened on the subject.

So the battleground in this election has not been foreign policy, as in the past, but the country's economy. Unfortunately, this is the hardest subject for the average person to comprehend.

Regarding the economy issue, voters are given three plans which are very different and often confusing.

But there is a very easy way for the undecided voter to figure out who the next president of the United States should be, without taking a crash course in macroeconomics.

America's favorite pastime is watching television.

And America should choose the candidate who best reflects that — the candidate who is the most fun to watch on television.

Sure, Perot seems a little wacky at times. And yes, he tells some pretty tall tales. But he's from Texas, and they're just that way.

Granted, his claim that he is only running for president because "the volunteers" want him to wears a bit thin. It is also true that psychologists everywhere raise their eyebrows when Perot rants about secret plots and conspiracies, like the one to undermine his daughter's wedding. But are there any fervent Democrats or Republicans who can honestly claim their candidate hasn't made disingenuous statements or allegations in the quest for power this year?

If you're going to be lied to, and you are, it may as well be by somebody who gives you a good laugh while he's at it.

Besides, Bush and Clinton are too predictable.

If Bush were elected, the rich would get richer, the poor would get poorer, and we'd have a war or two before Dan Quayle started his bid for the White House.

If Clinton were to get the nod, we'd get four years of pledges, promises and sickeningly sensitive speeches. And maybe a war or two.

But if Perot were elected . . . wow! Who knows what the hell would happen next.

Decreased unemployment? Maybe. Constitutional crisis? Maybe. Fascism? Economic prosperity? Depression? Maybe, maybe, maybe.

So, next week the American voters will choose the man who will grace their television screens almost daily for the next four years. Be very careful. Like a good made-for-TV movie hero, the president should be charming, witty, and unpredictable. But most of all, the president should be someone you can laugh at.

With that in mind, is there any doubt H. Ross Perot is not that man?

MARK ENGLER

READERS WRITE

► TOMAHAWK CHOP

Changing one means changing them all

Editor,

Recently, we've heard a great deal of discussion about conservative America's secret plan to exploit and degrade the "Native American" race. Yes of course, I'm talking about that vulgar gesture known to the world as the tomahawk chop.

I know that I have no right to form an opinion on this topic because I'm a Euro-American male and therefore racist, sexist and self-righteous. But, I have a point to make.

If naming team mascots after the American Indian is truly a form of exploitation, why should we stop with renaming sports teams? American society is full of Indian terms and names that are degrading in the same sense. Thus, we should also change the names of cars, cities, rivers, roads and even states. I shudder to think that I'm promoting racism every time I refer to myself as a "Kansan."

I would like to say for the record that I do abhor racism. I must add, however, that I cannot promote political correctness and its warped view of society. If you want to talk about exploitation for money, I personally believe that pornography degrades and exploits women for no other reason than profit. How come porn is a form of expression while the moving of one's hand up and down in a chopping motion is a symbol of bigotry?

David Weatherford
Junior/Secondary education

► ELECTIONS

Raborn the only real candidate for Clerk

Editor,

I first met Craig Raborn when he was serving on then-student body president Todd Heitschmidt's cabinet in charge of community relations. I was serving as Student Senate's faculty representative.

Heitschmidt was looking for someone to run for City Commission as he felt very strongly that K-State students needed a voice in city government. He asked that I meet with Craig Raborn to see if I thought he might make a viable candidate.

After talking to Craig for about an hour, I was convinced that he clearly understood and was seriously interested in local government. I was so impressed with Craig's intelligence and ability that I agreed to involve myself in his campaign by serving as his campaign treasurer.

Craig didn't win a seat on the City Commission in April 1991, but he did gain respect from the other candidates as time and again during public debates he demonstrated his keen and detailed understanding of the issues.

Craig is once again running for public office; this time for Riley County Clerk.

Craig believes that voter registration should happen right up to and including the day of any election. Numerous other states have such procedures.

Craig is also concerned that our citizens located at Fort Riley have to drive 25 miles to the town of Riley to vote.

Based on my four years serving as Student Senate faculty representative, Raborn proved to be one of the most insightful, intelligent, and creative members I have ever known in that body. He was one of the few members who understood the complexities of the bylaws and the constitution and devised numerous pieces of legislation that made the democratic process more efficient, more fair, or more responsible.

Craig Raborn is a man of talent, patience and compassion. He is articulate, eloquent and a man deeply committed to accountable government. I have absolute faith in his abilities and his integrity.

I hope you will join me in casting your ballot for Craig Raborn for Riley County Clerk.

Phil Anderson
Treasurer for the Raborn campaign

► ELECTIONS

State Board needs leaders like Nichols

Editor,

I am writing this letter to encourage area voters to join me in electing Mary Nichols to the District 6 Kansas State Board of Education. As the Democratic candidate, Mary is running against incumbent Republican Bill Musick because she believes it is time to offer the voters a choice. It is often difficult to be objective about a close friend, but Mary's accomplishments and qualifications are so outstanding that it is easy to justify my bias.

Mary has been a member of the Manhattan-Ogden school board for five years, serving as its president in 1990-91. She has been a member of the League of Women Voters for eight years and served on the education and governmental affairs committees of the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce. In addition, Mary has been involved in community affairs. She chaired the Parks and Recreation Board and the Martin Luther King Task Force this year.

She has taken her campaign to the people. Rather than set a private agenda for change, she prefers being accessible to listen to the populace and develop plans from the views she hears as she travels.

As a K-State speech instructor and a former high school English/speech teacher, she is concerned about the quality of education the children of Kansas receive. Mary is especially interested in funding of peripheral programs, such as summer school and opportunities for at-risk students.

Most importantly, Mary is a single parent of three children and has lived in Manhattan for over 20 years. Her children are all currently attending or have graduated from the Manhattan-Ogden school district. She thus knows firsthand the difficulties facing the children of this state as they strive to be successful in the 21st century.

She said, "Government and education won't change unless you vote for change." I encourage everyone to heed her plea.

Charlotte MacFarland
Assistant professor/Theater

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Letters to the Editor: c/o Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

CAMPUS

Professor enjoys the study of words

Use of swear words varies with gender, Murray says

KIRSTEN NELSON

Collegian

Tom Murray's love affair with the English language has taught him a thing or two about the nouns, verbs and other parts of speech.

Murray, associate professor of English, has researched language for 10 years and written more than 50 articles and eight books on the subject. He's come to conclusions on the origin of slang words, word meanings, and the use of swear words through researching college students and adolescents.

"I think language is the most fascinating thing there is," Murray said.

New words are introduced into language every day, and Murray found adolescents are most responsible for this. "Schwing" is just one example, he said.

The word made famous by Wayne and Garth in the movie "Wayne's World" has become one of the most popular slang terms since the movie's release.

People of all ages use it, and it has taken on many different meanings. The most common use is for a good looking person of the opposite sex.

"Any time a person, movie, or anything with influence says something different, they have a wide impact on language," he said.

In the 1940s, when Harry Truman was president, he mispronounced nuclear as "new-q-lar," and everyone began saying it that way. People still do it today, and they've traced it to Truman's mispronunciation and his influence as president at the time, Murray said.

Words also take on different meanings over time.

"I wouldn't have dreamt of calling a group of girls or women 'guys' when I was a kid. Now I don't think twice about it," Murray said.

Manhattan High School Principal Jim Rezac said he frequently sees different meanings for words. He said it's interesting to see how often students call something "bad," when they mean it's good.

One trend Murray found while researching Midwestern college students in 1988 was they were a lot more free with dirty words than 30 years ago. This is still true today, he said.

The reason might be the words are just used more often now, or 30 years ago people were more choosy in how they used them, Murray said.

"They were reserved for more specific contexts, such as hitting your finger, or wrecking your car. Now they're used more freely as a common way to talk," he said.

This is true also at the high-school level, Rezac said.

"Oh yes, there's no question about it. We talk to kids, and they don't see there's anything wrong with it, or that anyone would be upset with them for using that kind of language," he said.

"We try to discourage it, because there are areas of society where it is not accepted as it is with their friends. If they would come to me for a job in a few years and use that kind of language, they wouldn't get it," he said.

Brian Parker, junior in graphic design, agreed with this.

"When I'm with my friends, it's no big deal because they do it too, but in class, around girls, and people I'm not comfortable with I don't," Parker said.

In his research, Murray also found differences between men and women, and their use of swear words.

Women have a good idea of how much men swear, but men have a poor idea of how often women do, Murray said.

"Generally, women try to be more discreet than men. If you go into a locker room, or some place predominantly women, you'll hear things that will make a sailor blush," he said.

We've been conditioned to not hear women swear much. So, when we do we're often surprised, Murray said.

He also found men have a fondness for words that describe body parts, functions of body parts and ways in which they can be combined. Women use these also, he said, but they have to be more upset.

Women rate words as being dirty on a different scale than men do, Murray said.

Women usually classify words that are blasphemous and profane religion dirtier than men do, but he said he doesn't know why this is.

STATE

Finney to appoint new justice

Governor says she hoped to appoint black judge; none nominated

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — A commission nominated three judges — one woman and two men — to replace retiring Justice Harold Herd on the Kansas Supreme Court on Monday.

Gov. Joan Finney immediately lamented the fact that the names of no black people were forwarded to her.

It is Finney's first appointment to the Supreme Court since she took office in January 1991.

The nominees are Robert Davis, 53, a Court of Appeals judge who lives in Lawrence; Mary Kay Royse, 43, a district court judge in Wichita; and Franklin Theis, 50, a district court judge in Topeka.

"I regret there is no black person, no name submitted to me of a black person," Finney told reporters after meeting with five black leaders in her office. She called the meeting to try to mend a rift caused by her demotion of former Health and Environment Secretary Azzie Young.

The governor said she had hoped to appoint a black person to the Supreme Court. No black has served on the state's highest court, although Sherman Parks Sr. of Topeka, now retired, served on the Court of Appeals for 10 years.

The three nominees were selected on Saturday by the Supreme Court Nominating Commission, and had their names delivered to Finney Monday in her office by Carol Green, Supreme Court clerk, and Ron Keefover, court information officer.

All three nominees are white. Finney had said when Herd announced he was stepping down that she hoped the commission would submit the name of at least one minority person to her. The governor also had said she wanted the name of a woman submitted.

Under Kansas' nonpartisan selection system, Finney has 60 days in which to appoint one of the three nominees to the Supreme Court. If for some reason she would not make the appointment, Chief Justice Richard Holmes would make it. But that has not happened since Kansas adopted this system in 1958.

Herd, 74, is retiring effective Jan. 11. He was appointed to the Supreme Court in March 1979 by former Gov. John Carlin. Herd is a former state senator and attorney from Coldwater.

Davis, Royse and Theis were selected from among 23 persons recommended to the commission, including 15 judges and eight attorneys in private practice.

Davis was appointed district court judge in the 1st Judicial District, which encompasses Leavenworth and Atchison counties, in 1984 by Carlin, and was appointed to the Court of Appeals in 1986 by former Gov. Mike Hayden.

He was county attorney of Leavenworth County in 1981-84, and magistrate judge in the county in 1969-76. He was in private practice in 1967-84, and served as attorney for the state Board of Pharmacy in 1972-84.

He is a graduate of Creighton University and the Georgetown Law School.

Royse was appointed district court judge in Sedgwick County in 1986 by Carlin. She was in private practice of law in Wichita.

Royse is a 1970 graduate of Emporia State University with a degree in mathematics and speech, earned her master's degree in speech from ESU in 1972 and her law degree from the University of Kansas in 1978.

A native of Hutchinson, she is single.

Theis has served as a district court judge in Shawnee County since his appointment in January 1977 by then-Gov. Robert Bennett.

Prior to going on the bench, Theis was an assistant attorney general in 1971-75 under Vern Miller. He was chief attorney for the state Department of Administration, and he was pardon and extradition attorney for former Gov. Robert Docking.

Theis, whose father, Frank Theis, is senior U.S. District Court judge in Wichita, is a 1964 graduate of the University of Kansas with a degree in economics and political science, and a 1967 graduate of the KU law school.

Finney meets black leaders in attempt to mend strained relations

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — Gov. Joan Finney and five black leaders said they reached an understanding about the demotion of a cabinet secretary in a meeting on Monday.

The governor met with the five black leaders to explain why she demoted former Health and Environment Secretary Azzie Young, and to mend differences between her and some of her black supporters.

Those who attended the meeting said afterward it was constructive, and they indicated that they feel they can continue to work with the first-term governor.

Finney said she fired Young because of policy differences, but declined to elaborate. Young, who was secretary of health and environment for 15 months, was stripped of most of her duties a month ago and then returned to her old post as director of the Bureau of Family Health.

Robert Harder, a veteran state bureaucrat who served as head of the Kansas welfare agency for 18 years, was appointed on Oct. 11 to replace Young.

"We had a serious meeting and understanding," Finney told reporters, who were not allowed to attend the meeting in Finney's office.

"The people here realize I have a long record of cooperating with members of the black community,"

People who attended the meeting acknowledged that differences of opinion might exist between them and the governor, but said they hoped communications would be strengthened.

"We had a very constructive discussion," Monique Pittman-Lui of Topeka said. "I'm satisfied we can go forward."

Last Tuesday on the Statehouse steps, about 80 blacks protested not only Young's demotion but also the way the governor had treated a group of black leaders at Cedar Crest the previous week.

During that meeting, about 20 blacks refused to eat breakfast at the governor's mansion when Finney declined to discuss Young's demotion.

Strong Leadership

Kent delivered strong leadership with his active role in:

- Making taxes more fair through property and motor vehicle tax relief and readjustment of income and sales taxes.
- Protecting the environment through a strong solid-waste management plan.
- Getting needed money for K-State including budget increases, a long-awaited enrollment adjustment, and Farrell Library funding.
- Repealing the outrageous legislative pension and passing tougher ethics laws.
- Writing a new school capital improvements plan maintaining local control as part of a new education finance plan that increased local school district funding.
- Caring for our children with the "Healthy Kids Act" and many other children's initiatives.
- Keeping Riley and Geary counties together in the Second Congressional district.
- Key committees: Taxation, Energy and Natural Resources, and Rules and Regulations.

Shared Values

When Kent was elected to his first term in office in 1990, the message from the voters was clear: "No more politics as usual!" We needed someone who could get the job done for us in Topeka. We wanted results, and we got results!

From fairer taxes to resetting our priorities for government spending, from helping our kids have healthier lives to protecting the environment, Kent has proven to us he can get the job done. Kent has shown Topeka how to build cooperation among legislators regardless of political party. But he has also shown Topeka how to stand strong when you know you are doing what is right, no matter who opposes you.

Kent's promise was fair, thoughtful, effective government with a focus on values embodied in quality education, clean environment, fair taxation, strong families and healthy kids. Now we need to reaffirm our belief in these values by sending Kent back to Topeka. Strong leadership, shared values. It works!

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Strong Leadership
Shared Values

IT WORKS!

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative
Bill Varney, Treasurer

A Collegian personal can say it all!

Ghosts and goblins, witches and brooms,
Owls and pumpkins, bats and tombs.
Halloween is a great time to say,
"You're my favorite person today!"

Say it with a Collegian personal in the Classifieds.

For only $5 for up to 20 words, you can get your Halloween message in the Collegian. Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103. Ads will run Oct. 30. Deadline is noon Wednesday, Oct. 28.

YOUR NAME _____ YOUR ID NUMBER _____

ADDRESS _____ PHONE NUMBER _____

MESSAGE (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals.)

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

SPORTS

OCTOBER 27, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

TOP 20

1 Miami	6 Florida St.	11 Boston College	16 Tennessee
2 Washington	7 Georgia	12 Syracuse	17 Arizona
3 Michigan	8 Colorado	13 Southern Cal.	18 Kansas
4 Alabama	tie Nebraska	14 Penn St.	19 Washington St.
5 Texas A&M	10 Notre Dame	15 Stanford	20 Florida

Jayhawks shoot out Wildcats in Chartrand

TONYA FOSTER
Collegian

The K-State men's soccer team placed second for the second straight year in the 14th annual Ed Chartrand Memorial Soccer Tournament.

The Cats lost to Kansas in the championship match after a shoot-out, 2-1.

The tournament, next to the Big Eight conference championships in spring the most competitive tournament in the Midwest, was Saturday and Sunday at Frank Anneberg Park.

It is a joint effort of the K-State soccer club and the Chartrand family. The game is named after Edward E. Chartrand, who played for the K-State soccer team.

He died in May 1979 at the age of 22. All proceeds go to cystic fibrosis, and a $500 scholarship is given each year in Chartrand's name to a K-State soccer player. This year's recipient was sophomore Don Robertson.

Along with K-State, teams from Wichita State, Emporia State, Oklahoma State, Kansas, Iowa State and Oklahoma participated in the tournament. A K-State alumni team was also in the field.

The Wildcats tied Oklahoma State 2-2 in its opening match of the first round Saturday. They then went on to defeat Emporia State 7-0 and Wichita State 1-0 in the third game in its bracket.

In the semifinals Sunday, K-State needed a shoot-out to defeat Oklahoma 1-0 after a scoreless 90 minutes.

"In the game against Oklahoma, I was lucky in guessing where they would shoot the penalties," Cats goalie Jim Dailey said.

But Frank Weeks, team president, said that the Cats were in control.

"We dominated that game, though we had a hard time finishing it," he said.

In the championships game against KU, the Hawks scored first. But the Cats took its chance to tie the game after KU lost two players to red cards.

However, despite having two extra men on the field, K-State failed to score a winning goal in the regular time with 30 minutes left.

"It seems classic that it comes down to K-State and KU," Weeks said. "Whenever we play, it's a good game."

In the overtime, the score remained tied, leaving K-State with its second shoot-out of the day.

One Hawks player was the only player who could score for his team, giving KU the winning edge.

"KU isn't a good team to have a shoot-out with," Dailey said. "They're a good team with a lot of talent. I'm just upset that it went into a shoot-out."

"It was a physical game," K-State coach Viktor Atughonu said.

Robertson said that he thought that K-State was the best team in the tournament, but felt that they were just unlucky.

"It turned out good," Weeks said. "This is one of the best tournaments we've played in."

With that tournament, K-State finished the fall season with an 8-3-1 record.

COLUMN

Baseball league needs overhaul for next season

Major-league baseball begins in four months.

Usually, the World Series is a time when baseball enthusiasts are talking about how great a Series it was and predict who will be fighting the pennant next year.

This year is different.

People are going to be talking more about the high salaries ball players will make, finding a new commissioner, deciding what to do with the Giants and if there will be another player's strike.

Imagine baseball as a loaf of bread. In the beginning, it is new, and everyone wants a slice. Gradually, it begins to mold, and fewer people want to get near it.

If the baseball gets any worse, no one will touch it, and it will crumble. So what does one do to stop this decaying?

Here are some answers to some problems.

Step one — end free agency. Mark McGwire of the Oakland Athletics, Barry Bonds and Doug Drabek of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and Dave Winfield of the Toronto Blue Jays have a chance to leave their teams. These and, for the moment, 20 other free agents won't sign because they feel that they are underpaid.

The solution is to pay everyone equally, like $200,000 a year. Players would earn more money based on performances, such as earning the Most Valuable Player honors or leading your team to the playoffs. This way, players would hustle more and make the games more exciting.

Step two — start instant replay. In the next few years, almost every stadium will have a TV screen, or a television station will be at every game. Umpires would have access to a screen to overrule a call from an umpire on the field.

This would be faster than what NFL did prior to this season, since the majority of calls would deal with base running situations and catching the ball. Managers would be allowed two opportunities to reverse a call. This would be great.

Step three — more day games. Parents complained that their kids couldn't watch an entire game during the World Series because they started late. During the season, no other team plays half of its home games during the day except for the Chicago Cubs.

Team owners should offer cheaper prices for the day games. They would have special prices for schools that want to take field trips and have discounts towards businesses that help in any way with the organization. It would draw fans into the stands.

Step four — pay back the cities. As I walk through campus, I see many students wearing products similar to the baseball players — caps, game jerseys, etc.

A portion of the money that is bought by the public would go toward rebuilding baseball fields or helping struggling baseball programs around the country.

Whoever is the next commissioner needs to start a program similar to NFL charities. Teams and players would donate money to worthy causes. This would end some feelings from fans that players are money-hungry, cold-blooded people.

Someone needs to cut off the moldy pieces before it consumes the entire loaf.

BRIAN
ANDERSON

SPORTS DIGEST

► MEN'S RUGBY TEAM LOSES TO KC

Despite a second-half comeback, the K-State men's rugby team lost to the Kansas City Rugby Club 36-27 during a weekend game in Manhattan.

The Wildcats, who trailed 19-0 at one point in the contest, scored just before the half to pull within 14, at 19-5.

K-State scored the first 15 points of the second half to take a 20-19 lead. In that second half, the lead changed hands five times.

► CONGRATULATIONS, COACH ALTMAN

Reva Altman, the wife of Wildcat basketball coach Dana Altman, gave birth to a baby girl Sunday at 5 a.m. Dana Altman, who was scheduled to be in Kansas City for the Big Eight basketball media day at 7:30 a.m., witnessed the birth before leaving his new daughter, Aubra, once his wife fell asleep.

HOCKEY

KU skates pass Cats twice, wins pair of physical matches

FRANK KLEEMANN
Collegian

Someone moved a boxing ring onto the ice.

That was how the K-State hockey team felt when opening its season against KU Friday and Saturday night at King Louie Ice Arena in Kansas City.

"They were two very physical matches. It was rough with many fights," K-State's first-line right wing Pat Steiner said. "The referees didn't call a lot of the stuff, and the game then got out of control."

The Cats lost both games against the Hawks, 5-4 on Friday and 7-4 on Saturday, facing a better-prepared team.

KU, suited with an $11,000 budget and a coach, already had five matches under its belt and about 15 practices. K-State, on the other hand, couldn't buy as much ice time as they wanted to for practice, with a $700 budget from the University.

Dominating conditionally, KU went on to build a 4-1 lead up into deep of the third period. With four minutes left, K-State scored three quick goals by Steiner, Todd Colton and Mike Backley.

But KU hit back once more, taking the regained lead and match with 30 seconds left.

"We worked pretty hard to tie the game and then just let down," first line center Scott Thorne said, explaining the sudden end after K-State's previous efforts.

K-State's weakness was lack of communication, which resulted from little team practice, Steiner said.

"They were better, in tip-top condition," he said. "We had bad defensive laps. They played a lot better as a team than we did. I think it's a result of having a coach."

K-State got only nine shots in the first game, compared to KU's 35.

"Their defense was the strong part of their team," Thorne said.

One night later, KU was up again, this time 7-4. But the game was a lot closer than the result indicated, Steiner said.

Heading into the second period with a tie at 2, the main forces of both sides were involved fist fights, as in the night before.

"It was almost scary, sometimes," Steiner said. "There were a lot of fights in second period, which left a couple of our good players out in the third period."

Hockey-wise, the Hawks jumped to a 6-2 lead after two periods. K-State closed the gap to 6-4 with goals by Thorne and Chuck Kipp before KU added a seventh goal to the final score.

"We should have beaten them. We played as good as we could in the shape we were in," Steiner said. "We just need a coach, badly."

NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Bills beat Jets on last play

ASSOCIATED PRESS

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — A Monday night against the New York Jets. How could the Buffalo Bills miss?

They didn't, but just barely, as Thurman Thomas caught a 12-yard touchdown pass from Jim Kelly with 51 seconds remaining. It lifted the Bills past their AFC East patsy, 24-20. Buffalo marched 75 yards in seven plays, using 59 seconds to earn its 10th straight victory over the Jets.

The late heroics spoiled a superb comeback by the Jets (1-6). Ken O'Brien, the man Jets fans love to hate, guided New York 65 yards on a 77-yard drive for a 20-17 lead, with Brad Baxter scoring from the 1 with 1:50 remaining.

Browning Nagle hurt his shoulder early in New York's TD drive when hit by Bruce Smith. O'Brien, a 7 1/2-year starter who lost his job to Nagle this year, came in and took them from their 35 to the score.

O'Brien found Rob Moore for 9 yards, Blair Thomas ran for 6 and O'Brien's 45-yard rainbow was dropped in the end zone by Rob Moore, but James Williams was called for interference.

Baxter scored on the next play, leaving more than enough time for the two-time defending AFC champions.

The Bills (5-2) got a 34-yard pass to Don Beebe to the Jets' 49. Beebe also caught a 19-yarder on third down to the 30.

Thomas ran for 18 yards, then Kelly found the versatile running back between two defenders in the end zone.

New York led 3-0 on Cary Blanchard's first-quarter 42-yard field goal. But the Bills quickly snatched the lead in the second quarter.

Ken Davis' 2-yard touchdown dive came one play after Thomas gained 20 yards on a sweep. The Bills got in position on a 37-yard pass to Andre Reed on third-and-15.

Blanchard hit a 40-yarder to make it 7-6, but Nate Odomes' interception set up Buffalo's quick drive at the end of the half for a 14-6 edge.

The Bills looked as sharp as ever during the march, which took 43 seconds to go 62 yards. Kelly hit Beebe, fresh off the injury list, on passes of 15 and 18 yards and Thomas ran for 13. Davis scored with 12 seconds remaining in the half.

New York's offense, dormant a lot longer than Buffaloes, woke up in the third quarter.

The Jets got their first touchdown in seven quarters and only their third on the ground all season on Pat Chaffey's 1-yard run after they drove 84 yards in 10 plays.

That made it 14-13. But the Bills responded with Steve Christie's 33-yard field goal.

Then each team reverted to recent error-prone ways.

Reed fumbled when slammed by Mike Brim and Mo Lewis recovered and ran 25 yards to the Buffalo 41 early in the fourth quarter.

On fourth-and-4, Nagle threw a short pass to Whisenhunt that did not connect, but Mark Kelso was called for interference, a mistake because the play would not have gained a first down.

WORLD

CAMPUS

Canadians vote on secession, reforms

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — Canadians voted Monday on constitutional reforms designed to put an end to 200 years of French-English squabbling, and deal with the concerns of natives and underpopulated provinces.

Failure of a single province to approve the reforms in the nationwide referendum would kill the deal. Polls pointed to trouble in Quebec, British Columbia and Alberta.

The ultimate result of failure could be the breakup of Canada.

Negotiations were begun initially to dampen secessionist sentiment in French-speaking Quebec by granting it special status. But in more than two years of debate, discussions widened to include changes demanded by other provinces and aboriginal people.

When the referendum campaign began six weeks ago, the "Yes" side was considered a shoo-in. But opposition quickly grew.

Many Canadians came to think of rejecting the reforms as a way to get back at Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, the most unpopular Canadian leader in post-war history.

Referring to the document signed by Mulroney and the premiers of the 10 provinces, the referendum asks: "Do you agree that the constitution of Canada should be renewed on the basis of the agreement reached on Aug. 28, 1992?"

"It's kind of a confusing vote because I think there are a lot of people who don't know exactly what they're going to do," said Derek Harnett, who stood in the rain waiting to vote at a polling station in Newfoundland. "I'm still not sure what I'm going to do."

The referendum was really a non-binding plebiscite. The constitution can be amended only with approval of the federal Parliament and the legislatures of all 10 provinces.

But Mulroney said that if the package failed in any one province, the deal was dead. It would be "morally unacceptable" for a provincial legislature to pass the reforms after rejection by its voters, he said.

Consequently, the overall national vote in this nation of 27 million people was less important than results from individual provinces. The crucial test was in Quebec, the second most populous province, where polls indicated a majority of voters would vote "No."

Polls also indicated the accord faced defeat in British Columbia and possibly in the central provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. The vote was too close to call in Ontario, the most populous province.

Mulroney maintained a confident air despite the poll results, predicting a pleasant surprise and victory for the "Yes" side. "My confidence is unshakable," he said after voting.

The key parts of the agreement signed at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, recognize Quebec as a "distinct society" with the right to protect its French language and culture. It would guarantee Quebec 25 percent of the seats in the House of Commons and three of the Supreme Court's nine seats.

CAN YOU MANAGE ON AN EXTRA $2,500?

Practical experience for Business/Marketing Majors: Manage credit card promotions on campus for a National Marketing Firm. Hours flexible. Earn up to $2,500/term. CALL 1-800-950-8472, Ext. 17.

Know your RIGHTS Before you get WRONGED

The Consumer Relations Board has information on landlord/tenant relations, consumer credit, mail fraud, door-to-door sales, and much more.

Our trained counselors can also help you resolve disputes with landlords or tenants, roommates, or businesses.

Consumer Relations Board
SGS Office, Union
532-6541

Visit our table in the Union 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Long-distance relationships hard for professors, wives

JENNIFER BEALS

Collegian

When two individuals marry, they pledge to spend the rest of their lives together. Many of today's couples, however, are discovering their unions temporarily disrupted in order to pursue careers.

Harry Marsh, professor of journalism, and his wife, Ellie, Farrell Library documents librarian, are preparing for one of the most difficult challenges in their 25-year marriage. Ellie will move to Seattle to take a position as head of the social work library at the University of Washington.

Ellie said this door to her future holds much promise, but fear also enters her thoughts.

"This library is one of the top in the nation," she said. "All libraries have a lot of common aspects, but it's the personal adjustments and challenges that I'll face which will scare me. The other scared part is I'm having to give up control. Not an arbitrary control, but just knowing what's going on and making decisions."

Harry said he sees his wife's career change as a positive step in not only her career, but in her life.

"It will be a lonesome situation, but she's in an excellent position to grow by getting promoted or by going somewhere else," he said. "I've always really encouraged her in her education and to have a career."

Though the Marshes said they have no idea of what lies ahead, they have already planned to meet at their condo in Colorado and during the summer to spend time with their children.

Their children, William, freshman in civil engineering at K-State, and Marti, sophomore in occupational therapy at the University of Kansas, were also a factor in their decision.

"The neat thing is the kids have been very supportive," Ellie said. "We'll have to make a special effort to see each other and communicate. I'm making the kids get electronic mail addresses so we can send messages."

The Marsh family is not alone in the dilemma of broadening career horizons.

Marion Gray Jr., professor of history, is discovering the trials and tribulations of maintaining a long-distance marriage.

His wife, Esther, is continuing her education as a graduate student in a doctoral program and serves as an associate instructor in language education at the University of Indiana at Bloomington.

Gray said he believes the marriage will survive because of its 26-year foundation.

"I think a really strong base will sustain you," he said. "I think it would be much harder to make it work after only a year or two of marriage. I'm not saying it wouldn't work, but there's just so much you need to know about the other person in the first years."

Gray said his wife decided a career change would be beneficial for many reasons.

"Esther didn't have a rewarding career," he said. "Many summers were spent in anxiety wondering if there would be a job the next semester."

The application process was long but rewarding for Esther, Gray said.

"I think the positive feeling she gained by being recruited by three different universities was really important and so affirming," he said.

Gray said he knows his wife made the right choice, but a void remains.

"Of course there's a sense of loss," he said. "But there's a shared excitement for her to continue her education. It's hard to live together when one person isn't happy. When both people are happy, it sustains the relationship."

One way the relationship is maintained and strengthened is through communication, and like the Marshes, they send electronic mail daily, Gray said.

The Grays have two children, Antje, a psychology student at Northland College in Wisconsin, and Ben, a foreign language student at Beloit College also in Wisconsin.

If a couple has children, their ages play a vital part in the decision to follow career dreams, Gray said.

"I think that's why she didn't pursue this earlier," he said. "She didn't want to miss the experience of the children going through high school."

Although couples have to think about the different aspects of the distance separation, Gray said he and his wife concentrated on rethinking their relationship.

"We drew up vows and had a ceremony, which was very important to us. I think it helps to say things in symbolic concrete ways," Gray said.

He said universities need to assist spouses of professors in finding employment.

Since attending a national conference addressing partner relocation, Gray has been working on drafting a policy to present to President Jon Wefald and Provost James Coffman within a week regarding the problem.

"The policy should address that not every spouse would be in academics," he said. "It would locate a position for the spouse with an assistance program, regarding the partner as a client."

Disregarding spouses causes two problems, Gray said.

"The University isn't able to recruit or retain the best faculty if the spouse cannot find work," he said. "Low morale is also a problem, especially if there are unrewarding situations or no situations at all."

Gray said although it is a personal issue, he wants others to know the scope of the problem.

"My situation makes me sensitive," he said. "It's a much bigger problem than that. I've dealt with it in two recent cases and have experienced the frustrations as acting department head."

"The University isn't able to recruit or retain the best faculty if the spouse can not find work."

MARION GRAY, JR.

ENTERTAINMENT

Shower singer could make it big

LANA SCHRATER

Collegian

Manhattan may have a resident on his way to country music stardom.

Arlon Meek, staff member in the Department of Chemistry, has passed stage one in the "Be a Star" contest on cable TV's The Nashville Network.

Average singers abound, but "Be a Star" producer Don Dashiell said the show is looking for talent and something different.

"There's a lot of shower singers, but how they handle themselves in front of a camera is important," Dashiell said.

Meek said making the first cut in the contest has changed his life a little.

"It's made me strive harder, because I realize that I can make it," Meek said. "Anyone can make it if you try hard enough."

The first stage consisted of sending in an audiotape with two songs. This tape is sent to Nashville, Tenn., where 600 such tapes arrive weekly.

Meek recorded "What's She Doing Now" by Garth Brooks and "All My Ex's Live in Texas" by George Strait.

Each week, the "Be a Star" committee narrows the number to about 90 acts for stage two of the competition. These 90 acts then can audition for a spot on the show in person or by sending in a videotaped performance.

Over a 13-week period, 192 acts are chosen to compete again on television for the $50,000 grand prize.

Meek said he started playing country music for money when he was a student at K-State. He currently sings with the band Sidekicks, and he is also in a duo with Steven Ferris called "Cruisers."

Meek and Ferris sent in a duo tape, and both sent in single tapes. Neither the duo nor Ferris's single made the cut.

Ferris said he made the mistake of using songs overused by other competitors. Ferris sang "Unchained Melody" by the Righteous Brothers and "Don't Close Your Eyes" by Keith Whitley.

Haunted House Book Sale

October 27 - 30, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

K-State Union First Floor Alcove

Across from the upper level of the Bookstore

Terrifying savings on a variety of books

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

Help fill the Flint Hills Breadbasket

From now through December 1992, for every canned good you bring to Kedzie 103, we'll give you 50 cents off a Collegian classified ad.* Student Publications Inc. will donate all items to the Flint Hills Breadbasket as part of K-State's "30 Days of Thanksgiving" food drive.

Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103 to place your classified ad. Deadline for classified ads is noon the day before publication. The last day to place classified ads this semester is Dec. 10.

(*Value of cans cannot exceed cost of ad.)

Name _____
I.D. number _____
Address _____
Phone number _____
Message (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals) _____

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

THE WAVERLY CONSORT

The Year 1492:
Spanish Music in the
Age of Columbus
Saturday, October 31, 8 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

To mark the 500th anniversary of Columbus' voyage to the New World, 10 brilliant singers and players trace the Christian, Jewish, and Muslim threads that form the fascinating fabric of Spanish culture. Performing on authentic reproductions of early instruments, the Waverly has won international acclaim for the gusto of its "listener-friendly" performances.

Public/faculty: $15
Senior citizen: $13
Student/child: $7.50

Pre-concert lecture
Saturday, October 31, 6:30 p.m.
Little Theatre, K-State Union
Eugene Enrico, a musicologist and film maker who is professor of music history at the University of Oklahoma, will give a lecture illustrated with slides and taped musical examples. Dr. Enrico's lecture will explore the musical repercussions of the momentous events of 1492. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Tickets now on sale at the McCain box office. Call (913) 532-6428 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA. Box office opens at 1 p.m. day of performance. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley).

Transportation available for senior citizens through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000.

A Mid-America Arts Alliance program with the Kansas Arts Commission. The lecture sponsored in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Scholars nominated

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

genetics rearrangement. What I have done in that field is basic. This man is at the forefront of the field. My research project would consist of studying diseases that go from animals to humans," Sonnenfeld said.

None of the candidates are too optimistic about the odds of actually winning one of the scholarships.

"My chances? Fairly slim. Anyone nominated from K-State will be a strong candidate, but they are all really good candidates. My parents would like it, though, because they wouldn't have to pay for grad school," Baisinger said.

"I feel very excited and honored to have been nominated," Sonnenfeld said.

"My chances of winning are slim. Just being chosen from K-State is an honor. Only 32 people receive these scholarships in the entire nation each year. That's not a whole lot, but you have to go into it with a positive attitude. My chances are slim, but you never know until you try," Sonnenfeld said.

The task of simply applying for one of these scholarships is an arduous one.

"What they were looking for was a balance between high grades and a good academic performance, and University participation. It's a lot more work than I ever thought it would be. I've been working on this on and off for a long time," Baisinger said.

Sonnenfeld also did not find the task of application to be an easy one.

"You never know what goes into filling out one of those applications until you have to do it," Sonnenfeld said.

The candidates will find out if they proceed to national competition for the Rhodes in early December. They will find out the results of the Marshall interviews just before Thanksgiving.

"The entire Rhodes process takes place in a week in early December. The state level chooses two nominees to go on to the national level," Riemann said.

The nominees expressed gratitude that they had simply been nominated to represent K-State.

"I'm very excited and very honored. I've met people from Harvard and Yale and all the other Ivy League schools. I was never impressed that they had something that I didn't have access to here at K-State," Sonnenfeld said.

All three of the candidates gave high praise to Nancy Twiss, academic advisor and special assistant to the provost for scholarships.

"She's incredible. She has an insight into the Rhodes and Marshalls. It's been wonderful getting to know her. She deserves a big fat slap on the back and a raise," Sonnenfeld said.

Riemann also had good words for Twiss.

"She's fantastic. She really knows what's going on. I really can't say enough good stuff about her," Riemann said.

Twiss declined to comment.

Proposal on diversity tabled by committee committee member. "We can hardly do what we've got already. If we get a proposal and say, 'Great, let's do it,' we've also got to get rid of something. It's certainly sending out some crossed signals."

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Committee members Amy Collett, junior in political science, and Roger Trenary, instructor of economics, said they agree with Williams.

Collett said she also voted the proposal down for reasons related to the student's viewpoint.

"First of all, I don't think the students in arts and sciences need another requirement," Collett said. "I feel it is already covered in the international overlay. Secondly, I really don't feel you can learn diversity in a classroom setting. I pride myself on learning about diversity on my own and feel it's a personal decision, and its not something that can be forced upon you."

Trenary said the committee's discussion concerning the overlay was an important one to each member.

"This is one of the few issues we've discussed where everybody had something to say," Trenary said.

Gray said although each college has received the proposal, the College of Arts and Sciences is the only one that has voted on the issue.

Fee on hold temporarily

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

unfeasible.

"When a student wants to graduate, there is one staff person and one secretary who deal with the student," Nicholls said. "It would simply be impractical to collect fees at that time because we would have to keep books and receipts. It would just be impractical, because the staff would be overwhelmed. There has to be a better way."

Student Body President Jackie McClaskey said when the fee was proposed to Student Governing Association it was diligently opposed.

"There are questions to how and when it would be assessed," she said. "We not only want to look at the benefits, but a lot of questions need to be answered to come up with additional revenue."

Kruh said another plan in the works is the proposal of a possible $1 charge for all students when they pay enrollment fees. He said nothing has been done at this time.

Most regents schools collect graduation fees.

Officials duck testimony

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"As a matter of longstanding precedent, the national security adviser does not testify on (Capitol Hill)," Scowcroft spokesman, Walter Kansteiner, said Monday.

He said Scowcroft cannot appear because he is a personal adviser to President Bush. The administration invoked this executive privilege argument earlier this year when it turned down similar requests from the House Banking and Judiciary committees for Scowcroft to testify.

Scowcroft, however, submitted an Op-Ed piece on the subject to the Washington Post earlier this month. His article, published Oct. 10, was entitled "We Didn't 'Coddle' Saddam."

Mosbacher, now a top fundraiser at the Republican National Committee, is unable to testify because the banking panel didn't give him adequate notice and he has "previous commitments," said Diane Terpeluk, Mosbacher's deputy at the RNC. Senate Banking Committee Chairman Donald Riegle, D-Mich., sent Mosbacher and Scowcroft letters last Wednesday.

Mosbacher also had declined to appear before the House Banking and Judiciary committees.

The House panels were examining U.S. aid to Saddam Hussein's regime before the Gulf War, which included $1.5 billion in technology with potential military uses from 1985 until Iraq invaded Kuwait in August 1990. The Commerce Department gave U.S. companies licenses for the exports.

NEWS
and more

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

D.W. still the target of angry readers

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra
Duveaux

DEAR CASSANDRA,

We felt that D.W. needed another opinion about his situation. D.W., how dare you think that your date "owed" you sex. Your neanderthalic ideas perpetuate two myths: That women DON'T have the right to say "No" and that men DON'T respect the rights and feelings of women. These myths are what lead to date rape and the continuing problems between the genders. Your opinions are archaic, sexist, and reinforce negative stereotypes of both men and women. However, D.W., we do feel you were owed something — a swift kick in the butt.

Concerned Citizens

DEAR CONCERNED CITIZENS,

While I do not condone your "swift kick" idea, I must say that if I were D.W.'s date, I would leave him holding his empty wallet in one hand, and his ding-a-ling in the other, without any instructions with what to do with either one. And I can certainly agree with your assessment that D.W.'s actions do nothing to alleviate some of the misunderstandings that arise in the dating process.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

In response to the letters Oct. 23 concerning the two homeless dogs, I would like to say that I too have called the campus police. Oh, they helped all right. They helped the dogs get away. Give me a break. I had the brown dog in my lap, and I was petting her. The officer was kneeling right beside me petting her as well. He did nothing.

They don't care at all. These poor dogs are going to freeze to death soon, and we need to do something. The black one will approach you after awhile. He's real friendly. Just make sure you're no higher than he is. When you see them, sit down and call them. They'll come running. We should form a group, because we need to find those puppies. Every day, I look out my window to see if they're down on the lawn. I'm afraid one day I might not see them anymore.

Danielle, K-State freshman

DEAR DANIELLE,

It is indeed sad that there is so much concern for these two homeless dogs, and apparently nothing can be done about it. What concerns me even more is that two homeless dogs can generate more mail and more concern than a homeless human being or a hungry child, neither one of which we would have to travel very far to find.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

WE TAKE TIPS!

532-6556

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

ONCE AGAIN,
THE CLASSROOM
CRUSADER'S RULES
OF COOL

RULE #2

CUTTING CLASSES
IS UNCOOL...
ESPECIALLY WHEN IT'S DONE
BY THE ADMINISTRATION.

Today at the copy store it was really busy.

We had copying jobs stacked up on the counter and long lines of customers.

I gave somebody her copies and she said, "wait, these aren't mine."

I looked through the stack until she pointed and said, "That's mine—
the one right there!"

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

I OVERFLOWED
THE TOILET IN MY GIRLFRIEND'S BATHROOM
—WHAT WORSE COULD HAPPEN?!

AGGHHH! ZOMBIE
GOLDFISH!!!

RETURN OF THE LIVING DEAD

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

HEY SUSIE,
PICK A NUMBER IN THE FORTUNE
TELLER.

UM...
THREE.

ONE, TWO,
THREE!
NOW PICK
A LETTER.

"B."

WE LIFT UP FLAP "B" AND IT SAYS, "YOU'RE A MOUTH-BREATHING BAG OF BOOGERS!"
AH HA HA HA HA!

LIFE DOESN'T GET MUCH BETTER THAN THIS.

ACROSS
1 Patriotic emblem
5 Unruly bunch
8 Capri, e.g.
12 Palm Springs
político
13 Dos Passos trilogy
14 When shadows are shortest
15 Alone
17 Supply of money
18 Conk out
19 Searches uncertainly
21 First-anniversary gift
24 Forest creature
25 Vivacity
26 Prolonged lament
30 Squealer
31 Off the payroll
32 Plata's partner
33 Intact
35 Ugly duckling, really 36 Get amorous
37 Sweetheart
38 Channel, to a kegger
41 Mme.'s
Spanish counterpart
42 Indigo dye
source
43 Lens maker
48 Yearn
49 Miller
Sebastian
50 Caffeineladen nut
51 Walk of fame figure 52 Stately tree 53 Tallow
source
DOWN
1 Hoover's
org.
2 Section of housewife
3 Enero through diciembre
4 "On—Pond"
(movie)
5 Speechless 6 Simple sugar
7 Naggled
8 Apprise
9 Opening course
10 Lindbergh,
"The—Eagle"
11 Linemen
16 Melody
20 She was TV's typical housewife
21 Indiana
city
22 Actor Arkin
23 Labyrinth choice
24 John or Bo
26 "Time in a Bottle" singer
27 Mississippi
River
feeder
28 Composer
Khachaturian
29 Finished
31 Out of one's shackles 34 Moosehead feature
35 Trousers
37 TGIF time
38 Hiatuses
39 Troop group
40 Singer
Turner
41 Watch part
44 Candidate,
e.g.
45 Marker
notation
46 Pub
potation
47 Writer
Hentoff

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER 10-27

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873/199¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

10-27 CRYPTOQUIP
G P Y B T A F I, Q V W J G A F
L F X V T P W T P Q V W
F B L I L W J J C F J G O Q
G Y X G L L T J J T G P.
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: OUR PAL THE ELECTRICIAN STILL GETS A CHARGE OUT OF HIS PROFESSION.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals F

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word

2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word

3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word

4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word

5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications.

Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. Two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

SCOLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30 p.m.

HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your ID for $16 with student ID.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND. COSMETIC bag, around Shellenberger Hall. Please call to identify, 532-6745.

FOUND. KEYS at bike rack near Umberger Hall, 537-1605.

LOST: SEAL point Siamese one and one-half years old. Very pretty. Lives on corner of Vattier and Manhattan. Call Nikki, 537-3376.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

GREAT PUMPKIN Hunt Clue #1: This is the beginning of the Great Pumpkin Hunt. Any ol' Bumpkin can find it so, I don't need to be blunt. So definitely limit the search to your good ol' Alma Mater.

GREAT PUMPKIN Hunt Clue #2: Pumpkin hunters listen up. I guess the first clue was too vague for you: Think of a recent "Red Hot Chili Peppers" song.

SB: LET'S get personal! You are special.

050 Parties-n-More

HOT- TUB rentals for all occasions: Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/delivery, special weekday/ multiday rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers.
Open 7 days a week
Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon
Candlewood Shopping Center

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

APARTMENT FOR Rent: two-bedroom, furnished, all utilities paid. Recently remodeled, seven blocks to campus. Quiet. No pets. $380/month. 776-0224 or 539-3680.

AVAILABLE- $480 per month, two-bedrooms. Trash and water paid. Four minutes walk to campus. 776-7634/539-5781 after 5 p.m.

FURNISHED ONE-BEDROOM apartment, one block east of campus. Heat, water, trash paid. $300/month. Available Nov. 1. Call 537-4947 after 6 p.m.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR rent! Available Jan. 1, studio apartment, close to campus, lots of room, $260 a month (including utilities) 811 Fremont Apt #1. 539-7071.

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8 p.m.

ATTIC STUDIO apartment, three blocks from campus, pets negotiable. Call for more information 537-5144.

AVAILABLE NOW. One-bedroom, $325 plus deposit. Shuttle to campus. 537-3683.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

SPACIOUS ONE- two-bedroom. Beautiful hardwood floors. Quiet surroundings. Option to rent basement with laundry hook-ups and shower bath. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1. $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan.-Aug. 539-2019.

TWO-BEDROOM UP-STAIRS duplex, beautiful architects house. Fireplace, central air, carpet. $550 per month, plus utilities, 537-8440.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished mobile homes. Quiet surroundings for serious students. Campus one mile. Nine month lease available. No pets. 539-4087.

TWO-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED. Available Nov. 1. Five minutes from Manhattan. Deposit required. 457-3580 after 6 p.m.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in large two-bedroom tri-level apartment. $180 plus deposit. Fun roommates! 1825 College Heights. Call 539-6539

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coincided laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

MALE/ FEMALE own bedroom in two-bedroom apartment, $212 per month, plus one-half utilities at Park Place 587-0562.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted. Private room, laundry, off-street parking. Available Nov. 1. 537-3679, 238-6297.

TWO MALE roommates wanted. One-half block from campus. $155/month, plus utilities. After 6 p.m. 776-7794.

150 Sublease

WANTED IMMEDIATELY! Roommate to take over lease - runs through May. Close to campus and Aggieville. Huge bedroom, laundry facilities. 537-3760.

SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

210 Resume/Typing

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume. Cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick

with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English! Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m.-5 p.m.

240 Musicians/DJs

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2868.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

HEALTH AND AUTO coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555

260 Insurance

205 Tutor

225 Pregnancy Testing

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m.-5 p.m.

240 Musicians/DJs

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2868.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

HEALTH AND AUTO coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555

260 Insurance

210 Resume/Typing

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume. Cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick

with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English! Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338

•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m.-5 p.m.

240 Musicians/DJs

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2868.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

HEALTH AND AUTO coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555

260 Insurance

205 Tutor

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Careers classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ASSISTANT BOY'S Swimming Coach- Manhattan High School. Nov. 16, 1992 to Feb. 20, 1993. Salary $1,596. Send resume or letter with qualifications by Oct. 28, 1992 to be considered. Apply to: USD #383, 2031 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, KS 66502. (913)587-2000. EOE.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8 a.m.-2 p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November - painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring- Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206)634-0468 ext. C5768.

K-State Basketball. I need energetic, sports minded people for special ticket promotion for Wildcat hoops. Full-time and part-time positions available. See Earl Bell at Seaton media room-Bramlage Coliseum 10 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

EATING DISORDERS: subjects wanted for important study on Bulimia, and therapy. 45 minute questionnaire sent to you. Confidential and anonymous. Call 776-7808.

320 Volunteers Needed

EATING DISORDERS: subjects wanted for important study on Bulimia, and therapy. 45 minute questionnaire sent to you. Confidential and anonymous. Call 776-7808.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Careers classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

EARN CASH stuffing envelopes at home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801.

500 Transportation

510 Automobiles

1981 FORD Mustang. 85,000 miles, sunroof, air condition, two-door, automatic, silver color, two owners only. Runs

1984 DODGE Daytona Turbo. $1300 or best offer. Must sell! Fully loaded and runs well. Call 539-1315.

1986 FORD Tempo. Two-doors, auto transmission, air condition, tape player, must sell, call Clement at 537-9852 after 5 p.m.

1988 FORD Escort. excellent condition, very low mileage. $3200- 776-5423 after 3 p.m.

YAKIMA BIKE rack with two standard bike mounts, plus mounting kit and locks, $100 or best offer, 776-5588

2400BPS. IBM compatible Modem with software, book will install $75. Men's Schwinn 10-speed $75, 776-3249.

APPLE II GS. 40 MB hard drive, two MB RAM, ImageWriter II (color), modem with FAX, Appleworks GS. Plus extra cards and software. 537-1663 and leave message.

GRASS FED lambs for sale. No implants, no chemicals. Call 537-7152, evenings or 537-8077 to leave a message.

TWO 100 watt Fisher speaker for sale. Model ST-830. $240 or best offer. Call 776-0297 evenings.

CAMARO BURLINETTA Wheels, gold aluminum with caps $300 or best offer, call Brian at 776-3656.

FISHNET STOCKINGS. thigh highs, pantyhose, black seamed pantyhose. Patricia's Undercover Lingerie, Aggieville, 1224 Moro.

SOLOFLEX WEIGHT machine $1500 new. Will sell for $1000. 539-8423 after 6 p.m.

MAKE $1000'S stuffing envelopes. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to J.C. Inc., P.O. Box 864, Manhattan, KS 66502-0088.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-(800)874-7697.

STUDENTS OR organizations. Promote our Florida Spring Break packages. Earn money and free trips. Organize small or large groups. Call campus marketing. 1-800-423-5264

RAISE A COOL $1000
IN JUST ONE WEEK!
PLUS $1000 FOR THE MEMBER WHO CALLS!
No obligation. No cost.
You also get a FREE HEADPHONE RADIO just for calling 1-800-932-0528, Ext. 65

FOR SALE

OPEN MARKET

410 Items for Sale

400

320 Volunteers Needed

EATING DISORDERS: subjects wanted for important study on Bulimia, and therapy. 45 minute questionnaire sent to you. Confidential and anonymous. Call 776-7808.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Careers classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

EARN CASH stuffing envelopes at home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801.

500 Transportation

510 Automobiles

1981 FORD Mustang. 85,000 miles, sunroof, air condition, two-door, automatic, silver color, two owners only. Runs

1984 DODGE Daytona Turbo. $1300 or best offer. Must sell! Fully loaded and runs well. Call 539-1315.

1986 FORD Tempo. Two-doors, auto transmission, air condition, tape player, must sell, call Clement at 537-9852 after 5 p.m.

1988 FORD Escort. excellent condition, very low mileage. $3200- 776-5423 after 3 p.m.

YAKIMA BIKE rack with two standard bike mounts, plus mounting kit and locks, $100 or best offer, 776-5588

2400BPS. IBM compatible Modem with software, book will install $75. Men's Schwinn 10-speed $75, 776-3249.

APPLE II GS. 40 MB hard drive, two MB RAM, ImageWriter II (color), modem with FAX, Appleworks GS. Plus extra cards and software. 537-1663 and leave message.

GRASS FED lambs for sale. No implants, no chemicals. Call 537-7152, evenings or 537-8077 to leave a message.

TWO 100 watt Fisher speaker for sale. Model ST-830. $240 or best offer. Call 776-0297 evenings.

CAMARO BURLINETTA Wheels, gold aluminum with caps $300 or best offer, call Brian at 776-3656.

FISHNET STOCKINGS. thigh highs, pantyhose, black seamed pantyhose. Patricia's Undercover Lingerie, Aggieville, 1224 Moro.

SOLOFLEX WEIGHT machine $1500 new. Will sell for $1000. 539-8423 after 6 p.m.

2400BPS. IBM compatible Modem with software, book will install $75. Men's Schwinn 10-speed $75, 776-3249.

APPLE II GS. 40 MB hard drive, two MB RAM, ImageWriter II (color), modem with FAX, Appleworks GS. Plus extra cards and software. 537-1663 and leave message.

GRASS FED lambs for sale. No implants, no chemicals. Call 537-7152, evenings or 537-8077 to leave

AIDS

SPONSORED BY THE KSU COMMITTEE ON COMMUNICABLE DISEASE

Common Questions About AIDS

What is the difference between the infection and the disease?

Having HIV infection indicates that you have been exposed to the HIV virus and have formed antibodies against the virus in your blood. Most HIV-infected persons do not show any clinical signs of disease. When a person begins to show clinical signs, then they are considered to have AIDS-related diseases or AIDS itself, depending upon their clinical signs present.

What is AIDS?

AIDS is characterized by a defect in natural immunity against disease. People who have AIDS are vulnerable to serious illnesses which would not be a threat to anyone whose immune system was functioning normally. These illnesses are referred to as "opportunistic" infections or diseases.

What causes AIDS?

AIDS is caused by a virus referred to as HIV (human immunodeficiency virus). Many infected persons remain in good health for years. Others may develop illness varying in severity from mild to extremely serious. The infections, malignancies, and other processes associated with AIDS (the end point of HIV infection) may not occur for 10-15 years or more.

How is HIV transmitted?

The virus is spread by sexual contact, needle sharing, or less commonly, through transfused blood or its components. The risk of infection with the virus is increased by having multiple sexual partners, either homosexual or heterosexual, and sharing of needles among those using illicit drugs. The virus may be transmitted also from infected mother to infant.

Who gets HIV infections?

Individuals that are involved in high risk behavior. High risk behavior is considered to be anyone that uses intravenous drugs and/or engages in unsafe sexual practices.

Can the HIV virus be spread through casual contact?

NO! Casual contact with HIV infected persons or patients does not place others at risk for getting the infection. No cases have been found where the virus has been transmitted by casual household contact with HIV infected persons or with AIDS patients. Infants with AIDS or HIV infection have not transmitted the infection to family members living in the same household.

What are its symptoms?

Many individuals infected with HIV have no symptoms and feel well. Some develop symptoms which may include tiredness, fever, loss of appetite and weight, diarrhea, night sweats, and swollen glands (lymph nodes)—usually in the neck, armpits, or groin. Anyone with these symptoms which continue for more than two weeks should see a physician. It must be emphasized that these symptoms are seen with many diseases and by themselves are not indicative of HIV infection.

How is HIV infection diagnosed?

HIV infection is diagnosed through a laboratory test using a small amount of blood. The actual AIDS disease diagnosis depends on the severity and the type of clinical signs and symptoms present.

How is HIV infections/AIDS treated?

Currently, there are no antiviral drugs available that have been proven to reverse HIV infection or to cure AIDS although the search for such drugs is being pursued vigorously. There are some drugs that may prolong the interval between HIV infection and the appearance of AIDS-related diseases or may help to alleviate some of the effects of AIDS-related diseases. One of these drugs is AZT (Zidovudine) but there are many other drugs that are used and that are being developed. There is no treatment that has yet been successful in restoring the immune system of HIV-infected individuals.

Can HIV infection and AIDS be prevented?

YES! Cases of HIV infection related to medical use of blood or blood products are being prevented by the use of HIV antibody screening tests at blood donor sites. Personal prevention can also be practiced to assure safety from infection. In simplest terms, personal prevention can be practiced in two ways: first, by avoiding non-prescription intravenous drugs. If you use them, avoid sharing needles or syringes. Secondly, by abstaining from sex and sexual activities in which body fluids are exchanged. If you choose to be sexually active, practice safe sex. Safe sex means not having sex with people that practice high risk behavior or protect yourself by taking precautions to prevent contact with the person's body fluids. Use of condoms is highly recommended for anyone engaging in sexual activity, although condoms do NOT offer total protection. Further information is provided through materials disseminated at the Lafene Health Center, U-LearN, Riley County Public Health Department, The University Counseling Service, or contacting the referral sources listed at the bottom of this ad.

STUDENT CONCERNS

1. If a student suspects that he or she has HIV infection or AIDS what should the student do?

If the student is uncertain of his or her medical condition and seeks help, the University encourages the student to get a medical evaluation. Lafene Health Service offers confidential testing. If the student prefers, the health center can refer the student to an off campus physician or agency familiar with AIDS for a confidential medical evaluation. In any case the evaluation will include counseling before and after diagnosis.

2. How will the University respond to complaints of discrimination or harassment against students with AIDS or who have positive HIV test results, or who simply are perceived to be in high-risk groups?

The University will respond to any conflict or harassment first by using informal means to counsel and educate the individuals involved. However, if harassment continues, such conduct will be dealt with as a student disciplinary matter under the established procedures for hearing discrimination complaints. There is a five member Student Discrimination Review Committee that will hear the complaint and report the findings to the President for necessary action. If a student has a complaint of discrimination or harassment, he or she should call the Affirmative Action Office (532-6220) or the Dean of Student Life Office (532-6432).

3. What are the provisions of the University's student health insurance program that relate to AIDS?

The current contractor, Blue Cross Blue Shield, treats AIDS as any other illness. However, there is a clause prohibiting payment for any preexisting condition. Also, the contract is negotiated annually.

4. What are the guidelines regarding participation in campus activities?

A. Housing: Residence Halls and Organized Living Groups

Residence hall, family housing, and employment opportunities in Department of Housing and Dining Services will be made available to persons having tested HIV position under the same conditions as applicable to any individual. In addition, attempts will be made to meet the special housing needs of its residents. The Department of Housing and Dining Services has established guidelines, educational programs, and resources to meet the needs of all residents and employees.

The University recognizes the independent nature of Greek Chapter Houses and offers them the educational, health, and student service resources of the University community in dealing with problems relative to AIDS, HIV infection, or positive HIV tests.

B. Classrooms and Laboratories

The risk of contracting the HIV virus in the classroom is considered so unlikely that no particular procedures are recommended. If, in fact, fellow students and classmates have fears and concerns regarding AIDS, it would be in their best interest to obtain information about the disease and to address the issue directly through an educational program.

Should a person with HIV infection be involved in a laboratory accident that breaks the skin, the laboratory instructor or anyone who may assist the injured person should be aware of the situation. In other words, the injured person should inform the people assisting him or her of the circumstances.

C. Athletic Activities

Most sports are contact sports where contact with others is encouraged, allowed, or occurs on a regular basis. Injuries in contact sports may result in wounds to participants. Persons with AIDS or positive HIV antibodies should discuss the advisability of participation in sports with their physician taking particular care to avoid contact sports which may produce collision injuries or wounds. When wounds occur to carriers of the HIV virus, a spread of disease conceivably may occur. Should wounds occur, the participant has the responsibility to inform the others of the possibility of contamination.

5. What will be the University's response to a student who has AIDS and as a consequence has difficulty completing the work of a course?

The University will not discriminate against a student because of HIV infection, AIDS, or AIDS-related diseases. The University's existing policies regarding students who suffer from a medical problem that prevents them from completing their class work will apply to a student with HIV infection or AIDS. In accordance with guidelines established in Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the university will provide reasonable accommodations to students who have AIDS.

6. Will a student-employee who has AIDS be permitted to continue working?

Yes, as outlined below under "Personnel Concerns."

PERSONNEL CONCERNS

1. What will the University do if a faculty/staff member has an HIV infection or AIDS?

The first response to an individual who has an HIV infection or AIDS must be compassion. The University seeks to accommodate an employee's medical condition to permit the individual to remain actively employed as long as possible. For assistance in determining accommodations both the Affirmative Action Office and Human Resource Services should be contacted. Decisions in all situations will be made on a case by case determination based on the medical facts of each case and with concern for the best interest of all involved. The University provides counseling and education for employees to better understand AIDS.

If a faculty or staff member has an HIV infection or AIDS and is unable to teach a class, conduct research, or carry out job responsibilities, arrangements will be made for others to perform these functions. The University has personnel guidelines on medical disability; if the faculty or staff member is unable to carry out assigned duties, s/he can be placed on leave. Disability income benefits begin after 180 days of continuous and total disability.

Restructuring of job duties is appropriate providing this can be accomplished while meeting the needs of the department. Human Resource Services and the Affirmative Action Office will assist in every way possible to ensure continuous employment for as long as possible.

2. What if an employee in food service has an HIV infection or AIDS?

The University will follow the Center for Disease Control recommendations of "exercising care in the handling of foods." Those recommendations state: "All epidemiologic and laboratory evidence indicates that bloodborne and sexually transmitted infections are not transmitted during the preparation or serving of food or beverages," and no instances of HIV transmission has been documented in such circumstances. However, the CDC guidelines do recognize the need for special training and precautions in this area.

3. How will the University respond to concerns by an employee that his or her co-worker or supervisor has AIDS?

The University seeks to accommodate a staff member's medical condition to permit the individual to remain actively at work so long as possible. Again, it must be stressed that casual contact does not cause AIDS. The University hopes that these concerns would be resolved by counseling and education about AIDS. Unless medically justified, the University will not transfer or change working conditions because an employee has AIDS or because of concerns about a co-worker having AIDS.

4. What are the provisions of employee health and life insurance policies regarding HIV infection or AIDS?

Under current University insurance policies, HIV infection and AIDS are treated as any other chronic illness.

5. What office should be contacted if there is a complaint of discrimination?

The Affirmative Action Office handles complaints of discrimination on the basis of various disabilities, including AIDS. The Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 prohibit discrimination and require reasonable accommodation of persons with disabilities, including AIDS.

6. Will the University require that prospective employees be tested for the HIV antibody?

No.

7. Are employment records confidential?

Personnel who handle records are instructed on the confidentiality issue. It is a violation of University policy for employees to improperly release information from personnel files. The University does not give out confidential information about students or employees except where required by law or when authorized to do so, in writing, by the student or employee.

If you have any questions about AIDS, HIV, testing, etc., please call Cindy Burke, Health Educator at Lafene Student Health Center, at 532-6595, or Don Fallon, Chair, Communicable Disease Committee at 532-6432. Your calls will be kept in the strictest confidence. In addition, the following off-campus telephone numbers are provided:

Topeka AIDS Project.....	913-232-3100
Local Tap Chapter and Riley County Public Health.....	776-4779
Kansas AIDS Information Line.....	1-800-232-0040
CDC Public Health AIDS Hotline.....	1-800-342-2437
CDC Public Health AIDS Hotline (Spanish).....	1-800-344-7432
Nationally Sexually Transmitted Disease Hotline.....	1-800-227-8922

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE
WINNING ATTITUDE

■ Although Wildcat football players are facing a losing streak, their attitude remains optimistic about the rest of the season.

PAGE 6

WEDNESDAY

HIGH 62 LOW 37
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 28, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 47

POLITICS

Accusations continue in hearings

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Senate Banking Committee chairman accused the Bush administration Tuesday of giving false information to Iraq during the Gulf War about U.S. export of advanced technology.

At a rare hearing during the congressional recess, Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., also criticized the Justice Department for what he called a delay in investigating possible criminal wrongdoing by administration officials.

"It appears on the face of it that laws were broken; the people that did it have to be identified," said Riegle, who was the only committee member present. "The delay cannot go on indefinitely here ... If this Justice Department and attorney general don't do it, then another one will."

Before they were submitted to Congress, documents pertaining to export licenses for Iraq were improperly altered by Commerce Department employees to disguise their military potential, the department's inspector general has found.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, the House Banking Committee chairman who has investigated U.S.-Iraq ties for two years, testified that the Bush administration helped the Iraqis build a nuclear supergun by approving export licenses in 1989 for related technology.

Gonzalez said the Commerce Department granted an export license in 1989 to Space Research Corp. of Maryland for a computer used to design a projectile for the long-range cannon designed to deliver nuclear weapons.

Dole visits Manhattan

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan. (center) is flanked by state Sen. Lana Oleen and state Rep. Kent Glasscock, both R-Manhattan, during a visit Tuesday.

Senator stumps for Republicans during stop

STEPHANIE FUQUA

Collegian

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., made a brief stop at the Riley County Republican Headquarters in Manhattan Tuesday to shake hands, stump for President Bush and encourage local Republican candidates.

"We've been doing a lot of traveling around," he said. "I want to help everybody else win."

As U.S. Senate minority leader, Dole said one of his jobs is to go to other states and help colleagues get elected. In the past month, he has been in 20 states.

"I know my opponent has been wondering where I am, because it's hard to hit a moving target," he said, receiving applause from the audience of 50 Republican supporters.

He rarely mentioned his opponent in the election, Democrat Gloria O'Dell, except to say her allegations that he doesn't own property in Kansas is not true.

Instead, he focused his attacks on the Democratic presidential ticket of Bill Clinton and Sen. Al Gore.

Dole said people in the northwest United States aren't pleased with the choice of Gore as the vice presidential candidate. He mentioned the conflict between protecting spotted owls and the logging industry.

"You've got to protect the environment, but you have to have jobs too. Up there they spell Al Gore O-W-L Gore," he said. "They haven't read his book. I'm not sure he's read his book. I'm not sure he wrote his book."

Occasionally, Dole made jabs at independent candidate Ross Perot.

He referred to Perot's allegations that five people snuck onto his lawn with shotguns to assassinate him, but his dog scared them away and bit one of them.

"Perot says if his dog could talk, we'd know the truth. Well, if my dog could talk, I'd go on the road," he said.

Mostly Dole spoke about Bush. "Don't give up on George Bush. I think President Bush is about in the situation Dukakis was in four years ago," Dole said. "Bush won a lot of states by a little bit. If he can turn states around like Kansas, he'll win. Winning Kansas would be good."

"I want to put in a good word for my president. President Bush should win this election."

Dole said the economy is improving, and the country is coming out of the recession.

He claimed the reason people think the country is in bad shape is because of negative economical coverage by TV networks.

"A lot of the economy is psychological. Consumer confidence is up, but it's hard to keep it up when there's negative news every night," he said.

Dole then held up a bumper sticker that read "Annoy the Media: Re-elect Bush."

Fort Riley is one reason to re-elect Bush, Dole said.

■ See DOLE Page 7

"Consumer confidence is up, but it's hard to keep it up when there's negative news every night."

SEN. BOB DOLE

NEWS DIGEST

► BUSH OK'S SCHOOL AS HISTORIC SITE

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush has established a national park site in Kansas to commemorate the Supreme Court's Brown v. Board of Education ruling that outlawed school segregation.

The president signed into law Monday legislation by Kansas lawmakers to create the site in Topeka. It designates Monroe Elementary School as a national historic site to tell the story of the 1954 decision that struck down racial segregation in public schools.

► ESCAPEE TAKES HOSTAGES AT DUKE

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A man who escaped from a jail Tuesday took four people hostage at gunpoint at Duke University and held authorities at bay for two hours before a police sharpshooter fatally wounded him.

The hostages weren't injured. The gunman, Ricky Lamont Coffin, 23, was taken to Duke Medical Center, where he died, said Deborah Simpkins, a hospital spokeswoman.

Coffin escaped Tuesday morning from Guilford County Jail in High Point, 60 miles west of Durham.

AIDS AWARENESS WEEK

Caution urged for students

LIANA RIESINGER
Collegian

One to three per 1,000 college students are infected with the HIV virus, said Don Seedle, professor of veterinary medicine at K-State.

"This means approximately 54 K-State students could be infected," he said.

Seedle spoke on "Effects of AIDS on Campus" Tuesday night as part of AIDS Awareness Week. He opened his lecture with the story of a student who is dealing with her discovery of the HIV virus.

"This can happen here on K-State campus, and it has," Seedle said.

One difficulty in preventing the spread of AIDS is the lack of communication, Seedle said.

"Everyone expects sex in a relationship, and they never talk about it before doing it," said a student from another university who is infected with the HIV virus.

On the other hand, more than just talking may be necessary, Seedle said.

"Everyone says to talk to people about their past sexual activity before getting involved with them," he said. "Don't do this, because statistics show people will lie to get what they want. Just assume everyone is HIV-positive until proven otherwise."

In the United States, 1 to 1.5 million people are infected with

■ See HIV Page 9

Demands help get definition expanded

ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — Federal health officials added three more diseases to a proposed new definition of AIDS Tuesday.

The action follows demands from activists who had accused the government of ignoring symptoms peculiar to women.

The revised definition, expected to be enacted next year, could affect disability and other benefits for thousands of people infected with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

The government considers an AIDS diagnosis in calculating disability benefits,

■ See OFFICIALS Page 9

POLITICS

Clerk candidate accuses incumbent of negligence

STEPHANIE FUQUA
Collegian

A candidate for Riley County Clerk has charged the incumbent with negligence, less than a week before Election Day.

Democrat Craig Raborn, a former K-State student, claims Ilene Colbert failed to count 27 absentee ballots in the Feb. 26, 1991, primary election.

Colbert has denied Raborn's accusations.

Raborn said he had heard rumors and decided to investigate.

"I first heard rumors that the ballots hadn't been counted when I first ran for office," Raborn said, referring to when he was a candidate for the Riley County Commission in last year's election. He did not win a commission seat.

RABORN

COLBERT

"Early last week I decided to look into it," he said. "I knew what to look for, what documents needed to be checked. I looked at all the documents, compared them, and they show a very clear discrepancy."

These documents are public record. He cited the tally sheet that shows the precincts, the number of registered voters, the number of people who voted and the time the votes came in.

This record clearly indicates 30 absentee ballots were turned in at 7:10 p.m. It also

■ See RABORN Page 9

ON THE AGENDA
Halloween events planned locally

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

Ghouls, goblins and witches living in the forest north of the K-State campus invite you to spend a little time with them Halloween in their Haunted Forest.

The Haunted Forest, sponsored by the Kansas State University Association of Residence Halls and the Fort Riley Mates, will be west of the Hoeflin Stone House and north of Lot B-3 on McCain Lane. "This is the first year ARH has done anything like this," said Steve Koenigsman, publicity chairman for the Haunted Forest and senior in microbiology. "If it is good, we want it to be an annual event."

Proceeds from the event will benefit the Flint Hills Breadbasket. The Haunted Forest will consist of a trail through the woods with several stations set up throughout.

"I can't release any details as to what will happen, but we encourage you to come to experience just how scary it will be," he said.

"Our goal is for you to come out white."

Entertainment such as fortune tellers will be set up at the entrance for people waiting in line.

"It will take about a half hour or less to go through, depending on how much the students get into it," said Marcia Hillwig, freshman in marketing.

"All the halls have come together, so there should be some really neat scary ideas."

It will be open from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and from 7:30 to 11 p.m. Saturday, or Halloween. Hours will be extended on Halloween if the demand is great enough.

Parking will be available in Lot B-3. In case of poor weather, the event will be closed for the evening.

The Haunted Forest will be open to the public, and admission is free, but an optional donation to the Flint Hills Breadbasket will be accepted.

Food drives will also be set up at the three Manhattan Food-4-Less stores from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. People are asked to purchase extra canned goods while shopping and donate as they leave the store.

All proceeds will go to the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

KQLA-FM 103.9 will be doing live remotes from the East Poyntz Avenue and Anderson Avenue locations.

Though organizers are advising people not to bring small children to the Haunted Forest, there are still other activities for them.

The Goodnow Hall New Student Council is sponsoring a haunted basement for children.

"All Manhattan-area grade-school children are invited," said Dan Ulitchny, sophomore in animal sciences and industry.

Ulitchny said there is no charge for admission to the Goodnow Hall basement. It will open at 7 p.m. on Halloween and last until all the children have gone through.

Front-desk staff from Moore, Goodnow, Ford and West halls said they will also allow trick or treating to individual rooms from 6 to 8 p.m. on Halloween. Participating residents will mark their doors.

Marcie Marriott, Boyd Hall president and sophomore in pre-medicine, said there will also be trick or treating from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday in the basement of Boyd.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27

At 8:43 a.m., a subject reported there was a Halloween bag filled with an unknown substance hanging from the overpass on Kimball Avenue by the purebred beef barn. Officer removed and disposed of the bags, which contained leaves.

At 11 a.m., a woman reported that her boyfriend had battered her in her office in Ackert Hall.

At 11:26 a.m., a parked car displaying a stolen permit was wheellocked in Lot A-14.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27

At 1:08 a.m., an employee of Mini Mart, 1102 Laramie St., reported the theft of four videotapes. Loss was $120.

Hillside Drive, Salina, and Katherine L. Reid, 16805 Sixth St., Wamego.

At 11:58 a.m., Paige Hackbart, 2130 Westchester Drive, No. 2, reported the theft of a radar detector. Loss was $180.

At 1:14 p.m., Jeff Stillwell, 1415 Anderson Ave., No. 10, reported the theft of a bicycle. Loss was $400.

At 7:02 a.m., an employee at the Riley County Lumber Co., 302 S. Broadway St., Riley, reported the theft of two bolt cutters, a hatchet and two leather nail aprons. Loss was $249.

At 8:58 a.m., Charles Danner, 3017 Sandstone Drive, reported the theft of an AM/FM cassette pull-out stereo. Loss was $300.

At 4:47 p.m., a major-damage, non-injury accident was reported at 720 N. Third St. Involving vehicles driven by Patricia J. Luckeroth, Route 1, Box 8A, Seneca, and Dawn M. Allen, 19001 Adams St., No. 15, Topeka. Allen received a notice to appear for driving on a suspended license.

At 9:05 a.m., Edie Adams, 6830 Deer Trail Road, was arrested for battery and confined in lieu of $300 bail.

At 5:41 p.m., an employee at Ampride, 215 E. Poyntz Ave., reported $13.50 worth of unleaded gas stolen.

At 9:18 a.m., a major-damage, non-injury accident was reported at 12th and Vattier streets involving vehicles driven by Cynthia L. Larson, 2121

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect, so help us out. If you find an inaccuracy in the paper, give us a call or drop by the office so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy and cooler. High in the lower 60s. Tonight, cloudy and cool low in the upper 30s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Partly sunny. Highs in the mid-50s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Friday, mostly cloudy and cool. Highs in the 50s. Lows in the 30s. Saturday and Sunday, a chance for rain statewide. Continued cool. Lows in the 30s to around 40. Highs mainly in the 50s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

The open University meeting will be at 3 p.m. Friday in Union Forum Hall to discuss the Role and Aspirations report. The Collegian incorrectly reported the event as taking place Monday.

United Way envelopes are due in Anderson 122.

Applications for cancer research awards are available in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.

Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani at 532-6448.

Applications for the Homeserve community service program are available in Eisenhower 014A.

Intramural volleyball schedules are available in the Rec Services office in the Rec Complex.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28

Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.

University Activities Board will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 204.

International Programs office will sponsor information on student exchanges to Germany and Switzerland at 4 p.m. in Union Staterooms 1 and 2 and on student exchanges to Prague at 5 p.m. in Staterooms 1 and 2.

Students for the Right to Life will meet with both pro-life and pro-choice groups at 9 p.m. in Umberger first floor lecture hall.

Housing and Dining Services will sponsor a panel and open forum on the tomahawk chop and team mascots at 1 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

Campus AA chapter will meet from 7 to 8 p.m. in Union 202.

Lou Douglas Lecture will be "A New Foreign Policy: Justice Without War" at 7:30 p.m. in McCain Auditorium.

Rock Climbing Club will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 204 for officer elections and group photo.

Provost's Committee on Role and Aspiration will meet at 4 p.m. in Waters 137.

University Counseling Series will sponsor an informal discussion on "Family Life Options After 'Leave it to Beaver'" at noon in Union 205. Bring a lunch.

Apostolic Campus Ministry will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 206.

Alpha Phi Alpha will have a step-show demonstration at noon in the Union Courtyard.

International Club will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union 204. Topic will be Brazil.

UPC Issues and Ideas Committee will sponsor a panel discussion on "Coping with Aids" at 2:30 p.m. in Union Forum Hall.

Have a question about today's Collegian?

Give us a call, and we'll try to help you out. 532-6556

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

FINANCE CLUB
LONDON TRIP

Informational Meeting
Thursday 6:30 p.m.
Calvin 218

All Majors Welcome

DIRECT DEPOSIT AT UNB:

IT'S A BETTER IDEA THAN EVER.

Count on UNB for fast, accurate direct deposit of your K-State paycheck. We're Manhattan's experts in electronic funds transfer. We're always working to make banking more convenient for you. There are so many good reasons to use direct deposit now.

- UNB will continue your direct deposit transactions without interruption — or start a new direct deposit account quickly and easily for you.
- More secure than taking your paycheck to the bank — guard against loss or theft ...
- More convenient — you don't have to make special arrangements to deposit your paycheck if you're busy or out of town.
- Budget planning is easier, because your direct deposit funds are available immediately at UNB.

Remember! Return your Direct Deposit form to KSU Personnel Dept.
For information, call 537-1234.

Union National Bank & Trust Co.

MAIN BANK: 8th & Poyntz • WEST BANK: Westloop Shopping Center
DRIVE-THROUGH BANK: 8th & Houston • PHONE 913-537-1234
ATM LOCATIONS: Kansas State Student Union, Main Bank,
Manhattan Town Center Mall & West Bank

Equal Opportunity Lender

This Week's Specials

Taco Burger 2 for $1.45 reg. $1.15 each

Burrito $2.77 reg. $3.70

Good through 10-31-92

TACO HUT

Where good friends get together

2809 Claflin 539-2091

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.50

Everyday
Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Topping
2 - Cokes
$8.50

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

KSU Bakery Science Club
Bake Sale
Today!
First Floor Hallway Shellenberger
3 to 5 p.m.

REMINDER!
PROTECT YOURSELF

Now is the time
to get your annual
FLU SHOT.

Available at
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
Kansas State University

For Appointment
Call 532-6544

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts

Don't be caught dead anywhere else!
We've got Tricks! We've got Treats! We've got great Boo Buys!

Make-Up
Partyware
Decorations
Candy
Balloons

704 N. MANHATTAN • IN AGGIEVILLE • 530-7854
MON-FRI 8:30-6:30 • SAT. 8:30-5:30 • SUN. NOON-5

REMOTE FLIGHT

Manhattan visitor describes adventure of model helicopters

Flying a model helicopter isn't cheap.

Jeff Smith, a Houston native on vacation in Manhattan, said learning to fly an R-C helicopter takes about six months. The radio and helicopter cost Smith about $1,700, he said.

Smith said the Kansas wind was slow enough to make flying the helicopter smooth. Flying R-C helicopters in winds of 20 to 25 mph isn't much fun, he said, because R-C pilots have to fight the wind.

One tank of gas is capable of keeping the helicopter aloft for 20 minutes.

The breezy Kansas wind was generous to Smith's helicopter. Smith was able to fly it into a loop and fly it upside down.

R-C helicopters have all the same controls as a real helicopter, Smith said. Some R-C models are made to scale and are exact down to the number of rivets, he said.

Remote-control choppers and real ones differ, Smith said, because some R-C models are capable of inverted flight, which real choppers can't do.

"They're an interesting beast," Smith said.

ABOVE: Jeff Smith, Houston, and Rex Kellogg, Manhattan, watch Smith's remote-control helicopter hover Tuesday near Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

LEFT: Smith changes the "plug," as he called it. Performing a stunt soaked the half-inch spark plug that was in the helicopter and caused it to stop running, Smith said.

STORY AND PHOTOS BY DARREN WHITLEY

CONVOCATION LECTURE

Wunsch to speak on ocean shifts

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

An ocean-currents expert will deliver the third University Convocation Lecture of the year at Thursday.

Carl Wunsch, the Cecil and Ida Green professor of physical oceanography at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will speak about "Oceans: Shifting Currents, Changing Climates."

"His major work is with ocean currents," said Robert Robel, professor of biology. "He has traveled all around the world to study circulations in the deep oceans."

Wunsch, a fellow of the American Meteorological Society and of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, is a Fulbright Scholar and a Guggenheim Foundation fellow.

Wunsch is chairman of the National Research Council/National Academy of Science Ocean Studies Board and co-chairman of the U.S. Steering Committee for the World Ocean Circulation Experiment.

Wunsch's visit to K-State has been arranged in cooperation with the Mark Enloe Memorial Lectureship of the Division of Biology.

■ The Convocation Lecture will be at 10:30 a.m. Thursday in McCain Auditorium. There will be a post-lecture session with Carl Wunsch at 1:30 p.m. in Union 213.

ISSUES

Golden Key sponsors forum on health care

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

Panelists gave their opinions on four questions concerning the U.S. health-care system Tuesday night in the K-State Union Big 8 Room.

Golden Key National Honor Society presented "Health Care in America: What Ails the System?" as the first installment of the Student Interest Forum series.

The four-member panel comprised Dr. Eugene Klingler, physician; Joe Knopp, attorney and former state senator; Tom Deaver, health insurance specialist; and John Exdell, associate professor of philosophy.

■ See PANELISTS Page 10

Haunted House Book Sale

October 27 - 30, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

K-State Union First Floor Alcove
Across from the upper level of the Bookstore

Terrifying savings on a variety of books

K-State Union Bookstore 532-6583 We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

Jan Garton

A Leader at K-State

- Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities
- Chancellor of Tribunal
- Co-director, Women's Resource Center

A Leader for Riley County

Advertisement paid for by Jan Garton for Commissioner Darrell Westervelt, Treas.

INSTANT CASH --just add you!

$15 Cash for Your First Plasma Donation

- Quick, Safe, Easy
- Study or watch movies while you donate
- Donating Plasma Saves Lives

MF 9am-6:30pm • Sat 9am-2pm
1130 Gardenway
(across from Westloop)

IT'S TIME TO TAN

HOT SAVINGS!
10 TANS $20

(1 coupon per customer)
Expires 11-30-92

Southern Tropical Sun Tan
776-8060 537-0744
519 N. 12th 1814 Claflin

Manhattan
1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, Ks. 66502
(913) 539-5391

STUDENT SPECIAL

Peace & quiet to study or just get away
Mon. - Thurs. only $20 for a single or double

On Space Availability • Student ID Required

HEY, K-STATE!

ARE YOU BRAVE ENOUGH TO HANDLE THE HAUNTED FOREST?

IF SO, THEN COME TO THE WOODS
BEHIND B3 PARKING LOT ON OCT. 29 AND 30
BETWEEN 7:30 AND 10 p.m.
AND OCT. 31 BETWEEN 7:30 AND 11:30 p.m.

FREE ADMISSION!

FLINT HILLS BREADBASKET DONATION OPTIONAL.

SPONSORED BY KSUARH AND FT. RILEY MATES

AGES 13 AND UP, PLEASE!

Moonlite Madness!

Oct. 29, 10 a.m.-10 p.m.

25% OFF!
Storewide

Women's Shoes
Standing Room Only

1222 Moro, Aggieville
776-5331

- ☼ Sun. $1 Nachos $3 Pitchers
- ☼ Mon. $2 Big Beers
- ☼ Tues. 75¢ Draws
- ☼ Wed. $1 Bottles
- ☼ Thurs. $1.50 Wells $2 Imports
- ☼ Fri. $3 Pitchers 50¢ Irish Kamis
- ☼ Sat. 50¢ Irish Kamis

"Food, Drinks, Friends and Fun...
All at Christopher O'Bryan's Pub and Grill"

1129 Laramie (old Eegee's Building) ☼ 776-7050

OPINION

OCTOBER 28 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson
Editor in Chief
Jared Savage
Opinion Page Editor

Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson

Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thoman
Heather Anderson

John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Rau
Jelic Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Violence from guns must end

THE ISSUE

A shooting accident leaves a Japanese foreign exchange student dead.

WE SUGGEST

America has to end the war with itself. Gun laws should be made stricter and people who use them must be taught the sacredness of life.

With the single squeeze of a trigger, a boy is dead, and the animosity between two nations grows.

Yoshihiro Hattori, a Japanese foreign exchange student studying in the United States, was accidentally shot and killed last week. He and a member of his host family were looking for a Halloween party, and they stumbled onto the wrong house.

The frightened owner of that house yelled, "Freeze," but Yoshihiro didn't understand, and he paid the highest price.

It is doubtful that charges will be filed against the homeowner.

And now, this incident only further deepens the foreign view that America is an ultra-violent nation. That we prey on each other like hungry jackals, squeezing off rounds at the slightest inclination.

This incident is a microcosm of our nation. Riddled with violence and fear, we hide behind easily obtainable weapons. We shoot first and ask questions later, and our leaders helplessly look on.

Japan is mourning the loss of Yoshihiro. Being relatively violence-free, they can collectively feel the passing of one young soul. It's not like here, where death is only felt by those who were close to the victim.

When will it all end? When can America end the war with itself? Enough have already died and more still will.

The leaders we elect must face this fact, and gun laws must be made stricter. But more than this, people who use them must be taught the sacredness of life.

Unless we learn, more like Yoshihiro will certainly go home in a pine box.

Regret, fabric mark brother's passing

My brother died of AIDS. I flew to Washington D.C. Oct. 9 to see his panel in the AIDS Quilt. Every panel ever made was displayed — almost 21,000 in all. It was a little overwhelming. I stood on the mall beside the Washington Monument and cried in front of God and everyone, and it didn't make me feel a damned bit better.

Stephen was 35 years old when he died. He was a scientist at Columbia University in New York City and lived in the Village. Stephen was brilliant, graduating from high school at the age of fifteen and college at the age of nineteen.

When I was born, Stephen left for college, and I saw little of him. I knew he liked operas and was fascinated with meteorology and could purr like a cat through his nose, but Stephen hid who he really was from my family. His aloofness did not alienate me. In fact, Stephen's life always fascinated me. Somehow, I knew that once I got a little older, he would let me participate in his life.

And now, the only thing left of him is a 6-by-3-foot scrap of fabric that floats all around the country. He has a gravesite at McDonald County, where I and my older brother David grew up.

But southwest Missouri is the very last place Stephen would ever want to be. That panel is his grave.

In the fall of 1987, Stephen called me while I was still moving into my dorm room in preparation for my sophomore year at the University of Arkansas. Stephen was glad I was in college, encouraged my ambition to be a fiction writer, and told me what books I needed to be reading. He had been calling me a lot more frequently, and I knew we were finally beginning to connect. I could tell him anything.

"I hate to ask you to do this," he said, "but you have to tell mother something for me."

Five months later, Stephen was dead. He'd known for seven years that he was HIV-positive. He had known he had AIDS when he came home for a rare visit for my high-school graduation. I wondered why he'd waited so long to tell me.

I never mourned Stephen's death. I concentrated on trying to keep my family together. We told the world Stephen died of cancer. His lover, Tom, and a friend made his panel for the quilt, not my family. We'd never gotten a chance to be a part of his life for the last 16 years. And besides, we have Baptist ministers in our family, and the truth would not do. We didn't tell anyone. No one talked. I gritted my teeth when people joked about AIDS and faggot bashing. I kept my mouth shut.

The last time I or anyone else in our family had a chance to talk to him was through a speaker phone. By this time, Stephen was blind, unable to walk, fed through a tube in his stomach, and he couldn't talk. The last thing the disease took was his ability to communicate. He couldn't say anything. I answered the phone, and Tom told me that I and the rest of my family had to talk and that Stephen would listen, unable to respond. I held the phone and sweated and breathed, and then I gave the phone to David. I couldn't say anything either, not a word, not even goodbye.

On Sunday, Oct. 11 in Washington D.C., I came closer to saying goodbye to a brother I was never allowed to really know or mourn. My best friend, Carrie, and her mother went with me. There were thousands of people milling around that day, and I wondered if there was anything they regretted — anything they wished they had either said or done.

As we were walking away we came upon a huge scrap of fabric on which friends and family members were leaving messages for those who had already died: a symbolic means of connection. Carrie asked me if I wanted to write something. I said no.

On my way home to Manhattan, I regretted not writing on that piece of fabric. I regretted a lot of the times I just kept my mouth shut. I'm tired of being quiet.

Janet Lynn Roach is a graduate student in English.

JANET LYNN ROACH
QUEST COLUMNIST

Ye all prepare: The End now cometh

KELLY KLAWONN

Hello? Is anyone out there?

I am writing this with a tinge of apprehension. I'm not sure if this will ever be read, and if you are reading it, I am quite certain your mind is somewhere else.

Maybe you are wondering where your neighbors, friends and possibly even family members have gone. Others of you may be watching as slews of Christians float towards the sky. And I am sure there are some yet to notice any change.

For the latter, you can just quit reading and go on your way. The news will be much too upsetting. However, the rest of you must pay close attention, for all is not lost.

Don't worry, the vanishing hoards of Christians are not defying gravity. On the contrary, they have been abducted into heaven by none other than Christ as part of the Rapture.

I had a different column that was going to run today, but then I was clued into the story of the century.

A writer's wet dream, if you will. This is the stuff that makes careers. Forget Woodward and Bernstein. This is the big kahuna.

I want to preface this by saying, don't worry that you were left here on Earth while all the other wayward Christians floated off to their destiny in the sky. If the truth be known, I had to do some pretty slick talking myself to get in, and I am quite confident that my visit will be a short one.

Anyway, back to the task at hand — explaining the Rapture. To my good fortune I was clued into the news beforehand, and luckily there is still time for you to get in line.

Those missing immortals were chosen by Christ because they were the super-Christians. Now maybe some of you thought you were good Christians, but I am sorry to inform you that you have flunked the test.

Cramming is always a risky business.

So here is what you can do, and for those of you who may procrastinate, what you can expect in the wake of the Rapture.

1. Believe you are a sinner. Or if all else fails, fake it.

2. Believe that Jesus died, was buried and rose for you lowly little sinners. You might want to give him a present for his hard work when you see him. I suggest a Chia Pet.

3. Ask for forgiveness of your sins. To help save time and facilitate your journey to heaven, I forgive you all. Now go!

4. Repent your sins. A good method of repentance is listening to Blondie's song "Rapture" a few times. Then you can just groove on up that funky staircase to heaven.

5. Bear the fruit of the spirit. (Love, Joy, Peace, Cheap Beer, Cigarettes, Kindness, Van Morrison, Regularity, Goodness, Letters to the Editor)

6. Believe the coming of Jesus

Christ is October 28, 1992. Wow!

Now if this is asking too much, here is what you can expect in the next seven years or so.

First, the Earth will be plagued with earthquakes, drought, famine, air pollution and environmental destruction. My advice to you is stay clear of high-rise buildings, stock-up on nonperishable food items, get a really big oxygen tank and always wear a No. 25 sunblock.

One of the more interesting happenings will be the return of the Roman Empire, cleverly disguised as the European Community. However, I am not sure how the whole Britain-Italy currency suspension thing fits into the equation. Economics is tricky. The descending of Christ, that is easy.

Another event you might want to keep an eye out for is the revealing of the Antichrist. He will force everyone to receive the 666 mark by doing some funky manipulation with a world wide Social Security numbering system. The Mission strongly advises you refuse to accept this gift from Satan and in return, the Lord will resurrect you after you die a slow and painful death.

Sounds like a response at the end of a job interview.

"Sorry, but we have nothing available at this time, why don't you try again in a few months."

To all I say, see you soon. Either in heaven — while I last — or back here on Earth. I never miss a good show.

READERS WRITE

BLOODMOBILE

Volunteers, donors appreciated in drive

Editor,

I cannot begin to express my appreciation to the K-State and Manhattan communities for their participation in the American Red Cross Bloodmobile Oct. 6-9 at the K-State Union. Although we did not meet our established donor goal, we did increase our percentage of goal met from 73 percent last drive to 89 percent this drive. So, we do have something to be proud of. There were 1,048 people who came to the Bloodmobile and 889 units of blood collected.

When the Wichita mobile units join forces in one location for four days, it takes a lot of teamwork to make it all work. I am especially thankful to all the generous volunteer workers who gave their time to help with this worthwhile cause as well as the donors who responded to our plea for blood. None of us know when we may be the one in an accident or surgery, needing the lifesaving gift of blood. Your generosity will not be forgotten.

Reita Currie
KSU Bloodmobile Coordinator

ELECTIONS

Reader tired of character issue

Editor,

I'm tired of John Hart and all his fellow self-righteous conservative clones going on like broken records about the character issue. Enough already! If the candidates' ability to tell is really so important to Hart, I suggest that he confront — in a paragraph that makes coherent sense — Bush's lie that he was out of the Iran-Contra information loop.

I am weary of people who refer to Bush's character as if it's a God-given fact. I cannot shake the fear that just below the surface of their admiration lies a fascination with the unnecessary macho slaughter we perpetuated in the Persian Gulf.

And by the way, how are we supposed to take seriously a writer who quotes an idiot like Rush Limbaugh for support?

Geoff Wyss
Graduate student/English

ELECTIONS

Change will only hurt America

Editor,

Change — that is what Bill Clinton says he represents. Change — this word is supposed to bring forth images of a better America. Change — this simple term is supposed to improve our nation. However, change does not always mean things will be better.

Americans have grown accustomed to change. If something becomes monotonous, they simply change it. If a TV show becomes boring, a person will change the channel. If a person grows weary of their current occupation, they quit and change to a new job.

Now, many Americans say they are fed up with the Reagan-Bush eras and feel it is time for change. Unfortunately, when people desire a change, they don't look ahead to see how the change will affect them.

The way to avoid a change to something worse is to investigate what you are changing. With Bill Clinton as president, we are guaranteed to have higher taxes, more government control and increased government spending. Is this a change? Yes. For the better? No!

I challenge everyone vowing to vote for Clinton to look at what changes he proposes. Look at his health-care proposal, his economic ideas, his foreign policy suggestions and other changes he desires. Next, think carefully about whether or not you really want those changes. If you do, then go ahead and vote Clinton. Otherwise, look at Bush.

People crying for change because America is in an economic slowdown are being deceived. No country has ever had continuous economic growth. There will always be periods of rapid growth and slow growth. This is just how an economy operates.

Bush does not represent change. This is because he knows that a change will only hurt America. Our nation cannot afford the drastic changes Clinton suggests. If America is to remain strong, we need to re-elect George Bush. The choice is yours Nov. 3.

Jonathan McWhirter
Senior/Accounting

BICYCLES

Motorists the real problem on campus

Editor,

I've been riding my bicycle between my home and my office for 14 years. In that time, I have not struck a single pedestrian despite the fact that I occasionally ride on the sidewalks for my own safety. The Oct. 26 Collegian article by Lisa Cole implied that run-amuck bicyclists are terrorizing K-State sidewalks and posing a menace to all ambulatory members of our community. The article, and the statements therein, would have been amusing had they been a little less moronic.

The real problems on our campus are caused by vapid motorists who fail to recognize crosswalks and the rights of both pedestrians and bicyclists. I know from personal experience that certain members of local police agencies don't give a damn about the safety of bicyclists. People using bicycles for transportation had better learn how to ensure their own safety, because they are not going to get any help from the authorities. And if that means being on sidewalks at certain times of the day, so be it. It's clear from this article that Lisa Cole, Lance Lunsbury and Mr. Archer need to be compelled to travel the campus on foot and by bicycle on alternate days, so that they could actually discover what the problems are. They sure don't have a clue now.

Larry Glasgow
Professor/College of Engineering

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Letters to the Editor: c/o Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

NATION

Victims accuse agency of negligence

Governmental relief may fail to deliver total help

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Victims of hurricanes in Florida and Hawaii and riots in California accused the government's emergency relief agency Tuesday of failing to deliver "full and fair" assistance.

In a petition to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, legal aid lawyers in the three states said they were acting "to dispel any illusions the public might have about FEMA's ability to deliver basic disaster relief."

A spokesman said a lawsuit might be filed if the groups are not satisfied with FEMA's response to the accusation that it has failed to provide "full, fair and equitable disaster relief."

The petition does not seek any financial compensation for the disaster victims.

But FEMA spokespeople said the lawyers have delivered a fog of half truths, outright inaccuracies and unfair criticism that disregards the thousands of disaster victims who have received millions of dollars in needed assistance.

The petition complains that thousands of disaster relief applicants have yet to receive help months after Hurricane Andrew in Florida, Hurricane Iniki in Hawaii and the Los Angeles riots that followed the acquittal of police officers seen on videotape beating Rodney King.

It was filed by legal Services of Greater Miami Inc., the Legal Aid Society of Hawaii and Urban Recovery Legal Assistance in Los Angeles.

The allegations include:

■ In Florida, fewer than half of the 154,000 people seeking aid have received it, and a shortage of mobile homes for people leaving now-closed tent cities has left thousands with inadequate housing.

■ In Hawaii, only 20 percent of those seeking disaster assistance had received temporary housing aid four weeks after Hurricane Iniki hit on Sept. 11, and less than 5 percent had received individual and family grants.

■ In Los Angeles, FEMA disbursed less than 7 percent of the $300 million in disaster aid made available for those victimized in last spring's riots.

"This is the first time that disaster victims have united to express outrage and frustration at FEMA's failure to deliver disaster relief funds and programs," said Cynthia Robbins, directing attorney of the legal services program in Los Angeles.

"FEMA has developed an administrative structure that is too big and does not deliver what is needed," Robbins said at a news conference in Los Angeles.

She said overly cautious officials are denying aid to many who appear to qualify but are unable to provide documentation to support their claims.

But Laurie Jean, director of a FEMA region that includes Los Angeles and Hawaii, said the petition's allegations are full of erroneous figures.

STATE

Stephan aims for awareness

Statewide tour to inform about proposed victims' rights amendment

COLLEGIAN STAFF

Kansas Attorney General Bob Stephan kicked off a statewide tour to raise awareness of the Victims' Rights Constitutional Amendment yesterday in Manhattan.

The amendment will be on the ballot Nov. 3 in Kansas, Illinois, Missouri, Colorado and New Mexico.

"This amendment needs to pass overwhelmingly," Stephan said.

He told an audience of about 40 people some of his experiences as a judge before becoming attorney general.

"You very seldom see the victim," Stephan said.

He spoke of a case he ruled on in which a purse-snatcher testified he grabbed a woman's purse and ran.

Stephan later found the criminal also had pushed the woman down and she had broken a bone in her neck. He said he would have made the sentence much harsher had he known the extent of the crime.

"It is important to have all parties involved," Stephan said.

The amendment would ensure victims basic constitutional rights, such as the right to be present at public hearings and the right to be heard at sentencing or at any other time deemed appropriate by the court.

This would be allowed as long as those rights did not interfere with the constitutional or statutory rights of the accused.

Riley County Attorney Bill Kennedy also spoke in support of the amendment.

"It is sad we have to go to the ballot to determine whether this should be passed or not. It should be a given," Kennedy said.

SUNSET ZOO

Spirits, scary surprises in store at Spooktacular

KIM MCNITT

Collegian

Sunset Zoo employees and volunteers are planning a "spooktacular" Halloween.

The zoo's annual Halloween event, Spooktacular, will be Thursday through Saturday, with activities for both children and adults.

Proceeds from the event will be used to support zoo development projects.

Angela Baier, zoo marketing and development officer, said the event is broken into two parts — the Peek-A-Boo Path and Terror Trail.

Peek-A-Boo Path will be open from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. each night. Admission is $2 for children, and parents get in free.

■ See SPOOKTACULAR Page 9

ECONOMY

A welcome surprise

Consumer spending pushes growth rate
to unexpected level

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Consumer spending powered the economy to a stronger-than-expected 2.7-percent growth rate in the July-September quarter, the government said Tuesday in its last economic report before Election Day.

The seasonally and inflation-adjusted growth in the gross domestic product, while far less robust than past recovery periods, still was nearly double what analysts predicted.

President Bush, playing catchup to Democrat Bill Clinton, immediately hailed the number as evidence of a turnaround, but private economists weren't convinced.

One went so far as to contend that the administration "cooked the books" to come up with the positive news.

"The Democrats keep telling us that everything is going to hell, but they are wrong," Bush said while campaigning in Des Moines, Iowa.

Senate Republican leader Bob Dole said the report offered a strong signal that things are looking up. Commerce Secretary Barbara Hackman Franklin said it means consumers are starting to spend again after a cautious year.

The Commerce Department's top economist, Undersecretary Antonio Villamil, said the bulk of the third-quarter growth came from consumer spending, an area for which the department has hard data, rather than from areas such as trade, inventories and construction, which are partially estimated.

■ Despite the growth in the economy, the Labor
Department said American workers' wages, salaries and benefits rose 3.5
percent in the year ending
Sept. 30, the smallest increase in five years.

WORLD

Issues unite Canadians

Voters reject reform, but groups
hope for changes

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MONTREAL — Canadians discovered a new unity Tuesday.

East and west, French and English came together, not over constitutional reforms but in rejecting the path chosen for them by the country's political elite.

The results of Monday's referendum was a sharp rebuff to Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, provincial premiers and aboriginal leaders.

As expected, voters in French-speaking Quebec rejected the reform accord, but it also lost in five other provinces and one territory.

The constitutional changes would have recognized Quebec as a "distinct society," reformed the Senate and the House of Commons to give western states more representation and recognized the rights of Indians and Eskimos to govern themselves.

Canadians combined to vote the measure down 54.4 percent to 42.4 percent, but their reasons varied.

Canada was left no closer to a consensus on dealing with the cultural and regional differences that have been straining the federation for years.

Separatists felt encouragement in Quebec, hoping the results would rejuvenate their independence campaign and give them a boost in provincial elections that must take place by 1994.

Many opponents of secession also voted "no."

The reform originally was designed to meet Quebec's complaints about threats to its cultural identity in a predominantly English-speaking nation. It was expanded to meet demands of less populous provinces and aboriginal peoples.

FOR NEWS
KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

Come on Down!
TONIGHT

$1.25 Pitchers

CHARLIE'S
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
ST. LOUIS

1800 Claflin Rd. 776-1515

Reach active voters. Advertise in the Kansas State Collegian.

More than 94 percent of the Kansas State University population reads the Kansas State Collegian. People who read newspapers are most likely to vote and are most active and concerned about their communities and the quality of life.

Among advertising media,
newspapers rank first in credibility.

Most believable media
Newspapers	48%
Television	19%
Direct Mail	12%
Magazines	12%
Radio	4%
About Equal/No Opinion	5%

(Source: Home Testing Institute)

Newspapers reach voters, particularly those all-important ticket-splitters.

Read political coverage in newspapers "every or almost every day"
Ticket-splitters	64.7%
Republicans	64.1%
Democrats	55.4%

(Source: Market Opinion Research, as cited
in The Ticket-Splitter by Devries and Tarrance)

In fact, people look forward to reading advertising in newspapers more than in any other medium.

% who look forward
Newspapers	44%
Magazines	29%
Television	9%
Radio	0%

(Source: Response Analysis Corporation)

Newspapers reach the most politically
active citizens.

Read a newspaper on the average weekday
Voted in an election	70%
Wrote to an elected official	73%
Visited an elected official	74%
Worked for a candidate	71%

(Source: Simmons Market Research Bureau, 1989)

Newspaper advertising offers you believability, reader involvement, the ability to set the record straight, graphic impact and the ability to address serious issues you and the voters care about. Remember to include Kansas State Collegian advertising in your campaign budget.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6560

Grain Science Club
Flour Sales
Every Wednesday
Noon-4 p.m.
Shellenberger 220
We will be selling
(while supplies last).

CLAFLIN Books & Copies
Dissertation
Copying
50% Cotton Bond
8¢
No waiting
1814 Claflin 776-3771

720

LONGHORNS

1115 MORO AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN, KS

LIVE
Wednesday, Oct. 28
LEE ROY
PARNELL

Tickets:
$8 in advance
$10 at the door

S-BAR-J & Streetside
are also ticket outlets.

1115 Moro 776-8770

Copy Co is Now Open Until 2:00 AM Sunday-Thursday • Aggieville

SPORTS

OCTOBER 28, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Rowing home

As sunset draws near, six members of the K-State Rowing Association row an eight-person shell toward their home cove Tuesday evening on Tuttle Creek Reservoir.

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Wins down, attitudes up

Despite losing streak, Cats say optimism is high

STEVE ROCK
Collegian

Despite the fact that the Wildcat football team has the 107th-ranked offense out of 107 teams in the nation, many players said the squad's attitude remains optimistic.

"I told you it might get worse before it got better," Coach Bill Snyder said.

"And it did."

The Cats, averaging less than 230 yards of total offense and 18.5 points a game, are mired in a three-game losing streak — three games during which the offense has accumulated 271 total yards.

But many of the Cats said the team is not giving up.

"It's never fun to lose," wide receiver Gerald Benton said. "And if you lose, and just keep losing and losing, eventually, your morale is going to come down."

"But it's not like that. We go out in the huddle and say, 'Hey — what happened last week is not going to happen this week.'"

Benton caught three passes for 103 yards in the first game of the season.

In the last three games, he has caught 11 passes for 84 yards.

"We just have to put more pride and more intensity in the game than we have the past three games," he said. "Our offense has a lot to do."

Running back Eric Gallon said his preseason goal was to rush for 100 yards every contest.

He has a total of 97 rushes on 34 carries in K-State's three losses, an average of less than three yards per carry.

But he, too, said the team remains confident that it can turn things around.

"We're positive," he said. "Not too long ago, we were losing. Then we started winning. We know what victory tastes like, and we're not going to let this bring us down and make us lose the rest of our games."

"We still expect to win."

And free safety Jaime Mendez said although most of the players are optimistic, some are not.

"I think that the majority of the guys still think we're going to get out of this," he said.

"I just think some people forgot how hard we worked to get where we have gotten."

"And it only takes a few bad apples to mess up the batch."

The Wildcat defensive unit is giving up an average of 23.2 points per game. Forty-seven of those 139 points allowed have been the direct result of K-State turnovers.

In Saturday's loss to Colorado, the defense was on the field for 105 snaps — a Buffalo record.

Does spending that much time on the field affect the defensive unit and its effectiveness?

"I don't think we have any kind of problem emotionally, but we might have been a little tired. We were a little fatigued."

Linebacker Brooks Barta, who leads the team in tackles for the fourth straight year, said that, despite the similarities, this is not a K-State team of the past.

"In 1989, that team would have withdrawn and given up. This team thinks we're better than that."

"The mark of a good team is the ability to get back on track."

"We just have to put more pride and more intensity in the game."

GERALD BENTON

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

La Russa named AL Manager of the Year

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Tony La Russa, who led Oakland to its fourth AL West title in five years, won his third American League Manager of the Year award Tuesday.

La Russa, who kept the team in contention during the first half of the year despite injuries to key players, received 25 of 28 first-place votes in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He got two second-place votes and one third for 132 points.

Phil Garner, who kept the Milwaukee Brewers in contention in the AL East until the final weekend of the season, was second with 76 points. He received two first-place votes, 21 seconds and three thirds.

Johnny Oates of the Baltimore Orioles finished third with 27 points on four second-place votes and 15 thirds.

Cito Gaston, who led the Toronto

Blue Jays to Canada's first World Series title, was fourth with 13 points, including one first-place vote, one second and five thirds.

La Russa, 48, won the initial AL manager's award from the writers in 1983 for leading the Chicago White Sox to the AL West title. He won it again in 1989 for leading the A's to the first of three AL pennants.

Oakland had significant injuries this year, disabling 16 players a club-record 22 times. Among them were outfielders Dave Henderson, Rickey Henderson and Jose Canseco.

Pitchers Dave Stewart and Bob Welch, catcher Terry Steinbach and first baseman Mark McGwire were also injured at some point in the season. In addition, pitchers Kirk Dressendorfer and Joe Klink missed the entire season.

Despite all that, the A's moved into first place for good Aug. 4.

VOLLEYBALL

Spikers hoping to stop skid at 10

BRIAN ANDERSON
Collegian

The Wildcat volleyball team looks to end the second-longest losing streak in its history at 7:30 tonight in Ahearn Field House against the 14-8 Missouri Lady Tigers.

The Cats have lost 10 consecutive matches since the Sept. 21 game against Drake. The longest losing streak in K-State volleyball history was in the 1975 season, a season in which K-State lost 32 matches.

"The program can't change overnight," Coach Patti Hagemeyer said. "You're not going to see success immediately. We can't judge the season based on wins and losses.

"We do something better in a certain area in every game," she said. "We have tied or broken seven school records this season. I never anticipated that to happen."

Some of those records belong to setter Chi Dau, who has set records in assists for three- and four-game matches. She had 43 assists in a three-game match against Oklahoma and 74 assists in a four-game match with DePaul.

On Oct. 18, middle blocker Jill Dugan tied a Big Eight mark for solo blocks with six in a four-game match at Regis University.

Kathy Saxton has placed her name at the top of four categories this season. She set a Big Eight record with 77 attacks in a four-game match against Toledo.

Saxton has set school marks in kills in three- and four-game matches with 25 kills against Iowa State and 35 kills against Toledo, respectively.

"These are not my goals, but it is nice to get those records," Saxton said. "The records show what things we're doing right."

"We need to put these performances together. We're getting close to solving it."

Missouri is coming off of a big win last week against Oklahoma in Norman.

The Tigers are 3-5 in the Big Eight.

"The problem last time was passing," Hagemeyer said of her team's three-game loss to Missouri. "They have several great servers, and we weren't aggressive with our passing."

"Their offense is not fast," Hagemeyer said. "We have worked on our blocking. We're going to try to have two blockers on every hit."

Missouri is a much-improved team, Saxton said.

"They are confident and ready to play," she said. "They concentrate on the game and are very disciplined."

Missouri has the overall series lead against K-State 22-14. The Cats have won six of the last eight meetings, including three of the last four at Ahearn.

COLUMN

Goose hunting prudent at this juncture

Ed Skoog is on vacation this week. He is fishing in Arkansas, and you are not. In his stead, outdoors enthusiast and Collegian reader President Bush will be filling in. Take it away, George. Run with it.

Goose season. Started Oct. 24. Backpedaling here, there is an exception here — that Oct. 24 thing is only for 'jes' for what the Department of Birds, the DOB, has called "light geese."

Snow geese, blue geese and Ross' geese are legal. To shoot and eat, gotta have a federal stamp, creeping federalism. These federal migratory bird hunting and conservation stamps are only $15, and isn't that a bargain?

Go down to the post office and buy these stamps to be legal. And, hey, while you're down there, you can, if you're 18, register for the selective service — gotta have bodies for the draft, but, hey, just a thought.

Gaslight geese, light geese, are hard to get because they're all over at night, but you can't hunt at night and be legal, the legal thing. Ross' geese, goose, only fly at night.

Hey, isn't that something, that Ross' geese thing? Ross for Boss, hey, he's loony, talking about accusing, dirty tricks, daughter, I'm no dirty trickster, I'm prudent, ask yourself if you are better off now, how 'bout with Saddam, Sodom.

What would Clinton have done? Dirty tricks, I'm not talking about dirty tricks here, nothing wrong with visiting Moscow, college kid, I understand that.

What I mean is issues. I'm here to talk about the issues, and, hey, the issue is H. (aych) Ross Perot, he has bought all these geese and, hey, this election isn't about geese, it's about jobs.

Let's change the agenda. Right now. Here goes.

I am proposing a check-off box on every American's income tax, whereby every taxpayer can mandate 10 percent of his taxes to a new fly-rod for me.

I mean to tell ya, these things are getting expensive, even for me, but I'm not some rich prep-school elite. Well, maybe I am, but even I can't afford a new fly-rod.

There are poor children in the ghetto who have never fished. Crack babies, I have held. Barbara, my wife, has held more crack babies than any other, and hey, come on out here, Bar, isn't she a wonderful first lady, and she can drop a buck from 200 yards. She's a real sharpshooter, and not too bad of a bowhunter either!

Dogs, dog lover, I want to be the dog president. Millie, great hunting dog, starve her in the kennel out behind the White House, raving mad, love to take her into the woods by the Potomac and have her chase down feral cats and coyotes, she runs 'em down and I shoot 'em in the throat.

In short, light geese season is open until February. Gotta have a license, stamps, gun. Dark goose season begins Nov. 21. Special geese permits, mostly south of Interstate 70 in the Flint Hills, are in application process — doesn't start there until Dec. 19.

It's about vision. I envision much more spare time for myself in the future. Frees up hunting time.

ED SKOOG

SPORTS DIGEST

► COLORADO WIN UPHELD

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Colorado does not have to forfeit its Oct. 8 victory against Missouri, even though one of its players was ineligible, the Big Eight Conference says.

Conference athletic directors voted to grant Colorado an exemption to the league's policy requiring schools to forfeit games in which an ineligible player had participated.

One of the Colorado players was found to have had too few class credits when the game was played.

► MASCOT FIGHT EXCUSED

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — It was a head-butting, down-and-dirty fight when Northwestern State and Northeast Louisiana met on the football field.

Between the mascots, neither NSU's mascot, Vic the Demon, nor NLU's Chief Brave Spirit will be disciplined for their squabble in the end zone.

"The Northeast mascot has always had a reputation of playing it rough," said Shane Clabaugh, a social work major who plays Vic.

MUSIC

Parnell to play new songs tonight

Singer brings country with blues to TW Longhorns

JODY LYNN
Collegian

Country with a touch of the blues will be on tap tonight when Lee Roy Parnell takes the stage in Aggieville.

Parnell will perform, following the local group Rio, at TW Longhorns. The singer-songwriter is on tour promoting his second album, "Love Without Mercy." Two singles from the album have already been in heavy radio rotation, and the title release is climbing the charts.

Parnell said he knew he wanted to build the album around the first single, "The Rock."

"It's probably the most country song I've ever recorded. It's been at the top of the list of songs I wanted to cut for a long time," he said.

"I like struggle in a song if I can find it, and I like the outcome to be hopeful. I adore the song. It set the tone for the album."

The music is simplified on this album. Parnell said he took this approach to let more of himself come through.

"We started every song with just my voice and my guitar, and we built carefully around that," he said. "We didn't want to get much more complicated than two guitars, a bass drum and maybe some piano."

Parnell plays slide guitar and recently appeared on the Country Music Association Awards in a jam session on Steve Wariner's song "Crash Course in the Blues."

The album features blues, ballads, gospel and pure country tunes, and Parnell wrote or collaborated on most of the selections.

The Pirates of the Mississippi recently took "Too Much," a song Parnell wrote with Guy Clark, to the top of the charts.

■ Lee Roy Parnell and local group Rio will perform at 8 and 10 tonight at TW Longhorns. Tickets are $8 in advance and $10 at the door.

REVIEW

Movie changes realities

'Naked Lunch' features writer's metamorphosis

MATT CUNNINGHAM
Collegian

Bug extermination, hallucinations and secret advisers in the form of giant cockroach writers all play a part in the story of William Lee, a secret agent on a mission to combat the underworld of Interzone.

A secret agent in the world of crime and drugs may be a common theme in movies today, but when William S. Burroughs has any connection, look out.

"Naked Lunch," the cult classic written by the spokesman for the Beat generation, is the basis for the movie.

■ "Naked Lunch" will show at 7 and 9 p.m. today and Thursday in Union Forum Hall, and at 7 p.m. Friday in the Union Little Theatre.

Director David Cronenberg, whose credits include "The Fly" and "Scanners," presents a surreal explanation for the creation of the mind-warping classic.

Cronenberg looks into the mind of the author with his character William Lee.

Lee is a suppressed writer until he starts to take a crude drug derived from a bug poison.

After he experiences the feeling, which some call a "literary high," William's creativity is unleashed. He finds himself working undercover for the "good side," which communicates with him in the form of a large cockroach.

The characters William meets while undercover can be seen as part of his suppressive creativity that's finally allowed to open up.

Passages from the book are read throughout the movie to provide periodical summaries, but a familiarity with Burroughs' work is an advantage — not only with the plot but with the overall style of the film.

The movie teases the brain with a complex subplot that, at times, confuses the viewer about what the resolution is and what it actually means.

"Naked Lunch" viewers come away with a new, slightly warped view of reality that can be either frustrating or rather enjoyable.

DIET MAGIC!
30 lbs. in 30 DAYS
for $30.00

People are getting great results:
• Play lost 30 lbs. in 30 days
• Lost 20 lbs. in 10 weeks
• Sheds out 17 lbs. in 15 days
• Others who claim they have tried everything and "nothing works" are losing "pounds"
NEW PRODUCTS—ALL NATURAL
CALL: Rick and Linda Dornell (303) 247-2088

T.A.D. SPORTS
Sports Cards and Collectibles
1112 Laramie
Mon.-Fri. 10-6 • Sat. 9-5
537-4433

WE TAKE TIPS!

532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Free Delivery (Min. Order $9)
HUNAN Chinese
Restaurant & Lounge
1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-in Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon
Not valid with Buffet or any other promotion.
Open 7 days a week

Pregnant? Need help?
For confidential help call

Birthingright
Free pregnancy test
537-9180
523 s. 17th st.
1-800-848-LOVE (5683)

Distinguished Lecturer Series
College of Business Administration
Presents

William T. Esrey

Chairman & Chief
Executive Officer of Sprint

Friday, Oct. 30
10:30 a.m.

Little Theater
K-State Union

Everyone Welcome

Dole visits Manhattan

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"Fort Riley is important to all of Kansas. It's solid," he said. "If you take another $60 billion out of defense, like Clinton wants to, there's not any guarantees. It ought to be an orderly cut of defense, not a gut of defense."

The audience asked questions, one concerning his health. Dole made light of his recent bout with prostate cancer, but he encouraged other men to get tested.

"I've become the prostate pin-up boy of Capitol Hill," Dole said. "It is the second-biggest killer of men."

He said he doesn't understand the amount of money that goes toward research.

"We spend $27 million on prostate research and $5 billion on AIDS research. I don't know, something's not right," Dole said.

GTHOMAS JEWELERS

"For The Gift Of Pride
Let Us Be Your Guide"
Same Day Repair Service

419 Poyntz Ave.
Downtown, Manhattan

SPOOKTACULAR

Thursday, October 29
to Saturday, October 31

SUNSET ZOO
MANHATTAN

TERROR

7 pm to 10:30 pm

TRAIL

Dare to walk on the dark side. Visit our "Dearly Departed" tours, where you'll come face to face with creatures from your worst nightmares. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult.
IF YOU DARE!

PEEK-A-BOO

6:30 pm to 8:30 pm
Parents FREE

PATH

The perfect opportunity for parents to take their youngsters (7 and under) out for an evening of safe "trick or treating." The children will be greeted by many familiar faces, plus area merchants will be giving away free treats.

$1 OFF Coupon Available

$3 for Adults
$2 for Children

EXTRA

NEWS

TODAY

TOMORROW

Get involved with the Collegian.

The Collegian is seeking students who are reliable, show initiative, possess good writing skills, have some media experience and display enthusiasm.

If this description fits you, you're eligible to apply for a Spring 1993 staff position. Applications and job descriptions for Collegian positions are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

Positions:

- Editor-in-chief
- Advertising manager
- (Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4. Interviews will be Nov. 11.)
- Desk editors
- Advertising representatives
- Graphic artists
- Columnists
- (Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 13.)
- Staff writers
- Photographers
- Copy editors
- And more

This is a great opportunity to get involved on campus while having fun, building a resume and working on the sixth largest morning daily in Kansas.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 532-6555

Something
To Believe
In...

United Way of
Riley County

How much should I give? The amount you wish to give is entirely up to you. Every gift is significant because it goes to work along with many other contributions. With payroll deduction, you can give a larger amount by contributing a small amount each pay period.

Local Agency Fact File:
Kansas Children's Service League
227 Southwind Place, Manhattan
Phone: 539-3193
Contact Person: Kim Menard
Provides temporary and emergency foster care, respite care for handicapped children, parent-child and problem pregnancy services and adoptive placement for minority children.

Local Agency Fact File:
American Red Cross
1014 Poyntz, Manhattan
Phone: 537-2180
Contact Person: Beryl Adams
Provides emergency disaster services, assists military families, utility assistance, screens clients for food pantries, counseling and referral services, health and safety education and blood services.

Here are facts on just a couple of local agencies supported by your United Way of Riley County...

Sponsored by Circle K

Please make your pledge today. Ask your employer for a pledge card or call the United Way office at 776-3779.

"It Works"
United Way
of Riley County

Copy Co • 12 AM to 2 AM • Self Serve Copies Are 3¢ • Aggieville

CAMPUS

Area arenas give students flexible job opportunities

"If they show up to work when they are supposed to and are willing to get the job done, that's the kind of people we want."

CHARLIE THOMAS

JENNIFER SHANK
Collegian

Bramlage Coliseum and Wagner Field are not only places for students to get entertained, they also provide many jobs with flexible hours to fit students' busy schedules.

The hiring process for Bramlage consists of a student filling out an application and putting down a preference as to where he or she would like to work, Bramlage Director Charlie Thomas said.

"We have approximately 200 employees right now, and many of them work games, as well as concerts," Thomas said.

He said the main thing he looks for in an employee is dependability.

"If they show up to work when they are supposed to and are willing to get the job done, that's the kind of employee we want," Thomas said.

After working at Bramlage for a while, some employees may be given the opportunity to become supervisors, Thomas said.

"The supervisors get a pay increase and have a lot of responsibility," he said. "Some of the students don't like it, though, because it is hard to tell people in your own peer group what to do."

The beginning pay for Bramlage employees is $4.50 an hour and can go up to $6.50, depending

■ See ARENA JOBS Page 10

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Swift slide

A girl runs near a slide at Lee Elementary School Tuesday afternoon. Tuesday's pleasant temperatures encouraged many people to get out and enjoy the nice weather.

WORLD

Yeltsin to ban new political group

Hard-line front opposes Russia's free-market reforms

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSCOW — President Boris Yeltsin said Tuesday he would outlaw a new hard-line political group because it undermines Russian society and poses a "great danger" for the country.

The ban would be the first by Yeltsin since he dissolved the Communist Party in 1991.

Yeltsin is under pressure from hard-liners in the Russian legislature and elsewhere who oppose his free-market reforms and believe he has wrecked the nation.

But Yeltsin reassured the country things will be looking up in 1993.

"The people have endured the most difficult — the 10 months of reforms ... The worst is behind us."

Yeltsin told the Russian Foreign Ministry that he was directing his aide, Gennady Burbulis, to prepare a presidential decree to dissolve the National Salvation Front.

He said the Front is calling for the overthrow of legal authorities, destabilizing the society and setting people against each other.

Alexander Prokhanov, a Front leader, called Yeltsin's action "political gangsterism, lunacy and idiocy."

Although they represent a vocal minority, the hard-liners have set the stage for a political showdown Dec. 1, when the Congress of People's Deputies — the parliament dominated by pro-Communist legislators — will convene.

More than 3,000 members of pro-Communist and ultranationalist factions founded the Front in a heavily guarded Moscow auditorium Saturday. The group vowed to oust Yeltsin and save the nation from ruin.

Yeltsin said the Front should be dissolved as an unregistered organization whose activities contradict the Constitution and the country's laws.

The news agency did not say when Yeltsin would sign the decree.

LECTURE

Speaker lauds technology

MEE SUN LEE
Collegian

The new world belongs to people who have the technology to change it, said Lowell Catlett, professor of agricultural economics and agricultural business at New Mexico State University, at a lecture Tuesday in the K-State Union.

The lecture was organized by the Council for Public School Improvement and the College of Education as part of the Rural and Small Schools Conferences.

Catlett gave examples from the world of nuclear technology to illustrate how people can change and make a place for themselves in the "age of empowerment."

Speaking mostly to educators of various institutions in Kansas, Catlett said the power structure is changing from the pyramid style to a flat structure where everybody's in charge.

■ See CATLETT Page 10

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Display Advertising
532-6560

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

may be brought to Kedzie 116.

WE TAKE TIPS!

532-6556

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

TBPI HONORARY ENGINEERING SOCIETY

Would Like to Thank the Following Merchants and Individuals For Their Contributions to Cleaning K-Hill:

Homestore
Waters True Value
Wal-Mart
Del Petty of the Riley County Rural Fire Dept.
The TBPI Initiates
and
The College of Engineering

THE WAVERLY CONSORT

The Year 1492:
Spanish Music in the
Age of Columbus
Saturday, October 31, 8 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

To mark the 500th anniversary of Columbus' voyage to the New World, 10 brilliant singers and players trace the Christian, Jewish, and Muslim threads that form the fascinating fabric of Spanish culture. Performing on authentic reproductions of early instruments, the Waverly has won international acclaim for the gusto of its "listener-friendly" performances.

Public/faculty: $15
Senior citizen: $13
Student/child: $7.50

Pre-concert lecture
Saturday, October 31, 6:30 p.m.
Little Theatre, K-State Union
Eugene Enrico, a musicologist and film maker who is professor of music history at the University of Oklahoma, will give a lecture illustrated with slides and taped musical examples. Dr. Enrico's lecture will explore the musical repercussions of the momentous events of 1492. The lecture is free and open to the public.

Tickets now on sale at the McCain box office. Call (913) 532-6428 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA. Box office opens at 1 p.m. day of performance. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley).

Transportation available for senior citizens through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000.

A Mid-America Arts Alliance program with the Kansas Arts Commission. The lecture sponsored in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Samuel French Inc.
Copyright © 1992 by Leslie Lee

Director: Bel DeBrown
Purple Masque Theatre
October 29 - 31, 1992
8:00pm
Tickets available at
McCain Box Office 532-6428

M·C·C·A·I·N

Copy Co Has Recession Buster Cards to Give You 4¢ Copies Every Day • Aggieville

CAMPAIGN '92

Stockdale swipes Clinton

"Those comrades of mine that died — the extra 10, 15, 20 thousand — that blood is on your hands, you war protesters."

JAMES STOCKDALE

Perot's running mate criticizes anti-war protests

ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — Ross Perot's running mate and the head of his volunteer group say the participation by Bill Clinton and other protesters in demonstrations against the Vietnam War prolonged their captivity as POWs.

Admiral James Stockdale, Perot's running mate, and Orson Swindle, leader of Perot's support organization, both blamed anti-war demonstrations for prolonging the Vietnam War and their captivity as prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

Stockdale said in an interview published in Tuesday's editions of the Idaho Statesman in Boise, that Clinton's participation in anti-war protests while a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford raised questions about his qualifications to be the nation's commander in chief.

Anti-Vietnam War demonstrations "prolonged the war, no doubt in my mind," Swindle told reporters today.

Swindle said he and fellow POWs "heard it from our captors over, and over and over again" that anti-war protests encouraged North Vietnamese forces to continue waging the conflict.

Asked if he personally resented Clinton's participation in the protests, Swindle said, "No, I just wouldn't want him president."

Swindle's comments were made in response to questions about the Stockdale interview.

"Those comrades of mine that died — the extra 10, 15, 20 thousand — that blood is on your hands, you war protesters," Stockdale told the Idaho newspaper.

"You strung it out. You didn't stop it a minute."

Clinton's Idaho campaign manager Jon Foster said in a statement that while the Arkansas governor opposed the Vietnam War that in no way lessens Bill Clinton's admiration for Admiral Stockdale's bravery or for what he had to endure.

"Every time in prison, we would hear that they had one of these big galas of the sort that Clinton was arranging here and there in the world," Stockdale said.

"Huh," we'd say. "Another year in this place. We're not going to get out of here until we bomb Hanoi." And they couldn't do that until they beat that opposition down."

Stockdale maintained if the bombing raids had occurred in 1965 instead of 1972, 58,000 lives could have been saved.

He said Clinton's behavior raised questions about his ability to serve as the nation's commander in chief, specifically suggesting that if Clinton were forced to send Americans to war many would cite Clinton's actions during the 1960s and 1970s and refuse.

Asked if Stockdale were speaking for Perot, campaign spokeswoman Sharon Holman said only that the comments reflected Stockdale's views.

"As a former POW he would feel strongly" about anti-war protests, she said.

Spooktacular plethora of planned activities

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

There will be 15 sponsors from the Manhattan area business community to provide treats for the children.

The path will include characters such as Batman, Mickey and Minnie Mouse, a Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle and Bart and Marge Simpson.

There will also be a fun house, a "tunnel of fun" and face-painting, Baier said.

"The kids are welcome to come in costume, but they don't have to," she said.

For the Terror Trail, admission is $3, and children 12 and under must be accompanied by an adult.

"Terror Trail is the area's largest haunted house, and some say it's the scariest," Baier said.

The trail includes a 50-foot "tunnel of terror," she said, through which the Grim Reaper leads "dearly departed tours."

The Terror Trail also includes a chamber of horrors, pet cemetery, snakes and chain saws.

"Of course, we also have the traditional Frankenstein and Wolfman, too," Baier said.

Coupons for $1 off admission may be picked up at Briggs Jeep-Eagle Isuzu or KQLA-FM 103.9. The coupon is good for the whole family's admission.

Spooktacular, now in its fifth year, will go on rain or shine, Baier said.

"It rained a little last year. It just makes it a little more spooky," Baier said.

Attendance ranges from 3,000 to 4,000 people each year, she said. About 180 volunteers help with the event, many of whom are K-State students.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha International members will also help with Spooktacular, because Sunset Zoo is the group's local philanthropy.

"It makes me feel good to be able to help with something like this," said Amee Urlich, group president and sophomore in architectural engineering.

"It also gives me something to do on Halloween."

Raborn says clerk did not count some absentee ballots

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

indicates the total number of votes was 2,080.

However, the official computer printout showing the percentage of votes each candidate received shows the total number of votes to be 1,955 and shows no absentee votes were counted.

Of the 125-vote discrepancy, 95 of those were challenged from Ward 5 Precinct 11 because of marks on the ballots, and 30 were absentee.

The abstract of voters, a sheet that breaks down the votes in specific precincts for each candidate again, shows no absentee ballots were counted.

Raborn also cites as proof of negligence the minutes of the Riley County Board of Canvassers meeting on March 1, 1991. The board met to review the challenged ballots.

The minutes state the "challenged ballots in Ward 5 Precinct 11 should be counted" and also states three absentee ballots were not signed and therefore not counted.

Raborn said this is the only document of its kind that does not state how many challenged votes were accepted, and normally the total is included in the minutes.

He would not comment on whether he thought Colbert had doctored the meeting minutes to hide the discrepancy.

While Raborn claims the 27 absentee votes were not counted, Colbert says they were.

"That accusation is not true," she said. "I understand where he thought they were not counted. They were not run through the scanner. So, the abstract does not show them."

Colbert said the ballots were counted by hand and put in with the challenged ballots from Ward 5 Precinct 11.

"In the minutes, I failed to mention there were absentee ballots there," she said.

To further back his claim, Raborn hired John Boyer, K-State associate professor of statistics, to analyze the election results to see whether his claim or Colbert's is more statistically accurate.

Each voter was allowed to vote for three candidates, resulting in 239 hand-counted votes. When that number is divided by the 95 ballots known to be counted by hand in Ward 5 Precinct 11, the result is 2.5 votes per ballot, almost the exact average number of votes per ballot throughout Riley County during that election.

Boyer averaged the results of the 25 other precincts, and he said the average was close to that number every time.

However, if the 27 ballots Colbert claims she put in Ward 5 Precinct 11 were added, the total number of ballots would be 122. When divided by the number of votes, the vote-per-ballot average drops to 1.9.

This is below the county average, and it is the only precinct to be below the average. Raborn said Boyer told him there is a one in a million chance of that happening in an election.

Earlier in the fall, a controversy arose when Colbert refused to deputize students to help register other students to vote on campus. Colbert said at the time deputizing students hadn't worked out in the past.

She deputized students and had a voter-registration drive on campus after receiving criticism.

HIV myths dispelled, facts explained by speaker

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

the HIV virus, Seedle said.

Eighty percent of old cases of AIDS are in homosexuals and intravenous drug users, while 70 percent of new cases of AIDS are in heterosexuals, Seedle said.

"Cases of AIDS and sexually transferable diseases are decreasing among homosexuals, because education is very effective in homosexual communities," he said.

People should know several things about AIDS, Seedle said.

"Someone being HIV-positive is not a reason to quit work," he said. "People think you can catch AIDS with normal interaction, which isn't true."

AIDS also has an emotional side to AIDS, where people become discriminatory and paranoid, he said.

"You can't control the emotional part of AIDS, no matter how much education about the disease is involved," he said.

Don Fallon, chairman of the K-State Communicable Diseases Committee, said somehow people need to dispel the fear of AIDS.

Officials revise AIDS definition

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

and a diagnosis is needed to participate in drug trials or qualify for low-cost AIDS drugs.

The Centers for Disease Control proposed adding pulmonary tuberculosis, recurrent pneumonia and invasive cervical cancer to the list of diseases that indicate AIDS has fully developed in people infected with HIV.

"We expect this expansion to result in more comprehensive monitoring of the epidemic of HIV infection and related disease in the United States," Dr. James Curran, the CDC's associate director for AIDS, said in a letter announcing the proposal.

Activists said it would mean diagnoses for thousands of HIV-infected women and drug abusers.

FACE TO FACE

STUDENTS FOR THE RIGHT TO LIFE & VOICES FOR CHOICE

AGREE

It is time to have a civil discussion about abortion.
Listen to both sides!

Speak your mind about the issue

Wednesday, Oct. 28 Umberger Rm. 105 at 9 p.m.

You don't want to miss this meeting!

Royal Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106 to schedule an appointment for yearbook pictures.

Next in line...

Individual appointments can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30

Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

UPC

'TIL THE COWS COME HOME

AIDS Awareness Week

October 26-30 at the K-State Union

Coping with AIDS

Union Forum Hall
Oct. 28, 2:30

Medical Care for the HIV/AIDS Patient

Union Room 207
Oct. 29, 2:30 p.m.

Quilt Display '92: What are the Effects?

Union Forum Hall
Oct. 30, 12 noon

COLLEGE BOWL

THE VARSITY SPORT OF THE MIND

SIGN UP TODAY

In the UPC office
8 a.m. — 4 p.m.

Campus tournament will be Nov. 14-15

UPC Children's Carnival

Thursday, October 29

5:30 - 8:30 pm

K-State Union Grand Ballrooms

Don't forget to wear your costume! Lots of games, prizes and refreshments!

PUMPKIN DECORATING CONTEST

DECORATE A PUMPKIN

Prizes: 1st, 2nd, 3rd place. Winner to be announced at the end of the contest.

Winners displayed in the UPC office.

Prizes awarded.

INFORMATION and SIGN-UP available at the UPC Office, 3rd floor of K-State Union or call 532-6571.

Copy Co Has Recession Buster Cards to Give You 4¢ Copies Every Day • Aggieville

Arena jobs provide students opportunity

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8

on seniority and position, Thomas said.

He said employees portray a good image of K-State. Thomas said he tries to instill an attitude of, "Do unto others as you would have done unto you" in employees.

"We want employees who want to be there and want to help," Thomas said. "From the moment people pull in the parking lot and pay the $3, we want them to feel that we are doing our job."

Thomas said the employees are a diverse group of students who all get along and have fun together.

"I just can't say enough about them," he said.

Mark Wyss, senior in finance, is the concession manager. Wyss has worked at Bramlage for four years.

"I started as a concessions worker and was promoted to stand manager, and then to concession manager," Wyss said.

He said Bramlage promotes a family-style work ethic and encourages employees to be a team.

"If we share the work, it goes smoother, and we get more done," Wyss said.

He said the employees are also encouraged to have an upbeat attitude.

"We are helping peers, teachers, parents and alumni. So, we want to do a good job and have fun while doing it," he said.

Because of the flexible hours, many employees return year after year, Wyss said.

"Many of us have been here since we were freshmen," he said. "Many people don't quit, unless they graduate."

Wagner Field has a similar hiring process. Mark Bonjour, director of facilities for Wagner Field, said he hires many student organizations for game days.

"Many of the chairback sellers and program sellers come from organizations such as fraternity pledge classes," he said. "They are paid as a group, as are the people who work concessions."

Ushers, ticket takers and maintenance are paid per game, and others are paid an hourly rate from minimum wage up to $5.50, based on experience, he said.

Wagner Field employs about 200 people, Bonjour said, and being a dependable worker is more important than being experienced.

"I want to hire employees who I can count on, so that we won't disappoint the fans," he said.

Bonjour said the attitude of the employees is important, since they have to deal with the public.

Catlett encourages people to change with the world

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8

The crux of his speech, which drew laughter and applause from the audience, concerned the constant change of the world. He said unless people can change with it, they will cease to exist.

In the second half of the lecture, Catlett focused on ways to produce more "Einstein's" by using the technology of virtual reality.

"We send 60 percent of our students to college," Catlett said, comparing the United States favorably with Russia, Germany and Japan.

Catlett said the basics in education are critical thinking, common sense, self-esteem and creativity.

"Reading, writing and arithmetic becomes easy if you have the basics, and students here have the basics," he said.

He said the United States, Canada and Australia had means to achieve and maintain success.

"The five ingredients are a phenomenal agricultural base, natural resources, energy resources, an educational system available to all and head start in economics," Catlett said.

The lessons the United States needs to learn from countries like Japan and Germany, such as teamwork and cooperation, can be found in rural America, he said.

"People are successful because they think they will be successful and because they believe they will never fail," he said.

"Failures externalize themselves and blame three things when they fail," Catlett said. "They blame their leaders, their 'other,' and they blame God."

"Who you think you are is who you are," Catlett said, to a standing ovation. "Who you think you are is who you will become."

Nancy O'Kane, assistant principal and activities director at Manhattan High School, said she was mesmerized by Catlett's message.

"It was exhilarating," O'Kane said.

Tim Hawk, MHS director of staff and development in special projects, said he felt optimistic after hearing Catlett speak.

"He paints such an optimistic future," Hawk said. "And after what everyone has been telling us, I'd rather try his methods and fail than to believe the pessimists and not try at all."

Catlett also is a consultant and adviser to the Department of Agriculture, Department of Interior and the Army.

Panelists answer questions about health-care system

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

Each panelist was allowed two to three minutes to answer each question.

"What is your primary concern about the health-care system in America today?" was the first.

"We must see that everyone has access to health care," Klingler said. "This should include hearing, sight and dental care. Medical care is being limited by out-of-control costs. We need to educate the public as to what is realistic."

Knopp said as a lawyer he advocated focusing on malpractice and encouraging safe procedure.

"But when that doesn't occur, take moves to compensate for it," Knopp said.

Deaver said, "Every area in health care has someone who isn't working with the system. A system is needed where all the components are working together."

Exdell said everyone is paying the same for health care, though their salaries differ.

"We have limited access to health care, costs are sky-rocketing, and the system for financing health care is regressive," Exdell said.

The panelists also suggested solutions.

"Keep the problem doctors out of the system," Knopp said. "High-risk doctors are asked to quit or change their practice to keep malpractice costs down."

Deaver said a cooperative system is needed that would include practicing good health and wellness and adopting healthy lifestyles.

Exdell said a system similar to Canada's would be needed. The government there guarantees access to health care and pays for all costs, but the doctors are still private.

"One centrally administrated system for the non-military would be needed," Klingler said. "Most solutions have been cost shifted. I'm currently getting paid by Medicaid the 1974 prices, but I must pay current wages and expenses."

Deaver said, "Eventually everyone must be treated. Dying patients can not be turned away because their illness is not cost efficient."

ESSENTIALS

Reader suggests 'love beads' and 'cosmic consciousness'

DEAR CASSANDRA,

Regarding Horny and Single: I haven't been following this real close because I have a life, but it is not much of one, so I've been following a little.

As far as I can tell, the female position on this is that it is an absolute fact that had this woman been told in explicit language what it was H and S wanted, she would not have ... well ... you know.

In my opinion that assertion is ludicrous. In the first place, you really have no idea of what was said, or what the tone of the conversation was leading up to passions moment.

Have you talked with this woman? Who knows, maybe she is a flake. You just don't know. I think you would agree that it is a sad fact that some women knowingly get themselves into bad relationships thinking "he will change once we are together a while."

I know women who have married men who physically abused them while they were dating. I asked one of them point blank, "What on earth were you thinking of when you agreed to see him again after he hit you?" And she told me she thought she could change him. Years of her life (went) down the toilet because she was blind to what she saw and heard.

So when you advised H and S to be straight up front with this woman, I think you were right on target, but you hadn't ought to chastise the boy for being dishonest without a lot more info.

R.S. says women suffer more after sex. Excuse me, honey, but if you do it right, no one suffers. All that moaning you hear is something else entirely.

R.S. points out that men and women see sex through different eyes, and she is correct in that observation. What I think would help is if someone could tell us who is right. Perhaps men are too casual and women too sensitive.

I grew up wanting to believe that two people could have sex without promises. That people could care enough about each other to give one another pleasure without having to pretend that there was something more to it.

"Sex is sacred and you should only do it if you are really in love." Oh please. That's the sort of tripe you hear from a 13-year-old.

"Sex is the ultimate expression of love." You know, some people aren't that good with their hands. Does that mean that their ultimate expression of love is less? Maybe women feel bad because they've talked themselves into believing that sex should be something else, and they aren't living up to what Mom said.

The ultimate expression of love is much longer lasting than sex. It's that love, honor, cherish, sickness and health jazz; it's honesty and tenderness, caring and kindness.

Love is love, and sex is sex. Sometimes they fit together, and sometimes not.

The bottom line is that people should treat each other better. Honesty, respect, kindness and consideration for the feelings of others are what is needed. Think of all the problems you could solve with an army of people who believe in those things. Racism, sexism, homelessness, poverty ... all gone in our lifetime.

Everyone should go home Thanksgiving, go through the cedar chest, get out the folks' bell bottoms, love beads and peasant shirts, come back and make a go of cosmic consciousness.

Then we can put on some Don Henley and sing along to "Sad Café."

Your friend and occasional reader,
A.W.S.

DEAR A.W.S.,

At first I wasn't sure where you were going with all of that, but I liked the ending. Man, like, I can dig it.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

ACROSS

1 Liniment's target

5 Cambridge sch.

8 Everett or Lowe

12 Natural satellite

13 Fuss

14 Have no tolerance for 15 Vain, shallow sort

17 Actor Novello

18 Irish county

19 Grave

21 Wilbur's steed

24 Lindstrom or Zadora

25 Last few notes

28 Hyacinth holder

30 Dine

33 George's brother

34 Element No.5

35 Jackie's second mate

36 Prohibitionist

37 Tackle box item

38 Agreement, for short

39 Eagles' org.

41 Trans-action

43 Subterranean chambers

46 Shuts tight

50 Verdi opera

51 En route

54 Cicatrix

55 Enjoyment

56 Logician known for his diagrams

57 Terrier type

58 Rubber-tree plant remover

59 Lip DOWN

1 Rock concert

Solution time: 21 mins.

FLAG MOB ISLE BONO USA NOON ISOLATED FUND DIE GROPE PAPER DEER ELAN JEREMIAH RAT FIRED ORO UNHARMED SWAN NECK FLAME GUTTER SRA ANIL OPTICIAN PINE COE KOLA STAR ELM SUET

Yesterday's answer 10-28

23 Had the gumption

25 Hero of Spanish literature

26 Hockey great

27 "Godspell" song

29 Fish-monger's offering

31 Coffee-maker

32 Photo

34 Neighbor's kid?

38 Record jacket's lining

40 Extra

42 Firewood?

43 One of the Mamas

44 Tarp-covered haystack

45 Parlor piece

47 Filled with wonder

48 Fritz of filmdom

49 Way in the past, in Dundee

52 "The Sound of Music" extra

53 Potent stick

We Take Tips 532-6556 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Today's Cryptiquip clue: W equals H

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

1 DAY	20 words or less — $5 each word over 20 — $20 per word
2 DAYS	20 words or less — $6.25 each word over 20 — $25 per word
3 DAYS	20 words or less — $7.25 each word over 20 — $30 per word
4 DAYS	20 words or less — $8 each word over 20 — $35 per word
5 DAYS	20 words or less — $8.50 each word over 20 — $40 per word (consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications.

Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

$COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

ATTENTION READERS!! KSU Campus Telephone Books available now. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

WE ARE open during lunch. HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND, COSMETIC bag, around Shellenberger Hall. Please call to identify, 532-6745.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

ANGI—MET you Saturday at Silverado—Would like to see you again. Respond in Personals—RM.

KRIS—I just love redheads! They are spunky, are you?

CLAY—REMEMBER there is more than just an "E" in effort.

GREAT PUMPKIN Hunt Clue #3: For the hunters of the round orange-shaped object. Water runs under this bridge only when it rains. But you have to get off the beaten path to find it.

050 Parties-n-More

HOT—TUB rentals for all occasions: Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/delivery, special weekday/multiday rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent—Apts. Furnished

APARTMENT FOR Rent: two-bedroom, furnished, all utilities paid. Recently remodeled, seven blocks to campus. Quiet. No pets. $380/month. 776-0224 or 539-3680.

AVAILABLE—$480 per month, two-bedrooms. Trash and water paid. Four minutes walk to campus. 776-7634/539-5781 after 5p.m.

AVAILABLE DEC. 20, 1992. Sublease a large one-bedroom furnished apartment. One block south of campus and Aggieville. Rent negotiable. Call 537-8469.

AVAILABLE, ONE-BEDROOM basement apartment, one block east of campus. Quiet, water, trash paid. $300/month. Available Nov. 1. Call 537-4947 after 6p.m.

110 For Rent—Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR rent Available Jan. 1, studio apartment, close to campus, lots of room, $260 a month (including utilities) 811 Fremont Apt #1. 539-7071.

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

ATTIC STUDIO apartment, three blocks from campus, pets negotiable. Call for more information 537-5144.

AVAILABLE NOW. One-bedroom, $325 plus deposit. Shuttle to campus. 537-3683.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished one or two bed-

130 For Rent—Mobile Homes

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan. - Aug. 539-2019.

TWO-BEDROOM UPSTAIRS duplex, beautiful architects house. Fireplace, central air, carpet, $550 per month, plus utilities, 537-8440.

145 Roommate Wanted

FURNISHED OR unfurnished, campus one mile. Short term lease available. 537-8389.

145 Roommate Wanted

APARTMENT LOCATED two blocks from campus. Two roommates needed Nov. 1. Off street parking. Apartment is two years old. 776-7240.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN want woman to share house in Manhattan. Own room $175, plus one-third utilities. Available now. 537-1479.

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in large two-bedroom tri-level apartment. $180 plus deposit. Fun roommates! 1825 College Heights. Call 539-6539.

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coined laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

MALE/ FEMALE own bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $212 per month, plus one-half utilities at Park Place 587-0562.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted. Private room, laundry, off-street parking. Available Nov. 1. 537-3679, 238-6297.

TWO MALE roommates wanted. One-half block from campus. $155/month, plus utilities. After 6p.m. 776-7794.

SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

SPANISH TUTORING by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

210 Resume/Typing

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/ Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

225 Pregnancy Testing

RILEY COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

2030 Tecumseh
776-4779

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS
FREE COUNSELING
ALL OPTIONS DISCUSSED

Early Detection is Important
CONFIDENTIAL
(Ad by Friends of Women)

Pregnancy Testing Center

539-3338

- Free pregnancy testing
- Totally confidential service
- Same day results
- Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri.
9 a.m.-5 p.m.

240 Musicians/DJs

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2868.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Careers classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ACCOUNTING ASSISTANT. Established Manhattan research and consulting firm has a full-time, temporary position available for an accounting assistant. This entry level position requires two years college training in accounting or similar work-related experience. Duties include accounts payable preparation and payment. Requires a familiarity with microcomputers. Good salary and benefits. Send letter and resume to Director of Human Resources, DPRA Incorporated, P.O. Box

727, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. DPRA Inc. Equal Opportunity Employer.

ASSISTANT TEACHER for nationally accredited early childhood program. 11a.m.-5:30p.m. Monday-Friday. Must have high school diploma or equivalent. Please apply in person to: Marsha Tannehill at Seven Dolores Childcare 220 S. Juliette by Nov. 3, 1992.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November—painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring—Earn $2000 plus/month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206)634-0468 ext. C5768.

FARM WANTS responsible person with some experience operating PTO/ grinder mixer. And with time available, mornings preferred. 1-457-3440 before 8a.m.

HOUSEKEEPER NEEDED. Mon.-Wed. Fri. 8a.m.-noon. Desires responsible efficient non-smoker, able to provide references. 537-8652.

NEED AN experienced cocktail waitress, must be at least 21 years of age. Call Bleachers Sports Bar 537-1484.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

PART-TIME MASSAGE Therapist. 10 to 15 hours per week. $7 per hour. Will train, 776-0022.

PART-TIME STUDENT employment. KSU Alumni Records needs student to locate alumni by telephone. Excellent verbal communication skills required. Position starts after Nov. 1. Work study student preferred, will work 20-25 hours per week with some evenings required. Apply in person KSU Alumni Records, 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 400.

STUDENT OFFICE help. Need responsible, hard working student. Computer experience essential. A pleasant phone manner and ability to work with public desired. Prefer work study student who can work 12-15 hours/week. Evening hours possible. Pays $5.25/hour. Please contact the Kansas State Family Center at 532-5869.

WANTED: BASS Player for local working Country Band, call Mike 776-7011.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Careers classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

EARN CASH stuffing envelopes at home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801.

MAKE $1000'S stuffing envelopes. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to J.C. Inc., P.O. Box 864, Manhattan, KS 66502-0088.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-(800)874-7697.

STUDENTS OR organizations. Promote our Florida Spring Break packages. Earn money and free trips. Organize small or large groups. Call campus marketing. 1-800-423-5264

OPEN MARKET

410 Items for Sale

FISHNET STOCKINGS, thigh highs, pantyhose, black seamed pantyhose. Patricia's Undercover Lingerie, Aggieville, 1224 Moro.

FOR SALE: Canon AE-1 SLR, Macro-Zoom lens, power winder, and tripod. Excellent condition! Call Jeff at 776-3248.

HEWLETT PACKARD HP-28S with thermal printer, leather cases $195, 539-3563.

SOLOFLEX WEIGHT machine $1500 new. Will sell for $1000. 539-8423 after 6p.m.

TWO 14K gold, diamond and sapphire rings. Size four and one-half. Black full length leather coat size five/six small. Call 587-0673 Laurie.

USED CASH register for sale, $50: Standing Room Only, 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

Aggie's New To You

Second-Hand Store

537-8803

1124B Moro
Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

435 Computers

2400BPS IBM compatible Modem with software, book will install $75. Men's Schwinn 10-speed $75, 776-3249.

APPLE II GS. 40 MB hard drive, two MB RAM, ImageWriter II (color), modem with FAX, Appleworks GS. Plus extra cards and software. 537-1663 and leave message.

440 Food Specials

GRASS FED lambs for sale. No implants, no chemicals. Call 537-7152, evenings or 537-8077 to leave a message.

445 Music Instruments

GUITAR LESSONS: You no longer have to go to the cross roads to play. Rick's Music Shop. 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 539-5900.

450 Pets and Supplies

DWARF RABBIT: friendly and loving bunny needs a new home. Am moving and can't take her with me. $30 or best offer, cage included. Call 532-2224, leave message.

THREE FOOT Ball Python with 29 gallon tank/ accessories $175. Female Chinchilla with cage, accessories $60, 539-3563.

460 Stereo Equipment

TWO 100 watt Fisher speaker for sale. Model ST-830. $240 or best offer. Call 776-0297 evenings.

TRANSPORTATION

510 Automobiles

1980 HONDA Accord five-speed, three-door, air condition, cassette and sunroof, runs great. $550 or best offer. Call 537-3917 or 1-492-8293.

1980 MUSTANG, sun roof, body excellent condition. Runs good. $400 or best offer. 537-8499.

1984 DODGE Daytona Turbo. $1300 or best offer. Must sell! Fully loaded and runs well. Call 539-1315.

1986 FORD Tempo. Two-doors, auto transmission, air condition, tape player, must sell, call Clement at 537-9852 after 5p.m.

520 Bicycles

1991 TREK 970 mountain bike with suspension fork/ accessories, $795. 1991 Trek 2100 road bike $745, 539-3563.

56 CM Raleigh road bike, race ready! Comes with avocet computer. Must sell! Call 776-6866 10a.m.-10p.m.

FOR SALE: Huffy Bike, ten-speed: very good condition. Call 539-1651.

MOUNTAIN BIKE for sale. Trek 830, one year old. $230 or best offer, 539-0903.

TRAVEL/ TRIPS

610 Tour Package

PADRE ISLAND—Spring Break. Five nights at Bahia Mar Resort. Transportation included $50 deposit and $258 total. Cruises and Travel 776-2217.

11th ANNIVERSARY CHRISTMAS BREAK LAST CHANCE!

STEAMBOAT
DECEMBER 12-14 = 3 OR 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-4 = 3 OR 7 NIGHTS
$166

VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
DECEMBER 14-15 = 2 OR 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 3-4 = 2 OR 7 NIGHTS
$181

BRECKENRIDGE
DECEMBER 15-16 = 2 OR 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 4-5 = 2 OR 7 NIGHTS
$202

11th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

400 FOR SALE

400 OPEN MARKET

410 Items for Sale

460 Stereo Equipment

TRANSPORTATION

510 Automobiles

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

Aggie's New To You

Second-Hand Store

537-8803

1124B Moro
Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

400 FOR SALE

400 OPEN MARKET

Royal Purple

Behind the scenes of the Royal Purple, you'll find 13 dedicated students who are working to record your memories.

"As photo editor, it's my job to decide what pictures accompany the various stories in the yearbook. The other photographers and I work to produce the quality photos the Royal Purple is famous for."

*— Mike Welchhans, Photo Editor
Junior in pre-journalism
Topeka, Kansas*

Order your 1992-93 Royal Purple in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union). Total price is $21 - which includes yearbook and sitting fee. Call 532-6106 to schedule a photo time. Pictures are being taken in Union 209.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

OCTOBER 29, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 48

INSIDE

ELECTION POLL

K-State's Department of Political Science conducted an unscientific poll of introductory political science classes. More than 700 students responded to the poll.

PAGE 7

THURSDAY

HIGH 50 LOW 38
WEATHER - PAGE 2

Fireman remembered

SHANE KEYSER AND
DAVID MAYES/Collegian

ABOVE: The funeral procession for Ogden firefighter LeRoy Pearson travels along Kansas Highway 18 Wednesday morning. Pearson died Sunday night after returning from a fire call. RIGHT: Ogden firefighters carry Pearson's coffin from the fire engine that took it from Manhattan to the Ogden City Cemetery.

Volunteer died after Sunday call

DEBORAH WHITSON
Collegian

Local firefighters paid tribute Wednesday to a colleague who died Sunday on volunteer duty with the Ogden Fire Department.

As part of a traditional ceremony, members of the Manhattan, Junction City, Fort Riley, Ogden and Blue Township fire departments attended the funeral and burial of LeRoy Pearson in full dress uniform.

The No. 2 fire engine that Pearson always drove was draped in black. The truck carried the casket, covered with an American flag, from the ceremony to the burial.

It was met at the Ogden city limits by the No. 1 engine and followed by fire trucks from area departments to the Ogden City Cemetery.

"The firemen really did a beautiful job," said Doug Meloan, a director with Edwards, Yorgensen, Meloan Funeral Home, which handled the arrangements.

Meloan said about 40 uniformed firemen, and several policemen and emergency medical technicians were in attendance. The 10 pallbearers were all firefighters from Ogden.

Pearson had returned from a fire Sunday night when another call came in about an accident on Kansas Highway 18, said William Cecil, Pearson's father-in-law.

He was about to go to that call when co-workers noticed he didn't look well. He agreed he did not feel well and then slumped over.

They left him with an emergency medical technician, who had called an ambulance, and went to answer the call.

Pearson died soon after from a heart attack, Cecil said. He said he had no history of heart trouble.

"It was very sudden," he said. "He was very active."

Cecil said the family was pleased by the display honoring Pearson, which was traditional for U.S. firefighters who die on duty.

Pearson, who was 36, had lived in Ogden for most of the last 11 years. He was a construction worker as well as fire department volunteer.

He is survived by wife, Donna Marie, 29; and three children: Todd, 10; Bobby, 9; and Korine, 6.

AIDS AWARENESS WEEK

The personal side of AIDS

WADE RAMSEY
Collegian

"This disease is about loss, grief, and death."

That's how Jack Markham, who has AIDS, sums up the AIDS epidemic.

"But the saving grace of all of this has been the support from other groups and individuals," said Markham, the President of the National Association of People with AIDS.

Markham and six other panelists spoke to a group of about two dozen people Wednesday afternoon in the K-State Union Forum Hall.

The discussion, "Coping with AIDS," was sponsored by the Union Program Council Issues and Ideas Committee and the Communicable Disease Committee.

"We are trying to move from sharing facts about AIDS to showing people the personal, emotional, and psychological aspects of this disease," said Donald Fallon, CDC chairman and chairman of the panel.

Each of the panelists discussed how AIDS has affected their lives and occupations.

"As of yesterday, I've had 17 friends die of AIDS," said Chuck Breckenridge, a HIV counselor in the Wichita area. "As of today, I've had 18."

Breckenridge said each time one of his clients dies, a bit of him goes with him or her.

"The most difficult part of my job is telling a person they have tested positive for HIV," Breckenridge said.

Panelist Joan Smith, a Riley County health worker, echoed that sentiment.

Marcine Wachsicht, whose 32-year-old son died of AIDS in 1988, told the audience about the pain her son suffered before his death.

"He was in terrible pain," she said. "Sometimes I took him into town for pain shots once or twice a day. Sometimes three times. Maybe more."

"But he had a lot of stress and

See AIDS Page 10

NATION

2nd grand jury indicts rape suspect

Condom offered in self-defense, not consent, panel says

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN, Texas — A rape suspect who wore a condom at the woman's request has been indicted after an earlier grand jury refused to bring charges.

"We think that the right message is being sent now," District Attorney Ronnie Earle said after 27-year-old Joel Rene Valdez was indicted Tuesday on rape and burglary charges.

The charges carry a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Police said Valdez broke into the woman's home Sept. 16 and held a knife on her.

He admitted hiding in her home, but he said the fact that she offered him a condom proved she consented to sex.

The woman said she told the second grand jury she wanted protection from sexually transmitted diseases.

Sept. 30, a grand jury refused to indict Valdez, touching off protests from women's groups.

The district attorney said he was flabbergasted by the first grand jury's decision, and in a rare move, he announced he would submit the case to another panel.

Grand jury proceedings are secret under law, and prosecutors wouldn't discuss the reasons for the first panel's action. But Tuesday, Earle cited public speculation that the panel thought the woman's request indicated consent.

"The issue here is survival, staying alive. We think that whatever a woman has to do to survive this kind of encounter can't be used against her," Earle said.

Earle said the same facts and evidence were presented to the second grand jury. But this time, Valdez's accuser testified.

STUDENT SENATE

Bill may increase Athletic Fee

AMY WRIGHT
Collegian

Student Senate will introduce a bill tonight increasing the Athletic Fee to $17 a semester for full-time students and $8.50 for part-time students.

The fee is now $10 for full-time students and $5 for part-time students, per semester. The fee was last revised in 1989.

If approved by Senate, the generated revenue will allocate money to the K-State Marching Band, KSU Sports Club Council and baseball programs, none of which have received special funding from the athletic department in the past.

The bill would also bring football and basketball ticket prices down and provide free admission to non-revenue NCAA athletic events at K-State.

Although ticket prices will decrease, the football and basketball programs will make more money, said David Frese, arts and sciences senator.

"Although the percentage of fees decreases for football, the actual number of

See SENATE Page 10

CAMPAIGN '92

Candidates not letting up in final days

Clinton hints at wanting Perot in his administration if he wins presidency

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Clinton alternately poked and praised Ross Perot on Wednesday, hoping to siphon off support in a race for the White House that grows closer.

President Bush said he wants a second term so "every American that is hurting has a better opportunity."

Perot, in third place in the polls, mapped plans for a campaign-ending series of rallies to supplement the costliest TV advertising effort in American history.

He also sought help in ending a nasty feud with the Bush campaign.

"Six more days," Clinton said, and they are all likely to be long ones.

The sun was just coming up in Ohio as Bush wrapped up his morning jog, prelude to a long day of campaigning in that battleground state.

Clinton did his own roadwork in the pre-morning darkness in Texas, then had stops set in three Southern states before flying to Ohio deep into the night.

The latest surveys pointed to a tightening race, although they differed on how tight. A CNN-USA Today survey of likely voters showed Clinton at 40 percent, Bush at 38 percent and Perot at 16 percent.

With a margin of error of 3 percentage points, that adds up to a dead heat.

But ABC said its survey of likely voters had Clinton ahead 42 percent to 35 percent for Bush, and 20 percent for Perot.

Clinton's lead has shrunk in recent days, as Perot has gained in the polls and traditional Republicans have reconsidered their opposition to Bush. The Democratic candidate and his aides marshaled their resources to counter.

In an appearance on NBC's "Today" show, Clinton said Perot's recent claims, including one that Republican operatives planned to disrupt his daughter's wedding had "called his temperament into question in many quarters."

Asked his own opinion, Clinton replied: "The American people make their own judgments about temperament, character and trust. So, he can't prove what he said, and that bothers people."

But shortly after raising questions about Perot's temperament, Clinton told a call-in questioner that if he wins the White House, he would like to have Perot's advice "on the issues that he cares and knows about."

He referred specifically to prisoners of war missing in Southeast Asia, and steps to reduce the deficit and control government spending.

Later, Clinton told reporters, "I don't think he wants a position, but would I let him be involved? Yeah."

See CANDIDATES Page 10

NEWS DIGEST

CAMPUS CONCERTS NO BREACH OF PEACE

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A campus crooner had something to sing about Wednesday after a judge dismissed charges that his alfresco concerts were a breach of the peace.

Rick Starr, 46, was in Berkeley Municipal Court to face a charge of disturbing the peace.

Thomas Ventresco, administrator at the University of California at Berkeley, filed a complaint that Starr's on-campus serenades were striking a sour note.

Starr, who contended he was protected by the First Amendment, faced a possible sentence of 90 days or a $400 fine.

TOPEKA SCHOOLS STILL TOO SEGREGATED

DENVER (AP) — The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that two recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions in school desegregation cases do not affect its 1989 ruling that Topeka schools still are too segregated. In a 2-1 vote, the court remanded Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka to U.S. district court and ordered it to find a way to better integrate schools.

The review was ordered March 31 by the U.S. Supreme Court, which asked the appeals court to determine if rulings in two recent school desegregation cases would alter its opinion in the Topeka case.

PEOPLE

Gallery design takes first place

JULIE WHITE
Collegian

K-State interior design students won first and third place Oct. 17-18 at the Second Annual Student Design Charrette Competition at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

The competition was sponsored by the University of Missouri's environmental design department and Edison Menswear Group.

This is the second year K-State has won the competition.

Teams of four students were given the assignment of designing an art gallery.

K-State entered three teams in the competition. Twelve teams from five universities participated.

The competition was formatted as a charrette, which means limited time is allotted to develop a plan for a given problem.

Team members were given 12 hours to plan a design for an art gallery and prepare a presentation of their plans.

"I think the format was good in getting you to do things quickly," said Gretchen High, senior in interior design and captain of the winning team.

"I was perfectly fine until the last four hours. Then the stress hit."

Each group's project was presented and judged by a panel of jurors.

The projects were judged on originality, as well as on practical and aesthetic value.

The panel of judges was made up of one representative from each university participating in the competition.

Cash prizes of $1,000, $500 and $250 were given for first, second and third places, respectively.

The money will be divided among the winning team members.

"The students come back with a new appreciation of not only the education they're receiving here at Kansas State, but a new appreciation of our facilities," said Cynthia Mohr, assistant professor in clothing and textiles and interior design.

Mohr said one member of the winning team will be awarded a cooperative internship with Edison Menswear Group, one of the largest retailers of men's wear.

"This experience will help in being able to work with other people," High said.

"We definitely had to work together to get this project done."

"We definitely had to work together to get this project done."

GRETCHEN HIGH

CLARIFICATION

In Tuesday's Collegian, the front-page photo showed Michael Ayala being handcuffed by a Riley County Police officer after taking a Breathalyzer test. Ayala was detained on suspicion of DUI and then released. No charges were filed.

The Collegian regrets any misunderstanding.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Keadie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Keadie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28

At 2:50 a.m., Riley County Police Department requested assistance with several fraternities in the area shooting fireworks.

At 10:31 a.m., Motaz Al-Hourani, 1434 McCain Lane, No. 132, reported the loss or theft of the license plate from his scooter. Saturday, campus police had locked it to the back door of the International Student Center.

At 12 p.m., Jason Spalitto, 307 N. 16th St., No. 7, reported the loss of his student ID and wallet.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28

At 10:30 a.m., Shane L. Keyser, T-23 Jardine Terrace, was involved in a minor-damage, non-injury accident with a parked, unattended car owned by James M. Calvert, 1511 LeGore Lane.

At 10:50 p.m., Donald Hardwick, 2410 Justin Drive, reported the theft of a VCR, a 19-inch television, seven Nintendo games and a woman's engagement ring. Loss was $1,960.

At 11:18 a.m., Lillian Elsworth, 5524 Turkeyfoot Road, reported a major-damage accident involving her and a deer.

At 1:17 p.m., Jeffery L. Taggart, Route 1, Box 102, Wamego, received a notice to appear for driving on a suspended license.

At 2:10 p.m., Steve Bequette, 709 Canyon Drive, reported the theft of a 15-inch woofer from his vehicle. Loss was $40.

At 2:47 p.m., Kim Durfeldt, 3225 Oakshire Road, reported missing a gold chain and two pairs of diamond earrings. Loss was $930.

At 4:19 p.m., Gerald G. Hoesli, 423 E. 14th St., Concordia, reported the theft of a cooler and sunglasses from his vehicle. The driver's side window was damaged. Loss was $132.50.

At 4:34 p.m., Wendy Schmidt, 8921 University Park, reported a major-damage, non-injury hit-and-run accident.

CORRECTION

In Wednesday's Collegian, the times for the Haunted Forest were incorrectly reported. The correct times are 7:30 to 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 7:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Collegian regrets the error.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Cold, with a 70-percent chance of rain. High around 50. Tonight, a 70-percent chance of rain with a low in the upper 30s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Cold, with a 70-percent chance of rain. High in the lower 50s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Saturday, a chance for rain. Highs in the 50s. Lows in the 30s northwest to the low 40s east. Sunday and Monday, a chance for rain. Highs in the 40s northwest to the 50s east. Lows around 30 northwest to the low 40s southeast.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

■ Applications for cancer research awards are available in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.

■ The open University meeting will be at 3 p.m. Friday in Forum Hall to discuss the Role and Aspirations report.

■ Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani at 532-6448.

■ Applications for the Homeserve community service program are available in Eisenhower 014A.

■ Intramural volleyball schedules are available in the Recreational Services office in the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

■ Manhattan Parks and Recreation needs coaches for youth soccer, volleyball and football. Contact Mike Buchanan at 587-2757.

■ Applications are available in Eisenhower 014A for community service program international summer teams. Spanish is required.

■ The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Wilfred Singogo for Friday.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29

■ Sigma Delta Pi will meet at 7 p.m. in Eisenhower 016. Free Spanish tutoring.

■ KSU Table Tennis Club will meet from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. in the ECM building.

■ SAVE will meet at 7 p.m. at UFM.

■ Finance Club will meet about the London trip at 6:30 p.m. in Calvin 218.

■ American Institute of Chemical Engineers will meet at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

■ UPC Issues and Ideas Committee will meet at 2:30 p.m. in Union 207.

■ ICHUS will meet at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

■ ROTARACT will meet at 8:35 in McCain for pictures.

■ Women in Communications, Inc. will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 203 for an officers meeting.

■ Baptist Student Union Salt Company will meet at 7 p.m. in the campus Baptist Center.

■ "Mr. Putnam Hall" contest will be at 7:30 p.m. in the basement recreation room of Putnam.

■ Christian Science Organization will meet at 4:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel. All welcome.

■ Latin American Student Organization will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Stateroom 1 and 2.

■ Ebony Theatre Company will present "First Breeze of Summer" at 8 p.m. in the Purple Masque Theatre.

■ Horticulture Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Waters 244 to discuss intern programs.

■ Alpha Kappa Psi will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 207. Topic will be initiation.

■ Pre-Law Club members interested in attending the law school field trip, please bring $2 to the Arts and Sciences dean's office by Friday.

■ Latin American Student Organization will meet at 7 p.m. in Staterooms 1 and 2.

■ German Club will meet at 8 p.m. in McCain 324 to take yearbook pictures.

■ Campus Crusade for Christ will meet at 7 p.m. in Justin 109.

■ ASIA will meet at 6 p.m. in ECM building. Bring food for potluck dinner.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY	Nairobi	79/59	rain
Berlin	50/39	rain	Rome	66/57	cloudy
Helsinki	30/21	cloudy	Stockholm	30/25	sunny
London	52/41	clear	Vienna	54/46	clear

Levi's
550
RELAXED FIT

100% Prewashed Cotton denim jean. Full seat and thigh with legs taped to ankle. Five-pocket styling, zippered fly. Indigo or Black. 1st Quality. Made in USA.

PRICES STARTING AT:
$24⁹⁹

Indigo #40550-0215 Black #40550-0258

NEW FOR FALL!
LOW PRICES EVERYDAY!

MENS & LADIES SPORTO!
WATERPROOF & WEATHERPROOF! LARGE SELECTION!

SPORTO

New shipment! Large selection of sizes! Waterproof foot, stitched genuine leather quarters! Weatherproofed with Thermolite insulation to keep you warm. Plaid lining. 1st Quality.

PRICES STARTING AT:
$34⁸⁸

VANDERBILT'S

9-8 Mon-Sat
12-5 Sunday
456-9100

510 Lincoln Hwy 99
Wamego

Haunted House Book Sale
October 27 - 30, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

K-State Union First Floor Alcove
Across from the upper level of the Bookstore

Terrifying savings on a variety of books

K-State Union We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the Bookstore 532-6583 K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

Royal Purple

Varden Studio will visit the K-State Salina campus from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 29.

Group organizations and faculty photos will be taken from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Individual photos will be taken from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Make appointments in the Admission's Office or by calling (913) 826-2640.

KITE'S BAR AND GRILLE

GUEST D.J.s
$1.50 Wells

Party starts at 8:30
18 to enter; 21 to drink

619 N. 12th Street; Aggieville 537-2100

THE ENGLISH VERSION

Friday & Saturday night
Oct. 30 & 31 from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.

Romp & Stomp
to the sounds of Dave English &
"The English Versions"
$3 Cover, Call for reservations

Clyde's
537-8440
on Ft. Riley Blvd.
Across from the Holidome

CITY

Halloween offers chance for danger

But holiday hasn't been a recent problem for partiers, K-State police say

"The weather always affects it. With last year's weather, we really didn't even have Halloween."

STANLEY CONKWRIGHT

KIM MCNITT
Collegian

Halloween is generally known as a prime time for trouble. According to local police, though, the amount of problems may not be as bad as some people believe.

"Halloweens are kind of unusual. Some years, things go real well and other years, it seems like all the things everybody says to try to make it an enjoyable time tends to fall on deaf ears," Charles Beckom, chief of K-State Police, said.

"Halloween hasn't really been a bad evening on campus for the last four or five years," he said. "Generally, for those students in the University, activities are focused on costume parties and activities off-campus."

Stanley Conkwright, sergeant of the Riley County Police Department, said they do usually see an increase in partying by young adults, an increase in pranks and an increase in drinking and driving.

Beckom especially asks students having parties to consider offering non-alcoholic drinks and having designated drivers.

"Quite frankly, law enforcement officers in the county are getting very, very good at making DUI arrests," Beckom said.

Halloween falling on a Saturday this year could present more opportunities for problems, according to both officers.

"I think the opportunity exists whether Halloween is on Saturday or Sunday or Monday. In planning for it, we would expect more activity on the weekend than during the week," Beckom said.

He said there are several reasons for this. Younger children may stay out later on weekends, college students have more idle time, and there is more opportunity for people out-of-town to come into Manhattan.

"Halloween being on Saturday will probably bring about more partying because people don't have to worry about getting in early and going to school or work the next day," Conkwright said.

They said the weather affects the amount of Halloween activity, as well. Bad weather keeps people in and generally means fewer incidents.

"The weather always affects it. With last year's weather, we really didn't even have Halloween," Conkwright said.

Despite the added opportunity for incidents, he said there won't be additional patrolmen on duty Halloween night. Two shifts will overlap for several hours, though, as they do every night.

"Patrol-wise, we really can't add additional people," Beckom said.

Conkwright said there aren't usually a lot of problems on Halloween.

"Manhattan is a unique situation," Conkwright said. "This is a very responsible town for people to be able to enjoy Halloween."

REVIEW

Singer is new star on horizon

Parnell performs a near sold-out show at TW Longhorn's

JODY LYNN
Collegian

Intensity and soul made Lee Roy Parnell a hit Wednesday night at TW Longhorn's.

The singer-songwriter, best known for his bluesy sound and talent on the steel and slide guitars, showed why he is widely regarded as one of the new stars on the horizon.

"I've always tried to create a space for myself, no matter what the trend is. The people who have longevity in this business are the ones who find an audience," Parnell said.

"The great thing about country music is that it is broad enough to fit me and a guy like Alan Jackson into the same format. Right now, we're moving away from the 'hat acts,' but eventually the pendulum will swing back that way."

Parnell and his band came out rocking with "Ought to be a Law" and didn't let down till the last song was over. A moderate but enthusiastic crowd was on hand for the first show, but the second was just short of being sold out.

Songs featured during the set included "Crocodile Tears" from his first album. He also played a number of songs from his latest release, "Love Without Mercy," including the title track, "The Rock" and "What Kind Of Fool Do You Think I Am."

The artist took every opportunity to show how he could jam, adding long instrumentals to many of the tunes played.

Rio opened the show and exhibited versatility in performing a number of hits by artists like Randy Travis and Aaron Tippin.

The group proved why it's one of the top local country acts with a performance of "Hooked on an Eight Second Ride" that featured strong vocals and a driving instrumental.

Parnell's last tour stop was a taping for "Austin City Limits." He said he has been making a number of appearances on the Nashville Network's talk

Lee Roy Parnell sings to "The Rock" as couples slow dance around the floor at TW Longhorn's Wednesday night. At Parnell's two performances, he featured songs from both of his albums.

'Love Without Mercy' moves from traditional country

JODY LYNN
Collegian

Lee Roy Parnell's latest release "Love Without Mercy" follows country's migration away from its traditional roots into a realm that combines elements of pop and soul.

The album contains a variety of musical styles and fun lyrics, backed up by the range of Parnell's voice.

Themes of lost love and hard luck are the only hints of traditional country on the album.

It rocks and rolls along, gets the blues and has a bit of religious reflection as it makes its way through the ups and downs of life.

Ballads really shine on this album. "The Rock," the album's first release, "Done Deal," "Night After Night" and the album's title track show the depth of emotion Parnell can put into a song.

Texas blues artist Delbert McClinton joins Parnell on the semi-autobiographical "Road Scholar," a ride tracing the singer's musical roots.

"The roadhouse was my schoolhouse," he sings. "That's where I paid my dues/I got a master's in rhythm and a minor in soul/And a Ph.D. in the blues."

This and other cuts like "Roller Coaster" lend themselves to Parnell's sometimes scruffy sound that implies he has been down a long, hard road.

tion as it makes its way through the ups and downs of life.

Ballads really shine on this album. "The Rock," the album's first release, "Done Deal," "Night After Night" and the album's title track show the depth of emotion Parnell can put into a song.

Texas blues artist Delbert McClinton joins Parnell on the semi-autobiographical "Road Scholar," a ride tracing the singer's musical roots.

"The roadhouse was my schoolhouse," he sings. "That's where I paid my dues/I got a master's in rhythm and a minor in soul/And a Ph.D. in the blues."

This and other cuts like "Roller Coaster" lend themselves to Parnell's sometimes scruffy sound that implies he has been down a long, hard road.

"One of the dangers of being new in the business is that people don't associate your face or name with the song you're performing."

LEE ROY PARNELL

WE TAKE TIPS! 532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SAVE 50%
ON FILM DEVELOPING WHILE YOU SHOP!

One-Hour Service • In The Mall

Each Picture Is The Best
It Can Be Or We
Reprint It Free...Now!

Offer applies to regular one-hour prices. No limit on number of rolls discounted with this coupon. 4x6 color prints (print length varies with film size). Offer applies to first set of prints only. C41 in lab process. Cannot be combined with other film developing offers. Coupon good through Jan. 16, 1993.

CPI photo finish
one hour photo

One Hour Services
film developing
• enlargements
• reprints • double prints
Also Available
wallet photos • film
instant color
passport photos
video transfer
copies from prints
albums, frames
and accessories

Manhattan
Town Center
main entrance
by food court

Ph.D. Specials
25% OFF ALL HIGHLIGHTS

• Frost • Lacing • Tortoise Shell

PERMS

GALS
Quantum $28
Attractions $30
Warm & Gentle $43

HAIRCUTS

Gals $12.50—Guys $8.50
Kids 10 and under $6.50

Joyce's Hair Tamers 539-TAME

FOR YOUR GOOD HEALTH

REGULAR CLINIC HOURS

Mon. - Fri.
8 - 11:30 a.m.
1 - 4:30 p.m.

AFTER HOURS SERVICE

Mon. - Fri.
4:30 p.m. - Midnight
Sat. - Sun. & Holidays
8 a.m. - Midnight

FOR APPOINTMENT CALL

532-6544

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"We care about your health"

HUNAN EXPRESS
1116 Moro
537-0886

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
7 days a week

This coupon good for
Yu Shiang Beef $3.75

Dine-in & carryout
Not valid with any other specials,
coupons, or on deliveries.

FREE DELIVERY MENU
(Minimum order $9)
Expires 11/5/92

776-5577

1800 Claflin Rd.
FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

Coping With AIDS

Today, 2:30 p.m.
Union Forum Hall

Panel members:

Jack Markham, AIDS patient
Marcene Wachsnicht, Mother whose son died of AIDS
Chuck Breckenridge, Psychologist
Joan Smith, County Health Educator
Larry Moeller, Lafene Physician
Lindy Burke, Lafene Health Educator

Sponsored by KSU Communicable Disease Committee and Union UPC

MIDNIGHT MADNESS

with the

Saturday, Oct. 31, 9 p.m.
Bramlage Coliseum

Featuring:

- Larry "Bud" Melman - from Late Night With David Letterman*
- KSU Alumni vs. All Stars scrimmage
- Three point shoot out with President Jon Wefald and Athletic Director Milt Richards
- And much, much more!

ADMISSION COST $1

*Join Larry at Kite's Bar & Grill before activities

OPINION

OCTOBER 29, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Inquiry reveals Walsh's waste

THE ISSUE

Independent counsel Lawrence Walsh has been running a sloppy and illegal investigation of the Iran-Contra affair.

Congratulations to the congressional Republicans for auditing independent counsel Lawrence Walsh's Iran-contra investigation.

It was time to do so, despite the General Accounting Office's refusal to do so, and despite a federal mandate.

As it turns out, Walsh and his cohorts were using an independent tap on taxpayer's money to fund their investigation.

During the six-year inquiry into the arms-for-hostages affair, thousands of dollars in improper reimbursements were collected. What the money was used for is even worse.

Walsh received nearly $78,000 for improper charges on food and lodging. One of his part-time assistants received $5,000 over the limit he should have received by law. Another acquired $3,700 in unauthorized reallocation expenses.

Included in Walsh's fees were the $95-a-day charges for days he didn't stay in his Watergate Hotel suite, unauthorized first-class flights from Washington to his Oklahoma City home, and staff expenses well over the amount permitted by federal law.

What does all this mean? It means that $31 million has been spent on the Iran-contra investigation, and no major conviction has come across.

The big players continue to make the investigative commission look like a bunch of fools, and they are certainly acting like it.

And Walsh probably isn't the only bad apple. The GAO's inquiry has shown that the other eight independent counsels have maintained poor records of expenses and general lack of internal control. The counsels have used their mandate as a joyride ticket.

Granted, the authorizing legislation for these counsels ran out during the last session of Congress. But Iran-contra remains, and the public is still footing the bill.

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson
Editor in Chief
Jared Savage
Opinion Page Editor

Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson

Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thoman
Heather Anderson

John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

OTHER VIEWPOINTS

Election officials throughout the country are reporting mountains of returned voter registration forms and swells of requests for absentee ballots.

Years of creeping apathy have stifled political activity in our voting-age citizens, but the rush to register to vote in 1992 suggests the tide may be turning in favor of a representative democracy.

That is the good news.

The bad news is that these hundreds of thousands of newly registered voters haven't found any champion of the republic to claim their votes.

Though election officials report that most of the newly registered masses are signing on as Democrats, every poll in the country is reporting large pools of undecided voters.

We sympathize.

What we badly need today is a leader who will serve as a brightly burning beacon for a nation seeking peace and prosperity for all its citizens. What voters have to choose from, however, is an incumbent generating as much heat as a wet match, a Democratic challenger as fickle and faint as a candle-in-the-wind, and a hot-wired independent with a short fuse.

Pine Bluff (Ark.) Commercial

With all the ill will of voters toward Congress in light of the House bank scandal and resentment over perks, one would think they would at least try to clean up their acts in an election year. Not so.

House members continue to abuse their free mailing privileges. It cost taxpayers nearly $75 million for representatives to send mail to constituents during the two-year term, according to the National Taxpayer Union Foundation. The average was about $171,809 per member, or 1.16 million pieces.

And, in keeping with franking tradition, members spent $30.2 million this year (election year), up 40 percent over the first eight months of 1991.

The congressional frank continues to be one of the most abused privileges of Congress. Members of Congress do need to keep voters informed, but free mailings have become a re-election perk for incumbents who send out glowing reports and meaningless surveys.

It is clear the frank needs to be restricted. The foundation has proposed limits by member and full disclosure on mail sent by membership. It also suggests public inspection of franked mail and a ban on unsolicited franked mail 120 days prior to an election.

Those are reasonable limits.

The Clarion-Ledger, Jackson, Miss.

Here he was in his first foray into the real world since re-ginning up his campaign, and he lights up an exploding cigar. Can't prove his wild allegations. Won't abide questions. Sounds like he's ready to blow a gasket.

Beats us why Ross Perot waited until this late date to begin blazing away at his own foot.

If he truly wanted to offer a new direction for Americans turned off by politics-as-usual, if he thought his was the only hand strong enough to get a grip on the deficit, if he really was a stand-up guy, he shouldn't have quit over a few cheap and obvious dirty tricks.

Does Perot think—or do his followers think—that an attempted bugging or doctored photos of his daughter are the hottest it's likely to ever get in the White House kitchen?

The Philadelphia Enquirer, Philadelphia, Penn.

The erratic pulse of the Middle East peace talks which swings between enthusiasm and disappointment proves that they have in fact made no important progress. Israel only wants to withdraw its forces a few yards from the Golan Heights, but it wants to remain in it, or in the larger part of it.

In the final analysis, Israel's position is no more than a maneuver to waste time. It is changing words without changing substance and is using words to play with facts in a way that is misleading.

Without doubt, what is demanded is a complete Israeli withdrawal from Arab territories. That is not impossible. When there is complete withdrawal from the Golan and the occupied Arab territories in Gaza, the West Bank and south Lebanon, then we can talk about peace and stability in the region.

al-Ahram, Cairo, Egypt

READERS WRITE

► COUNTY CLERK

Experience at K-State validates McCulloh

Editor,

Since several thousand K-State students have registered to vote, and many of these students will be voting in Riley County, we believe it is important that the student body know a little bit about the candidates for County Commission.

One of these candidates, Karen McCulloh, deserves the support of K-State students. She has tirelessly served the K-State community over the years that we have known her.

McCulloh knows the problems students face when using Farrell Library and has worked hard to solve them. As a special assistant to the dean of libraries, she has been influential in the effort to expand Farrell Library.

While working on last year's library and recreation center student referendum, she exhibited the ability to work with many different people and build broad consensus.

We are confident Karen will use her ability on the commission to represent K-State students without sacrificing the interests of the Manhattan residents.

Ray Kowalczewski
Senior/Economics, political science and pre-law
Fred Wingert
Senior/Business administration

► KANSAS SENATE

Internship gives inside scoop on Lana Oleen

Editor,

This is a letter of endorsement for the re-election of Lana Oleen to her second term in the Kansas Senate. As a senior in political science at K-State, I am currently serving an internship with Sen. Oleen and have had the opportunity to gain an "insider's view" of an election campaign.

Quite fortunately, I've been assigned to participate and observe in a political process involving an honest, hard-working, sincere and intelligent woman who runs a positive campaign.

I am also a registered Democrat. Yet I will support Lana, as I must vote for the candidate I know is most qualified.

I have witnessed the concern Lana has for each of her constituents. Equally important, she knows how to get things done for them. I have full confidence in her ability and in her motivations. And upon reviewing her record in the Legislature, I see that her actions have been exemplary, and I am proud of our association.

Aside from giving Sen. Oleen your vote on Nov. 3, why not give her a call to thank her for the work she has done for all of us these past four years?

Susan Sanford
Senior/Political science

► AIDS

Disease needs to be treated with humanity

Editor,

Bravo to you, Janet Lynn Roach, for "being quiet" no longer, for displaying your humanity in a time when very few people in the news (including in this newspaper) and around us seem human.

Tim Aumiller
Senior/Theater

► PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Americans should be thankful for choice

Editor,

It seems like this presidential race is a very popular time to put politicians and the whole election process down. It's very easy to go with the "in" crowd and toss our hands in the air in disgust.

I hear people talking about the lack of character in Bill Clinton, the inadequacies of President Bush, and the indecisiveness of Ross Perot, and I am thankful that we at least have choices for the leadership of our nation. Some countries have no say in what happens to them and are reprimanded if they dare speak out against the ruling party.

I believe we should all remember this, and be thankful when going to cast our ballots.

Crystal Goering
Sophomore/Radio-television

► VOTING PREVIEW

Collegian left out a number of ballots

Editor,

As a student who is trying to make an informed vote next week,

I was extremely disappointed with the election preview edition of the Collegian last Thursday.

Upon calling the county election board, I learned that the ballot is two pages long. We get to vote on two constitutional amendments, the retaining of judges, the state school board, as well as state senator and representative.

Also included are U.S. senator and representative, president, vice president, county clerk and county commissioner. I would like to see the Collegian publish a sample ballot so that voters have the opportunity to make an informed decision.

Win Noren
Graduate student/Statistics

► CANDIDATES

Perot's history makes him best man for job

Editor,

While living in Colorado I have learned that our government was created for the people. Therefore, I did everything I could to tell them my views on life. I have written letters to many Congressmen, signed petitions and went to many community meetings. However, many politicians have sent me letters that don't express a clear opinion.

I feel that the Collegian needs to publish the facts about each candidate's history.

In Texas, Ross Perot was appointed to reform their education system. At the time their education was going downhill because children could be away from school for almost as long as they wanted to. Also, most public schools were more involved in sports than education. Perot tightened standards on their education system by increasing the number of days that a child had to be in class. He also made mandatory testing for some grade levels and reduced the size of the class in order for the children to learn better. Perot also made a fortune in his business because he invested in risky ideas. Most other companies just put their money into a low risk bank account.

Bill Clinton grew up in Arkansas, and as governor he reformed his education system with the same ideas Perot did. However, he did very little to help the environment because major industries didn't want to be put out of work. He also increased the sales tax in order to fund for education, increased many other taxes to build roads and did very little to help racism problems in the state.

On the other hand, George Bush has done little about domestic issues, except increase some taxes, make free trade agreements with Japan and Canada, and lower interest rates. In foreign affairs, Bush stopped Iraq from taking Kuwait, he invaded Panama and stopped the Cold War. However, he has also done very little to help the environment.

In order to get our economy moving, Bush plans to increase free trade. Clinton will create government agencies much like Roosevelt did during the depression. However, Perot can reduce our $4 trillion dollar debt to zero by 1998! Perot also plans to make our tax system easier to understand, plans to increase taxes in some areas, give tax credits to companies who invest in risky opportunities and plans to cut the government staff so that money won't be wasted. Bush and Clinton can only reduce our deficit to about $100 billion by 1998.

George Bush and Bill Clinton have been politicians for most of their lives. Politicians hardly ever have a clear opinion. After Andrew Jackson paid our national debt in 1835, politicians haven't figured out how to pay our $4 trillion debt. Politicians just argue about the other candidate's character. On the other hand, Ross Perot has been a marvelous manager of a huge business. He knows how to have people work together. Who should be President? That is the decision that shapes our future.

Daniel Tscheschke
Freshman/Architectural engineering

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Letters to the Editor- c/o Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

TOLES

LOU DOUGLAS LECTURE

Historian wants wars stopped

Howard Zinn, professor emeritus of history at Boston University, delivers his lecture on "A New Foreign Policy: Justice Without War" Wednesday night in McCain Auditorium.

Lecturer speaks on problems of U.S. foreign policy

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

The United States needs a new foreign policy that does not promote war, according to the historian who delivered the third Lou Douglas Lecture of the year Wednesday night.

But Americans must show they want it.

A change is possible because evidence, such as the requirement of the draft, shows that Americans are not naturally war-like, said Howard Zinn, professor emeritus of history at Boston University.

He spoke on "A New Foreign Policy: Justice Without War" in McCain Auditorium.

"As a historian, it puzzles me that people believe foreign policy began in 1917," Zinn said. "Was there no communism before 1917?"

He said America has started wars to gain land, rather than just agreeing on a price or having other countries hand it over.

"All of this was happening before there was a Soviet Union," Zinn said.

Problems are not always solved by going to war, he said, but it

■ See SPEAKER Page 9

REACH YOUR TARGET AUDIENCE

DISPLAY ADVERTISING 532-6560

Shape, Cut, Curl or Color...

We do it beautifully.

Call for an appointment today and let Kathy, Cheryl, Kris, Shawanna, or Gary give you the overall look you'd love.

We also offer

- $2 Tanning Sessions
- Sculptural Nails
- Manicures

HAIR DIMENSIONS

539-8920

717 N. 11th Nautilus Towers

Royal
Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106 to schedule an appointment for yearbook pictures.

Next in line...

Individual appointments can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30

Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

CAMPUS

Grant provides employment

Horticulture department supplies minimum-wage jobs for disabled adults

KIM MCNITT
Collegian

The horticulture department received a federal grant Oct. 8 to hire ten developmentally disabled adults from the Big Lakes Developmental Center Inc.

The center was formed in 1973 to provide rehabilitation for developmentally disabled individuals. The program covers Riley, Pottawatomie, Geary and Clay counties. Each county has its own center.

Richard Mattson, professor of horticulture, said this was the only grant allocated in the Midwest.

"The funding has allowed us to hire individuals who have gone through the rehabilitation training at Big Lakes and pay them minimum wage," Mattson said.

The grant is from the American Horticulture Therapy Association's Horticulture Hiring People With Disabilities Project. It is to be used for the Rural Horticulture Initiative-Projects With Industry.

Ten positions are available, and any client at Big Lakes may apply.

Applicants fill out job applications, go through interviews, complete personnel papers and get officially hired by the University. Some of the new employees will start work Nov. 2, but all ten will not start at the same time.

"They have been trained in the greenhouses and have the knowledge needed," Mattson said.

■ See DISABLED Page 9

Spooktacular Sale

October 27 - 30, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

K-State Union
First Floor Alcove
Across from the upper level of the Bookstore

50% OFF
of select Halloween items

$19 Sweatshirts $9 T-shirts

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

DIRECT DEPOSIT AT UNB:

IT'S A BETTER IDEA THAN EVER.

Count on UNB for fast, accurate direct deposit of your K-State paycheck. We're Manhattan's experts in electronic funds transfer. We're always working to make banking more convenient for you. There are so many good reasons to use direct deposit now.

- UNB will continue your direct deposit transactions without interruption — or start a new direct deposit account quickly and easily for you.
- More secure than taking your paycheck to the bank — guard against loss or theft ...
- More convenient — you don't have to make special arrangements to deposit your paycheck if you're busy or out of town.
- Budget planning is easier, because your direct deposit funds are available immediately at UNB.

Remember! Return your Direct Deposit form to KSU Personnel Dept.
For information, call 537-1234.

Union National Bank & Trust Co.

MAIN BANK: 8th & Poyntz • WEST BANK: Westloop Shopping Center

DRIVE-THROUGH BANK: 8th & Houston • PHONE 913-537-1234

ATM LOCATIONS: Kansas State Student Union, Main Bank,

Manhattan Town Center Mall & West Bank

Equal Opportunity Lender

K-State

Leadership Week
November 2-5, 1992

Monday

The Environmental Crisis:

Is it a matter of Economics or Politics?

Dennis Law, Dept. Head and Prof. of Landscape Architecture
10:30 am, Union Big 8 Room

The Leadership Paradox:

To be a good leader, you must be a good follower

Jim Slattery, U. S. Congressman
1:30 pm, Union Little Theatre

How To Prepare Yourself For Success:

Getting people to select you as their leader

Rich Mistler, Sr. Vice President of PAINEWEBBER
7:00 pm, Union Big 8 Room

Tuesday

Taking The Athletic View:

How to prepare yourself for success

Ron Paradis, WIBW News Sportscaster of the Year
11:05 am, Union Room 212

The 5th Discipline:

Systematic Thinking vs. Linear Thinking in Leadership

Dr. Larry Dixon, Asst. Superintendent of Geary Co. School District
3:30 pm, Union Room 212

Wednesday

Meeting the Challenge of Diversity

Dr. Mordean Taylor-Archer,

Asst. Provost Multicultural Affairs

10:30 am, Union Room 213

Ethics and Values in Decision Making

Fred Thibodeau,

President

KSU Alumni Foundation
1:30 pm, Union Room 213

New Leadership:

An Agenda for 21st Century Schools

Dr. Jan Wissman, Assoc. Dean,

College of Education
3:30 pm, Union Big 8 Room

Putting Leadership Skills to Work

Ray Dempsey,

Project Engineer for AMOCO

7:00 pm, Union Big 8 Room

Thursday

The Need For Passion In Leadership

Sam Brownback, J. D.

Kansas Secretary of Agriculture

11:05 am, Union Big 8 Room

Leadership Skills: For Now and in the Future

Dr. Kent Bradley,

Resident OBGYN, Wesley Hospital

2:30 pm, Union Big 8 Room

BLUE KEY

LEADING THE WAY

SPORTS

OCTOBER 29, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Spikers lose once again

J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian

Jill Dugan (left) and Suzanne Hagge hit the court after missing a dig during the second game of the Cats' three-game loss against the Missouri Tigers Wednesday.

"Our mistakes came at critical times."

PATTI HAGEMEYER

BRIAN ANDERSON

Collegian

The Missouri Lady Tigers stretched K-State's losing streak to 11 matches Wednesday night at Ahearn Field House in a three-game sweep.

Missouri, now 15-8 on the season and 4-5 in the Big Eight, won 15-9, 15-4 and 15-7. The Cats fell to 5-17 for the season and remains the lone winless team in the conference with eight losses.

"They have improved a lot from last year," Coach Patti Hagemeyer said of the Tigers, who went 10-22 last year and tied K-State for the cellar of the conference at 1-11.

"The seniors are providing the leadership and they have been successful this season."

K-State, on the other side, still has to deal with its inexperience.

"Our youngness is not an excuse — the freshmen will tell you that," Hagemeyer said. "They have performed very well. There are two or three plays that will take us out, and we can't fight back until it's too late."

Game one saw both teams trade leads early, tying the score four times. After the last tie at 9, Missouri shut out K-State and scored the next six points to take the first game 15-9.

"We felt we were in control of the first game," Hagemeyer said. "We had four mishandled balls. Our mistakes came at critical times."

The Cats had 10 errors and nine kills in the first set. The Tigers fared better than the Cats, as Mizzou had just eight errors but 18 kills.

K-State stayed close to Missouri early in the second game. A kill by Suzanne Hagge got the Cats within three points at 3-6.

Missouri halted the K-State attacks as the Tigers went on a 9-1 run to take a 2-0 game advantage.

Like the first game, both teams traded points in the beginning of game three. With the squads tied at 5, Missouri jumped on to a 7-2 run and took the game and match with a 15-7 victory.

"They give their heads up a lot better than we do," Hagemeyer said. "At the times we were outplaying them, they would calm themselves and fight back."

One of the problems: the Cats had all night was threatening Mizzou's defense.

"We didn't have any execution on offense," Hagemeyer said. "Our passing wasn't good tonight."

K-State had 32 kills for the match, but it almost evened out its offensive efforts with 29 errors during the three games.

One player Hagemeyer was pleased with was freshman Hagge.

"She has worked hard on her hitting technique," Hagemeyer said. "It's not like high school, where she had to hit hard. She's had to work on where to hit the ball."

During the first game, senior Kathy Saxton became the third Cat in the program's history to record 1,000 attacks in a single season.

The outside hitter needs 31 kills in the remaining seven matches to take over the single-season record for kills. The record is held by Donna Lee, who had 451 kills in 1985.

This year, it could be the Hawks in Orange

Who woulda thunk it?

K-State, struggling to keep its head above .500.

KU, undefeated in Big Eight play and No. 18 in the Associated Press poll.

Not I.

When the preseason rankings came out, the Jayhawks were tabbed the team to join Colorado, Nebraska and Oklahoma in the top half of the conference.

I was somewhat skeptical. In my estimation, K-State and Kansas would vie for that fourth position. I thought the K-State-KU game would be the deciding factor in either a meaningful season or being so-so.

Right now, K-State is the latter.

While the Wildcats are trying to right a sinking ship, Kansas is looking for additional energy to fire its engines.

After thumping the Sooners last week in Lawrence, KU won't admit it, but the Hawks have a legitimate shot to utter those two words — Orange Bowl.

Say it ain't so, Joe. But it is so.

Only one hurdle stands in the way of the boys down the river — a game in Lincoln.

What about Colorado?

Who's Colorado?

Reflect back to 1991 for a smidgen.

The Hawks hammered CU on its own field, in a driving blizzard, but folded in the end.

Not this year. KU will do to CU what it did to a fading Oklahoma.

Think about it. Oklahoma State doesn't stand a chance this weekend. Kansas, 7-1.

Then the biggy — Nebraska and KU on ESPN next Saturday. Look at the realm of possibilities.

Nebraska loses to Colorado in two days. There's one loss for the Huskers with KU and OU still lurking. If Colorado loses, Bill McCartney and his Buffs are staring at third place.

All for a team who figured to have the Big Eight's best defense.

I don't think, however, much question remains that KU has the potential to beat Nebraska. And if Colorado wins in Lincoln Saturday — oh, my.

All of this prognostication hinges on one factor — Chip Hilleary cannot get hurt. If he gets his head ripped off, the well is dusty dry. Sophomore Fredrick Thomas would have to step in to fill the void.

Who?

I hadn't heard of him either.

Another intangible KU has is the kicking game. If Kansas is in a barnburner with either Nebraska or CU, give the edge to the boys in blue.

Dan Eichloff's leg is so strong, only Gus the Mule could boot it farther.

I'm sure this pains you greatly, but I must prolong the agony for you die-hard "purples." It's Jan. 1, and the marquee in Miami says Kansas vs. Miami.

Wow!

After gorging yourself with food and refreshments all day, your New Year's football menu includes KU in the Orange Bowl. Not that hard to imagine, is it?

New Year's Day is barely two months away, and if the Jayhawks continue to roll, hello, Miami. Unconscionable.

Now for the ultimate question.

Would you root for KU Jan. 1?

As I see it, at least for the avid KU bashers, it would be the lesser of two evils if the Hurricanes were the opponent.

It may not be seem possible, or even fathomable, but it is. KU and the Orange Bowl in the same sentence. The picture won't be so fuzzy in two weeks.

MATT WALTERS

Snyder punts to No. 1 ranking

SCOTT ABEL

Collegian

The offense of the K-State football team may be struggling for Coach Bill Snyder, but his son is taking full advantage of the Wildcats' woes.

Senior punter Sean Snyder, who averaged 52.5 yards a punt last week against Colorado, now leads the nation with a 48.7-yard average.

Only six games into the season, Sean has kicked 11 punts that have landed inside the opponents' 20-yard line. That is one yard short of his season total last year. He has also kicked six punts longer than 60 yards, including a 64-yarder against Colorado.

"I love it," he said. "I've always loved hitting the ball well. I guess it's like throwing a 90-yard touchdown pass."

Sean began punting in his freshman year at Greenville High School in Texas after playing soccer for eight years.

SNYDER

"I kind of started kicking by accident," he said. "The team needed someone, so I picked up a ball, and I was a kicker."

His father left his job at North Texas State for an assistant coaching position at Iowa, where Sean followed to play for him.

"Iowa had come up from nothing, and they were getting a lot of recognition. I wanted to play under my dad, and that was the opportunity I had," he said.

But after Sean's freshman year, in which he was a redshirt, his father was offered the head coaching position at K-State.

"He talked to me about it and told me what was going on," Sean said of his father's opportunity. "I told him to take it and go with it. That's what he's always wanted to do, and he's worked hard for it."

"I was going to start next year, so I was going to stay at Iowa."

But after punting in only one game for the Hawkeyes, Sean lost his job to a freshman for the rest of the season and decided to transfer.

"I thought about other places," he said, "but K-State had just lost a field-goal kicker, and everything was working out in my favor coming here."

Last year, Sean was named Big Eight Defensive Newcomer of the Year and an honorable-mention all-Big Eight selection after finishing 27th in the nation with a 40.5 punting average.

While playing under his father has brought them closer together, Sean said, it isn't any easier on the field.

"Let me put it this way: If I have a real bad game, I'll hear about it for two weeks."

When Bill Snyder was coaching at Iowa, he said that his emotions rode on Sean's performance on a daily basis.

"I don't do that so much anymore," Coach Snyder said. "I think the thing that helps me is he's a very fine young man, and I have great confidence in him."

"If he hit them all behind him, I'd still love him dearly."

Sean Snyder, 23, is married and has two children. He and his wife, Wanda, are raising 3-year-old Katherine and William Tate, 10 months.

"It's been a long haul through college," he said. "But she (Wanda) has been there to back me up and help me out through things."

Sean is working on a business degree, but said that he would jump at the chance to play professionally.

"If they come knocking, I'll be there," Sean said. "That's everybody's dream, and there aren't that many guys that get a chance to do it. I'm going to give it 110 percent, if I ever get a shot."

SNYDER'S STATISTICS

OPPONENT	PUNTS	TOTAL YDS	AVG.	LONG
Montana	8	352	44.0	52
Temple	3	136	45.3	60
New Mexico St.	5	257	51.4	60
Kansas	9	409	45.4	56
Utah State	7	359	51.3	60
Colorado	12	630	52.5	64
TOTAL	44	2,143	48.7	64

Source: Staff reports

SPORTS DIGEST

► PIRATES' LEYLAND CHOSEN NL MANAGER OF THE YEAR

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Leyland, who guided the Pittsburgh Pirates to their third straight National League East title this season, was named NL Manager of the Year on Wednesday.

Leyland was voted first on 20 of 24 ballots and received 109 points overall to beat rookie manager Felipe Alou of the Montreal Expos.

Alou, who took over in May for Tom Runnels, was named on three first-place ballots and received 65 points. The other first-place vote went to Atlanta's Bobby Cox, who finished third with 29 points.

It was the second time in the three years Leyland has been named Manager of the Year in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The Pirates finished 96-66 and beat the Expos by nine games. It was a surprising success for Pittsburgh after losing outfielder Bobby Bonilla to free agency and trading pitcher John Smiley just before the start of season.

► FORMER WILDCAT HENSON CUT BY GOLDEN STATE

Former Wildcat Steve Henson was waived Tuesday by the Golden State Warriors. He was signed as a free agent earlier in the month.

Henson, whose brother Brian is a sophomore on the current Wildcat basketball roster, holds 21 K-State records. Some of his career records include most three-point field goals made (240), most three-point field goals attempted (537), most assists (582), most steals (190) and highest free throw percentage (.900).

Some of Henson's single-game records include most three-point field goals attempted (15) and most three-point field goals made (8).

Henson also has the Wildcat mark in some single-season records, including highest free-throw percentage (.925) and most three-point field goals made (93).

He once connected on 48 straight free throws. Henson played the two previous seasons with the Milwaukee Bucks.

KANSAS STATE ELECTION POLL

CONDUCTED BY THE
DEPARTMENT OF
POLITICAL SCIENCE

K-State's Department of Political Science conducted a poll to sample what students are thinking about this year's presidential election.

The poll was taken in the introductory political science classes on Monday and Tuesday. Associate Professor Orma Linford, political science, coordinated the poll. Questions were written by the political science faculty, and are similar to many polls being taken nation-wide.

The results, although not scientific, should present a good picture of political tendencies across campus. More than 700 students responded to the poll. Note that not all the students who were asked questions are political science majors.

Major:

Political Science	15.2%
Arts and Science	29.7
Business	28.7
Education	14.0
Other	12.4

Are you registered to vote in the upcoming presidential election?

Yes	82.4%
No	17.5

Do you usually think of yourself as a:

Democrat	27.1%
Republican	44.0
Independent	23.3
Other	5.6

Which one of the following statements comes closest to how you feel about the presidential candidate you would vote for?

I strongly favor him/her	33.2%
I support him/her with reservations	46.0
I am voting mainly against the other candidates	20.9

If the presidential election were held today and you were eligible to vote, would you vote for:

George Bush	34.5%
Ross Perot	25.7
Bill Clinton	37.0
Other	2.9

Governor Clinton has not told the American people the whole truth about his Vietnam War era activities.

Agree	34.5%
Disagree	26.9
No Opinion	28.4

Education

Very important to me personally	75.5%
Important to me personally	23.1
Not very important to me personally	1.4

Law and Order

Very important to me personally	42.5%
Important to me personally	51.2
Not very important to me personally	6.3

Health care

Very important to me personally	47.1%
Important to me personally	40.4
Not very important to me personally	12.5

Governor Clinton has misrepresented his accomplishments as governor of Arkansas

Agree	35.1%
Disagree	36.4
No Opinion	28.5

Governor Clinton does not take firm actions on many of the important issues facing our nation.

Agree	34.4%
Disagree	52.1
No Opinion	13.5

Governor Clinton's economic recovery plan will lead to tax increases for middle class Americans.

Agree	59.5%
Disagree	24.5
No Opinion	15.9

President Bush has given too much attention to foreign affairs and too little attention to the economy and domestic affairs.

Agree	70.0%
Disagree	23.6
No Opinion	6.4

Character

Very important to me personally	39.3%
Important to me personally	46.2
Not very important to me personally	14.4

President Bush has not told the American people the whole truth about his role in Iran Contra or Irangate.

Agree	63.2%
Disagree	17.7
No Opinion	19.2

President Bush's plan for economic recovery is the same one which has not worked in past and it will not work in the future.

Agree	52.2%
Disagree	32.1
No Opinion	15.4

President Bush has attacked Governor Clinton's character with charges based upon rumor, misinformation, and distortions of the facts.

Agree	41.1%
Disagree	40.2
No Opinion	18.7

Ross Perot lacks the experience required for being president.

Agree	49.5%
Disagree	39.1
No Opinion	11.4

Gender:

Female	45.4%
Male	54.5

Ross Perot's plan for reducing the budget deficit will only make matters worse.

Agree	18.8%
Disagree	51.3
No Opinion	29.9

Ross Perot is too temperamental to be president.

Agree	32.6%
Disagree	48.3
No Opinion	19.1

Jobs and the economy

Very important to me personally	74.2%
Important to me personally	23.6
Not very important to me personally	2.2

Which of the following best describes the impact of the presidential and vice-presidential debates upon your choice for president?

The debates reinforced the choice I had made prior to the debates	44.4%
The debates caused me to change my mind and vote for another candidate	13.8
The debates did not influence my choice in any way	18.8
I did not watch very much of any of the debates	23.0

Except with dealing with the budget deficit, Ross Perot has no concrete solutions to our nations other problems.

Agree	57.6%
Disagree	28.2
No Opinion	14.3

The federal budget deficit

Very important to me personally	40.5%
Important to me personally	42.2
Not very important to me personally	17.3

Abortion rights

Very important to me personally	42.7%
Important to me personally	27.8
Not very important to me personally	29.5

Foreign policy

Very important to me personally	24.4%
Important to me personally	49.9
Not very important to me personally	25.7

Family values

Very important to me personally	41.5%
Important to me personally	38.4
Not very important to me personally	20.1

ELECTRICAL AND COMPUTER ENGINEERING STUDENTS

EARLY ENROLLMENT FOR SPRING 1993

Check the bulletin board behind the EECE office (DU 261) for details of the Early Enrollment procedures. Early Enrollment will only be conducted:

SENIORS AND JUNIORS:	Nov. 2 and 5
ALL STUDENTS:	Nov. 11 and 16
EXTRA SESSION:	Nov. 20 and Dec. 4

Check the Early Enrollment information you received for details. Sign-up sheets are in the EECE office.

Enrollment permits will NOT be available in the EECE office.

LATE NIGHT GRILL

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

11:30 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Performing Live: Prairie Fire

Kickers

Saloon & Grille

2315 Tuttle
Creek Blvd

539-KICK

TONIGHT!

AND

TONIGHT!

PRESENT STUFF THE STADIUM & PACK THE PINTO (CAR) (COURTESY OF MANHATTAN WRECKER)

200 FREE KSU vs ISU Tickets

-Bring Your Group Down & See How Many People You Can Get In The Car!

At 12:30 a.m. IT'S A TOTAL CAR SMASH!

•200 FREE Miller Lite Prizes•

$1.25 Miller Lite Bottles

$2.75 Big Beers

25¢ Hamburgers 5-8pm • 50¢ OFF Imports

NO COVER-NEVER HAD IT, NEVER WILL!

NATION

More files on JFK to be released, FBI says

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — FBI Director William Sessions said Wednesday that only a small portion of the agency's voluminous files on the assassination of John F. Kennedy are still confidential.

Sessions said in a statement that the FBI will comply with a law President Bush signed Tuesday that requires disclosure of most of the material.

But FBI spokesman Bill Carter said the process for releasing the documents could be time consuming.

"It is essential that the American people be able to see ... the few remaining FBI records that have not been released to the public concerning this tragic event in American history," Sessions said.

He said he began planning the records' release in May, anticipating the new law.

The FBI director previously testified before Congress that the confidential material contains no big surprises.

FBI files relating to the assassination entail about 500,000 pages, and more than 220,000 of them were made public by 1978, Sessions said.

The latter figure "represents a great majority of the information contained in FBI files," he said.

Carter said there is no contradiction between the number of pages still confidential and Sessions' references to only a few documents remaining secret.

Most of the files yet to be released either duplicate documents that already are public or were produced by other federal agencies, Carter said.

He said it is impossible to estimate when the agency will release the material, because the task force studying the documents still must go through all of it to decide what should be made public.

The new law on the Kennedy files sets guidelines for Congress, executive branch agencies such as the CIA and FBI and government research centers such as the National Archives and presidential libraries to release classified material on the assassination.

The material ranges from top-secret intelligence reports to news clippings and tax returns.

The president is to appoint a five-member citizens commission to review documents officials want to keep secret. The commission would have the power to make the disputed materials public.

But in the case of executive branch documents, the president could overrule the commission and withhold documents by showing that grave harm would result from their release.

One exception written into the law is the file of photos and X-rays taken during the autopsy of Kennedy after he was killed Nov. 22, 1963. The material would remain confidential and access would be controlled by the Kennedy family.

REMINDER! PROTECT YOURSELF

Now is the time
to get your annual
FLU SHOT.

Available at
LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
Kansas State University

For Appointment
Call 532-6544

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Display Advertising
5 3 2 - 6 5 6 0

NEWS AND MORE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)

HUNAM Chinese
Restaurant & Lounge

1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-in Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon.
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.

Open 7 days a week

Student Travel
Experts

- Student airfares.
- International student airfares.
- Railpasses issued here.
- Internat'l identity cards.
- Worldwide adventure tours.
- Travel gear and guidebooks.
- Expert travel advice.

Council Travel
1634 Orrington Ave
Evanston, IL 60201
1-800-475-5070

Distinguished Lecturer Series College of Business Administration Presents

William T. Esrey

Chairman & Chief
Executive Officer of Sprint

Friday, Oct. 30
10:30 a.m.

Little Theater
K-State Union

Everyone Welcome

ERIKSEN SPORTS MEDICINE

.....CLINIC.....

- Evaluation, Diagnosis, Treatment
- Rehabilitation of sports related injuries and problems
- Determine Body Fat Percentages
- Heat Stress Information
- Information and advice on Fitness, Injury Prevention, Health Effects of Exercise

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER
KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
For Appointments
532-7880

Nobody Knows Like Domino's

Domino's Pizza Now Accepts
All Local Competitor's Coupons!
Must Mention Coupon When Ordering
Limited Time Offer

776-7788

517 N. 12th, Aggieville

Mon.-Thurs. 4 p.m.-12 a.m.
Friday 4 p.m.-2 a.m.
Saturday 12 p.m.-2 a.m.
Sunday 12 p.m.-12 a.m.

For life's emergencies great and small.

We've seen emergencies of every shape and size in people of every shape and size.

But we've rarely seen anyone whose emergency, big or small, couldn't be aided by our quick and capable emergency room staff.

And we've never seen anyone whose fear, anxiety, or plain old wounded pride couldn't be eased by a kind and compassionate word.

Superior care and genuine caring. To us, that's the great and the small of emergency services.

Physician on duty
24 hours a day

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

1105 Sunset P.O. Box 1208 • Manhattan, KS 66502 • 913-776-3300

WE'VE PUT A NEW SPIN ON INVESTING WITH TIAA-CREF

At TIAA-CREF, our goal has always been to make your retirement dollars go farther. Now, they can go as far as London, Frankfurt or Tokyo—or anywhere else in the world where financial opportunities seem promising—with our new CREF Global Equities Account.

THE CREF GLOBAL EQUITIES ACCOUNT EXPANDS THE HORIZON FOR RETIREMENT SAVINGS.

The CREF Global Equities Account is an actively-managed portfolio of both foreign and domestic stocks selected for diversity and growth potential. As part of a wide range of annuity and investment alternatives already offered by TIAA-CREF, it can increase your ability to create a more balanced, well-rounded retirement plan. While returns may vary over time, the CREF Global Equities Account is based on CREF's already-existing strength and the long-term approach to investing that has made TIAA-CREF America's preeminent pension organization.

WHEN IT COMES TO FOREIGN INVESTING, WE'RE ON FAMILIAR GROUND.

We've been speaking the language of foreign investing for nearly twenty years. That's when we pioneered investing pension funds on an international level. All those years of research, market analysis and cultivation of regional contacts have given us special insight into the risks and rewards of today's global marketplace.

DISCOVER MORE ABOUT OUR NEW GLOBAL EQUITIES ACCOUNT.

The CREF Global Equities Account is offered through your TIAA-CREF retirement annuities, subject to the provisions of your employer's retirement plan. It is automatically available for TIAA-CREF Supplemental Retirement Annuities (SRAs).

To find out more about the CREF Global Equities Account or TIAA-CREF's other annuity and investment alternatives, send for our free brochure. Or call 1 800-842-2776.

You'll find that at TIAA-CREF, our world revolves around helping you build a secure and rewarding future.

SEND FOR OUR FREE BOOKLET

The CREF Global Equities Account—A World of Opportunity and learn more about this exciting new CREF Account. Mail this coupon to: TIAA-CREF, Dept. QC, 730 Third Avenue, New York, NY 10017. Or call 1 800-842-2776.

Name (Please print) _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____ Zip Code _____
Institution (Full name) _____
Title _____ Daytime Phone () _____
TIAA-CREF Participant ☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ If yes, Social Security # _____

CREF certificates are distributed by TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services. For more complete information, including charges and expenses, call 1 800-842-2733, ext. 5509 for a prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

Speaker: No more war

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5
usually creates more problems for the countries involved.

"War just multiplies the cruelties you may have started out to stop," Zinn said.

Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton is proposing a foreign policy that is similar to the current one, he said, but it would decrease military force slightly.

Clinton does not want to make drastic military cuts. That can not be considered as a new policy, he said.

It appears Americans find it hard to believe their country behaves as other superpowers do, but Americans are not all Boy Scouts, Zinn said.

"We have become monstrous, when we are fighting against something monstrous," he said.

Americans went on a bombing run during World War II two weeks prior to the end of the war to bomb an coastal French town just because about 1,000 Germans were holed up there waiting for the war to end.

"War is always done with good reasons, but war is no solution to injustices," Zinn said.

Disabled adults benefit from horticulture grant

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

"We have upgraded. This is competitive employment."

The grant will provide enough money to hire the ten employees for approximately six months, Mattson said. At the end of that time, he said he hopes the individuals will have the experience necessary to be hired by other businesses, particularly in horticulture work or fast food service. The grant could be renewed.

"We are placing them in a work environment so that they can develop to their full potential," Mattson said. "Those are old clichés that everyone says, but you can see it in the greenhouse."

Each employee will work about two and one-half hours per day. They will be marketing foliage and poinsettias this winter.

"For the first time, we'll be able to employ people who can be involved with the marketing of the plants," Mattson said.

The employees will continue to be supervised by a Big Lakes employee, but horticulture students will also have the opportunity to work with the new employees.

Students in Introduction to Horticulture Therapy will be required to do observations of the workers as part of their class.

"We're real excited about the grant," said Ginger Cheever, Big Lakes Vice-President of Programs and Operations. "Anytime that we can place clients at minimum wage, we're excited."

Cheever said the clients enjoy working in the greenhouses.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Live Music with

Dave English Band

Sat--Oct 31

Dress up and party at Clyde's Halloween Bash

Prizes for:

Best Costume
Worst Costume

Best Couples
Most Original

Plus great music from the

"ENGLISH VERSION"

$3.00 Cover — Call for reservations

2304 Stagg Hill • 537-8440

KOREAN FILM FESTIVAL

The Age of Success

starring

An, Sungki and Lee, Hyeyoung

Oct. 31 from 8-10 p.m., Nov. 1 from 7-9 p.m.

The Spinning Wheel

starring

Shin, Ilyoung and Won, Mikyung

Nov. 4 and 8 from 7-9 p.m.

Surrogate Woman

starring

Kang, Suyeon

Nov. 14 and 15 from 7-9 p.m.

—Free—

Open to the public

Come to experience Korean entertainment and tradition.

K-State Union Little Theatre

Korean Student Association

Sponsored by International Coordinating Council

FINANCE CLUB LONDON TRIP

Informational Meeting
Thursday 6:30 p.m.
Calvin 218

All Majors Welcome

CAN YOU MANAGE ON AN EXTRA $2,500?

Practical experience for Business/Marketing Majors:
Manage credit card promotions on campus for a National Marketing Firm. Hours flexible.
Earn up to $2,500/term.
CALL 1-800-950-8472, Ext. 17.

25¢ DRAWS COSTUME CONTEST!

Cash Prizes
Halloween

Private Club Memberships Available

UPC FILMS

ALL FILMS $1.75 with KSU I.D. Bring a can of food and get a friend in for a $1

WHOOPI GOLDBERG SISTER ACT

Friday and Saturday 7 pm
and 9:30 pm
Forum Hall
Sunday 7 pm
Forum Hall

K-State Union
UPC Feature Films

PRIZES WILL BE AWARDED FOR THE BEST COSTUMES!

THE ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW

Friday and Saturday
Midnight
Union Ballroom

K-State Union
UPC Kaleidoscope and Feature Films

NAKED LUNCH

Exterminate all rational thought

Thursday
7 and 9:30 pm
Forum Hall
Friday 7 pm
Little Theatre

K-State Union
UPC Kaleidoscope

For more information, call the UPC Entertainment Line at 532-6570

Moonlite Madness!

Oct. 29, 10 a.m.-10 p.m.

25% OFF! Storewide

Women's Shoes
Standing Room Only
1222 Moro, Aggieville
776-5331

IT'S TIME TO TAN

HOT SAVINGS!

10 TANS
$27.50

(1 coupon per customer)
Expires 11-30-92

Southern Tropical
Sun Tan
776-8060 537-0744
519 N. 12th 1814 Claflin

Friendly, Hand Fed Cockatiels, Parakeets, Conures, and more!

PETS N' STUFF

1105 Waters • 539-9494 • M-F 9-8, Sat. 9-5:30, Sun. 12-5

ERROR

The Collegian erred yesterday in printing an advertisement for Tropical Tan and Southern Sun.

The ad should have read 10 tans for $27.50.

The Collegian apologizes for this error.

Below is the corrected coupon.

HOT SAVINGS!

10 TANS $27.50

(one coupon per person expires 11-30-92)

Southern Sun
519 N. 12th 776-8060

Tropical Tan
1814 Claflin 537-0744

Re-elect

BILL MUSICK

Republican for

State Board of Education

District #6

QUALIFICATIONS

- ✓ B.S. Southwestern College, M.S. Emporia Teachers College
Plus 70 HOURS additional graduate hours.
- ✓ 3 years U.S. Navy - Physical instructor and rehabilitation specialist.
- ✓ 9 years Biology teacher and coach.
- ✓ 32 years chief school administrator. (Last 23 in Minneapolis.)
- ✓ 2 terms State Board of Education.
Has served as vice-chairman, chairman, legislative coordinator and assistant legislative coordinator.
- ✓ Member Interstate Migrant Education Council, former director in Kansas Association of School Administrators and Kansas State High School Activities Assoc., Local, County and National Education Association Chapters, former member Kansas Public Broadcasting Commission, Governor's Advisory Commission on Education, Governor's Commission on Educational Governance and Kansas Council of Employment and Training.
- ✓ Active in the Community, Chamber of Commerce and Chrch.
- ✓ He and his wife Marian have two daughters, Kala and Marcia, and a son, Willis.
- ✓ Has been a leader in establishing two-way interactive television in the schools, The Quality Education Accreditation and worked with State Legislators and the Governor for passage of legislation that insures quality performance by students and LOWER PROPERTY TAXES.

EXTRA

NEWS

TODAY

TOMORROW

Get involved with the Collegian.

The Collegian is seeking students who are reliable, show initiative, possess good writing skills, have some media experience and display enthusiasm.

If this description fits you, you're eligible to apply for a Spring 1993 staff position. Applications and job descriptions for Collegian positions are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

Positions:

- Editor-in-chief
 - Advertising manager
- (Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m.
Wednesday, Nov. 4. Interviews will be Nov. 11.)

- Desk editors
 - Advertising representatives
 - Graphic artists
 - Columnists
 - Staff writers
 - Photographers
 - Copy editors
 - And more
- (Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m.
Friday, Nov. 13.)

This is a great opportunity to get involved on campus while having fun, building a resume and working on the sixth largest morning daily in Kansas.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 532-6555

AIDS patient, workers discuss coping with it

"You don't measure in terms of outliving the disease. Winning is saying to yourself, 'Go on'."

JACK MARKHAM

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

He worried about money and his family. He was afraid that someone would hurt him or us because he had AIDS," Wachsicht said.

Her son, David, returned to live with his family in Kansas in January 1988 after being diagnosed with AIDS in San Francisco, where he was suffering from pneumonia and depression.

Markham also talked about physical changes in a AIDS patient.

"I am experiencing the slow deterioration of my physical abilities," Markham said.

"The legs are the first to lose muscle tone and strength. I never thought I'd be 34 and having to rest as I walk up stairs."

Markham said he does have days he'd rather stay in bed.

"But you don't measure winning in terms of outliving the disease. Winning is saying to yourself, 'Go on.' You count days and months instead of years and decades."

Markham said the worst thing people with AIDS can do is to give up.

"We can live productive, meaningful lives," he said. "I have dedicated myself to helping others, so others depend on me."

The relationship between a doctor and an HIV patient is often long-term, said Dr. Larry Moeller, director of Lafene Health Center.

The time could last from diagnosis to when the patient begins "the end process," Moeller said. This period can last from eight to 10 years or longer.

"We must build a trusting relationship between doctors and patients," he said. "Confidentiality is critical."

Cindy Burke, Lafene director of health education, said her attitude toward AIDS has changed dramatically in recent years.

"I think that the attitudes of most people have changed," she said. "But they still need more information."

Burke said it is difficult to convince young, healthy students that they can contract the disease.

"It is tough," she said. "And yet we have had faculty and staff die of AIDS. There have been students here that test positive."

When asked what a family can do to prepare for an HIV-positive relative, Markham said, "I can say anything, and it won't prepare you."

"It's not like a car wreck, where it happens and is over and you get better. AIDS is a long, drawn-out process."

Each panelist encouraged families with members who have AIDS to seek family counseling.

Smith said counseling is available by contacting the Geary County Health Department or other health organizations.

Moeller encouraged one audience member to go on the offensive and talk to a HIV-positive family member.

"She is probably dying with the desire to talk to you," Moeller said.

Fallon said the most important point is for people to remain compassionate and caring.

"The key is people like Marcine and Jack. They are people who have the courage to put a personal face on this disease," Moeller said.

Candidates jockey for position

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Clinton's campaign supplemented his comments by announcing that 122 former Perot supporters, including nine previous statewide coordinators, were endorsing the Democratic ticket.

"A vote for Ross Perot could let George Bush and Dan Quayle in through the back door for four more years," they said in an "open letter" to Perot supporters circulated by the Clinton campaign.

The underdog's role fell to Bush, and he played it vigorously.

He criticized what he said was overly negative media coverage about the economy, assailed the "voices of doom and gloom" who predict his demise, and said, "Believe me, we are going to win this election."

Most independent analyses give Clinton a commanding edge in the Electoral College.

But Mary Matalin, Bush's political director, told reporters traveling with the president: "We're ahead in 15 states with 140 electoral votes" out of 270 needed for victory.

Asked to name them, she replied: "I don't have my list with me."

Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle said over and over the nation was no longer in a recession and is poised for a strong recovery.

Pointing to news of 2.7-percent economic growth in the July-September quarter, the president said: "Now we've got to keep it growing so every American who is hurting has a better opportunity."

Clinton countered, "You can't evaluate anyone on one three-month performance. Trickle-down economics is the issue."

Federal campaign reports showed Perot dropping $1 million a day on his independent bid over the past 10 days.

He also enlisted Senate Republican leader Bob Dole to repair any damage resulting from his allegations of earlier in the week.

After talking with Perot Tuesday, Dole decided to talk to both camps about better communication and "tone their rhetoric down," said Dole's spokesman, Walt Riker.

Perot arranged an appearance Wednesday night in Colorado, where a poll showed him challenging Bush for second place.

Aides said he would campaign in Florida, Missouri, California and Texas before Election Day.

Senate to hear bill on fee hike dollars the program gets increases," Frese said. "For basketball, both the percentage and the actual number of dollars will increase."

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"If you do the math for their selling points of ticket prices, it looks to me like students are actually losing money," he said.

As a part of the bill, the athletic department pledges to match the fee enhancement through fund-raising efforts with the KSU Foundation.

According to the bill, if the amount is not matched by the 1994-95 school year, the fee increase will be discontinued.

Senate will debate the bill next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the K-State Union Flint Hills Room. Senate will not meet on Thursday, Nov. 5, because of the ESPN broadcast of the K-State vs. Iowa State football game.

In other business, Senate will hear first readings of a resolution to approve the University Disabilities Curriculum Review Board and a bill to revise Senate standing rules giving speaking privileges to members such as K-State-Salina representatives.

ESSENTIALS

'Still Waiting' is looking for 'The Nice Guy'

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

DEAR CASSANDRA,

This is to "The Nice Guy" and "I Never Knew Lonely Until Now," who wondered where all the nice girls are. My only question is: Where have you been?

I consider myself to be a "nice" girl and am searching for that special someone to settle down with. Unfortunately, I don't like the bar scene and can't stand the "meat market" mentality of most guys at the clubs.

Not all of us want to date around. I would also prefer quiet evenings spent sharing "candlelit dinners and moonlit dances," but how do you meet someone who isn't interested in getting drunk and partying until dawn?

So guys, if you find out how to meet the person of your dreams, PLEASE let me know!

The thought of spending another evening fighting the crowds in a noisy bar is nauseating!

P.S.: I think a singles club is a good idea. Why don't you start one? I would be the first to sign up!

Signed,
Still Waiting

DEAR STILL WAITING,

Maybe there truly is a need for an alternative kind of "singles" scene. I would be interested in hearing from other readers on the subject.

In the meantime, don't just sit and wait. Get out and be active in the many activities the University and other community organizations have to offer. The "waiting" goes by a lot faster that way, and who knows — while you are "waiting," you just might bump into "the person of your dreams."

P.S.: Is there any way I can help get you two together?

DEAR CASSANDRA,

I would like to thank D.W. (Oct. 20) for something. His letter has shown me that personal and family honor is dead in this world. As I read his letter, it saddened me that a young lady had to endure disgrace because of his lack of honor.

Therefore, I must offer my apologies to all ladies who have had this happen to them. I believe that the lack of honor has cheapened the relationship between men and women.

I feel betrayed by things like D.W. A lady is more than just a sexual toy; that job is performed by prostitutes. She is entitled to be treated with respect and dignity. I now know that I am out of place in this world, a relic from the past when honor still was respected.

I find this hard to handle sometimes when I sit alone and watch the world fall into disgrace. I thank you for your time, Cassandra. Take care and have a good life.

Liconus, K-State senior

DEAR LICONUS,

I would not slit my throat yet. Decent men are still in the majority. I think, so don't let one jerk's attitude get you down. Make up for D.W.'s actions by treating your next date like a princess. She won't know why you are doing it, but she'll purr like a kitten just the same.

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

ACROSS	1 Early Steve McQueen movie, with "The"	5 Punch 8 FDR's mother	12 Easy stride	13 "When the moon hits your eye"	14 At the summit	15 Hebrew month	16 Legal thing	17 Lyricist's inspiration	18 Toe the line	20 In disgrace	22 Comedian Conway	23 Parisian friend	24 Drill	27 Made a list	32 Anger	33 Tune	34 Peron or Le
DOWN	35 One who protects	38 Concoct	39 Actor Wallach	40 — Khan	42 Units of weight	45 Announcement	49 Actor William of "The Big Chill"	50 Astaire's "Top —"	52 Corrida attraction	53 Opposed to	54 Scull	55 Harrow's rival	56 Treads softly	57 Askew	58 Knocks	19 Henry — last of the Lancasters	21 Inept actor	24 Order	25 Crude metal	26 Alluded	28 — a Yellow Ribbon...	29 Conduct of a wandering knight	30 Actress Arden	31 Margery of rhyme	36 Delights	37 — picker (fussy one)	38 Cake-to-be

Solution time: 23 mins.

ACHE	MIT	CHAD
MOON	ADO	HATE
POPINJAY	IVOR
SLIGO	SOLENN
MRED	PIA
CODA	VASE	SUP
IRA	BORON	ARI
DRY	REEL	SYNC
BSA	DEAL
CRYPTS	SEALS
AIDA	ONTHEWAY
SCAR	FUN	VENN
SKYE	ANT	EDGE

Yesterday's answer 10-29

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873/199¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

10-29 CRYPTOQUIP

FDMY DY FQCR FGQNW:

"UWRJBERNGWNF CQN

UDYJBERNGWNF." Yesterday's Cryptquip: WHEN THE HEM OF THE SCOTSMAN'S TARTAN FELL, WAS HIS SKIRT OUT OF KILTER?

Today's Cryptquip clue: F equals S

We Take Tips 532-6556 KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word

2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word

3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word

4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word

5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981. You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

ATTENTION READERS!! KSU Campus Telephone Books available now. Purchase in Kedzie 103, Students; $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us. K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

ENGLISH AS A Second Language Class. UFM is offering an English class designed to give a working knowledge of English both spoken and written. Class begins Nov. 3. To register or for more information contact UFM, 539-8763.

WE ARE open during lunch. HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND, COSMETIC bag, around Shellenberger Hall. Please call to identify. 532-6745.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

JAMES - HAPPY 21st B-day! Tonight is your night to celebrate but don't come home with blue lips because Saturday will be the BIG PARTY! Love - Your Roomies

WHITE PALACE: Looking forward to the big bash. Sorry but Mike Tyson won't be able to make it. Don King.

KIM M. - TO our bouncing and behaving blonde. Your fine fortitude works well at the front.

050 Parties-n-More

HOT - TUB rentals for all occasions: Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/delivery, special weekday/multiday rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

GET THE WORD OUT.
532-6555

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

APARTMENT FOR RENT: two-bedroom, furnished, all utilities paid. Recently remodeled, seven blocks to campus. Quiet. No pets. $380/month. 776-0224 or 539-3680.

AVAILABLE - $480 per month, two-bedrooms. Trash and water paid. Four minutes walk to campus. 776-7634/539-5781 after 5p.m.

AVAILABLE DEC. 20, 1992. Sublease a large one-bedroom furnished apartment. One block south of campus and Aggieville. Rent negotiable. Call 537-8469.

AVAILABLE, ONE-BEDROOM basement apartment, one block east of campus. Quiet, water and trash paid. $250. Use of washer/dryer. 776-1205 Susan.

FURNISHED ONE-BEDROOM apartment, one block east of campus. Heat, water, trash paid. $300/month. Available Nov. 1. Call 537-4947 after 6p.m.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR rent available Jan. 1, studio apartment, close to campus, lots of room, $260 a month (including utilities) 811 Fremont Apt #1. 539-7071.

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

ATTIC STUDIO apartment, three blocks from campus, pets negotiable. Call for more information 537-5144.

AVAILABLE NOW. One-bedroom. $325 plus deposit. Shuttle to campus. 537-3683.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

FURNISHED or unfurnished one or two-bedrooms. Campus one mile. Short term lease available. Reduced rents. No pets. 537-8399.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan. - Aug. 539-2019.

TWO-BEDROOM UP-STAIRS duplex, beautiful architects house. Fireplace, central air, carport, $550 per month, plus utilities, 537-8440.

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS in town home. All appliances partially furnished. Now or next semester. Lease through July. Call 539-6684.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED or unfurnished, good, clean condition. Quiet surroundings. Campus one mile. Short term lease available. Reduced rents. No pets. 537-8399.

145 Roommate Wanted

APARTMENT LOCATED two blocks from campus. Two roommates needed Nov. 1. Off street parking. Apartment is two years old. 776-7240.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN want woman to share house in Manhattan. Own room $175, plus one-third utilities. Available now. 537-1479.

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in large two-bedroom apartment, tri-level apartment, $180 plus deposit. Fun roommates! 1825 College Heights. Call 539-6539

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coincided laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

FEMALE WANTED to share two-bedroom house. Washer/dryer own bedroom. Must like dogs. Rent $212.50. Carol 776-1861.

MALE/ FEMALE own bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $212 per month, plus one-half utilities at Park Place 587-0562.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted. Private room, laundry, off-street parking. Available Nov. 1. 537-3679, 238-6297.

TWO MALE roommates wanted. One-half block from campus. $155/month, plus utilities. After 6p.m. 776-7794.

SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

210 Resume/Typing

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/ Speech for papers/

You'll never know unless you try...advertising.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 532-6555

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers.
Open 7 days a week
Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon
Candlewood Shopping Center

TNT at Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Every Thursday
99¢ Margaritas, 50¢ Draws
59¢ Tacos - Candlewood Shop. Ctr.

225 Pregnancy Testing

Pregnancy Testing Center
539-3338
•Free pregnancy testing
•Totally confidential service
•Same day results
•Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

240 Musicians/DJs

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band. Reading a plus. Immediate start. 539-2868.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0685.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.-5p.m. Monday through Friday.

255 Other Services

STUDY ABROAD in Australia. Information on semester, year, graduate, summer and internship programs in Australia. We represent 28 Australian Universities. Call us toll free (800)245-2575.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

300 Employment/Careers

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any

Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Delicious soups, salads, deli sands, desserts and appetizers.
Open 7 days a week
Mon.-Sat. at 11 a.m., Sun. at noon
Candlewood Shopping Center

TNT at Bobby T's Bar & Deli
Every Thursday
99¢ Margaritas, 50¢ Draws
59¢ Tacos - Candlewood Shop. Ctr.

Tips for Writing a Classified Ad
Always put what item or service you are advertising first. This helps potential buyers find what they are looking for. Don't use abbreviations. Many buyers are confused by abbreviations. Consider including the price. This tells buyers if they are looking at something in their price range.

such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ACCOUNTING ASSISTANT. Established Manhattan research and consulting firm has a full-time, temporary position available for an accounting assistant. This entry level position requires two years college training in accounting or similar work-related experience. Duties include accounts payable preparation and payment. Requires a familiarity with microcomputers. Good salary and benefits. Send letter and resume to Director of Human Resources, DPRA Incorporated, P.O. Box 727, Manhattan, Kansas 66502. DPRA Inc. Equal Opportunity Employer.

ASSISTANT TEACHER for nationally accredited early childhood program. 11a.m.-5:30p.m. Monday-Friday. Must have high school diploma or equivalent. Please apply in person to: Marsha Tannehill at Seven Dolores Childcare 220 S. Juliette by Nov. 3, 1992.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November - painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring - Earn $2000 plus/ month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206)634-0468 ext. C5768.

FARM WANTS responsible person with some experience operating PTO/ grinder mixer. And with time available, mornings preferred. 1-457-3440 before 8a.m.

HOUSEKEEPER NEEDED. Mon.-Wed., Fri. 8a.m.-noon. Desires responsible efficient non-smoker, able to provide references. 537-8652.

NEED AN experienced cocktail waitress, must be at least 21 years of age. Call Bleachers Sports Bar 537-1484.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave., Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

PART-TIME MASSAGE Therapist. 10 to 15 hours per week. $7 per hour. Will train. 776-0022.

PART-TIME OFFICE Assistant. Needed 20 hours per week to perform office oriented work. Accounting experience required. Computer experience a plus. Please submit resume to 701 North 11th in Manhattan.

PART-TIME STUDENT employment. KSU Alumni Records needs student to locate alumni by telephone. Excellent verbal communication skills required. Position starts after Nov. 1. Work study student preferred, will work 20-25 hours per week with some evenings required. Apply in person KSU-Alumni Records, 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 400.

STUDENT OFFICE help. Need responsible, hard working student. Computer experience essential. A pleasant phone manner and ability to work with public desired. Prefer work study student who can work 12-15 hours/week. Evening hours possible. Please $5.25/hour. Please contact the Kansas State Family Center at 532-5869.

WANTED: BASS Player for local working Country Band. call Mike 776-7011.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

EARN CASH stuffing envelopes at home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box

6643 Springfield, MO 65801.

MAKE $1000'S stuffing envelopes. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to J.C. Inc., P.O. Box 864, Manhattan, KS 66502-0008.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed. brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-(800)874-7697.

STUDENTS OR organizations. Promote our Florida Spring Break packages. Earn money and free trips. Organize small or large groups. Call campus marketing. 1-800-423-5264

9643 Springfield, MO 65801.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed. brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-(800)874-7697.

STUDENTS OR organizations. Promote our Florida Spring Break packages. Earn money and free trips. Organize small or large groups. Call campus marketing. 1-800-423-5264

420 Garage/Yard Sales

GHOUISHLY GOOD Bargains. Yard Sale Saturday and Sunday. 402 Shelle, 539-0464.

435 Computers

2400BPS. IBM compatible Modem with software, book will install $75. Men's Schwinn 10-speed $75, 776-3249.

APPLE II GS. 40 MB hard drive, two MB RAM, ImageWriter II (color), modem with FAX, Appleworks GS. Plus extra cards and software. 537-1663 and leave message.

440 Food Specials

GRASS FED lambs for sale. No implants, no chemicals. Call 537-7152, evenings or 537-8077 to leave a message.

445 Music Instruments

GUITAR LESSONS: You no longer have to go to the cross roads to play. Rick's Music Shop, 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 539-5900.

450 Pets and Supplies

DWARF RABBIT: friendly and loving bunny needs a new home. Am moving and can't take her with me. $30 or best offer, cage included. Call 532-2224, leave message.

THREE FOOT Ball Python with 29 gallon tank/ accessories $175. Female Chinchilla with cage, accessories $60, 539-3563.

USED CASH register for sale. $50. Standing Room Only. 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

Aggie's New To You Second-Hand Store
537-8803
1124B Moro
Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

420 Garage/Yard Sales

GHOUISHLY GOOD Bargains. Yard Sale Saturday and Sunday. 402 Shelle, 539-0464.

435 Computers

2400BPS. IBM compatible Modem with software, book will install $75. Men's Schwinn 10-speed $75, 776-3249.

APPLE II GS. 40 MB hard drive, two MB RAM, ImageWriter II (color), modem with FAX, Appleworks GS. Plus extra cards and software. 537-1663 and leave message.

440 Food Specials

GRASS FED lambs for sale. No implants, no chemicals. Call 537-7152, evenings or 537-8077 to leave a message.

445 Music Instruments

GUITAR LESSONS: You no longer have to go to the cross roads to play. Rick's Music Shop, 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 539-5900.

450 Pets and Supplies

DWARF RABBIT: friendly and loving bunny needs a new home. Am moving and can't take her with me. $30 or best offer, cage included. Call 532-2224, leave message.

THREE FOOT Ball Python with 29 gallon tank/ accessories $175. Female Chinchilla with cage, accessories $60, 539-3563.

USED CASH register for sale. $50. Standing Room Only. 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

Aggie's New To You Second-Hand Store
537-8803
1124B Moro
Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

460 Stereo Equipment

TWO 100 watt Fisher speaker for sale. Model ST-830. $240 or best offer. Call 776-0297 evenings.

GET THE WORD OUT.
532-6555

TRANSPORTATION

510 Automobiles

1980 HONDA Accord five-speed, three-door, air condition, cassette and sunroof, runs great. $550 or best offer. Call 537-3917 or 1-492-8293.

1980 MUSTANG. sun roof, body excellent condition. Runs good. $400 or best offer. 537-8499.

1984 DODGE Daytona Turbo. $1300 or best offer. Must sell! Fully loaded and runs well. Call 539-1315.

1986 FORD Tempo. Two doors, auto transmission, air condition, tape player, must sell, call Clement at 537-9852 after 5p.m.

520 Bicycles

1991 TREK 970 mountain bike with suspension fork/accessories. $795. 1991 Trek 2100 road bike $745, 539-3563.

56 CM Raleigh road bike, race ready! Comes with avocet computer. Must sell! Call 776-6866 10a.m.-10p.m.

FOR SALE: Huff Bike, ten-speed: very good condition

Royal Purple

*Behind the scenes of the Royal Purple,
you'll find 13 dedicated students who are working to record your memories.*

"With the growing popularity of Kansas State Athletics, I want to make sure all the teams get the coverage they deserve, and that students get to know the person behind the number and the uniform."

*— Jenni Stiverson, Sports Editor
Sophomore in business
Maize, Kansas*

Order your 1992-93 Royal Purple in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union). Total price is $21 - which includes yearbook and sitting fee. Call 532-6106 to schedule a photo time. Pictures are being taken in Union 209.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCH/ANS/Collegian

h, 7, Thursday night.

types
p."
from
s. She is the n in a
with about rnout.

O this

ople."

bring mpus

lidn't

of K-

ed to

"I knew they'd have a good time, and there are all different types of games and things for kids to do."

LORINDA SULTZER

serials

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda Alder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell library, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

CLEARs HISS

— Alger Hiss, one of the communist fervor at the start of Thursday he was grateful to reclaim vindication after 44 drama of 1948, Hiss was led spy by an admitted Whittaker Chambers. Hiss, 87-year-old Hiss in which Russian Gen. Zolotarev of Russian military declared that Hiss never joined and nothing in the members was a spy conduit.

SILO

THE MAGAZINE

October

Volume 1, No. 6

Produced by the staff of the Kansas State COLLEGIAN

Satan and Stull

A church outside of Stull is rumored to be haunted. But don't try a road trip on Halloween.

Pages 6 and 7

Brother Jeb Bolan

This local entertainer's folk 'n' roll style invites listeners to join him in a "campfire experience."

Page 3

National Endowment for the Arts

Though a 1990 Supreme Court decision has caused some controversy, NEA money continues to support Manhattan and K-State art.

Page 5

Ebony Theatre, Waverly Consort to perform on campus.

Pages 10 and 11

The church outside Stull, Kan., stands near the cemetery which is the focus of the legends and myths surrounding this little town. See story on Pages 6 and 7.

Photo by J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day
To Drop
A Class

Today is the last day to drop with
"W." You can drop a class in
Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce
didn't know of sales
to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA
knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies
that bought U.S. technology
legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce
Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency,
knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCHMANS/Collegian

on 7, Thursday night.

types
p.
from
s. She is the
in a
with about rout.
O this
ople."

bring mpus liden't of K-ed to

serials

Because the subscriptions
are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving
in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda
Blder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said
research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell
library, which in 1990, was

■ See LIBRARY Page 10B

L CLEARS HISS

— Alger Hiss, one of the communists fervor at the start of Thursday he was grateful to claim vindication after 44

drama of 1948, Hiss was led spy by an admitted
Whittaker Chambers.
ince, 87-year-old Hiss
in which Russian Gen.
eeper of Russian military declared that Hiss never inon and nothing in the nbers was a spy conduit.

2 • SILO

OCTOBER

HAVE A CUP ON US!

RUSTY FEATURES

- NEW SOUVENIR CUPS!
Buy a 32 oz. Big Beer and keep the cup!
- Indoor/Outdoor Eating & Drinking Areas
- Over 90 Imported Beers
- Big Screen TV
- Lunch & Dinner Menus Serving the BEST BBQ in the Midwest

NO COVER! NEVER HAD IT! NEVER WILL!

776-6451

Rusty's
Outback

1213 Moro,
Aggieville

1 FREE Basket of Homestyle French Fries for you and your friends on all orders over $10.00

COUPON

C KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day
To Drop
A Class

Today is the last day to drop with a "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce
didn't know of sales
to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA
knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies
that bought U.S. technology
legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce
Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCHMAN/Collegian

4 • SILO

OCTOBER

George Strait debuts in 'Pure Country'

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — George Strait falls unceremoniously on his backside during one scene in the movie "Pure Country."
The film opened around the country Oct.
23.

He's hoping the film — and his first starring role — don't meet the same fate.

The country singer turned leading man has a polished, button-down stage masculinity that Warner Bros. movie executives are counting on to translate to the screen.

The film is about a country singer named Dusty who returns to Texas to rediscover his roots. Lesley Ann Warren plays his protective manager, and Isabel Glasser plays his headstrong love interest.

Strait, 40, has no acting experience unless you count his appearances in beer commercials. So, people may wonder how he prepared.

"I didn't," he said by telephone from Dallas. "They said maybe I should take lessons, but I didn't want to and the director (Christopher Cain) didn't want me to, either. So we just jumped right in."

And Strait said he's satisfied with his acting debut.

"I enjoyed it, and I did better than I thought I would. If you can get on stage and get a feeling from the crowd, you can get a similar feeling making a movie," he said.

"It's just another part of the entertainment business."

Strait displays his honky-tonk baritone on 11 songs in the movie, and the soundtrack has been turned into his 17th album.
The first single released from the soundtrack is "I Cross My Heart," and the music video accompanying the song features scenes from the movie.

Singing often about lost love, Strait has had 25 No. 1 singles and 16 gold or platinum albums. His music is dotted with clear, simple messages: "If you planned on hurting me, you're an overnight success" and "Leaving's been coming for a long, long time."

One of Strait's admirers is Col. Tom Parker, who was Elvis Presley's longtime manager. Parker encouraged "Pure Country" producer Jerry Weintraub to take a chance on Strait as a male lead.

"The colonel has been coming to see me perform in Vegas every year," Strait said.
"He's told me tons of stories. He told me once that Elvis would have really liked me."

The song "Heartland" from the soundtrack features guest vocals with Strait's 11-year-old son, George Jr.

"I loved doing that," the proud father said. "He was nervous in the studio, but we loosened him up kidding around with him.
He's a good singer for his age."

Nautilus

Live Life in the Fit Lane!

1100 MORO-AGGIEVILLE • 776-1654

Check on Student Semester Specials & Group Discounts
First visit Always FREE!

NESPOR

Wines & Spirits

Fine Wines for your Pleasure

- Specializing in domestic and imported wines
- Large selection of cordials and liquors
- Special orders welcomed for parties and weddings
- Case discounts

1338 Westloop Place

Westloop Shopping Center

539-9441

"Our Business Is Exhausting"

Rose Muffler House

2049 Ft. Riley Blvd.

Manhattan, Kansas 66502

913-776-8955

1-800-439-8956

ALSO

Rose House of Tint

Division of Rose Muffler House

"If It's Glass, We Can Tint It!"

HALLOWEEN

HEADQUARTERS

Hurry! Halloween is almost here!

RESERVE YOUR COSTUMES NOW!

- All types of costumes
- All sizes
- Masks & wigs
- Accessories
- Make-up
- Coffins

Marie's Costumes

2011 Ft. Riley Blvd.

Open: Mon.-Sat. 10-8 p.m.

(October Hours Only)

1800 Claflin Rd.

776-5577

FirstBank Center

776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.50

Everyday
Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Topping
2 - Cokes
$8.50

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

serials

Because the subscriptions
are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving
in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda
Elder, associate professor of the
library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of
the graduate school, said
research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have rattled complaints about Farrell
library, which in 1990, was

■ See LIBRARY Page 10B

L. CLEARS HISS

— Alger Hiss, one of the communist fervor at the start
of Thursday he was grateful to reclaim vindication after 44

drama of 1948, Hiss was led spy by an admitted
Whittaker Chambers.
Since, 87-year-old Hiss
in which Russian Gen.
eeper of Russian military declared that Hiss never joined and nothing in the members was a spy conduit.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCHMAN/Collegian

h, 7, Thursday night.

"I knew they'd have a good time, and there are all different types of games and things for kids to do."

LORINDA SULTZER

OCTOBER

SILO • 9

SILO • 5

MARGARET CLARKIN/Collegian

Gary Woodward, head of the art department, says the National Endowment for the Arts good for Kansas and K-State. Here he sits in an art studio/classroom in the Art Building.

NEA funds support local arts

Supreme Court decision requires artists who apply for money to avoid certain types of content

MEAGHAN MOORE

Collegian

The National Endowment for the Arts is alive in Kansas.

The NEA, created by Congress in the early 1960s, is a federally funded governmental organization, created to encourage and support American art and artists.

According to the 1992-1993 Guide to the NEA, grants are available to the 56 designated arts agencies representing local arts agencies or consortia of local arts agencies within a state.

These grants must be matched on a one-to-one relationship with state appropriations. Then, state/federal dollars must be matched with local appropriations. Minimum local grants generally range up to $150,000 during a three-year period.

According to Biggs, the Kansas Arts

Commission gives about $12,500 of its approximated 35-percent funding from the NEA to the MAC to fund local programs and education. In addition to these funds, private contributions help keep the accessibility of art an ongoing mission in Manhattan.

"One cannot only look at the NEA as just an institution of funding but the funding of the very best in art," Biggs said.

"We are not directly funded by the NEA, but our funding is channeled through arts agencies like the KAC, which receives direct funding from the NEA," McCain Auditorium director Richard Martin said.

The overshadowing controversy of the 1990 Supreme Court decision that those artists who apply for NEA funding must sign a release, stating that the artist will not produce any art that depicts various religious, pornographic or sexual images, has produced a negative image of the NEA, head of the art department Gary Woodward said.

"My guestimation is that about 60 percent of original applicants won't apply due to this clause. There is a conservative trend right now within the NEA, which keeps growing, and if the pressure from the right-wing politicians continue, I feel there will be a pressure to eliminate the NEA entirely," Woodward said.

Biggs supports the idea that most, if not all, professionals would refuse to sign the objectionable clause.

"The role of the artist is not to particularly comfort society, but to reflect what society is about," he said.

"The taxpayer-supporter entity has always worked. This will make arts available to everyone. The NEA has a positive impact on Kansas and Manhattan. If it weren't for the NEA, many artists would not gain any exposure in the community," Biggs said.

Direct funding from the NEA helped in the development of Manhattan's City Arts magazine and in the local education system.

For example, if there was no funding for McCain Auditorium's touring musical shows, the program would be non-existent.

"The challenges between arts and politics are real, and NEA funding has been slightly reduced because of the case of frozen inflation. The environment the NEA has created has made it an organization with certainty and authority with the same role as in the past — to find the cutting edge in art," Biggs said.

In relation to the NEA's educational aspect, Woodward said that there is not much direct funding at K-State, because the students are in a safety net of academia and free expression.

"In reality, those who receive funding are very established and receive funds continuously," Woodward said.

Where would Manhattan be if the NEA

serials

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda Elder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell library, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

L CLEARS HISS

— Alger Hiss, one of the communist fervor at the start of Thursday he was grateful to claim vindication after 44

drama of 1948, Hiss was led spy by an admitted Whittaker Chambers. Since, 87-year-old Hiss in which Russian Gen. Zolotarev of Russian military declared that Hiss never joined and nothing in the members was a spy conduit.

See REGULATIONS Page 10

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCHMANS/Collegian

6 • SILO

OCTOBER

Tales of Satan and Stull

Forty miles west of Kansas is a country road like a lonely soul — i see sharon and i see jack its me and roman dressed in black tell my bride to bury me at stull sixty-five, fifty, forty-four, thirty miles to go in the dark i see the sign — six miles to stull thirty-seven seventeen six more miles to stull she told me that she had come by to meet me don't be afraid — do not be afraid — it's great

— from "Stull" by Urge Overkill

The crow of a rooster is the only announcement of time walking on in this ancient churchyard in Stull. Generations are buried here, generations and legends. Legend has it that time isn't the only thing that walks here. Some say Satan does.

Legend says that on the Spring Equinox and on Halloween, the devil comes to the tiny cemetery 10 miles west of Lawrence to raise the spirits of people who died violently to come back and haunt their killers. It is rumored the devil also walks in Stull, England, and somewhere on a desolate plain in India. Supposedly, Satan appears simultaneously at these three places every Halloween to also visit witches buried there.

According to legend, there is a child buried in Stull, whose parents were a witch and the devil. Maurice Schwalm, resident, reported the sighting of a werewolf boy standing in the 100-year old Scotch pine tree in the middle of the cemetery. She wrote an article about the sighting in Menston magazine in 1986.

The old limestone church still stands on the hill on the north side of Country Road 442 overlooking Stull. The limestone fence has been replaced with barbed wire. The interior walls of the church are covered with graffiti, and initials are carved in the soft limestone walls. The door is locked and the church is empty.

bers and beer cans.

On a crisp October day, the sun shines on the brightly colored leaves from trees covering the hills south of the cemetery. To the southeast, one can see the shimmering waters of Clinton Lake. Directly south of the cemetery is the community of Stull, with a population of about 20 people.

As one stands on the hill in front of the old church, it is hard to believe such a beautiful place could be the Satan's stomping grounds. But the cemetery's beauty doesn't stop the rumors from spreading.

The curious have visited the cemetery in droves in hopes of a glimpse of the unknown, residents say. They come from all over in search of confirming or disproving the legends. The legend has reached Chicago and members of the band Urge Overkill. The band recently released "Stull EP." The song is about a trip to the infamous cemetery. Bikers, students, even witches come to experience the atmosphere of Stull.

Katy Olson, junior in pharmacy at the University of Kansas, grew up in Lawrence and has visited the cemetery several times.

One time when she went to Stull with several friends, she saw something strange as they approached the church, she said.

"It looked like it was glowing inside," she said.

Olson said one legend says if a bottle is thrown against the inside walls of the church, it will not break, no matter how hard it is thrown.

"My friend threw one against the wall, and it didn't break. It was weird," she said.

She said she thought it was the legend surrounding Stull that draws people to it.

"What it was was the atmosphere," she said.

Some people who are drawn to the cemetery by the legends experience a little more than the atmosphere.

Documents from the Douglas County Historical Society tell many stories of supernatural experiences.

One story tells of a group of friends who visited the cemetery at night. A woman in the group was wearing a head-leaving two men behind. When they returned, they found the two men lying in awkward positions on the floor with a wooden cross beside them. One of the men said he had felt a strong wind inside the church, and then he fell to the ground, unable to move.

Other people were also frightened by a strong wind. Two people returned to their car after a strong wind began to blow only to find their car, which had been parked in the cemetery driveway, had been moved. It was now on the side of the highway and was facing a different direction.

Tales of unseen cold hands grabbing people and hearing footsteps from behind that come from no one are commonplace. Almost everyone who has visited Stull has a story to tell of a strange occurrence.

The church was built in 1867, when the small community of Stull was known as Deer Creek. It was a German settlement that consisted of about six families.

Despite other rumors, the town's original name was not Skull. It was named after its first and only postmaster Sylvester Stull in 1899, when the first post office was established.

Town residents said the only strange things they had seen were the people who visit the cemetery. One resident said the students make enough noise to wake the dead, with or without Satan's help.

It, Mike Suitt, of the Douglas County Sheriff's office, said no one is allowed in the cemetery on Halloween. It was closed a few years ago to cut down on vandalism.

"We keep people out of it to keep people from vandalizing things such as knocking over tombstones," he said.

One Halloween there was a radio station out there and a couple of thousand kids, Suitt said.

He said that he had never seen anything when he was patrolling the cemetery, or he wouldn't be spending the night out there on Halloween.

Those who try to enter the cemetery on Halloween will be arrested for trespassing, he said. So for anyone planning a trip to Stull this Halloween, don't waste a trip, it will be closed.

As legend has it, the people in Stull

h, 7, Thursday night.

types
from
s. She is the n in a
with about rout.
0 this ople,"
bring mpus
didn't
of K-
ed to

"I knew they'd have a good time, and there are all different types of games and things for kids to do."

LORINDA SULTZER

serials

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda Elder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell library, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

CLEARs HISS

— Alger Hiss, one of the communist fervor at the start of Thursday he was grateful to claim vindication after 44

drama of 1948, Hiss was led spy by an admitted Whittaker Chambers. Since, 87-year-old Hiss in which Russian Gen. eeper of Russian military declared that Hiss never joined and nothing in the mbers was a spy conduit.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day
To Drop
A Class

Today is the last day to drop with
"W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce
didn't know of sales
to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA
knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies
that bought U.S. technology
legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce
Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency,
knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCHMANS/Collegian

h, 7, Thursday night.

types
p."
from
s. She is the en in a
with about rnout.
O this
ople,"
bring mpus
didn't
of Kied to

"I knew they'd have a good time,
and there are all different types of games and things for kids to do."

LORINDA SULTZER

serials

Because the subscriptions
are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving
in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda
Elder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of
the graduate school, said
research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell
library, which in 1990, was

■ See LIBRARY Page 10B

L CLEARS HISS

— Alger Hiss, one of the communist fervor at the start
of Thursday he was grateful to proclaim vindication after 44

In drama of 1948, Hiss was labeled spy by an admitted
Whittaker Chambers.
Hence, 87-year-old Hiss
in which Russian Gen.
keeper of Russian military declared that Hiss never Union and nothing in the members was a spy conduit.

Photo by
J. Kyle Wyatt

Story by Julie Long

OCTOBER

SILO • 7

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCH/HAAS/Collegian

h, 7, Thursday night.

types
from
s. She is the n in a
with about mout.
O this
ople."

bring mpus
didn't
of K-ted to

LORINDA SULTZER

8 • SILO

OCTOBER

10,000 Maniacs' new album great, but nothing new

MEGANNE MOORE
Collegian

OK, so it's not a breakthrough for 10,000 Maniacs.

"Our Time in Eden" should be retitled "In My Tribe Part II."

This is good and bad.

It's good, in that the album has the great sound to which 10,000 Maniacs fans have grown accustomed. It's bad, in that the band hasn't traipsed into new sound or lyrical quality, for that matter.

The band's current single, "These are the Days," shows the distinguished vocals and writing talent of Natalie Merchant. A nice, positive song about days filled with happy thoughts, miracles and laughter. Necessities for a lackadaisical May afternoon.

In contrast to this is "I'm Not the Man," a darker sound, not very characteristic of the Maniacs. Again, Merchant touches on social issues for which she is notorious.

The album's material is interesting in that it is not solely Merchant's work. There is more influence in sound with different percussions, strings and horns.

"Our Time in Eden" is typical for 10,000 Maniacs — a safe adventure for the band to maintain its audience and comfortable position in the music scene.

Eugenius' alternative sound mixes vocals, crashing guitars

Debut album inspired in part by Dinosaur Jr., Velvet Underground

MEGANNE MOORE
Collegian

Oomalama is an odd statement for an authentic sound.

The Scottish quartet, Eugenius, has produced an up-and-coming sound of enticing melodies linked with roaring guitars on its debut album, "Oomalama."

Its first song, "Buttermilk," is currently being played on the MTV rotation. The title might prompt one to race to the remote for the Discovery channel. But, if you close your eyes and just listen, it really isn't all about cows and farming. It's love song about a girl, who just happens to make buttermilk.

Eugenius' sound is quite similar to the highly exposed American alternative scene. The band is heavily influenced by groups such as Dinosaur Jr., the Jesus and Mary Chain, and the Velvet Underground.

This band has a lot of history to it in its short-term existence. Vocalist Eugene Kelly is a former member of the Vaselines, a short-lived band that was immensely complemented by Nirvana's lead singer, Kurt Cobain. In fact, Nirvana covered two Vaselines songs on its recent world tour and asked Kelly to regroup the Vaselines to open for the band in Edinburgh.

The title track, "Oomalama," is a raging pop tune, which exploits Kelly's voice through the drone of backing guitars. It's like experiencing a mental collision between vocals and crashing guitar sounds.

One of the first songs for the album, "Bed In," was written by Kelly. In it, he tells what he's been doing for the last two years prior to the release of "Oomalama" — laying around, spending a lot of lazy time in bed.

"Down on Me" is a slower cut, accentuating Kelly's intense vocal ability and emotional songwriting. Illustrating this is the lyrics about a faltering relationship: "The things you did to me/while holding me tight/were in your head/not your heart/does it really hurt/does it matter to you/you put me down from great to small/do you even realize that the look when you sigh/makes me wish I'd never come at all."

Eugenius makes a distinctive and incredible debut with "Oomalama." So, the next time you see a black-and-white plastic cow on green Astroturf, don't be appalled, maybe it will help you find the real meaning of oomalama.

'Automatic for the People' sounds like the old R.E.M.

Significant lyrics blend with acoustic soul, orchestral sounds

MEGANNE MOORE
Collegian

Reflecting upon past experiences can prove successful when planning the future.

"Automatic for the People," R.E.M.'s latest release, envelopes its previous material with an unexperimental conscience in comparison to the overtone of sound experimentation on "Out of Time."

This is classic R.E.M., which means incredibly significant lyrics blended with acoustic soul and some orchestral sounds mixed in, with no need for improvement on the band's part.

Vocalist Michael Stipe produces his usual astounding performance in voice quality and emotion for each song.

"Nightswimming" begins with orchestral sounds of cellos and violins tuning up for a performance, then mixes in piano for an astounding ballad approach, drenching the listener with emotion and solitude.

The band's current single, "Drive," is a small sampling of the "underground" effect to which R.E.M. has comfortably retreated. It has no shiny, happy pop appeal, only a straightforward, worldly message of free expression.

Listening to this album reminds me of old R.E.M. — "Fables of the Reconstruction," "Murmur" and "Reckoning" — the unreproducible basics which stimulated in the band's global exposure and audience following.

"The Sidewinder Sleeps Tonite" has an annoying pop sound, which might appeal to those who don't look any deeper than the surface. The lyrics: "today I need something more substantial/ a candy bar/ a fallen star/ or a reading from Dr. Seuss," illustrate what is uncharacteristic of R.E.M.'s capability.

"Everybody Hurts" is another favorite, where Stipe reaches into the deepest of his existence to put forth one of the most significant songs on the album.

Another classic R.E.M. is the instrumental "New Orleans Instrumental No. 1." It is a slow, somewhat psychedelic guitar solo, which is always an invigorating listening aspect that shows the band still exists minus the vocals.

"Automatic for the People" is an incredible mix of material, a vital investment in the R.E.M. collection. Give it a listen. Your money won't be wasted.

There's no substitute for experience...

Experience Our Authentic

"South of the Border Food"

$2 off any Dinner item.

Expires Nov. 15, 1992

LOS COMPADRES

308 Vattier • Dine-in/Carry Out

M-Th 11-2/4:30-9 • F-Sat 11-2/4:30-10

Closed Sundays

Make Tracks!

Come check out the new '93's

GIANT TREK USA

Financing available

1217 Moro

776-2372

Mon.-Sat. 9-6

Thurs. 9-8

Who's news? We are.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

serials

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets raised, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda Elder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell library, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

CLEAR'S HISS

— Alger Hiss, one of the communist fervor at the start of Thursday he was grateful to claim vindication after 44

drama of 1948, Hiss was sed spy by an admitted Whittaker Chambers. Since, 87-year-old Hiss in which Russian Gen. keeper of Russian military declared that Hiss never joined and nothing in the members was a spy conduit.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42
WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at least five Iraqi recipients of U.S.

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies were, according to a congress-

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCH/ANS/Collegian

7, Thursday night.

types from the n in a with about mout. O this ple." bring mpus didn't of K-ed to

LORINDA SULTZER

serials

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets sed, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in eciding what to cancel," Nelda lder, associate professor of the brary, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of e graduate school, said research ability will be apaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have awn complaints about Farrell brary, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

CLEARs HISS

Alger Hiss, one of the immunist fervor at the start Thursday he was grateful to claim vindication after 44 drama of 1948, Hiss was ed spy by an admitted Hittaker Chambers. noe, 87-year-old Hiss n which Russian Gen. eper of Russian military declared that Hiss never nion and nothing in the bers was a spy conduit.

OCTOBER

Belly dancing, visits to mosques, mosaics a must

MEE SUN LEE

Collegian

Nothing you could have ever seen in re-runs of Sinbad the Sailor or the most energetic of aerobics classes could have prepared you for this intricate display of human grace and strength. The belly dance.

Tourists still flock to Istanbul when they choose to brave terrorist activities to enjoy one of the most exquisite holiday experiences ever. And a visit would not be complete without experiencing a belly dance. Many hotels and restaurants offer this attraction along with a full-course dinner.

For those interested in monuments, the Blue Mosque is a must-see. Entrance to the Blue Mosque, also known as Sultana Mehmet Mosque, is free, but visitors are expected to leave a token of appreciation for the men guarding visitors' shoes, which have to be removed prior to entry. The mosque faces Saint Sophia.

Its six minarets stand tall against the glinting sunlight on a clear day, but during the tourist season, there is a sound and light show in the evenings that visitors should make a point to catch.

Saint Sophia itself, also known as the Ayasofya Museum, is an architectural masterpiece built by Constantine the Great and later restored by Justinian in the 6th century. It served Constantinople's Christians for 900 years before being used as a mosque by the Muslim Turks in 15th-century

Istanbul. Visitors will be awed by the enormous dome and fine Byzantium mosaics.

A visit to the Topkapi Saray can, and should, take up an entire day. Attractions other than the harem include spectacular views of the Bosphorus and the Golden Horn, splendid displays of precious stones and other royal treasures, and the magnificent wooded grounds.

The Covered Bazaar, or Kapali Carsi, in the old city is where one can buy handbeaten metalware, onyx and meerschaum pipes, carefully woven silk and cotton carpets, and the Turkish "evil eye," so called because it is believed to ward off evil and bring luck to the wearer.

Taksim is another shopping area, where one can buy up-market goods, and this designer district is located across the Golden Horn. It is a popular area for dancing in the evenings and for food at all times. Turkish kabob and lentil soup are good cultural foods to try.

During the summer, street vendors peddle an enormous array of fruits, which differ as summer progresses.

No trip to Turkey would be complete without a Turkish bath, of course. Visitors should be aware of standard hygiene practices. And as a greater precaution, it may be best to have noted hotels recommend the better baths. These may be more expensive, but it is always wiser to be on the safer side of caution.

The southern islands, areas north of Taksim and the Asian side of Istanbul, all provide interesting insights into the culture and history of Istanbul. Istanbul, Constantinople or Byzantium is a garden, yet not really a garden at all. The city is a world in itself, with its own rivers and woods and seas and mountains. Istanbul provides both visual and tactile satisfaction, and even a month is too short to see it all.

Acclaimed guitar duo to play

JILL SCHRAG

Collegian

Brazilian-born siblings Sergio and Odair Assad have been credited with reviving Brazilian music for the guitar.

The duo has been lauded by critics for its technical excellence and spirited strumming for the last 20 years. Tours have taken them throughout Europe, Australia, the Far East and their native Brazil. Their musical tastes range from classical guitar to American jazz.

The brothers began playing at around the same time. Both studied with the same teachers, learning the same music and techniques.

"Such interaction can only really happen with brothers, because we shared every aspect of our musical education together," Sergio said in a phone interview.

The brothers have been touring together for about 20 years. They travel as a two-some, requiring only themselves and their guitars to perform.

"Well, yes, we spend every day together. We're family, you know?" Sergio said.

The brothers travel for eight months every year and spend four months at their music headquarters in Paris. Sergio said they spend time in Paris writing music and arrangements and enjoying the beautiful architecture.

The Assads go back to Brazil twice a year.

"The people are sad there, because it's the first time in the history of Latin America that a president has been impeached. There's so much corruption. It's not a good time there," Sergio said.

But if the Assads are not in Brazil in the flesh, they are there in spirit. Brazilian influence permeates the duo's music.

"Brazilian music is very difficult to describe. You don't describe it, you listen to it," Sergio said. "It's exciting music, the result of many kinds of influence, like jazz here."

Sergio said there are 300 different types of rhythm in Brazilian music. Sometimes the brothers play percussive rhythms by using their guitars as a pair of tom-toms.

The Assads are noted for their lightning-speed, versatility and musical taste, according to the Washington Post.

During their McCain performance, the Assads will play music from Italy, Spain, Argentina, Brazil and America.

"I think I want to do this for the rest of my life," Sergio said, "I might change my mind, but I haven't in the last 20 years."

The Assads will perform at 3 p.m. Nov. 8. Tickets are available at the McCain Auditorium Box Office and are $12 for the public/faculty, $10 for senior citizens and $6 for students.

Special EVENTS

AT MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

- Weds., Nov. 4 Double Exposure, 7p.m., Picnic Place.
- Thu.-Sun. Nov. 5-8 Silver Dollar City Craft Guild Show, Mall wide, Mall Hours.
- Weds., Nov. 11 Pearce-Keller American Legion Post 17 Veterans Display, Center Court, Sidekicks, 7p.m., Picnic Place.
- Sat., Nov. 14 VFW Post Poppy Sales, Customer Service Center, KSU Chemistry Department Display, K-State Rowing Association Erg Challenge, Special Olympics Step-A-Thon, 10:00-2:00p.m., Center Court.
- Sun., Nov. 15 Sharron Washington Dancers, Dance for Heart
- Weds., Nov. 18 Gary Plumberg Quartet, 7p.m., Picnic Place.
- Sat., Nov. 21 K-State Homecoming Parade, 9:00a.m., Santa Arrival, 10:00a.m., Holiday Fashion Show, 1:00 & 3:00p.m., Holiday Music Festival Begins.
- Sun., Nov. 22 Holiday Fashion Show, 2:00p.m.
- Thurs., Nov. 26 THANKSGIVING DAY, MALL CLOSED
- Fri.-Sun. Nov. 27-29 Bill Wedekind, JCPenney Court.

WATCH FOR SPECIAL HOLIDAY SHOPPING HOURS BEGINNING NOVEMBER 27!

in the heart of it all.

DILLARDS JCPENNEY SEARS SPECIALTY SHOPS PICNIC PLACE
MONDAY THROUGH SATURDAY 10-9, SUNDAY 12-6

539-9207

3RD AND POYNTZ

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCH/ANS/Collegian

7, Thursday night.

10 • SILO

OCTOBER

Regulations may decrease artists applying for funding pulled all funds?

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5

"It wouldn't necessarily kill art, because art has a long history and will always be there. It would be difficult and very challenging to continue on, and there would obviously be a negative effect on programs, but we wouldn't lose it altogether," Biggs said.

"We receive about $14,750 in funding, and a portion of that is from the NEA. If we did not receive this funding, it would restrict our ability to take chances on certain performances. It would ultimately limit our program to what I would view as dull performances and a less adventurous approach toward programming," Martin said.

For example, New York's Broadway Theatre sells more tickets than the Yankees and the Mets combined.

"Arts and education will be the solution to the problem the NEA needs to encourage keeping it alive. If you're never exposed to languages, music, dance, drama or visual arts, you will be cut off from the world's heritage.

"Art is what it means to be human and to live a full life," Biggs said.

Past, future faced in Ebony Theatre play

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Actors of Ebony Theatre recite their lines for "The First Breeze of Summer" during a dress rehearsal in the Purple Masque Theatre.

'The First Breeze of Summer' focuses on array of issues

DAN GRAFEL
Collegian

"The First Breeze of Summer" will be blowing through the halls of the Purple Masque Theatre Oct. 29-31.

Director 'Ret DeBrown said the performance by Ebony Theatre is the story of a middle-class black family in Pennsylvania.

She said the play puts a special emphasis on two characters. One is facing the future and the other, the past.

DeBrown, graduate student in speech, is directing the play by Leslie Lee as a thesis production for her master's degree.

"The play tells you never to be ashamed of who you are or where you come from," DeBrown said.

Norman Fedder, distinguished professor in theater, said Lee is expected to be on campus for the debut of the play.

Lee said he thought it would be helpful for students to talk to him and get to know the business and sorrows of producing a play.

"It's very important that the University is in contact with the professional world," Fedder said.

He said the play was somewhat autobiographical of Lee, who faced many of the same problems that surface in the play before becoming a professor at New York University.

Ebony Theatre, the provost's office, the speech department and the American Ethnic Studies Program are sponsoring Lee's visit.

Fedder said the Ebony Theatre Company has been at K-State for about 15 years. It's one of very few African American theater companies at universities in the Midwest.

"Minorities of all kinds need theater to express their unique experiences," Fedder said.

DeBrown said Ebony tries to put on productions that expose a variety of issues.

"We don't just look for racial issues but other important things like history," she said.

Stage manager Jeneena Hubbard, junior in theater, said "The First Breeze" is about Grammar, the matriarch of the family. The focus is on her past and her influence on family members.

"It's a cultural experience that opens your eyes to a lot of things, like interracial relationships," she said.

DeBrown said the other main character, the youngest son Lou, may have a connection to many K-State students.

"Lou learns to appreciate his roots and to confront life," DeBrown said.

Fedder said he thought some people who come to K-State may be ashamed of their background.

"It's all about pride," he said of Lou's experiences in the play.

"The First Breeze of Summer" will be at 8 p.m. Oct. 29-31. Tickets are available at McCain Box Office.

IF YOU'VE GOT MONEY TO BURN, DON'T BOTHER TO READ THIS

But If You Need Extra Money Donate For Dollars!

This coupon is worth $15 for new donors on your first and second donation within six days or if you have not returned within two months. Present this coupon and earn extra cash. For more information call the friendliest staff in town.

Mon.-Thurs. 9-6
Fri. 9-4:30
Sat. 9-1

Call 776-9177 today for more details!

Manhattan Donor Center

1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502

The Best Kept Secret on Highway 24

Levi Jeans 501 Shrink-To-Fit 501 Pre-wash, 505, 550, 517

Wrangler Jeans 13 MWZ Cowboy Cut in blue and other colors

Large selection of Brush Poppers

Checotah and Painted Desert shirts.

Justin Ropers—choose from 13 colors.

8426 E. Hwy. 24 Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Sun. 1-5 p.m. 776-6715

FREE DELIVERY
(Minimum Order $9)

Hunam Chinese Restaurant and Lounge

1304 Westloop, Manhattan
539-0888 539-8888

DINING-IN COUPON

10% OFF

when you present this coupon
Not valid with buffet or any other promotion or special.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

ENTERTAINMENT

IS YOUR BUSINESS AND OURS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

ADVERTISING 532-6560

serials

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda Alder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell library, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

AL CLEARS HISS

Alger Hiss, one of the communist fervor at the start of Thursday he was grateful to claim vindication after 44

drama of 1948, Hiss was labeled spy by an admitted Whittaker Chambers. Since, 87-year-old Hiss in which Russian Gen. Stepanov of Russian military declared that Hiss never joined and nothing in the members was a spy conduit.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at least five Iraqi recipients of U.S.

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies were, according to a congress-

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCH/PHOTOS/Collegian

12 • SILO

OCTOBER

2 PIZZAS

WITH CHEESE AND PEPPERONI

THIS IS A TOOTZY! DOOTZY! OF A DEAL!

2 MEDIUM

$5.99

PLUS TAX

2 LARGE

$8.99

PLUS TAX

Little Caesars

Pizza! Pizza!

Offer valid for a limited time at participating stores. No coupon necessary. Promotion expiration date may not match other coupon expiration dates.

DOOTZY DELUXE™

CRAZY BREAD® & NEW CRAZY CHEESE™ FOR $1 MORE!

Four-piece Crazy Bread® order and Crazy Cheese™ offer valid only with Tootzy! Dootzy!

BEST VALUE COUPON

EXTRA TOPPING

99¢

Plus Tax

Available on any size PizzalPizza! or Pan!Pan!

Valid only with coupon at participating Little Caesars.

Expires 11/15/92

© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

BEST VALUE COUPON

FAMILY CHOICE™

2 MEDIUM PIZZAS

$9.99

Plus Tax

One pizza with 8 select toppings for the adults. One pizza with up to 2 toppings for the kids.

2 LARGE PIZZAS $13.99 Plus Tax

YOUR CHOICE: • ONE OF EACH: • PAN!PAN! • PIZZAPIZZA!®

Valid only with coupon at participating Little Caesars. 8 topping pizza includes pepperoni, mushrooms, salami, ham, ground beef, bacon, green peppers and Italian sausage. No substitutions or deletions. Excludes extra cheese.

Expires 11/15/92

© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

MANHATTAN

LOCATED AT

WESTLOOP SHOPPING CENTER

539-3333

Little Caesars PARTY PLEASER!

Valid through group orders of 10 pizzas or more. Call the Little Caesars Restaurant nearest you.

BEST VALUE COUPON

CRAZY BREAD®

8 warm sticks of freshly baked bread brushed with garlic and topped with parmesan cheese.

99¢

Plus Tax

Please request Crazy Bread at time of order.

Valid only with coupon at participating Little Caesars.

Expires 11/15/92

© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

BEST VALUE COUPON

2 SMALL CHEESE PIZZAS

$4.99

Plus Tax

YOUR CHOICE: • ONE OF EACH: • PAN!PAN! • PIZZAPIZZA!®

Valid only with coupon at participating Little Caesars.

Extra toppings available at additional cost.

Expires 11/15/92

© 1992 Little Caesar Enterprises, Inc.

Duch, 7, Thursday night.

rent types to do." old from cess. She was the idden in a lled with said about turnout. o 300 this 0 people," to bring campus We didn't ide of K-ocused to

"I knew they'd have a good time, and there are all different types of games and things for kids to do."

LORINDA SULTZER

el serials

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda Elder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell Library, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

RAL CLEARS HISS

K (AP) — Alger Hiss, one of the anti-Communist fervor at the start of the war, said Thursday he was grateful to be proclaimed vindicated after 44

ational drama of 1948, Hiss was ing a Red spy by an admitted anist, Whittaker Chambers. conference, 87-year-old Hiss otape in which Russian Gen. now, keeper of Russian military chives, declared that Hiss never ovet Union and nothing in the d Chambers was a spy conduit.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Last Day To Drop A Class

Today is the last day to drop with "W." You can drop a class in Willard 210.

FRIDAY

HIGH 54 LOW 42

WEATHER - PAGE 2

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 49

CIA knew of exports to Iraq

But Commerce didn't know of sales to military industries

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The CIA knew before the Gulf War that at least five Iraqi recipients of U.S. exports were defense industries, documents show. But it didn't tell the Commerce Department, which approved the sales.

The Commerce Department approved some $1.5 billion in exports to Iraq from 1985 to 1990, saying most were not designated for military use.

Information obtained by the Associated Press Thursday indicated the CIA had information about Iraqi defense-industry purchases both in the United States and Britain.

Many of the Iraqi companies that bought U.S. technology legally turn out to be military industries with names that didn't set off alarms at the Commerce Department.

But the CIA, and possibly the Defense Intelligence Agency, knew what the Iraqi companies were, according to a congressional investigator's documents.

Douglas Whitehouse, who headed the CIA's committee on technology transfer, said he had run a computer check comparing the 25 end users against a CIA data bank, according to the notes of the investigator, who requested anonymity.

The investigator said Whitehouse had found five companies about which the CIA had information. The CIA told him it was never asked to give the information to the department.

UPC treats kids to Halloween

MIKE WELCHMAN/Collegian

Bobby Sultzer, a Wamego 4-year-old, digs for hidden treasure with his cousins John Duch, 4, and Callie Duch, 7, Thursday night.

Children's Carnival a safe haunt for young goblins to decorate cookies, dig for treasure

MEGANNE MOORE

Collegian

Halloween came early for many children who attended the Union Program Council's Children's Carnival Thursday night.

The second annual carnival in the K-State Union Ballroom attracted many families to its 18 booths of activities for children of all ages.

Admission was free, but UPC took canned food for the 30 Days of Thanksgiving drive to benefit the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

UPC Special Events Committee sponsored the events, such as cookie decorating, ring toss and bowling.

"This year we added three new booths, because we weren't able to have face painting because the theater department was too busy," said Kellie Sigars, planning co-chairwoman and junior in pre-medicine and psychology.

Children dressed as witches, princesses, dalmations and even an octopus.

One father said he brought his family because the carnival is safer than some neighborhoods, and it gives his children a chance to wear their costumes more than once.

Union employee Lorinda Sultzer said, "I brought my niece and nephew, because I knew they'd have a good time, and there are all different types of games and things for kids to do."

Callie Duch, a 7-year-old from Wamego, dressed as a princess. She said her favorite activity was the buried treasure, which was hidden in a plastic swimming pool filled with wood shavings.

UPC adviser Kim Harms said about 200 people attended last year.

"We're expecting a good turnout. We hope to see about 250 to 300 this year. Our target is at least 250 people," Harms said.

The carnival was meant to bring student parents into the campus community, Harms said. "We didn't promote the carnival outside of K-State. This was to keep it focused to those at K-State."

"I knew they'd have a good time, and there are all different types of games and things for kids to do."

LORINDA SULTZER

STUDENT SENATE

Bill would raise Athletic Fee next fall

AMY WRIGHT

Collegian

Student Senate heard the first reading of a bill to increase the Athletic Fee during Thursday night's meeting.

The Athletic Fee was last revised in 1989 when it was increased to $10 for full-time students and $3.50 for part-time students per semester.

The bill now being considered would increase fees to $17 per semester for full-time students and $8.50 for part-time students. The fee is evaluated every three years.

If the bill passes, it will go into effect in fall 1993. The K-State

Marching and Pep bands, the baseball program and the Sports Club Council, which are not funded now, would receive the extra funds.

Athletic Director Milt Richards agreed to match the full fee amount raised by students, as opposed to only matching the $7 increase, if the bill is approved.

Engineering Sen. Michelle Munson requested figures comparing the amount of money spent per student athlete and the amount of money spent per non-athletic student.

Contrary to what was published earlier, the bill will not come up for debate until the Nov. 12 meeting.

RALPH NAJARIAN/Collegian

Harvest time

A combine on Orlin Musil's farm south of Waterville dumps a load of milo onto a waiting truck. Musil said his milo is running about 100 bushels per acre and testing at 62 pounds per bushel. Musil said he switched to milo from wheat four years ago, and it paid off this year.

CAMPUS

Farrell to cancel serials

Specific items not yet selected, but 1,800 titles to be eliminated by '94

KATIE WALKER

Collegian

As many as one-fourth of the serials Farrell Library subscribes to will be canceled by 1994.

Serials are anything received as a standing order that is paid for annually, like periodicals, journals, magazines and newspapers.

The library subscribes to about 8,000 serials. Of those, 1,800 titles costing $350,000 will be eliminated. Specific titles have not yet been selected.

"We will have faculty identify what they want to keep," Brice Hobrock, dean of libraries, said. "Then we'll create a list of the items we propose to cancel, which will be negotiated with the faculty."

Through a process that will last until the end of next semester, teachers will work with library administrators to decide which serials are needed.

Because the subscriptions are prepaid, the canceled subscriptions will stop arriving in 1994.

"We will consider what gets used, cost, inflation rates and support for the curriculum in deciding what to cancel," Nelda Elder, associate professor of the library, said.

Timothy Donoghue, dean of the graduate school, said research ability will be impaired by the cuts.

Previous cuts in serials have drawn complaints about Farrell Library, which in 1990, was

See LIBRARY Page 10B

NEWS DIGEST

TEEN ACQUITTED

NEW YORK (AP) — A black teenager was acquitted Thursday of stabbing to death a rabbinical student during a riot last year in a neighborhood shared by blacks and Jews.

Lemrick Nelson, 17, had been accused of killing Yankel Rosenbaum, 29, of Melbourne, Australia, during unrest that erupted after a black boy was struck by a car from a Jewish leader's motorcade and fatally injured.

Seven-year-old Gavin Cato's death on Aug. 19 touched off days of unrest between blacks and Jews.

GENERAL CLEARS HISS

NEW YORK (AP) — Alger Hiss, one of the first targets of anti-Communist fervor at the start of the Cold War, said Thursday he was grateful he was still alive to proclaim vindication after 44 years.

In the sensational drama of 1948, Hiss was accused of being a Red spy by an admitted former Communist, Whittaker Chambers.

At a news conference, 87-year-old Hiss watched a videotape in which Russian Gen. Dmitri Volkogonov, keeper of Russian military intelligence archives, declared that Hiss never spied for the Soviet Union and nothing in the records showed Chambers was a spy conduit.

Forum on campus today

STEPHANIE FUQUA

Collegian

Candidates for the Kansas House of Representatives, Senate and Board of Education will be at a forum today in the K-State Union Courtyard.

The forum will be from 1 to 3 p.m.

House candidates Rep. Kent Glasscock, R-Manhattan, Democrat Joe Swanson and Rep. Sheila Hochhauser, D-Manhattan, will appear.

Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, will debate Democrat Michelle Smith, K-State student, and Libertarian Mike Weir.

State BOE candidates Bill Musick and Mary Nichols will also appear.

COMMENTS

"Nothing has happened. Sorry, let's go home."

— The Rev. Chang Man-ho of Seoul's largest doomsday church, the Mission for the Coming Days, after the world didn't end Wednesday.

"The great performers, the ones we really remember, were weirdos when they were out. Hank Williams and Bob Will had a hard time when they came out because they were different."

— Country singer Lee Roy Parnell, who performed Wednesday at TW Longhorn's.

"As a historian, it puzzles me that people believe foreign policy began in 1917. Was there no communism before 1917?"

— Howard Zinn, professor emeritus of history at Boston University and third Lou Douglas Lecturer of the year, on U.S. foreign policy.

"It's not like a car wreck, where it happens and is over and you get better. AIDS is a long, drawn-out process."

— Jack Markham, president of the National Association of People with AIDS.

"Perot says if his dog could talk, we'd know the truth. Well, if my dog could talk, I'd go on the road."

— Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., on Perot's allegation that his dog scared away five intruders toting shotguns.

"There's a lot of shower singers, but how they handle themselves in front of a camera is important."

— Don Dashiell, "Be a Star" producer, on finding talent for the show on cable TV's the Nashville Network.

"It is sad we have to go to the ballot to determine whether this should be passed or not. It should be a given."

— Riley County Attorney Bill Kennedy on the Victims' Rights Constitutional Amendment.

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.
POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Keadie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.
News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Keadie Hall 116.
Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29

At 2:20 a.m., Kevin Walker reported damage to vending machines near McCain 106. Subjects had broken the glass out of a candy machine and taken some candy. They also broke glass on a food machine. Damage was $300 and loss was $12.65.

At 12:20 p.m., J.D. Chrest reported a forklift was shooting sparks at the service entrance on west side of Durland Hall.

At 12:33 p.m., Scott Sollers, Haymaker 832, reported his parking permit was taken.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 28

At 7:16 p.m., Amy M. Hoch, 1850 Claflin Road, No. 18, and Sheri D. Watts, West 618, were involved in a major-damage accident at Denison Avenue and Claflin Road.

At 7:34 p.m., Brian Delaney reported the theft of unleased gas from Ampride Service Station, 215 E. Poyntz Ave. Loss was $10.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29

At 12:07 a.m., Timothy K. Harrold, 2420 Vaughn Drive, was arrested for DUI and confined in lieu of $1,000 bail.

At 1:44 a.m., Scott D. Mazur, 1015 Denison Ave., was arrested for disorderly conduct and possession of fictitious ID. He was confined in lieu of $300 bail.

At 1:45 a.m., Daniel B. Rank, 628 Orient Drive, Kansas City, was arrested for disorderly conduct and confined in lieu of $300 bail.

At 2:26 a.m., Kevin P. Williams, 1105 Kearney St., was arrested for

At 8:02 p.m., Food-4-Less, 222 N. Sixth St., reported $6 worth of cosmetics stolen. A juvenile detention report was filed.

At 8:58 p.m., Stephen Moffett, Lot 78, Red Bud Estates, was issued a notice to appear for theft of a package of cigarettes from Dillon's, 2700 Anderson Ave. Loss was $2.

DUI and released on $500 bond.

At 7:28 a.m., Melanie Searsoos, 3326 Womack Way, reported two 25-pound pumpkins stolen. Loss was $10.

At 8:22 a.m., Robin Brack, 1001 Osage St., reported the theft of a color TV, VCR, cordless telephone, denim and leather jacket, 70 CDs and 100 cassette tapes. Loss was $2,716.

At 9:49 a.m., Robert Homer, 1016 Bertrand St., reported the theft of a cordless drill and a red fishing-tackle box containing assorted tools. Loss was $168.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

ANNOUNCEMENTS

■ Applications for cancer research awards are available in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.

■ The open University meeting will be at 3 p.m. in Forum Hall to discuss the Role and Aspirations report.

■ Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani at 532-6448.

■ Applications for the Homerserve community service program are available in Eisenhower 014A.

■ Intramural volleyball schedules are available in the Recreational Services office in the Rec Complex.

■ Manhattan Parks and Recreation needs coaches for youth soccer, volleyball and football. Contact Mike Buchanan at 587-2757.

■ Applications are available in Eisenhower 014A for community service program international summer teams. Spanish is required.

■ To graduate in December, ballots for all candidates and final copies of dissertations, theses and reports are due in the Graduate School by Nov. 16.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30

■ Provost's Role and Aspiration meeting will be from 1:30 to 3 p.m. in Union 213.

■ Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie St.

■ "Quilt Display '92: What are the effects?" will be shown at noon in Forum Hall. It is presented by UPC Issues and Ideas and Communicable Disease Committee.

■ New Currents Music Club will meet at 9 p.m. in Union Station for jazz night.

■ The graduate school has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Wilfred Singogo at 3 p.m. in Waters 133.

■ Intervarsity Christian Fellowship will not meet tonight.

■ Line schedules will be available in the K-State Union Bookstore today.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31

■ Team Roping will be in Weber Arena at 9 a.m. Volunteers need to be there by 8 a.m. Everyone is welcome.

■ Circle K will meet at 5:30 p.m. at the Stoney Brook Retirement Center for the senior's and kids Halloween party.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1

■ Circle K will meet at 5:30 p.m. at Pizza Hut in Aggieville. Bring one non-perishable food item for the University food drive.

■ Men's Tennis Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union 205.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Continued cold with a chance of light rain. High 50 to 55. Friday night, cloudy. A 30-percent chance of rain. Low 40 to 45.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Cloudy with a 30-percent chance of rain. High around 60.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Sunday, chance for rain. Cool. Lows in the 40s. Highs in the 50s. Monday, chance for rain. Lows in the 40s. Highs in the mid-50s to low 60s. Tuesday colder. A chance of rain. Lows in the 30s. Highs in 50s.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Nairobi	68/59	rain
Berlin	50/34	cloudy	Rome	72/61 cloudy
Helsinki	27/25	snow	Stockholm	32/28 snow
London	50/43	cloudy	Vienna	50/39 rain

Church Directory

UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST Fellowship of Manhattan

481 Zeandale Rd. (Hwy. 18)
"An old church with a liberal and open-minded tradition."
Sunday School and Regular Services at 10:45 a.m.
FOR INFORMATION
CALL 539-9369 or 537-9816

ST. LUKE LUTHERAN CHURCH (LWS)

Lutheran Student Fellowship (LSF)
Campus Pastor,
Rev. Robert Schaedel
Sun. 8 and 10:45 a.m.
Sat. Worship 6 p.m.
Bible Class Sunday 9:30 a.m.
330 N. Sunset Ave. 539-2604

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

801 Leavenworth 537-0518
Worship 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Church School 9:30 a.m.
•Weekday Programs for Youth
•Nursery Available
Pastor
Rev. Warren Rutledge

GRACE BAPTIST CHURCH

Morning Worship 8:30 & 10:45
Collegiate Bible Study & International Bible Study
Sun. 9:30 a.m.
Sunday Evening Fellowship or Caring Cells 6 p.m.
Family Night Wed. 7 p.m.
Students Welcome!
2901 Dickens 776-0424

Manhattan Seventh-day Adventist Church

Sabbath School 9:30 a.m. Sat.
Worship Service 11 a.m. Sat.
600 Laramie (at 6th St.) 776-5533

Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship

10th & Fremont 539-4079
Harris H. Waltner, Pastor
Church School 9:30 a.m.
Worship 10:45 a.m.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

8:45 a.m. Communion (first Sunday of the month)
9:45 a.m. Church School
8:45 & 11 a.m. Worship
Nursery provided for all services
Omer G. Tittle, Pastor
612 Poyntz 776-8821

Evangelical Free Church of Manhattan

MCC Chapel S.W. corner 14th & Anderson
Steve Ratliff, Pastor
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
Worship 11 a.m.
776-2086
Nursery Provided

UNIVERSITY CHRISTIAN

2800 Claflin
8:30 & 11 a.m. Worship
9:45 a.m. Sunday School
6:30 p.m.
Sun. Eve. Service
Handicapped Accessible
776-5440

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Worship 8:30 a.m. and 10:55 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
Disciples of Christ
Handicap Accessible
115 Courthouse Plaza 776-8790

Church of Christ

Campus Ministry
Bible Study 9:30 a.m.
Sunday Worship 10:30 a.m.
Evening Service 6 p.m.
2510 Dickens Ave. 539-6581

First Baptist Church

Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691

The Episcopal Church Welcomes You.

Saint Paul's Episcopal Church and Saint Francis Episcopal Fellowship at KSU (Worldwide Anglican Communion)
Sixth & Poyntz 776-9427
- Sunday Services -
8 A.M. Holy Eucharist Rite I
9:30 A.M. Christian Education Classes (for all ages)
10:30 A.M. Choral Eucharist Rite II (Nursery available at 10:30 service)
- Tuesday Services -
10:00 P.M. Informal Holy Eucharist KSU Danforth Chapel
- Wednesday Services -
12:15 P.M. Holy Eucharist

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH

Welcome Back, Students
Worship 10 a.m.
Sunday School 9 a.m.
Sunday Evening Worship 6 p.m.
1st, 3rd, & 5th Sundays
CARE CELLS (Small Groups)
6 p.m. 2nd & 4th Sundays
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd. 537-7173

LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY

Craig Sommer, Campus Pastor
539-4451
located in the ECM building
SUNDAY WORSHIP
11 a.m. Danforth Chapel (on campus behind McCain Aud.)

Dear Friend,

In 1990 I told you that legislators needed to talk less and deliver more. You told me that you wanted a legislator who got the job done on important issues. Together, we agreed that:

- The pension the legislators voted themselves was outrageous... we repealed it.
- Property taxes were too high... we lowered them.
- K-State had been unfairly denied the funding it had earned... we restored and increased the university's budget.
- More attention needed to be paid to our families and children... we created a new set of children's initiatives, including the "Healthy Kids Act" that I wrote.
- Our environment is too precious to waste... we enacted a tough, statewide comprehensive waste management law.

These are just a few of the ways that strong leadership and shared values have gotten the job done for you in Topeka.

We've done much, but there is much more to be done, including:

- Education reform
- Addressing the inequities in workers' compensation
- Making our new children's initiatives effective
- Building on the gains we've made for K-State

I'm asking for your vote so together we can continue to make a difference in Topeka.

Kent
I always welcome your comments. Call me at work, 776-4814, or at home, 537-9156.

KENT GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Strong Leadership
Shared Values

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative
Bill Varney, Treasurer

SANJEEV SHARMA/Collegian

Laying the rocks

Patrick Leeds and Brandon Garth Hite, both seniors in architecture, work to complete "The Field," a conceptual representative of a silo, which is being submitted as an entry for the Bayerstone Competition. The students are part of a group whose members take turns working on the project at night.

CONVOCACTION LECTURE

Scientist focuses on changing oceans

Wunsch tells about his research, climate effects

LANA SCHRATER
Collegian

Without the ocean, the rest of the world might have a climate somewhat like that in Kansas, said Carl Wunsch, the Cecil and Ida Green professor of physical oceanography at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He presented the third lecture of the Convocation Lecture Series Thursday morning in McCain Auditorium.

Wunsch spoke on four topics: the ocean's interaction with climate, what might happen in the future, how the ocean looks today and where to go from here.

The ocean influences the climate by carrying heat between the poles, Wunsch said.

"Without the ocean, the earth's temperature would be like living in the middle of the continent. Like Kansas I suppose, but more like central Asia is what it would be like to live on the earth without oceans," Wunsch said.

One reason earth's temperatures are increasing is because of carbon dioxide, a greenhouse gas.

Wunsch said in salty waters, water gets heavier and it sinks. Along with the sinking water is carbon dioxide that sinks deep into the ocean and is buried.

This carbon dioxide can resurface if the ocean's waters get warmer and the buried water starts to circulate again, he said.

In the future, with potentially warming waters, not only will there be more carbon dioxide in the air, but the warmer water will expand and raise water levels.

Wunsch said people have been saying this will happen over hundreds of years, but he says it can happen in decades.

This also leads to the fallacy, he said, that once something is dumped in the depths of the ocean, it is removed from people and does not need to be worried about again.

From observation, researchers know what the ocean looks like today, but there is so much more that is unknown, Wunsch said.

"Observing the ocean is costly; therefore, people make inferences," Wunsch said.

To take a boat out for one day of research costs $30,000, and it can not cover much area because it travels at 15 miles per hour, he said.

Also, some research instruments that are placed in the ocean for a year or two cost $100,000.

More money is needed for research, Wunsch said.

"We live on year-to-year funding," he said.

The problem is that nobody feels obligated to forecast the ocean, Wunsch said, and educational institutions are where most research is done.

Doctor explains misconceptions of AIDS

"Two years from now, 25 percent of the population will know someone ... HIV positive."
DONNA SWEET

KIRSTEN NELSON
Collegian

Most people have probably known someone infected with the AIDS virus, currently know someone infected, or know someone infected but don't realize it, said Dr. Donna Sweet during a speech Thursday for AIDS Awareness Week.

"Two years from now, 25 percent of the population will know someone close to them or have someone in their family that is HIV-positive," Sweet said.

Sweet, an associate professor of internal medicine at the University of Kansas School of Medicine in Wichita, is also director of internal medicine education at St. Francis Regional Medical Center in Wichita.

She has been researching AIDS and treating AIDS patients since the disease appeared in Wichita in 1984. Sweet said she has treated 400 HIV patients in her practice, 75 of whom developed AIDS.

Most people misunderstand or don't understand the disease, she said.

"It's not spread the way you think it might be," Sweet said.

AIDS can only be spread by bodily fluids, intravenous needles or from an infected pregnant woman to her fetus, she said.

Sweet used a poster that said, "You won't get AIDS in a restaurant" to demonstrate her point. She said there shouldn't have to be posters like this.

"People are focusing on the wrong things and worrying about things not particularly relevant, while they're not worrying enough about their own social behaviors," Sweet said.

People have to stop talking about risk groups and start talking about risk behaviors, she said. Sex is one of these.

"I am a pragmatist and tell people abstinence is the best way to protect yourself from this disease," Sweet said. "Take precautions toward safe sex, or you'll end up with the disease and in my clinic."

Anyone with more than one sex partner should consider themselves at risk, she said.

"People continue to play Russian roulette with this disease," Sweet said.

She said 2.6 million people in the world have AIDS, and 13 million are infected with the HIV virus. In 1992, that figure is expected to increase by 80,000 to 100,000.

Some people can be exposed to it once and be infected, while others can be exposed many times and not become infected, she said.

Although all babies born to women infected at the time of pregnancy will test positive for the disease at birth, only 25 percent will actually be infected, Sweet said.

Another area of concern with AIDS is for health-care professionals, Sweet said.

AGGIEVILLE PIZZA
NEW!!
Deep Dish Pizza
FREE DELIVERY
539-3830
1127 Moro, Aggieville
2-10" Pizzas; 2 Cokes; Cinnamon or Bread Stix
ONLY $9.99
Offer expires November 30

Valentino's
We Didn't Stop With Pizza
Sunday Buffet
10:30 a.m. - 9 p.m.
$4.99 with coupon
3003 Anderson Village Plaza
537-4350
EXP 12/31/92

$5.59
This Friday Night All-You-Can-Eat Shrimp.
In addition to delicious golden fried shrimp, our All-You-Can-Eat Shrimp Dinner also includes our fabulous all-you-can-eat Freshstaks® Food Bar with Soft Serve dessert.
All for one low price. It's an unlimited deal we guarantee won't leave you hungry.
Offer good only on Fridays from 4 p.m. til close.
BONANZA
Where The Extras Don't Cost Extra
622 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan, KS

THE HAUNTED FOREST
FREE ADMISSION!
KSHAR HAUNTED FOREST
Oct. 29, 30th - 7:30-10:30
31st - 7:30-11:30
Behind B-3 parking lot
Sponsored by
Florida State University
(University of Florida)
Florida Army National Guard Lakes

VITAL VINYL BLUES SERIES PRESENTS:
Chicago Blues Guitarist
Extraordinaire and BLIND PIG
Recording Artist
JOANNA CONNOR
At Snookie's in Aggieville
Thursday, Nov 5, 9:30pm
$3 Advance/$5 Door
Tickets and Info Available at Vital Vinyl 1131 Moro, 539-1160

BUD THIRSTY?
BUD FAMILY 24 PKS ARE ON SALE NOW
AT PARTICIPATING RETAIL STORES
OR SUCK ONE DOWN AT YOUR FAVORITE NIGHT SPOT BUD LIGHT
FRIGHT NIGHT
Campbell Distributors 825 LeVee Drive • 776-2337

ALL WEEKEND LONG
99¢ Slices Fridays 2-8pm
All Weekend "BUD" SPECIAL
50¢ DRAWS
$1.99 PITCHERS
Fri, Sat, Sun ALL DAY
Buy one pizza, get a 2nd of equal value for:
$3 LARGE
$2 MEDIUM
$1 SMALL
Sunday ALL YOU CAN EAT!
11am-2pm, 4pm-8pm only
$3.95
Two Times A Day!
"The Best Saturday Morning Bloodies In Town!"
-Ima Boozer
PYRAMID EXPRESS
539-4888
FREE & FAST DELIVERY
12TH & MORO • AGGIEVILLE

OPINION

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson
Editor in Chief
Jared Savage
Opinion Page Editor

Erin Perry
Amy Cox
Shawn Bruce
Frank Kleemann
Brian Anderson

Richard Andrade
Jodell Lamer
David Mayes
Derek Thoman
Heather Anderson

John Hart
Tom Lister
Mark Engler
Lajean Rau
Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Amendment increases rights

THE ISSUE

The proposed Victim's Rights Amendment would further protect the victims of crime.

WE SUGGEST

When the amendment appears on the Nov. 3 ballot, put an "X" in the "Yes" box.

Victims of crime often feel that they are again being victimized when they go through the legal process.

They have indicated that it is not worth the effort to go through a system that gives them little consideration.

This very lack of consideration has now led to the proposal of the Victims' Rights Constitutional Amendment.

This amendment would ensure that victims of crime would be guaranteed certain basic rights, as long as they do not interfere with the defendant's statutory or constitutional rights.

These rights, as stated on the ballot, would include "the right to be informed and be present at public hearings and be heard at sentencing or at any other time deemed appropriate by the court."

The victims' rights amendment would not create an opportunity to sue for money damages against the state, county or any municipality. Nor would the amendment authorize a court to set aside or void a verdict.

States such as Florida, Michigan and Washington have similar amendments. The judicial system's effectiveness in these states has been improved. Victims in these states are treated with dignity and respect as partners in the legal system. There has also been increased cooperation.

You can help make it happen Tuesday by voting "yes" on the amendment.

Equal rights should include those who are victimized as well as the accused. It's time people paid attention to the most important function of our government — protecting the life, liberty and property of the American people.

Leaving abusive men easier said than done

In the five minutes that it will take you to read this column, 20 women across the United States will have been beaten in their own homes.

The Bureau of Justice National Crime Survey has also estimated that one out of every two women will be subjected to physical abuse at one point or another during her lifetime.

What may be even more shocking is that the violence discussed here does not originate with some lurking stranger who selects his victims at random. Instead, the abuse stems from the person the woman may love more than anyone else — her husband or boyfriend.

Physical abuse shouldn't be thought of in a vacuum; it's almost always accompanied with psychological abuse. Violence doesn't have to leave a visible mark to inflict pain.

Sexist jokes targeted at putting down women are demeaning. Encouraging women to dress in a sexual manner that makes them feel uncomfortable is degrading. And expecting women to be supportive of their partners wanting to date around, while they are simultaneously discouraged to do so, can be devastating.

Such sexual abuse may be more subtle than physical abuse, but the effects may be just as damaging.

Besides the sexual connotation, women are subjected to other forms of emotional abuse. To make women feel trapped and unable to leave a relationship, men will often tell their partners that they are fat, overweight or ugly. Men might also take away material things like money or the car, to make women feel helpless.

If a woman were to talk of leaving, the man may threaten violence or suicide to keep her "in her place." Insults, public humiliation and control over decision-making are all forms of emotional abuse.

But instead of recognizing the role men play in battering, we often attempt to find weaknesses in the character of women. She may be assessed as "contributing to" or "causing" the abuse she receives.

A good example might be, "If a woman is being beaten on a regular basis, why doesn't she just leave?" As the argument goes, it's the woman's fault if she insists on returning to an environment prone to abuse.

This approach to the abuse of women, however, is bankrupt. Although there are a variety of models that portray what is referred to as the cycle of violence, G i n n y N i C a r t h y, in her book "Getting Free: A Handbook for Women in Abusive Relationships," describes it as a three-stage cycle.

In the first stage, labeled "tension-building," the batterer may be irritable and short-tempered. She will blame herself for his behavior, "walking on eggshells" to keep him calm and content.

By the second stage, he turns violent in a rage that may include yelling, shoving, slapping, kicking, choking, hitting, biting, raping or some threatening act with a weapon. She may try and fight back, plea for mercy, apologize or call for help.

Finally, in the third stage, referred to as the "honeymoon stage," the man will apologize, promising that he will be a saint until the end of time, and beg for her forgiveness. When the woman accepts, things may seem normal for a while. But the cycle repeats itself as soon as the man becomes irritable again.

It is during all three stages that the battered woman experiences denial. She will tell family, friends and even herself that there is not a problem with him and that she must be responsible for his behavior. And the abuse only gets worse.

Although this description is oversimplified, it provides an explanation for why women, who are abused simply do not get up and walk out of an abusive relationship.

Recognizing that women are not to blame is a first step in ending the cycle of violence. Expecting the abuse to end on its own is wishful thinking, at best. Blaming yourself for his behavior must end.

DAVID FILIPPI

Cheney wants no academic challenge

At the next Landon Lecture, the K-State community has the opportunity to begin to learn more about an academic controversy now raging about the role of the humanities in higher education and in society.

The speaker is the chairwoman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, Lynne Cheney, a Reagan appointee who is the center of a storm about "politicizing" education, a practice she claims has brought universities to the verge of requiring "allegiance to a political agenda," as she writes in her just-published report on the state of the humanities.

That report, with its battle-cry title "Telling the Truth," reminded me of the spirit of the Republican National Convention, at least in its Pat Buchanan mode — a nasty tone of enemy lists, intolerance, demonization and labeling that most serious Republicans found offensive.

It is no accident that the "cultural war," called for by Buchanan, is echoed by her, or that George Will should write that Cheney is the best reason to vote for Bush. Will even says that the enemies she fights in universities are more dangerous than the Iraqis her husband, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, helped destroy.

I guess I must be one of these enemies. This I infer from the slurs in her report. So, I'd better fight a little now, since the largely honorific Landon series doesn't give space for rebuttal.

Perhaps I can give an idea of what to expect from her talk, if her vicious "Telling the Truth" is any indicator.

First, she will avoid the details of the controversies about her own politicization of the endowment, involving funding grants for scholarly research and teaching.

Here are some examples: the ignoring of the peer-review evaluations of grants, some whose funding was axed even after approval; the packing of panels with conservative scholars and appointments of the unqualified; the kiss of death for applications mentioning certain scholar's names or sometimes approaches like feminism, as some of her own staff would advise applicants.

Next, here is a checklist of tactics you might hear:

Attack "relativism." This non-issue, since it has been a staple of much academic thought for the entire century, at least, is a simplistic scare tactic. Never deal with the content of any serious scholarship, say, in philosophy, on the matter. In fact, don't cite actual scholarship at all, or take it out of context, especially if it were tongue-in-cheek, playful or meant to sound provocative.

Build up the "political correctness" straw man. Never mind the political purpose of your own appointment, or that the phrase "PC" came not from conservatives but from the self-critique of left activists about those among them who parrot positions unreflectively.

Sometimes call for conservative voices to be allowed to present their politics; at other times call for all professors to prevent all possible points of view, as if this were ever the case in the history of universities.

If you must mention actual scholarship, just caricature and distort it, whenever possible exploiting popular anti-intellectualism. She condemns a Smithsonian exhibit, "The West in America," for finding a "hidden agenda," such as racism, in paintings such as Remington's of cowboys and Indians.

Distorting what its authors write, Cheney calls for only seeing "beauty and adventure" in the paintings, whereas they write that they simply cannot keep silent about the rest of the story — which the "balance" Cheney otherwise calls for.

In her attack on PC, she ignores the mounting number of racial incidents on campuses nationwide in recent years. We don't see in the past what we don't want to see in the present.

Amazingly, Cheney follows this attack by recommending that "knowledgeable" people just refuse to attend such museum exhibits. I guess that must be how they stay "knowledgeable" — by avoiding ideas that challenge preconceptions or habits of belief.

Now, why would anyone think the "truth" her report calls for is a bit defective, even on her own terms? And whose politicizing is worse?

Don Hedrick is a professor of English and director of the cultural studies program.

DON HEDRICK
GUEST COLUMNIST

READERS WRITE

LIBERAL MEDIA

Columnist uses only conservative sources

Editor,

Can Ray Russell (Oct. 21) be serious in recommending John Hart's Oct. 19 column ("Mass media reeks of liberal bias") for Journalism 101 students?

Hart's column would be useful in a journalism class only as an example of the very kind of distortion he and Russell criticize. The sources he uses to back up his arguments are ones that are guaranteed to find "liberal bias," or, failing that, to pull it out of thin air.

For example, he cites a study by a Dennis Lowry at Jerry Falwell's Liberty University. Lowry found the media favoring the Mondale/Ferraro ticket in 1984. What a surprise! Rev. Falwell and his flock could find left-wing messages in the cooking directions on a box of oatmeal.

The Center for (not "of") Media and Public Affairs, also referenced by Hart, has an impressive name. So, I did some checking. The center, as it turns out, has a reputation for wildly exaggerating the degree of "liberal bias" in the media — usually by generalizing from tiny bits of highly selected data. This was the methodology used in its 1980 book "The Media Elite," the study apparently cited by Hart.

At the time of its founding in the mid-80s, the center was strongly endorsed by journalistic scholars such as Pat Buchanan, Pat Robertson, Ed Meese and Ronald Reagan.

John Hart is correct when he urges us to read news and opinion articles critically. But he should follow his own advice and not treat right-wing tracts as serious research.

T.S. Cox
Adjunct associate professor/Agronomy

Paper waste has become a problem on universities across the United States. This has caused the implication of numerous recycling efforts by universities. I feel K-State has made efforts to recycle by making it convenient for students to drop off their recyclable items at various campus sights.

However, due to the cost of recycling, this has become a burden. According to the article "Campus program active" by Katie Walker in the Oct. 16 Collegian, it was stated that the K-State Union even has to pay to get rid of some of its recyclable products. This article also said that only 2 percent of the University's trash is recycled.

I believe that in order to reduce the amount of paper waste on our campus, we must stop and think of how much paper waste we produce daily and make efforts to cut down on this amount.

We can no longer rely on recycling efforts alone, since the demand for recyclable goods is decreasing, and it is no longer cost effective to recycle.

Faculty/instructors could reduce the amount of waste by copying on both sides of their papers, and by cutting the piece of paper to fit the amount of information on it. Students can also reduce the amount of paper they use by writing on both sides of the paper when taking notes, and by using paper recycling bins to discard their class notes and handouts.

The recycling efforts of the University, together with the efforts of the faculty/instructors and the students, could produce a more waste-free University.

DeeAnna Hubbard
Sophomore/Business administration
And 13 others

AIDS

Gay casual contact cause for concern

Editor,

I've been meaning to write this letter for a some time. I suppose AIDS Awareness Week made it seem more necessary. I'm writing in an attempt to discourage high-risk sexual contact, specifically in campus restrooms.

I am a bisexual. Before a negative HIV test last summer, I occasionally visited the first-floor restroom in the K-State Union. This restroom, along with the second floor Union restroom and basement restrooms in Seaton and Anderson halls, is a notorious "Tea Room."

A Tea Room is a place where gay and bisexual men gather to engage in casual sex. Typically, a man will sit in one of the stalls, pretending to use the toilet, until another man enters an adjacent cell and taps his foot. From there, a crude bargaining system can arrange anything from exhibitionism to oral and anal sex.

The point of this letter is not to moralize or attempt to discourage homosexual contact. And a University attempt to crack down on Tea Rooms wouldn't work. I know from experience that when a Tea Room is shut down, another pops up in its place.

The point of this letter is simple: To those in the gay and bisexual community who frequent campus Tea Rooms, think about what you're doing.

If you engage in Tea Room sex, you don't know anything about your partner or your partner's sexual history. Older men come all the way from

MOVIE

Weight problem no laughing matter

Editor,

I recently attended the movie "At Play in the Fields of the Lord." This show covered everything from hypocritical holy men to discrimination of American Indians and Amazonian Indians. But there was one issue that most of the viewers seemed to miss. One of the characters suffered from a weight problem.

This was a struggle within her character, as well as an issue with the rest of the characters. Yet, some people saw this prejudice as the comic relief of the film. They did not seem to realize that discrimination against overweight people is a real problem. It is no different than the issues of sexual or ethnic discrimination.

Hello, out there. When will you who are laughing finally see that there is not a perfect model of the human anatomy? It is the actions of someone that should make them beautiful, not their physical appearance. And that was a pretty ugly crowd.

Kristina Owen
Junior/Geography

RECYCLING

Campus should fix waste problems

Editor,

I have a complaint about the amount of paper that faculty/instructors and students are wasting on our campus.

See CONTACT Page 5A

COMMENTARY

Contact dangerous
CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4A

Topeka and Kansas City to cruise campus restrooms for "fresh meat." Even clean-looking collegiate types put you at risk because of their promiscuity. And if you're infected, think about your part in the spread of disease.

AIDS isn't the only threat. There's a long list: herpes, VD, genital warts, arrests for lewd and lascivious conduct. How would you explain them to your lover or your family?

Please avoid oral and anal contact. Don't exchange bodily fluids. If you cannot avoid the Tea Rooms, do yourself and your community a favor — look, but don't touch.

Better yet, stop going to the Tea Room. If you can't stop on your own, seek help. There are 12-step programs for sexual compulsives.

Just remember, casual sex is unfulfilling, no matter what your sexual orientation is. And nowadays, it can be deadly.

K-State student
Name withheld by request

Candidates missing the really important issues

One of the graduate students I share an office with has been wearing a button these last few months proclaiming "Another Woman Against Bush."

The way I see this election, you might as well just leave the name open. There really is no good choice for women, for poor folks, minorities and the rest of us disenfranchised voters-in the big race.

Yes, my problem is that I am another woman against Bush, but I also have problems with Bill Clinton and Ross Perot. None of these gentlemen seem to be even interested in the same issues about which I'm concerned. Call them women's issues, if you will, but I prefer to think of them as human problems that know no gender.

I have tried to keep out of the political arena on this page for a number of reasons. First, I know my politics run way the hell to the left of the mainstream, and I can accept that a general audience is not going to be interested in my rantings. So, I save my energy for folks who really are more accessible.

Also, I just get so tired of everyone and their brother trying to push their political convictions down everyone else's throats. It's as if they had some great revelation from Mount Sinai.

All this political posturing just makes me wonder why the speaker must feel the need to push his or her ideas and opinions on the rest of us. Do they think we're too stupid to notice the obvious? Maybe they just like to hear the sound of their own voices. It's like I tell my freshman composition students — don't write about religion, sex or drinking adventures in my class. Those stories aren't near as exciting to the rest of us as they are to you.

I won't give you my take on the politicians, or even reveal that I'm still holding out for a last minute write-in campaign of Jerry Brown and Bob Kerrey (oops!).

The thing that I think voters need to hear is simply this: Pay damn close attention to the issues that affect you — your real everyday life — for these next four years.

Everyone has his or her own agenda. My dad worries about big business, because he is a businessman. My brother works for the Department of Defense. So, he worries about funding bombers and cutting defense budgets. That's the world they know.

My world is very different from theirs. As a woman, I worry about things that affect the economic life of people outside of the power base — women, the poor, etc. I worry about a Republican-appointed Supreme Court yanking Roe v. Wade. They've already cut off the 40 million women who depend on federal funding for the health care. So, they have already put a big dent in our right to an abortion.

I worry about the fact that the United States is perhaps a generation away from a program where everyone has access to some form of medical care. Meaning if it's not free, it's supported by the government. If we keep calling it scary words like "socialized medicine," we may never see it become a reality.

I worry about day care and family leave and education and the loss of working class jobs. I worry about this great battle between the haves and have-nots in this country, a battle that seems to get more intense and deadly with each year. Witness the Los Angeles riots.

These shouldn't be "feminist" or simply women's issues — they should be first and foremost in everyone's mind. I can let some of the big problems fly on faith alone, if I can trust a candidate to cover the homefront responsibly.

I guess responsibility is the key. This week, the responsibility is still in your hands. Go to the library and read up on the issues and the candidates.

And for heaven's sake, go vote.

LISA EDMUNDS

CAMPAIGN MANUAL

Candidate should run on record's strength

Editor,

It was just a few weeks ago that we read about the Republican campaign manual, which instructs Republican candidates to investigate their opponents' backgrounds. It appeared that the "manual" hadn't made it out to our area, but I was wrong.

Sen. Lana Oleen's comments disturbed me, when I read an interview in the Oct. 25 Manhattan Mercury. In it, she was quoted as saying, "My records indicate that Miss (Michelle) Smith has never voted in a real election other than the presidential primary."

What other personal background information does Sen. Oleen have in her "records"? I believe that Oleen and other politicians should run on the strength of their own records.

The American people are tired of all the negative campaign tactics and mudslinging. If Oleen believes that her record is so impeccable, then why doesn't she run on it?

If this is the best attack that could be made on Michelle Smith's record, both personal and political, then clearly she must be the candidate of choice.

One need only talk to Michelle to understand that she is for real. She cares about Kansas and will fight for us in Topeka. She won't let us down. Please join me on Nov. 3 by voting for Michelle Smith.

Thomas Maier
Manhattan resident

ARE YOU READY FOR SOMETHING DIFFERENT...SOMETHING BETTER?

JAZZ IT UP!

DINNER AND DANCE IN
"MEMORIES RESTAURANT"

Featuring Live Music by Jazz Quintet

"IMAGINE THAT"
ACCOMPANIED BY
CHEF DON'S CULINARY CHORUS OF:

ALL YOU CAN EAT
PRIME RIB...ORANGE ROUGHY...
BAKED HAM
SALAD BAR AND HOT APPETIZERS

All this Food, Dancing, Music and Fun for one low price...$13.95

Dinner served from
5:30 to 10 p.m.
Jazz and Dancing from
7 to 11 p.m.

Reservations recommended
Call 539-7531

When dining out, remember...
THE RAMADA'S INN!
17th & Anderson

Free Valet Parking Courtesy of First Class Valet Service

STREETSIDE RECORDS®

HITS
UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Me Phi Me took the hip from rock, the rhythm from blues and added some folk for the folks. Their debut album, One, features live acoustic guitars over poetry and groovy street beats.

GUARANTEED HIT!
IF YOU DON'T LIKE
THIS RECORDING,
WE'LL EXCHANGE IT
FOR ANOTHER!

$6.99 Cassette
$11.99 CD

Sale ends 11/24/92

1231 Moro • 776-7373
Stay Streetsmart, Shop Streetside!

Looking for that special gift? Gift coins
available for any occasion.

Pizza Hut®
DELIVERY
Makin' it great!
CALL THE LOCATION
NEAREST YOU.
•AGGIEVILLE 539-7666
•WESTLOOP 539-7447
•3RD & MORO 776-4334

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. 776-5577
FirstBank Center
PIZZA SHUTTLE
"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time
Special
3 - 10 in. Pizzas
1 - Topping
4 - Cokes
$10.50

Everyday
Two-Fers
2 - 10 in. Pizzas
2 - Topping
2 - Cokes
$8.50

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

DOMINO'S PIZZA
Nobody Knows
Like Domino's
Domino's Pizza Now Accepts
All Local Competitor's Coupons!
Must Mention Coupon When Ordering
Limited Time Offer

776-7788 517 N. 12th, Aggieville

Mon.-Thurs. 4 p.m.-12 a.m.
Friday 4 p.m.-2 a.m.
Saturday 12 p.m.-2 a.m.
Sunday 12 p.m.-12 a.m.

Christopher O'Bryan's
PUB and GRILL

Looking for that special gift? Gift coins available for any occasion.

☘ Sun. $1 Nachos $3 Pitchers
☘ Mon. $2 Big Beers
☘ Tues. 75¢ Draws
☘ Wed. $1 Bottles
☘ Thurs. $1.50 Wells $2 Imports
☘ Fri. $3 Pitchers 50¢ Irish Kamis
☘ Sat. 50¢ Irish Kamis

"Food, Drinks, Friends and Fun...
All at Christopher O'Bryan's Pub and Grill"

1129 Laramie (old Eegee's Building) ☘ 776-7050

Royal Purple

*Behind the scenes of the Royal Purple,
you'll find 13 dedicated students who are working to record your memories.*

"As academics editor, I am trying to make the section more exciting than before by focusing on student involvement rather than faculty."

*— Aaron Graham, Academics Editor
Sophomore in business administration
Paola, Kansas*

Order your 1992-93 Royal Purple in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union). Total price is $21 - which includes yearbook and sitting fee. Call 532-6106 to schedule a photo time. Pictures are being taken in Union 209.

SPORTS

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

OU next for slumping Cats

K-State takes 3-game skid to Norman

FRANK KLEMMANN
Collegian

Forgetting the past, looking to the future and thinking positively is K-State's attitude before playing the Oklahoma Sooners at 1 p.m. Saturday in Norman.

"I'd like to think we'll get a little better," K-State coach Bill Snyder said.

The Cats, having negative rushing yardage in two of the last three games, know what the problems are and hope to eliminate them as soon as possible — starting in Norman.

"We have communications problems. We have mechanical problems. We have executing problems, and there is a lot to add to that," Snyder said.

"But I'd like to say that they are correctable, and I believe in the abilities of our players.

"We have people who care and have dedication to this program. I have a great faith in the players."

The Sooners have their own problems. Coming into the season as one of the big three of the Big Eight, Oklahoma hasn't won in its last three games.

After tying Colorado, the Sooners lost to KU 27-10 last Saturday, falling to a 3-3-1 season record.

"I couldn't say that they are not as good a football team as they were a year ago," Snyder said. "They didn't play as well as they are capable of last week. But, I'm sure they are up for this football game."

Sooner quarterback Cale Gundy injured his shoulder in the third quarter against the Hawks and will most likely miss the game. Senior quarterback Steve Collins will fill in for Gundy, who set three school records before being injured.

Snyder said it won't affect Oklahoma's offense.

"Gundy is doing things that Collins does, and Collins does something Gundy does," Snyder said. "They are in the same system."

Wildcat wide receiver Gerald Benton said the key to an improved game is to have each player concentrate on his own job.

"Everyone has to start not worrying about what everyone else does," Benton said.

"The season is not over yet. We know what to do. We have to move the ball and just execute.

"I don't get down. I say, let's go out

J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian

Eric Gallon, K-State running back, gets tackled in last year's 28-7 loss to Oklahoma in Norman.

there and do it."

Inside linebacker Brooks Barta said the team is somewhat frustrated, but it knows the defense has to be the backbone now.

"We clearly have the idea of what to do to eliminate the mistakes," he said. "I think things are just not clicking right now in the offense. The defense's goal is to stay on the field as little as possible. But we have to do what it takes to win until the offensive line gets up and clicks."

Punter Sean Snyder, who is the No. 1 punter in the nation with an average 48.7 yards, is also looking for the "click."

"Sooner or later, they will click. I'd give up everything I've done this year if we would win," he said.

"It's just a rough year, but we are keeping up the hard work."

BASKETBALL

Melman to highlight Midnight Madness

"His personality and mine are a lot alike. We both are boring and don't say much."

DANA ALTMAN

Letterman sidekick to tip off basketball; Wefald, Richards to compete

BRIAN ANDERSON
Collegian

The special appearance of Larry "Bud" Melman will highlight Midnight Madness Saturday night at Bramlage Coliseum.

The event kicks off the 1992-93 men's basketball season.

Melman appears somewhat regularly on the TV show, "Late Night with David Letterman."

"I understand that his personality and mine are a lot alike," Wildcats coach Dana Altman said of Melman. "We both are boring and don't say much. When we do say something, it sounds awkward."

Another event will be a 3-point shooting contest between K-State President Jon Wefald and Athletic Director Milt Richards.

"I don't think we have any prospects there," Altman said. "The president can shoot and is the favorite to win."

Richards said he is in a no-win situation.

"If I win, I'll probably get fired," he said. "If I lose, I'll be embarrassed."

Former K-State players will play in an alumni game as part of the festivities. The players are Will Scott, Fred McCoy, Billy Ray Smith, Keith Amerson, Lance Simmons, Steve Fritz, Carlos Diggins, Walter Wright, John Rettiger and Percie Eddie.

K-State was 16-14 for the season last year and tied for sixth in the Big Eight with a 5-9 record. The team qualified for the NIT postseason tournament and lost in the second round to Notre Dame.

Altman starts his third year as K-State head coach. His record as the Cats coach is 29-29.

Altman's coaching staff for the year includes Ken Turner, Greg Gensing and Pete Herrmann. Herrmann comes to K-State after serving as the head coach at Navy for six years, where a David Robinson-led team went 26-6.

The Big Eight Conference preseason media poll has the Cats finishing seventh in the conference, ahead of only Colorado.

Junior swingman Askia Jones, who led the team in scoring last year with 15.5 points a game, received the eighth most votes for preseason all-Big Eight team and one vote for preseason player of the year.

Five newcomers join this year's team. Headlining the newcomers is junior guard Anthony Beane. Beane, a transfer from Three Rivers Community College, Mo., received two votes for preseason newcomer of the year award.

Sophomore guard Sean Robbins and freshman forward George Hill will be eligible this season after redshirting a year ago.

Robbins, who picked up a vote for newcomer of the year, said that the jaw that he injured in a car accident during the off-season is doing better. He said he is going to be fitted for a mask that will protect the injured jaw.

The doors open at 9 p.m. Saturday night. Activities begin at 10 p.m. Admission for the first practice is $1.

"It should be an interesting evening," Altman said.

"I hope everybody has fun with it."

► COLORADO at NEBRASKA

FAST FACTS: 3 p.m., Memorial Stadium, Lincoln, Neb.

RECORDS: Colorado (6-0-1, 2-0-1) and Nebraska (5-1, 2-0).

THE LINE: Nebraska by 5 1/2.

ABOUT THE BUFFALOES: The Buffaloes' 54-7 win against the Wildcats last week was a nice warmup for what could be the best game of the year for both teams, tied at the No. 8 ranking in the nation. Colorado is No. 1 in the conference, and fourth in the country, in passing offense, averaging more than 330 yards through the air every game. The Buffaloes have, however, been susceptible to turnovers, giving up the ball 28 times in seven games this season.

ABOUT THE HUSKERS: Nebraska survived a scare from the Missouri Tigers last week, being up by just 3 points with less than 10 minutes to play, before sealing the 34-24 win. The Huskers continue to lead the nation in rushing offense, averaging 347 yards a game on the ground. Sophomore Calvin Jones and junior Derek Brown are first and second in the conference rushing, averaging 108 and 104 yards a game, respectively. Nebraska has just 10 turnovers all year.

THE SKINNY: The matchup between the conference's No. 1 offense (Nebraska) and the No. 2 defense (Colorado) will be a good one. This could be the game that propels one of the two teams to an Orange Bowl berth, so both squads will be playing with fire. Colorado hasn't lost a Big Eight game since 1988. The last team to beat them? Nebraska. That unbeaten streak, now at 25, is in serious jeopardy.

► OKLAHOMA ST. at KANSAS

FAST FACTS: 1 p.m., Memorial Stadium, Lawrence.

RECORDS: Oklahoma State (4-3, 2-1) and Kansas (6-1, 3-0).

THE LINE: Kansas by 20.

ABOUT THE COWBOYS: Despite Oklahoma State's winning record, the Cowboys rank seventh — ahead of only K-State — in the conference, and 101st in the nation, offensively. Giving up more than 380 yards a game, the Cowboys are also seventh in the Big Eight in total yards given up.

ABOUT THE JAYHAWKS: This No. 18 Jayhawk team is proving more and more that it is for real. Last week's win against the Sooners was another justification. The Hawks lead the conference in rushing defense, giving up 113 yards a game. Kansas is giving up less than 270 total yards every game, first in the conference and 10th in the nation. Offensively, KU's 40.3 points a game is third in the nation. KU running backs Monte Cozzens and Maurice Douglas are averaging a combined total of 129 points a game.

THE SKINNY: A statistical mismatch. Despite the fact that the Cowboys are riding their first two-game winning streak since 1989, this one belongs to the Hawks.

► MISSOURI at IOWA STATE

FAST FACTS: 1 p.m., Cyclone Stadium, Ames, Iowa.

RECORDS: Missouri (1-6, 0-3) and Iowa State (2-5, 0-3).

THE LINE: Missouri by 1.

ABOUT THE TIGERS: The Tigers, last year's Big Eight passing leader, is second through the air this season.

Missouri is averaging more than 295 yards a game passing. Wide receiver Victor Bailey has caught 41 passes for 706 yards. The rushing attack, however, is averaging less than 3 yards a carry, putting more emphasis on the arm of sophomore quarterback Jeff Handy.

ABOUT THE CYCLONES: Iowa State was held to 6 passing yards in last year's contest between the two teams. The Cyclones rank dead last in the Big Eight in passing defense, giving up more than 133 yards a game.

Offensively, the Cyclones are gaining more than 181 yards a game on the ground, third in the conference.

THE SKINNY: Missouri's record is deceiving. Missouri has given both Colorado and Nebraska good games. Although Missouri's lone win is against Division I-AA Marshall, the Tigers are an improved team. Coach Bob Stull has given up the rushing attack and says Missouri will live or die through the air. Against the Clones, look for the former.

— compiled by Steve Rock

SPORTS DIGEST

► ANNOUNCER HOSPITALIZED

WICHITA (AP) — Dev Nelson, known for decades as the "Voice of the Wildcats," is hospitalized in Wichita.

Nelson, K-State announcer for 25 years, was in critical condition early Thursday.

He was admitted to the hospital after suffering a heart attack. Twelve hours later, he had a stroke.

► CHIEFS WAIVE MURRAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs waived kicker Eddie Murray on Wednesday after he kicked in one game as a substitute for the injured

Nick Lowery.

Murray made a 52-yard field goal in his only attempt Sunday night in the Chiefs 27-3 loss to Pittsburgh.

► STREAK IN JEOPARDY

HOUSTON (AP) — Otis Thorpe's reign as the NBA's current "iron man" is likely about to end. A kidney injury suffered by the Houston Rockets forward during an exhibition game last week will keep him out of several games.

Thorpe has played in 542 consecutive games and has started the last 493.

VOLLEYBALL

Spikers hope to end 11-game losing streak

J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian

Senior Kathy Saxton takes a spike off her face during the first game of the Cats' match against Missouri Wednesday night.

Winning point by point concept to defeat UMKC

TONYA FOSTER

Collegian

K-State will meet UMKC in its last home game for three weeks at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Ahearn Field House.

It is K-State's last chance to snap out of the second-longest losing streak in history before going on the road.

"We're still training and learning point after point," Coach Patti Hagemeyer said. "It is something you have to believe in."

The spikers have extended their losing streak to 11, after their defeat against Missouri last Wednesday night.

The Kangaroos' record is 15-15, 3-6 on the road.

"I think it is appropriate at this point to have a non-conference game," Hagemeyer said. "At this point, we want to be more successful with what we have and fight harder."

This is the longest losing streak for the Cats in 17 years. In 1975, K-State lost 32 matches in a row.

"We are working hard to break it," Hagemeyer said. "It's kind of like the football article in the Collegian, 'Wins down, attitudes up.' That is what we are going through."

Junior middle and outside hitter Courtney Bond leads the Kangaroos with an attack average of .293 per game. Cats senior outside hitter Kathy Saxton has an attack average of .251, but she has boosted her number of kills to 426. Bond has 275 kills.

■ See SPIKERS Page 10B

Cats ready to run fast

Cross country squads look for league titles

FRANK KLEEMANN
Collegian

The K-State cross country teams are heading to the Big Eight championships well-prepared and knowing that both squads have a chance of winning team titles.

The conference championships are Saturday in Boulder, Colo.

On the women's side, the Cats are one of the two top teams in the 2,000-meter run at the Lake Valley Golf Course.

Although K-State's No. 16 ranking is higher than Nebraska's No. 20, the Huskers are favored for the title.

"Nebraska will be the one to watch for," Coach John Capriotti said. "We're a little deeper than they are, but they are really solid up front."

Fran ten Bensel, the defending individual champion, is Nebraska's strongest runner and gives the Huskers a slight advantage going into the meet.

"Ten Bensel is the favorite," student assistant coach Todd Trask said. "She was at the Olympic trials for the 1,500-meter. She is a real tough runner who can challenge the national title."

But having one of the best runners in the nation is not a guarantee to win the team title.

"The key for us to win is to run in a pack and let Paulette Staats step up," Trask said. "If she runs as well as she did all year, we have a chance to challenge Nebraska for the championship."

Staats said K-State's squad has a shot to capture the title for the first time since 1982.

"I think the odds are better than last year," she said, referring to last year's second-place finish behind Nebraska. "The key is that everyone has to run their best."

Whether Staats can compete with ten Bensel is not the main concern, Trask said.

"Paulette's biggest thing will be to be in the top five," he said. "But I think it's better for Paulette to run a good race and help the team to win."

Staats said her main concern is the performance of the team.

"The team title is more important to me, because we came so close in the last years," she said.

Along with Staats, senior Jennifer Hillier, sophomore Martha Pinto and the other runners had a good year and should push the team to its limits.

"If everyone runs a little more aggressive and faster, we can win," Trask said.

The men's harriers also are one of the stronger teams in the league. The Cats enter the 8,000-meter race ranked 22nd in the nation, just behind Colorado (9th) and Iowa State (11th).

Trask said the race is totally open. Iowa State, dominating the league in recent years and winning in the last five, lost several seniors, including two-time individual champion Jonah Koech.

"We are all equal by now," Trask said. "Iowa State is not as strong as in the last year, but they are always a tough team."

Capriotti said Colorado runners, being used to the altitude, have an advantage.

Junior Francis O'Neill will lead the way for K-State. O'Neill just competed in two previous runs, but he still is K-State's key to improve from last year's third-place tie with Kansas.

"Francis has run really well for us," Trask said. "Francis is a solid

"The team title is more important to me, because we came so close in the last years."

PAULETTE STAATS

■ See RUNNERS Page 10B

COLUMN

Fans might see all-purple weekend

Rolling down the road in search of Norman, Okla., we have just passed Herrington, closing in on Florence.

Later, we will look at the football team playing at a vulnerable Oklahoma squad. For now, let's take a look at one of the busier weekends in K-State sports, as six teams take six streaks into action over the weekend.

■ Women's cross country at the Big Eight championship in Boulder, Co. — Despite being underdogs to the favorite Nebraska, there is hope for the Wildcats to bring home the conference championship for the first time since 1982.

K-State is ranked 16th in the country, and only Nebraska at No. 20 joins the Wildcats in the national polls.

How elusive have conference titles been to Kansas State?

The Wildcats haven't won a conference crown, in any sport, since the 1987 women's basketball team finished the regular season in a three-way tie for first.

Since that title in March of '87, Nebraska has claimed 42 conference titles, Oklahoma State 28 1/2, Iowa State 10, Kansas 8 1/2, Oklahoma 7 1/2, Missouri 4, and Colorado 3 1/2.

■ Men's cross country at the Big Eight championship in Boulder, Co. — The No. 22-ranked men will have to overcome recent tradition to come away with a conference title Saturday. Iowa State has won five consecutive Big Eight titles and seven of the last nine.

Junior Francis O'Neill has paced the Wildcats, posting team best times in the last two races.

How elusive have conference titles been to Kansas State men's teams?

The last time a Wildcat men's squad finished on top was the Jack Hartman-coached basketball team of 1977. That means more than 15 years without a conference title by any men's team.

In case your curious, the rest of the conference has posted the following number of championships since Mike Evans and Curtis Redding brought the title home: Oklahoma State 46, Nebraska 36 1/2, Oklahoma 24 1/2, Iowa State 23 1/2, Kansas 15 1/2, Missouri and Colorado 9.

■ Volleyball hosts Missouri-Kansas City on Saturday — Youth-oriented K-State tries to snap an 11-match losing streak.

The Kangaroos are 15-15 on the season and provide K-State its best chance to win a remaining home match this season.

That leaves this Saturday's match as K-State's best opportunity to get senior Kathy Saxton one more home win.

The Mulvane native will likely end her K-State career as the all-time leader in kills and attacks. That is the volleyball equivalent of topping the career charts in field goals made and attempted.

Saxton deserved a better fate for her senior campaign than she has received so far, and a win Saturday may help ease the sting of this season.

■ Men's basketball begins practice Saturday night — Midnight Madness kicks off Dana Altman's third season as Wildcat coach.

It will be the fans' first opportunity to see two standout point guards in Brian Gavin and Anthony Beane.

Gavin, a 6-1 guard noted for his quickness and outside shooting touch, was ranked as one of the top 150 high-school players in the country a year ago.

Beane, a 5-10 guard noted for his leadership abilities, is from Three Rivers Junior College. A year ago, the junior averaged 11.8 points per game.

The Cats hope the recruiting class, coupled with the return of Askia Jones, Vincent Jackson and company, will be enough to return to the NCAA tournament — an event K-State has been in 20 times, but not since 1990.

■ Women's basketball begins sometime Sunday — It's too bad that, with more than two hours of pre-Midnight Madness festivities, there isn't enough time to take five minutes to introduce the women's team in what would likely be the largest student gathering acknowledgement of the season.

Following last seasons' 5-23 mark, Coach Susan Yow is preaching intrinsic values in an effort to make this season different.

It's somewhat fitting that the hard-work ethic will take its first step Sunday.

No hoopla, no bands. Just the relief of being 0-0 for the first time in 12 months.

■ Football at Oklahoma on Saturday — That brings us back to football.

The Wildcats haven't beaten Oklahoma since a 1970 win in Norman. But if ever there was a time to beat Oklahoma, this is it.

The struggling Sooners will likely be booed by the home crowd, as they take the turf Saturday with a 3-3-1 record.

Two home defeats and losses to Texas and Kansas won't sit well with the Oklahoma faithful.

All items point to an upset. All items except for one, K-State's offense — and that's a pretty big one.

Six sports, six streaks. How many will change?

There, in the distance, could it be, the bright lights of El Dorado?

MIKE MAY

Friday & Saturday night
Oct. 30 & 31 from 9 p.m.-1 a.m.
Romp & Stomp
to the sounds of
Dave English &
"The English Versions"
$3 Cover, Call for reservations

537-8440
on Ft. Riley Blvd.
Across from the Holidome

DIRECT DEPOSIT AT UNB:

IT'S A BETTER IDEA THAN EVER.

Count on UNB for fast, accurate direct deposit of your K-State paycheck. We're Manhattan's experts in electronic funds transfer. We're always working to make banking more convenient for you. There are so many good reasons to use direct deposit now.

- UNB will continue your direct deposit transactions without interruption — or start a new direct deposit account quickly and easily for you.
- More secure than taking your paycheck to the bank — guard against loss or theft ...
- More convenient — you don't have to make special arrangements to deposit your paycheck if you're busy or out of town.
- Budget planning is easier, because your direct deposit funds are available immediately at UNB.

Remember! Return your Direct Deposit form to KSU Personnel Dept.
For information, call 537-1234.

Union National Bank & Trust Co.

MAIN BANK: 8th & Poyntz • WEST BANK: Westloop Shopping Center
DRIVE-THROUGH BANK: 8th & Houston • PHONE 913-537-1234
ATM LOCATIONS: Kansas State Student Union, Main Bank,
Manhattan Town Center Mall & West Bank

Equal Opportunity Lender

Flipping the bird puts Ugly Kid on censorship list

Music retailers across the land are refusing to stock the debut LP of the rock band Ugly Kid Joe, and, curiously enough, it's not due to the quality of the music.

The reason lies with the album cover, depicting the Ugly Kid Joe cartoon character as the Statue of Liberty "flipping the bird." In a shockingly fierce show of utter defiance, the band's record label responded with censored artwork of the kid gagged and with his middle finger amputated.

Usually, when an act of censorship occurs, many erupt in outrage. In this case, no one really seems to care. Hmmm — a reflection on the band's talent, perhaps?

From cheeseburgers to No. 1 on the NYT list

You'd think after penning such sensitively titled ballads such as "Why Don't We Get Drunk and Screw" and "Cheeseburger in Paradise," singer Jimmy Buffet would be all written out.

Not at all.

In fact, he's got a new book out. "Where Is Joe Merchant?" just hit No. 1 on the New York Times bestseller list.

Weekend can't find adequate words to describe this soon-to-be-cherished-classic. So, we'll let Jimmy tell it like it is.

"It's way beyond just Parrotheads," Buffet said.

Not much longer before he's mentioned in the same breath as Updike, Forster and Carver, is it?

Cosby may be ready to ruffle some peacock feathers

Imagine an evening filled with Bill Cosby. Cosby behind the bar at "Cheers." Cosby playing Kramer on "Seinfeld." Or Cosby as Benny on "L.A. Law."

Could happen.

NBC, suffering repeated blows to the head and shoulders lately, is reportedly on the block, and one person interested is the Cos.

Once mighty and "proud as a peacock," the network lost its former pole position during the 1991-92 season, after shows like Cosby's lost their luster.

"It's for real. It is serious. It's not a rumor," said Cosby's spokesman, David Brokaw. So, what are you trying to say, Dave?

He's French. His name is Louis. He's not king, and it's his birthday.

Those who feed their ravenous hunger for the arts by reading "People Weekly" may know Louis Malle as that foreign guy who is married to Candice Bergen. Those who spend weekends eating ugly cheese and wearing smoking jackets may know him as an internationally renowned film director.

Either way, it's his birthday.

The man who directed "My Dinner With Andre," a movie in which the main characters sit around and chat for more than two hours, and "Pretty Baby," where Brooke Shields, in the role of her life, played a 12-year-old prostitute, is 60 today.

Born in 1932, in Thumeries, France, Malle attended the Sorbonne in Paris, worked in the '50s helping Jacques-Yves Cousteau make underwater documentaries and, during the '60s, was a reporter in Vietnam.

Then, he married Murphy Brown.

'Tis the season for all things haunted

Here is a list of some of the haunts around the Manhattan area.

■ HAUNTED FOREST — sponsored by KSUARH and Fort Riley Mates.

Where: Behind K-State Lot B-3.

When: 7:30-10 p.m. Friday and 7:30-11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Cost: Free. Flint Hills Breadbasket donation optional.

■ HAUNTED HOUSE — sponsored by Manhattan Jaycees.

Where: 900 block of Fair Lane, along Fort Riley Boulevard.

When: 7 p.m.-12 a.m. Friday and Saturday.

Cost: $3 adults, $2 children (12 & under), $5 couple.

■ TERROR TRAIL — sponsored by Sunset Zoo.

Where: Sunset Zoo.

When: 7-10:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Cost: $3 adults, $2 children (12 & under with adult).

Live Music This Weekend

Friday —

RIO — Silverado Saloon
SUBMYTION — Boulevards 11th Street Bar & Grill

Saturday —

RIO — Silverado Saloon
SUBMYTION — Boulevards 11th Street Bar & Grill

BARNBURNERS — Wareham Opera House

ROACH FACTORY, YAZ PISTACHIO, MULCH — Charlie's Neighborhood Bar

WHAT'S GOING ON

A quick look at some of the events in and around Manhattan.

► MUSIC

Manhattan's own Barnburners will be playing Halloween night at the Wareham Opera House, downtown on Poyntz Avenue.

► MOVIES

The cult classic Rocky Horror Picture Show is getting a midnight showing in the K-State Union Ballroom this weekend.

► THEATER

The Year 1492: Spanish Music in the Age of Columbus will be at McCain Auditorium Saturday. It starts at 8 p.m.

Weekend

CREATING HIS OWN

GENRE, BABE

Author Mark Leyner takes a twisted look at himself

Once, while preparing to give a reading at Yale University, Mark Leyner was approached by a young woman.

"I know exactly how you do what you do," the woman said, triumphantly, to the author.

"You drop acid in the morning, walk around all day with a tape recorder, then go out at night," she announced.

Although her hypothesis is, according to Leyner, way off base, the young fan can't be blamed. Just reading a few paragraphs of one of his works is enough to raise the suspicion that Mark Leyner is not in a normal state when he writes.

For instance, from his latest book "Et Tu, Babe," "My insignia is a guy surfing on an enormous wave of lava. ... I have it tattooed on my heart. And I don't mean on the skin of my chest over my heart. I mean tattooed on the organ itself. It's illegal in the States — I had to go to Mexico."

At 36 years of age and with three books to his credit, Mark Leyner is fast becoming the king of a genre that no one can adequately describe, but few are finding hard to resist. And he does it all au naturel.

"To do what I do requires the most sober and rigorous attention to the language," Leyner said in a telephone interview from his Hoboken, N.J., home. "Lots of black coffee and nasal decongestant."

To do what Mark Leyner does requires an imagination as warped as a dowsing rod.

With the recent release of "Et Tu, Babe," Leyner departs from the successful disjointed blueprint that characterized his 1990 breakthrough work, "My Cousin, My Gastroenterologist." That book, a sandbox of topics from car bombs to bite-size humans, sold nearly 18,000 copies.

"My Cousin" is a huge kind of Whitman chocolate sampler, and I love that quality of it," he said. "But, I wanted to see if I could write a book where I could retain a kind of manic constant surprise."

With "Et Tu, Babe," Mark Leyner spends 168 pages making himself a god. He takes his critical acclaim and popularity from "My Cousin" and, with tongue-in-cheek, inflates it beyond sane proportion.

"Obviously, the Mark Leyner in the book is an extreme hyperbole of me, an extreme comic exaggeration," the author said. "I do have fantasies of being omnipotent and being a deity. What separates me from anyone else who has these is that I'm ridiculous enough to publicize them."

While most authors base their stories on their own lives, Leyner takes this to quite an extreme. In his books, he uses his wife and dog as characters, uses true descriptions of himself, and once inadvertently published his home phone number in a novel.

He likens "Et Tu, Babe" to "being kidnapped by some lovable psychopath on some joyride, but you eventually end up where you were going."

After "My Cousin," Leyner began to catch fire on college campuses across the country, prompting some to call him the cult writer of the '90s. Yet, it is the connotations of such a limited appeal that bug the author.

"I think my work does seem to be very popular with college students, and I love that," said Leyner. "But I don't think they're exclusively my audience."

■ See AUTHOR Page 6B

"My insignia is a guy surfing on an enormous wave of lava. ... I have it tattooed on my heart. And I don't mean on the skin of my chest over my heart. I mean tattooed on the organ itself. It's illegal in the States — I had to go to Mexico."

George Jones is a long way from a rockin' chair

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A twangy tenor named George Jones is on the line.

He is sitting in a small office at MCA Records and cheerfully tackling a project that newcomers usually do. He is personally promoting his own record.

Although he recently was elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame, he is dialing radio stations like an ambitious, unknown 25-year-old.

He tells a dozen radio stations from California to Florida about his latest release.

"We have a new single being shipped on MCA Records called 'I Don't Need Your Rockin' Chair.' We thought you might like to try it out."

His mournful "He Stopped Loving Her Today" recently was voted by fans and the media as the most popular country song of all time.

Jones, who has made 150 albums and sold 30 million records, has become a legend in country music by singing with an anguished emotion unparalleled since Hank Williams in the 1950s.

Some of his song titles show his bent for lyrical laments such as, "She Thinks I Still Care" and "Things Have Gone to Pieces."

Likewise, country fans know he has endured much of what he sings about. He has been married four times, once to country queen Tammy Wynette. He has also battled drug and alcohol addiction during his prime, amassed $1.5 million in debt in 1978 and filed for bankruptcy. His heavily lined face is a testament to tough times.

Last year, country star Alan Jackson dedicated his hit song "Don't Rock the Jukebox" to Jones, asking that country music remain faithful to the Jones style instead of drifting toward rock 'n' roll.

During the summer, Jones asked fellow performers to join him in his music video for "I Don't Need Your Rockin' Chair." The biggest names in contemporary country showed up for worship and inspiration including Garth Brooks, Vince Gill, Randy Travis, Clint Black, Jackson and others. "They are a bunch of great, good guys," Jones said.

His stature notwithstanding, on a recent day he called radio stations from a carefully prepared list and plugged his new records.

It's a side of the music business rarely seen by the public. And even a veteran such as Jones finds it necessary to schedule time to do it.

But before he leaves, he agrees to return the next day to do a dozen or so station identifications: "This is George Jones, and you are listening to ..."

Weekend

Television's Mistress of the Dark Elvira first haunted houses right here in Mahattan

ROY GRABER
Collegian

Most Manhattan residents have seen Elvira, Mistress of the Dark, on television, in magazines and on cardboard cutouts in store displays.

Other people in Manhattan have seen her in person, including Peggy Edvy and Virginia Stilley, who remember the days when Elvira, alias Cassandra Peterson, lived in Manhattan.

"She was born in Manhattan and lived in old Randolph," Stilley said.

Stilley said Peterson then moved to Manhattan, where her father owned the House of Fabrics. Stilley said she and Peterson were neighbors, living near the intersection of 14th and Colorado streets.

Stilley said she remembers the days when her daughter took tap-dancing lessons with Cassandra and Cassandra's sisters, Melody and Robin.

Edvy, who also lived in the same neighborhood, said when she was in junior high school, she got her first job babysitting Cassandra and Melody.

"They went to school at Theodore Roosevelt," Edvy said. "All I really did was go over early in the afternoon, and we'd watch television and have peanut butter sandwiches. They were both very pretty, happy-go-lucky girls."

Stilley said the Petersons moved to Colorado Springs when Cassandra was still in elementary school. Stilley said her family and the Petersons have kept in touch since the Petersons left Manhattan.

persons left Manhattan.

"As a matter of fact, I heard from her mother a few days ago," Stilley said. "She told me that Melody is going to have twins."

"She was born in Manhattan and lived in the old Randolph."

And Stilley, who with her husband owns Manhattan's Skate Plaza, said Cassandra has visited them at the skating rink since obtaining the Elvira role.

Cassandra remained in Colorado Springs until she graduated from high school.

"After she graduated from high school, she really wanted to go to Las Vegas to be a star," Stilley said. "Her mother said she'd take her, and within five days, she landed a position with Dunes. Her dancing really flabbergasted them."

In addition to her dance shows, she made many TV and feature-film appearances, including "Cheech and Chong's Next Movie," "Alice," "Happy Days" and "St. Elsewhere."

In fall 1981, Peterson developed the role of Elvira when she was the host of "Movie Macabre," a Los Angeles horror-movie TV series. Peterson lounged on her red Victorian sofa and presented the movies, along with her own kind of humor.

Peterson's success was also marked by her first movie, "Elvira, Mistress of the Dark." The film has already reached more than 180,000 units in home-video sales.

Peterson has most recently been seen performing at Knott's Berry Farm's Halloween Haunt.

Superstitions are human nature, some believe

MEGAN MULLIKIN
Collegian

Superstitions mean different things to different people.

And Bob Linder, professor of history, said superstitions are part of the makeup of all human beings.

"Superstitions are academic in the human race," Linder said. "I've never been anywhere in the world where there haven't been superstitions."

Linder said for most people, superstitions are a combination of something they really believe in and something they do for fun.

Shannon Scherzer, senior in marketing, said she believes in several superstitions and never deviates from her practices.

"If I see a black cat walking in front of me, I will turn around, even if I have to go around the whole block. Just so I don't let it cross my path," Scherzer said. "I really believe it would give me bad luck."

Even K-State fans have superstitions about good-luck traditions, when it comes to winning a game.

"I always wear my purple underwear on K-State game days, but I forgot last week," said Danielle Alexander, senior in accounting.

Linder said athletics is a common place to see superstitions. He said many baseball players are very careful to never cross their bats, because they fear it will bring them bad luck in the game.

Sometimes, a superstition can be something for good luck.

Linder said when a person finds an action that brings benefits once, they will continue the same action every time, believing it brought them good luck. For example, a baseball player who happened to

See SUPERSTITIONS Page 6B

Halloween Savings

RAKE IN THE VALUES!

Ballard's Fall & Winter Warehouse SALE

OUTSIDE UNDER CANOPY

Shoes $30 Shoes $30 Shoes $30 Shoes $30 Shoes $30 Shoes $30

SHOES
ALL $30.00
Values to '89

SPECIALS

	Reg.	SALE
Gear Hvy. Wt. Printed Fleece	36 ⁹⁵	10 ⁰⁰
KSU and KU Sweat Shirts	29 ⁹⁵	8 ⁰⁰
College Jackets	89 ⁹⁵	25 ⁰⁰
Russell Hi Cotton Short Sleeve	24 ⁹⁵	8 ⁰⁰
Youth Fashion Fleece	24 ⁹⁵	7 ⁰⁰
KSU Nylon Jacks	16 ⁹⁵ , 24 ⁹⁵ , 32 ⁹⁵	8 ⁰⁰ , 12 ⁰⁰ , 20 ⁰⁰
Gear Hvy. Wt. Printed T-Shirts	18 ⁹⁵	5 ⁰⁰
Women's Tank Tops	8 ⁹⁵	5 ⁰⁰
All Hats		1/2 Price

KIDS SHOES

Nike Air Trainer TWII	59 ⁹⁵	34 ⁰⁰
Converse High Top	46 ⁹⁵	25 ⁰⁰
Nike Quantum Force II	44 ⁹⁵	26 ⁰⁰
Avia Tennis	47 ⁹⁵	28 ⁰⁰

INFANT TENNIS

Nike Baby Suede (Red)	34 ⁹⁵	18 ⁰⁰
Nike Baby Suede (Blue)	34 ⁹⁵	18 ⁰⁰
Nike TW	31 ⁹⁵	17 ⁰⁰

INSIDE

MENS COURT, X-TRAINING

	Reg.	SALE
Nike Air Tech Challenge 3/4 7299	104 ⁹⁵	73 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Tech Challenge 10-1289	104 ⁹⁵	73 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Trainer TW Lite II	89 ⁹⁵	63 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Challenge Pro 3/4	79 ⁹⁵	58 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Cross Trainer Low III	74 ⁹⁵	55 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Tech Challenge 10	104 ⁹⁵	73 ⁰⁰
Adidas Torsion Edberg Comp.	94 ⁹⁵	65 ⁰⁰

WOMENS COURT, X-TRAINING

	Reg.	SALE
Nike Air Trainer TW Lite 6266	82 ⁹⁵	58 ⁰⁰
Puma Match Light LE PT4500	78 ⁹⁵	38 ⁰⁰
Saucony Cross Trail (Hiking)	84 ⁹⁵	55 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Challenge Pro	86 ⁹⁵	56 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Tech Challenge Low	94 ⁹⁵	50 ⁰⁰
Nike Air Elite Lite	66 ⁹⁵	48 ⁰⁰

WOMENS RUNNING

Etonic Stable Air	79 ⁹⁵	51 ⁰⁰
Etonic Stable Air	99 ⁹⁵	61 ⁰⁰
Saucony Crossport Omni	79 ⁹⁵	48 ⁰⁰
Saucony Crossport Triad	91 ⁹⁵	53 ⁰⁰
Reebok Hexalite	69 ⁹⁵	48 ⁰⁰

MENS RUNNING

Asics Gel	64 ⁹⁵	38 ⁰⁰
Saucony Freedom Trainer	72 ⁹⁵	48 ⁰⁰

Unique Poundage Room—Clothes Reg. $5 a lb. NOW $3.00 lb. Size X-Small, Small, Medium.

"POUND FOR POUND, THE BEST DEAL AROUND"

Saturday & Sunday, October 31, November 1

Sale Location: 500 Ft. Riley Blvd., Manhattan

Special Hours: 8 a.m.-6 p.m. Sat., Noon-5 p.m. Sun.

BALLARD'S

"Your Quality—Competitive Edge"

SPORTING GOODS STORE
MANHATTAN

BALLARDS IN AGGIEVILLE

All Umbro Shorts

20% OFF

All Gear for Sports Jackets

20% OFF

All Unprinted Russell Athletic Wear

25% OFF

Selected Shoes

25% OFF

Soccer Balls

1/2 Price

Russell
Fleece Outside
Under Canopy
ALL $5.00
Pants-Crews-Hoods

Large selection of small, medium
& large

"On Your Way To The
Mail, Stop & Shop Where
The Prices Are Small"

IN AGGIEVILLE

Weekend

'Feed' shows the worst of TV politics

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CONCORD, N.H. — Would you still vote for a presidential candidate if you saw him take a deep hit of nasal spray right before he appeared on-camera?

How about a guy who practices his smile while he thinks no one's watching?

"Feed," a new documentary about the 1992 New Hampshire primary, takes viewers behind the scenes of the election's media blitz and shows candidates off-guard and off-kilter.

"Feed" is the handiwork of filmmaker Kevin Rafferty and James Ridgeway, reporter for the New York City weekly newspaper Village Voice. It is a patchwork of satellite feeds pulled from the air when the candidates were oblivious to the fact they were being watched.

Brian Springer, a satellite specialist, placed a dish antenna on top of a warehouse in Buffalo, N.Y., and captured signals in between broadcasts. During the down time before a telecast, the dish captured candidates acting more like ordinary people than politicians.

Viewers see Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin practicing smiles, Bill Clinton coughing until his eyes bulge out, and former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas sucking in his stomach as he poses for cameras at the edge of a swimming pool.

Candidates aren't the only ones caught off-guard. In one passage, New Hampshire Democrat Joe Grandmaison chats amiably with Joe McQuaid, top editor of the conservative Union Leader newspaper, as the two wait to appear on a talk show.

"What a jerk!" Grandmaison says of Harkin.

"Technology bites back a little. Nothing serious," said Grandmaison, after hearing that he is in the movie. He jokingly adds that in light of his remark, he is glad the combative Harkin did not win the nomination.

Rafferty said Ridgeway had been prodding him for years to "do something on presidential politics." The two planned to follow the entire election, but changed their minds after the Feb. 18 primary, the nation's earliest.

The film, which premiered Oct. 7 in New York and is showing at a few dozen theaters around the nation, documents how humbling it is to run for president. As Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey moves cheerfully through a restaurant, he offers to shake a diner's hand, but is refused.

Jerry Brown, trying to make a point to an auditorium full of students, looks out on a roomful of bored faces. In another shot, he takes a deep, loud hit of nasal spray.

President Bush spends most of the movie sitting behind a desk, waiting to be tipped off that he's on the air. He smiles, bows his head, reads a sheet of paper, and waits ... and waits.

"There certainly is an element of humiliation," Rafferty said. "You get to see them when they're not selling themselves."

Robert Cray's new album takes new approach to old blues formula

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Robert Cray, the much-honored blues singer and guitarist, titles this album after a song that sways to a Latin beat.

It's no accident. Cray has long eschewed the 12-bar formulas of the blues, the soul-less shuffles and hollow covers of hoary classics.

Instead of becoming enslaved by them, he's learned to enlist the blues in his own service in much the same way Ray Charles, Otis Redding and Al Green did into theirs.

On "I Was Warned," Cray's mastery of the blues sets the tone and texture for 10 songs that have more to do with Memphis Soul than Memphis Slim.

"A Whole Lotta Pride" and "He Don't Live Here Anymore" have the feel of classic soul songs, circa 1968, with the veteran horn duo of Andrew Love and Wayne Jackson adding the appropriate swelling, croaking and moaning horns. "Just a Loser" is a rich, up-tempo romp.

The title song may be a blueprint for the blues in the next century, with Cray playing searing guitar over a haunting Caribbean melody.

Though his guitar is as powerful as ever, Cray the vocalist is the hero of "I Was Warned." He sings with both passion and restraint, commitment and control.

It's a feat that would make the soul masters proud.

Spooktacular Sale

October 27 - 30

9 a.m. - 4 p.m.

K-State Union

First Floor Alcove

Across from the upper level of the Bookstore

50% OFF

of select Halloween items

$19 Sweatshirts

$9 T-shirts

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

TRICK OR TREAT MADNESS

HALLOWEEN

SATURDAY, OCT. 31

4p.m.-5p.m. ALL IMPORTS Singles or 6 packs 5% OVER COST

Choose from over 160 varieties

5p.m.-6p.m. BARTLES & JAYMES 4 paks reg. $4.29 ONLY $2.75

6p.m.-7p.m. BUDWEISER FAMILY 12 packs reg. $8.09 ONLY $5.99

7p.m.-8p.m. BOONE'S FARM 750 ml. reg. $2.79 ONLY $1.65

All five flavors

8p.m.-9p.m. KEYSTONE 12 packs reg. $9.99 ONLY $8.99

By the case

9p.m.-10p.m. DEKUYPER SCHNAPPS 1 liter reg. $10.09 ONLY $6.49

Choose from 17 varieties

10p.m.-11p.m. MAD DOG 750 ml. reg. $3.09 ONLY $1.99

All 6 Flavors

HOUR BY HOUR SALE

DEAN
LIQUOR

12th & Laramie • Aggieville

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Live Music with

Dave English Band

Sat--Oct 31

Dress up and party at Clyde's Halloween Bash

Prizes for:

Best Costume

Best Couples

Worst Costume

Most Original

Plus great music from the

"ENGLISH VERSION"

13th Cover — Call for reservationsClyde's of Manhattan

2304 Stagg Hill • 537-8440

.Halloween Night.

ROACH FACTORYYAZ
PISTACHIO
MULCH

$2.50 PITCHERS

CHARLIE'S
NEIGHBORHOOD BAR
ESTABLISHED 1981

Claffin & Denison--Down Under•776-1515

SPOOKTACULAR

Thursday, October 29
to Saturday, October 31

SUNSET ZOO MANHATTAN

TERROR TRAIL

7 pm to 10:30 pm

Dare to walk on the dark side. Visit our "Dearly Departed" tours, where you'll come face to face with creatures from your worst nightmares. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult. IF YOU DARE!

PEEK-A-BOO PATH

6:30 pm to 8:30 pm
Parents FREE

The perfect opportunity for parents to take their youngsters (7 and under) out for an evening of safe "trick or treating." The children will be greeted by many familiar faces, plus area merchants will be giving away free treats.

$1 OFF Coupon Available At

$3 for Adults
$2 for Children

HALLOWEEN BARGAIN HEADQUARTERS

Bud 24 Packs

$11.99

Boone's Farm Wine 750 ml.

$1.99

Bacardi Rum 750 ml.

$9.19

Jack Daniels 1 liter

$16.49

Coors 12 Packs

$6.57

Reves Retail Liquor

537-1050 • 1100 Laramie • (Handi-Corner in Aggieville)

Weekend

Author is master of bizarre themes and huge vocabulary

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3B

He says he often sees people in their 50s and 60s in the audience during his readings.

Beyond the bizarre themes that attract readers to Leyner, it's also his gargantuan vocabulary and his knowledge of weird facts. Who else uses the word absconding or knows that Tifanagh is an obscure medieval script used by Berber women for writing love poetry?

Even though he says that a large vocabulary isn't necessary for good writing, Leyner has, since age 17, looked up and learned every word he didn't know.

"Good writing is made of the words you know," he said.

Although it's sometimes hard to tell what Leyner fabricates and what is actually true, it's easy to see he does his research.

"I don't ever just make something up out of thin air. It's usually true," he said, adding that he reads a wide variety of magazines and journals. "I'm interested in just about everything. I have about a 360-degree range of reception."

Leyner writes prose that could easily pass for poetry, a sign of his true love.

"I was steeped in poetry," he said, describing his college years. "I think I probably enjoy reading poetry more than fiction."

He knows his books are fast reads, yet, he painstakingly works to make them just that way. "Et Tu, Babe," a novel that can be finished in a day, took a year-and-a-half to complete.

"I take each line very, very seriously," Leyner explained, earnestly. "I write very slowly because of that."

"It takes a long time to write a book that seems as if it was written quickly," he laughed.

Currently, Leyner is living the hectic life of success. He has appeared on the Today show, the cover of the New York Times Magazine, and is due to appear on "Late Night With David Letterman."

And his next book? "The book is going to be about the last seven days of the world, as covered by CNN," he said.

Is he kidding? Only Mark Leyner knows for sure.

Leyner is a tiger in a zoo filled with mediocrity

RICHARD ANDRADE
Collegian

Let's talk tigers. In a zoo environment, tigers are lazy animals, grown accustomed to daily heaps of pre-killed meat. The apex of their activity is yawning.

But, in the wild, tigers are completely different. There, they run, leap, kill, eat — and then they yawn. Unconstrained, they live like any self-respecting tiger should.

Now, let's call Mark Leyner a tiger. Leyner is an author whose books, "I Smell Esther Williams" and "My Cousin, My Gastroenterologist" have won him accolades.

As their titles indicate, these books were not the work of a yawning, zoo-cozy tiger. They were the works of a tiger so crazed with hunger that no amount of lean gazelle could appease him.

The reason for this intense writing?

Literary boundaries.

Especially in "My Cousin," Leyner had few limitations, writing at such a dizzying pace and with such brilliance that I found myself reading phrases over and over again just to hear the words in that particular order.

Chapters with titles such as "In the Kingdom of Boredom, I Wear the Royal Sweatpants" and "I Was an Infinitely Hot and Dense Dot," came as close to anything in describing Leyner's finely wrought twistedness.

With his latest book, "Et Tu, Babe" (the original title, "Steroids Made My Friend Jorge Kill His Speech Therapist: An ABC After-School Special," was scrapped for brevity) Leyner does the noble thing and moves away from the literary hailstorm technique that first brought him success.

Instead, "Et Tu, Babe" is a novel with a storyline that continues almost uninterrupted from start to finish.

Unfortunately, what Leyner gains in structure, he loses in substance.

"Et Tu, Babe" is clever, because it is a parody of Leyner's own sudden success. It is the tale of Mark Leyner, deity incarnate and megalomaniac.

He lives in a fortified compound, protected by seven testosterone-enhanced nonagenarian widows. He has a mammoth, rabid following dubbed Team Leyner, to whom he distributes belt buckles. He spends countless paragraphs describing his sculpted body.

Consider his advice to young people: "I'm tempted to say: Surround yourself with flunkies and yes-men and have naked slaves, perfumed with musk, fan you with plastic fronds. Because that's what's worked for me."

There's a very entertaining story amidst the hilarious conceit, and it often allows Leyner to go off on tangents, which is where he writes best. However, by trying to reign himself into even a semi-conventional story, Leyner's astounding wit is diluted. In essence, he becomes a yawning tiger.

"Et Tu, Babe" can stand on its own among today's contemporary novels, but it falls short of the high-water mark of Leyner's earlier works.

If you've never read Mark Leyner, read "Et Tu, Babe" first, then read "My Cousin, My Gastroenterologist" and pity the poor gazelle.

Superstitions believed by some have a penny in his pocket during a game when he hit a home run, might carry the penny for luck in every game.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4B

"If something works for you, then you do that something again that worked for you the first time," Linder said.

William Koch, former professor of English, researched superstitions and wrote a book about them, called "Folklore from Kansas."

In his book, Koch quotes thousands of superstitions he collected from Kansans. He also included some spooky Kansas legends.

One describes a haunted stone house on Manhattan Avenue, in which the lights in the top window mysteriously flash on and off.

Koch said in his book that many superstitions are passed down in families, and they might not really have any real truth to them.

Amy Toler, junior in arts and sciences, said she believes superstitions.

"I've heard from my family that if you die in your dreams, then you really die. And I believe this, because no one I've talked to has ever died in their dreams," Toler said.

Kelley Toler, senior in secondary education, said before a softball game, her team would pray to the Pitcher God.

"We would all bow down on the pitcher's mound for good luck," Kelley Toler said. "And it worked, too. We won."

KITE'S Costume Contest

$100 Prize For Best Costume Halloween Night

18 to enter = 21 to drink

537-2100 619 N. 12th Street

LONGHORNS

Your Halloween Party Headquarters

Costume Contest - Halloween Night

CASH PRIZES and GIVEAWAYS

1115 MORO 776-8770

Pneumatic Task Chair

- Fingerlip pneumatic seat height control
- Pivoting seatback, dual wheel casters
- Sturdy, five-leg star base
- Grey, Burgundy, Blue, Black, or Brown

5LHN-7901 Series
List $202.00 Each

$129.00

office world

Westloop Shopping Center 776-6864

LATE NIGHT GRILL

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

11:30 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Performing Live: Prairie Fire

Kickers 2315 Tuttle Creek Blvd
Saloon & Grille 539-KICK

MIDNIGHT MADNESS

with the

Saturday, Oct. 31, 9 p.m.
Bramlage Coliseum

Featuring:

- Larry "Bud" Melman - from Late Night With David Letterman*
- KSU Alumni vs. All Stars scrimmage
- Three point shoot out with President Jon Wefald and Athletic Director Milt Richards
- And much, much more!

ADMISSION COST $1

*Join Larry at Kite's Bar & Grill before activities

THE MANHATTAN JAYCEES 14TH ANNUAL HAUNTED HOUSE

OCTOBER 28 - 31, 1992

WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY 7:00 to 10:00 pm

FRIDAY & SATURDAY 7:00 to 12:00 pm

$3.00/ADULTS; $2.00/age 12 and under; $5.00/COUPLE

Held in Nine Hundred Block of Fairlane along Fort Riley Blvd. Turn on 10th Street for easy access.

Have you tried Friday Flowers?

776-8801

Manhattan Floral Co.

YOUR FULL SERVICE FLORIST SINCE 1922
630 Poyntz Ave., Downtown Manhattan

INSTANT CASH --just add you!

$15 Cash for Your First Plasma Donation

- Quick, Safe, Easy
- Study or watch movies while you donate
- Donating Plasma Saves Lives

M-F 9am-6:30pm • Sat 9am-2pm
1130 Gardenway
(across from Westloop)

We Take Tips

532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

LONDON LECTURE

Lynne Cheney
Chairman,
National Endowment for the Humanities

Friday,
October 30, 1992
10:30 a.m.
McCain Auditorium

Royal Purple

Your time is limited!

Call Varden Studio at 532-6106
to schedule an appointment
for yearbook pictures.

Next in line... Individual appointments
can be made for any of the indicated times.

Delta Chi — Oct. 16-30
Off Campus — Oct. 16-30

I COLLEGIAN IN FOCUS

OCTOBER 30, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Anna Quinlan, senior in agricultural journalism, walks with Quaker, a 1-year-old yellow Labrador retriever, through Food-4-Less. Quinlan is raising Quaker to be a seeing-eye dog. Quaker will go to Kansas Specialty Dog Service for advanced training Nov. 2. From there, she will go to an owner confined to a wheelchair or with a visual impairment. Quinlan is teaching Quaker basic obedience and standard commands that will be used by her new owner.

Being trained to help others

They say a dog is a man's best friend, but for the physically and visually handicapped, a dog can be more.

A dog can be the key to freedom.

Kansas Specialty Dog Service Inc. in Washington, Kan., demonstrates this fact continually when it places golden retrievers, black and yellow Labradors, German shepherds and boxers in the homes of the physically and visually handicapped.

Before the dogs are placed with the handicapped, they are trained by a foster puppy-raiser, who housebreaks the puppy, teaches it basic obedience and gives it as much love as possible.

Anna Quinlan, senior in agricultural journalism, is currently raising Quaker, a puppy destined to help others.

Foster puppy-raising requires no special training, Quinlan said, just an interview, two references and a lot of love.

"They just gave me the puppy-in-training cape, the manual and Quaker," Quinlan said. "I taught myself."

Quinlan became interested in the program after writing a news story about the service. She then applied to be a foster puppy-raiser.

The "foster parents" have the puppy in their home about 12-16 months before parting with the dog.

"I heard it's worth it when you see the dogs with their new owners," Quinlan said.

Bill Acree, executive director of KSDS, said the dogs go on to advanced training before being placed with a handicapped individual.

Disabled individuals receiving the dogs must spend time in the training facility with the dog before taking them home, Acree said.

Guide dog owners must spend four weeks. Disabled owners must spend two weeks. And caretakers for nursing homes must spend one week, he said.

Interested individuals must apply, but they receive the dog free of charge. KSDS is a non-profit organization and receives funding from grants, foundation and corporation sponsorships, and donations, Acree said.

"If all of Kansas would give just one dollar, we'd have our budget," Acree said. "Each dog costs KSDS between three and four thousand dollars."

The only cost to the foster puppy-raiser is the toys for the dog, Quinlan said. Iams Co. donates dog food, and veterinary services are provided at a reduced cost or free of charge.

The dogs bond with their new owner within the first few days of meeting them, because they have such a gentle temperament, Quinlan said.

The things the dogs learn from the foster puppy-raisers are commands that will be used to assist the handicapped, she said.

Quaker has learned to "kiss," which will be used to turn off and on the lights for someone who is unable to, Quinlan said.

"When I say, 'Get it', she will get it, and I say, 'Bring it here,' and she brings it to me," she said.

Quinlan said she tries to take Quaker everywhere she goes.

"I always call before I come to make sure it is OK," she said.

She said Quaker walks right beside her in a store.

"She can get things off a shelf for you if you say, 'Get it.' This is for people in wheelchairs," Quinlan said.

She said she did run into problems last spring when she took Quaker to Wal-Mart. The manager said it was fine if Quaker came inside, but when she arrived, the greeter tried to make her leave, Quinlan said.

"I couldn't even explain what I was doing," she said.

The Wal-Mart manager was finally summoned and allowed Quinlan to bring her dog inside.

She said something positive did come from this incident.

"A lady came up to me and told me her sister, who was physically handicapped, had recently applied for a dog like Quaker," she said.

After many months with Quaker, Quinlan will say goodbye Monday.

"It will be really sad when Quaker leaves," she said, "but I will do it again."

Quaker will undergo advanced training at KSDS for four to six months. KSDS will spend more than $3000 to train her.

Photographs by
J. Kyle Wyatt

Story by
Kristi Stephensen

CAMPUS

Students discuss abortion

"We all have gotten away from the issue. It's time to get together and get something accomplished."

STACY LAMASTER

Opposing sides set ground rules before trading views on issue

MATT CUNNINGHAM

Collegian

Both sides of the abortion issue met late Wednesday night for a civil discussion of people's beliefs.

Voices for Choice and Students for the Right to Life organized the discussion to get people involved with the issue.

"We all have gotten away from the issue," said Stacy La Master, sophomore in education and president of Voices for Choice. "It's time to get together and get something accomplished."

Amy Heffern, sophomore in secondary education and president of Students for the Right to Life, said it is a good chance for people to make up their minds.

"It's to get people to make up their minds, if they haven't yet, as well as, get people involved with this important issue and in the groups," Heffern said.

Before it began, the leaders of Voices for Choice and Students for the Right to Life explained the intention and established the ground rules for the civil forum.

The forum started with a video from both sides, stating the beliefs of their respective organizations.

The videos were to give people a chance to see something of both sides,

■ See GROUPS Page 10B

CAMPUS

Art department vents views on air

LANE ALLISON

Collegian

The Department of Art has taken steps to prevent heavy breathing in the Art Building.

Since April, students in the art department have been demanding better ventilation in the Art Building. This led the art department to explore ways to eliminate toxic chemical fumes in the air.

Gary Woodward, head of the art department, said the art department is going to move the metal smithing and print-making classes to rooms in Willard Hall.

"Because we have steam heating with radiators instead of a forced air system, there is no air exchange," he said. "The metal smithing and print making classes use acids, solvents and inks that contain some toxic chemicals. These chemicals can be a problem when there is poor ventilation."

Ann Carter, senior in fine arts, said she thinks well ventilated rooms are badly needed.

"I feel very strongly that a good art department needs well ventilated facilities," Carter said. "I hope the University values the importance of a good art department and will work hard to find a space in which the students can work."

One drawback of the ventilation problem is the loss of the silk screening class. Woodward said the class has been canceled until the move into Willard Hall is complete.

That probably will not happen until fall 1993.

Carter said the cancellation took some students by surprise.

"I think the timing was very hard for some students," she said. "They had already enrolled. Then, after the semester started, the class was canceled."

Canceled but not forgotten.

John O'Shea, assistant professor in the art department, said he has been working with Carter to find a new method for silk screening.

"I have come to the point where I'm trying to explore other possibilities," O'Shea said. "The method we are working on uses water-based instead of oil-based ink."

O'Shea said the department switched to materials with less odor and lower toxicity.

"You can't just switch from oil-based to water-based," he said.

"Water-based printing is five times more expensive and takes three times as long as oil-based printing. Some of the solvents we are using to reclaim the screens in water-based printing are stronger than those we used in oil-based printing."

He said solutions are being sought in every way possible.

FEATURE FILM REVIEW

Tired plot is still entertaining

Goldberg's charm propels 'Sister Act' even though flick is relatively predictable

ANDY WOODWARD

Collegian

"Sister Act," starring Whoopi Goldberg, is a relatively entertaining farce based on the age-old plot of misplaced identities.

DeLoris Van Cartier, played by Goldberg, witnesses a murder in a less-than-posh Las Vegas casino. For protection, Goldberg is hidden in a Catholic nunnery in a run-down area of San Francisco until she will be able to testify.

The brunt of the plot consists of comparatively exuberant Van Cartier breathing life into the conservative cloister of aged nuns. At the same time, she begins to explore her own worldliness and lack of religion.

The plot is relatively predictable, but this proven formula has worked before. Despite this, the film still works as it rides on Goldberg's on-screen charisma.

Slightly funny situations are made funnier because of Goldberg's business. Consequently, the script, which would have been extremely mediocre, is made more dynamic solely because of Goldberg.

"Sister Act" is a guilty pleasure. You know basically what's going to happen 20 minutes into the film.

There are going to be a lot of situation jokes as Van Cartier eases into a nun's way of life. There are a lot of jokes as she takes over the dysfunctional choir and turns it into a revival act, eventually performing '60s soul with a secular theme.

Even the conclusion is steeped in predictability; there are no surprises. We know where we're going in the movie. The only question is what's going to happen while we're getting there. Luckily, what happens on the way is the entertaining aspect of "Sister Act."

This movie can be classified as a feel-good hit. It's entertaining, it's not completely mindless and at the same time, it doesn't read like a Brad Seabourn column.

ESSENTIALS

And just when you thought you had heard everything

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

DEAR CASSANDRA,

This letter is in response to D.W. (Oct. 20) and also to the readers that responded in the Oct. 22 issue.

I highly doubt if this letter will be published, for the simple reason that it greatly goes against your beliefs on the issue, but there are some things that need to be said about the issue at hand.

To start with, for nearly four years, I went about dating in a manner very similar to what D.W. is doing.

I really don't believe that there is anything wrong with this sort of dating, and the number of "innocent" females who get hurt in the process are minimal compared to the mindless drivel that some of your readers sent to you.

For one thing, 90 percent of the time, both the male and the female are going to get what they want.

I say this, because after you have gone out with a few different women, you know where to find the women who only want sex on the date, and you know what to look for in finding them.

Now, about the other 10 percent, they are going to occur, and it doesn't take a rocket scientist to see when you are on a date with one of the minority of your dates.

Most of the time within the first hour or so, you're going to get a lot of signs from them, and you can pretty much see that all you're going to get from this date is a pleasant evening on the town with her.

So, have a good time, and don't give her any false ideas about wanting to go out with her again.

If this is the type of dating that you really want, you had better make damn good and sure you know what you are getting into.

You had better be prepared to go to the doctor every six months and get checked for STDs, because you had better realize that you're not your date's first date.

The next thing that you had better be prepared for is to become a daddy, or to be sitting in an abortion clinic, so you don't become a daddy.

The one thing that you had better know though, D.W., is that you're going to make a lot more enemies if you straddle the fence in this type of dating.

From what you wrote in your letter, it looks like you are because you referred to your date as being a "relationship."

From personal experience, I can tell you, don't confuse the two in your mind, or her mind, especially in her mind.

The last thing I would like to point out is that sooner or later, you're going to end up staying in a legitimate relationship, and believe me, it's a lot harder to gain their trust when you have amassed a reputation in your dating.

Myself, I'm one of the lucky few, even with me being almost 300 miles away from her, my current girlfriend trusts me.

In conclusion, D.W., if it takes you three weeks and $500 just to get a girl in the sack, might I suggest that you aim for legitimate dating, because you're going to be broke before you even get started dating seriously.

Informatively,
Someone Who's Been There

DEAR SOMEONE WHO'S BEEN THERE,

I am not sure where you have been, but I know where you are at ... out in left field somewhere.

Apparently, the only reason you date, or, I assume, is to seek to form a relationship with a woman, is to have sex. You are missing out on a lot, pal.

As for your girlfriend, if I were her and from where she is at, I would trust you about as far as I could throw a wad of paper saying, "Take a hike, Mike."

Letters to Cassandra Duveaux may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie 116, Manhattan, Kan., 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

CAPTAIN LETHARGIC'S JOURNAL

TODAY I SKIPPED ALL MY CLASSES.

INSTEAD, I THOUGHT I'D ENSLAVE THE STUDENT BODY TO MY WILL.

BUT I ENDED UP JUST SITTING AROUND READING JIM'S JOURNAL.

I was hanging around with Steve today.

I mentioned that Hal gave me a 25¢ per hour raise at the copy store.

He said he didn't think that added up to much over a week.

He figured out exactly how much it came out to, and it wasn't very much at all.

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

DAVID SWEARINGEN

THE STRIP

BILL WATTERSON

CALVIN AND HOBBS

ACROSS

1 Island near the Bay of Naples

6 Short for 'The Windy City'

9 Soak in liquid

12 'Back in the Saddle'

13 Camouflaged

14 Moslem commander

15 Right-hand page

16 Rubber band's kin

18 Vacation spot for Fido?

20 Not recorded

21 Pine tree goddess

24 Musical sounds

25 'Get It for You'

27 Gillespie's music

29 Devote oneself,

DOWN

31 Punish with a fine

35 Tablets

37 Fortune-teller

38 Got along

41 OPEC product

43 Type of neck

44 Mimic

45 Discover

47 See 44

49 Noted isolationist in the Senate

52 History book

53 Map abbr.

54 Last letter

Solution time: 26 mins.

55 Pig's digs

56 Like Leroy arch

57 Repair a lawn

1 Game show prize

2 Personal question?

3 Collector of miscellaneous objects

4 Ceremony

5 A hole —

6 Mouse trap lure

7 Sledding site

8 Mountain in Crete

9 Dress material

10 Pointed arch

11 Steps

17 Inclines

19 Dynamite inventor

21 Lie

22 Frosty dessert

24 Actor Ewell

26 Household linen

28 Fundamental

30 Type of glove

32 Looks up to

33 Passing grade

34 Before

36 Made off with the spoils

38 Outer surfaces

39 Nautical term

40 Refund

42 It might be organized

45 Mollen rock

46 'You Be-long' (old song)

48 Musical

50 Past

51 Possessed

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

N E M I H B I V M F D Z
M D I Q C E W Z F M C V N
Q R M C V B H C R M C E
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: SIGN IN SOFA STORE:
HEADQUARTERS FOR HINDQUARTERS."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: I equals R

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555FAX
532-7309OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

- 1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word
- 2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word
- 3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word
- 4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word
- 5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

COLLEGE MONEY. Private Scholarships and Grants. America's finest. Since 1981, You're guaranteed minimum of $250 worth of financial aid from sources provided, or we'll send you $250 U.S. Bond. College Scholarship Locators, Box 1881, Joplin, MO 64802-1881. 1-800-879-7485.

ATTENTION READERS! KSU Campus Telephone Books available now. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COMELY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

ENGLISH as a Second Language Class. UFM is offering an English class designed to give a working knowledge of English both spoken and written. Class begins Nov. 3. To register or for more information contact UFM, 539-8763.

WE ARE OPEN during lunch. HAVE YOU picked up your 1992 Royal Purple? Do so today in Kedzie 103. Also, The 1993 Royal Purple portrait studio is open, stop by Union 209 or call 532-6106 for an appointment. You may purchase your 1993 for $16 with student ID.

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6555

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND, COSMETIC bag, around Shellenberger Hall. Please call to identify, 532-6745.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

JAMES- HAPPY 21st B-day! Tonight is your night to celebrate but don't come home with blue lips because Saturday will be the BIG PARTY! Love—Your Roomies

WHITE PALACE: Looking forward to the big bash! Sorry but Mike Tyson won't be able to make it. Don King.

KIM M.—TO our bouncing and behaving blonde. Your fine fortitude works well at the front.

050 Parties-n-More

HOT- TUB rentals for all occasions; Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/delivery, special weekday/ multiday rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

APARTMENT FOR Rent: two-bedroom, furnished, all utilities paid. Recently remodeled, seven blocks to campus. Quiet. No pets. $380/month. 776-0224 or 539-7634/539-5781 after 5p.m.

AVAILABLE—$480 per month, two-bedrooms. Trash and water paid. Four minutes walk to campus. 776-7634/539-5781 after 5p.m.

AVAILABLE DEC. 20, 1992. Sublease a large one-bedroom furnished apartment. One block south of campus and Aggieville. Rent negotiable. Call 537-8469.

AVAILABLE, ONE-BEDROOM basement apartment, one block east of campus. Quiet water and trash paid. $250. Use of washer/ dryer. 776-1205 Susan.

FURNISHED ONE-BEDROOM apartment, one block east of campus. Heat, water, trash paid. $300/ month. Available Nov. 1. Call 537-4947 after 6p.m.

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR rent! Available Jan. 1, studio apartment, close to campus, lots of room, $260 a month (including utilities) 811 Fremont Apt #1. 539-7071.

ASSUME LEASE for single bedroom apartment, between Jan. 1 and July 31. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

ATTIC STUDIO apartment, three blocks from campus, pets negotiable. Call for more information 537-5144.

AVAILABLE NOW. One-bedroom. $325 plus deposit. Shuttle to campus. 537-3683.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished one or two-bedrooms. Campus one mile. Short term lease available. Reduced rents. No pets. 537-8389.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 914 Moro #1, $410. Washer and dryer, pets allowed, rent from Jan. - Aug. 539-2019.

TWO-BEDROOM UP-STAIRS duplex, beautiful architects house. Fireplace, central air, carpet. $550 per month, plus utilities. 537-8440.

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS in town home. All appliances partially furnished. Now or next semester. Lease through July. Call 539-6684.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished, good, clean condition. Quiet surroundings. Campus one mile. Short term lease available. Reduced rents. No pets. 537-8389.

145 Roommate Wanted

APARTMENT LOCATED two blocks from campus. Two roommates needed Nov. 1. Off street parking. Apartment is two years old. 776-7240.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN want woman to share house in Manhattan. Own room $175, plus one-third utilities. Available now. 537-1479.

FEMALE NEEDED to share room in large two-bedroom tri-level apartment. $180 plus deposit. Fun roommates! 1825 College Heights. Call 539-6539

FEMALE NEEDED to share two-bedroom apartment. $212.50 plus utilities. Coincided laundry, fireplace, dishwasher. Available Jan. 1. 776-0308 Shauna.

FEMALE WANTED to share two-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer own bedroom. Must like dogs. Rent $212.50. Carol 776-1861.

MALE/ FEMALE own bedroom in two-bedroom apartment. $212 per month, plus one-half utilities at Park Place 587-0562.

NON-SMOKING FEMALE roommate wanted. Private room, laundry, off-street parking. Available Nov. 1. 537-3679, 238-6297.

TWO MALE roommates wanted. One-half block from campus. $155/ month, plus utilities. After 6p.m. 776-7794.

200 SERVICE DIRECTORY

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

SPANISH TUTORING, by native speaker. Call 776-0477.

205 Tutor

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

ALL TYPING needs done inexpensively and quick with laser printing please call Janet at 537-0599.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

210 Resume/Typing

NEED BASSIST (male or female) for Contemporary Country Band.

240 Musicians/DJs

Reading a plus. Immediate work. 539-2888.

PRIVATE GUITAR lessons. Experienced teacher. All styles. Call 776-0665.

250 Automotive Repair

NISSAN- DATSUN Repair Service. 20 years experience in Mazdas, Hondas and Toyotas also. Auto Craft, 2612 Dipper Lane, Manhattan, Kansas. 537-5049. 8a.m.- 5p.m. Monday through Friday.

255 Other Services

STUDY ABROAD in Australia. Information on semester, year, graduate, summer and internship programs in Australia. We represent 28 Australian Universities. Call us toll free (800)245-2575.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ACCOUNTING ASSISTANT. Established Manhattan research and consulting firm has a

ALL-YOU-CAN-EAT

$6.50 Hog Roast every Saturday from 6 to 9 p.m.

Rick's Grille & Saloon

CRUISE SHIPS now hiring—Earn $2000 plus month plus world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer, and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call (206)634-0468 ext. C5768.

FARM WANTS responsible person with some experience operating PTO/ grinder mixer. And with time available, mornings preferred. 1-457-3440 before 8a.m.

WANTED: BASS Player for local working Country Band, call Mike 776-7011.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

EARN CASH stuffing envelopes at home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box

HOUSEKEEPER NEEDED. Mon.-Wed., Fri. 8a.m.-noon. Desire responsible efficient non-smoker, able to provide references. 537-8652.

NEED AN experienced cocktail waitress, must be at least 21 years of age. Call Bleachers Sports Bar 537-1484.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

GET THE WORD OUT

COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
532-6555

ASSISTANT TEACHER for nationally accredited early childhood program. 11a.m.-5:30p.m. Monday-Friday. Must have high school diploma or equivalent. Please apply in person to: Marsha Tannehill at Seven Dolors Childcare 220 S. Juliette by Nov. 3, 1992.

BOOKSTORE/ COPY center, needs mature, energetic, responsible individual. Must be available daily 8a.m.-2p.m. including summers and holidays. Contact Carol, 776-3771.

CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE Student to help remodel house in November—painting, carpentry, cleaning, plumbing, electrical repair. Send resume, work experience, to Collegian, Box 3.

STUDENT OFFICE help. Need responsible, hard working student. Computer experience essential. A pleasant phone manner and ability to work with public desired. Prefer work study student who can work 12-15 hours/week. Evening hours possible. Pays $5.25/hour. Please contact the Kansas State Family Center at 532-5869.

USED CASH register for sale. $50: Standing Room Only, 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

Aggie's New To You Second-Hand Store 537-8803 1124B Moro Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

420 Garage/Yard Sales

1980 HONDA Accord five-speed, three-door, air condition, cassette and sunroof, runs great. $550 or best offer. Call 537-3917 or 1-492-8293.

1980 MUSTANG, sun roof, body excellent condition. Runs good. $400 or best offer. 537-8499.

1984 DODGE Daytona Turbo. $1300 or best offer. Must sell Fully loaded and runs well. Call 539-1315.

1986 FORD Tempo. Two-doors, auto transmission, air condition, tape player, must sell, call Clement at 537-9852 after 5p.m.

1991 TREK 970 mountain bike with suspension fork/accessories. $795.

1991 Trek 2100 road bike $745, 539-3563.

56 CM Raleigh road bike, race ready! Comes with avocet computer. Must see! Call 776-6866 10a.m.-10p.m.

FOR SALE: Huffy Bike, ten-speed; very good condition. Call 539-1651.

MOUNTAIN BIKE for sale. Trek 830, one year old. $230 or best offer, 539-0903.

NEW SUPERCALIBER double butted aluminum frame with integral parts. $235. Lose a few pounds off your old bike. I'll transfer parts to this frame. Or buy frame equipped with brand new DX groupo, 24 pounds. $675 negotiable. A steal. Look before buying any mountain bike. 539-0816.

9643 Springfield, MO 65801.

MAKE $1000'S stuffing envelopes. Send self-addressed stamped envelope to J.C. Inc., P.O. Box 864, Manhattan, KS 66502-0088.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed. Doctor recommended. Call 1-800/874-7697.

STUDENTS OR organizations. Promote our Florida Spring Break packages. Earn money and free trips. Organize small or large groups. Call campus marketing. 1-800-423-5264

GHOUISHLY GOOD Bargains. Yard Sale Saturday and Sunday, 402 Shelle, 539-0464.

435 Computers

2400BPS. IBM compatible Modem with software, book will install $75. Men's Schwinn 10-speed $75, 776-3249.

APPLE II GS. 40 MB hard drive, two MB RAM, ImageWriter II (color), modem with FAX, Appleworks GS. Plus extra cards and software. 537-1663 and leave message.

440 Food Specials

GRASS FED lambs for sale. No implants, no chemicals. Call 537-7152, evenings or 537-8077 to leave a message.

445 Music Instruments

GUITAR LESSONS: You no longer have to go to the cross roads to play. Rick's Music Shop, 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 539-5900.

450 Pets and Supplies

DWARF RABBIT: friendly and loving bunny needs a new home. Am moving and can't take her with me. $30 or best offer, cage included. Call 532-2224, leave message.

HEWLETT PACKARD HP-28S with thermal printer, leather cases $195, 539-3563.

SOLOFLEX WEIGHT machine $1500 new. Will sell for $1000. 539-8423 after 6p.m.

TWO 14K gold, diamond and sapphire rings. Size four and one-half. Black full length leather coat size five/six small. Call 587-0673 Laurie.

USED CASH register for sale. $50: Standing Room Only, 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

Aggie's New To You Second-Hand Store 537-8803 1124B Moro Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

420 Garage/Yard Sales

1980 HONDA Accord five-speed, three-door, air condition, cassette and sunroof, runs great. $550 or best offer. Call 537-3917 or 1-492-8293.

1980 MUSTANG, sun roof, body excellent condition. Runs good. $400 or best offer. 537-8499.

1984 DODGE Daytona Turbo. $1300 or best offer. Must sell Fully loaded and runs well. Call 539-1315.

1986 FORD Tempo. Two-doors, auto transmission, air condition, tape player, must sell, call Clement at 537-9852 after 5p.m.

1991 TREK 970 mountain bike with suspension fork/accessories. $795.

1991 Trek 2100 road bike $745, 539-3563.

56 CM Raleigh road bike, race ready! Comes with avocet computer. Must see! Call 776-6866 10a.m.-10p.m.

FOR SALE: Huffy Bike, ten-speed; very good condition. Call 539-1651.

MOUNTAIN BIKE for sale. Trek 830, one year old. $230 or best offer, 539-0903.

NEW SUPERCALIBER double butted aluminum frame with integral parts. $235. Lose a few pounds off your old bike. I'll transfer parts to this frame. Or buy frame equipped with brand new DX groupo, 24 pounds. $675 negotiable. A steal. Look before buying any mountain bike. 539-0816.

FOR SALE

400 OPEN MARKET

410 Items for Sale

FISHNET STOCKINGS, thigh highs, pantyhose, black seamed pantyhose. Patricia's Undercover Lingerie, Aggieville, 1224 Moro.

HEWLETT PACKARD HP-28S with thermal printer, leather cases $195, 539-3563.

SOLOFLEX WEIGHT machine $1500 new. Will sell for $1000. 539-8423 after 6p.m.

TWO 14K gold, diamond and sapphire rings. Size four and one-half. Black full length leather coat size five/six small. Call 587-0673 Laurie.

USED CASH register for sale. $50: Standing Room Only, 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

Aggie's New To You Second-Hand Store 537-8803 1124B Moro Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

FOR SALE: Used furniture in excellent condition. Bedroom, dining and living room sets available December. Call 537-9643 before 8p.m.

420 Garage/Yard Sales

MIKE WELCHANS/Collegian

Trick or Treat

Children from Child Development Center visit Justin Hall offices

"This is a safe, controlled way of allowing them to go trick or treating."

LUANN HOOVER

DIANE DENISON
Collegian

"We'll huff, and we'll puff, and we'll blow the door down."

This is what the children said before they took a deep breath and blew at an unanswered door decorated with a trick or treat sign.

Children from the KSU Child Development Center went trick or treating Thursday in Justin Hall to the offices that had orange pumpkins on the doors, allowing them a safe environment to gather candy.

"This is a safe, controlled way of allowing them to go trick or treating," said LuAnn Hoover, assistant director of the Early Childhood Lab and instructor in human development and family studies. "Halloween is not as safe as it used to be."

Halloween is a time that encourages children to go against what their parents have taught them, such as not taking candy from strangers and talking to them.

MIKE WELCHANS/Collegian

For small children, visions of monsters and witches can make it a scary holiday, which should be presented to them in a way to make it a safe and enjoyable time, Hoover said.

The KSU Child Development Center has presented Halloween to the preschool children by showing them that everything is pretend, and dressing up is a fun part of it, Hoover said.

Since dressing up is part of the children's usual play, it de-emphasizes the scariness of the holiday, she said.

The children either brought costumes from home or put together costumes from the dress-up clothes at the center. The costumes ranged from clowns and dinosaurs to fairies and princesses.

The teachers rehearsed with the children how to ask for the treats and how to give thanks after receiving them.

"For some of the children it was a big task just to be able to say, 'Trick or treat,'" Hoover said.

The day was organized by Mary Delucce, director of child-care programs and associate professor of human development and family studies.

"Our faculty was excited about doing this," Delucce said. "I'd say about 100 percent of the people who were here had signs out for the children."

The event became more than just a human development and family studies department activity when others in Justin Hall about it and wanted the children to be also to visit them, Delucce said.

"Without this opportunity, some children may not get to go trick or treating because of the weather," said Tony Jurich, professor of human development and family studies.

The children appeared happy with what they received, and one girl was amazed enough with her candy that she said, "Now, I don't have to go trick or treating at home."

ABOVE: Ann Murray, associate professor of human development and family studies, hands out candy to children from the KSU Child Development Center Thursday morning in Justin Hall. LEFT: Costumed children roam Justin looking for orange signs welcoming trick or treaters.

HEALTH

New birth control OK'd

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The government gave women the option Thursday of using an injectable drug, Depo Provera, that provides birth control for three months.

"This drug presents another long-term effective option for women to prevent pregnancy," Food and Drug Commissioner David Kessler said in a written statement.

About a quarter of the women of childbearing age in the United States take birth control pills, which must be taken every day.

The Food and Drug Administration's decision followed the advice of a panel of scientists who recommended unanimously last June that the drug be allowed for use as a contraceptive.

However, FDA pointed out that the drug has possible side effects, including weight gain and menstrual irregularities.

Library cuts nationwide problem, Hobrock says ranked last in the Big Eight in terms of the smallest budget and the smallest collection.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

Hobrock said reasons for the cuts include the increasing cost in scholarly journals and the declining value of the dollar.

He also said about 55 percent of the budget is spent on European serials, while the other 45 percent is spent on U.S. serials. Hobrock said publishers told him to expect a 28-percent price increase due to inflation, and he received a supplementary bill of $45,000 from a German vendor.

"This is a nationwide problem. We aren't the only one canceling," Hobrock said.

He cited figures collected by the University of Nebraska that the University of Kansas cut $186,200 in its 1993 subscriptions. Iowa State University cut its subscriptions by $290,000, and the University of Missouri-Columbia cut $202,026 in subscriptions.

Subscription rates for various serials range from free to costing $5,000 a year, Hobrock said.

"Some people don't realize that, although we have all this money for construction, we can't use it for subscriptions," he said.

"We're just waiting for the ax to fall," said Dale Hawley, chemistry department head. "These cancellations are starting to cut into the heart of our program."

In 1986, the library cut about 1,600 titles. Hobrock said the library tries to cancel subscriptions in a cycle instead of every year.

"If we did it on a yearly basis, we'd have people in an uproar all the time," he said.

James Legg, professor of physics, said, "Past cuts have adversely affected us, but the library has been good about working with us."

Carolynn Thierolf, graduate in student counseling and personal services, said she hopes the library will not cut the serials students use.

"It's fine if they're doing it to cut costs. I just hope they screen the serials really well and make sure they don't eliminate frequently used ones," Thierolf said.

To compensate for the loss, interlibrary loan will be one way canceled subscriptions can be obtained, Elder said.

She also said graduate students and faculty will have to do preliminary research ahead of when the work is due in order to get the material on loan.

Runners head for to Rockies for meet

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2B
challenge for the individual title. The team has to try to stay close to Francis as long as possible."

Behind O'Neill, the rest of the team will run together. Being at the same high level, it should be a factor to finish the race strong.

O'Neill said it's more important for him to win the team title.

"Winning the individual title is not really the goal," he said. "I liked to win, but I don't know the other competitors and what they are doing."

"But I think the two races I did have were enough to know how to have a good race."

Spikers to begin 3-state tour

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2B

Following Saturday's contest with UMKC, the spikers embark on a three-state tour.

The road trip starts with a contest in Wichita against Wichita State.

Following the Nov. 3 contest against the Shockers, K-State will play at Oklahoma, Tulsa, Kansas and Nebraska.

The next home game is Nov. 21 against Colorado. It will be the last home game for the spikers.

Groups come together for abortion forum

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 8B

Heffern said.

"If people didn't have any questions prepared, then they could watch the video to find ones to ask," she said.

"I thought it went good," Shannon Weyh, junior in secondary education, said. "My biggest disappointment was the logic they used to get their point across."

She was commenting on the graphic content of the Students for the Right to Life video.

Some audience members offered suggestions of working together, suggesting the common issue of education prior to being pregnant. After the forum, audience members were discussing their different beliefs.

Heffern said nothing has been discussed yet concerning another forum, but she said she was willing to have more discussions next spring or fall.

ATTENTION: BUSINESS, PRE-LAW, & OTHER MAJORS

Deal with business from the consumers point of view and start learning consumer laws and limitations for 1 hour credit. Contact CRB for enrollment information: 532-6541

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Display Advertising
5 3 2 - 6 5 6 0

T.A.D SPORTS
Sports Cards and Collectibles
1112 Laramie
Mon.-Fri. 10-6 • Sat. 9-5
537-4433

noon - 1pm
k-state union
bookstore

fashion show

jazz
nite

new currents presents creative minds
9 pm - 1 am
union station

Free Delivery
(Min. Order $9)
HUNAN Chinese
Restaurant & Lounge
1304 Westloop
539-0888 539-8888
Dining-In Coupon
10% Off
When you present coupon.
Not valid with Buffet
or any other promotion.
Open 7 days a week

latino halloween
masquerade dance

october 31
9 pm - 1 am

First International Theatres		All Shows Daily Before 8 p.m. $3.50		Students and Faculty with ID $4.50
SETH CHILDS 6		WESTLOOP CINEMA 6
Under Siege	R Friday at 7 & 9:30	Consenting Adults	R Friday at 7 & 9:25
The Mighty Ducks	PG Friday at 7 & 9:30	Pure Country	PG Friday at 7 & 9:40
Sneakers	PG-13 Friday at 7:10 & 9:40	Dr. Giggles	R Fri. 7:10 & 9:25
Mr. Baseball	PG-13 Friday at 7:20 & 9:50	A River Runs Through It	PG Friday at 7 & 9:45
Night and the City	R Friday at 7:20 & 9:50	Singles	PG-13 Friday at 7:20 & 9:45
Last of the Mohicans	R Friday at 7:10 & 9:40	The Candyman	R Friday at 7:10 & 9:40

CAMPUS VARSITY
All Seats $1.50
Reservations to Varsity PG-13
Showing at 7:15 only

Snookies

FRIDAY NIGHT $1.75 Coronas
COSTUME CONTEST - $100 FIRST PRIZE
HALLOWEEN NIGHT

Private Club • Memberships Available • 1122 More • 776-7726

Come hear
George Murphy, PhD
Theoretical Physicist and Lutheran Pastor speak on the topic:
"THE ONLY GOOD GOD IS A DEAD GOD"
Friday, October 30
7 p.m. All Faiths Chapel
Sponsored by the faculty and staff of
CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Candidates Debate on Campus

■ Candidates debate in the K-State Union to inform students on election issues PAGE 6A

MONDAY

HIGH 47 LOW 32
WEATHER - PAGE 2

NOVEMBER 2, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 50

Perot ventures beyond TV

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Independent presidential candidate Ross Perot speaks to a crowd of more than 8,000 people Saturday in Kansas City's Bartle Hall.

"I believe in Ross Perot's message. He's the only one that tells it like it is without political doubletalk."

BILL MEADOR

STEPHANIE FUQUA
Collegian

KANSAS CITY — From the youngest newborn babe, to the oldest aged couple, the people loved Ross Perot.

They bought "Ross for Boss" T-shirts and Perot buttons, made hats out of Perot signs and covered the hats with miniature flags. A pregnant woman plastered her belly with "Save the Children, Perot '92" stickers, and babies everywhere were decked out head-to-toe in red, white and blue. They cried when Perot stepped out on the stage and cheered when he left.

But most of all, the people showed up at Bartle Hall in Kansas City in droves Saturday to catch a glimpse of their candidate.

More than 8,000 supporters came to a rally that had an almost convention-like atmosphere, and when the independent candidate came on stage the noise was deafening.

Perot first introduced Adriane Caggiano and her family to the crowd and prompted Margot Perot and the crowd to sing "Happy Birthday" to her, as Caggiano's birthday is election day. She is girl from Augusta, Kansas, who wrote a letter to Perot asking for his autograph and urging him to get back in the race. The letter was read on television when Perot re-entered the race.

The crowd was raucous during Perot's 48-minute speech, interrupting him with cheers of "We Want Ross" and "Three More Days." Perot was combative, attacking both Gov. Bill Clinton and President Bush and assuring the crowd he will win the election.

"Are we going to just talk about it or do it on Tuesday?" Perot asked the crowd. "Here's what every supporter needs to do. Get five more people. Each one of you gets five more people and it's a slam-dunk, 50-state win."

He spoke to the crowd as if they were his closest friends and people yelled questions and comments to him on the stage.

Perot's main focus was on the economy. He said the first thing the U.S. must do to get out of economic trouble is to jumpstart small businesses. Perot said his business sense was the reason to elect him.

"Economic competition has replaced the cold war. Our primary problem is business and finance," Perot said. "If Bush understood money, he wouldn't have run up a four-trillion dollar debt. If he understood business, he would have known there is a recession. If they asked me to do brain surgery, I couldn't do it. Ask the other candidates to do business and they can't do it."

Perot called Bush and Clinton "good men" and said people in congress are "good people," but they don't understand common people.

"They sit up there isolated from you," Perot said. "They expect you to be nice. Work hard. Pay taxes. Accept tax increases. Watch television. Sit and let some blow-dried guy who can't even spell cat without a script tell you how to vote in November."

Perot promised to have plans ready by Christmas if elected.

"There won't be any foreign lobbyists who have fingerprints on a single one of those plans," Perot said. "Most of them are on leave of absence working on Bush's campaign, anyway."

"Don't throw away a vote on George Bush," Perot said, referring to Bush's statement that people shouldn't throw away their vote on Perot.

Perot touched briefly on his performance at the debates.

"Was it obvious to you the other two guys were prepared for it like movie actors?" Perot asked. "All I did to prepare was go and get a haircut. I talked to real people about real stuff and went up there and spoke from the heart."

The crowd responded with "We want Ross. We want Ross."

Perot said it is his job to get Congress to function.

"You'll never hear me whine about Congress. You'll never hear me say it's Congress' fault. If I can't get Congress to function it's my fault," Perot said.

People came from all over Missouri and Kansas to hear Perot.

"I believe in Ross Perot's message. He's the only one that tells it like it is without political doubletalk," Bill Meador, 1981 K-State graduate, said. "He's smart. He's the only one that can fix the problems of this country."

At least one person is voting for Perot because she's tired of politics as usual and is protesting by voting for Perot. Joyce Collins of Independence, went to the rally because she is mad at the system.

"I am fed up with the bureaucracy," Collins said. "I don't like Clinton's background and I don't care for Bush's undercover stuff."

RESIGNATION

Capriotti accepts job with Nike Inc.

STEVE ROCK
Collegian

K-State's head track and field coach, John Capriotti, announced on Sunday that he is resigning to accept a position with Nike Inc., in Beaverton, Ore.

The announcement comes on the heels of the cross country Big Eight Championships in Boulder, Colo., where the women's team tied for first place and the men's team took second.

"Ever since (former athletic director) Steve Miller left, we have been discussing this possibility with Nike," Capriotti said. "It's an awfully good position, and it's something that I couldn't pass up."

"I think I've done all I can here. It's just time to move on."

In his six-plus seasons at K-State, Capriotti has led the men's and women's track programs to a total of 14 second-place finishes in 24 Big Eight team competitions. His cross country teams are both currently ranked in the top 20.

The women's cross country team has qualified for the NCAA Championships in five of the last six seasons.

Capriotti was named the Big Eight Indoor Track Coach of the Year in 1988. During his tenure, he has produced 48 all-Americans, 59 Big Eight champions, two NCAA Championships and eight athletes who have competed in the U.S. Olympic trials.

"K-State gave me a chance to be a head coach at 29 years old," he said. "I appreciate that."

"I'm going to miss this school and the kids. It was my whole life."

Capriotti joined the K-State staff in 1981 as an assistant coach. After three years in that position, he spent two years as the head track and cross country coach at Northwestern University, where he led the women's cross country team to a 13th-ranked place finish at the 1985 NCAA Championships.

He returned to K-State as head coach in the fall of 1986 and led the Wildcat men to a fifth-place finish at the 1987 NCAA Indoor Championships.

"He's been a great coach, and it's going to be weird without him," said Paulette Staats, whose sixth-place finish in the weekend competition

■ See COACH Page 5A

NEWS DIGEST

► IRISH HAVE SECOND THOUGHTS ABOUT ABORTION REFERENDUM

LIMERICK, Ireland — Limerick, in the conservative west, is a deeply Catholic town where Ireland's forthcoming referendum on abortion is the fuel of argument.

It is because of a 14-year-old girl's pregnancy that Ireland, a mostly Roman Catholic nation, has to think about the issue in 1992. The Supreme Court ruled that the girl, who said she had been raped and was threatening to kill herself, was entitled to an abortion.

A lower court upheld an order barring the girl from traveling to Britain for an abortion.

The case gave many people second thoughts about a question they thought had been settled in 1983, when they approved an anti-abortion amendment to the constitution.

On Dec. 3, they will vote on abortion again.

► MISSING NUNS FOUND DEAD

MONROVIA, Liberia — Five American nuns were shot to death behind rebel lines of the besieged capital, Monrovia's archbishop said Saturday. Rebel leaders denied they were responsible.

Roman Catholic Archbishop Michael Francis refused to speculate about who killed the nuns, all from Illinois and in their 50s or 60s, but said in an interview they had been "brutally murdered."

Two of the American nuns were killed along a road and the other three in front of their convent outside Monrovia, Francis said. He did not know when they died. The nuns, members of the Adorers of the Blood of Christ order, had been missing for more than a week.

In Washington, the State Department called the killings a "cowardly act" and said the nuns apparently were slain several days ago in a rebel-controlled area. The United States holds Taylor's forces responsible for the safety of foreign nationals in territory they hold.

Improving quality emphasized at forum

JULIE LONG
Collegian

Improving the quality of education at K-State through better use of resources was emphasized at an open forum Friday afternoon to discuss the Role and Aspirations report to be submitted to the Board of Regents this month.

An audience of about 150 people arrived in Forum Hall to review the first draft of the report. About 25 students arrived carrying signs and wearing black arm bands and T-shirts that had an emblem of a Kansas license tag with "SPCHFXR." They asked questions, but elimination or reduction of programs were not mentioned.

Dennis Kuhlman, professor in agricultural engineering and chair of the Provost's Role and Aspiration Committee, opened the meeting by displaying a picture that could be viewed as a beautiful young woman or as an old hag. He said the picture illustrates that there are two sides to everything.

He said committee members tried to remember this when they were drafting the report.

"We tried to look at it from all aspects," he said.

Kuhlman said that during the 836 hours it took to create the report, the committee was looking at University-wide issues that reflect the mission, role and aspirations of K-State. More specifically the committee was looking at proposed changes with cross-college impact.

"We did review each of the recommendations by College Core Group," he said. "I can assure you this whole process was not approached lightly."

The Board of Regents has asked for alterations to the mission statement submitted to it. Kuhlman said the Provost committee would recommend no changes be made.

"Our recommendation to the Provost is to leave the mission statement as is," he said. "We feel like the Regents' comments are asking for more detail than is necessary in a general mission statement."

He said the No. 1 directive is to better serve the students and the people of Kansas.

"The students remain our first priority," he said.

The report stated the way to provide students the best possible education is through dedicated teaching, ready access

■ See REPORT Page 6A

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

Dennis Kuhlman, chairman of the Provost's Role and Aspirations committee, explains some of the committee's budgetary concerns to an audience Friday.

FOLLOW UP

Union develops goals for workers

Statement used as guide in order to serve customers

KIRSTEN NELSON
Collegian

The K-State Union has developed a mission statement for all employees of the Union to follow as an overall guide and put them in a unified mindset for the goals the Union wants to achieve.

It was developed as part of the Total Quality Management system the Union began this past summer. Four pilot teams were developed in the system. The mission statement was the result of pilot team No. 1.

"The mission statement will unify employees with one purpose," Julie Groh, TQM coordinator, said.

"The purpose, in a nutshell, is to better serve the customers."

The mission statement is an overview of what the Union would like to be, said Kathy Yates, Union Bookstore supply manager.

"It's not where we're at now, but it's where we'd like to be," she said.

The idea for a mission statement came from the Union staff.

"What is most unique about our mission statement as compared to others, is in most cases it's developed by one individual, usually in upper management," Groh said.

"Our management has such a commitment to the TQM principles and working towards a peer relationship. We're trying to get away from one job being more important than another."

"We have input from every level of management and also are giving an opportunity to everyone to have input on it," she said.

The proposed mission statement has received positive response from Union employees, Union Program Council, Student Senate, Student Governing Association and the Union Governing Board.

"Now that the employees have looked at it and responded to it, we thought it was important for the students to do that also," Malley Sisson, Food Service director, said.

The mission statement says the Union values the free exchange of ideas, and that's why the team wants everyone to respond to what they're doing and share their thoughts on it, Sisson said.

A major focus of the proposed statement is its emphasis on students. This is extended to both students in general and the student employees of the Union.

TQM involves all employees, including student employees, Yates said.

"They're very much a part of our integral thing," she said.

The developers of the proposed statement are pleased with the emphasis on students. Pat Bosco, dean of student life, said it will have an impact on future plans and programming.

"It's refreshing our staff came together and realized that unique emphasis. We didn't find it in the other mission statements we reviewed. We enjoyed finding it would naturally be part of our statement," Bosco said.

Groh agreed and said after visiting with students around campus, she didn't think students were aware of the Union's commitment to them.

■ See UNION Page 3B

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30

At 1:14 p.m., John Wright, 2001 Poyntz Ave., reported a theft.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31

At 5:58 p.m., Robert Ecklund reported a vehicle driving on the sidewalk between Farrell Library and Lafene Health Center.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1

At 10:31 a.m., Joel Grimmer, No. 9 Jardine Terrace, reported three to four windows shot out in the laundry room at Jardine.

At 1:59 p.m., a burglary and theft was reported by Jason Hoover, 737

Haymaker Hall. Miscellaneous items totaling $3,053 were taken.

At 1:59 p.m., Matt Baker, 945 Haymaker Hall, reported a theft at Haymaker. Miscellaneous items totaling $784 were taken.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31

At 3:07 p.m., Michael D. Newhouse, 2030 College Heights, reported a major-damage vehicle accident at Seventeenth and Laramie streets with Krystal E. Hildyard, 625 Ford Hall.

At 9:16 p.m., Doris Smith reported damage to a car windshield at 826

Pottawatomie Ave. Loss was $100. At 3:40 p.m., an employee of Shop Quik, 1127 Bluemont Ave., reported a theft of $5 of gasoline.

At 11:57 p.m., Rashell Y. Turner, 1417 Dilac, Wamego, was issued a minor in possession and a notice to appear.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1

At 12:05 a.m., a minor in possession and a notice to appear was issued to Michael A. Carter, Ft. Riley.

At 12:17 a.m., a minor in possession and a notice to appear in court was issued to Joseph E. Williams, 9535 Ashworth, Seattle, Wa.

At 9:21 a.m., Bonita Phillips, 151 Park, Ogden, reported a theft of a RCA camcorder. Loss was $800.

At 11:56 a.m., a hit and run accident was reported by Jeremy Busby, 1113 Bertrand St., at the 1100 block of Bertrand. Damage was $500.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy with a 30-percent chance of morning drizzle. High 45 to 50. Tonight, mostly cloudy. Low 30 to 35.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy with a 30-percent chance of light rain or drizzle. High in the mid-40s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Wednesday, dry but much colder. Lows in the teens northwest to the upper 20s southeast. Highs 35 to 40. Thursday and Friday, continued cold and dry. Lows in the teens west to the 20s east. Highs in the 30s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

ANNOUNCEMENTS

■ Applications for cancer research awards are available in Ackert 234. Deadline is Dec. 4.

■ Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani at 532-6448.

■ Applications for the Homeserve community service program are available in Eisenhower 014A.

■ Intramural volleyball schedules are available in the Recreational Services office in the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex.

■ Manhattan Parks and Recreation needs coaches for youth soccer, volleyball and football. Contact Mike Buchanan at 587-2757.

■ Applications are available in Eisenhower 014A for community service program international summer teams. Spanish is required.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2

■ Alpha Zeta will meet at 6 p.m. in Weber 146. Bring $9 for T-shirts.

■ New Currents Music Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Union Station. Bring CDs and tapes.

■ The graduate school has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kyung-Goo Doh for 4 p.m. in Nichols 236.

■ KSUARH will be having the program "American Disabilities Act: How it affects you," at 7 p.m. in the Edwards Hall TV room.

■ Golden Key National Honor Society officer information meeting will be at 5:30 p.m. in Union 213.

■ A representative from School of Pharmacy and Allied Health from Creighton University will be on campus from 1 to 4 p.m. in the lobby of Ackert Hall.

■ College Republicans will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 206.

■ "How to Prepare Yourself For Success: Getting people to select you as their leader," will be presented by Rich Mistler, senior vice president of Paine Webber at 7 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room as part of Leadership Week.

■ Jim Slattery will present "The Leadership Paradox: To be a good leader, you must be a good follower," at 1:30 p.m. in the Union Little Theatre as part of Leadership Week.

■ Dennis Law will present "The Environmental Crisis: Is it a matter of Economic or Politics?" at 10:30 a.m. in the Union Big 8 Room as part of Leadership Week.

■ Chimes will meet at 9 p.m. in the 6th floor lobby of Moore Hall.

■ Alpha Zeta will meet at 6 p.m. in Weber 146.

■ Young Democrats will be having lunch with Jim Slattery at 12:30 in the Union Courtyard. Everyone is invited. Bring your own lunch.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY	Nairobi	79/57	cloudy
Berlin	45/32	clear	Rome	72/64	clear
Helsinki	41/21	rain	Stockholm	41/27	cloudy
London	55/45	cloudy	Paris	46/28	clear

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Keadzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Keadzie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

This Week's Specials

Tacos 3 for $1.25 reg. 55¢ each

Chili Burrito $1.88 reg. $2.55

Good through 11-7-92

TACO HUT

Sun. Thurs 11 a.m. - 10 p.m. Where good friends get together
Fri. Sat. 11 a.m. - Midnight Overlooking Westloop
2809 Clafflin 539-2091

Nautilus
Live Life in the Fit Lane!

1100 MORO-AGGIEVILLE • 776-1654

Special: 2 for 1 with two-month membership. Each save 50%.

ELECTRICAL AND COMPUTER ENGINEERING STUDENTS

EARLY ENROLLMENT FOR SPRING 1993

Check the bulletin board behind the EECE office (DU 261) for details of the Early Enrollment procedures. Early Enrollment will only be conducted:

SENIORS AND JUNIORS: Nov. 2 and 5

ALL STUDENTS: Nov. 11 and 16

EXTRA SESSION: Nov. 20 and Dec. 4

Check the Early Enrollment information you received for details. Sign-up sheets are in the EECE office.

Enrollment permits will NOT be available in the EECE office.

Stagg Hill Golf Club

Off Season Greens Fee Rates
Begins Sunday Nov. 1, 1992

$8.50
per day

Play All You Want!

3 miles west K-18

539-1041

IT'S A SAFE BET...

YOU WILL SAVE MONEY EVERY TIME
YOU USE
"WELCOME TO MANHATTAN"
COUPON BOOK.

Medical Directory

Accident and Back Pain Center

Dr. Larry Dall D.C.

1410 Poyntz 539-9113

DERMATOLOGY

Robert H. Cathey

M.D.P.A.

Diplomate Am. Board

Dermatology

For Apt. call

537-4990

1133 College Ave. Bldg. B.

Dr. Jeanne

Klopfenstein

Optometrist

Family Eye Care

3202 Kimball

Candlewood Shopping

Center

776-2255

Try a COOLTOPPER

It's your favorite flavor of frozen yogurt with your choice of topping blended in
and another scoop heaped on top.

COME IN SATURDAY FOR OCTOBERFEST!

FREE
Souvenir
Cup With Purchase!

I Can't Believe It's Yogurt!

We Put A Smile On Your Taste!

NAUTILUS TOWER
AGGIEVILLE

537-1616

©1992, I Can't Believe It's Yogurt, Ltd.

1/2 OFF!

Buy One Cooltopper
and Get the Second
One for 1/2 Price!

Offer good only at the I Can't Believe
It's Yogurt store listed. Coupon not valid
with any other offer. Offer expires 11/15/92

FREE PINT!

Buy Any Quart From
Our Take-Out Freezer
and Get a Pint Free!

Offer good only at the I Can't Believe
It's Yogurt store listed. Coupon not valid
with any other offer. Offer expires 11/15/92

50¢ OFF!

Buy Any Regular or Large Cup or Cone
and Get 50¢ Off!

Offer good only at the I Can't Believe
It's Yogurt store listed. Coupon not valid
with any other offer. Offer expires 11/15/92

CHIROPRACTIC FAMILY HEALTH CENTER

DR. MARK J. HATESOHL

Board Member, Kansas State Board of Healing Arts

3252 Kimball Avenue
Manhattan, Kansas 66502

913-537-8305

Dr. Mark Hatesohl

CAMPUS

Professor gets grant

Anthropologist examines the lives of poor, rural women; Survival techniques

JILL SCHRAG
Collegian

Michael Timberlake, professor in anthropology, received a $40,000 grant from the Ford Foundation in June to study poor, rural, single women in the Mississippi Delta Region.

"This is one of the poorest regions in the United States. In fact, infant and adult mortality rates, medical care and education are comparable to some third world countries," Timberlake said. "It's historically an underdeveloped and neglected region."

Timberlake has been working with two professors from Mississippi and Maryland since 1989 on this project. When he came to K-State last year, he brought half of the funding from the grant with him. The other half went to the principal researcher in Maryland, Bonnie Thornton Dill.

"We've been studying the coping and survival strategies of poor women who have their own households in rural areas. How they make ends meet, such as affording shelter, food and medical expenses," he said.

Martin Ottenheimer, head of the department, said, "It's an excellent project. It has relevance not only for Mississippi women, but also in conjunction with our own interest in Kansas rural development. His research will make a significant contribution to our research."

The research team has gathered hundreds of pages of data, most of it from lengthy interviews.

Timberlake said they have interviewed women in their late teens to late thirties in four particular Mississippi communities.

"We've been very careful to match the race and gender of the interviewers with the interviewees to encourage rapport and get a better read of the situation," he said.

All interviews were conducted by the three professors or graduate students. They also interviewed social service providers, employers, successful farm owners and politicians in the region.

He said the next step is to evaluate the data and look for patterns in the interviews.

"We've published articles in books on world poverty and rural poverty already. We'll certainly publish a book as well," he said. "We hope to influence policy at local, state and national levels."

Timberlake said his interest in poverty studies began when he was working on his doctorate at Brown University.

"I was concerned about issues of well-being and finding an explanation for the development or underdevelopment of certain regions," he said.

"Now I have learned that there are processes that operate on a global level that tend to keep poor countries poor and rich countries rich," he said.

He also studies and publishes findings about underdevelopment and urbanization in foreign countries.

CAMPAIGN

Travelers rally for Clinton

CARY CONOVER/Collegian

Wes Edwards speaks to a crowd of Clinton-Gore supporters at the Manhattan Democratic Headquarters Sunday evening. Edwards and others from Arkansas were campaigning for the nominee.

Band formed to combat media coverage, Republican portrayal of favorite son

MEGAN MULLIKIN
Collegian

The Arkansas Travelers, a group campaigning around the United States for Bill Clinton, made a brief stop at Riley County Democratic headquarters in Manhattan on Sunday.

The group has up to 350 members traveling at different times; 18 visited Manhattan. Most of the members are personal friends or business acquaintances of Bill or Hillary Clinton.

Wes Edwards, childhood friend of Bill Clinton, spoke briefly to about a dozen local people. He outlined the Clinton/Gore platform and encouraged the residents to continue their campaigning in the last two days before the election.

Edwards said the Arkansas Travelers are important because they try to campaign in the towns which Clinton and Gore rarely have time to visit.

"We're effective especially in small towns. When people see a group of Arkansians paying their own expenses and coming to towns where the candidates can hardly ever get to, we get a very positive reception," Edwards said.

The group is made up of people in a variety of professions. The members pay all their own traveling expenses and take time out of their own jobs to campaign across the United States, Pamela Walker, group member, said.

"People travel as they can take the time off work," Walker said. "I've taken no other vacation. Instead I've used my time off traveling for the campaign."

During a stop the group usually meets with local Democrats and leads a rally. Sometimes group members go door-to-door passing out fliers or they speak to the press. Walker said they try to go to the towns where they think they are needed the most.

The group originated when Clinton fell into some trouble in the polls in New Hampshire. Walker said some people in Arkansas were upset with the national media's coverage of the accusations made by the Republicans after the New Hampshire primary.

"We decided the real issues weren't being addressed and we decided the only people who knew about Bill's record were the people from his state," Walker said.

Edwards said he thinks people are ready for a new president and that the Travelers have not really had much conflict from any Republican groups.

"Everyone is concerned that this election needs change. People are sick and tired of Bush's slating tactics," Edwards said. "We're here to reinforce what people already believe about Bill."

CAMPUS

Speakers promote leadership

KIRSTEN NELSON
Collegian

Speakers from around the nation will be on campus this week for Leadership 2000, a week organized to expose students to leaders and what they have to say about taking initiative and making things work.

The week is sponsored by Blue Key National Honor Society and will continue through Friday.

Leadership 2000 is designed to teach K-State students how to develop leadership and to realize how important it is, said Roger Denning, president of Blue Key and senior in electrical engineering.

"It will bring ideas to students that they haven't been exposed to before. They'll hear a lot of things from industry and government leaders they don't hear in classes,"

Denning said.

The speakers include a Congressman, Jim Slattery; a broadcast sports reporter, Ron Paradis; a vice president of a large investment firm, Rich Mistler of Paine Weber; and the Kansas Secretary of Agriculture, Sam Brownback.

Today's speakers are Slattery at 1:30 p.m., Union Little Theatre; Mistler at 7 p.m., Union Big 8 Room; and Dennis Law, head of the Department of Landscape Architecture, at 10:30 a.m., Big 8 Room.

Other speakers are a physician, an oil company engineer, an assistant school superintendent, and two university executives.

Blue Key organized the speeches around classes so more students could attend, said Ann Woodbury, administrative vice president of Blue Key and senior in sociology.

Today, Wednesday and Friday, the speeches will start on the half hour. On Tuesday, and Thursday, they will start at five past the hour, she said.

"They're designed so teachers can take a whole class, or students can easily make it to them before or after classes," she said.

"We hope the week will encourage students to understand leadership and to realize that they will be leaders in the future. We're hoping to better prepare them for the leadership positions they'll take in their jobs and communities when they're graduated and out of here," Woodbury said.

$50 MONO $50

Have you had mononucleosis within the last month? If so your plasma could make a valuable contribution to research and earn you $50 at the same time.

For additional details call Kurt Mortenson
at
Manhattan Donor Center 776-9177
1130 Gardenway - across from Westloop

11th ANNIVERSARY

CHRISTMAS BREAK

LAST CHANCE!

STEAMBOAT

DECEMBER 12-19 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $166

JANUARY 2-16 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS

VAIL/BEAVER CREEK

DECEMBER 14-21 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $181

JANUARY 2-14 * 5 OR 7 NIGHTS

BRECKENRIDGE

JANUARY 2-14 * 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS $202

PICNIC • PARTY • LODGING • LIFTS

MORE WINTER COLLEGIATE SKI BREAK SPACE ADDED!

Whew, just when you thought you might be left out in the cold during Christmas break — Sunchase comes through again! Your response to our quality and low priced 11th Annual Collegiate Winter Ski Breaks has been overwhelming.

So, we've been able to add limited additional space at each destination, but don't wait too much longer as in year's past, it's sure to be a sell out!

Winter ski breaks include your choice of Fully Equipped Condominium or Hotel Lodging for 5, 6 or 7 nights; all Lift Tickets, Welcome Party, Mountain Chicken Barbecue, Ski Race, all Taxes and welcome Goodie Bag full of participating corporate sponsor product samples and area information.

Ski Break by yourself, with your friends or organize a group of 19 and you'll get a FREE SKI TRIP!

Steamboat, Vail/Beaver Creek or Breckenridge. The hardest part is choosing which destination to "conquer" this coming season!

Ask us about discount roundtrip airfare!

11th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

K-State

Leadership Week
November 2-5, 1992

Leadership 2000

	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday
The Environmental Crisis: Is it a matter of Economics or Politics? Dennis Law, Dept. Head and Prof. of Landscape Architecture 10:30 am, Union Big 8 Room	Taking The Athletic View: How to prepare yourself for success Ron Paradis, WIBW News Sportscaster of the Year 11:05 am, Union Room 212	Meeting the Challenge of Diversity Dr. Mordean Taylor-Archer, Asst. Provost Multicultural Affairs 10:30 am, Union Room 213	The Need For Passion In Leadership Sam Brownback, J. D. Kansas Secretary of Agriculture 11:05 am, Union Big 8 Room
The Leadership Paradox: To be a good leader, you must be a good follower Jim Slattery, U. S. Congressman 1:30 pm, Union Little Theatre	The 5th Discipline: Systematic Thinking vs. Linear Thinking in Leadership Dr. Larry Dixon, Asst. Superintendent of Geary Co. School District 3:30 pm, Union Room 212	Ethics and Values in Decision Making Fred Thibodeau, President KSU Alumni Foundation 1:30 pm, Union Room 213	Leadership Skills: For Now and in the Future Dr. Kent Bradley, Resident OBGYN, Wesley Hospital 2:30 pm, Union Big 8 Room
How To Prepare Yourself For Success: Getting people to select you as their leader Rich Mistler, Sr. Vice President of PAINEWEBBER 7:00 pm, Union Big 8 Room	Putting Leadership Skills to Work Ray Dempsey, Project Engineer for AMOCO 7:00 pm, Union Big 8 Room	New Leadership: An Agenda for 21st Century Schools Dr. Jan Wissman, Assoc. Dean, College of Education 3:30 pm, Union Big 8 Room

BLUE KEY
LEADING THE WAY

OPINION

NOVEMBER 2, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief	Erin Perry Amy Cox Shawn Bruce Frank Kleemann Brian Anderson	Richard Andrade Jodell Lamer David Mayes Derek Thomas Heather Anderson	John Hart Tom Lister Mark Engler Lajean Rau Julie Long
-------------------------------------	--	--	--

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Raborn, Smith are the choices

THE ISSUE

Nov. 3 is the day to choose a new Riley County Attorney and State Senator.

WE SUGGEST

Craig Raborn and Michelle Smith, respectively, are the best candidates for these positions.

K-State students should keep their own best interests in mind when they vote on Tuesday.

The best way to accomplish that is voting for Craig Raborn for Riley County Clerk and Michelle Smith for State Senator.

Raborn is a former K-State student and Smith is currently a student. Their familiarity with the campus and the students make them highly qualified for the positions.

With fresh ideas for the job of county clerk, Raborn will work to get students interested in registering to vote. He will bring more voter registration drives to campus than there have been before. Whether it be at football games or Landon Lectures, Raborn has pledged to be there to register students.

Further, incumbent Ilene Colbert has shown little interest in students. At the beginning of the semester she refused to deputize students and hold a voter registration drive on campus. She relented only after Raborn brought the matter to light in the media.

There is also a question of whether 27 absentee votes were counted in a 1991 primary or whether Colbert did not count them.

Smith is opposed to including Washburn University into the Kansas Board of Regents system. Lana Oleen, the incumbent, has told the Manhattan Mercury she is also opposed to Washburn becoming a regents school. However, according to Smith, Oleen voted to give Washburn thousands of dollars from the legislature. That is money other regent schools could have used, but did not receive.

Clearly, a change is needed to stop this waffling on the issues that concern everyone here at Kansas State.

To vote other than Raborn and Smith would be a mistake as an informed voter, knowledgeable student, and motivated individual.

Vote Nov. 3, and make a difference.

The future now belongs to you

Life under Bill Clinton would seem like the start of a four year nightmare

"Inflation rate doubles for the tenth consecutive quarter."

"Unemployment at all time high."

Neither headline surprises me. If I could only get my hands on a few pesos, I'd be all right. The headlines continue. "Clinton not to blame for depression, Republican legacy continues to haunt America."

After glancing through the remainder of the news section, I turn to the classifieds in hopes of finding a job opportunity. Jobs are available; however, quotas must be met before white, heterosexual males can apply. If I don't find a job in the next month, at least I'll get to collect my state-issued garage door opener.

Mildly discouraged, I put the paper down and sip from my tall, cool glass of generic orange soda. I prefer cheap plastic cups, yet they have long since been confiscated by the government. Looking out my barred window, I realize that despite the desperate condition of the economy and my personal state of poverty, curiously, economic hardship has not been coupled with emotional despair.

Suddenly, a pounding on my door breaks my brief moment of reflection. I rise with trepidation, realizing that the people just outside my door could be the PC police. I suspect that many friends I've been unable to contact lately have been abducted by members of the PC police, a special task force appropriated by the House Politically Incorrect Activities Committee. I have reason to believe that my cohorts were then sent to maximum security sensitivity camps.

Boldly, I open the door and am relieved to see Lance, the friendly neighborhood tax collector.

"It's time to pay Aunt or Uncle Sam."

Grudgingly, I hand my last two quarters over to Lance, who is full of mirth at the moment. Looking at the coins in Lance's hand fills me with grief as I realize that the first edition of coins without the phrase "In God we trust" are now in circulation. Justices Cuomo and Hill cast two of the six votes in favor of removing the phrase from state material.

Now, the new Supreme Court is now on the verge of ruling that a citizen of the United States cannot pray. This is because a citizen is part of the state, and if a citizen were to pray that would violate separation of church and state and defame the Constitution.

Before Lance leaves he inquires about my swollen knee.

"I think I may have torn a ligament playing football, but at least the swelling hasn't stopped the blood flow to my lower leg. I'm on a waiting list to get it examined next week. It keeps getting worse."

Lance's tone quickly turns hostile. "I can't believe you're complaining about that. I mean, the gall. The government is going to pay for your health care and you're whining about waiting!"

As Lance finally leaves, he says, "Oh yeah, I'm supposed to tell you that your money will be put in a fund to bribe dissenting soldiers to go Western Europe to expel the Commonwealth of Neo-Socialist States' forces from the region."

As I close, latch and bolt my door, the voice of President Clinton on the television seizes my attention.

"My opponent wants to impose a value system on America that will send this country back to the Stone Ages. In the future, I believe that all Americans can have a good time all the time without facing negative, legalistic consequences. I believe our party can find a condom for everything. America, the future is in your hands."

JOHN HART
Editor in Chief

OTHER VIEWPOINTS

If Saddam Hussein had had a nuclear bomb during the Gulf War, would he have used it? The likely answer points out the obvious need to keep these weapons out of the hands of unstable dictators. And that can't be done without a worldwide effort to greatly reduce their number and prevent their spread. The United States and Russia, which still have most of the world's warheads, must lead this effort.

Some progress has been made. Under Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev, the United States and the former Soviet Union began to actually reduce the number of weapons. The Start II treaty, which has been agreed to but not yet implemented, calls for much deeper cuts.

Testing has also been reduced. Since the late 1980s, the Soviets (and now the Russians) have observed a unilateral ban. This month President Bush reluctantly signed a law banning nuclear tests until July 1993, and permanently after 1996. Test bans are important: They discourage development of new weapons and, over time, cause a loss of confidence in existing arsenals. Both make nuclear war less likely.

What's needed is a worldwide nuclear build-down that covers all aspects of nuclear weapons. In addition to ending new production and testing, attention must be paid to dismantling current weapons, and monitoring and disposing of the nuclear material they contain.

There are two ways to do that. One is for the international community to pressure those countries to sign the non-proliferation treaty, and open their nuclear facilities to International Atomic Energy Agency inspection.

The Daily Gazette, Schenectady, New York

TOLES

READERS WRITE

CAR SPOTS

Lafene's malady is inadequate parking

Editor,

What started out to be a project for my Public Speaking II class has now become a major issue that I am concerned about at K-State. That issue is inadequate parking at Lafene Health Center for students and the staff of Lafene.

In preparing my speech, I interviewed many people I felt could help me with my speech, many of them being Lafene staff.

I feel that Lafene has very little parking available. There are only 10 spaces available and six of those are either handicapped or reserved. And the entrance to Lafene is so small that delivery trucks can barely fit through. If there is no parking available, then you have to go around the circle drive and if people are parked illegally, then you can barely get through without hitting them.

Many students who park improperly could be endangering the lives of others. This includes students parking in handicapped reserved parking, and in the circle drive. Also, for patients suffering from broken limbs.

So many other services could be offered to Lafene patients if adequate parking was available. Some ideas from Cindy Burke, Director of Health Education at Lafene include, "A drive-through pharmacy could be available with a bigger and wider circle drive and possibly a validator service offered at the entrance."

I feel that if the circle drive could be widened, the drive-up pharmacy would become available, delivery trucks would have better access, and parking could be available around the circle drive.

Also, the space between the Power Plant and Lafene could be made a parking facility.

So if you are tired of walking the distance to Lafene or circling the drive many times, I would encourage you to write or call the Facilities Planning Office.

I did.

Brett Hill
Sophomore/Business

THANK YOU

Alarms appreciated, but more are needed

Editor,

On behalf of the students in Public Speaking II, we appreciate the prompt actions of John Lambert, Public and Radiation Safety Officer, in putting up smoke alarms within the Military Science Building. The addition of the smoke alarms on the south wing has provided us with a better sense of security. Once they are installed on the north wing as well, we will feel even better. Thank you again for your prompt actions.

Jim Esser
Junior/Business administration
And 13 Public Speaking II students

PUBLIC CONCERN

Jardine will discuss safety of complex

Editor,

I would like to let Jardine Terrace residents know that there is going to be a meeting at 7 p.m. today in the Jardine Community Center. The issues of public travel control and visitor permits are finally being addressed.

I know that I am tired of having to get visitor permits every time that I have company. I feel that there are feasible alternatives to having to get visitor permits. Wouldn't you like to be issued a visitor permit and eliminate the hassle? Or can we avoid the complex being ticketed on weekends, and between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. on weekdays, with the exception of days and evenings that Bramlage Coliseum has large activities going on?

About the safety issue: Although I do not have children, I am concerned for my neighbors who do have children. Jardine residents, have you noticed the traffic going through Jardine Terrace after home football games and concerts? In particular, have you noticed the speed at which this public traffic drives? What has happened to our complex's privacy and safety?

Jardine residents (and other concerned citizens), if you would like to voice your concerns or share your opinions, please be at the community center tonight. It is important that our rights are considered and the safety issue be resolved now while it can still be considered preventative, rather than responsive.

Karla Matson
Senior/Accounting

GUN CONTROL

Guns not the root of America's violence

Editor,

It is a horrible tragedy that foreign exchange student Yoshihiro Hattori lost his life. However, it is also a sad and unfortunate tragedy that guns alone receive a great deal of the credit for our "ultra-violent" nation. Despite the popular fantasies portrayed by much of the media, stricter gun control legislation will not make our country less violent. There are very strict laws in the United States prohibiting the possession of drugs. Have these made America less exempt from the violence and perils of the drug trade?

Guns are incredibly important for the safety of every American citizen. If guns were restricted further or outlawed completely, who would suffer? You and I, the law-abiding American citizen, would suffer. Criminals would scarcely be affected by more stringent gun laws. Law-abiding citizens, however, would be put at a great disadvantage. While criminals would still have easy access to illegal weapons, you and I would be left defenseless.

Take Washington, D.C., for instance. That city has some of the most restrictive gun laws in the nation. How have these laws affected the city's violent crime rate?

Our society has problems, but guns are not the root of them. Guns are not violent. People are violent. Guns are merely a means through which violence is expressed.

Without the option and the ability to protect ourselves, we are in a dire situation. Stricter gun control is not the solution to our dilemma.

While it may be easy to fire away, with perfectly good intent, at our freedom to keep and bear arms, please stop and think where an infringement upon that right would leave you and I.

Shannon Moore
Sophomore/Mechanical engineering

LONDON LECTURE

Debate needed in search for truth

"If we teach our children that there is no common truth, aren't we encouraging the disuniting of America?"

LYNNE CHEHEY

Cheney critical of politics in education process; Audience skeptical of vision of truth, universities

KATIE WALKER
Collegian

The advancement of political correctness is overtaking the pursuit of truth in universities, Lynne Cheney, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, told a London Lecture audience that packed McCain Auditorium Friday.

"The pursuit of truth is what education should be about," she said.

What is taking the place of pursuit of truth is an idea that the proper goal of teaching is to impose biases on the students, she said.

"There are many, many thousands of fine teachers who would not dream of using their classrooms in this way," she said.

Her speech was filled with quotes from students, university faculty and scholars who observed the change from seeking truth to advocating a political viewpoint. She said she has seen evidence of this change by reading professional literature.

"I read how they talk to each other in their journals and I'm struck by the degree to which politics is involved," Cheney said. "Sometimes politics is not even a matter of debate, but a discussion of how to most effectively persuade students."

Cheney cited one student who tried to overcome the political atmosphere by giving this advice to another student: "Pretend to be a male chauvinist; then have a conversion. You'll get an A."

Cheney's solution is to encourage free debate.

"All of us who value free debate should be encouraged. Why not have a campus-wide debate on the ethics of the problem?" she said. "If we teach our children that there is no common truth, aren't we encouraging the disuniting of America?"

After delivering her 30-minute speech, several audience members accused her of inaccurately portraying what actually happens in universities.

"There seems to be a resistance to painful truth," Don Hedrick, professor of English, said.

He continued with a lengthy quote from Shakespeare that provoked an audience member to shout, "So what's your question?"

Cheney replied with an example.

"Anti-Semitism is one of the ugliest manifestations of human nature. But if they create great art, you don't need to read the anti-Semitism into their art," she said.

"The ability to pursue truth is a blessing of liberty."

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

Chairwoman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, Lynne Cheney, refers to a sheet of quotations from students during her lecture on education truth Friday morning in McCain Auditorium.

Coach announces resignation to accept position with company

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 5A
paced the Cats. "I'm sure it's going to hurt us."

Miller, who resigned as the K-State athletic director in the summer of 1991, also accepted a position with Nike.

"Since I've known John, I've known that he's had a great interest in doing other things," K-State Athletic Director Milt Richards said. "He and Steve Miller have always been close, so I wasn't surprised."

"John is a very hard worker who has done a great job," he said. "Obviously, this is a tremendous opportunity that doesn't come along very often."

"I wish John Capriotti nothing but the best."

Capriotti's new position will be as a field representative for Nike's Track and Field Promotions. He said he plans to coach the cross country teams through district and NCAA competition and then start his new job in late November.

Richards said assistant coach Cliff Rovelto, who has been at K-State since the fall of 1988, will take over as head coach on an interim basis.

Pregnant? Need help?
For confidential help call

Birthright
Free pregnancy test
537-9180
523 s. 17th st.
1-800-848-LOVE (5683)

MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL

DENVER BRONCOS

VS.

WASHINGTON REDSKINS

KITE'S FAMOUS LOADED NACHOS $2
75¢ draws

537-2100

619 N. 12th Street, Aggieville

No way.

Way.

It's midnight and you have assignments due in every class? No sweat. There's one way to get them all done: ClarisWorks™ software. It's all you need for your Macintosh. And it's easy to learn, so it's easy to use.

What makes ClarisWorks unique? You can access different functions within a single document. Composing an essay for English Lit? Start with word processing, then sharpen your prose with the built-in thesaurus. Publishing a newsletter? Use the graphics toolbox to create your own layout. Building a forecast model for Economics? Powerful spreadsheet and charting tools make it really simple.

You can also jam through tough calculations with built-in mathematical functions. Organize a semester of notes into an awesome database. Even communicate information directly across campus—or around the world. Only ClarisWorks makes it all possible. And at a mere $65K, ClarisWorks is a perfect fit for your Macintosh Classic, LC, or PowerBook.

ClarisWorks. A most excellent choice.

Free Templates!

Now ClarisWorks has templates designed just for college students. Customize party invitations with fun clip art, organize your busy life with calendars and lists—even personalize your own database with job search information!

CLARIS

Simply powerful software.™

©1992 Claris Corporation. All rights reserved. Claris is a registered trademark of Claris Corporation. ClarisWorks and Simply powerful software are trademarks of Claris Corporation. All other product names are trademarks or registered trademarks of their respective owners.

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

TUNE INTO KSDB-FM 91.9
FOR ELECTION '92 NEWS.

PREVIEW '92

MONDAY, NOV. 2, 6:30 p.m.

an in-depth look at the
Riley County ballot.

DECISION '92

LIVE ELECTIONS RESULTS coverage
beginning at 7 p.m.

Exclusively on

Dear Friend,

In 1990 I told you that legislators needed to talk less and deliver more. You told me that you wanted a legislator who got the job done on important issues. Together, we agreed that:

- The pension the legislators voted themselves was outrageous... we repealed it.
- Property taxes were too high... we lowered them.
- K-State had been unfairly denied the funding it had earned... we restored and increased the university's budget.
- More attention needed to be paid to our families and children... we created a new set of children's initiatives, including the "Healthy Kids Act" that I wrote.
- Our environment is too precious to waste... we enacted a tough, statewide comprehensive waste management law.

These are just a few of the ways that strong leadership and shared values have gotten the job done for you in Topeka.

We've done much, but there is much more to be done, including:

- Education reform
- Addressing the inequities in workers' compensation
- Making our new children's initiatives effective
- Building on the gains we've made for K-State

I'm asking for your vote so together we can continue to make a difference in Topeka.

Kent

I always welcome your comments. Call me at work, 776-4814, or at home, 537-9156.

KENT
GLASSCOCK
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Strong Leadership
Shared Values

IT WORKS!

Paid for by Glasscock for State Representative
Bill Varney, Treasurer

CAMPAIGN '92

Representatives step off trail to campaign at Union

Nine candidates debate at forum, answer questions on various issues

KARREY BRITT
Collegian

Nine candidates for the Kansas House of Representatives, Kansas Senate, Kansas Board of Education and U.S. House of Representatives took a break from the campaign trail Friday to debate each other at a forum in the K-State Union.

The forum, sponsored by Student Senate, pitted Rep. Kent Glasscock, R-Manhattan, against his Democratic opponent Joe Swanson. Rep. Sheila Hochhauser, D-Manhattan, was also present, although she is running unopposed in the election.

Glasscock said education was his first priority for the coming legislative session. Swanson and Hochhauser each said health care was their highest priority.

Glasscock and Hochhauser said accreditation should be the first item looked at in Kansas school reforms. However, Swanson said the competence of testing was his first priority.

"We need to look at the way we are testing our students," Swanson said. "Some testing is too much and others are not looked at enough."

Candidates were asked about various issues such as the death penalty.

Glasscock was the only candidate in support of the death penalty.

"Some crimes are so terrible that the death penalty is the only answer," he said. "Therefore, I am in favor of it."

In closing statements, Swanson said he has observed the officials not doing their jobs.

"I am tired of sitting on the sidelines and watching nothing being done," Swanson said. "So, I am running to make myself available to you."

Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, debated Democrat Michelle Smith, sophomore in political science, during the next section of the two-hour forum.

In opening statements, Oleen said she was tired of the false accusations Smith has been relaying to the media.

"I have not spent a lot of dollars on mailing," she said as she held up various forms to verify what she was saying. "I did not miss a budget vote, and I am not pro-life."

Oleen said the information for an article which appeared in the Topeka Capitol-Journal was faxed and there was a misunderstanding.

"I clearly marked pro-choice on the information sheet," Oleen said. "It was a faxed misrepresentation of me being called pro-life."

Smith said she is tired of Oleen playing both fields.

"I do not have a problem with Oleen being pro-life and I do not have a problem with her being pro-choice," Smith said. "What I do have a problem with is she is trying to play both fields. It concerns me if this issue would be brought to senate, we would not have a strong opinion on either side."

When asked what their stances were on abortion, they said pro-choice.

Smith said her highest priority is health care. Oleen agreed with Smith, but said she felt workers' compensation was a high priority.

Neither of the candidates were in support of the death penalty.

"I feel the black and minorities fall through the cracks of our judiciary system," Smith said. "Until we can prevent this from happening, we should not have the death penalty."

Oleen said she feels the new hard-40 penalty is a more sufficient penalty.

"This is a penalty which guarantees imprisonment for 40 years," Oleen said. "I supported this penalty in the past and I am anxious to see the outcome."

Smith said K-State students should vote for her because she is a student and has had experience serving her country.

"I know what it's like to move

SHANE KEYSER/Collegian

A debate Friday in the K-State Union drew a sparse crowd. Candidates for the Kansas House of Representatives, Senate and Board of Education, and the U.S. House of Representatives participated.

around," she said. "I grew up in Leavenworth and I know what living in a military community, like this, is like."

Oleen said she feels her experience here and in the Topeka office is why the students should vote for her.

"I worked with the students to see Farrell through," Oleen said. "We built a coalition and saw the money come through. I also support the military and have an office set up in Junction City."

In closing, Oleen said, "I have pledged to you I have family responsibilities, but my other responsibility is to be your senator. I have kept my promise in the past and will continue to do so if you reelect me as your senator."

Report outlines improvements

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

to courses, conscientious advising, availability of opportunities for research and scholarship and access to a wide array of cultural and intellectual events to stimulate development.

Kuhlman said the need to serve Kansas through extension services still exists and this is spelled out in the report.

"Remember we are a proud member of the land grant system," he said.

The report also said the University aspires to hire more women and minority faculty members, enhance the infrastructure, and heighten awareness in faculty and students of international political and economic affairs.

The report listed 11 goals to achieve growth into the 21st Century.

Provost James Coffman assured the audience that funding for the proposed changes had been considered.

"Everyone realizes the fiscal aspect of this will have to be addressed," Coffman said.

Kuhlman and Coffman asked that any comments about the draft of the report be submitted in writing to Kuhlman in 229 Seaton Hall by Nov. 13. The final draft will be submitted to the Board of Regents no later than Nov. 20.

The committee will have open meetings on Nov. 6 and Nov. 13 to discuss the document and hear comments about proposed changes.

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Display Advertising
5 3 2 - 6 5 6 0

Student Travel Experts

- Student airfares.
- International student airfares.
- Railpasses issued here.
- Internat'l Identity cards.
- Worldwide adventure tours.
- Travel gear and guidebooks.
- Expert travel advice.

Council Travel

1634 Orrington Ave.
Evanston, IL 60201

1-800-475-5070

Stuff the

November 2-5, 1992
at the K-State Union
Bookstore

A special selection of purple sweatshirts

$15

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

Stadium Sale

UPC
'TIL THE COWS
COME HOME

HOLIDAY RANCH

WHAT? A fantastic acoustic duo of folk, pop, and rock music
WHO? Karen Paurus and Erik Newman
WHEN? Friday, Nov. 6 7:30 p.m.
WHERE? Union Station
COST? $2

K-State Union
UPC Student Entertainment

POETRY READING
Monday, Nov. 2 8 p.m.

Listen to readings of poems at the K-State Union Art Gallery
Free Admission

K-State Union
UPC Arts

NOW SHOWING

STUDENT ART SHOW 1992
Winning entries are displayed in the Union Art Gallery thru November 6. All art is created by KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY students.

K-State Union
UPC Arts

HIKE THE WICHITA MOUNTAINS

Nov. 7 & 8 Cost $17
Hike the beautiful mountains in Oklahoma. Meals are provided on the trail and cooking equipment is included in the price.

K-State Union
UPC Outdoor Recreation

INFORMATION and SIGN-UP available at the UPC Office, 3rd floor of K-State Union or call 532-6571.

SPORTS

NOVEMBER 2, 1992

WEEK 9

Green Bay 27	N.Y. Jets 26	Cincinnati 30
Detroit 13	Miami 14	Cleveland 10
Pittsburgh 21	Buffalo 16	San Diego 26
Houston 20	New England 7	Indianapolis 0
Atlanta 30	New Orleans 23	Dallas 20
L.A. Rams 28	Tampa Bay 21	Philadelphia 10

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wildcats drop 4th straight

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Eric Gallon, K-State running back, gets tackled in Saturday's 16-14 loss in Norman. Gallon finished with 49 rushing yards on 13 carries, second on the squad.

"There were a lot of plays that could have changed the game."

THOMAS RANDOLPH

Controversial field-goal attempt gives OU 16-14 win

FRANK KLEEMANN
Collegian

NORMAN, Okla. — Scoring-wise, Saturday's 16-14 loss to the Sooners was over at halftime.

Wildcat fans wouldn't have seen any offensive action at all in the second half had it not been for Warren Claassen's controversial 27-yard field goal attempt with 3:39 left in the third quarter.

After a 55-yard drive, K-State sent Claassen on the field to give the Wildcats the lead back at 17-16. The snap was good, the holding perfect and the kick up in the air. The ball flew above the goal posts and the officials decided that the ball slightly sailed to the right hand side of the right post.

The score stayed, as it did for the rest of the ball game — Oklahoma 16, K-State 14.

Claassen said he felt cheated on his attempt.

"I thought it was good. The official just said it wasn't," he said. "I want to say, they didn't judge the field goals consistently today."

Ripping off his helmet and protesting didn't help either: the decision stayed.

Coach Bill Snyder said he couldn't see the kick clearly.

"I can't tell you. Our players thought it was good," he said. "They looked straight to the goal but they aren't under the goal post as well."

Cornerback Thomas Randolph said the field goal attempt was just one of many opportunities to surpass Oklahoma's 16 points.

"There were a lot of plays that could have changed the game," he said.

Randolph was the player who gave the Cats the chance to beat the Sooners for the first time since 1970.

The junior blocked a punt by Brad Reddel from Oklahoma's 42-yard line to give K-State its first possession deep in the Sooners' zone at the 9-yard line. Three plays later, Jason Smargiasso drove into the end zone with a four-yard run. Claassen's extra point gave K-State a 7-0 lead with only 42 ticks passed on the game clock.

Just about three minutes later, the Cats had the opportunity to give the Sooners a second shock. Cats linebacker Brent Venables, with a total of 14 tackles and the team leader, stepped forward to intercept a pass by Steve Collins at the Sooners' 35-yard line, but couldn't hold on to the ball.

"I really blame myself," he said. "It was basic. It was not like a difficult pass. I'm sorry for my teammates and my coaches."

Collins' next pass went for 50 yards, and kicker Scott Blanton finished the drive with a 20-yard field goal.

Smargiasso directed the Cats to two first downs on their possession, but threw an interception that Darrius Johnson used to put the ball back on K-State's 6-yard line. The result was Oklahoma scoring a touchdown and taking the lead for the first time.

Unlike the Colorado game a week ago, K-State didn't just sit back, but answered impressively with its best drive of the season.

Smargiasso started the 77-yard walk with a 38-yard pass to Gerald Benton. After receiving two penalties, Smargiasso ran for 11 yards twice and two plays later for 7 to give K-State the second lead in the game.

Running was the Cats' key to an improved offense.

"Our attitude was to come out and run as much as we could,"

Snyder said. "I thought offensively we played better. Not as well as we need, but we played a heck of a lot better than we have in the past."

Snyder also said he saw an improved Smargiasso who rushed the ball for 52 yards and had four completions in 10 attempts. He threw two interceptions. In the first half, he had only two attempts with one completion.

The defensive players also said they felt the offense was more involved in the game than in the past.

"It's the first time of the year we played a ball game as one football team," Venables said.

Randolph, who had five tackles and one interception in addition to the blocked punt, agreed.

"The offense came out to play this game," he said. "They kept us in the game, we just needed one big play to win the game."

SCORE BOX

	K-State	Oklahoma
First downs	13	14
Rushing yards	160	197
Passing yards	99	64
Comp.-att.-int.	4-10-2	7-18-1
Return Yards	79	208
Total yards	224	296
Fumbles-lost	1-0	2-0
Penalties	5-35	7-59
K-State	7	7
Oklahoma	10	6

INDIVIDUAL STATS

Rushing — K-State, Smargiasso 20-52, Gallon 13-49, Smith 10-46, Schuler 5-13, Oklahoma, Brewer 23-97, Williams 18-49, Collins 7-33, Chandler 5-12, Rasheed 2-6.
Passing — K-State, Smargiasso 4-10-64, Oklahoma, Collins 7-18-99.
Receiving — K-State, Coleman 2-22, Benton 1-38, Smith 1-4, Oklahoma, Warren 3-73, Brewer 2-14, Mills 1-8, Hall 1-4.
Tackles — K-State, Venables 14, Barta 7, Butler 5, Harbert 5, Griffith 5, Randolph 5, Masters 5, Mendez 3, Molen 3.
Sacks/Yards Lost — K-State, Butler 1-7, Oklahoma, Beavers 2-9, Wren 1-7, Coats 1-6.

COLUMN

Loss to Sooners is one to grow on

If there ever was an encouraging loss, this was it.

Sure, the loss to Oklahoma killed even the slimmest bowl-game aspirations for K-State.

Sure, the loss to Oklahoma extended the Cats' losing streak to four games.

And yes, the loss to Oklahoma was, indeed, just another loss.

The 1992 football season, one of the most anticipated in Wildcat history, wasn't supposed to turn out this way. Far from it.

But the Wildcats could walk away from the loss in Norman in a way that they could do in no other loss this season — with their heads up. For the first time in more than a month, K-State played a good football game.

The running game, sparked by a seemingly rejuvenated offensive line, came out of dormancy and racked up more yards than Cat rushers had accumulated in the three previous games combined.

Indeed, in losses to KU, Utah State and Colorado, K-State had a total of minus-16 rushing yards.

K-State's 160 rushing yards Saturday dwarfed that total.

The Wildcats held Oklahoma, who had been averaging more than 25 points a contest, to 16.

Admittedly, OU was playing without its No. 1 quarterback.

But the sole Sooner touchdown was scored after Oklahoma had to drive all of six yards to get in the end zone. That drive, like so many scoring drives by the opposition in the last four weeks, was set up by a Wildcat turnover.

And how good is our defense?

Prior to Saturday's contest, the Cats had been giving up just 2.9 yards a carry. And against the Sooners, Oklahoma's leading rusher, Kenyon Rasheed, was held to six yards. True, the Sooners did gain nearly 200 yards on the ground, but that was over 55 carries — an average of less than 3.6 yards a run.

The Cats continue to struggle throwing the ball — note the fact that K-State threw just twice in the first half. But with solid running games by Eric Gallon, J.J. Smith and Jason Smargiasso, K-State held on 'til the bitter end.

And what a bitter end it was.

For the second time in as many years, the Cats lost a close game that, with better field-goal kicking, they should have won.

Last year against Nebraska, with the Cats leading 31-24, kicker Tate Wright came on to attempt a 32-yard field goal. It was wide, and the revitalized Huskers staged a winning rally.

Same story, different chapter.

This year, it was Warren Claassen's 27-yard chip shot that was ruled no good, a field goal that could have given the Cats the winning margin — and a lot of confidence to a bunch of guys who have been hammered, both mentally and physically, all month.

But perhaps it never should have come to that.

Before the game, Cat coach Bill Snyder said his biggest concern about the offense was the fact that it had been "shooting itself in the foot," giving the ball to the opposition in excellent field position. Smargiasso's first pass of the game was intercepted. It gave the Sooners a first down at the Wildcat six, and Oklahoma scored its only touch-down of the game.

The offense walked off the field, much to Snyder's chagrin, with a limp.

But the loss to Oklahoma, all the same, was a good one.

Last year's loss to Nebraska propelled the Cats to perhaps its best game of the season — a hard-fought 10-0 loss at the hands of eventual conference champion Colorado. K-State went on to win three of its last four games.

We can only hope that they do the same this year.

STEVE ROCK

WEEKEND
CONFERENCE
REVIEW► NEBRASKA 52
COLORADO 7

LINCOLN, Neb. — Prior to Saturday's game between the two teams tied at the No. 8 ranking, Colorado was ranked 104th in the nation in turnover ratio. The Buffaloes lived up to that stat.

With 24 points coming off of five Colorado turnovers, the Cornhuskers manhandled Colorado, and freshman quarterback Koy Detmer, en route to a 52-7 slaughter.

The Huskers, who were burned for 424 passing yards by Missouri's Jeff Handy just last week, held the explosive Colorado passing game, that had been averaging 334 yards a game through the air, to 136 yards.

Detmer, who started the game for an injured Kordell Stewart, tossed three interceptions.

The Cornhuskers, the No. 1 rushing team in the nation, had 373 rushing, 101 by Calvin Jones. Colorado was held to eight rushing yards.

The Buffaloes entered the contest with an unbeaten Big Eight streak that stretched back to 1988. They left the game with little or no hopes of defending the conference title.

► KANSAS 26
OKLAHOMA ST. 18

LAWRENCE — The Oklahoma State Cowboys gave the 18th-ranked Jayhawks a scare. The Cowboys scored 15 points in a late two-minute span and had a chance for a last-minute drive. But the onside kick they attempted with 42 seconds remaining was recovered by KU.

Oklahoma State, who outgained the Jayhawks by a 403 to 341 count, may have won the game had they not suffered five turnovers.

KU quarterback Chip Hileary was held to season-low totals of four completions in nine attempts, good for just 53 yards. For the second week in a row, the Hawks relied on the running game. Running back Monte Cozzens led the team with 101 yards on 18 carries.

The victory for KU, coupled with Colorado's loss, made a bowl appearance almost certain.

► IOWA STATE 28
MISSOURI 14

AMES, Iowa — The Cyclones didn't actually win this game — the Tigers lost it. Missouri wasted several scoring opportunities, including a second and goal situation inside the Iowa State one-yard line, before finally continuing its winless season against Division I-A opponents.

Before Saturday's contest, the Tigers had allowed just 20 return yards in 14 punts. But Iowa State's James "The Eel" McMillon had 118 yards on two punt returns, including a 78-yarder that went for a touchdown.

The Tigers' Jeff Handy threw for 307 yards, but his two fourth-quarter turnovers — an interception and a botched hand-off — prevented Missouri from staging a comeback.

Missouri, who lost to No. 8 Nebraska by just ten points a week ago, suffered its largest margin of defeat this year.

— compiled by Steve Rock

BIG EIGHT
STANDINGS

CONFERENCE

	W	L	T	PCT.
Kansas	4	0	0	1.000
Nebraska	3	0	0	1.000
Colorado	2	1	1	.500
Oklahoma	2	1	1	.500
Oklahoma St.	2	2	0	.500
Iowa State	1	3	0	.250
K-STATE	0	3	0	.000
Missouri	0	4	0	.000

OVERALL

	W	L	T	PCT.
Kansas	7	1	0	.875
Nebraska	6	1	0	.857
Colorado	6	1	1	.750
Oklahoma	4	3	1	.500
Oklahoma St.	4	4	0	.500
K-STATE	3	4	0	.429
Iowa State	3	5	0	.375
Missouri	1	7	0	.125

Collegian

SPORTS

CROSS COUNTRY

Wildcat women take Big Eight title; men 2nd in league meet

J. KYLE WYATT/Collegian
K-State runner Francis O'Neill makes his move to pass Conner Holt of Oklahoma and takes the lead Saturday at the Big Eight meet.

MARGARET CLARKIN/Collegian
Amy Marx needs help standing after finishing the women's cross country Big Eight championships Saturday morning in Boulder, Colo. Marx finished 50th, and the women's team tied for first place with Colorado. It's the first championship title for K-State's women since 1982.

COLLEGIAN STAFF

The K-State cross country teams traveled to Boulder, Colo., over the weekend and took a first- and second-place conference title. It was the first time since 1975 that the Wildcat teams finished in the first- and second-place slots, and it came the weekend of Coach John Capriotti's resignation.

While the women's team tied Colorado for the Big Eight team title, the men took second behind only the Colorado men.

The women's first-place share is the first Big Eight championship title for the Wildcat team since 1982.

Capriotti announced Sunday that he would resign his position in late November to accept a position with Nike.

"The women really dug in deep to win the championship," Capriotti said. "They ran the race just like they were told to. What more could I ask for?"

"It was really an exciting race — one of the highlights of my career."

Paulette Staats finished sixth individually, and freshman Cari Warden was 10th in the 2,000-meter run.

"We were extremely happy," Staats said. "I knew we had a really good chance of winning, and things went pretty well."

Behind Staats and Warden, Jeanene Rugan finished 11th, Jennifer Hillier finished 12th, and Martha Pinto finished 13th to help the team to a strong team finish.

Irma Betancourt, 43rd; Janet Wagner, 45th; Lesley Wells, 47th; and Amy Marx, 50th, rounded out K-State's championship performance.

The men's team improved from last year, when it tied for third with Kansas. The Cats held back Oklahoma State, which finished third, and nationally ranked No. 11 Iowa State.

But the men said they thought they could have done better.

"How many K-State programs can finish second in the Big Eight and be disappointed?" Capriotti said. "That tells you how far we've come."

Francis O'Neill, in just his third race of the season, finished fourth in the individual standings of the 8,000-meter race with a time of 25:31 minutes.

"I ran a tactically-stupid race," he said. "I was disappointed. The leaders were way ahead of me, and I wasn't even close."

Senior Mike Becker, who finished 10th, ran his best race of the season. But he said that the team, collectively, was disappointed with the result.

"Our finish in the Big Eight was a little less than we expected," he said. "We had given ourselves a good chance. It was really disappointing."

"The majority of our guys had just an average day. But if we can get second in the Big Eight on an average day, that says a lot."

Yared Berhane got 14th, Chris Unthank 18th and Ryan Clive-Smith 25th, collecting important team points.

David Haskell and Anthony Williams finished back to back 35th and 36th, and Billy Wuggazer 41st, respectively. Richard Mick didn't finish the race.

"We still haven't shown our best yet," O'Neill said. "We can do better."

The NCAA District V Regional will be Nov. 14 in Ames, Iowa. The NCAA Championships are Nov. 23 in Bloomington, Indiana.

HALLOWEEN

Cat basketball kicks off with wild Madness

DAVID MAYES/Collegian

Ron Lucas, a new Wildcat, dunks during warm-up drills of the first K-State practice Sunday morning at Bramlage Coliseum.

BRIAN ANDERSON
Collegian

The appearance of Larry "Bud" Melman, the proposal of marriage by Wildcat sophomore guard Brian Henson to his cheerleader girlfriend, the three-point shooting contest between K-State president Jon Wefald and Athletic Director Milt Richards, and an alumni game highlighted Midnight Madness Saturday night at Bramlage Coliseum.

A crowd estimated at 2,500 looked on as the event kicked off the beginning of the 1992-'93 basketball season.

Melman made his first appearance immediately following the alumni game. He came out of a limousine, escorted by two women. He welcomed the crowd and paraded around the coliseum floor.

Melman then read a top-10 list from large cue cards. The topic was the "Top 10 Reasons to Have Purple Pride." One reason Melman gave was the possibility of a good pick-up line: "Purple Pride? I'll show you Purple Pride."

Melman came out later, wearing a K-State uniform.

"I've been to Lawrence and saw those birdheads," Melman said. "KU still sucks."

After the players scrim-maged, Henson proposed to Theresa Russell, sophomore in secondary education. The players met Russell at half court, and they each gave Russell a rose. Finally, Henson went down on one knee and proposed.

Russell accepted.

Another featured attraction was the three-point shooting contest between Wefald and Richards. Richards shot first and connected on four of 20 attempts.

Wefald ended the contest early, making seven of his first 10 shots — including five straight. He finished the contest with nine buckets.

"I knew the president was a tenacious competitor," Richards said. "I was just happy I didn't shoot any air balls."

The alumni game paired 10 former K-State players, including Fred McCoy, Will Scott and John Rettiger, against K-State students.

The current Wildcats were introduced by Mitch Holthus, the "Voice of the Wildcats." Each player was dressed in a black robe and held a tombstone proclaiming the death of a Wildcat opponent.

"Oklahoma comes to the Purple Pit on Feb. 3," guard Askia Jones said. "But they don't come out."

SPORTS DIGEST

► MEN GOLFERS TO WRAP UP YEAR

Statistically, the men's golf team has had its best season in school history.

The Wildcats have had high placings throughout the season, including a tournament win at Iowa State in early October and a second-place finish at the Kansas Invitational in late September.

And they hope to continue that success through the last tournament of the fall at the Texas Intercollegiate Tournament in Dallas.

"We've had a good fall, and we need to finish it strong," Coach Mark Elliott said.

The Cats placed eighth at the tourney last year.

► TIGERS SPARK MAJOR LEAGUERS

TOKYO (AP) — Cecil Fielder hit a three-run homer and his Detroit Tiger teammate Travis Fryman hit a two-run homer as a team of major leaguers beat a Japanese all-

K-State will compete against 17 other teams in the two-day tournament.

Included in the 18-team field will be Emporia State and Oklahoma City University.

Among the representatives for K-State are sophomore Brett Waldman and senior Richard Laing.

Waldman has lead the Cats in the individual placings the entire season. He has placed in the top 10 in the last three tournaments, and he took first place at Iowa State's tourney.

"Waldman is a threat to win the tournament, but I wouldn't be surprised to see Rich play really well," Elliott said.

Montreal's Larry Walker contributed a solo homer and a double as the Americans won their second game in two tries to start their eight-game tour.

VOLLEYBALL

Spikers end 11-match losing streak

BRIAN ANDERSON
Collegian

The last time the K-State volleyball team won a match, the TV show "Murphy Brown" was firing comments back to Dan Quayle in its season premier Sept. 21 — nearly six weeks ago.

That 11-match losing streak ended Saturday night at Ahearn Field House when the Cats beat the University of Missouri-Kansas City in three games by scores of 15-5, 15-8 and 15-11.

K-State went to 6-17 for the season as UMKC fell to 15-17.

"We had excellent execution and passed well," Cat coach Patti Hagemeyer said. "We have been hard on them for taking responsibility for their play."

Kathy Saxton's 12 kills moved her into 11th place on the Big Eight's single-season kill list with 438. The senior spiker is 58 attacks from making the top 10 in that category, and she needs 92 kills to take first place in the Big Eight.

But the top Wildcat performer this week was middle blocker Suzanne Hagge. Hagge had 28 kills in 57 attempts in two matches this week, including a team-high 17 kills and 32 attempts against UMKC.

"She understands what it is like to play college ball," Hagemeyer said. "She is bringing intensity and her understanding onto the court to help us win."

K-State was in control of the first game with the Kangaroos. The Cats dominated early and built its margin to 13-2 on an ace by Heather Zoerner. K-State went on to take the first game, 15-5. It was the second lowest output by a K-State opponent this season.

The Cats jumped to a 9-0 start in game two. UMKC scored the next four points to pull within five points of K-State. The Cats traded points with the Kangaroos until a kill by Hagge finished a 15-8 game and gave K-State a 2-0 advantage in the match.

UMKC got its only lead of the match early in game three with a 2-1 lead. But K-State scored the next six points and to go up 7-2. The Kangaroos crawled back into the game and came within a point of tying the Cats at 9-10.

With the help of an ace by Chi Dau, K-State went on a 5-2 run to give the Cats the game and the match.

"We laid in the third game," Hagemeyer said. "We were waiting for the win to come. I gave the girls a friendly reminder to win."

K-State starts a five-match road trip this week with a trip to Wichita State. The match with the 22-4 Shockers is at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Henry Levitt Arena.

ENTERTAINMENT

THEATER

Playwright uses real-life drama in 'First Breeze'

"I think universality comes out of specificity. Just because there are black characters, it doesn't mean the whole audience cannot share."

LESLIE LEE

TOM LISTER
Collegian

Leslie Lee said when his play "The First Breeze of Summer" was first performed years ago, he didn't see it. The play he had written was largely autobiographical, he said, and he was worried what his family's perceptions would be.

Although his family went inside the theater, Lee didn't.

"I sat in the lobby and drank a pint of Scotch," he said. However, Lee, who attended Ebony Theatre's Thursday night production of the play, said his family accepted the play well.

So did Thursday night's audience. Lee's strong story was portrayed by what might be called a college-level all-star cast. There were strong performances throughout. The only problem came with the occasional awkward handling of dialect by a few of the actors.

For the most part, though, the performers brought Lee's message across clearly and convincingly.

"It's something that really happened," Lee said. "There was a need to bring a skeleton out of the family closet."

Lee said that like Gremmar in the play, his grandmother had three children out of wedlock, which placed a great stigma on her by her grandson.

"He considered her to be a prostitute," he said. "He was also ashamed of being black."

Lee said his story of pride and coming to terms with black identity shouldn't be limited to black audiences.

"I think universality comes out of specificity," he said. "Just because there are black characters, it doesn't mean the whole audience cannot share."

Over the years, Lee has written more than a dozen plays. Currently, he teaches at New York University and writes for television.

Although writing for television pays more than his teaching, Lee said he can't always appreciate portrayals of blacks he's seen on TV programs.

"I'd rather watch Amos 'n' Andy than some of the stuff I see today," he said.

In the past Lee wrote for the soap opera "Another World."

"I hated every script I wrote," he said. Lee said a producer once asked him to make his black characters talk "more like blacks."

However, Lee said, most of the work he does for television is quality work. In the past he's adapted Richard White's short story "Almos' a Man." He said he's currently working on a project with James Earl Jones about a black minister who hides his intellectual pursuits.

But Lee said his true love is for the theater.

MUSIC

Jazz band to play tonight

Ensemble to give free concert in Forum Hall; group to perform modern pieces

LISA COLE
Collegian

K-State's top jazz ensemble will give a free performance tonight in Forum Hall.

The Concert Jazz Ensemble includes five saxophones, four trumpets, five trombones, two drummers, piano, bass and guitar players.

"It's in the traditional big band setup," Jim Sharp, director of jazz studies, said.

He compared the group with the band on Johnny Carson's Tonight Show. Sharp said the ensemble plays "modern big band music."

The group performs three to five times each semester. While some performances are on campus, the ensemble has also toured, he said.

Last year, the Concert Jazz

Ensemble participated in the Wichita State Jazz Festival and also performed at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley, Colo.

The group meets three times a week to rehearse, said Kevin Hupe, a trumpet player and senior in music education. He said there are occasionally extra practices before performances, and that individuals must practice on their own time.

Hupe said students receive only one hour of credit for playing in the ensemble, but that the experience is worth the time commitment.

"Jazz is something I've always done," he said. "What I like about jazz is the spontaneity of it, the way the music feels. You can be very creative in a jazz ensemble."

Stan Piezuch, trombonist and senior in mechanical engineering, said he enjoys playing because the group has a high degree of talent. He also enjoys playing in front of an audience.

"It's fun for me to play with a band," Piezuch said. "I think everyone in there is somewhat of a ham and likes to blow their horns."

Sharp said the performance will include modern big band pieces such as "Latin Dance," "Waltz of the Mushroom Hunters," and "Willow Weep for Me."

"Jazz music has strange names," he said.

The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in Forum Hall in the K-State Union.

T.A.D. SPORTS
Sports Cards and Collectibles
1112 Laramie
Mon.-Fri. 10-6 • Sat. 9-5
537-4433

Union develops overall guide

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 2A

The team wanted the statement to be helpful to employees in performing their duties.

"We wanted a mission statement that was a living, working document that employees could use to help make day-to-day decisions," Bosco said.

One focus of TQM is teaching people in supervisory roles to take leadership roles.

"There are moments of truth in each day, choices and responses. Knowing what we value, diversity, leadership development and the free exchange of ideas, it can help employees decide how they're going to react. We hope people will find it useful and positive," Sisson said.

Jan Garton

A Leader at K-State

- Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities
- Chancellor of Tribunal
- Co-director, Women's Resource Center

A Leader for Riley County

Advertisement paid for by Jan Garton for Commissioner Darrell Westervelt, Treas.

KENWOOD

KDC-77R CD Player-Receiver

- 50W total max.; 15W/ch at less than 1% THD • Theft Prevention DIN Chassis • Four 1-bit DACs with Clean Pulse Drive System and DPAC • DXM-200 full-logic mechanism • Track scan • Random play • Repeat • TM-200™ advanced ANCR/CRSC tuner • 12 FM/6 AM presets • Auto memory • Pulse encoder volume • 4-speaker output • Preout/power fader • Selectable illumination

Sale $399, Reg. $499

ALL OTHER KENWOOD CAR STEREOS ON SALE ALSO

Drive thru Ft. Riley

20 Minutes West!

1-762-4447
630 Grant Ave.
Junction City
M-F 10-7 Sat. 10-5

Since 1979

AUDIO JUNCTION, INC.

'Tis the season to make some spending money!

If you chop wood, make stockings, decorate cakes, juice up jewelry, assemble furniture, bake cookies, create crafts, fill fruit baskets, scoop snow or anything along this line, it's time for you to sell your services for the holiday season.

Advertise your service in the Collegian Classifieds Gift Guide. Beginning Nov. 9, we will have a special section for holiday services which will run until the end of the semester to help you sell your stuff! The cost is $5 for 20 words for a classified ad. Deadline is noon the day before publication. Come to Kedzie 103 for further details. After that, just get ready for a stocking full of business.

NAME _____ I.D. NUMBER _____
ADDRESS _____ PHONE NUMBER _____
CITY/STATE/ZIP _____
DAYS TO RUN (CIRCLE) M T W U F
FIRST DATE TO RUN _____
LAST DATE TO RUN _____

PLEASE PRINT OR TYPE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD BELOW:

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

WORLD

Jesus a no-show, worshippers upset

"It's just not time for Jesus to come. There will be another time."

CHUNG DONG-BUN

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEOUL, South Korea — Thousands of Koreans who believed the world would end at midnight chanted, sang and wailed "the rapture is coming" in nearly 200 churches throughout Korea.

But they didn't ascend to heaven as they expected and the singing faded. "Nothing has happened," said the Rev. Chang Man-ho, according to parishioners. "Let's go home. Let's go back to a normal life."

Some 2,500 worshippers then left a church in western Seoul early Thursday, expressing emotions ranging from disappointment to depression.

"It's just not time for Jesus to come," said Chung Dong-bun, a 53-year-old believer. "There will be another time."

Believers had expected rapture — the ascent to heaven — at midnight (10 a.m. EST). Seven years of apocalypse would follow, bringing the Earth's annihilation and the second coming of Christ, they believed.

Singing could be heard from inside Seoul's main doomsday church, the Mission for the Coming Days, after midnight.

Outside the church, more than 1,000 curiosity seekers and family members stood behind police lines.

A police searchlight scanned the darkness, and 200 riot police stood a block away, ready to move in to try to prevent any suicides or other extreme actions. Officials had worried some believers might despair when the prediction failed to come true.

No suicides had been reported an hour after the deadline.

The Mission for the Coming Days, the largest of the doomsday churches, claims 10,000 members. Police estimate the total number of doomsday believers at 20,000.

All but believers were barred from the churches today, and it was unclear how many were inside the five-story red brick headquarters.

A closed circuit television outside had shown parishioners inside kneeling on cushions, singing and raising their arms as a chorus sang and a steel guitar played hymns. "Jesus is coming," they screamed.

But the television was smashed by a teenager, Lee Hang-Sup, whose brother was inside the church. He was arrested after a scuffle.

One woman threw a black purse from a fifth-story window containing what looked like house keys.

"See you in heaven," said a mother with a baby on her back, who was outside the church.

■ See RAPTURE Page 5B

NATION

Columbia returns a success

Experiments highlight oldest shuttle's mission; Astronauts not ready to return

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Columbia returned home Sunday, ending a 10-day voyage in which it released a satellite for use in earthquake research and tested a Canadian robotic vision system.

The spaceship landed at Kennedy Space Center at 9:05 a.m. EST. A billowing red, white and blue drag chute slowed Columbia as it rolled to a stop on the concrete runway.

"Beautiful ending to a great mission," Mission Control's Kevin Chilton, an astronaut, told the crew.

Columbia traveled 4.1 million miles during its journey and circled the world 159 times. It was the 51st shuttle mission and the 13th flight of Columbia, NASA's oldest shuttle.

More than 300 people gathered at the landing strip to welcome Columbia home.

Launch director Bob Sieck said a quick inspection showed the shuttle to be in good shape.

Shuttle commander James Wetherbee reported during descent that none of the needles on a surface-position gauge was moving. Although he got it working by turning the power off and on, the gauge failed again several minutes later. NASA said the information could be monitored on cockpit computer screens.

Wetherbee was proud of his crew's orbital achievements. The astronauts wrapped up work with the vision system Saturday, as they circled 131 miles above Earth, the lowest circular shuttle orbit ever.

"I think we ended up with about 100-percent mission success, and all of our objectives met," Wetherbee said.

However, Canadian astronaut Steven MacLean said while still in space that it was a little hard for the crew to head homeward, even though they missed their families.

"I think all of us would like to stay up here an extra day or two because we worked hard to get here and it's a great deal of fun to be here," he said.

Returning with the astronauts are 12 rats that were flown on the shuttle for an osteoporosis study.

Columbia's crew accomplished the primary task of its mission.

NATION

Search over, Colombian national arrested

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — A 30-year-old man arrested on rape charges has admitted committing some attacks and may be responsible for assaults on as many as eight women ages 18 to 79, authorities said.

Peter Saenz, 30, a Colombian national, was arrested Friday and charged with three counts of aggravated sexual assault and one count of burglary. Other sexual assault charges were pending. He was jailed in lieu of $650,000 bail.

Sgt. Bruce Williams said Saenz was apprehended after fighting with a neighbor who said he recognized Saenz trying to peep inside an apartment window.

"He fit the description of the guy we've been looking for the last 10 months, and he confessed to some of them but not all at this time," Williams said. "We're pretty sure that he's responsible for all eight of them we had in that area."

Authorities said several of the victims, all attacked in the past 11 months, lived in the same apartment complex where Saenz lives. All of them lived alone.

Williams said Saenz, a hardware store employee, would stalk the women for days or even weeks before breaking into their homes, sometimes through open windows, at night or early in the morning.

"I don't know where he picked out his victims, but he would pick one out and start watching her," Williams said. "It might be a month on some of them or more than a month on another, but it was the same thing."

Help fill the Flint Hills Breadbasket

From now through December 1992, for every canned good you bring to Kedzie 103, we'll give you 50 cents off a Collegian classified ad.* Student Publications Inc. will donate all items to the Flint Hills Breadbasket as part of K-State's "30 Days of Thanksgiving" food drive.

Just fill out this form and take it to Kedzie 103 to place your classified ad. Deadline for classified ads is noon the day before publication. The last day to place classified ads this semester is Dec. 10.

(*Value of cans cannot exceed cost of ad.)

Name _____
I.D. number _____
Address _____
Phone number _____
Message (No last names or phone numbers accepted in personals) _____

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union) 532-6555

News and more

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

BLEACHERS
SPORTS BAR • GRILL • CAFE

Monday Night Football
Minnesota vs. Chicago
BIG SCREEN
6 ft. x 8 ft.

23 oz. BIG BEER
only $1.75
Sun., Mon., Tues.

Macho Nachos or Hot Wings
only $3.49

Enter our Monday Night Football Contest!

523 S. 17th 537-1484

ORDER YOUR COLLEGE RING BY THANKSGIVING

AND STILL RECEIVE BY

SPECIAL SAVINGS OF $39.00

YOUR RING DELIVERED BY DECEMBER 25th

JOSTENS

Varney's
BOOK STORE IN AGGIEVILLE

"We Give You Our Best"

Monday & Tuesday, Nov. 2 & 3 from Noon-5 p.m.

Shape, Cut, Curl or Color...

We do it beautifully.

Call for an appointment today and let Kathy, Cheryl, Kris, Shawna, or Gary give you the overall look you'd love.

We also offer
• $2 Tanning Sessions
• Sculptural Nails
• Manicures

HAIR DIMENSIONS
539-8920

717 N. 11th Nautilus Towers

EXTRA

NEWS

TODAY

TOMORROW

Get involved with the Collegian.

The Collegian is seeking students who are reliable, show initiative, possess good writing skills, have some media experience and display enthusiasm.

If this description fits you, you're eligible to apply for a Spring 1993 staff position. Applications and job descriptions for Collegian positions are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

Positions:

■ Editor-in-chief
■ Advertising manager
(Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4. Interviews will be Nov. 11.)

■ Desk editors
■ Advertising representatives
■ Graphic artists
■ Columnists
(Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 13.)

■ Staff writers
■ Photographers
■ Copy editors
■ And more

This is a great opportunity to get involved on campus while having fun, building a resume and working on the sixth largest morning daily in Kansas.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 532-6555

THE MOST IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE 20th CENTURY.

MONDAY MANIA!

Buy one of Manhattan's Favorite Pizzas and get a second of equal value Free!

2 Pies that are fine for

8.99!

2 delicious 10" pies and 2 Pepsi's!

"We Pile It On!"

1130 Moro
In the heart of
Aggieville, USA

PYRAMID EXPRESS

539-4888

FREE & FAST DELIVERY

CAMPUS

Interviews stress people

Questions challenging, discover how students handle themselves

"Being a vet is more than just medicine — it's people."

BECKY WILSEY

LANA SCHRATER
Collegian

Prospective veterinary students may lose hours of sleep worrying about giving right answers in the interview portion of College of Veterinary Medicine application. The interview is a key to entry into the program.

But right answers are not necessarily the key to success. The purpose is not to see how many questions can be answered correctly but to see how applicants handle themselves, said Clifford Wright, first-year student in veterinary medicine.

"The sky is blue from earth, what color would it be from Mars?" is one of the questions Becky Wilsey, first-year student in veterinary medicine, was asked. Wilsey said she told the panel she did not know the answer, but she could guess. She did guess and her answer was correct. The point, she said, is to be honest.

Wright said if you do not know something just tell the interviewing panel you do not know the answer. You are not supposed to know everything.

Just before the interview Jean Sonnenfeld, first-year student in veterinary medicine, was excited because she had gotten a new turtle. Therefore, when she was asked what her favorite pet was she answered a turtle.

"Many of my questions after that were about turtles," Sonnenfeld said.

She said it was not to test her knowledge so much as to see how she could conduct herself in a unique situation.

Wilsey said the interview panel may ask a lot of challenging questions, but she usually knew something about each question.

Sonnenfeld said, "you make your interview by how you fill out your application."

The interviewing panel will and did ask her questions she could not answer, such as, "What is the rectal temperature of a cow?" Sonnenfeld said she did not have a lot of experience with cattle and this showed on her written application.

Wilsey said, "don't bluff on your application, they'll get you on it in the interview."

Applicants should know how to spell "veterinarian." Wright said that an applicant who misspelled veterinarian 14 times on his application faced the question, "how do you spell 'veterinarian'?" the instant his interview began.

Wilsey said, "being a vet is more than just medicine — it's people."

That is why the interviewing committee asks the questions they do, to see how you handle pressure, Wright said.

"They want to see your character, not just what is written down on paper," Sonnenfeld added.

After the interview is over, Wright said he felt like a ton of pressure was lifted from his shoulders. He said he should not have felt stressed, but it was hard not to.

"When it is over, it is over, there is nothing you can do," Wilsey said.

That is when the waiting begins, and after a while the butterflies start to come back, Wright said.

Sonnenfeld said she does not feel a lot of stress. After the interview she was more interested in her dinner and the drive home than in being uptight.

"If you have good grades, experience and a good interview, you should do just fine," Wilsey said.

"This helps the students in answering questions asked during the application interview," Elmore said. "It also gives the applicants an opportunity to see what their future careers will be like."

Roberts said it is a good idea for them to have experience with animals, to spend time observing animals and to be involved in extracurricular activities during their college years.

"The applicant needs a variety of experiences," Roberts said.

The applicant must write a well-written 500 word autobiography. It is judged on clarity, content and spelling, Roberts said. The applicant also must have three references.

These references need to be from a veterinarian, an academic adviser and a personal reference. The College of Veterinary Medicine writes all references and asks them to fill out forms giving further information about the applicants, Roberts said.

Jan. 15 is the final date applications will be accepted.

Extracurricular activities, experience give candidates edge in answering panel

LANA SCHRATER
Collegian

The deadline for applications from prospective fall semester 1993 students to the College of Veterinary Medicine is three months away.

To apply, an applicant must have a 2.8 grade point average on a 4.0 scale for the last 45 hours of his or her curriculum.

"There is a prerequisite of 70 hours an applicant must have completed by the end of the spring semester if the applicant is applying for entry into the College of Veterinary Medicine the following fall," said Carolyn Roberts, assistant dean of the College.

Experience with a veterinarian is not mandatory but highly recommended, said R.G. Elmore, associate dean of Veterinary Medicine.

Rapture fails to come for Korean worshippers

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4B

Thousands more riot police have been deployed at some 200 other doomsday churches in Seoul and elsewhere. Police said fire engines, ambulances and rescue vehicles also were deployed.

The church's 46-year-old founder, Lee Jan-rim, has warned followers to restrain themselves in case today is not the end. He is in jail on charges of swindling followers of up to $4 million.

Prosecutors said Lee had $380,000 worth of bonds that mature as late as next May. They said that proved he did not expect the world to end.

Hundreds and possibly thousands of Korean believers have sold property, abandoned their families, quit schools and jobs and deserted military posts. Some had abortions. At least four committed suicide.

Dozens of believers in rural mountains were shown on television today burning clothes and tearing down makeshift tents to rid themselves of earthly possessions and await their ascent to heaven.

Followers in the United States announced the end of the world in advertisements in the New York Times and in brochures. Ads also appeared in Philippine newspapers.

Critics say the mentally troubled and the insecure are easily misled by the doomsday predictions.

ΣΣΣ Congratulations New Initiates

Greta Anderson Andrea Bird Jennifer Blackard Gerie Coffman Sophie Davies Heather Dempsey Erin Flaherty Dana Forker	Amy Haunschild Jen Heacock Carrie Linin Heather Markley Christy McCallum Sarah Midgley Stephanie Mitchell Erin Pontius	Sarah Rittgers Lori Shellhammer Amé Simmons Denise Trotter Christy Tucker Rachel Wallin Katie Wingert
---	---	--

We're so proud of you!
Sigma Love,
The Actives

★ ★ ★ ★ ★
Bob Pudden
A K-State Faculty Member

- ★ You are the future
- ★ I want your future to be better
- ★ I understand your concerns
- ★ Your concerns are mine
- ★ I will listen to you
- ★ I will work for you as County Commissioner

A businessman for the business of Riley County and KSU.

Paid for by Pudden for County Commissioner, George Rader, Treas.

REACH YOUR TARGET AUDIENCE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
DISPLAY ADVERTISING 532-6560

SERGIO & ODAIR ASSAID

Duo Guitarists

Sunday, November 8, 3 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

These Brazilian brothers dazzle audiences with their breathtaking virtuosity and stylistic perfection. Hear for yourself as they explore the classics and sample the wealth of South American music. "They seem less like a pair of individuals than a single, extraordinarily charismatic mega-artist." (St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Public/faculty: $12
Senior citizen: $10
Student/child: $6

Tickets now on sale at the McCain box office. Call (913) 532-6428 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA. Box office opens at 1 p.m. day of performance. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley).

Transportation available for senior citizens through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000.

Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

Cat Coupon Clipper

Crazy about coupons?

You can clip 'em every Monday right here in the

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Valentino's
We Didn't Stop With Pizza
Sunday Buffet

10:30 a.m. - 9 p.m.

$4.99 with coupon

EXP 12/31/92

3003 Anderson
Village Plaza
537-4350

NEW!!

Deep Dish
Pizza

2-10" Pizzas; 2 Cokes; Cinnamon or Bread Stix
(ONE TOPPING)

ONLY $9.99

Offer expires November 30

HUNAN EXPRESS
1116 Moro
537-0886

11 a.m.-1 a.m.
7 days a week

This coupon good for
Chung King Pork $3.75

Dine-in & carryout
Not valid with any other specials,
coupons, or on deliveries.

FREE DELIVERY MENU
(Minimum order $9)
Expires 11/9/92

Advertise
with coupons?
YOU BET!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Advertising
532-6560

OPPY'S AMOCO
3rd & Ft. Riley BLVD.
776-9940
Mon-Sun 5:30am-10pm

WESTSIDE AMOCO
3001 Anderson Ave.
539-4331
Mon-Sun 6am-10pm

FREE WINTERIZATION

12 POINT CHECK

- | | | |
|------------------|-------------------|-------------------|
| 1. Antifreeze | 5. Hoses | 9. Spark Plug |
| 2. Pressure Test | 6. Heating System | 10. Oil/Fluids |
| 3. Battery | 7. Thermostat | 11. Wipers/Washer |
| 4. Belts | 8. Tires | 12. Lights(all) |

Don't be late, make your appointment today!

M · C · C · A · I · N

WORLD

UN arranges cease-fire in Angola French firm ships tainted blood

ASSOCIATED PRESS

LUANDA, Angola — The United Nations announced Sunday night it had arranged a cease-fire between government and rebels troops in Angola, where two days of fighting had threatened to renew civil war.

The cease-fire will take effect at 12:01 a.m. Monday and details will be worked out by U.N. officials in the southern African nation, according to a statement issued by Joe Sills, a spokesman for U.N. Secretary-General Boutros-Ghali, in New York.

The statement also said foreigners being held by the warring sides would be released. Sills was not immediately available to elaborate on how many foreigners were being held and by whom.

Unconfirmed reports Sunday said at least 100 people died over the weekend in battles that threatened to ruin the 1991 peace accords between UNITA — the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola — and the ruling MPLA party, the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola.

The accords halted a 16-year civil war in what was once a Cold War battleground.

On Sunday, government forces backed by armored personnel carriers and armed civilians moved against UNITA strongholds in the capital, pounding the rebels with mortar shells and machine-gun fire.

Armed civilians including teenagers fought alongside government police against the rebels.

Portuguese news reports said two U.N. monitors were among the dead. Officials at the U.N. mission in Luanda monitoring the peace accords said they could not confirm the report.

Angola first became engulfed in civil war after gaining independence from Portugal in 1975. At least 350,000 people died in the fighting.

Cuba and the Soviet Union armed the government, and the United States and South Africa backed UNITA.

Some of the heaviest fighting raged in Luanda's diplomatic district of Miramar, where a UNITA garrison resisted with mortars and rocket-propelled grenades.

The fighting, which began Saturday, followed elections in September in which UNITA trailed the governing party. U.N. voting monitors said the balloting was generally free and fair. Rebel leader Jonas Savimbi had threatened to fight rather than accept electoral defeat.

But Jardo Muekalia, a UNITA spokesman in Washington, said the attacks on his group were unprovoked.

"The fighting in Luanda is basically an all-out offensive by the government," he said. "There is no hiding their intention — to cleanse Angola of UNITA."

Portugal's Lusa news agency reported that more than 200 people had been killed since Saturday. In Washington, Muekalia put the number of UNITA dead at about 100.

Lisbon's TSF radio had reported earlier that the two sides were in radio contact Sunday, trying to work out a truce. Muekalia confirmed that UNITA was trying to get U.N. observers to reestablish a cease-fire.

Muekalia said one of the worst government assaults was on a compound of 50 prefabricated homes housing UNITA families in Luanda. He said many women and children fled, but others were killed.

In Luanda, witnesses said police units backed by armed civilians entered Miramar at noon and pushed toward Savimbi's residence, which is surrounded by foreign diplomatic missions.

Savimbi left Luanda last month for Huambo, 310 miles to the southeast. But his residence has been one of UNITA's main bases in the capital.

Officials of both sides said a local truce was holding in Huambo. But UNITA Gen. Paulo Mango told TSF radio early in the day that attempts to end hostilities in Luanda had been "fruitless."

"We see armed civilians in the streets, some very young, only 14 or 15 years old," Jose Pena Ribeiro, a Portuguese Luanda resident told TSF.

Outnumbered rebels were trying to escape Miramar, the witnesses said, but UNITA's scarlet and green flag still flew over the residence.

AIDS

French firm ships tainted blood

ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS — A major French immunological firm exported blood products in 1985 for use by hemophiliacs without testing them for the AIDS-causing HIV virus, according to a French newspaper report.

The exports took place at a time when France's national blood bank knowingly used contaminated blood for transfusions, which left 1,200 hemophiliacs infected with the HIV virus. Nearly 300 have died.

The Merieux Institute, a Lyon firm that manufactures vaccines and other immunological products, exported some 55 million blood products for hemophiliacs in the 1980s to Argentina, Greece, Italy, Portugal, West Germany, north Africa and the Middle East, the newspaper Le Monde reported in its weekend edition.

The company used primary materials, mostly imported from the United States, without testing them for AIDS or treating them to kill the HIV virus, Le Monde said. It said the company acted with the knowledge of the Health Ministry.

Health Minister Bernard Kouchner, contacted in New York by the French news agency AFP, expressed indignation at Merieux's reported activities but said he was not surprised.

"There must be a discussion between doctors and health authorities on the administrative, moral and political responsibilities of each," Kouchner said.

"This all unfortunately confirms that it was indispensable to reinforce the state's control over not only transfusion, but over the security of the health structure in general," he said.

In 1985 alone, Merieux exported 3.2 million non-treated blood products, even as it was exploring the possibility of decontaminating blood samples through heating.

ESSENTIALS

Readers express concern about presidential candidates

DEAR CASSANDRA,

You have been consistent in providing your readers with informed opinions. I have some questions for you that will require just that — an informed opinion.

I understand that Ross Perot is a business man, and apparently a very successful one, but isn't it true that the position he is trying for requires some political knowledge as well? In my opinion, he has yet to show us his understanding of politics. He just continues to stress that he is a business man and that it will take smart business moves to bring America to her feet again. So, in your opinion does Perot possess the political ability to run the nation?

Secondly, I don't understand how anyone believes they can control the economy. One thing I learned from my economics course is that there are so many variables involved and so many varying theories that it is almost unrealistic to believe any single person or entity would be able to control it.

Cassandra, is it true, as the presidential candidates would have us believe, that our nation's economy could either thrive or suffer, depending on who is elected?

Concerned Voter

DEAR CONCERNED VOTER,

"Political ability," in my opinion, is a nebulous term that has as many definitions as there are politicians saying "vote for me."

What Ross Perot has is a humorous talent for taking the highly complex and creating nice little "sound bites" that grab your attention. After a while, though, they tend to wear thin.

Until the 60 Minutes interview on Oct. 25 and the press interview the following Monday, it seemed to me that there was nothing substantial that would prohibit Perot from functioning as president.

However, I now feel he does not have the demeanor to handle the job. Ross Perot says he would use the office as a "bully pulpit," and also form a national "town hall" to govern the nation. I can tell you this, H. Ross Perot did not become one of the richest private businessmen in this country by listening to others and letting others tell him what to do.

Regarding your second question, I think you confuse the political rhetoric with reality. When a candidate says "he/she" will do something, they actually mean the people they appoint to run various positions in the newly elected government.

These positions collectively include enough important offices that the policies emanating from them can indeed effect the economy. An example of this is the deregulation of the savings and loan industry. As you can now see, we are paying dearly for that in the form of the biggest bailout in U.S. history. This bailout has added to the overall national debt, whose interest alone, now totals more than what we spend on defense.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

I have been reading your column for a while, and thought it might be nice for you to have a question that has nothing to do with sex, dating, guys, girls or relationships. I also have been paying a small degree of attention to the political fiasco that is recently taking place in our nation, and thus the topic of my question.

Why does it seem that most people, wrongfully imply or simply state that there are only three people in all 50 states of our nation who are currently running for the office of president? I recently found that there was a fourth, and that he even makes more sense than Perot, Bush, or Clinton. I only know a little of the platform for the Libertarian party and was wondering if you could tell me the name of the president elect for this party. Also I have been looking for an official description of their platform (what they believe) and was wondering if you could briefly describe that, or let me know where I can find out more about it.

Sincerely, Chris

DEAR CHRIS,

The reason many people do not know the composition of the entire ballot until they step into the voting booth (myself included) is for one simple reason: MONEY. It takes money to advertise on radio and television. It takes money to travel around the country and get the kind of exposure to the public and the media to make your name a household word like "Perot" or "Clinton."

A good place to look for more information on some of the more "unknown" candidates is the public library, which accepts information from various political parties willing to place it there. For information on who will appear on the ballot on election day, contact the Riley County Election Office and Trisha Champlin, 537-6300, or write the Secretary of State, Bill Graves, for a copy of the ballot. Locally, you can contact Bill McKeen, 776-3221.

The national candidate for the office of President of the United States of America from the Libertarian party is Andre Marrou, and Vice-president, Nancy Lord.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

ACROSS

- 1 Festive
- 4 Oohs' mates
- 7 Admitting air
- 11 Slept like —
- 13 Fracas
- 14 Rum cake
- 15 "The Gift of the —" (O. Henry)
- 16 Low sound?
- 17 Do what you're told
- 18 Lewis Carroll's Boojum
- 20 Motherless calf
- 22 Campaign promise?
- 24 Investors' jitters
- 28 Move on casters
- 32 Big dipper?
- 33 Crosby's pal
- 34 Crucial
- 36 Vegetarian's no-no
- 37 Stronghold?
- 39 The Chosen people?
- 41 Wise counselor
- 43 Central
- 44 A two-piece?
- 46 Artsy type: colloq. "gnat"
- 50 "Scat, gnat!"
- 53 Bruce Wayne's inspiration
- 55 Golden Rule word
- 56 Continental prefix
- 57 Luau strings
- 58 Dutch treat
- 59 Sport
- 60 Topic for Dr. Ruth
- 61 Sea-shell seller of song

CAPRI	CHI	SOP
AGAIN	HID	AGA
RECTO	ELASTIC
KENNEL	LIVE
FIR	EOS	TONES
ICAN	BEBOP
BETAKE	AMERCE
PILLS	SEER
FARED	OIL	VEE
APER	LOCATE
COPYCAT	BORAH
ERA	AVE	OMEGA
STY	BAD	RESOD

Yesterday's answer 10-31

DOWN

- 1 Schools of whales
- 2 Thicke or Arkin
- 3 Meditative practice
- 4 It's up your sleeve
- 5 Gangster
- 6 Approach, eagle-style
- 7 Johnny Cash hit
- 8 Poke
- 9 Li'l Abner's son
- 10 Actor
- 11 Liotta
- 12 Doris Day's image
- 19 Josh
- 21 4 qts.
- 23 Wapiti
- 25 Thought
- 26 Family cap
- 27 Collections
- 28 Bad guys?
- 29 Hitchcock tour de force
- 30 "The Roof" (1963 song)
- 31 "A mouse!"
- 35 — Kippur
- 38 Ad-dressee?
- 40 Sartorial woe
- 42 Picture puzzle
- 45 Total receipts
- 47 Tackles' teammates
- 48 Orem's state
- 49 Capitol cap
- 50 Take care of 40 Down
- 51 Shade
- 52 — pro nobis
- 54 John Ritter's dad

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-900-454-6873 (19¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

CRYPTOQUIP

11-2 JUL FVHPL WJUIHPR
HW FVWM TRJM MRQ
IGPMGE GEIQEQI
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IN ORDER TO BUY OUR FANCY BOAT I FLOATED A LOAN.
STANCE."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: F equals J

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

1 DAY	20 words or less — $5 each word over 20 — $.20 per word
2 DAYS	20 words or less — $6.25 each word over 20 — $.25 per word
3 DAYS	20 words or less — $7.25 each word over 20 — $.30 per word
4 DAYS	20 words or less — $8 each word over 20 — $.35 per word
5 DAYS	20 words or less — $8.50 each word over 20 — $.40 per word (consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

BULLETIN BOARD*010

Announcements

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103, Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

BE INFORMED! Tune in to KSDB-FM 91.9 for Election Preview '92 tonight at 6:30 for an in-depth look at the Riley County Ballot. Don't miss our live coverage of election results Tues. at 7 p.m.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30 p.m.

020

Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: GRAY and white short haired female cat. 12th and Vattier. Contact the Animal Ward at the Police Dept. 537-2112, or the Animal Shelter.

030

Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

DICK (MY best friend) too bad left, right, and JoJo aren't here. It's five o'clock in the morning... ZEBADIE... HEH. Love, Watchdawg.

JENNIFER H. Happy B-Day. 19 years old. Good luck. Remember diver down and stairway. Love, Watchdawg (and Rick?).

JL DECK—her the Peck—her Wreck—her. At last it's here, the time had come. We went to the 'Ville and had some fun: drank our shots and had a beer—Got by the doorman without any fear—. We were at Chance on Halloween night, having a birthday, and doing it right! I was there too, to quench my thirst. And to make sure you had a great 21st! KB.

TO MY great front office crew, BOOI! Soon we'll make a date? now you can't oversleep or be late. What fun we will have at the ranch where I stay. A hayrack ride, bonfire, etc. and in the leaves we will play. RSVP, Patty Cakes

UNCLE L. Step good, step right, and get down to night. Get ready to show and Stomp some mo'.

040

Meetings/Events

11TH HOLIDAY Gift Expo. Saturday, Nov. 7, 9 a.m.-3 p.m., City Auditorium, 11th and Poyntz over 30 booths mostly handmade items.

050

Parties-n-More

HOT—TUB rentals for all occasions; Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/delivery, special weekday/multiday rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE*105

For Rent—Apts. Furnished

APARTMENT FOR Rent: two-bedroom, furnished, all utilities paid. Recently remodeled, seven blocks to campus. Quiet. No pets. $380/month. 776-7634/539-5781 after 5 p.m.

AVAILABLE—$480 per month two-bedrooms. Trash and water paid. Four minutes walk to campus. 776-7634/539-5781 after 5 p.m.

110

For Rent—Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR Rent! Available January 1, studio apartment, close to campus, lots of room, $260 a month (including utilities) 811 Fremont Apt. #1. 539-7071

FOR RENT one-bedroom apartment, near campus, laundry facilities. Call 537-4031. Leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittain Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished one or two-bedroom. Campus one mile. Short term lease available. Reduced rents. No pets. 537-8389.

115

Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS in town home. All appliances. Partially furnished. Now or next semester.

Lease through July. Call 539-6684.

120

For Rent—Houses

UNFURNISHED HOUSE available. 1117 Vattier, call 539-1975.

130

For Rent—Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished, good, clean condition. Quiet surroundings. Campus one mile. Short term lease. Available. Reduced rents. No Pets. 537-8389.

145

Roommate Wanted

APARTMENT LOCATED two blocks from campus. Two roommates needed. Nov. 1. Off street parking. Apartment is two years old. 776-7240.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN want woman to share house in Manhattan. Own room—$175, plus one-third utilities. Available now. 537-1479.

FEMALE WANTED to share two-bedroom house. Washer/dryer own dogs. Rent $212.50. Carol 776-1861.

FEMALE, NON-SMOKING roommate wanted IMMEDIATELY. Share attractive four-bedroom apartment with friendly roommates. $182/month plus one-fourth utilities. Furnished except for own room. Call or leave message 539-4158.

150

Sublease

AVAILABLE IN Jan. two-bedroom apartment. One block from campus, private parking. Lease runs through Aug. For more information call 776-6727.

200

SERVICE DIRECTORY

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

205

Tutor

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter

210

Resume/Typing

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

215

Rooms Available

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/ Speech for papers/ editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

Not enough time on your hands to get everything done? Check the Classifieds service directory.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Kedzie 103 532-6555

255

Other Services

STUDY ABROAD in Australia. Information on semester, year, graduate, summer and internship programs in room—$175, plus one-third utilities. Call us toll free (800)245-2575.

260

Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown. 537-4661.

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS*310

Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Col-

315

Rooms Available

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

320

For Rent—Houses

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

325

For Sale—Houses

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

330

For Rent—Mobile Homes

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

335

For Sale—Mobile Homes

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

340

For Rent—Garage

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

legian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ALASKA SUMMER Employment—fisheries. Earn $600 plus/ week in canneries or $4000 plus/ month on fishing boats. Free transportation! Room and board! Over 8,000 openings. Male or female. Get a head start on this summer! For employment program call (206)545-4155 Ext. A5788

ASSISTANT TEACHER for nationally accredited early childhood program. 11a.m.-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Fri. Must have high school diploma or equivalent. Please apply in person to: Marsha Tannehill at Seven Dolores Child-care, 220 S. Juliette by Nov. 3, 1992.

COMPUTER PROGRAMMER (10 hours/ week) using Turbo Pascal on a micro computer. Programmer will convert mathematical expressions in algorithms and then develop into compiled codes. Advanced undergraduates with good programming skills should apply in room 217B Throckmorton Hall by Nov. 10.

EARN EASY MONEY!!! Post our brochures around campus and receive commission for each completed application. Work few hours, on your own time. Call 1-800-758-9918 EST.

FARM WANTS responsible person with some experience operating PTO/ grinder mixer. And with time available, mornings preferred. 457-3440 before 8 a.m.

MANHATTAN COUNTRY Club is now accepting applications for part/full-time servers and kitchen help. Preferred applicants will possess a minimum of two years food service experience, be at least 20 years of age, and able to work a minimum of four shifts per week. Apply in person, 1531 N. 10th. Ask for Dan.

NEED An experienced cocktail waitress, must be at least 21 years of age. Call Bleachers Sports, 537-1484.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

PART-TIME OFFICE assistant. Needed 20 hours per week to perform office oriented work. Accounting experience required. Computer experience a plus. Please submit resume to 710 N. 11th in Manhattan.

WANTED: BASS Player for local working Country Band. Call Mike 776-7011.

Work at home. Assembly, crafts, typing and more! Up to $500 plus a week possible. For information write T. Maxwell, Rt. #2 Box 129, Dept. 7744, Sterling, KS. 67579.

320

Volunteers Needed

DJ'S NEEDED for DB92, student radio station, Thursdays 3-6 p.m. and Wednesdays 6-9 a.m. For information, call 532-3292 and ask for Joe Montgomery.

330

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

$202.50 SELL 50 funny, college T-shirts and make $202.50. No financial obligation. A risk free program. Average sales time equals 4-6 hours. Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/Larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

EARN CASH stuffing envelopes at home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801.

LOOKING FOR a top fraternity, sorority, or student organization that would like to make $500-$1500 for a one week marketing project on campus. Must be organized and hard working. Call 1-800-592-2121 extension 308.

NEEDED 100 people to lose weight now! No will power needed, brand new, just patented 100 percent natural, 100 percent guaranteed doctor recommended. Call 1-(800)874-7697.

OPEN MARKET*410

Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS overshoes, combat boots and safety toe boots. Wool blankets, gloves, mittens and socks) field jackets—overcoats camouflage clothing. Also Carhartt Workwear. Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-5 p.m. open Sundays till Christmas

Aggie's New To You Second-Hand Store
537-8803
1124B Moro
Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

12 p.m.-4 p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales, St. Marys, KS, 1-437-2734

HEWLETT PACKARD HP-28S with thermal printer, leather cases $195. 539-3563.

PRINTER and typewriter ribbons; computer paper, copy paper, Hull Business Supply 715 N. 12th, Aggieville. 539-1413.

USED CASH register for sale, $50. Standing Room Only, 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

435

Computers

EXPERIENCE TELECOM-MUNICATIONS! Call "The Edge BBS" Line 1 300-2400 Baud @587-0310, Line 2 2400-14K Baud @587-0309 24 hour/day. Free Access, Online games, IBM/ Amiga downloads, excellent message forums. Run by a student for all students. Novice and experienced callers welcome.

445

Music Instruments

GUITAR LESSONS: you no longer have to go to the cross roads to play.

Rick's Music Shop, 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 539-5900.

450

Pets and Supplies

ABANDONED, URGENTLY need homes. Small male Lab mix, golden female Shepherd mix. Black male, calico female cats, two kittens. 1-494-8415.

THREE FOOT Ball Python with 29 gallon tank/ accessories $175. Female Chinchilla with cage, accessories $60. 539-3563.

460

Stereo Equipment

SONY AM/ FM Stereo Receiver STR-AV920, 120 watts with remote. One year old, new $400 asking $245. 539-8267 ask for Joel.

TWO ORION 10 inch XTR subs $150 or best offer. 539-5716 Shawn.

TRANSPORTATION*510

Automobiles

FOR SALE: 1975 Fire Engine red Bronco. Four-wheel drive; looks good. Call Kipton 537-7934.

What do you do if you see a fire?
1. Call 911
2. Then call us

News Tips
532-6556

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

CLASSIFIED DIRECTORY

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

020 Lost and Found

030 Personals

040 Meetings/Events

050 Parties-n-More

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent—Apt. Furnished

110 For Rent—Apt. Unfurnished

115 Rooms Available

205 Tutor

210 Resume/Typing

215 Rooms Available

220 For Rent—Houses

225 For Sale—Houses

230 For Rent—Mobile Homes

235 For Sale—Houses

240 For Rent—Garage

245 Roommate Wanted

250 Sublease

255 Stable/Pasture

260 Office Space

265 Land for Sale

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

Royal Purple

*Behind the scenes of the Royal Purple,
you'll find 13 dedicated students who are working to record your memories.*

"The large number of clubs on campus makes my job as organization editor challenging. I am constantly looking for different activities and events to feature while trying to make sure all of the approved 350 organizations on campus are still covered."

*— Shannon Yust, Organization Editor
Freshman in pre-law
Sylvia, Kansas*

Order your 1992-93 Royal Purple Yearbook
in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).
Total price is $16.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

NOVEMBER 3, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 51

INSIDE

VOTE TODAY

List of Manhattan polling places on page 2.

TUESDAY

HIGH 45 LOW 28
WEATHER - PAGE 2

2 Arkansas families see Clinton in different lights

Jessica Bieker, 8, listens to her sister Karen, 22, tell why she supports Bill Clinton for president. The Biekers live in Fort Smith, Ark.

"I'm a lot more dissatisfied with Bush as my president than I am with Clinton as my governor,"

KAREN BIEKER

LAJEAN RAU

Collegian

FORT SMITH, Ark. — Not everyone in Arkansas will vote for Bill Clinton in today's election.

On the eve of Election Day, two middle-class Fort Smith families had very different things to say about the man who has governed their state for 12 years.

The Biekers and the Browns have lived and worked nearly all of their lives in this small, quaint city on the Arkansas-Oklahoma border.

Karen Bieker, a 22-year-old college student, thinks Clinton has been an effective governor, and he will bring change to a country that has been run into the ground by 12 years of Republican administration.

"I'm a lot more dissatisfied with Bush as my president than I am with Clinton as my governor," Karen said, sitting at the kitchen table in her grandmother's small home.

Karen had just gotten out of class at Westark, the local community college.

She's working on her second undergraduate degree and is pursuing a master's to become an elementary-school counselor.

How taxes will affect her and the rest of the middle class is the most important issue to Karen in this, the second presidential election in which she will vote. She voted for Dukakis in 1988.

She said though some of her friends plan to vote for Bush because they fear Clinton will raise taxes, she will stand by her candidate.

"I have as much confidence in Clinton as I do Bush or Perot for keeping taxes reasonable and for reducing the deficit," Karen said. "After four years, Bush has proven himself to me incapable of making any changes and, really, doing any good for me at all."

A new tax on used cars hurt Karen when she bought hers last year. She said that was one thing Clinton supported that she didn't. But she said the money went to education, where it was sorely needed.

"It was kind of a double-edged sword," she said. "But if Clinton sticks to his promise to raise taxes only on those who make over $200,000, then it won't affect me for a long time. And when it does, I will be willing to shoulder my part."

Though many young people support Clinton, Karen said, age has less to do with who will vote for which candidate than social class.

"I haven't really heard much dissatisfaction with Clinton as governor," she said. "I think a lot of the people who support Bush are business owners and those who are more wealthy and their children. His ideas are more favorable to them. You can't blame them."

Jane Bieker, Karen's mom and a teacher's aide at a Fort Smith elementary school, said she and her husband, Charlie, also plan to vote for Clinton. Of their other children — Angel, 20; Michael, 17; and even

■ See FAMILY Page 8

CAMPAIGN '92

More students involved in all areas of election

MATT CUNNINGHAM

Collegian

Students are voicing their opinions more in this election year.

K-State students from the age of 18 to 24 years of age have registered to vote in record numbers this year. At the time of the presidential primary, around 700 K-State students were registered to vote, according to the Riley County clerk's office. Over the past few months, the SGA office has been busy with voter registration, and now the number of students registered is around 4,500.

The number shows an increase of 6-1/2 times.

"Pathetically impressive," said Richard Baier, junior in political science and economics and member of the Young Democrats, about his thoughts on the results.

It is less impressive because it represents less than one-fifth of the student population, he said.

Instead of working on a career politician's campaign, some Young Democrats decided to take on more responsibility and help a state race.

Michelle Smith, sophomore in political science and pre-law, is one of those students. She is running against the incumbent Sen. Lana Oleen, R-Manhattan, for the 22nd District seat in the Kansas Senate.

Smith is being assisted in this campaign by her friends in the Young Democrats.

"In local political campaigns, you usually get friends to help," said Ray Kowalczyk, senior in political science, pre-law and economics and Smith's strategist. "They believe in the candidate's ability, and we believe in Michelle."

Smith, originally from Leavenworth, decided to come back to Kansas with her new husband last fall after a tour of duty in Augsburg, Germany. She is taking six hours this semester while running for office.

Her day starts at least half an hour before her 8:05 class when she gets up. Smith said she keeps up with school and political events by reading in the morning, because after lunch, the rest of the day is spent on the campaign trail.

She can be found in the Democratic headquarters, at her apartment sending out thank-you letters to contributors to her campaign or out walking the streets of Manhattan or Junction City, talking with constituents.

"Michelle's a good campaigner," said Robert Littrell, Riley County Democratic Party chairman. "She is running the same basic type of campaign, but she doesn't have as much money as her opponent. With the amount of money raised, she has done a good job."

Smith's youth is a factor in why she refuses to accept money from political action committees, said Shannon Wilson, junior in journalism and mass communications.

"She will only take money from individual citizens, political organizations and the Democratic Party," Wilson said.

This young candidate has the ability to sway voters with her beliefs, but her age is people's biggest concerns, friends and committee members said.

"We're learning" is the motto she likes to follow, Smith said. "I have learned a lot about the electoral process and feel like I can change lives."

"Age is the focus of a lot of the criticisms," said Richard Baier, junior in political science and economics and treasurer on Michelle's campaign. "Being young helps fresh ideas, makes you more instinctive."

Though the local paper did not endorse her, the coverage was still considered favorable.

"We made the Mercury sit-up and take notice," Wilson said.

NATION

Gays may lose rights in Oregon

LIANA RIESINGER

Collegian

A controversial law which could affect gay rights will be at the polls today in the state of Oregon.

Ballot Measure 9, influenced by the Oregon Citizens Alliance, will make Oregon's state constitution amend discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation, states the No on Nine campaign.

Steven, a Topeka resident and an advocate of the No on Nine campaign who asked that his last name not be used, said he was outraged when he discovered what could happen in the state of Oregon.

"It's the first time in which a constitutional amendment takes people's rights away," Steven said. "This measure mandates that the state of Oregon must do everything to teach homosexuality is unnatural and wrong."

A pamphlet produced by the No on Nine campaign, based in Oregon, states that if the measure passes, public libraries, public television and arts projects would censor any materials that portray homosexuality in a positive way.

Schools at every level would be forced to teach homosexuality is abnormal, unnatural and perverse, Steven said.

Mike, a K-State sophomore who asked that his last name not be used, said this law would ban any kind of public display of affection among homosexuals.

"Two gays holding hands in public could be thrown in jail," Mike said.

A supporter of Ballot Measure 9, Fred Phelps, baptist minister in Topeka, said he believes the law is a wonderful idea.

"They don't deserve to be a protected class, because legitimate classes (blacks, females and handicapped) are defined by an innocent condition of being, not by deliberate conduct," Phelps said.

Homosexuals are also trying to get marriage laws passed, Phelps said.

"If homosexuals could get married, they would have the same benefits as a heterosexual couple," he said. "If one dies, the other receives social security benefits. The idea of marriage among gays is frightening for those who follow the bible."

Phelps said the Bible repeatedly condemns homosexual acts and describes sodomy as the most depraved form of human conduct.

Although Oregon is just one state and far from Kansas, the effects could spread to Kansas, Mike said.

■ See OREGON Page 8

THE CANDIDATES

U.S. Senate

Bob Dole - R
Gloria O'Dell - D
Christina Campbell-Cline - I
Mark Kirk - L

Riley County Commissioner, 2nd District

Jim Williams - R
Jan Garton - D

Riley County Commissioner, 3rd District

Robert Pudden - R
Karen McCulloh - D

U.S. House of Representatives

Jim Slattery - D
Jim Van Slyke - R
Arthur Clack - L

Riley County Treasurer

Eileen King - R

Register of Deeds

M. Charlotte Shawver - R

State Board of Education, District 6

Bill Musick - R
Mary Nichols - D

President/Vice President

George Bush, Dan Quayle - R
Bill Clinton, Al Gore - D
Ross Perot, James Stockdale - I
Andre Marrou, Nancy Lord - L

Kansas House of Representatives, District 62

Kent Glascock - R
Joe Swanson - D

Riley County Clerk

Irene Colbert - R
Craig Raborn - D

Kansas Senate, District 22

Lana Oleen - R
Michelle Smith - D
Mike Weir - L

Kansas House of Representative, District 66

Shelia Hochhauser - D

Riley County Attorney

Bill Kennedy - D

NEWS DIGEST

ANC DEMANDS JOINT GOVERNING

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - (AP) The African National Congress must accept a joint governing role with the white-led National Party to ensure a peaceful end to apartheid, the black group said in a document Monday.

The document, being circulated for review by ANC members, states that the ANC will be unable to dominate the government in the interim period leading to drafting of a new constitution.

This could relieve whites, who fear President F.W. de Klerk's negotiations will lead to a black government that would ignore white interests.

CHESS-LOVER CUFFED IN STACKS

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. — (AP) Chess-lover Louis Taylor locked a librarian in a contest of wits and was checked out in handcuffs.

The 41-year-old unemployed graphics artist ignored a "No Board Games" order posted by his hometown library and got arrested.

Taylor, who was charged with trespassing, said he feels he's been roused. The library says it's a pawn.

"Chess is not a more equal board game than any other board game," said Dr. LaRuth Gray, president of New Rochelle Public Library's board of trustees.

FYI

MANHATTAN POLLS

Below is a listing of voting Wards and Precincts for Manhattan and the immediate surrounding area. The polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. To determine where you should vote, check your voter registration card or call the Riley County Clerk's office at 537-0700.

- Ward 1 Manhattan Public Library, Juliette and Poyntz avenues
Ward 2 Precinct 1 Woodrow Wilson School, 6th and Leavenworth streets
Ward 2 Precinct 2 Bluemont School, 7th and Bluemont streets
Ward 2 Precinct 3 Army Reserve Building, 715 Griffith Drive
Ward 2 Precinct 4 Northview School, Griffith Drive
Ward 2 Precinct 6 Church of Christ, 2400 Casement Road
Ward 3 Precinct 1 First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth St.
Ward 3 Precinct 2 UFM House, 1211 Thurston St.
Ward 3 Precinct 3 Meadowlark Hills Retirement Home, 2121 Meadowlark Road
Ward 4 Precinct 1 Roosevelt School, 14th and Houston streets
Ward 4 Precinct 2 Education Center, 2031 Poyntz Ave.
Ward 4 Precinct 3 The Old Farm Bureau Building, 2323 Anderson Ave.
Ward 4 Precinct 4 Red Bud Estates Club House, Red Bud Estates
Ward 4 Precinct 5 3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
Ward 4 Precinct 6 Citizens Bank and Trust, 3049 Anderson Ave.
Ward 5 Precinct 1 Coffin Campus Center Conference Room, 1419 Laramie St.
Ward 5 Precinct 2 Eugene Field School, 17th and Leavenworth streets
Ward 5 Precinct 4 Wharton Manor, 2101 Claflin Road
Ward 5 Precinct 5 University Christian Church, 2800 Claflin Road
Ward 5 Precinct 6 Manhattan Jewish Synagogue, 1509 Wreath Ave.
Ward 5 Precinct 7 Marlatt School, Hobbs Drive and Browning Avenue
Ward 5 Precinct 8 Vocational Technical School, 3136 Dickens Ave.
Ward 5 Precinct 9 Amanda Arnold School, 1435 Hudson St.
Ward 5 Precinct 10 Farm Bureau, 2627 KFB Plaza
Manhattan Township #1 Peace Lutheran Church, 2500 Kimball Ave.
Manhattan Township #2 Unitarian Church, 481 Zeandale Road
Manhattan Township #3 Hunter's Island Community Center, 1000 S. Manhattan Ave.
Manhattan Township #4 Colonial Gardens Clubhouse, 3000 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Manhattan Township #5 Derby Food Center, KSU

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.
 POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.
 News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Kedzie Hall 116.
 Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3

At 1:54 p.m., police wheellocked a brown Honda, tagged CAJ131, in Lot A-29 for excessive violations.
 At 4:12 p.m., police wheellocked a grey and red Chevy Blazer, tagged Maine 966RVF, in Lot B-2 for excessive violations.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 3

At 2:56 a.m., Gary Holmes, 2724 Brockman St., was arrested for DUI, resisting arrest and driving on a suspended license. Subject was confined on $1,000 bond.
 At 12:05 p.m., a report was filed on a major-damage, non-injury accident at Manhattan High School. Involved were Paul E. Baird, 830 Kearney St., and Aaron K. Cheever, 2005 Timbercreek.

DID WE MAKE A MISTAKE?

We do not claim to be perfect, so help us out. If you find an inaccuracy in the paper, give us a call or drop by the office so we can make a correction. 532-6556 • KEDZIE 116

REACH YOUR TARGET AUDIENCE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
 DISPLAY ADVERTISING 532-6560

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy with a 20-percent chance of light rain or snow during the morning. High in the mid-40s. Tonight, cloudy with a 30-percent chance of light snow or flurries. Cold with the low in the upper 20s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Cold and mostly cloudy. High 35 to 40.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Thursday through Saturday: Dry and cold Thursday. Highs 35 to 40. Lows in the teens west to the 20s east. Friday, a chance of rain or snow. Highs 35 to 45. Lows in the 20s. Saturday, a chance of morning rain or snow east. Continued cold. Highs 35 to 45. Lows 15 to 20.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3

- Block & Bridle will meet at 7:15 p.m. in Weber 123. Executive meeting will be at 6:30 p.m.
- Circle K will meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213.
- Circle K will meet at 4:15 p.m. in the parking lot south of the Union to leave for Junction City to help with Kids Voting For Kansas.
- KSSSLHA will have a general meeting at 7 p.m. in Leasure 106.
- The Navigators will meet at 7 p.m. in Throckmorton 131.
- Kappa Omicron Nu Initiation Speaker Virginia Moxley will speak at 7 p.m. in Justin 109.
- Young Democrats will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union 207, where time and place of a victory party will be announced.
- Alpha Epsilon Delta will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Denison 222.
- Sigma Delta Pi will meet at 4 p.m. in Eisenhower 016.
- Larry Dixon will present "The 5th Discipline: Systematic Thinking vs. Linear Thinking in Leadership" at 3:30 p.m. in Union 212 as part of Blue Key's Leadership Week, and Ron Paradis will present "Taking the Athletic View: How to prepare yourself for success" at 11:05 a.m. in Union 212.
- Society for Creative Anachronism will meet at 7 p.m. in Ahearn Field House.
- Pi Sigma Epsilon will meet at 5 p.m. in Calvin 211. Attend for details about regionals.
- Hospitality Management Society will meet at 8 p.m. in Justin lobby.
- Manhattan Country Club will attend for any questions.
- HALO will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the ECM building.
- The Graduate School has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Girish Govindarajan for 9:30 a.m. in Bluemont 257.
- Gay, lesbian and bisexual support groups will meet from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Lafene 236 for women and 238 for men.
- Geology department will sponsor "The Early Geographical Record of the Southcentral Great Plains" by Jack Hofman at 4 p.m. in Thompson 213.
- S.A.G.E. will sponsor a booksale from 9 to 3 p.m. in Denison lobby.
- Industrial Engineering Assembly will meet at 7 p.m. in Durland Paslay Lecture Hall.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4

- Ray Dempsey will present "Putting Leadership skills to work" at 7 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room as part of Leadership Week.
- Jan Wissman will present "New Leadership: An agenda for 21st Century schools" at 3:30 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room as part of Leadership Week.
- Fred Thibodeau will present "Ethics and Value in Decision Making" at 1:30 p.m. in Union 213 as part of Leadership Week.
- Mordean Taylor-Archer will present "Meeting the Challenge of Diversity" at 10:30 a.m. in Union 213 as part of Leadership Week.

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Berlin	45/39	clear	Nairobi	70/59	rain
Helsinki	44/35	cloudy	Rome	64/63	cloudy
London	59/54	rain	Stockholm	41/35	cloudy
			Vancouver	53/42	rain

New Membership Bonus
JOIN NOW!
 $60 buys you unlimited play until December 31 AND includes a one time initiation fee for new members!
Stagg Hill Golf Club
 3 miles West on K-18
 539-1041

ORDER YOUR COLLEGE RING BY THANKSGIVING
AND STILL RECEIVE BY
 SPECIAL SAVINGS! Only $39.00
 YOUR RING DELIVERED BY DECEMBER 25th
JOSTENS
 AMERICA'S COLLEGE RING
Varney's
 BOOK STORE IN AGGRIEVILLE
 "We Give You Our Best"
 Monday & Tuesday, Nov. 2 & 3 from Noon-5 p.m.

SECOND LATIN AMERICAN LECTURE SERIES
 DATE: NOVEMBER 3, 1992
Speaker: Russell Smith, Associate Professor of Economics, Washburn University, Topeka, KS.
Topic: Redemocratization in Brazil: The New Constitution and Labor.
Place: Union 213, 4:30 p.m.
 Organized by Latin American Studies Program, Co-Sponsored by L.A.S.O., H.A.L.O., American Ethnic Studies, 18 other Academic departments and Off Campus Organizations.

UPC FILMS
A League OF THEIR OWN
 Starring Madonna, Tom Hanks and Geena Davis
 Friday & Saturday 7 p.m. & 9:30 p.m. Forum Hall
 Matinee: Saturday & Sunday 2 p.m. Forum Hall
PROSPERO'S BOOKS
 Wednesday & Thursday 7 p.m. & 9:30 p.m. Forum Hall
 Friday 7 p.m. Little Theatre
 ALL FILMS $1.75 with KSU I.D. Bring a can of food and get a friend in for a $1
 For more information, call the UPC Entertainment Line at 532-6570

TWO YOU CAN COUNT ON

MICHELLE SMITH
 FOR STATE SENATE
 DISTRICT 22

SHEILA HOCHHAUSER
 FOR
 STATE REPRESENTATIVE
 DISTRICT 66

THEY'LL WORK FOR K.S. YOU

PAID FOR BY HOCHHAUSER FOR REPRESENTATIVE, ROD OLSEN, TREAS., AND SMITH FOR SENATE, RICHARD BAIER, TREAS.

REVIEW

Waverly Consort a pleasant surprise

Variety of instruments, singers create 'musical history'

RICHARD ANDRADE
Collegian

It was Halloween night and the last place I wanted to be was McCain Auditorium.

I was there to review the performance of the ensemble the Waverly Consort, but my heart was not in it as I stared at the sparsely set stage — 11 cafeteria chairs and a cloth-covered table.

I started scanning the audience for someone who would like to gain some journalism experience by taking the review assignment off my hands.

At 8:05 p.m., the lights dimmed and I settled in for what I was sure would be a drowsy, sleep-inducing performance. When the 10 members took the McCain stage, I had little hope. They didn't look to be a particularly excitable bunch.

At 10 p.m., after the members of The Waverly Consort took their encore, I was still awake and actually glad I had come.

The night's program focused on the theme "The Year 1492, Spanish Music in the Age of Columbus," and the music produced by the six singers and four instrumentalists reflected the songs that came from the Iberian Peninsula at the time when Spain was reconquering land occupied by the Moors.

"Our program is a sort of a story, a history," said Michael Jaffee, who played the vihuela and oud. He then referred the audience to the handsome complimentary program guide which contained the lyrics and translations of each song, as well as historical background.

The first part of the program went well, with a variety of numbers tracing the Eve of Discovery and Fall of Grenada.

Although the six singers had beautiful voices, the main focus of attention was the instrumentalists, Jaffee, Kay Jaffee, Rosamund Morley, and Tom Zajac.

J. MATTHEW RHEA/Collegian

The Waverly Consort performs music on the theme "The Year 1492, Spanish Music in the Age of Aquarius" using period instruments in McCain Auditorium Saturday night.

Zajac was especially prolific, starting out the first number "Ayo visto lo mappamundo" by tapping on a tambourine-like instrument and then going on to play virtually every other instrument in existence through the rest of the performance.

It's important to note that the instruments played were authentic period pieces with strange names like gemshorn, Sacbut and shawn.

The low-point of the program, "Qu'es de ti, desconsolado?", resembled a particularly dreary Gregorian monk chant but was immediately followed by the invigorating "B'tayhi- M'saddar," which demonstrated the Arab-Andalusian influence. This piece seemed to come directly from the bazaars of Istanbul.

One other notable point of the evening was "Oy commamos y bebamos," which exhorted all prudent Spaniards "let's stuff our stomachs/ until our skin stretches/ Wise custom decrees/ that we gorge ourselves."

Overall, The Waverly Consort gave a commendable performance. It wasn't anything spectacular but it kept one reviewer in his seat and taught him a thing or two about the music of the past.

CAMPUS

New indoor field economic, will lighten load at Brandeberry

STEPHEN MCKEE
Collegian

By April 1993, the K-State football team should have its own indoor practice field.

The new indoor practice field is under construction south of Bramlage Coliseum. It is expected to be completed by April 1, 1993.

The new practice field is necessary because the Brandeberry Indoor Complex is overcrowded, said Mark Bonjour, assistant athletic director and director of athletic facilities.

"The size of the football team is over 100 people, and that is just too big for Brandeberry," Bonjour said. "They had to practice in separate groups to fit into the facility. But with the new practice field, the whole team will be able to practice together."

Bonjour said use of the indoor practice field has become popular with other sports.

"Brandeberry is being used from 8 a.m. to midnight," he said. "Different groups use the facility at different times. Initially, the new indoor facility will be for the football team to give other sports more time at Brandeberry."

The cost of the new indoor practice field will be about $1.8 million, Bonjour said. It is being paid for by private donations of cash and "gifts-in-kind," which are donations such as materials and labor. The project is still soliciting donations for the project, he said.

K-State will join four other Big Eight schools that have an indoor practice facility: Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa State and Kansas.

Bonjour said the facility is an economical investment.

"We are building to be functional as well as maintainable," Bonjour said. "We want it to last. We have incorporated several architectural designs to make a long-lasting building. Yet, we have several economic devices that will conserve money and energy."

He said items such as no air conditioning and sky lights could be possible energy savers.

"The building is going to look a lot like Brandeberry," said Del Bern, construction site manager. "It is a very simple building that doesn't have a very complicated design. The design is economical. It contains 39 sky lights, and it contains an exhaust fan that will circulate air and act as a heater."

Bonjour said the football team is excited about the facility.

LEGISLATION

New laws will help enable the disabled

LANE ALLISON
Collegian

This country will see a movement borne out of a sense of empowerment and fueled by frustration within the next few years, said Gretchen Holden, Disabled Student Services director.

Holden led a panel discussion about this and other ramifications of the Americans with Disabilities Act Monday night in Edwards Hall.

The ADA has not hit university campuses as hard as the private sector because of pre-existing legislation, Holden said.

"Legislation passed in 1973 said public institutions that received public funds had to make their programs accessible," she said.

However, it was not until 1980 that K-State began to "chip away" at some of the accessibility problems on campus, Holden said.

"Prior to that, there were no curb cuts, there were no accessible parking stalls and many buildings were not accessible," she said.

Jeff Peterson, junior in animal science, is a member of the Committee for People with Disabilities. Peterson, who is confined to a wheelchair, said his negative experiences have been with landlords, not K-State.

"I've been fortunate," he said. "I've been able to take advantage of the work other people have done at K-State. I've been very pleased with my experience working in my department. Gretchen's office has helped to make things easier for me. I really haven't had a big problem

See LAWS Page 7

ATTENTION: BUSINESS, PRE-LAW, & OTHER MAJORS

Deal with business from the consumers point of view and start learning consumer laws and limitations for 1 hour credit. Contact CRB for enrollment information: 532-6541

SUPER VALUE MEAL

Now you can get a super deal on a value meal. It's our single burger Super Value Meal. You get a super burger, bigger than McDonald's, Burger King's or Hardee's regular burgers, plus hot, crisp fries, and a refreshing 16 oz. soft drink, all at a super value price. Try the single burger Super Value Meal or other value priced meals at participating Dairy Queen®/Brazier® stores.

Just $1.89

Now thru Nov. 6
1015 N. 3rd
Manhattan

BOOK SALE!

Tuesday
November 3.

8 a.m. - 5 p.m.
CARDWELL LOBBY
sponsored by Math Club

Don't Miss Out!

Your chance to be a part of the Collegian next Spring ends on Friday! Pick up your application in Kedzie 103.

Stuff the

November 2-5, 1992
at the K-State Union
Bookstore

A special selection of purple sweatshirts

$15

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

Stadium Sale

DECISION '92

TUNE INTO KSDB-FM 91.9
FOR ELECTION '92 NEWS.

DECISION '92

PREVIEW '92

MONDAY, NOV. 2, 6:30 p.m.

an in-depth look at the
Riley County ballot.

DECISION '92

LIVE ELECTIONS RESULTS coverage
beginning at 7 p.m.

Exclusively on

THE MOST IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE 20th CENTURY.

MONDAY MANIA!

Buy one of Manhattan's Favorite Pizzas and get a second of equal value Free!

2 Pies that are fine for

Tuesday and Wednesday! 8.99!

2 delicious 10" pies and 2 Pepsi's!

"We Pile It On!"

1130 Moro
In the heart of
Aggieville, USA

PYRAMID EXPRESS

539-4888

FREE & FAST DELIVERY

Senator Lana Oleen comments:

"When I filed for re-election to the Kansas Senate, I continued my commitment to my family, my supporters and to you as constituents that I would conduct a positive campaign--we have.

During the past two weeks, my substituted opponent has distorted my voting record, made innuendoes about my integrity and allowed her state party headquarters to pick up her tab for misleading and erroneous mailings to your homes.

I prefer the truth and a positive campaign based upon qualifications, proven service and a continued commitment to our district. I believe the voters in our district prefer that kind of campaign, too!"

Sincerely,
Lana Oleen

Lana Oleen
REPUBLICAN • KANSAS SENATE

OPINION

NOVEMBER 3, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief	Erin Perry Amy Cox Shawn Bruce	Richard Andrade Jodelle Lamer David Mayes	John Hart Tom Lister Mark Engler
Jared Savage Opinion Page Editor	Frank Kloeemann Brian Anderson	Derek Thoman Heather Anderson	Lajean Rau Julie Long

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Economic problems run deep

THE ISSUE

The current recession is the result of a fundamental shift in the way the American work machine operates.

WE SUGGEST

Even if the next presidential plan for recovery is successful, it will take years to show results.

With the economic issue having been the main thrust of all three presidential candidates' platforms, they have promised that if elected they will rebuild the nation. But a new report may make all this posturing non sequitur.

The American Management Association, after having polled its 838 member organizations, found that 25 percent of the respondents will be implementing work force reductions by next June.

This is the highest reduction level seen since the association started its survey six years ago. Further, these cutbacks are not the result of any temporary economic downturn. They are the result of a general change in the fabric of American industry.

Before, unemployment had been generally attributed to cutbacks in the national economic condition. But now, cuts in the work force are reasoned due to increased automation and technology, improved staff use and, worst of all, work being funneled out of the country.

The economists have been saying it for years: the slumping economy is due to more than just an expected downturn. Instead, a genuine shift in the industrial machine of America has left us unable to compete on a global market.

It is a deeply rooted problem. Industrialists, in a never-ending quest to cut costs, have by a direct result slashed thousands of jobs and weakened an already-sluggish economy.

The candidates say they can stop this. Fine if they do. Unfortunately, the association's survey also suggests that any plans for change are already too late. Even a successful plan will be many years in completing and longer than that in producing fruit.

Bush running on depth of his humanity

Having a better story than Clinton might save race

Character, character, character.

For lack of a convincing economic plan, that has been the rallying cry from Bush's Tories for what has seemed like a lifetime. The hope behind it, of course, is that Americans will decide against voting for Clinton because of marijuana use, draft dodging and an extra-marital dalliance. That is their hope.

MARK ENGLER

Republicans suggest that not only are these things very bad, but that Clinton has "not been straight with the American people" in disclosing the facts regarding these subjects.

They are probably correct. But let's be reasonable. The guy wants to be president of the United States. If he were honest, he wouldn't be anywhere near a political campaign. Republicans know that.

The true anger Republicans feel is not because truth and justice have been spat upon by the Clinton campaign. Not at all. Republicans are just flabbergasted that the public seems to be believing someone else's lies over their own. And it just adds insult to injury when it's a Democrat.

If Americans were to truly vote for who they know they can trust, Bush might find himself a distant third. The reason for that would simply be that Americans don't know for sure that they can't trust Perot or Clinton. But after "read my lips," there is no doubt Bush will make empty promises to attract votes.

After the Los Angeles uprising, George Bush went out to see what had happened. Being an election year, it undoubtedly served certain political purposes. There would be photo opportunities and a chance to be "presidential" in the face of a crisis, something Bush got a real kick out of during the Gulf War. When he got there, however, things were not that easy.

Underneath his bullet-proof political armor, way down in there, George Bush is a human being. And the destruction he saw jabbed at that human being. In fact, you may remember some news footage of tears in his eyes.

After the trip, Bush's aides told reporters that the president had been genuinely torn up by what he saw. There was a sense of political posturing on the part of Bush's aides, of course. After all, it was a great opportunity to show that the president really, really, no really, really, no listen, I'm being serious now, really cared about the decay of the inner city.

But taking all that posturing with a grain of salt, there was, in interviews and press accounts, a genuine sense that Bush had actually seen what was happening to those American people in full-color, vivid, true-as-life images. And what had haunted him was that he had, indirectly or directly, been partly the cause of it.

It was all very easy for Bush to push it aside once he was away from the ugly scene, once he was back in the friendly confines of the White House, Air Force One, and the Houston Astrodome. Just like it was all very easy for well-to-do Americans to forget about it after it ceased to be a hot media topic. But all that forgetting doesn't change the fact that it happened and could happen again.

And that brings us back full circle to the subject of character. If Bush really did see the horror, as he would claim, and like I think there was no way he could miss it, don't you think it would change him somehow? Don't you think, as a true man of character, he would try to move beyond the pettiness of party politics in order to bring an end to the death and destruction that these Americans face every day?

Sure, Bill Clinton also saw it, and Republicans could claim he did just as much forgetting as Bush.

But Republicans aren't claiming that Bill Clinton is simply no better than George Bush, are they?

They are claiming that George Bush is the true man of character. They are claiming George Bush is a better human being.

READERS WRITE

► YES TO CLINTON

Personal letter says America still first

Editor,

I learned something when I was in college which I never have forgotten and which motivates me to this day. I had a professor who taught that America's greatness is based on two ideas: that tomorrow can be better than today and that each of us has a personal responsibility to make it so.

I still believe it, and I hope you can, too.

Washington has done so little for so long that you may believe the president can't change America. Don't believe it. Franklin Roosevelt put millions of Americans to work during the Great Depression. Harry Truman sent millions of Americans to college with the GI Bill. Martin Luther King Jr. and millions with him pushed the president to transform our laws and guarantee civil rights.

What we need is a detailed plan which invests in the future, not a president who talks mockingly about the "vision thing." We are the only industrialized country without a national health care plan, a national education plan and a strategy for the future.

Together we will change America again. We will fight for what Americans deserve. The right to borrow for college. A good job. Affordable, quality health care. And a government that works with the American people and for the American people.

You have a lot more at stake than I do. You have to worry about paying for your education. You have to hope that you'll be able to find a decent job. You have to worry that you'll fall in love with someone who is HIV positive. And you have to hope that one more Supreme Court justice won't take away your right to choose.

I hope you will join me in a great effort to unite Americans, to create a community where people look out for each other, not only for themselves. It will be an America where we all have a chance and we all stand together — whatever our race, our religion, our gender or our sexual orientation.

Together we can all change America.

Bill Clinton
Democratic candidate for president

► NO TO BUSH

President has power to make life miserable

Editor,

The commander in chief has just said "no." He has decided what is right for him. He has the power to decide for you, too. He can spend 25 percent of the gross national product of the wealthiest nation on earth to make you conform to his mores. He can mobilize social pressure. He can declare you a criminal. He can interdict your supply, making distribution expensive and distributors wealthy. He can impoverish you. He can organize a vocal majority to justify his actions. But he cannot make such actions right.

Each individual must weigh personal preference, health risks, health benefits, price, product quality and patriotism when deciding whether to eat broccoli.

Arthur L. Clark
Libertarian candidate
U.S. House, Kan., 2nd District

► YES TO McCULLOH

Being on commission would help K-State

Editor,

As student interns for the Lou Douglas Lecture Series, we worked closely with Karen McCulloh, who coordinates this educational program for the University and Manhattan community. We are writing to voice our support for her candidacy of the Riley County Commission, 3rd District.

Karen has excellent organizational and administrative skills and knows how to bring out the very best qualities in her students. She gives clear instructions and possesses a friendly, congenial personality to work with many different people.

We urge our fellow students to vote for Karen McCulloh today. She will represent K-State in the best possible manner.

Sarah Caldwell
Junior/Economics and English
Michael Hardus
Senior/History and political science

► NO TO CLINTON

If elected, Clinton's record spells danger

Editor,

After hearing some of Clinton's early speeches, I was excited about the thought of voting for him. But I'd heard so many conflicting reports about Clinton's record in Arkansas that I didn't know what to believe. So, I called Arkansas myself, and here's what I found.

Many journalists and citizens of Arkansas have not forgiven him for breaking his promise not to run for president. One woman I talked to said, "He met with handfuls of his closest supporters in different parts of the state and called it a 'mandate from the people of Arkansas to run for president.'" She called the incident a "staged lie" and a "typical Bill Clinton maneuver."

John Robert Starr, a retired writer from the Arkansas Democrat, the state's leading newspaper, said, "In 1979, the state ranked near the bottom in every economic indicator. After 12 years of Mr. Clinton, we are still in the same shape despite the doubling of federal funds to Arkansas."

Arkansas ranks nearly last in every category in the welfare of children. Factors include teen suicide and pregnancy, violent deaths among youths and drug abuse.

Is Clinton a friend of business? He says he is, but corporations such as JB Hunt and Wal-Mart pay huge taxes and have moved many jobs out of the state. Tyson registers its trucks out of state because of the tremendous tax burden. Clinton's fiscal policy placed 41st.

Friend of the middle class? Sales taxes increased 50 percent during his reign, and he approved every tax the legislature proposed in his 12 years at the helm.

I asked the financial political expert who gave me some of this information why we'd never heard it before. She said, "It's scary, really. The press has romanticized a very crafty politician into the next JFK without testing his record. It reminds me of a quote I once heard: 'When the media control the minds of the people, can the government be far behind?'"

Tom Thies
Junior/Pre-law and history

► NO TO OLEEN

Senator takes credit for what she didn't do

Editor,

I'm tired of politicians taking credit for things they haven't done, just to make themselves look good. This time it is the incumbent Sen. Lana Oleen making the claim.

In a television ad aired recently, she said she "provided the leadership to get $27 million for the Farrell Library expansion." This statement is untrue for several reasons. First, $5 million will be coming from K-State students through increased fees. We voted in favor of this last November. Second, another $5 million is coming from private donors, mainly alumni. Third, and most appalling, was her lack of leadership in the final hours of the session when the money could have easily been taken away. The funds for the expansion came before the committee, of which Oleen is a member, for review and approval. Oleen was not at this committee meeting to fight for the money K-State was allocated. If this is the proven service and continued commitment she is campaigning on, I don't want any part of it.

Michelle Ghiselli
Senior/Pre-law

► YES TO SMITH, RABORN

Senate, county need candidates abilities

Editor,

Today, K-State students, faculty and staff have a chance to make our state and county government responsible to the people again. Michelle Smith and Craig Raborn offer all of us that chance.

Michelle's honorable military service and her current enrollment at K-State mean she knows and understands the concerns of the 22nd State Senate District firsthand, something our district needs. Michelle's pledge is that she will always stand on her record. To everyone in the 22nd District, Smith's dedication to that pledge and to being a true public servant offers a refreshing

■ See SMITH, RABORN Page 5

TOLES

COMMENTARY

Choose Raborn, Smith

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 4

alternative to our current, "Do whatever the party leadership says to do" approach. Unfortunately, the last four years have been mired in this sort of partisan positioning, even when it has meant carelessly neglecting the responsibilities of the 22nd District.

Raborn, too, was a K-State student, during which time he gained valuable experience in student government. This experience makes him a strong candidate for Riley County clerk. While in student leadership positions, Craig became familiar with the obstacles facing many students who just don't know how or where to register to vote. This is a problem for which he has quality solutions. Craig also believes the county clerk should be more open to the people, not a closed office. Even with a lack of cooperation and efficiency on the part of our current county clerk, she feels that being the fourth-highest paid clerk in Kansas is justified. Riley County voters should feel cheated at the waste of precious tax dollars, and in fact, Raborn says he'll freeze the salary if elected.

Because of the irresponsible conduct of the incumbents in office, we need to elect the candidates who will bring strong leadership and new ideas to their offices so that government will be responsive to the people again. We need to elect Michelle Smith to the state Senate, and Craig Raborn as Riley County clerk.

Timothy Lehman
Junior/Political science

► NO TO SMITH

Book of lies makes K-State candidate unfit for Senate

Editor,

Faculty and students considering voting for Michelle Smith for the Kansas Senate deserve to know what is really "fact," and what is fiction.

Smith has just completed a mass mailing of a campaign brochure, "Let's separate fact from fiction," which is, ironically, the most fictitious piece of libelous propaganda I have yet to encounter in this election.

Smith claims that Senator Lana Oleen failed to live up to her initial campaign promises, citing four "examples," which are actually blatant distortions of Oleen's unquestionably sound record, respected leadership and honest reputation.

First, Smith claims Senator Oleen "repeatedly voted to limit recorded votes in the Kansas Senate. She is not accessible to you when her votes are off the record." Reality is, Senator Oleen simply followed the parliamentary procedure in the standing rules adopted by the Senate four years ago. She has been publicly accountable to every vote she has cast and, furthermore, is as accessible to her phone, 537-1642.

Also, Smith claims Senator Oleen "skipped the last day of the 1992 Legislative Session to take a pleasure trip abroad. All budgets, including K-State's, were being cut while she was away." The truth, on the other hand, is that Senator Oleen was present for the last day of the 1992 session, and she was most certainly present for the budget vote. Even more importantly, though, what she missed was a conference committee report, while traveling to formerly Communist East Germany to represent a Midwest regional committee she chairs.

Oleen was selected to go on this so-called "pleasure trip" to work with the East German government on establishing its first democratic state government. One would hope that Senator Oleen takes pleasure in doing her job, but this trip a vacation? Hardly.

Finally, Smith claims Senator Oleen "misrepresented the intentions of House Bill 3017, and, thereby, showed her insensitivity to military personnel and their families."

Reality is that Senator Oleen is by far the most enthusiastic, and sometimes only, voice for Fort Riley and military families in Topeka.

She has consistently fought to protect Fort Riley interests and has been recognized nationally for her efforts. She was selected and is currently serving on a three-year Department of Defense Commission, directly headed by Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney, which was commissioned to look at the role of women in combat.

I will agree with Michelle Smith that "the 22nd District does not need double-talk," which is exactly why I felt compelled to write this letter. What Smith and the people running her campaign out of Topeka have done is "double-talk" at best.

Smith is currently being required to redisclose her campaign expenditures, which fail to report volumes of similar libelous mailings her Topeka managers have obviously financed. The only protection we have from being victimized is to vote for Senator Oleen. Her campaign is based on her record to service to K-State, which clearly stands on its own.

If Smith could say as much, this might be a real campaign, as opposed to a one-sided mudslinging match.

I am voting for Senator Oleen and urge you to do the same.

Michelle Munson
Sophomore/Chemical engineering and pre-law

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

■ Letters to the Editor- c/o
Jared Savage
Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 116
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

See Us For All Your Tailgate Supplies

• Das Smokehaus

Sausages

• Pre-cooked Bratwurst

• Coney's

$1.79 per lb

$1.79 per pkg

reg. $1.99 per lb

reg. $1.99 per pkg

Prices good every week of a home game.

FINE HILLS
FOODS, INC.
Quality Products Since 1969

Mon-Fri 8-5pm • Sat 8-1pm
1400 W Hwy 24 Wamego, KS 456-7557

I VOTED

Anyone wearing an
"I VOTED" sticker will receive
15% OFF any purchase
on ELECTION DAY

November 3, 1992 at the K-State Union Bookstore

Offer does not include textbooks, computer hardware & software, special orders, class rings, tapes, calculators, graduation apparel & announcements, flowers & CDs. Not valid with other discounts or offers.

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

Patient Care

NATIONAL

RADIOLOGIC TECHNOLOGY

Nov. 2-6

Week

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

532-6544

The Beat Goes On at Hansen Nutrition Center

- Natural Food Supplements
- Body Building Products
- Whole Grain Cereals
- Nutritionist on Staff
- Bio-Plasma Prints
- Natural Ice Creams
- Dietetic Supplies
- Herbs and Spices

537-4571
Mon-Sat. 9:30-6

Locally Owned

Hansen Nutrition Center

3112 Anderson Ave.
(across from Village Plaza)

WIKIES
BAR & GRILL

$1 BOTTLES
TONIGHT AND EVERY TUESDAY!!!

18 to enter; 21 to drink.

LOOK FOR THE DELTA TAU DELTA BLOOD MOBILE ALL WEEK

619 North 12th Street, Aggieville, 537-2100

Wedding Coordinator and Original Wedding Gowns by Yolana

- Plan how to book your wedding well in advance
- Full bridal consultant service
- Sewing for wedding party, prom and special occasions
- Fabric choices and pattern books available

By appointment only 762-2746

No way.

CLARIS

Simply powerful software.™

Way.

It's midnight and you have assignments due in every class? No sweat. There's one way to get them all done: ClarisWorks™ software. It's all you need for your Macintosh. And it's easy to learn, so it's easy to use.

What makes ClarisWorks unique? You can access different functions within a single document. Composing an essay for English Lit? Start with word processing, then sharpen your prose with the built-in thesaurus. Publishing a newsletter? Use the graphics toolbox to create your own layout. Building a forecast model for Economics? Powerful spreadsheet and charting tools make it really simple.

You can also jam through tough calculations with built-in mathematical functions. Organize a semester of notes into an awesome database. Even communicate information directly across campus—or around the world. Only ClarisWorks makes it all possible. And at a mere $65K, ClarisWorks is a perfect fit for your Macintosh Classic, LC, or PowerBook.

ClarisWorks. A most excellent choice.

Free Templates!

Now ClarisWorks has templates designed just for college students. Customize party invitations with fun clip art, organize your busy life with calendars and lists—even personalize your own database with job search information!

K-State Union
Bookstore 532-6583

We appreciate your support. Your dollars continue to help the K-State Union sponsor student services, programs and activities.

EXTRA

NEWS

TODAY

TOMORROW

Get involved with the Collegian.

The Collegian is seeking students who are reliable, show initiative, possess good writing skills, have some media experience and display enthusiasm.

If this description fits you, you're eligible to apply for a Spring 1993 staff position. Applications and job descriptions for Collegian positions are available from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).

Positions:

- Editor-in-chief
 - Advertising manager
- (Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4. Interviews will be Nov. 11.)

- Desk editors
 - Advertising representatives
 - Graphic artists
 - Columnists
- (Application deadline for these positions is at 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 13.)

- Staff writers
- Photographers
- Copy editors
- And more

This is a great opportunity to get involved on campus while having fun, building a resume and working on the sixth largest morning daily in Kansas.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN
Kedzie 103 532-6555

SPORTS

NOVEMBER 3, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

TOP 20

1 Washington	6 Florida St.	11 Southern Cal	16 Colorado
2 Miami	7 Nebraska	12 Arizona	17 N.Carolina St.
3 Alabama	8 Notre Dame	13 Kansas	18 North Carolina
4 Michigan	9 Boston College	14 Florida	19 Mississippi St.
5 Texas A&M	10 Syracuse	15 Georgia	20 Texas

Lakers' Magic puts on last disappearing act

L.A. star retires, cites worries of other players

ASSOCIATED PRESS

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Earvin "Magic" Johnson retired from basketball again Monday — this time for good — not because the AIDS virus sapped his strength or talent, but because it struck fear among fellow players.

"It has become obvious that the various controversies surrounding my return are taking away from both basketball as a sport and the larger issue of living with HIV for me and the many people affected," Johnson said in a statement four days before the start of the 1992-93 NBA season.

After talking it over with his wife, Cookie, and his family, Johnson said, "I decided I will retire — for good — from the Lakers."

He didn't elaborate on the controversies, but his agent, Lou Rosen, said he was referring to public comments by other NBA players who said that competing against him put them at risk of contracting the HIV virus.

"His feeling was, if people were afraid to play against him, that could affect the outcome of the game, and Earvin didn't want that," Rosen said.

Dr. Michael Mellman, Johnson's personal physician and the Lakers' team doctor, said the 33-year-old superstar was physically fit to play.

"This is not based on his doctor's advice," Mellman said.

Mellman repeated what other doctors have said — there was practically no chance of contracting the virus from Johnson through basketball.

The AIDS virus is transmitted through blood, semen and some other bodily fluids.

But several NBA stars, including fellow Olympic team member Karl Malone of the Utah Jazz, said they were concerned about playing with Johnson for health reasons.

"It is a physical game, and you do get kicked and scratched," Malone said Monday. "I do have concerns, just like anybody would have. It's not a thing of kicking a man when he's down."

Dr. David Rogers, vice chairman of the National Commission on AIDS and an NBA adviser, said players' fears of Johnson "shows how poorly we've done in public education efforts."

"When somebody as admired and respected as Magic Johnson decides he's got to leave his life's work due to people's unwarranted fears, that's a tragedy," he said.

Nicole Russo, a spokeswoman for AIDS Project Los Angeles, said Johnson was a victim of discrimination.

"This is another example of the fear people experience when they're around people who are HIV positive, so it's a form of discrimination," she said. "It's unfortunate."

Johnson shocked the sports world a year ago when he announced his retirement after testing HIV positive. But within weeks of his Nov. 7 announcement, Johnson began contemplating a comeback.

He was the Most Valuable Player in the NBA All-Star game in February and a key member of the U.S. team that won the gold medal in men's basketball at the Barcelona Olympics.

In September, Johnson returned to the Lakers, the team he played with for 12 seasons. He played in five of the team's eight preseason games.

Friday night, after the Lakers' final exhibition game, Johnson said he and the team were ready for the upcoming season. He sat out a few minutes early in that game when he got a scratch on his right arm. The scratch required a bandage, which he covered with a sweatband.

Rosen said Johnson's primary aim is to educate people about AIDS.

"I've come to realize that it simply isn't possible to return to playing in the NBA and still continue to be involved in all the things I want to do," Johnson said.

"I do have concerns, just like anybody would have."

KARL MALONE

DARRIN WHITLEY/Collegian

Heave-ho

Steve Fritz, senior in business and VISA decathlon team member, throws a shotput during track practice Monday in Ahearn Field House.

VOLLEYBALL

Spikers to take on 22-4 Wichita State

SCOTT ABEL

Collegian

While millions of people watch the election results on television tonight, the K-State volleyball team will be hoping for a TV victory of its own.

The spikers will play the Wichita State Shockers tonight at 7:05 in Henry Levitt Arena.

The game against the Shockers will be aired on Wichita cable channel 13. It will be shown on tape delay locally at 8 p.m.

This will be K-State's first match after a three-game sweep of UMKC on Halloween, a victory which broke an 11-match losing streak and improved K-State's record to 6-17.

"They were fed up," Cats head coach Patti Hagemeyer said of the UMKC game. "They talked to each other about their concentration and their intensity before the match."

"They've worked extremely hard all fall, and they lived up to what they're supposed to do."

Wichita State comes into the match with a 22-4 record and a four-game winning streak. The Shockers are currently third in the Missouri Valley conference with a 10-4 record.

"We're already in the Missouri Valley tournament," Wichita State head coach Phil Shoemaker said. "Now we're just getting geared up for that."

"We've got No. 12 Texas and No. 13 Texas Tech coming in here soon. So, K-State will be a game we'll need to win."

The Shockers have been led by middle hitter Kristin Carr, who is leading the Missouri Valley in hitting efficiency. Wichita State has three other players with over 100 kills this season.

"If you're looking for one characteristic to describe us," Shoemaker said, "it would be balance."

"We don't have a Kathy Saxton, but we're a pretty balanced team, offensively and defensively. We have skilled players but no superstars."

Freshman setter Kori Rosenkranz has stepped into the starting position and has averaged 10.5 assists a game in conference play.

"She has made a big difference for them this year," Hagemeyer said. "She's been really stable, and great teams have to relate well to their setter."

This will be the second match between WSU and K-State this year. The Shockers beat the Wildcats in the K-State Invitational in three sets in September.

"We're all a little more experienced than when we played them the first time," middle blocker Heather Zoerner said.

"The team members know each other better, and we're out to go and beat everyone who beat us before and get them back," she said.

COLUMN

Midnight Madness lacked fan support

Midnight Madness has been a K-State tradition since 1986. After the showing of about 2,500 fans for the first practice this year, perhaps Midnight Madness should be called Midnight Mildness.

Jeff Chapman, the ICAT coordinator and Midnight Madness director, did a great job in coordinating this year's fun for those 11,000 empty seats.

By comparison, the Jayhawks attracted 16,000 fans for their event, and Wichita State, a team that won all of seven games last year, brought in 8,000.

Last year, it was slow and boring.

This year, the ICAT Advisory Board and a select committee brought in former K-State players for the alumni game, K-State President Jon Wefald and Athletic Director Milt Richards for a three-point contest, and David Letterman's sidekick Larry "Bud" Melman.

And what thanks do they get? "Ah, sorry. We think running around in a Halloween costume is better than seeing Melman and cheering on the new team."

Those of you who missed surely had your reasons, but you should have altered your schedule. You folks missed a chance to yell at the president and the athletic director and get away with it.

Imagine the noise we could have made watching Richards toss brick after brick.

"Don't quit your day job," would have been an appropriate cheer.

KMKF-FM 101.5 helped with a costume contest, with prizes including autographed basketballs. Take the kids, dress them up and, heck, you might even win a prize.

Maybe more fans didn't care to see 10 former K-State players. There was three-point specialist Will Scott doing acrobatic shots and canning buckets from behind the arch. Big Fred McCoy sank a three-pointer. Even John Rettiger showed off some talent with two monstrous dunks.

And finally, there was Melman, who should have drawn large numbers of spectators — even if they weren't rooting for the Cats. Melman, for those of you who go to bed at 10 p.m., appears regularly on the show, "Late Night with David Letterman."

Melman did his job of entertainment by saying, repeatedly, "KU sucks." The crowd cheered in delight as this 5-foot-2 inch man laughed in return. He came back later, adorned in a K-State uniform and carrying a tombstone that read KU — Jan. 18, 1992.

Granted, Midnight Madness the past couple of years has been boring, as is indicated by the declining attendance figures. And no, there was no dunking contest and no dash-for-cash.

But despite the hype for this year's practice, you have sent the message that you don't care about the basketball season.

Will you send that same message to the football team Thursday night?

Maybe the team is on a four-game losing streak and the weather forecast is for temperatures at 20 degrees below normal, but if we do have "real" K-State fans that care about the athletic program, we will "Stuff the Stadium" — both Thursday night at KSU Stadium and the upcoming season at Bramlage Coliseum.

SPORTS DIGEST

► NETTERS DROP TWO

The two K-State netters who went to the Riviera All American Championships last week in California returned home before the main draw began Thursday.

Suzanne Sim lost her first match of the pre-qualification round against Julie Oshira of Loyola straight in two sets, 6-1, 6-3.

Susana Labrador played No. 12 seed Nicole Sorto of San Diego State in the first match of the qualification round. Sorto won in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1.

► SUTTON ADVISES BILL

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State basketball coach Eddie Sutton had an appropriate message for Bill Clinton for the final days of the campaign: "You're in the fourth quarter. Don't go into the delay game. Full-court press him," Sutton told the Democratic presidential nominee.

Sutton and Clinton have been friends since Clinton's first term as Arkansas governor, when Sutton was coaching at the University of Arkansas.

MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL

Del Rio sparks Vikings to victory

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO — The Minnesota Vikings beat the Chicago Bears 38-10 Monday night to run their record to 6-2, tops in the division.

The win over Harbaugh and the Bears gave the Vikings command of the NFC Central race as journeyman linebacker Jack Del Rio turned the game with an 84-yard interception return for a touchdown and picked off another pass to end a Chicago threat and set up a Minnesota field goal.

Another linebacker, Carlos Jenkins, added the final insult by returning an interception 19 yards for a touchdown.

It was the second time this season that the Bears were done in by Minnesota interceptions.

The combination of the two wins over Chicago left Minnesota effectively three games ahead of the Bears (4-4) in the division. That's because if the two teams tie, the Vikings get the first tiebreaker.

The worst home loss in Ditka's 11 seasons as coach of the Bears was a career game for Del Rio, who entered the game with just three interceptions in 7 1/2 NFL seasons with New Orleans, Kansas City, Dallas and the Vikings.

Harbaugh, who was pulled just before Jenkins' interception, threw for 149 yards on 16 completions in 24 attempts.

Not counting, of course, the two completions to Del Rio.

BLUE KEY

Slattery gives leadership speech

Representative outlines keys to personal success

LANA SCHRATER
Collegian

A good leader must be able to stand alone.

This was the message Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., conveyed in his speech "The Paradox of Leadership — To Be a Good Leader, You Must Be a Good Follower."

Slattery's speech Monday was part of K-State Leadership Week, sponsored by Blue Key National Honor Society, in the K-State Union Little Theatre.

Slattery said he did not agree with the title of the talk, because leaders aren't always followers.

"Our country desperately needs leadership," Slattery said.

Slattery divided leadership qualities into eight points. He said a leader must first be able to see the big vision. A leader must have a sense of direction and a purpose.

"Where there is no vision, people will perish," Slattery said, making reference to scripture.

Slattery said the purpose of leadership is not to satisfy an ego. A leader must know where he or she is going.

The second characteristic was that a leader must be rooted in fundamental values and morals, he said. That person must know who he or she is and what he or she is about.

Slattery defined character as the "courage to follow through on a resolution long after the moment of inspiration."

Slattery said the third category is one's personal life, which must be in order so as not to self-destruct.

Communication skills, both oral and written, were Slattery's fourth characteristic of a good leader.

"If we can't communicate with those we expect to lead, we can't lead," Slattery said.

Fifth was the willingness to stand alone. A leader must be willing to challenge the status quo, he said.

"We have too many followers. We don't have enough leaders."

Slattery said another characteristic of a leader is the ability to motivate.

"Whoever you are, you have to have the ability to motivate," Slattery said.

A leader must encourage and convince people to reach unwanted short-term goals in order to reach long term goals, Slattery said. Great leaders make people enjoy performing unwanted short-term goals.

Slattery made his seventh point on courage and the willingness to take the risk of leadership. He said some people sense what is right instinctively, but few take the risk to stand up for what is right.

Quoting scripture, Slattery said, "Seek ye the truth, and it shall set you free." This is the attractiveness of Ross Perot's campaign, Slattery said.

A question-and-answer session followed Slattery's speech. A member of the audience wanted to know his opinion on the effect of Perot's campaign.

"I hope it's a wake-up call." He said it has shown that if you will be honest with the public, they will have a willingness to respond to honesty.

Slattery was also asked if he saw the independent party becoming a threat. He said he would encourage Perot to stay in politics and possibly become involved in a dual bipartisan move with the winner.

Slattery said he felt Perot could have won this election if he had not dropped out of the race, and if he had not chosen a vice-presidential candidate who "can't string three coherent sentences together."

Responding to another question, Slattery said part of the frustration with the government could be a subtle realization that we are all part of the problem. The public wants special-interest programs funded but doesn't want an increase in taxes.

"You show me somebody who doesn't have a special-interest group, and I'll show you somebody who shouldn't be there (in Congress)," Slattery said.

People must be willing to reconcile with competing special interest groups for progress to be made, he said.

"Flexibility is the most important attribute," Slattery said.

Slattery said he feels steps to balance the budget include entitlement program restrictions and giving people tax breaks for investing money as an incentive to get people to put money back in the economy.

A plan to decrease the deficit, Slattery said, should take four to six years.

85 percent of success is dealing with people effectively, speaker says

JODY LYNN
Collegian

One has to be well-liked, respected, motivated and open to new ideas in order to be successful.

That's according to Rich Mistler, senior vice-president at Paine Webber.

Mistler, a 1962 K-State graduate, spoke Monday night on concepts that young people can learn in order to be successful. His presentation was part of the K-State Leadership Week sponsored by Blue Key National Honor Society.

"There are hundreds of ideas out there that can help us to be successful," he said. "It's important to remember that different things work for different people. Each of us has our own unique style, and in the course of growing, we each find things that complement that style."

Mistler said four basic concepts have been useful to him as he has built his career.

Finding a goal that can be consuming and then dedicating oneself to that goal is the first step to success.

Mistler said if people work hard and stay focused, they can reach whatever heights to which they might aspire.

"You have to find ways to make yourself likable and develop a pleasing personality," Mistler said. He said he recommended each person read the book "How to Win Friends and Influence People."

"If you don't read this book, there are 20 million people who have read about things that will make them successful that you haven't been exposed to," he said.

He said 15 percent of what makes a person's financial success is gained by technical knowledge. The other 85 percent he credited to being effective in dealing with people and winning them over.

"Here at the University, you're focused on the 15 percent. You have to do that first. After school is over, then you can focus on the other things," he said.

Mistler said being at ease around people comes naturally for some, while others have to work at it. He said being open to people and new ideas will make people more likely to be successful and to be strong leaders.

Attitude is more important than technique, he said. In his dealings with the business world, he said he had to overcome many frustrations to get where he wanted to be.

Making a commitment for self improvement over the course of one's life is another key to success. Mistler said people should read self-improvement books and biographies in order to gain insight.

"You can gain a lot from reading about people," Mistler said. "You'll see things you like and admire, and you'll see some similarities between the subject and yourself. You'll see a lot of qualities in yourself that you can focus on and build on."

"I couldn't come up with more skills. I had to develop a different attitude to achieve the level I wanted to reach. I had to learn to think bigger," Mistler said.

BLUE KEY

Students called upon to provide leadership

LANE ALLISON
Collegian

Dennis Law, head of the Department of Landscape Architecture, made a plea for environmental leadership from students in a speech Monday.

The speech was part of K-State Leadership Week sponsored by Blue Key National Honor Society. It was in the K-State Union Big 8 Room.

Law, who has specialized in subdivision design, parks and recreation facilities and land reclamation, is an international speaker on global environmental issues.

"The message I have today is an emotional one for me, it's one that I feel very passionately about," Law said. "The environment has been paid quite a bit of lip service in politics, but in reality, nothing has really happened."

Law examined the world as two types of systems: an ecological system and an economical system. He said problems with the environment have stemmed from the conflict between economic and political goals and the ecological capacity of the earth.

Law said there is a major problem with human over-

See SPEECH Page 8

Picture your ad here.
(only bigger)
Then call us.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Display Advertising
5 3 2 - 6 5 6 0

Proven service.
Continued commitment.

Knows your priorities.
Builds bi-partisan coalitions.
Gets results for the District.

Lana Oleen
REPUBLICAN • KANSAS SENATE

K-State

Leadership Week
November 2-5, 1992

Day	Topic	Speaker	Time	Location
Tuesday	Taking The Athletic View: How to prepare yourself for success	Ray Fenske, WFFW News	11:05 am	Union Room 212
	The 9th Discipline: Synthesis: Thinking vs. Linear Thinking in Leadership	Dr. Larry Olson, Asst. Superintendent of Curry Co. School District	3:30 pm	Union Room 212
Wednesday	Meeting the Challenge of Diversity	Dr. Matthew Taylor, Asst. Provost Multicultural Affairs	10:30 am	Union Room 213
	Ethics and Values in Decision Making	Fred Thelander, President KSU Alumni Foundation	1:30 pm	Union Room 213
Thursday	The Road For Progress In Leadership	Sam Brownback, J. D. Kansas Secretary of Agriculture	11:05 am	Union Big 8 Room
	Leadership Skills: For Now and in the Future	Dr. Kent Brackley, Radiation Oncology, Walter Hospital	3:30 pm	Union Big 8 Room

All speeches will serve as a collection point for the 30 Days of Thanksgiving.

BLUE KEY
LEADING THE WAY

KOREAN FILM FESTIVAL

The Age of Success
starring
An, Sungki and Lee, Hyeyoung
Oct. 31 from 8-10 p.m., Nov. 1 from 7-9 p.m.

The Spinning Wheel
starring
Shin, Ilyoung and Won, Mikyung
Nov. 4 and 8 from 7-9 p.m.

Surrogate Woman
starring
Kang, Suyeon
Nov. 14 and 15 from 7-9 p.m.

—Free—
Open to the public
Come to experience Korean entertainment and tradition.
K-State Union Little Theatre
Korean Student Association
Sponsored by International Coordinating Council

Laws will benefit disabled

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3
here at K-State on campus.

"The only negative experience that I can say I've had was with apartment living. Talking with landlords, I got really frustrated. There is a lot of work that needs to be done there," he said.

"Last January the federal government got active again with a piece of legislation that is being called the civil rights legislation for the disabled community, or the emancipation proclamation for the disabled," Holden said.

"It is supposed to be one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation that has been passed in the last 100 years," she said.

It is also supposed to generate the most lawsuits. Holden said there are terms in the ADA that will only be defined on a case-by-case basis.

The ADA has sections providing for nondiscrimination in employment, public services, public accommodations and telecommunications.

PUB and GRILL

"Food, Drinks, Friends and Fun...
All at Christopher O'Bryan's Pub and Grill"

BUY 1 SANDWICH
GET 1 SANDWICH
(OF EQUAL VALUE OR LESS)
FREE

ONE COUPON PER VISIT • EXPIRES NOV. 11, 1992

1129 Laramie (old Egees Building) 3776-7050

Omicron Theta Chapter
of
Kappa Omicron Nu
Human Ecology Honor Society
Congratulates the Fall 1992 Initiates

Betsy Barrett	Elizabeth Lopez
Christi Jo Birkholtz	Camille Lott
Vani Bolnedi	Rajesh Mehta
Jennifer Chism	Briana Nelson
Judith Crosbie	Theresa Roach
Denise Dickson	Tana Schweitzer
Sheryl Drewis	Sharon Shapiro
Debra Duncan	Kristi Smith
Renee Erickson	Sandy Sue Steele
Jenny Farney	Ann Stevens
Kathleen Georgen	Judith Thompson
Debbie Gerber	Sarah Tauslee
Karla Hemesath	Amanda Tweito
Rhonda Herdt	Patricia Villasi
Mitzi Hulsing	Yoke Cheng Wong
Julie Jennings	Jerilyn Yingling
Laura Ann Kelly	Feng Yuan
Ruth Krause	Janice Zander

SERGIO & ODAIR ASSAD

Duo Guitarists

Sunday, November 8, 3 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

These Brazilian brothers dazzle audiences with their breathtaking virtuosity and stylistic perfection. Hear for yourself as they explore the classics and sample the wealth of South American music. "They seem less like a pair of individuals than a single, extraordinarily charismatic mega-artist." (St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Public/faculty: $12
Senior citizen: $10
Student/child: $6

Tickets now on sale at the McCain box office. Call (913) 532-6428 between noon and 5 p.m. weekdays and charge your tickets to MasterCard or VISA. Box office opens at 1 p.m. day of performance. Tickets also available (with service charge) at Manhattan Town Center Customer Service Desk, K-State Union Bookstore, and ITR (Fort Riley).

Transportation available for senior citizens through Kansas State Bank. For information and reservations, call Marie Dellen at 587-4000.

Presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

MCCAIN

Radiology Department

- Provides X-Ray Services.
- X-Rays read by K-State Physicians and consulting Radiologist.
- Student Health Fee helps defray cost.

532-6544

Lafene Health Center
Kansas State University

Family discusses Clinton

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

Jessica, 8 — Jane said all support Clinton, except Angel, who isn't sure yet.

Charlie has worked for the Hiram-Walker liquor company since it came to the area not long after Clinton was first elected.

"I'd like to tell you the reason I'm voting for him is positive," Jane said. "But after four years, I just don't think Bush has done anything for the middle class."

And concern for the middle class is her biggest concern in this election, she said.

"I want to believe Clinton will do good things. He's done good things for Arkansas. And I don't trust Bush for anything anymore."

But not all middle-class Arkansians are impressed with Clinton's job as their governor.

"I don't like what he did to us," said Ella Mae Brown, sitting in her elegant, tidy living room. She and her husband, Bob, have lived in Fort Smith for 45 of the 54 years they have been married.

Bob runs a Lennox heating and air-conditioning "back-yard" dealership. The Browns said Clinton made things tougher for small-business owners.

"He said 'Read my lips,' and then he didn't do anything," Ella Mae said. "He hit us with a kind of silent tax. Taxes on our inventory have increased times 10."

But Ella Mae and Bob said they don't trust Bush, either. And they wouldn't say whom they would vote for.

"It's your right to vote for who you want to and not have to tell other people about it," Bob said. "And I might change my mind before I vote, anyway. But I'm not for Clinton."

"You really can't trust any of the candidates," Bob said. "And whoever gets elected is going to have to raise taxes, no matter what they say."

Both families agreed on a few things besides their mistrust of President Bush — that voting is important no matter who you vote for, that the campaign has brought attention to their state, and that Clinton would probably not only carry Arkansas, but likely win the election.

"I think Clinton will do as much for Arkansas as president as he would as governor," Jane Bieker said.

And Karen said though misleading commercials about Clinton and Arkansas infuriate her, the spotlight on her state has been largely positive.

Clinton said when he was elected governor he would not seek higher office, Karen said. While the Biekers said his ambition to be president made them proud, the Browns saw his words as another politician's empty promise.

Karen said she and her brother, Michael, who missed being old enough to vote by one month, have gone to as many Clinton rallies as they could and will be glued to the television today to watch their candidate win — "Knock on wood. But I really think he will win."

Speech gives look at future of environment population. He said the Earth's carrying capacity, the population that can be supported by its natural resources, is growing smaller as the population grows larger.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 7

"The population of the Earth now stands at more than 5.4 billion people, and it is growing explosively," Law said.

Law said 77 percent of the population lives in less developed countries. Almost half of those people are younger than 15 years old and are entering the child bearing years.

"Given these demographic realities, the idea of the population leveling off is not very real," Law said.

Law said the United Nations estimated the population would surpass the Earth's carrying capacity around the year 2090.

Oregon law would deem homosexuals 'perverse'

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1

"If this measure is passed in Oregon, Colorado will try next because of their similar legislative structures," Mike said. "Then another state would try, and it would be a trickle-down effect."

Steven said, "If it passes in Oregon, there will certainly be people in other states running to get it passed."

According to information in the No one Nine Campaign brochure, "If Measure 9 passes, it will be the first time in U.S. history that a constitution has been amended to take away the rights of its citizens."

The measure would also prohibit public services, facilities and monies to promote, encourage or facilitate homosexuality, according to information in the brochure.

Free speech on the subject at universities would be banned, and homosexual teachers, librarians and public servants who work with kids would be "reassigned" or fired, according to the brochure.

"What they do in the privacy of their homes is their business, but they can't expect me to respect them and accept their laws," Phelps said.

Phelps said he feels his right of freedom of speech is being violated by gays because they expect him to stop preaching about the wrongness of homosexuality.

"It's scary to think along with their ABC's, children will be learning homosexuality is wrong," Steven said.

Food For Your Brain. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

ESSENTIALS

Brown dog and her puppies now safe at the animal shelter

YOU'RE ASKING ME?

by Cassandra Duveaux

DEAR CASSANDRA,

I'm compassionate toward homeless and hungry beings and do whatever I can to help. I take offense to your concerns that two homeless dogs generate so much mail and concern. Don't we have agencies that help the human homeless and hungry? Isn't that what our tax dollars are for? If these dogs were humans, they wouldn't be homeless or hungry by now. Dogs depend on humans to feed, care and love them. In return, they give unconditional love and companionship. Remember that it was a human that dumped these dogs and left them to die a slow and painful death of starvation, to get hit by cars, or to freeze to death. Pet Hotline at 1-456-2592 may be able to help. Whoever can get close to these dogs, please call. I know a lot about dumping. I feed and care for two dogs, seven cats and two kittens that were dumped. It never ends.

Compassionate to all beings

DEAR COMPASSIONATE,

I admire your willingness to take in and care for some of these poor creatures. They certainly do deserve our compassion. However, I am sorry, but I cannot equate a starving human being with a starving dog. In my book, the starving human will always get first helping to anything I may be able to offer in assistance.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

I would like to announce that the brown dog and her nine puppies are safe at the animal shelter as of Oct. 26.

A concerned person, who did not give up, called the police, and everyone present worked hard to lift the grate that the puppies were under. On behalf of the two police officers, I would like to say that they were extremely helpful and concerned. On the way to the animal shelter, we discussed how difficult it was for them to go up the chain of command to get the help needed. It is wrong to say that they didn't care. Everyone present that night could see that they did care. Sometimes it takes a little more than complaining before things get done. Understanding and searching for solutions is how it works.

A woman I know from the Humane Society informed me that there is someone on a farm that is willing to be a "foster home" for the puppies.

As for the black dog, it is said it may have to be tranquilized and then taken in. So until the dog is approached, we will all need to keep taking care of it.

I wish I knew the names of everyone who has helped with these animals. They are very appreciated by many students, authorities, a mother, and nine adorable puppies.

Amber, K-State freshman

DEAR AMBER,

Congratulations! Many thanks to you, the campus police and all you other animal lovers out there who took the time out of your busy schedules to stop and make a difference.

DEAR CASSANDRA,

You may have inadvertently touched on a possible solution to the homeless/hungry problem when you voiced your concern on the need for more attention to be given to hungry and/or homeless children and families. Do you suppose if each homeless/hungry person and/or family would befriend a homeless/hungry dog or cat, they might have more of a chance of being noticed?

On a more serious note though, whether two-legged or four-legged, the homeless and hungry do deserve our help. We all need to open our hearts and, when necessary, our wallets. If we all help out to the best of our own personal ability and put forth a little effort, we can successfully fight this growing epidemic.

Just talking about the problem and feeling sorry for those affected does not a solution make. The people who have attempted to extend a helping hand are to be commended. But we need to go much, much further. If we all work together we can eventually get a lasting solution to the problem — not just a Band-Aid solution. But there needs to be more action and less idle talk by those who can make a difference.

Write your congressman or congresswoman. Help on a local level. One starting point is the Flint Hills Bread Basket. We need to give it all the support we can. If across the nation, we could each put more concentration on assistance and self-help organizations on a local level we could do wondrous things.

Besides, unselfish giving just for the sake of giving makes the heart feel good!

B.P. KSU staff.

DEAR B.P.,

Thank you so much for mentioning a problem that receives very little media attention. It is truly a disgrace that in a country with so much, we have so many people, especially children, who go to bed each night hungry and without shelter. May I suggest that before students go home for Thanksgiving they drop off a small donation of food to the shelter. Don't just sit there, make a difference!

Letters to Cassandra may be submitted in person or by mail to the Kansas State Collegian, c/o Cassandra Duveaux, Kedzie Hall 106, Manhattan, KS 66506.

Cassandra reserves the right to edit the content for the purpose of conserving space. Unless otherwise specified, all letters will be open to the public. Correspondence designated as "private" or "not for publication" will be maintained in the strictest confidence.

The advice presented in this column is solely the opinion of the columnist and does not reflect the opinion of the Collegian or K-State.

SUPER HERO U

KANESHIRO

JIM'S JOURNAL

JIM DIKKERS

CROSSWORD

EUGENE SHEFFER

THE STRIP

DAVID SWEARINGEN

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

ACROSS

1 "Sisters" actress Ward

5 Guacamole mixture

8 Facts

12 Hardworking pair

13 Simple sugar

14 Figure-skating jump

15 Ulrich's "Vegas" role

17 Dudley Do-Right's love

18 Parisian pal

19 Doggie doc

20 In a strange way

21 Buck's mate

22 Greek cross

23 Hard black lacquer

26 Provide new energy

30 Neighbor of Armenia

31 Caustic solution

32 12 Across's burden

33 Title-holder?

35 Dahomey, since 1976

36 Dos Passos trilogy

37 SE-most state

38 Plankton, e.g.

41 Menagerie

42 "nuff!"

45 Luridly sensational figure

48 Ellipse

49 Conclusion

50 Gambling game

51 Hackman or Kelly

52 Verily

53 Hum-dinger

DOWN

1 Pop

2 Student's woe

3 Director Riefenstahl

4 Grass-hopper's rebuker

5 Recipient

6 "It Romantic?"

7 Shell-game need

8 "The Little Foxes" actor

9 Pink-slipped crime

10 He got the point across to his son

11 Partner in crime

16 Bard's river

20 Clot

21 "Potatoe"

22 Links gizmo

23 Huck's slave companion

24 Coach

25 Average

26 Reuben container

27 Lunch ending

28 Schuss

29 Party animal?

31 Actress

34 Exploitation

35 Nations working together

37 "Single White Female" costar

38 Quite eager

39 Lyricist's subject

40 — Chaco

41 Novelist

42 Bridge

43 Take on

44 Skunk's weapon

46 Susan, of "Love & War"

47 E.T.'s craft?

STUMPED? For answers to today's crossword, call 1-800-454-6873! 99¢ per minute, touch-tone / rotary phones. (18+ only.) A King Features service, NYC.

11-3 CRYPTOQUIP

X S P F I U Z B V Y V I N A B H

S U F X I U S Y B G B V Q I U H

S Q W B N N I P P A W P P

G V X Z B P X X N B

Yesterday's Cryptquip: ANY JUICY SANDWICH IS JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED.

Today's Cryptquip clue: Y equals C

CLASSIFIEDS

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

- 1 DAY 20 words or less — $5
each word over 20 — $.20 per word
- 2 DAYS 20 words or less — $6.25
each word over 20 — $.25 per word
- 3 DAYS 20 words or less — $7.25
each word over 20 — $.30 per word
- 4 DAYS 20 words or less — $8
each word over 20 — $.35 per word
- 5 DAYS 20 words or less — $8.50
each word over 20 — $.40 per word
(consecutive day rate)

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an established account with Student Publications.

Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks.

We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

DEADLINES

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before the date you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days.

You must call us before noon the day the ad is to be published.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

Call 532-6555 to place your classified.

GET THE WORD OUT

PLACE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD IN KEDZIE 103

PHONE
532-6555
FAX
532-7309

OR WRITE
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
K-State Collegian
Kedzie Hall 103
Manhattan, Kan. 66506

OFFICE HOURS
MONDAY-FRIDAY
8 a.m.-5 p.m.
(Except holidays)

BULLETIN BOARD

010 Announcements

AVAILABLE NOW!! KSU Campus Directories. Purchase in Kedzie 103. Students: $2 each (limit two with KSU ID), faculty/staff $3.25 with KSU ID, others $4 each. KSU Offices need to make purchases through KSU OFFICE SUPPLIES STORE in the Union.

COME FLY with us, K-State Flying Club has five airplanes. For best prices call Sam Knipp, 539-6193 after 5:30p.m.

020 Lost and Found

Found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND IN Dickens Computer lab. One bluejean jacket. Call 587-0376 to identify. Not home-leave message.

FOUND: GRAY and white short haired female cat. 12th and Vattier. Contact the Animal Ward at the Police Dept. 537-2112, or the Animal Shelter.

030 Personals

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a personal.

LINDA - HAPPY 31st Birthday or is it 51st? I know at your age it's hard to remember these things. Anyway, hope your birthday is an enjoyable one. Kyle and Carol.

PHI DELT Roadtrippers to OU - from 5a.m. to 5a.m. the party did not stop. With football and beer we shed our clothes - who knew it'd be so hot! Half time at the bar was great, but with karate we did dominate. Uncle Sam, Jack, and Central Park we partied long after dark. Though some did puke and some passed out. It's clear now what Homecoming will be about! We love you! The ADP, Roadwarriors.

STEPHANIE F. - You are leaving tomorrow, so this is here today. Even though you have to go, I still want you to stay. You are the one for me. I love you Sweet and true. Take care at home and come back better soon. Love, Bob.

040 Meetings/Events

11TH HOLIDAY Gift Expo, Saturday, Nov. 7, 9a.m.-3p.m., City Auditorium, 11th and Poyntz over 30 booths mostly handmade items.

050 Parties-n-More

HOT - TUB rentals for all occasions; Birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, any time, free setup/delivery, special weekday/ multiday

GET THE WORD OUT.
532-6555

rates. Wet 'n' Wild 537-1821.

HOUSING/ REAL ESTATE

105 For Rent-Apts. Furnished

APARTMENT FOR Rent: two-bedroom, furnished, all utilities paid. Recently remodeled, seven blocks to campus. Quiet. No pets. $380/month. 776-0224 or 539-3680.

APARTMENT SUBLEASE: two-bedroom, two-three people furnished, washer/ dryer, water/ trash paid, one block from campus, pets allowed. 776-6141.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT located at 1024 Sunset #8. Available Dec. 1 close to campus with coin operated laundry facilities and central air/ heat $320 includes water, trash and pest control. Call for appointment 776-3804.

110 For Rent-Apt. Unfurnished

FOR RENT one-bedroom apartment, near campus, laundry facilities. Call 537-4031. Leave message.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWN homes located in Brittny Ridge Estates. Central air, heat, washer/ dryer and dishwasher. $230 per person will match roommates. Call for appointments 776-3804.

FURNISHED OR unfurnished one or two-bedroom. Campus one mile. Short term lease available. Reduced rents. No pets. 537-8389.

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS in town home. All appliances. Partially furnished. Now or next semester. Lease through July. Call 539-6884.

120 For Rent-Houses

UNFURNISHED HOUSE available. 1117 Vattier, call 539-1975.

VERY NICE four-bedroom, three bath home on quiet cul-de-sac. $900 a month 1624 Baltimore Terrace, call 539-0405.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished, good, clean condition. Quiet surroundings. Campus one mile. Short term lease. Available. Reduced rents. No Pets. 537-8389.

145 Roommate Wanted

APARTMENT LOCATED two blocks from campus. Two roommates needed November 1. Off street parking. Apartment is two years old. 776-7240.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN want woman to share house in Manhattan. Own room - $175, plus one-third utilities. Available now. 537-1479.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted December 1 or January 1. Own room, laundry facilities. Friendly roommates.

$140 month, one-third utilities. Call 539-1785.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share two-bedroom townhouse. Washer/ dryer. Very spacious. Kelly 539-5453.

FEMALE WANTED to share two-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer own bedroom. Must like dogs. Rent $212.50. Carol 537-1240.

FEMALE, NON-SMOKING roommate wanted IMMEDIATELY. Share attractive four-bedroom apartment with friendly roommates. $182/month plus one-fourth utilities. Furnished except for own room. Call or leave message 539-4158.

150 Sublease

AVAILABLE IN Jan. two-bedroom apartment. One block from campus, private parking. Lease runs through Aug. For more information call 776-6727.

SERVICE DIRECTORY

205 Tutor

DO COMPUTER languages seem foreign to you? Call Kent at 537-4693 for help with Pascal, C, FORTRAN, SPSS-x. Flexible hours.

210 Resume/Typing

A QUALITY resume is vital in today's competitive job market. Contact the courteous staff at Resume Service for your resume, cover letter and form typing needs. Serving KSU students and staff for over a decade 343 Colorado St. 537-7294.

UTILIZE MY B.S. in English/ Speech for paper editing; my ten years personnel management for resumes. $1.25 double; letter quality. Call Janice 537-2203.

120 For Rent-Houses

UNFURNISHED HOUSE available. 1117 Vattier, call 539-1975.

VERY NICE four-bedroom, three bath home on quiet cul-de-sac. $900 a month 1624 Baltimore Terrace, call 539-0405.

130 For Rent-Mobile Homes

FURNISHED OR unfurnished, good, clean condition. Quiet surroundings. Campus one mile. Short term lease. Available. Reduced rents. No Pets. 537-8389.

145 Roommate Wanted

APARTMENT LOCATED two blocks from campus. Two roommates needed November 1. Off street parking. Apartment is two years old. 776-7240.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN want woman to share house in Manhattan. Own room - $175, plus one-third utilities. Available now. 537-1479.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted December 1 or January 1. Own room, laundry facilities. Friendly roommates.

225 Pregnancy Testing

CONVENIENT PREGNANCY TESTING
Lafene Health Center Women's Clinic
532-6554
-Confidential
-Pregnancy Testing by Professionals
-No Appointment Necessary
-Professional Counseling on all options
-Birth Control Counseling and Education Available

255 Other Services

STUDY ABROAD in Australia. Information on semester, year, graduate, summer and internship programs in Australia. We represent 28 Australian Universities. Call us toll free (800)245-2575.

260 Insurance

HEALTH AND Auto coverage. Call us before purchasing The University Health Plan. Tim L. Engle Agency 555 Poyntz downtown, 537-4661.

EMPLOYMENT/ CAREERS

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau.

501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

ALASKA SUMMER Employment - fisheries. Earn $600 plus/ week in canneries or $4000 plus/ month on fishing boats. Free transportation! Room and board! Over 8,000 openings. Male or female. Get a head start on this summer! For employment program call (206)545-4155 Ext. A5768

ASSISTANT TEACHER for nationally accredited early childhood program. 11a.m.-5:30p.m. Mon.- Fri. Must have high school diploma or equivalent. Please apply in person to: Marsha Tannehill at Seven Dolores Childcare, 220 S. Juliette by Nov. 3, 1992.

COMPUTER PROGRAMMER (10 hours/ week) using Turbo Pascal on a micro computer. Programmer will convert mathematical expressions in algorithms and then develop into compiled codes. Advanced undergraduates with good programming skills should apply in room 217B Thompson Hall by Nov. 10.

EARN EASY money!!! Post our brochures around campus and receive commission for each completed application. Work few hours, on your own time. Call 1-800-758-9918 EST.

MANHATTAN COUNTRY CLUB is now accepting applications for part/full-time servers and kitchen help. Preferred applicants will possess a minimum of two years food service experience, be at least 20 years of age, and able to work a minimum of four shifts per week. Apply in person, 1531 N. 10th. Ask for Dan.

NEED An experienced cocktail waitress, must be at least 21 years of age. Call Bleachers Sports, 537-1484.

NOW HIRING: Telephone interviewers. 50 openings. Evening shifts and other hours available. No experience, no selling involved. Apply R.L. Polk & Co., 3003 Anderson Ave. Suite 913 (Village Plaza). We are an equal opportunity employer and we do not discriminate on the basis of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin or disability.

Work at home. Assembly, crafts, typing and more! Up to $500 plus a week possible. For information write T. Maxwell, Rt. #2 Box 129, Dept. 7744, Sterling, KS 67579.

320 Volunteers Needed

DJ'S NEEDED for DB92, student radio station, Thursdays 3-6p.m. and Wednesdays 6-9a.m. For information, call 532-3292 and ask for Joe Montgomery.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (913)232-0454.

$202.50 SELL 50 funny, college T-shirts and make $202.50. No financial obligation. A risk free program. Average sales time equals 4-6 hours. Choose from 18 designs. Smaller/Larger quantities available. Call (800) 733-3265.

EARN CASH stuffing envelopes at home. All materials provided. Send SASE to P.O. Box 9643 Springfield, MO 65801.

LOOKING FOR a top fraternity, sorority, or student organization that would like to make $5000-$1500 for a one week marketing project on campus. Must be organized and hard working. Call 1-800-592-2121 extension 308.

ONE OF America's fastest growing companies. Great incentive and bonus programs. Work your own hours. Unlimited potential with no gimmicks. Call Jason for appointments at 776-6663.

GREEKS & CLUBS

RAISE A COOL $1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK! PLUS $1000 FOR THE MEMBER WHO CALLS! No obligation. No cost. You also get a FREE HEADPHONE RADIO just for calling 1-800-932-0528, Ext. 65

GET THE WORD OUT.

532-6555

FOR SALE

405 Open Market

WANTED FOR viewing video tape of the NBC news special on the "Cuban Missile Crisis" with Maria Schriver, aired Oct. 23, 1992. Please call 537-0643.

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS overshoes, combat boots and safety toe boots. Wool (blankets, gloves, mittens and socks) field jackets-overcoats camouflage clothing. Also Carhartt Workwear. Mon.-Sat. 9a.m.-5p.m. open Sundays till Christmas 12p.m.-4p.m. St. Marys Surplus Sales, St. Marys, KS, 1-437-2734

HEWLETT PACKARD HP-285 with thermal printer, leather cases $195. 539-3563.

PRINTER AND typewriter ribbons; computer paper, copy paper. Hull Business Supply 715 N. 12th, Aggieville. 539-1413.

USED CASH register for sale, $50. Standing Room Only, 1222 Moro, Aggieville, 776-5331.

Aggie's New To You

Second-Hand Store
537-8803
1124B Moro
Open daily 10:30 a.m.-7 p.m.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

WHITE WICKER, six-drawers, five-foot tall, two-foot wide. Bought new seven months ago, for $300, must sell now $65. 539-3075.

435 Computers

EXPERIENCE TELECOMMUNICATIONS! Call "The Edge BBS" Line 1 300-2400 Baud @587-0310, Line 2, 2400-14.4K Baud @587-0309 24 hour/ day. Free Access. Online games, IBM/ Amiga downloads, excellent message forums. Run by a student for all students. Novice and experienced callers welcome.

IBM COMPATIBLE, 640K Ram. Color monitor, 42 MB hard drive, modem, two 5.25 inch floppy drives, $450. 539-6348

445 Music Instruments

CHRISTMAS! IS not that far away. Lay away your favorite guitar and amp. Rick's Music Shop 314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 539-5900.

450 Pets and Supplies

ABANDONED, URGENTLY need homes. Small male Lab mix, golden female Shepherd mix. Black male, calico female cats, two kittens. 1-494-8415.

THREE FOOT Ball Python with 29 gallon tank/ accessories $175. Female Chinchilla with cage, accessories $60. 539-3563.

460 Stereo Equipment

JVC EXTRA bass portable stereo with CD player. Dual cassette player with Dolby, new for 300 plus; sell for $125. 776-2257.

SONY AM/ FM Stereo Receiver STR-AV920, 120 watts with remote. One year old, new $400 asking $245. 539-8267 ask for Joel.

TWO ORION 10 inch XTR subs $150 or best offer. 539-5716 Shawn.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

CHIEFS SINGLE home game tickets. 539-1648.

500

TRANSPORTATION

510 Automobiles

1979 PONTIAC, four-door, new tires, air conditioner, automatic windows and door locks, cruise, dependable 776-5986 after 5p.m.

1981 FORD Mustang, 85,000 miles, two-door, silver color, sunroof, air condition, two owners only, running great. $1600. 776-1119.

1985 FORD pickup super cab two tone, six cylinder standard overdrive. Power stereo, cruise, am/ fm full size bed. 3,000 1-468-3590 after 6p.m.

FOR SALE: 1975 Fire Engine red Bronco. Four-wheel drive; looks good. Call Kipton 537-7934.

520 Bicycles

1991 PARAMOUNT Series 40 mountain bike. Many extras- climb bars, speedometer, extra tires, extra headset. Worth 900 plus; sell for $575. 776-2257.

1991 TREK 970 mountain bike with suspension fork/ accessories, $795. 1991 Trek 2100 road bike $745. 539-3563.

TREK 850 mountain bike 22-inch, like new, $375 or best offer. 539-1648.

530 Motorcycles

1980 SUZUKI GS 400, black, good condition, great school bike. $500. Call 776-4330, ask for Dave.

TRAVEL/ TRIPS

610 Tour Packages

11th ANNIVERSARY
CHRIST CHANCE!
LAST CHANCE!
STEAMBOAT
DECEMBER 2-9 • 11 ON 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-9 • 11 ON 7 NIGHTS
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
DECEMBER 9-11 • 11 ON 7 NIGHTS
JANUARY 2-4 • 11 ON 7 NIGHTS
BRECKENRIDGE
JANUARY 2-4 • 11 ON 7 NIGHTS
11th ANNUAL COLLEGIATE WINTER SKI BREAKS
TOLL FREE INFORMATION & RESERVATIONS
1-800-321-5911

510 Automobiles

Not enough time on your hands to get everything done? Check the Classifieds service directory. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN Kedzie 103 532-6555

CLASSIFIED DIRECTORY

TIPS FOR WRITING A CLASSIFIED AD

Always put what item or service you are advertising first. This helps potential buyers find what they are looking for. Don't use abbreviations. Many buyers are confused by abbreviations. Consider including the price. This tells buyers if they are looking at something in their price range.

CATEGORIES

To help you find what you are looking for, the classified ads have been arranged by category and sub-category. All categories are marked by one of the large images, and sub-categories are preceded by a number designation.

WE DO NOT USE PHONE NUMBERS OR LAST NAMES IN PERSONALS.

Peddle your bike

Need to sell your old bike to make room for that new one you want? Put your ad in the Collegian classifieds. Only $5 for up to 20 words. You'll pedal that new bike home in no time.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kedzie 103 (east of the Union)

532-6555

Royal Purple

*Behind the scenes of the Royal Purple,
you'll find 13 dedicated students who are working to record your memories.*

"School is definitely more than books and studying.
As student life editor, I will cover relationships, night life and entertainment, which also make up a large part of students' lives."

— Kimberly Wishart, Student Life Editor
Sophomore in pre-journalism
Wichita, Kansas

Order your 1992-93 Royal Purple Yearbook
in Kedzie 103 (east of the Union).
Total price is $16.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE
Election
Results

PAGE 3

WEDNESDAY

HIGH 37 LOW 22

WEATHER - PAGE 2

NOVEMBER 4, 1992

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KANSAS 66506

VOLUME 99, NUMBER 52

Clinton gores Bush

"The people have spoken, and we respect the majesty of the Democratic system."

GEORGE BUSH

"We need your help, and we will do our best to deserve it."

BILL CLINTON

"As long as we are together nationwide, you have an enormous voice in our country."

ROSS PEROT

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

President-elect Bill Clinton and Vice President-elect Al Gore raise their hands in victory Tuesday night outside the Old State House in Little Rock, Ark. Clinton and Gore spoke to a crowd of several thousand.

Unity marks address

PRESIDENTIAL SUMMARY

With 97% of the precincts reporting.

BILL CLINTON

Has won 31 states and the District of Columbia with 355 electoral votes.

GEORGE BUSH

Has won 18 states with 165 electoral votes. He leads in 1 state with 13 electoral votes.

ROSS PEROT

Has not won any states and does not lead any states. He has no electoral votes.

ERIN PERRY
Collegian

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Themes of bipartisan unity and renewed faith in America marked the first address of President-elect Bill Clinton Tuesday night.

Promising that he and Vice President-elect Al Gore would keep their commitment to change, Clinton called on all Americans to work with them to improve the nation's state of affairs.

"We're going to be the re-United States, a new country to face the challenges of our time," Clinton said during his acceptance speech on the steps of the Old State House in downtown Little Rock.

The winning team stepped forth about 11:30 p.m. to greet a crowd of mostly Arkansas residents who had been waiting excitedly for hours, dancing to American tunes like John Cougar Mellencamp's "Small Town."

Their enthusiasm for the favorite son, tempered by restrained confidence before the results were clinched, burst forth in cheers as he stepped up to speak.

"I accept tonight the responsibility you have given me to be the leader of this, the greatest country in human history," Clinton said.

His 30-hour Election Eve campaign swing left him looking somewhat run-down, but his belated voice grew strong as he spoke of victory for himself as well as America.

The immediate families of Clinton and Gore accompanied their fathers and husbands to accept the win in an election year rife with debate over family values.

Shades of John F. Kennedy's "Ask not what your country can do for you" mandate colored Clinton's speech.

He asked Americans to stop laying blame for problems and assume responsibility for them instead, and to look out for others as well as themselves.

Acknowledging the patriotism of those who did not support his campaign — "I know you

Clinton victory has Little Rock natives dancin' in the streets

LAJEAN RAU
Collegian

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — They were partying in the streets.

There's really no other way to describe the Arkansas capital on the night their governor became president.

A crowd of about 40,000 people brought a special kind of mayhem to this otherwise calm city.

"This is absolutely crazy," one woman said, laughing and taking a drink from her 50-cent draw in Iriano's Pizza in downtown Little Rock. "Nothing ever happens in Arkansas. We're making history here."

The tiny pizzeria, two blocks from the Old State House where Clinton gave his acceptance speech, was overflowing, and the line outside stretched into the biggest street party the town has ever seen.

■ See LITTLE ROCK Page 10

love your country" — Clinton called on President Bush's and Ross Perot's backers to put aside differences to help his administration reconstruct America.

The Democrats' theme song, Fleetwood Mac's "Don't Stop," played just before Clinton spoke, and it was repeated about five times after both men had their turn. The crowd shouted loudest at the lyric, "Yesterday's gone."

Gore, who spoke after Clinton, reiterated the theme of overcoming differences for the sake of national unity.

He said it was significant that this is the first

■ See CLINTON Page 10

CRAIG HACKER/Collegian

Clinton supporters cheer in response to election returns on a big-screen television at a street party that stretched two blocks in front of the Excelsior Hotel in downtown Little Rock.

Turnout breaks '84 record

ASSOCIATED PRESS

A record number of Americans voted Tuesday, braving snow in some places and long lines almost everywhere to voice their dissatisfaction over the sour economy and beckon change from Congress to the White House.

Curtis Gans, a voter turnout expert, projected at least 100 million voters cast ballots, eclipsing the previous high of 92.6 million set in 1984 and producing the first major reversal in a 32-year decline

■ See VOTERS Page 10

ON THE AGENDA

K-State students can study abroad

JANET SATTERLEE
Collegian

Students looking for the opportunity to study abroad for a year can study in Czechoslovakia, Germany and Switzerland.

Universities participating in the scholarship exchange are Justus Liebig in Giessen, Germany, Ludwig Maximilian in Munich, Germany, Eidgenossische Technische Hochschule in Zurich, Switzerland, Charles University in Prague, Czechoslovakia and Czech Technical University in Prague.

"The Giessen, Munich and Zurich exchange is one that K-State has had for 30 years or more," said William Richter, interim assistant provost for international programs.

Students pay K-State tuition, room and board costs and receive a stipend in the host country to cover living expenses, Richter said. They are housed in dorms or apartments.

"There is an opportunity for six students to go to Giessen, one to go to Munich and one to go to Zurich," Richter said.

The same number of students from each of those universities is selected to come to K-State, Richter said. Students from all majors are eligible to apply, although the universities in Zurich are limited to those in technical and scientific fields.

To study in Germany or Switzerland, students must have completed an application and have studied two years of German and received certification of language capabilities by a K-State German faculty member to study in Germany or Switzerland, Richter said.

In addition, students in Germany and Switzerland have the opportunity to travel in Europe between the two semesters, Richter said.

Students may indicate a preference of which university they would like to attend. The program is open to undergraduate and graduate students, but a preference is given to those students who will return to K-State, Richter said.

Applicants are then interviewed by a faculty committee, and the final selection is made.

"Professors from K-State and professional people in Manhattan have participated in the program," Richter said. "It has a grand tradition."

Being a part of an exchange program helps students to mature, said Carol Miller, assistant professor of modern languages.

"Students come back knowing themselves better," Miller said. "They have a better sense of themselves and where they're going."

Attitudes about America are different in Europe, Miller said. She said it helps American students to get a new perspective of the United States.

"It's good to get distance and to see if they accept it at face value up to that point," Miller said.

Keith Loseke, sophomore in electrical engineering and mathematics, studied at the University of Giessen last year. He said students in Germany are being taught disciplines faster than U.S. students.

Loseke said he was able to transfer about 18 hours of math and five hours of physics from the University at Giessen to K-State.

Applications are available in the Office of International Programs, 304 Fairchild Hall, and are due Nov. 6.

POLICE REPORTS

K-STATE POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the KSU Police Department. Because of incomplete information in the log, not all campus crimes are listed here.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3

At 4:56 p.m., Phil Crosley, 901 Haymaker Hall, reported that an unknown person had key-scratched his car. Loss was $100.

At 10:44 a.m., Ben Shi, 730 Osage St., reported the theft of his Huffy bicycle. Loss was $50.

At 12:35 p.m., Lynn Detere 1417 Nichols St., reported that an unknown person had key-scratched his car. Loss was $120.

RILEY COUNTY POLICE

These reports are taken directly from the daily log of the Riley County Police Department. Because of space constraints, not all crimes appearing in the log are published.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3

At 2:15 a.m., Casey K. Tramp, 701 N. Ninth St., reported that someone had thrown something through her window. Craig L. Dassow was arrested for criminal damage to property. Loss was $50.

At 7:10 a.m., Wendy Briel, 701 N. Ninth St., reported damage to the window of her vehicle. Loss was $150.

At 9:27 a.m., Cassandra Fowley, 425 S. Broadway, Riley, reported items stolen from her garage. Taken were two lawn mowers, personal letters and half a bottle of gin. No loss was given.

CORRECTIONS

In Monday's Collegian in a story on page 3A, Michael Timberlake was incorrectly identified as a professor of anthropology. He is a professor of sociology in the Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work.

In Monday's Collegian in a story on page 6A, there was an incorrect reference to an article in the Topeka Capitol Journal in which there was a misunderstanding with information from Lana Oleen. The misunderstanding was in an article in the Kansas Northwestern Register.

In Tuesday's Collegian in the letter to the editor, "President has power to make life miserable" Arthur L. Clack was incorrectly identified as Arthur L. Clark.

In Tuesday's Collegian, a Page 1 election graphic incorrectly identified Kent Glasscock as Kent Glascock. The Collegian regrets the errors.

WEATHER

TODAY'S FORECAST

Mostly cloudy and cold. A chance of morning flurries. High 35 to 40. Tonight, decreasing clouds and cold. Low in the lower 20s.

TOMORROW'S FORECAST

Partly cloudy. High around 40.

EXTENDED FORECAST

Friday through Sunday: Friday, a chance of snow. Highs around 40. Lows in the 20s. Saturday, cold with a chance of snow. Highs 35 to 40. Lows in the teens to 20s. Sunday, dry and continued cold. Highs 40 to 45. Lows in the teens to 20s.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

ANNOUNCEMENTS

December graduates: Ballots for all candidates and final copies of dissertations, theses and reports are due in the Graduate School by Nov. 16.

Deadline for applications for cancer research awards is Dec. 4. Applications are available in Ackert 234 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Applications for the Homeserve community service program are available in Eisenhower 014A.

Applications are available for community service Program International summer teams. Spanish required.

Help an international student with spoken English and learn firsthand about a different culture. Contact Motaz Hourani at 532-6448.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4

Aikido Club will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at 1108 Laramie.

Apostolic Campus Ministry will meet at 7:30 p.m. in Union 206.

Ray Dempsey will present "Putting Leadership skills to work" at 7 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room as part of Leadership Week.

Jan Wissman will present "New Leadership: An agenda for 21st Century schools" at 3:30 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room as part of Leadership Week.

Fred Thibodeau will present "Ethics and Value in Decision Making" at 1:30 p.m. in Union 213 as part of Leadership Week.

Mordean Taylor-Archer will present "Meeting the Challenge of Diversity" at 10:30 a.m. in Union 213 as part of Leadership Week.

Society of Automotive Engineers will meet at 7 p.m. in Durland 166.

Linguistics Club will meet at 7 p.m. in Blumont 217. Loren Alexander will speak on "Germany in Summer 1992."

University Counseling Services will sponsor an informal discussion on "Alcohol and Women" in Union 202. Bring a lunch.

University Activities Board will meet at 4 p.m. in Union 202.

National Society of Black Engineers will meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 163. Topic will be adopt-a-family.

S.A.G.E. will sponsor a book sale from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Denison lobby.

College of Architecture and Design will meet at 3 p.m. in Union Forum Hall. Topic will be academic freedom and censorship.

Manhattan Songahm Taekwondo Club will meet from 4:45 to 6:15 p.m. in Nichols 007.

Honors Student Organization will meet at 8:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3 for a report from the national meeting.

Have a question about today's Collegian?

Give us a call, and we'll try to help you out. 532-6556

YESTERDAY'S HIGHS AND LOWS

WORLD TEMPERATURES

CITY	TEMPS	SKY
Nairobi	79/57	cloudy
Berlin	50/36	cloudy
Helsinki	41/37	rain
London	54/45	clear
Rome	66/57	cloudy
Stockholm	45/34	cloudy
Vancouver	52/41	clear

POSTMASTER'S NOTICE

The Kansas State Collegian (USPS 291 020), a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Keadie Hall 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and once a week through the summer. Second class postage is paid at Manhattan, Kan., 66502.

POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, Circulation desk, Keadie 103, Manhattan, Kan., 66506-7167.

News contributions will be accepted by telephone, (913) 532-6556, or at the Collegian newsroom, Keadie Hall 116.

Inquiries concerning local, national and classified display advertising should be directed to (913) 532-6555.

2-4-1

DRINKS

TONIGHT and every Wednesday.

18 to enter; 21 to drink

619 North 12th Street; Aggieville, 537-2100

This Week's Specials

Tacos 3 for $1.25 reg. 50¢ each

Chili Burrito $1.88 reg. $2.55

Expires 11-7-92

TACO HUT

Where good friends get together

2809 Claflin 539-2091

Buy One Lunch Buffet

Get One 1/2 PRICE

Offer Good Mon.-Fri. 11 a.m.-1:45 p.m. (Expires 12/31/92)

Raoul's Escondido

215 Seth Childs Rd. • Manhattan • 539-3410

776-5577 1800 Claflin Rd. FirstBank Center 776-5577

PIZZA SHUTTLE

"NO COUPON SPECIALS"

Prime Time Special

3 - 10 in. Pizzas

1 - Topping

4 - Cokes

$10.50

Everyday Two-Fers

2 - 10 in. Pizzas

2 - Topping

2 - Cokes

$8.50

Fast Delivery...Anywhere in Manhattan

DAYS INN

Manhattan

1501 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Manhattan, Ks. 66502

(913) 539-5391

STUDENT SPECIAL

Peace & quiet to study or just get away

Mon. - Thurs. only $20 for a single or double

On Space Availability • Student ID Required

WALT DISNEY WORLD COLLEGE PROGRAM

Walt Disney World Co. representatives will present an information session on the Walt Disney World College Program on Wednesday, November 11, 7:00pm, in Room 109 — Justin Hall. Attendance at this presentation is required to interview for the SPRING '93 COLLEGE PROGRAM. Interviews will be held on Thursday, November 12. The following majors are encouraged to attend: Hotel/Restaurant, Business, Communication, Recreation, Theatre/Drama and Horticulture.

Contact: Career Planning & Placement

Phone: 532-6506

Walt Disney World Co.

© The Walt Disney Company An Equal Opportunity Employer

ONE HOUR PHOTO & PORTRAIT STUDIO

It's not too early to think about Christmas!

Have your Christmas pictures taken here with a minimum order of $25 and receive 12 FREE Photo Christmas Cards.

*Orders must be received by Nov 18. Sitting fee not included in order.

776-9030 • 1134 Gardenway (across from Westloop) Mon-Fri 9am-6pm • Sat 9am-5pm

BUY!

TCBY

The best way to enjoy the delicious taste of 96% fat free TCBY Frozen Yogurt is to visit your local TCBY store and buy it. The Country's Best Yogurt.

722 N. Manhattan Ave. Aggieville 537-5111

KSU Bakery Science Club Bake Sale Today!

First Floor Hallway Shellenberger 3 to 5 p.m.

ELECTION '92

Election Results

PRESIDENT (by percent voted/electoral votes won)

State	Bush	Clinton	Perot	% reporting	State	Bush	Clinton	Perot	% reporting	State	Bush	Clinton	Perot	% reporting	State	Bush	Clinton	Perot	% reporting
Alabama	48%/9	41%/0	11/0	98%	Georgia	43%/?	43%/?	14/0	13	Maryland	36%/0	50%/10	14/0	100%	New Jersey	41%/0	43%/15	16%/0	99%
Alaska	40/3	32/0	28/0	69	Hawaii	37/0	49/4	14/0	4	Massachusetts	29/0	48/12	23/0	92	New Mexico	38/0	46/5	16/0	99
Arizona	38/?	39/?	23/0	65	Idaho	43/4	29/0	28/0	4	Michigan	37/0	42/18	20/0	77	New York	35/0	50/33	16/0	99
Arkansas	36/0	53/6	11/0	98	Illinois	35/0	49/22	17/0	22	Minnesota	32/0	44/10	24/0	90	North Carolina	44/14	43/0	14/0	99
California	33/0	47/54	21/0	82	Indiana	43/12	37/0	20/0	12	Mississippi	50/7	41/0	9/0	99	North Dakota	44/3	32/0	23/0	91
Colorado	36/0	40/8	24/0	99	Iowa	38/0	44/7	19/0	7	Missouri	34/0	44/11	22/0	97	Ohio	39/0	40/21	21/0	99
Connecticut	36/0	42/8	22/0	97	Kansas	39/6	34/0	27/0	6	Montana	36/0	38/3	26/0	99	Oklahoma	43/8	34/0	23/0	100
Delaware	36/0	44/3	21/0	100	Kentucky	42/0	45/8	14/0	8	Nebraska	47/5	30/0	24/0	99	Oregon	33/0	42/7	25/0	77
D.C.	9/0	86/3	4/0	100	Louisiana	42/0	47/9	12/0	9	Nevada	35/?	38/?	27/?	68	Pennsylvania	36/0	45/23	18/0	99
Florida	41/25	39/0	20/0	98	Maine	31/0	39/4	30/0	4	New Hampshire	38/?	39/?	23/?	96	Rhode Island	29/0	48/4	23/0	99

Presidential Tally

With 97 percent of the nation's precincts reporting.

GEORGE BUSH

38% 178

Popular vote Electoral votes

BILL CLINTON

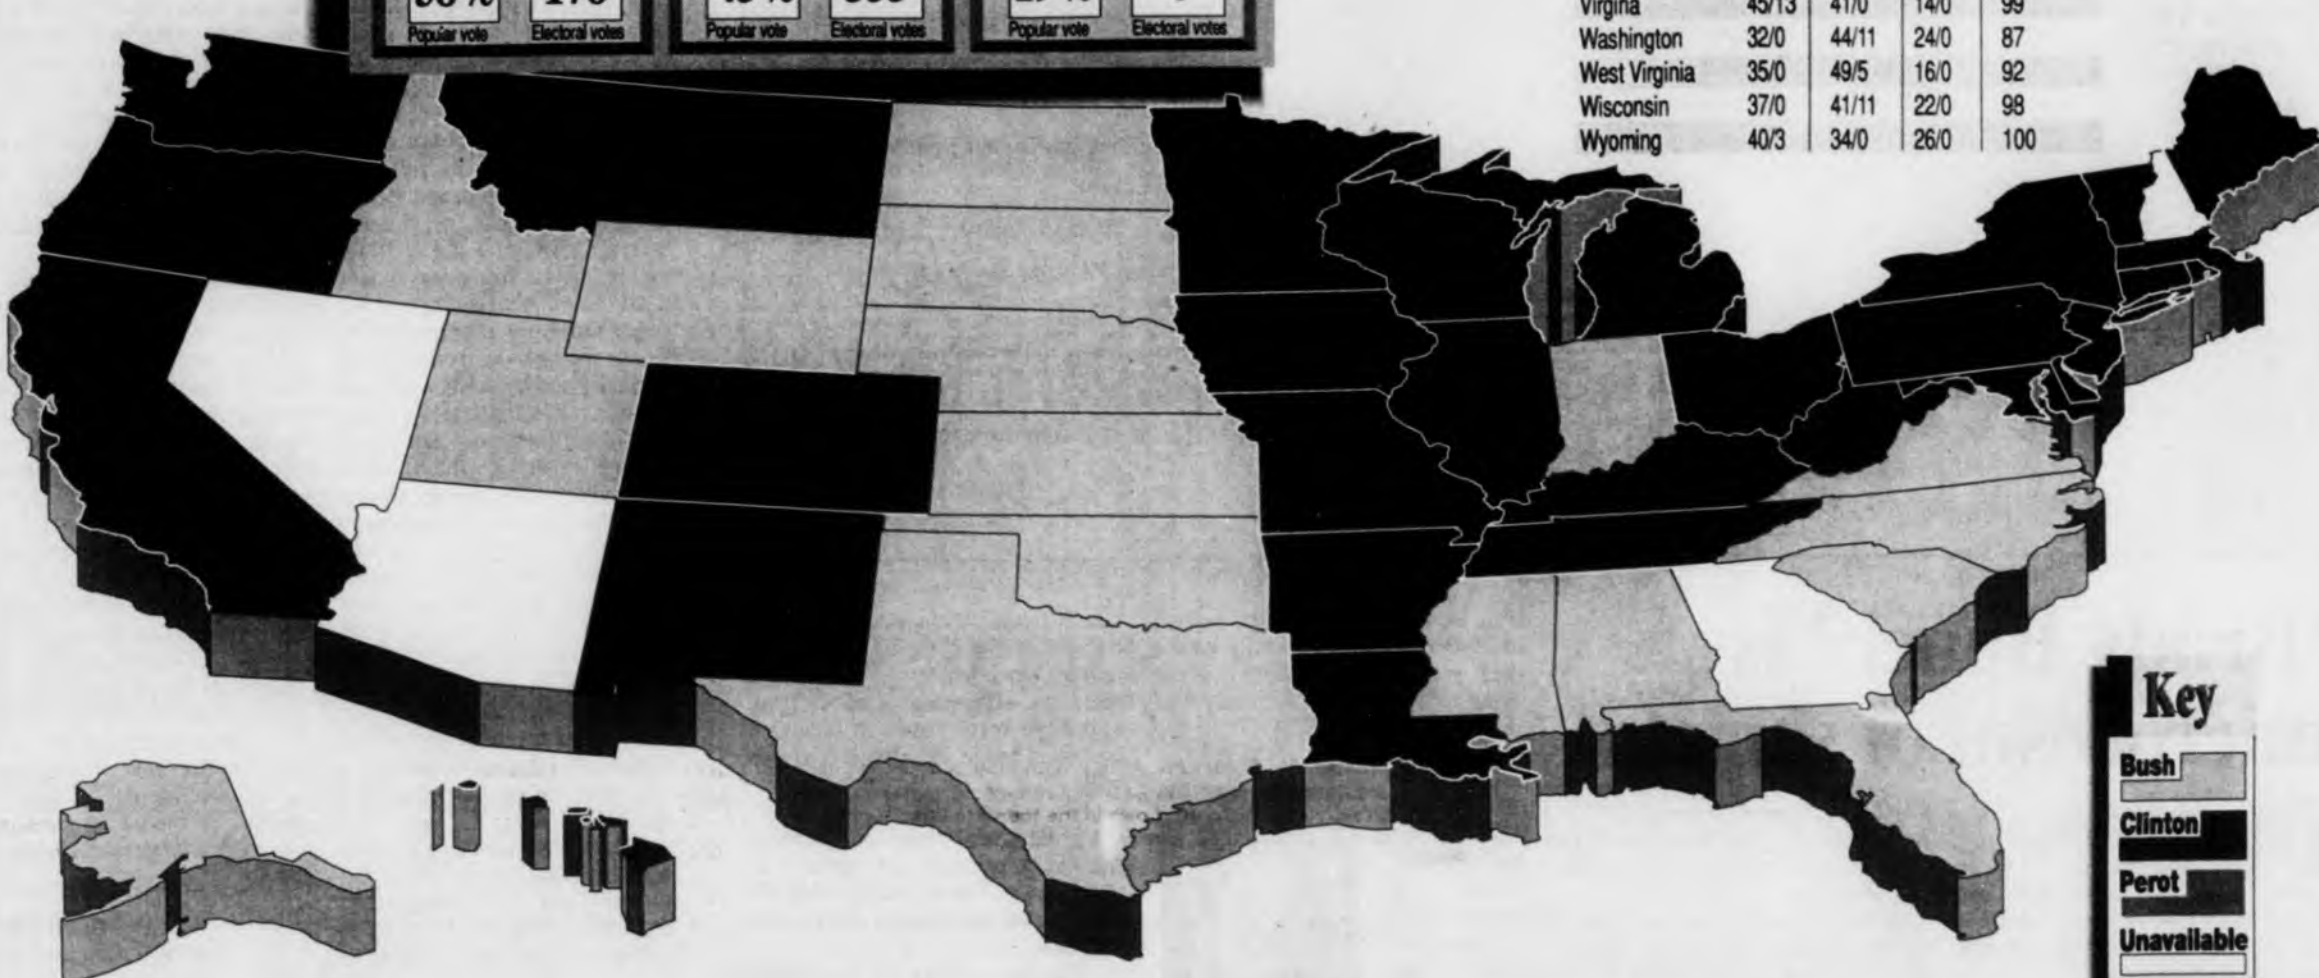

43% 355

Popular vote Electoral votes

ROSS PEROT

19% 0

Popular vote Electoral votes

Key

Bush
Clinton
Perot
Unavailable

Kansas Results

U.S. HOUSE

District 1
Pat Roberts, GOP (I)	183,416	68%
Duane West, Dem	79,611	30
District 2
Jim Slattery, Dem (I)	146,816	56%
Jim Van Slyke, GOP	106,968	41
District 3
Jan Meyers, GOP (I)	169,668	58%
Tom Love, Dem	109,548	38
District 4
Dan Glickman, Dem (I)	136,073	52%
Eric R. Yost, GOP	110,949	42

U.S. SENATE

95% percent reporting
Bob Dole, GOP (I)	664,848	64%
Gloria O'Dell, Dem	330,925	32
Christina Campbell-Cline, Ind	43,345	4

STATE SENATE

District 21
D. Eric Stonecipher, Dem	2,621	60.3%
Janice Hardenburger, GOP	1,705	39.2
District 22
Lana Oleen, GOP	11,081	66.8%
Michelle R. Smith, Dem	4,734	28.54
Mike Weir, Lib	731	4.4

STATE HOUSE

District 62
Kent Glasscock, GOP	7,720	75.5%
Joe Swanson, Dem	2,483	24.3
District 64
Mike Fegan, Dem	11	57.9%
Steve Lloyd, GOP	8	42.1
District 66
Sheila Hochhauser, Dem	7,548	96.3%
District 106
Bill Bryant, GOP	1,183	97.9%

RILEY COUNTY COMMISSION

District 2
Jim H. Williams, GOP	4,061	50.6%
Jan Garton, Dem	3,939	49.0
District 3
Karen McCulloh, Dem	3,659	52.8%
Robert F. Pudden, GOP	3,254	46.9

RILEY COUNTY OFFICES

County Clerk
Ilene Colbert, GOP	11,962	58.8%
Craig Raborn, Dem	8,333	40.9
County Treasurer
Eileen King, GOP	17,482	96.6%
Register of Deeds
M. Charlotte Shawver, GOP	17,228	97.8%
County Attorney
William E. Kennedy, Dem	15,781	96.0%

Voter Turnout

At least 100 million people were projected to vote last night, the largest number ever to vote.

- Stopped a 32-year trend of declining voter turnout.
- Percentage wise, it was the best turnout since 1972.
- In Kansas, voters waited in a 2 1/2 hour line in Johnson County and hour plus lines in Wichita.
- Colorado governor Roy Romer even had to stand in line 45 minutes to vote.
- Oklahoma had an 11-percent increase in voter turnout. District of Columbia and Tennessee had a 6-percent increase, and Kentucky had a 5-increase.

The Collegian Poll

Collegian reporters asked 253 people after voting on campus and around Manhattan three questions. This is an unscientific poll.

OVERALL RESULTS

Who did you vote for president?
George Bush	86 votes	35.3%
Bill Clinton	82	33.7
Ross Perot	72	29.6
Andre Marrou	2

10 people did not answer the above question.

CAMPUS RESULTS (100 people surveyed.)

Who did you vote for president?
George Bush	37%
Bill Clinton	34
Ross Perot	28
Andre Marrou	1

Do you think this campaign has been dirtier than campaigns in the past?

Yes	122	48.2%
No	131	51.7

Is character an issue that should be discussed in a campaign?

Yes	195	77%
No	57	23

Do you think this campaign has been dirtier than campaigns in the past?

Yes	45%
No	55

Is character an issue that should be discussed in a campaign?

Yes	84%
No	16

OPINION

NOVEMBER 4, 1992

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

EDITORIAL BOARD

The opinions expressed in "In Our Opinion" are the opinions of a majority of Editorial Board members. These views do not necessarily represent the views of Kansas State University, Student Publications Inc. or the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications.

MEMBERS

Samantha Branson Editor in Chief
Erin Perry Editor
Richard Andrade Editor
John Hart Editor
David Mayes Editor
Tom Lister Editor
Mark Engler Editor
Lajan Rau Editor
Julie Long Editor
Jared Savage Opinion Page Editor
Brian Anderson Editor
Heather Anderson Editor

COLUMNS

Columns are the opinions of only the columnist. They do not reflect the views of the Kansas State Collegian, but instead offer a differing viewpoint.

IN OUR OPINION

By the Collegian Editorial Board

Headlines reflect all our hopes

THE ISSUE

Bill Clinton is now President-elect and has many obstacles to overcome in the next four years.

WE SUGGEST

Newspaper headlines for the next four years show nothing but good for the United States of America.

Bill Clinton is now President-elect Clinton. He has much to do in the next four years, and if he is successful, this will certainly be a better nation than it is today.

Here is a list of headlines we hope will appear in newspapers all over the nation during the next four years. We can only hope that they all become reality.

"Unemployment in America reaches record low"
 "Government ceases subsidizing jobs outside American borders"
 "American production and factory output outstrip foreign competitors"
 "POW-MIA issue finally resolved"
 "Congress passes law mandating assistance for homeless and poverty-ridden"
 "American high-school students outscore all other students in skills tests"
 "Spending on B-2, Sea Wolf Submarine and SDI stopped"
 "AIDS vaccine discovered due to increased funding"
 "Environment begins return to normal, according to scientists"

"Congress forced to cut staffs and mail franking"

"Ethnic uprising thing of past in new era of harmony"

"All major Iran-Contra players indicted for breaking law"

"Rebuilding economy given highest priority"

"Tax increases on middle class frozen; rich taxed according to income"

"Industry infrastructure rebuilds after long recession"

"Congress passes student loan increases"

"New laws make Congress answerable to everything it does"

"Clinton calls Kansas State 'The best university I've ever seen'"

These are more than just fantasies. These are all our hopes and dreams. Together — Republicans, Democrats, Independents, everyone — as a nation of one people, we can accomplish each one.

Here's to the next four years. May we do it right.

'Brady Bunch' is microcosm of society

I was born in the winter of 1971. In the fall of '75 I met my family. They were a sweet family. I had lots of brothers and sisters. Some were more fun than others, still I loved 'em all just the same.

Here's a story of a lovely lady, who was bringing up three (plus one) very lovely girls. All of them had hair of gold (one donned an amber dome), like their mother, the youngest one in curls.

I remember it like it was just yesterday. I was sitting too close to the television (Mom swore I'd go blind, but I did it anyway), munching on popcorn. The music began to play, and tiny boxes appeared with cute little faces inside. Big boxy letters flashed "The Brady Bunch" across Alice's face. From then on I was hooked.

The Bradys were family. They were a constant in a pulsating world of chaos. They were love.

They weren't just a sit-com, they were the surrogate family for our generation. The lives of Mike, Carol, Greg, Peter, Bobby, Marsha, Jan and Cindy are as much a part of our own personal history as the first day of school.

Bobby longed for a trophy. Cindy struggled with a lisp. Marsha was slinking around with all of Filmore Junior High. Jan — poor Jan — was busy making up boyfriends.

"George, George Glass." Peter developed quite a liking for "pork chop and applesauce." And of course, there was Greg. He got a perm and moved into the attic.

All the while, Mike and Carol maintained their stylish good looks and a family to boot. Helping Mike and Carol in the domestic realm was, of course, Alice.

When she wasn't busy with Sam the butcher, she was quick to deliver Mike a side-order of cookies and milk in the den. Or provide refreshments when the kids were entertaining their friends. Or just be the butt of countless pranks and jokes.

Past generations had protests,

Hula Hoops and wars. Anyone alive in 1963 can tell you exactly where they were, and what they were doing, at the moment Kennedy was shot.

Today it seems we are all too different and too defined. Black or white. Gay or straight. Rich or poor. Men or women. Seemingly we are on our own. Have we forgotten — we are all Bradys.

KELLY KLAWONN

People think we are apathetic and unmotivated. Or if you're Lynne Cheney, we're just too damn dumb to understand different ideas.

Well, what do they expect? In school we were taught American history by burned-out hippies who lost their way. Some had to witness their parents — and their skin-tight plaid pants — split at the seams.

We searched for some sort of comfort and escape. And lo and behold if we didn't find it with those crazy Bradys.

In the aftermath of puberty we still have some common bonds. A common frame of reference, if you will.

We survived Reagan, lawn darts, the Hustle and clogs. Thankfully, not every relic of our youth is in syndication, but at least we can still drop in on the Bradys every now and then.

We can re-enact the time when Marsha got smacked on the nose by a football. Not that it is all that hard; I mean they replayed it in slow-motion over and over.

Or how about the time Jan refused to wear her glasses and smashed into the family portrait the kids were going to give Mike and Carol for their anniversary?

We can be proud of the Bradys. Unlike Danny Bonaduchi, Adam Rich or those hoodlums from "Different Strokes," the Bradys haven't let us down.

Okay, so maybe we did have to suffer through quite possibly the most unpleasant period of American popular culture. And yeah, we are going to disagree.

Well, at least we learned something — women are just as good of drivers as men.

Pornography won't give us perfect women

Lonely men in desperate rooms
 Make love to paper prostitutes.
 Airbrushed beauties poised for lust,
 Drivel away human trust.

What once were persons
 Now play for pay.
 Faithful, pretty pets;
 Disposable throwaways.

—Broken Poet

Women are shelved as trophies. Over and over again, we are exposed to images of women as distant and aloof objects only to be admired for their physical beauty. Or how well they look in bathing suits, wet T-shirts or just plain naked.

There is a fire raging in this nation that burns for the status of women as something besides sex objects. The women's movement argues that pornography is degrading to women and puts them in a category of impersonalization. I agree.

Many feminists rightly argue women are cheapened and exploited by pornography. However, I would like to take this exploitation topic one step further.

While pornography largely demeans women by portraying them as nameless, heartless and soulless pets whose purpose is to satisfy the cravings of their voyeurs, men are also demeaned and exploited.

Pornography is the exploitation and prostitution of human sexuality in general. The porn industry is mainly a male production to cater to other males, although there is the occasional porn for women. This may be largely attributed to the nature of male sexuality, namely the typically visual orientation of males in matters of arousal.

A wedge has been driven between the sexes as pornography proliferates a highly impersonal connotation of sexuality. The models are not people to the viewer. Rather, the pets and playmates are heaps of flesh selling out their humanity; some for big bucks and supposed prestige, others for small bucks and no prestige. Either way, they are no longer their own nor are they people.

Despite the writeups accompanying the pictorials of magazines or the list of the model's favorite foods, hobbies and birthdate beside her centerfold layout, she is not a person. Those things just aren't as fascinating to "readers" as is her body.

The more men accept pornography in films and magazines as part of their lives, they will respect women in general less and less. In some circumstances, men may find it more difficult to speak to women personally or relate to them without comparing them to the images of the "perfect" women found in the pages or frames of their reference material.

Even in television we can find women characters who are portrayed as purely, or mostly, sexual. This is true even for lead characters. Commercials, especially beer commercials, use the female body to win over their target audience.

At every turn men are programmed to evaluate women based on their ability to pose, primp and be silent. This doesn't have to be the case.

After 18 years of programming I have begun to rebel against the images and false ideals burned into my mind through the pornography that I exposed myself to as a youth.

Upon giving my life to Christ, I realized through the Bible that both men and women were created in the image of God and both deserve to be treated as human beings. Not as nymphomaniac pets or depraved voyeurs.

It is time all men and women take up new positive standards for what should be valued in a woman. And Hugh Hefner is not the starting point.

SCOTT SPRADLIN

READERS WRITE

RAPE CASE

Woman victim of protecting herself

Editor,

Thank you for an insightful and just editorial on the rape case in Texas, in which a woman was able to convince her assailant to wear a condom in order to protect herself from possible AIDS infection. Because she took this proactive stance towards victimization, the grand jury of the case saw fit to "accuse" her of being a willing participant in her own assault.

As staff members of the Crisis Center Inc., we witness this sort of struggle daily. Women are all too often stuck in the dilemma of choosing the lesser of two evils. A battered woman must often choose between continued abuse and a roof overhead for herself and for her children. A rape victim may be forced to choose between a struggle and death. A victim of sexual harassment must choose between continued degradation and unemployment. There is one overwhelming commonality — they are all victims.

Who among us can fault anyone for doing what it takes to survive? Who among us are sure that we would not have done the same — lived, somehow, through the present, while doing what was necessary to ensure future survival? This woman recognized that she couldn't prevent the present atrocity from happening, but she could try and prevent a future atrocity — becoming a victim of AIDS. Simply, she chose to survive.

Rather than commending her will to protect herself, the grand jury in Texas revictimized her by seeing her effort at self-preservation not as a choice to survive, but as an acquiescence to victimization. We, however, do commend her and support all victims in this world who are stuck in the middle of a "choice without choices."

Melissa Divine
 And the staff of the Crisis Center Inc.

MAGIC JOHNSON

Sports figures not thought of as people

Editor,

In today's society, most people view sports heroes as bigger than life. While it's true that they make more money in one year than we could ever hope to make in a lifetime, it's also true that life in the spotlight isn't all fun and games. I'm sure many of us have often dreamed of playing in professional sports, but we seldom think about how little personal life is left for these athletes off of the field.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson came public with his announcement months ago that he had contracted the HIV virus. Since then, he has not only endured the rigorous pressure of the press, but he has spent time working with the Presidential Commission on AIDS. This type of action deserves the respect of the fans, the press, and his fellow players in basketball. Instead, his condition and the "hype" of his returning as a player in the league has once again forced him to retire. While I am not a Laker fan, I am a fan of basketball and believe we all will miss "Magic." I think it's sad that we see only the bigger-than-life image and forget the man.

Dave Darby
 Senior/Criminal Justice

TOLES

ELECTION '92

STATE RACES

Incumbents keep seats in U.S. Congress

Dole, Slattery sweep races to maintain posts

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — Sen. Bob Dole and Rep. Jim Slattery won Tuesday. Dole claimed a fifth six-year term in the U.S. Senate as Senate minority leader.

Dole defeated Democratic challenger Gloria O'Dell and two minor candidates — independent Christina Campbell-Cline and Libertarian Mark Kirk, of Wichita.

With 96 percent of the vote counted, Dole had 64 percent to O'Dell's 32 percent and Campbell-Cline's 4 percent.

